Last Edition. THE DAILY PRESS Last Edition.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., SATURDAY, JANUARY 2, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

MAKING OF A CHURCH.

MONROE AVENUE CHAPEL NOW A REGULAR METHODIST SOCIETY.

The Act of Evolution Accomplished at the Watch Services in the First M. E. Church—What Was Said and Done.

Expressions of true fellowship and good-will were characteristic features of the Union watch-night services held Thursday evening under the auspices of the First, Grace and Monroe Avenue churches, in Vincent chapel.

The services were of greater significance from the fact that at that time Monroe Avenue chapel became a church, and the large attendance and enthusiasm manifested made the meeting one of the best ever held.

The forepart of the evening from 9 to 10 o'clock was devoted to the organization of the Monroe Avenue church. The devotional exercises were in charge of Dr. C. R. Barnes, pastor of the First Methodist church. Following, the presiding Elder, Rev. George Washington Smith, made the official announcement of the organization and on the authority of Bishop Andrews, appointed Rev. W. C. O'Donnell as pastor of the new church.

Mr. Smith congratulated the new church in being able to take up advanced lines of work free from debt, and with property worth not one cent less than $15,000.

Dr. Barnes then read the list of members of the new church, which starts out with a membership of over one hundred, in addition to several who are on probation. This list was transferred to Mr. O'Donnell, after which the doctor made a few remarks somewhat as follows:

"This is the organization of a church and not a club. We, as Methodists, recognize the importance of the Divine influence on the world.

"A church to be successful must be a spiritual one and I urge you to make this church spiritual, and let all your services tend in that direction. Another essential qualification is that the members must be courteous. It has been said that the Holy Ghost teaches manners, and a man born of God is high-born. Don't join the church with the idea of letting other people do the work.

"A third essential point is that a church must be active to be successful. It must not be a place where people expect to be carried to Heaven on flowery beds of ease, and it is no market-place for idlers.

"Liberality is the fourth qualification, not for pecuniary gain, but because 'It is more blessed to give than to receive,' so give liberally.

"Lastly, for permanent success, a church must have chronic enthusiasm.

"You will notice by taking the first letters in each of the above essential qualifications that you have the word scale, which means steps. By ascending these steps I have mentioned you will attain spirituality."

J. W. Jackson, of the mother church, in transferring the property to the new church, spoke in substance as follows:

"A parent rejoices in the progress of a child. Our church at one time had two children, but some time ago the youngest child asked for its portion of the inheritance, and North Plainfield now has Grace church. Now the oldest child has come to us and asked for our consent that she may go to housekeeping, and we have granted their request."

Mr. Jackson then gave a review of the history of Monroe Avenue chapel, a sketch of which appeared in The Daily Press a few days ago.

He spoke of the erection of the Epworth House by James McGee at his own expense, and he paid a glowing tribute to the late George W. Angleman who, with the former, was instrumental in starting the chapel.

Mr. Jackson then stated that the members were pledged never to mortgage their property and to always maintain it as a Methodist Episcopal church.

He then transferred the deeds, properly made out, also insurance policies for $10,000, which expires in 1897, '98 '99.

W. C. Burt, president of the Board of Trustees of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, accepted the papers and thanked all on behalf of his church.

The response was made by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, who said in part:

"Tonight my feelings are mingled with gratitude and hope. How grateful we ought to be to God for the way He has led us. We often rehearse our troubles, when we should emphasize our blessings.

"With strong hope for the future, there is nothing but brightness and glory, and the great Captain of our Salvation calls us out into the work. It is not a human work, but God's

CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.

DANCED AS A YEAR WENT

CHARMING HOLIDAY EVENT AT THE PARK CLUB HOUSE.

Members and Guests of Club Participate in the Light Fantastic Toe and Usher Out the Old and Welcome in the New Year.

Ninety-six went and ninety-seven came and still the Park Clubites danced on. It was the holiday dance of the club and a delightful affair, indeed. As has been the custom of the club for several years past, the dance was held on New Year's Eve in the club house on Washington avenue. It is rarely that the charming little ball room of the club looked as pretty as it did on Thursday night. Janitor Israel Jones has been hard at work for some time in decorating the room with evergreens in a manner befitting the occasion. The evergreen roping was draped and festooned from the cornice and the angles in the ceiling while the walls were half hidden behind the green branches.

It was like all other dances at the club, greatly enjoyed by all who were present. The dancing began at about nine o'clock and continued with hardly an interruption until long after the new year had made its appearance and ninety-six, a most successful year at the club, had come to an end.

The patronesses for this delightful affair were Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, and Mrs. Edward Douglass. It was arranged by the regular entertainment committee of the club which is composed of S. St. John McCutchen, Walter McGee, Laurens H. Van Buren, F. O. Ball, A. L. C. Marsh and William N. Runyon.

Among those present during the evening were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Howell, Dr. and Mrs. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ball, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. James Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Lyman, Mrs. L. W. Serrell, Mrs. W. B. Fisher, Mrs. E. W. Waring, Mrs. Foster, of New York, Mrs. E. P. Williams, Mrs. Eli Long, Mrs. Walter McGee, the Misses Marion Henderson, Ethel C. Green, Sallye Swayze, May L. Hull, Elizabeth C. Hull, Edith Clapp, Mary Wells, Edith Gilbert, Mabel Wilder, Genevieve Daniel, Daisy Elsburg, Laura Cooper, Sarah Douglass, Kate Foster, of New York, Lulu French, Sadie Howell, Bessie Taylor, Sarah Long, Laura Long, Adelaide Ball, Katheryn Ball, Alice Thompson, May Thompson, Bertha Whitney, Mabel VanDeventer, Halla VanDeventer, Eleanor T. VanDeventer, and Lydia VanHerwerden; Miss Smith, of Wilkesbarre; and Miss Quackenbush, of New York; the Messrs. S. St. John McCutchen, Edward Douglass, Samuel Townsend, A. L. C. Marsh, William N. Runyon, Richard Williams, Fred W. Goddard, Henry C. Wells, Fred P. Taylor, Carl Stedman Brown, Harry B. Lovell, Arthur A. Freeman, Gilbert Lovell, Fletcher Hallock, Elston M. French, Willard P. Hallock, Edgar I. Serrell, Allan B. Laing, W. J. R. Thiers, R. F. Douglass, Ernest Swayze, Carroll L. Runyon, Cornelius Tyler, Edward Waring, George C. Worth, Percy C. Long, Guernsey Nevius, A. Murphy, Clarence L. Murphy, Alfred Killmer, Charles Dupee, Frank Thompson, Edmund Rushmore, A. Willis West, William W. McCutchen, Blanchard Randolph, Clifford Cooley, James Murray, Everett J. Peck, Allan Wilson, Charles Swayze, Howard Terrill, and Mr. VanHerwerden.

A Good Investment.

The New Jersey Mutual Realty Co. are offering a limited amount of their stock for sale and in view of the splendid location of their property lying as it does between this city and Bound Brook and fronting on the tracks of the C. R. R. of N. J. and Lehigh Valley R. R., we can recommend this stock as a safe form of investment. Messrs. A. D. Thompson and J. D. Runyon, of this city, are among the stockholders. Mr. Silas D. Drake, the founder of the thriving town of Lorraine, is manager of the company and is putting in the best efforts of his life in pushing its plans. The property was purchased at a low figure and if sold for farming purposes alone would yield a handsome profit. It is said that the town of Lorraine turned four dollars for every one invested and if this does only a fraction as well, will make a handsome profit. Their office is at Bound Brook, N. J., where full particulars will be given.

Lectures.

The next University Extension lecture will be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church on the evening of January 12th. Dr. Riggs will begin his lectures on "The Vital Forces in Modern History."

Dr. Steans will start his lectures on the International Sunday-school lessons in the Y. M. C. A. hall on Monday evening, January 11th, after a vacation for the holidays.

KEEPING AN OLD CUSTOM

Y. M. C. A. HAD OPEN HOUSE ALL DAY YESTERDAY.

Gymnastic Exhibitions in the Afternoon and an Amusing Entertainment in the Evening Made Up the Programme

Ever since the Y. M. C. A. took possession of their new building it has been their custom to keep open house on New Year's Day. This year was no exception. There were a score of members at the building only too glad to welcome strangers. In the afternoon Physical Director Heywood arranged a little programme for the members of the gymnasium, and it was witnessed by a large number of members and their friends.

First came a number of exercises on the apparatus and a bar bell drill. After that came some competive events. The first event was the high vault, and Rev. W. C. O'Donnell was the winner, clearing the bar at six feet, four inches. Walter Long and Frank Richards tied for second, vaulting five feet, eight inches.

Putting the shot was the next event, and George Proctor Smith had every thing his own way. His put was thirty-eight feet, one and three quarter inches. Mr. Marcley was second with thirty-three feet, six and a half inches, while Long was third with twenty six feet, seven inches. In the high jump, G. P. Smith and Walter Long tied, both clearing four feet, eleven inches. Marcley was second with one inch lower.

Messrs. Barcley and Sink, of the New York Y. M. C. A., gave an exhibition of their work on the rings and high bar. They did some very wonderful things and received a regular ovation from the spectators.

A basket ball game between the team from the business men's classs and the regular team, resulted in a victory for the latter by a score of 4 to 2, after a very exciting game. Morrailer threw the two goals for the regulars from the field. O'Donnell made the one goal from the field for the business men. The playing of the business men's team was especially good. Mr. Heywood refereed.

In the evening, the Star Course entertainment was the attraction. Mr. Spedon, the lightning artist and caricaturist, entertained the large audience very delightfully with his drawings and recitations. He sketched the pictures of several of the audience to the delight of the rest. His picture of the young woman and the young man of the period seemed especially to please the audience.

NEW FIRE HORSES RUN AWAY.

The Driver Lost Control of the Reins and Couldn't Hold Them.

The new team of horses purchased recently for the hook and ladder truck of the fire department, ran away Thursday afternoon and it was with difficulty that they were caught. Driver Henry Wierenga was driving them out of the house on East Second street, and was going to Alert's house for the exercise wagon for the purpose of giving the horses some exercise.

When he reached the street he slipped on some ice and fell down. The team seemed to realize what had happened and they pulled their driver the full length of the building. He found it impossible to hold the horses and was obliged to let them go.

It happened that Driver Townley was near with his team and the exercise wagon, and he started down West Second street after the runaway team. The latter went from Second street through Liberty street to Front street.

Just below Plainfield avenue on Front street, they ran upon the sidewalk and a hay carter named Gray caught them before they could get away. In the meantime Driver Townley and Harry Bush arrived, took charge of the horses and brought them back. There was only the slightest damage and that was to the reins, which were broken.

Found in a Coal Box.

Some unknown man, poorly dressed and evidently a tramp, went to Michael Moyanhan's house in West Dunellen, yesterday, and asked for something to eat. The fellow looked the picture of poverty, and the kind-hearted women folks of the house fed him freely and also gave him 20 cents in change. It was then learned that that the man was wanted for robbing a place near Bound Brook. He was traced to the Harris Lane school house, where he was found crouched in the coal box and later taken to Bound Brook.

To Repeat Christmas Music.

The choir of the First Baptist church will repeat tomorrow evening the Christmas music which was rendered last Sunday morning, with solos by Miss Harris and Mrs. Ward. Prof. Conde, the violinist, will assist in the instrumental parts.

ENDEAVORERS WATCHED

THE OLD YEAR OUT AND NEW ONE IN WITH SONG AND PRAYER.

Impressive Service Held in the Seventh Day Baptist Church New Year's Eve—An Inspiration for the Coming Year.

Promptly at 9 o'clock New Year's Eve, Endeavorers from Plainfield and vicinity were wending their way to the Seventh Day Baptist church, where they were to hold a union watch meeting. The occasion was one of pleasure and profit. The first hour and a half was devoted to the social side of the evening, during which light refreshments were served in the Sunday-school room.

At 10:45 o'clock the notes of the church organ announced the opening of the watch meeting, and soon the church was filled by the typical Endeavor audience eager to sing and pray out the old, and usher in the new year.

The service of song, led by Mr. Horace Martin, was followed by Rev. Arthur E. Main, who conducted the devotional exercises, and Rev. L. E. Livermore, who led in earnest prayer.

There was sunshine in the hearts of the Endeavorers, as usual, and when Mr. Martin sang the Washington favorite, "Let a Little Sunshine In," asking the audience to join him in the chorus, they responded with genuine spirit.

E. E. Anthony, leader of the service, prefaced his remarks with an earnest prayer; and then took for his text, numbers 23:5, likening the journeyings of the children of Israel to the life of the Christian. The leader spoke very earnestly of the importance of seeking forgiveness for the sins of the past year, for the many opportunities for actual service neglected. "Christians," he said, "have been called of God to be a peculiar people; separated unto His service; in the world, but not of the world. The children of Israel had but one home in the land of Egypt. The Christian has but one home in the land over yonder, where eternity will be spent with Him who has promised a home to those who are faithful unto the end."

At the close of the leader's remarks, request was made for testimonies from all present; and many Endeavorers availed of the opportunity to acknowledge the goodness of God's mercy as experienced in their lives during the year so fast drawing to a close.

After the singing of the hymn "Only Remembered by What We Have Done," the leader called for sentence prayers. The old year, with its varied experiences, its joys, its sorrows, its opportunities, was almost gone; a new, an untried twelve months, was about to be ushered in, and the solemnity of the moment was keenly felt by each one present.

As they waited, the silence broken only by the voice of prayer, the tolling of the church chimes solemnly proclaimed the death of 1896, and then the same chimes joyfully rang in the new—the 1897.

A CHARMING LUNCHEON.

Mrs. John Hetfield Entertains at Her Park Avenue Home.

One of the charming social events of the holiday season was the pink luncheon given by Mrs. John M. Hetfield, at her home on Park avenue, Thursday afternoon, in honor of her niece, Mrs. Dr. Baldwin, of Newark, who recently returned from a bridal tour.

The spacious rooms were richly decorated with greens, while the prevailing color of pink was given prominence through the use of carnation pinks and pink roses. The table was also prettily decorated with exquisite taste.

The luncheon was served by Stephenson, the caterer, and a menu of excellence was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Hetfield received and introduced the gests to her niece, in whose honor the luncheon was given. Those present were:—Mrs. Dr. Baldwin, of Newark; Mrs. J. M. Hetfield, Mrs. William Sandford, Mrs. Albert Darby, Mrs. G. F. Brown, Mrs. James Middledith, Mrs. J. W. Richardson, Mrs. J. P. Homan, Mrs. Andrew Manning, Mrs. T. S. Davis, Mrs. J. H. French, Miss Grace Yerkes, Miss Eleanor Demarest, Clarence Hetfield, of Plainfield; Miss Belle Grover, of Newark; Mrs. J. M. Crane, of Cranford.

Bills for Election Services.

In answer to an inquiry, Corporation Marsh has written a letter to City Clerk MacMurray expressing the opinion that the bills of members of the Boards of Registry and Election against the city should be made out under section 236, page 109, of the election pamphlet furnished by the Secretary of State. This will settle a much involved question among the members of the boards in this city.

SOCIAL SEASON OPENED.

THE NEW YEAR STARTED PLEASANTLY FOR SOCIETY PEOPLE.

The First of the Subscription Dances Held in the Casino and Successful in Providing a Time of Pleasure for Participants.

With the new year came the opening of the social season in Plainfield for, on Thursday night, the first of the subscription dances at the Casino of the Country Club, which are to take the place of the Assemblies this winter, was held, and the new year was tripped in right merrily.

It was the first large dance of the winter, and it was attended by many of Plainfield's society people and a number of guests from out of town. The Casino presented a charming appearance. Evergreens were tastefully hung about the walls and open fireplace, while the platform was half hidden behind a profusion of palms and other potted plants. The holly was largely used and the colors, red and green, prevailed in the decorations. Red bunting was hung here and there amid the green and made a very pretty effect.

The following patronesses received: Mrs. Orville T. Waring, Mrs. James T. Scott, Mrs. William L. Saunders, Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. John T. Baker, Mrs. Harry V. Borden, Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman, Mrs. John B. Dumont, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. John Doull Miller and Mrs. William J. Roome.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Raymond, Miss Grace Cooley, Miss Gertrude Baker, Miss May Evans, Miss Wharton, of Pittsburg; the Misses Holly, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Strong, Miss Holly, of New York; Miss Harris, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Miss Neeser, of New York; Miss Edith Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, the Misses Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. H. Streuli, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, Miss Reinhart, the Misses Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Depew, Mr. and Mrs. Kleinek, Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Borden, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Yates, Miss Bessie Ginna, Miss Smock, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Saunders, Miss Hall, Miss VanBoskerck, Mrs. Orville T. Waring, the Misses Waring, Mrs. John Doull Miller, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Miss Huntington, Mr. Ames, Edward M. VanBuren, Miss Gertrude Andrews, Miss Minnie Wilson, Miss Middledith, Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Hedges, Miss Butler, of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Roome, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Scott, Burritt Shepard, Rutherford Shepard, James Middledith, J. H. P. Wharton, Howard W. Beebe, H. Reeve Stockton, Howard Huntington, Orville G. Waring, L. E. Waring, H. A. Patton, Percy Stewart, Walter Stewart, Clifford McGee, J. Westervelt Clark, of New York; F. L. Huntington, A. G. Henderson, Dr. F. Ard, Laurens H. Van Buren, Irving G. West, Saumel F. Hall, Dr. B. Van-D. Hedges, Edward Finch, H. C. Munger, S. C. Miller, T. R. VanBoskerck, F. R. Fish, Jr., Lambert Fish, Clarence Peck, Siegfried Arens, Mr. Nesser, Mr. Bryan and Mr. Ryder, of New York.

Elliot furnished the music. A few minutes before midnight the dancers formed in line for "Sir Roger De-Coverly" and to the strains of the old fashioned music the old year was danced out and the new danced in. Immediately afterwards supper was served, after which dancing was resumed and continued until about two o'clock.

The second dance will be given at the Casino on the twenty-fifth of January. The dances are under the direction of Clifton Wharton, Jr., Orville G. Waring, Howard Huntington, Harry V. Borden and Mrs. Howard W. Beebe.

A Serious Joke.

Yesterday morning about 12:50 some malicious person pulled fire alarm box 151, at the corner of Linden avenue and Grove street, and in some manner extracted the key before the department arrived. There was no fire and the whole thing was a practical joke. It is said that the person who pulled the box is known. This sort of thing has been done several times, and it is about time that steps were taken to put an end to it.

Endeavor Officers.

The following officers have been elected to serve the Church of Christ Christian Endeavor Society from January 1st: President, Mabel VanMiddlesworth; vice president, Rev. B. W. Hand; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. Hand; recording secretary, Percy Hand; treasurer, H. VanMiddlesworth.

—The Borough Council met last evening and adjourned till Monday evening, without transacting any business.

MANY PARTIES GIVEN.

SOCIABILITY SEEMS TO PERVADE THE HOLIDAY SEASON.

Young and Old People Partake of the Hospitality of Hosts Who Welcomed the New Year in an Agreeable Manner.

The new year was given a welcome on Thursday evening, or rather early Friday morning, by a number of friends of Miss Evalina Du Bois Benton, who attended the party that she gave on Thursday evening in one of the rooms in the annex of the Babcock building.

The affair was a delightful one and the fifty guests that were present spent a very enjoyable evening. The rooms were charmingly decorated for the occasion. The prevailing colors were red and green, the colors of the holly, which was used prominently in the decorations. Evergreen roping was hung from the chandeliers to the corners of the rooms and about the walls.

When the guests arrived they found the rooms a perfect maze of red and green cord, all arranged for a "cobweb" party. The ends of the cords were given out and the first part of the evening was spent in untwisting the "cobweb." Then followed progressive "peanuts," which was played something on the same plan as progressive jack straws. Other games followed and when the hour of midnight arrived, it was welcomed with a merry blast of the bugle blown by one of the guests. The gay party finally broke up at about 1.30 o'clock and started for home while some of the young men greeted the new year with song as they walked homeward.

Miss Benton was assisted in receiving her guests by several of the "Seven Wonder," of which organization she is a member. They also assisted in the artistic decoration of the rooms.

A very pleasant and enjoyable time was spent last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Rafferty, of Park avenue, the occasion being a Christmas tree party given by the Misses Rafferty to their young friends. During the evening the Christmas tree was lighted, lending additional charm to the scene. The hours of the party were from 5 to 8, but it was 10 when all the guests had left for home. To say that all enjoyed themselves is putting it mildly.

Games of all kinds were played and selections on the piano were also rendered by some of those present. Recitations were given by Miss Helen Lynch and Master Andrew Carney. The feat of trying to put the donkey's tail where it belonged, caused much laughter. For this Harvey Moynihan secured first prize and Elsie Knowlton the booby prize. Master Walter Knowlton, five years old, sang "Ben Bolt" to the accompaniment of Miss Fannie Rafferty on the piano. He is a remarkable singer. Miss Annie Rafferty sang very nicely "My Mother Was a Lady" and "Won't You Come to My Tea Party." A bountiful supper was served to all present, and everyone agreed they had had a royal good time.

The home of Councilman and Mrs. John Valliant, of Myrtle Avenue, was the scene, last evening, of a brilliant social event. It was a salamagundi party given by the host and hostess to a number of their friends.

Those who secured the honors were Miss Alice Carroll, Miss Lunger, John G. MacLoughlin and Raymond Carroll.

Miss Henrietta Cuming, of Putnam avenue, entertained a number of her friends on New Year's Eve at her home. A very pleasant evening was spent.

Walter Emmons, of Jackson avenue, gave a New Year's Eve party to his friends on Thursday night. There were sixteen present. The evening was spent in playing games and dancing.

Two sleighs full of young people went from the borough Thursday evening over to Summit and attended a dance there at the home of a relative of one of the party. One sleigh load was gotten up by William Titus and the other by Mrs. Billyue.

J. W. Jackson, superintendent of the Sunday-school of the First M. E. church, entertained the officers and teachers of that Sunday-school at his home on Crescent avenue, last evening. There were about forty present and the evening passed very agreeably.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Pope, of Summit avenue, entertained a few friends at their home on Thursday evening and the new year was welcomed in by the party.

A New Year's gathering was held at the residence of David T. Kenney, of Grove street, last evening. Singing, dancing and games made the time pass very quickly.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

BUSINESS IS QUIET

The Closing Week the Dullest Since the First of November.

HOLIDAY SEASON LARGELY THE CAUSE

Western Bank Failures the Outcome of Conditions Originating Within Themselves—Several Favorable Indications Now in View.

New York, Jan. 2.—Bradstreet's weekly review of the state of trade for the week just ending will to-day say: General trade has been rather more quiet, and this week proves one of the dullest of the dull season which has followed the fortnight of revival demand early in November. The uneasiness last week caused by northwestern bank failures is continued by similar embarrassments at Chicago and Minneapolis. These bank failures seem to be the outcome of conditions originating in the banks and not due to the situation of general trade. Unseasonable weather, the making of inventories and the customary absence of demand in wholesale lines, have combined to produce more than the usual holiday dullness. More favorable reports include heavy exports of flour and general merchandise to China and Japan, the receipt of a satisfactory amount of orders for dry goods for spring delivery and an increased total volume of business of 1896 among shoe manufacturers and jobbers, and jobbers of dry goods, as compared with 1895. Quotations for corn, exports of which continue relatively heavy; for wheat, of which the same may be said, and for coffee and for hides and leather, are higher.

Prices of Staples.

Manufacturers of woolen goods are buying raw material only to cover orders received. Large stocks of unsold print cloths continue to depress business, and merchants in leading staple lines at large distributing centres do not expect an early improvement. Prices of oats, petroleum, cotton and print cloths are lower, and buyers of western and southern brands of pig iron report a cut of 25c. a ton. Prices are unchanged and comparatively firm for flour, pork, lard, sugar, anthracite coal and steel billets. Since the break in iron and steel prices, consumers appear inclined to await developments.

New York Stock Market.

Holiday dullness has prevailed in the New York stock market. Prices have been moderately strong, and the market's tone is influenced by expectations of a better demand for securities in the opening months of the new year. The favorable foreign trade balance is considered a bull factor. Foreign exchange is steady after a slight decline, due probably to selling of hypothecated exchange and to the anticipation of January payments abroad.

Business Failures.

The list of business failures throughout the United States for 1896 is, with the exception of 1893, the longest since records of this character have been compiled. It is proper to explain that only those business embarrassments are included as failures in which total liabilities are in excess of actual assets, except in the case of banks the suspension of payment by which during business hours, for however short an interval, is regarded as a failure. The total number of business failures during 1896, 15,112, is an increase of 16 per cent. over 1895. An increase of 16 per cent. in number of failures and 55 per cent. in total liabilities may be made clear only on the ground that all of the disturbing conditions which have marked the state of trade in recent years have not been eliminated, and that many concerns have foundered in the prolonged struggle to tide over to the returning wave of increased consumptive demand.

Output of Minerals and Metals.

New York, Jan. 2.—The Engineering and Mining Journal to-day will say: The production of minerals and metals in the United States for the year 1896 is given at a total value of $633,311,468, showing a decrease as compared with 1895 of $24,689,266, or about 3½ per cent. This decrease was largely in values rather than in quantities; in none of the chief articles was there any marked decrease, while in several there were considerable increases.

Desperate Revenge.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 2.—M. J. Ryan, chief of the fire department, was shot five times yesterday afternoon by assistant chief Frank Wood, two of the bullets taking effect, one in the back and one in the right thigh. Wood had been reported for drunkenness, and Mayor Mayo was in the act of writing the order of suspension when the shooting took place.

Fatal Powder Mill Explosion.

Xenia, O., Jan. 2.—Yesterday afternoon a terrific explosion occurred at the Miami Powder company's works, a few miles north of this city. Abijah Kretzer, married, and Joe Hopping, single, employes at the works, were fatally hurt. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

Gov. Black's First Official Act.

Albany, Jan. 2.—The first official act of Gov. Black after signing the warrants for his staff was to appoint Jacob Worth of Brooklyn county clerk of Kings county for the unexpired term of one year.

Delegate to Monetary Conference.

Hartford, Jan. 2.—President J. M. Allen, of the Hartford board of trade, has appointed delegates to the sound money convention at Indianapolis, January 12.

Not even a grain of salt is wanting to emphasize and make perfect the flavor of

NONE SUCH MINCE MEAT.

Pure, wholesome,—an economical luxury. Sold everywhere. Take no substitute.

Send name and address for booklet, "Mrs. Pepkins' Thanksgiving."

MERRELL-SOULE CO., SYRACUSE, N. Y.

AIDED A FILIBUSTER

Revenue Cutter Pulled the Commodore Off a Mud Bar.

ESCORTED HER TO DEEP WATER

Captain-General Weyler Again Indulges in Boastful Talk—Few Rebels Left and the Insurrection About at an End.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 2.—The filibustering steamer Commodore, which left Jacksonville yesterday with a cargo of arms and ammunition, stuck in the mud a few miles below this city, and the revenue cutter Boutwell, passing down the river, pulled her off and escorted her safely across the bar.

WEYLER'S BOASTFUL TALK.

According to His Assertion, the Insurrection Is About a Thing of the Past.

Havana, Jan. 2.—A reporter of the Diario de la Marina has had an interview with Captain-General Weyler in the Mata Toro camp. Speaking of the situation in the province of Pinar del Rio, Gen. Weyler said that, speaking from the standpoint of strength and importance, the insurrection in that province was a thing of the past. The few insurgents remaining were compelled to hide. His own column and those of the other Spanish commanders had overrun the base and interior of the hills and had met no rebels. The insurgents, after the death of Maceo, were without a leader, he asserted. Rivera, Maceo's successor, was unpopular among his men. Gen. Weyler added that his statements would be confirmed after Gens. Melguizo and Arolas had completed their operations, which included the sweeping of the province from east to west. Gens. Hernandez, Velazco, Obregan, Bernal, Riuz, Fuentes and Segura were now in the centre of the hills. Perhaps Gen. Arolas was also there. Once the Rubi hills were fortified a severe blow might be directed against the rebels under Ducassis. Gen. Weyler said in conclusion that he would allow no houses to be built on the outskirts of the towns, as were they constructed they would serve mostly as refuges for bandits.

An odd feature of the above interview is that Gen. Weyler, while declaring that Pinar del Rio is practically free of insurgents, finds it necessary to have the Rubi hills fortified before he will attempt to strike a blow at the rebels under Ducassis.

Escaped from a Cuban Prison.

Utica, N. Y., Jan. 2.—More than a year ago Bert Shepherd of Richfield Springs mysteriously disappeared. His mother has just received a letter from him stating that when on his way to Cuba with others a year ago he was arrested in Mexico on the charge of conspiring against the Spanish government. He and the other members of the party were kept in prison without a trial. A few days before Christmas, Shepherd and his companions escaped and are now in Texas.

Electricity on Farms.

Washington, Jan. 2.—Consul Muth sends the state department an interesting description of a farm in Mecklenburg, Germany, where electricity has been made to take the place of laborers in great part. A turbine drives a dynamo which lights the barns, yards and dwelling and furnishes current of low tension to work pumps, run straw cutter, lathe, grindstone, large hand saw and threshing machine. One machinist attends to the entire plant, which experience proves has reduced the expenses of the farm in considerable degree.

Liable to a Long Term in Prison.

Boston, Jan. 2.—Charles H. Avery, whom the police records at headquarters show to be a habitual criminal, has been arrested at Natick, Mass., for Boston authorities, charged with forgery. Avery has already served three terms of imprisonment in the Massachusetts state prison. Under the law as a habitual criminal Avery will be liable to a sentence of twenty-five years in state prison if he is convicted of the present offense.

Murdered His Wife; Cut His Own Throat.

Boston, Jan. 2.—Samuel Whittaker, a shoe mender, living in Rindge avenue, North Cambridge, shot and killed his wife, Catherine, yesterday afternoon, by blowing the top of her head off with a shot gun. He then attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a razor. He was taken to the Cambridge hospital in a critical condition. The couple have had numerous quarrels. The Whittakers have eight children.

Hartford Broker Missing.

Hartford, Jan. 2.—Henry A. Cowles, a well known broker of this city, is missing. He left Hartford one week ago, ostensibly to go to New York on business, and not a trace of him has been found since. The many creditors of the firm are considerably worked up over the matter. Financial difficulties are thought to be the basis of Mr. Cowles' disappearance

FALL GOWN FOR YOUNG GIRL

May Be Made of Various Materials to Please Fancy.

One of the early fall model gowns for a young girl of 17 is made of dark blue serge. The skirt is a plain godet, with seven gores, and each seam is covered with a narrow white woolen passementerie, inexpensive and very pretty.

The bodice has a seamless back and a front without darts, with the fullness drawn down in flat plaits to the belt. At the front the bodice is cut away to show a V and high-standing collar of dull red silk covered with the cream passementerie.

The broad pointed revers, the high-pointed cuffs, and the tall belt are of cream serge. A full high frill of cream mousseline de soie finishes the top of the standing collar.

A delightful little hat that goes with this costume is a sailor of rough red straw with a band at the back that tips it way over the face. It is trimmed entirely in choux or bright red tulle and quantities of red currants with a few of their green leaves and stems.

Such pretty shades in red there are for fall. One of the loveliest is currant red, deep, and with a strength that makes it a favorite wherever one sees it.—Chicago Tribune.

Mutton Mince.

A delicious mutton mince is made as follows: Mince two onions and fry them in a tablespoonful of butter. Add three half-pint cups of minced mutton, a cupful of chopped potatoes, a tablespoonful of salt and one teaspoonful of pepper. Stir well, and add half a cupful of stewed tomatoes and a tablespoonful of minced parsley. Stir in now a cupful of rich brown gravy or sauce and cook very slowly for 20 minutes on top of the stove or in the oven. Roll the hash out on a hot platter, sprinkle it with minced parsley and serve at once. A dish of spiced currants or currant jelly is the appropriate accompaniment of this dish.—Boston Budget.

Death of Edward M. Johnson.

Oneonta, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Edward M. Johnson, journal clerk of the assembly of the state of New York, who died of Bright's disease, after four months' illness, at his home in Oneonta yesterday, was born in London, England, 63 years ago and came to America when fifteen years of age. For many years he was one of the leading republican politicians of the state. The funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon.

Death of ex-Congressman Cutler.

Morristown, N. J., Jan. 2.—Ex-Congressman Augustus W. Cutler died at his residence in this city yesterday of heart failure incidental to an operation for appendicitis, when it was supposed he was recovering. He was born in 1829. In 1854 he married Julia R. Walker of Albany, N. Y., who, together with three children, survive him.

A Negro Executed at Newcastle, Del.

Newcastle, Del., Jan. 2.—Edward Wright, colored, was hanged in the jail yard here yesterday. There were no unusual incidents.

Good

Blood is essential to health. Every nook and corner of the system is reached by the blood, and on its quality the condition of every organ depends. Good blood means strong nerves, good digestion, robust health. Impure blood means scrofula, dyspepsia, rheumatism, catarrh or other diseases. The surest way to have good blood is to take Hood's

Blood

Sarsaparilla. This medicine purifies, vitalizes, and enriches the blood, and sends the elements of health and strength to every nerve, organ and tissue. It creates a good appetite, gives refreshing sleep and cures that tired feeling. It is because of its great power to purify the blood that

From

Hood's Sarsaparilla has accomplished so many wonderful cures. It makes the blood pure, drives out the germs of disease. Thousands today enjoy good health as the natural result of taking

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1.

Hood's Pills Do not purge, pain or gripe. All druggists. 25c.

consumption reaps his richest harvest where diseases of the throat and lungs are neglected.

HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR

If you have ever tried Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar you know what a safeguard it is against throat and lung troubles. Sold by druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

You Can't Do It

It isn't possible to boil any oatmeal long enough to break the starch-cells, and so render it digestible. Starch is not converted into digestible material until 250 degrees is reached, and 212 degrees is the maximum boiling temperature. Oatmeal can only be made digestible by dry heat, and is the only oatmeal in which the starch is rendered soluble by bursting the starch granules. This makes it the only safe oatmeal for infants, children, and those of weak digestion

H-O

Be sure and get the package with the big H O on the end.

Subscriptions Free to

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly
Illustrated American (Weekly)
Truth (Weekly)
New England Magazine
Chatterbox (Monthly)
The American Kitchen Magazine
Home Magazine (Monthly)
of Binghamton, N. Y.

WITH COUPONS FROM THE

H.O.Co.'s Goods

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 19 tf

Honeyman's Private Tours.
To OLD POINT COMFORT, December 29th—5 days.
To FLORIDA, Jan. 21—16 days.
To CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 18—25 days
Office 181 NORTH AVENUE, Plainfield, N. J.

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.
Tonsorial parlor, 304 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

Climatic Extremes
OF
NORTH and SOUTH
are blended ideally at
OLD POINT COMFORT
AND
RICHMOND, Va.,

Thus making these the most desirable places for winter outings.

They may be reached delightfully by the luxurious and modern steamships of the

Old Dominion Line

Sailing every week day from New York.

Send for full information.

Old Dominion S. S. Co.
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILLAUDEU, Vice-Pres't & Traffic Mgr
12 17-6 m

CLOSING OUT
Boots, Shoes & Rubbers.
AT BARGAINS
FORCE, 129 Park Avenue.
39 4m

L. A. HUMMER'S
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

PIANOS
If you want a deep, clear, rich tone, and the best material, buy your PIANOS at W. R. BROKAW'S. Piano Parlors, 311 Madison ave. Bargains in second-hand instruments. Parlors always open. Tuning and regulating a specialty.

Your Valuables
will be safe in
Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.
Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

J. W. VanSickle,
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield. N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Philadelphia Scrapple.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

W. N. Pangborn,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Residence, 33 Linden Ave
Personal attention. Prompt service.
Telephone 29b. Established 1878. 1 14 tf

Within the reach of all.
ACCIDENT TICKETS.
THE INTER-STATE
Casualty Company of New York
gives SIX MONTHS' insurance
$1.000 for $1.00,
to men or women
between 18 and 60 years of age, against accidental death. $100,000 deposited with the Insurance Department of the State of New York for the security of the insured.
For sale at office of
Honeyman's Private Tours,
181 North Ave. Plainfield, N. J.
6 25-6 mos

Rushton, Hansen & Luthman,
PAINTERS
AND PAPER HANGERS,
Office and shop Sycamore and 4th sts.
Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 9 11 tf

REVERE HOUSE
PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD, New Jersey.
Families accomodated for the fall and winter months at greatly reduced prices.
The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed.
GEO. B. DE REVERE.

Potter & Kellogg,
DEALERS IN
Lehigh Valley Coal.
Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard—At Mt. Pleasant, Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 29 1-y

The Metropolitan Boarding Stables
C. V. D. CORLE, - - - - - - Proprietor
No. 138 East Second street. Livery and Boarding and Sale Stable. Horses boarded by the day, week, month or hour. Reasonable prices. 11 17 1y

HERMAN KELLER.
Manufacturer of and Retail Dealer in
Cigars, Tobacco, etc.
"PRIDE OF PLAINFIELD" CIGAR a specialty. 116 North avenue. 9 26 tf

MRS. L. ADAMS,
MILLINERY.
Ready made gowns and dresses ordered from samples. All the latest novelties of the season.
114 EAST FRONT STREET.

A. LUSARDI,
120 NORTH AVENUE.
Wholesale and Retail
Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds of Confectionery, Peanuts, Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets

NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE
Sewer Connections.

DAVID BOWDEN,
General Contractor, 109 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J. Carriage drives macadamized, sewers and sewer connections promptly made, lawns carefully restored. All work done in a practical and skilful manner.
28 YEARS EXPERIENCE.
Best of references furnished. Charges moderate 4 19 tf

C. W. LINES,
Mason and Builder
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly 1y

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. O. STEVENS & CO.
COAL,
147 WEST FRONT ST.
Branch office with
G. A. HALLOCK,
109 West Front street.

30,000 CIGARS
of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of the city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.
M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue,
8 15 tf Plainfield.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.
Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation, and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.
Telephone Call 138a

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 100 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

William Hand & Son.
STAGES
For Parties, etc., 518 Park ave.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing,
Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS.
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Bui

BRAIN FOOD.

Edw. P. Thorn,
RETAIL DEALER IN
Fish, Oysters, and Clams.
Terms Cash. Goods Delivered

E. H. Holmes,
Dealer in
Coal & Wood.
Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.
Telephone 49-A.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country. Charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed. Orders may be left at Sattel's music store, 221 Park ave.

"Time or Tide Waits for No Man."

Have your time always correct and you won't want time to wait. Our watches or clocks never vary. They are sure and reliable timekeepers, whether in the exquisitely jeweled chatelaine watch, or fine gold or silver case. They are always correct. Speaking of time—remember now is the time to be looking around for a useful and handsome Christmas present for wife, husband or sweetheart; and who doesn't love a good watch?

COLLIER,
103 Park Ave. Established 1869.

The Largest Selection of Wall Papers
—AND—
Painter's Supplies
in Plainfield.
Woolston & Buckle,
141-145 North avenue.

New Year's Gifts
AT RANDOLPH'S.
ARROW BRAND CANDIES
Handsomely Boxed, in one-half and pounds. Quality Superior.
Cut Glass Bottles,
A Large Assortment of Choice Handkerchief Extracts.
Reasonable Prices Prevail.
L. W. Randolph,
PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST.
No. 143 West Front street.
Telephone Call, 109.

"It is Making a Hit."
FEIGENSPAN'S Finest Pale Ale
IN BOTTLES, and
FEIGENSPAN'S SAAZER BEER
At Hotel Grenada Bar.

The Plainfield Confectioners,
112 West Front street.
Candies from 10, 15 and 20 cents per lb. up. The very best goods. Made daily on the premises. Formerly known as the New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Comp'y. 9 9 1y

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL,
No. 711, Royal Arcanum.
The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
Harry O. Adams, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

A GOOD FIRE
will make cheerful many of the evenings of the New Year. We'll sell you the coal—good coal—and plenty of it. We don't sell you dirt for coal. We don't sell you short measure. We want your coal trade always.
D. C. IVINS & CO.
Coal, Lumber, &c. 301-311 Watchung Ave.

Rushmore & Co.,
WATCHUNG AVENUE,
COR. FOURTH ST.
Lumber yard and Planing Mill.
Large and full assortment of lumber including 21 varities from Hemlock to Mahogany always in stock. Window frames, moulding, sash, doors and blinds. Hardwood floors a specialty. Turning and scroll sawing. We can make anything. Call and see us. Satisfaction guaranted.

ALEX. LUSARDI,
211 West Front Street,
Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores. 991 rear

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
I. E. Beerbower, Prop
Stables attached

CLEANER COAL.
L. A. RHEAUME,
and N. H. SAXTON.
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invite the public to inspect the operation of their newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which they confidently believe enables them to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Kindling Wood a Specialty.

Christmas Wreaths Roping Holly, etc. Also, Palms,
Rubber Trees, Begonias, Ferns Floral Designs. House and Church Decorations. Southern Smilax at 15 days notice.
DENTON'S.
131 Hillside avenue.

Safe Deposit Vaults
THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK
Of Plainfield, New Jersey.
Capital..... $200,000.
Surplus and Profits..... $90,000.
J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. RUNYON, Ass't
DIRECTORS:
Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Corlell,
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil,
Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Rushmore,
J. W. Johnson, Wm. R. Codington.
F. S. Runyon.
SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.
Boxes to Rent from $5 and upwards per annum.
VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

IF THE BEST WILL DO,
Try Royal Tooth Powder. 1 ½-oz. can, 10c.; 4-oz. nickel-top bottle, 25c. It contains no acid or grit, and is recommended by all dentists of standing who will advise the use of Chalk and Castle Soap flavored. Royal Borated and Carbolated Talcum, at 10c., is intended to give entire satisfaction and win your favor. Prepared by
ALLEN PHARMACY M'F'G CO.,
Plainfield, N. J.

E. D. BARRETT,
No. 148 East 5th St.
Sole Agent for the
Richmond Heaters.
STEAM and HOT WATER.
SANITARY PLUMBING

Owners of Property
Now is the time to call and list your property you have for rent, sale or exchange, with the Central Real Estate Co.,
No. 150 North Ave. Over U. S. Ex. Office.

NEW YEAR'S CARDS
AND DIARIES
AT
R. C. RAND'S,
140 West Front street.

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield December 28th, 1896.

Applegate Mrs C B	Murdough, Miss A
Arnold Harry	Moore Chas W
Blessing J E	Mitchell Warren
Burk Miss Kate	Moore Wm
Beishencione Richard	Nicholl Geo R
Chase John M	Pierson, Miss Nellie
Cornilus Mr	Post Sutphen R
Demarest Mrs W Harry	Smyth Miss Maria
Gillette Frank	Smith Mrs C
Hewitt Mrs Mathew	Taylor Mrs Mary E
Holyeysfel Miss Anna K	Turner Mrs Annie
McMahon Miss Mary Ann	Wilson Miss J R

RING OUT THE OLD
RING IN THE NEW.
GET THINGS IN GOLD AND SILVER TOO
AT
J. Wiss & Sons,
755 Broad Street, Newark.

Notwithstanding the general depression, our sales have been remarkably big in Jewelry and Watches, Diamonds and Diamond Jewelry, Cut Glass, Silverware and Cutlery.
Nor have we any reason to complain of our sales in Leather Goods, Opera Glasses, Art Potteries and Novelties.
WE ATTRIBUTE OUR BIG SUCCESS
to the fact that we gave more value for money than could be procured elsewhere. We propose to continue on this line all year. Remember it when you want Jewelry, always the newest design. Cut Glass, of the best and deepest cuttings. Silverware, Sterling and Best plate for the table or dresser. Table Cutlery, Our own make that cannot be beaten.
When Your Eyes and Eye Glasses require attention call at our Optical Office, L. B. Hillson (R. O.) in charge. Here you are assured of satisfaction. Eyes carefully examined. Glasses nicely adjusted.
J. Wiss & Sons,
755 Broad Street, Newark.

Our Overcoats

this season are, as usual, peculiarly our own in perfectness of detail and fit. Prices have been put at smallest point.
Ulsters from $8.00
$10.00, 12.00 and above. Uncommonly dressy for Ulsters, too. Chinchillas, Irish Frieses, Mixed and Black Oxfords.
Overcoats, $8.00 to $25.00—Kerseys, Meltons, Beavers, Vicunas. Some with plain and others with combination linings.
Suits from $6.00 to $15.00—used to get far more for same kind of garments. In swell cheviots.

Boys' Clothing

—we make a good deal of our boys' clothing success. Been clothing juveniles for many years and feel we have an A No. 1 dep't. See it.
Boys' Reefers
with large ulster or deep sailor collars. Blue Chinchillas, Frieses and Oxford mixed. Fashionable. $3.00, 4.00, 6.00.
Boys' School Overcoats made in same way as men's styles. Blue, black and Oxford Kerseys. Fine finish, $4.00, 5.00, 6.00 and 8.00.
Boys' Two Piece and Reefer Suits
Exceptional sale. Were $3.50, 4.00 and 4.50 before. Now all at $3.00. New in cloth and cut.
Boys' Shoes—excellent kinds, $1.50 up. Men's $2.00 up.
SEE WINDOW DISPLAY
MARSHALL & BALL
The People's Outfitters. | 807, 809, 811, 813 Broad St. NEWARK, N. J.

Turkeys,
Chickens,
Ducks,
All Jerseys.
Prime Beef,
Mutton,
Lamb,
Jersey Pork and Sausage.
We invite an inspection of the FINEST STOCK IN THE CITY before you buy elsewhere.
SMALLEY BROTHERS,
The North Avenue Butchers.
Near the Depot.

PUBLIC BOWLING ALLEYS
AT
117 and 119 East Second Street.
C. M. ULRICH,
Manager.
12 22 1y.

Wall Paper
2cts. A Roll
Borders and Ceilings to Match, at
Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
201 Park avenue, corner Second street.
☞ The Largest Supply House in the City.

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor
109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F

NATIONAL GUARD ROW.

Ex-Gov. Morton and Gen. McAlpin Decline To Discuss McLewee's Charges.

Albany, Jan. 2.—Ex-Gov. Morton and Adjt.-Gen. McAlpin refuse absolutely to discuss Inspector-General McLewee's attack upon them published in the New York newspapers. Gen. McAlpin's attention was called to the statement by Gen. McLewee that he (Gen. McAlpin) lectured on temperance before Young Men's Christian associations and drank intoxicants the same evening; also that the last state camp of the National Guard was nothing more than a carousal; that there was one member of the staff who was drunk 150 times in fifty days, drunk on every public occasion, always at somebody else's expense; also that the same man had never been inside of an armory, yet it is his duty to visit all of them. "I have nothing to say in reply to anything he may have to say," said Gen. McAlpin. The National Guard is greatly excited over the controversy between the two big warriors of ex-Gov. Morton's retiring staff, and there are many rumors of personal encounters between them. A friend of Gen. McLewee told a reporter that he would demand a personal explanation of Gen. McAlpin the first time he met him.

VOTING POPULATION.

Michigan's Foreign Born Outnumber Native in 32 Counties and Many Cities.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 2.—Secretary of State Gardner has issued advance sheets of a bulletin, based on the last state census, embodying statistics of the male population of voting age, which contain some very interesting information. The number of males of voting age in the state was 651,920, as compared with 538,177 returned in 1884, an increase of 21.13 per cent. Of this total number 393,225 are native and 258,695 are foreign born. There are thirty-two counties in the state in which the foreign born males of the voting age outnumber the native. The foreign born males of voting age outnumber the native in twenty-five cities. The excess in several cities in the upper peninsula exceeds 100 per cent. In Detroit, the largest city in the state, the excess of foreign born is 10,033, and in Grand Rapids, the second city, the native exceeds the foreign by only 1,400.

NO CHARTER OBTAINABLE.

The Window Glass Workers' Association Will Probably Soon Dissolve.

Pittsburg, Jan. 2.—The last hope of those members of the American Window Glass Workers' association that the organization could be held together has been dissipated by a legal opinion furnished by their attorney, who says that under the present laws no charter of incorporation could be obtained for the association. This decision being adverse, a rapid dissolution of the organization is expected, and it is probable that an application will soon be made for the appointment of a receiver to wind up its affairs. For several years the window glass workers' association was accounted the most autocratic and powerful of all the labor organizations of the world. The assets of the organization are said to amount to about $36,000, and the liabilities to $180,000.

NOT TO SUCCEED DEPEW.

Ingalls Denies That He Is To Become President of the New York Central.

Cincinnati, Jan. 2.—When the attention of E. M. Ingalls of the Big Four railroad was called to-day to a report that he was to be promoted to succeed Chauncey M. Depew of the New York Central road, and that Depew was to receive a first-class diplomatic appointment from President McKinley, he frankly and quickly replied: "There is not anything in it so far as I am concerned. Cincinnati cannot get rid of me so easily as that," and the president closed the incident with a cheery "good-bye."

Dinner to Pittsburg Newsboys.

Pittsburg, Jan. 2.—The thirty-eighth annual newsboys and bootblacks' dinner given by the Leader was served in the old City hall yesterday afternoon. Over 1,100 boys attempted to do justice to the bill of fare, and their presence and feasting in the historic building was a memorable spectacle. It was a great dinner, a great party of banqueters, and, viewed from the boys' standpoint, a great beginning for the year of 1897.

Six Negroes in Danger of Lynching.

Milan, Tenn., Jan. 2.—Six negroes are under arrest for the brutal murder of Capt. H. P. Miller, proprietor of the Southern Pacific hotel, whose body was found in an unused bar room, with his head beaten to a pulp. The negroes are heavily guarded and as soon as any sort of proof is obtained the entire six will probably be lynched and burned, as 2,000 people are at fever heat over the affair.

Death of Andrew W. Swett.

New York, Jan. 2.—Andrew W. Swett, who for many years has been agent of the Adams Express company in this city and who was with Samuel Adams and assisted him in founding the Adams Express company, died in Bensonhurst, L. I., last evening from Bright's disease. Mr. Swett was born in Maine 75 years ago.

Sardinian Prince Floated.

Cape Henry, Va., Jan. 2.—The German steamer Sardinian Prince, ashore near Washwood, N. C., has been floated by wrecking tugs. The steamer proceeded on her trip apparently uninjured.

Dinner to Gen. Porter.

New York, Jan. 2.—The Lotos club will give a dinner Saturday evening, January 9, in honor of Gen. Horace Porter. Many prominent men are expected to attend.

IN CAUSE OF SILVER

Senator Wolcott Going Abroad To Sound Bimetallists.

HAS MAJOR M'KINLEY'S SANCTION

Not Over-Sanguine as to the Success of His Mission, But Is Hopeful That Good Can Be Accomplished.

New York, Jan. 2.—United States Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, who recently visited President-elect McKinley and conferred with him relative to an international bimetallic conference, will sail for London to-day. His mission abroad is for the purpose of sounding English bimetallists as to the expediency of an international conference, and it is understood that the Colorado senator has the sanction of the president-elect for his negotiations. He would not discuss that feature of his trip. "It is a fact," said he, "that I am going abroad for a month or so, and it is equally true that I expect to confer with a number of European bimetallists. I am not prepared to say what the result may be, though I am hopeful that good can be accomplished." Senator Wolcott was averse to discussing the general aspects of his mission, and alleged that nothing would have been known of the matter until after his departure but for the correspondents at Canton, who made public the fact of his conference with Major McKinley. As to the details of what happened there, the senator would say nothing, and the nature of his interview can only be judged from his admission that he is acting under the full knowledge and with the full consent of the president-elect. But he talked of the administration policy with respect to silver, premising that he was speaking unofficially, in this way: "It is not true that I am commissioned to act as the representative of the administration. The only official character I acknowledge is derived from the republican senatorial caucus committee, whose envoy I am. The republican senators who desire to keep the promises made in the St. Louis platform want to know just what the feeling is abroad with regard to international bimetallism, and they have requested me to find out and report to them. So little is known here about the news and plans of the gentlemen in London and on the continent who are understood to be 'international bimetallists' that the committee thought it best that I should have personal conferences with as many of them as possible. "I am not entirely sanguine of success," added Senator Walcott." When I come back I shall know more about the prospect for an international agreement." "What is the attitude of the administration concerning the bringing about of an international agreement?" "The administration is committed to international bimetallism by the St. Louis platform," said Senator Wolcott. "So far as I know there is not a republican in congress and very few out of it who is not in favor of international bimetallism. The platform is plain on that point."

Solemn High Mass for School Children.

Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 2.—Solemn high mass was celebrated in St. Mary's church yesterday for the school children and the Catholic children in the public schools were excused for the occasion. Over 2,800 children were in the church during the services. A choir of 400 children took the place of the regular choir and rendered the musical portions of the mass. Archbishop Martinelli presided. Last night a street parade of all Catholic societies in the city was held in honor of the distinguished prelate.

Russia's New Year's Greeting to France.

Paris, Jan. 1.—President Faure received a telegram from the czar yesterday, in which the Russian emperor, in addition to the usual New Year's greetings, expressed his good wishes for the prosperity of France. "Among the pleasantest recollections of the year," the czar concludes, "are those of my charming sojourn in your beautiful country, the memory of which is ineffaceable."

Placentia Bay Herring Fishery.

St. Johns, N. F., Jan. 2.—Herring are abundant in Placentia bay and along the west coast. Thirty American schooners are now loading at Placentia and eleven have sailed for Gloucester with full loads. The cold weather which has prevailed for the past fortnight aids greatly in freezing the herring and cargoes are expected to be secured rapidly.

Maine Banking Institutions.

Augusta, Me., Jan. 2.—The annual report of Bank Examiner Timberlake shows the banking institutions of Maine to be in a flourishing condition. They number 52 savings banks, 18 trust companies, and 34 building and loan associations. Their aggregate assets on Nov. 7 were $70,459,586, an increase over 1895 of $1,982,359.

Shoe Factory Strike Settled.

Stoneham, Mass., Jan. 2.—The strike which has been on in the shoe factory of F. B. Jenkins & Co., in Stoneham, for two weeks, caused by a proposed reduction of 10 per cent. all around, has been amicably settled, and this morning the cutters and stitchers went to work, concessions having been made by both sides.

Hackettstown Druggist in Trouble.

Belvidere, N. J., Jan. 2.—The grand jury of Warren county has found three bills of indictment against William F. Shields, a prominent and well-to-do druggist of Hackettstown for criminal operations. He was arrested and brought here, where he gave bail. His trial is set for Jan. 11.

THE DAILY PRESS

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m, at 08 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 2, 1897.

FOR 1897.

The Daily Press will continue to be the most progressive paper in the most progressive city of New Jersey.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

[Notices under this head are published by The Daily Press free of charge, when supplied fresh each week by authority. Copy must be in hand by 10 a. m. Saturday to insure insertion, and should be supplied Friday when possible.]

St. Stephen's Church, Rev. S. P. Simpson, rector—Holy Communion, 7:30 a. m.; Sunday-school, 9:45 a. m.; Holy Communion and sermon, 11; evening prayer and sermon, 7:4.. Free stages have been discontinued, as the trolley cars run past the church every twelve minutes.

St. Joseph's (R. C.) Church—Rev. William. H. Miller, pastor. Masses at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m.; Sunday-school, 2:30; evening devotions, 8.

St. Mary's (R. C.) Church—Rev. P. E. Smyth, pastor. Masses at 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30 a. m.; evening devotions at 8. Sunday-school, 2:30 p. m.

Trinity Reformed Church—Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor. Preaching at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. by the pastor. Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at the morning service. Sunday-school at 2:30 p. m.

Park Avenue Baptist Church, Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor—Sunday-school at 2:30 p. m. Preaching at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. by the pastor. Morning theme, "A New Path Opened;" evening "Willing to Be Omitted."

Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. C. R. Barnes, D. D., pastor—10:30 a. m., celebration of the Lord's Supper and reception of members; 2:30 p. m., Sunday-school and monthly meeting of S. S. Missionary Society; 7 p. m., Epworth League prayer meeting; 7:20 p. m., preaching by the pastor on "Plainfield's Greatest Need."

Monroe Avenue M. E. Church, Rev. William C. O'Donnell, pastor—Special services. Sunday morning service, beginning at 11. Final report of chapel committee by James McGee; preaching by Presiding Elder Geo. W. Smith, followed by communion service; Sunday-school at 3 p. m; Epworth League meeting at 7:15 p. m; evening service at 8. Revival sermon by the pastor, subject, "The Latest News."

Grace Church, Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector—Early celebration of Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m.; litany, Holy Communion and sermon at 10:30; Sunday-school at 3 p. m.; children's service 4 p. m.; evening services at 7:45.

Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. H. J. Johnston, pastor—Services, 10:30 a. m. reception of members and Communion; 2:30 p. m., Sunday-school; 7 p. m., Epworth League; preaching service, 7:45 p. m. There will be special music by the choir at this service. The Christmas programme will again be rendered.

First Presbyterian Church—Rev. Chas. E. Herring, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Morning subject, "A Progressive Revelation;" evening, "The Message of 1896 to Young Men."

All Souls' Church, Park avenue, (Unitarian)—Rev. A. C. Nickerson, the newly-elected pastor of the society, will preach at 10:45 a.m. Sunday-school at 11:45 a. m.

W. C. T. U. Rooms—Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson will conduct the 4 o'clock p. m. meeting All are invited.

Y. M. C. A., 4:15 p. m.—I. W. Travell, paincipal of the High School, will speak, and Miss Ethel Reynolds and the male choir will sing.

Salvation Army Hall—Tonight and all day tomorrow interesting meetings. Tomorrow night Lieut. Edna Ellis will conduct her farewell meeting.

At the Boys Club.

The Boys Club held a watch-meeting at their club house on Sycamore sreet, Thursday night. An entertainment occupied the early part of the evening, in wnich William Skinner, Peter Galbraith and Robby Runyon gave a dumb-bell drill, Joseph Galbraith a clog dance, Chas Meyer and John Cline an exhibition in tumbling and a song by Wm. Skinner. After this John Butscher gave a history of the club and Mr. Wadsworth, Mr. Tiffany and Superintendent Maxson spoke a few words. Refreshments were served at 9:30 and then the boys adjourned to the gymnasium where they amused themselves until 12 o'clock.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Pastor and People Reunited

After an absence by an illness of nearly two months, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D, will assume his pastoral relations with the Trinity Reformed church tomorrow. In the morning the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered, and in the evening Rev. Mr. Schenck will preach.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chillblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For Sale By L. W. Randolph.

C. H. Wittemoore, of the office of the U. S. Express Company, New York, was the guest yesterday of C.T. Thayer, of East Ninth street.

Miss Powers, of New York, will sing at the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow as soprano soloist. She is a candidate for the vacant position of soprano in the choir.

—Prof. H. Theodore Chamberlain, will deliver an illustrated talk on Ben Hur for the benefit of Odd Fellows in the Y. M. C. A. hall on Tuesday evening, January 5th.

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East.

J. E. Cobb, of 30 Lincoln place, has left town for Dickinson, Dakota.

Miss Adel Kirby, of Grandview avenue, is visiting cousins in Brooklyn.

Miss Margaret Schuck, of Vine street, has recovered from a severe illness.

Miss Lucie Palmer Davis, of East Fifth street, has returned from a visit in Orange.

William Boyd, of the New Brunswick Home News, visited friends in this city yesterday.

Edward Dooty, of Watchung avenue, spent New Year's Day with relatives in Peughkeepsie.

Miss Elizabeth Cairns, of New York, has been visiting her friend, Miss Anderson, of Third place.

Miss Grace Oakey, of Somerville, is the guest of her friend, Miss Mabel Schenck, of East Second street.

Miss Louella J. Mills, of East Fifth street, is visiting relatives at Port Jefferson, L. I., for several weeks.

Kendall Fellows, of Spokane, Washington, is visiting his school friend, Lester Baldwin, of Willow avenue.

Mrs. F. C. Langhorne, of Putnam avenue, has been confined to her home for several days with illness.

Mrs. Louis Volz, of Johnston's drive, returned today from Newark, where she has been spending a few days.

Mrs. Ernest Friend and family, of Scranton, Pa., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. James Huntington, of Pearl street.

The Misses Kdunlen, of Carleton avenue, are guests of Hoboken relatives. They will return home on Monday.

George Voorhees, of New Brunswick, was the guest of his friend, Volney F. Green, of East Fifth street, yesterday.

Mrs. James Grover and daughter, Merian, of Philadelphia, are guests at the home of L. B. Bromfield, of East Sixth street.

Raymond Barnes, of Rahway, is spending a few days with his uncle, Rev. Charles R. Barnes, D. D., of Grove street.

Miss Anderson, of Third place, gave a strawride on Wednesday evening in honor of her friend, Miss Cairns, of New York.

On Monday next, Mrs. McCormick, of Linden avenue, will move to Newark, where her two sons are engaged in business.

George M. Macintyre and family, have moved from Central avenue to East Second street, between Madison and Central avenues.

Justice and Mrs. T. R. Crosley, of Duer street, spent New Year's Day with their daughter, Mrs. Charles Scudder, of Newark.

F. L. C. Martin, of Park avenue, attended a New Year's dinner given by his partner, Fred J. Kerr, Thursday evening at Newark.

Miss Jennie Conrad, of Olean, N Y., has returned home after a pleasant sojourn with her sister, Mrs. L. E. Linderman, of East Second street.

Mrs. Albert Tilney has returned to her home in Boston after spending the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murray, of Central avenue and Eighth street.

Mrs. Stephenson R. Hope, of Richmond street, who has been ill for some time past, had a relapse on Thursday, but yesterady and today her condition was reported as much improved.

Rev. J. F. Casey, of Fredricks City, Md., who has been supplying a pulpit in New York city, stopped over in this city, on Tuesday, to visit his brother, P. Casey, of Third and New streets.

E. Burton Smith, of Islip, L. I., who has been visiting his college friend, Walter B. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street, returned to his home this morning. Mr. Rittenhouse returns to Stevens Institute on Monday.

Frank S. Depew, a former well-known resident on East Front street, and now traveling for Lever Brothers Limited Soap Manufacturers, has been visiting his mother, Mrs. E. H. Depew, of Franklin place and Putnam avenue.

Janitor S. R. Hope, of the Bryant School, celebrated the ninth year of his occupancy of his present home on Richmond street yesterday. This morning he started for a short trip to Boston, Mass., to visit relatives, but he will return in time for the opening of school early next week.

Don't worry about your health. Keep your blood pure by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and you need not fear the grip, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia or typhoid fever.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic, easy to take, easy to operate.

MAKING OF A CHURCH.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

work, and with pluck, push and patience, together with God's promises, we should do a mighty work.

"We are to use weapons forged in the Methodist Episcopal church. I love our church and I love every disciple in it.

"There ought to be a Bible in every family in our church, and our great ideal should be the saving of souls.

"I thank Dr. Barnes, Presiding Elder Smith and the mother church for their kindness, and I promise you that you shall be proud of your child."

Rev. H. J. Johnston, of the Grace M. E. church, extended fraternal greetings. His remarks were as follows:

"The thought in my mind at present is, Declaration of Independence, which is a little saucy, but very apt. In this case it has been granted to the older brother. I hope it results in the display of all his virtues. There is now a chance for the mother church to grow in grace.

"It is a pleasure for me to stand on this platform and look down on Brother O'Donnell.

"A church to be successful must be a warm one, for the church that is like an ice box is like a Manitoba blizzard. You can get more out of a man if you treat him kindly, than if you lick him.

"We should now strive to build our links stronger, and not separate them. I say God speed you. We will be with you in advancing grand old Methodism."

After the singing of a hymn, the social hour was enjoyed, during which time refreshments were served. After the social a praise service preceded the sermon, preached by Rev. G. W. Smith. His text was taken from Isaiah 44:3 4-5, and his remarks were based on the thought of the spiritual equipment of God's church.

He laid great stress on the importance of receiving the Holy Ghost and thereby possessing the real heritage of the Christian Church. The power of speech, magnetism and courage were dwelt upon, and many helpful thoughts and suggestions were given. By way of advice he urged the new church to let the baptism of God's Holy Spirit rest upon them, and to let the thought that "I belong to the Lord" settle all matter of dispute.

The closing part of the service was then devoted to praise, prayer and testimony, during which time a large number took part. Thus it was that the old year passed away and the new year came in, while in words of praise all were thanking God for His Holiness and mercy.

THEATRICAL.

Lincoln J. Carter's new play, "The Tornado" which will be presented at the Opera House on Monday evening Jan. 4th is said to be a novelty in every sense in which the word can appertain to a dramatic work. When the curtain rises on the first act it reveals a handsome setting of rustic surroundings. It is at this moment that Mr. Carter starts in on his audience, he goes right up to "High C," and stays there. The beauty of his first act setting is but a plaything for the mighty Tornado at the close of the act. The old homestead, with its outlying buildings, its grand old trees, its fragrant shrubbery, all are swept away before the awful wind which prevails. The impressive grandeur of this scene cannot be described, can hardly be imagined.

Edwin Milton Royle's new comedy drama, "Capt. Impudence," a romance of the Mexican War, will be put on at the American Theatre, New York, next Monday evening, for an extended run. It will be under the management of W. M. Wilkison, who directed the tours of the late Alexander Salvini. "Capt. Impudence" will be finely mounted and costumed and as the scenes are all laid in Mexico, it will give a chance for a wealth of picturesque coloring. Among the more prominent people who will be seen in the cast are: McKee Rankin, Robert Paton Gibbs, Edwin M. Royle, Miss Selena Fetter Royle, Amelia Bingham and Ellen Burg.

Upset an Oil Stove.

Yesterday about noon an alarm of fire was sent in from Box 15, corner of Washington and East Second streets. It was learned that Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roder's young child, while playing about the house, had upset an oil stove. Mr. Roder was home at the time and he quickly rescued his child from fatal injury, and while doing so, his hands and hair were quite badly burned. As soon as possible he threw the stove out doors, before any futher damage resulted.

—Line's five and ten cent store in the Thorn building on Somerset street is preparing to go out of business in Plainfield and will dispose of their stock at remarkably low prices to avoid moving it to Elizabeth.

Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Adams, of Grove street, entertained a number of their friends at their home last evening. A feature was a phonograph exhibition by Thomas Schaefer.

COURSE OF LECTURES BY

Prof. John Fiske,

of Cambridge, Mass.

Y. M. C. A. HALL,

Thursdays, Jan. 14th and 21s, Friday, Jan. 29th, at 8 p. m.

SUBJECTS:—

Jan. 14th—The Mystery of Evil, Viewed in the Light of the Doctrine of Evolution.

Jan. 21st—The Cosmic Roots of Love and Self-Sacrifice. (The Phi Beta Kappa Oration, delivered at Harvard University in June, 1895. It's theme was suggested by Huxley's remark—in his Romanes lecture at Oxford June, 1893—that "the cosmic process has no sort of relation to moral ends" Mr Fiske maintains the exact contrary, viz—that "cosmic process exists purely for the sake of moral ends.)

Jan. 29th—The Everlasting Reality of Religion.

Tickets for the course—$1.00 each—may be obtained at Armstrong's pharmacy—or from any member of the Club of Current Events.

No reserved seats and tickets will be sold beyond the seating capacity of the hall.

Story of Ben Hur.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., have arranged for a rare treat for their friends and the public by the engagement of the celebrated stereopticon lecturer Prof. H. Theo. Chamberlain introducing the great dramatic spectacle—Ben Hur. This is in no sense a lecture but the story graphically told and illustrated with over 100 magnificent steropticon pictures. There is not a moment of dullness in the whole evening. A crowded house may be expected.

Y. M. C. A. HALL,

Watchung Ave. & Front St., Plainfield, N. J.

TUESDAY EVENING JAN. 5, 1897.

Tickets 25c. Doors open at 7:30.

Story begins at 8 p. m. 200 seats will be reserved at 35cts. each. 1-2-2t

CASINO.

MONDAY, JAN. 4th, 1897.

LECTURE BY

PROF. WOODROW WILSON, of Princeton University, under auspices of

THE MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

Subject:—"Montesquieu, the French Political Seer." Admission Twenty-five cents. Lecture will begin promptly at 3 o'clock.

12 31—1 2

THE BEE HIVE.

Men's Unlaundered Shirts

Lot 1—The "Cast Iron Shirt," made of good heavy muslin, good 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—38c.

Lot 2—New York Mills muslin, 3-ply fine linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—48c.

Lot 3—Our New York Mills shirt, made of New York Mills muslin, 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, continuous facing and hand-made buttonholes, equal to the best custom-made shirt—69c.

Boys' unlaundered shirts, 38c.

Men's laundered shirts 50c., 75c. and $1.00

LOUIS CALLMAN

222 West Front Street.

FLORIST

A. E. LINCOLN, 226 Park Avenue,

Has a large assortment of Choice Blooming Plants, Palms and Ferns constantly in stock. Sends out nothing but the best. Everything for the Holidays in the florists' line. Evergreen Roping, Holly Wreaths, Branches and Mistletoe. Fern Jardineires and Floral Design Work a Specialty. The largest assortment of cut flowers in the city. Leave orders early.

IRVING SAVINGS INSTITUTION,

96 WARREN STREET, NEW YORK.

The Trustees of this institution have declared interest on all sums remaining on deposit during the three and six months ending December 31, 1896, at the rate of FOUR PER CENT. per annum on amounts from $1 to $3,000, payable on and after Monday, Jan. 18, 1897. Deposits made on or before Jan. 10 will draw interest from Jan. 1.

G. BYRON LATIMER, Secretary. W. H. B. TOTTEN, President.

12 30 10

P. MARKEY, Bakery,

144 PARK AVENUE.

A full assortment of bread, cakes, and pies fresh every day. Fig and malt bread a specialty. 2 17 tf

HOME BUILDING AND LOAN Association.

ORGANIZED APRIL, 1888.

Meets at Republican Headquarters, room No. 12, East Front street, on the third Monday of each month for payment of dues and interest. New series opened in April and October of each year.

Monthly dues are $1 per share. Shares $200 each. Entrance fee 25 cents per share.

Members are entitled to borrow the face value of their shares on approved real estate security.

Present receipts available for loans over $4,000 monthly.

ISAAC W. RUSHMORE, President.

S. R. Struthers, Secretary. 10 11 6m-s

YOU

who have been looking for

KID GLOVES

that will give you the wear and service that you have a right to expect,

COME TO PECK'S,

where you will find satisfaction and style at a moderate price.

--JAQUETT'S--

CLOTHING Of the Latest Style for Men, Boys' and Children. Suits and Overcoats.

SUITS and OVERCOATS. School Suits, from 75c. up.

NOVELTIES FOR CHILDREN. Full lines in Top Coats, Reefers and Separate Pants.

MEN'S FURNISHINGS. All of the latest Novelties in Ties, Collars, Shirts, Suspenders.

HOSIERY, GLOVES, UNDERWEAR.

HATS of the Latest Styles at Moderate Prices.

One Price—Cash. Money refunded if goods are not as represented.

129 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

-YOUR LAST CHANCE-

to secure the

GREATEST BARGAINS EVER OFFERED

in Plainfield. Everything

MUST BE SOLD

in two weeks. The balance of stock of

Dress Goods, Cloaks, Millinery, Notions, Hosiery, Underwear,

Corsets, Men's Furnishings, Oil-Cloths, Mattings, etc., etc., to be closed out at your own price.

LEDERER'S,

115 WEST FRONT STREET.

COLD WEATHER GOODS

AT

PUTNAM & DEGRAW'S

Underwear, Gloves, Hosiery, &c.

Agents for the "Golden Rule" CLOTHES RACK and IRONING TABLE, $1.00 each.

The Better the Food The Better the Health.

MORAL

Use my White Lable Canned Vegetables.

California Naval Oranges. Tangerines. Table Apples. Preserved Fruit. White Grapes and Lady Apples.

G. W. ROCKFELLOW,

The Park Avenue Grocer.

W. J. STEPHENSON,

The Caterer,

Has RESUMED business again at his old stand,

146 NORTH AVENUE,

Where he will be pleased to see his many friends and former customers.

EVERY THING

For the Fire-place.

MANTELS, TILES, GRATES.

SPARK GUARDS, $1.25 and up.

Curtis M. Thorpe, 310-312 Park Avenue.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

GEORGE E. ROGERS.....Lessee, | GEORGE H. WILLEY.....Manager

MONDAY, JANUARY 4th.

THE TORNADO

Lincoln J. Carter's Mammoth Scenic Production

The Awful Tornado, The Great Rigging Scene. Six Tars Furling a Monster Sail. The Collision of Two Ocean Liners at Full Speed. The Mighty Open Sea Scene, with Waves Running Mountain High. Dissecting Room of a Medical College. Chicago Harbor at Night, and many other Scenic Wonders.

"To hold as well as win success, Keep all your play-bill promises." —LINCOLN J. CARTER.

Prices 75, 50, 35, 25. Seats on sale at Box Office Saturday, Jan. 2d.

NEWMAN'S STAGE LINE TIME TABLE
Between Plainfield and Scotch Plains.

Leave Plainfield..... { 7.00; 9.30; 12.45 a. m.
Sunday—9.00; 12.30 a. m., 3.00, 6.00 p. m.
Leave Scotch Plains. { 6.30; 8.15; 10.30 a. m.
Sunday—9.45 a. m., 2.00; 4.00, 7.00 p. m.

DEPOT—FRONT STREET AND PARK AVE.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Henry Stevens went to Elizabeth last evening to attend a ball of the colored masons there.

Despite the moderate weather of the past day or two the skating on the New Market pond is yet very good.

Mrs. J. L. Book and children, of Irvington, are visiting the family of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Apgar, of High street.

Drill Engine No. 75 was on duty all of New Year's Day to be ready in case of emergency and to shift the extra cars from the incoming New York trains.

"Jake" Johnson has bought out the Emerydale station. The transfer was made the last day of the year and an entire new stock of goods has been put in the place.

In spite of the January thaw, if such it can be called, the skating continues good on the New Market pond. Yesterday some two hundred or more young people from New Market, Plainfield and other nearby places enjoyed a skate on the icy surface.

Conductor Barick was out again with his new purchase yesterday. The animal, a beautiful bay, was feeling in good trim, and the popular conductor had to take an extra twist in the reins in order to keep his spirited steed under subjection.

The home of J. G. Burdick, near New Market, came within an ace of being destroyed by fire Thursday night. The family had gathered around a beautifully trimmed Christmas tree, when the tree caught fire, and in an instant was all ablaze, and the flames setting fire to the carpet and woodwork in the room, threatened a serious conflagration. A ten-year-old niece of Mr. Burdick, from Shiloh, who was visiting there at the time, made heroic efforts to extinguish the flames, but she was unsuccessful and Mrs. Burdick rushed to her assistance. Both were badly burned about the head and hands, and the parlor carpet was damaged to the extent of about $50. Two children in the house also rendered assistance and they were both severely burned on the hands.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

The Misses Jennie and Annie Collins, of New York, are visiting their sister, Mrs. John H. Blimm.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Darby, of North Plainfield, were the guests of Mrs. Darby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Marsh.

Miss Bella McGrath, Miss May Meehan and Miss Connolly, all of Plainfield, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lee, at the West Side House during New Year's night.

If there is a sidewalk ordinance in effect in Scotch Plains it should be enforced. There is not a stone flagging to be seen and most of the walks on the main thoroughfares are almost impassable.

A 200 yard foot race took place between Mark Dowd and Dan Baker for $10 a side. Judge Clark started the men and T. Emery was referee. Dowd won by three yards. Time—24 1-5 seconds.

Eleven of the members of the Tuskin Club, from Hilton, drove over to Scotch Plains and dined at Emery's last night. The party stopped at Grogan's in Westfield at noon and drove up to the Plains, arriving there about 2:30.

A sleighing party of some twenty young people from South Plainfield had made arrangements to go to Lee's Hotel last night on a straw ride. The sleighing was too poor, however, and the trip was postponed.

About a dozen of Mr. and Mrs. J.H Blimm's friends from Plainfield and New York were present at their home on New Year's Eve, and besides enjoying a bountiful turkey supper, spent the evening in singing and other amusements.

There was music and mirth at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Marsh, New Year's Eve, the occasion being a party given in honor of Miss Ivy and Rignette Marsh. Some sixteen young ladies and gentlemen were present and engaged in the mazy waltz until Father Time had announced the dawning of the new year. Then a bountiful supper was served and the dancing was resumed to the sweet strains of Mrs. Buckley's piano playing until early morning. When the new year was announced the young people went out on the street and with merry voices and tin horn accompaniment, aroused the natives.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church did not hold a service last evening.

Highest of all in Leavening Power. —Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

BELATED CHRISTMAS FESTIVALS.

Two Churches Have a Pleasant Ending of the Year.

The Sunday-school scholars of the Mt. Olive Baptist church and their friends gathered in the church Thursday night and participated in their annual Christmas festivities.

The affair was in charge of Superintendent M. C. Dobbins, who introduced the several numbers on the programme, and he was ably assisted by the teachers of the school.

There were several pleasant features during the evening and among them was selections on a gramaphone in charge of Robert Love. The part of Santa Claus was admirably takon by Edward Wolf. Every scholar received a present consisting of dolls, toy boats and games, while ice cream and cake was served in abundance to all.

The following programme was presented creditably by the scholars: Recitations, "Christmas Eve," Annie Connett; "Santa Claus," Sadie Doyle; "Christmas Bells," Richeater Randolph; "Kris Kringle," Nolen Henry; "The Greeting," Ida Conovef; "Santa Claus and the Mouse," Bessie Mitchell; "A Christmas Song," Florence Randolph; "Peace on Earth," Mamie Doyle; "Glorious Song," Cora Pierson; "Children's Hour," Ethel Robinson; "Harry's Message," Mary Randolph; "The Star," Ida Mitchell; "If I Were Santa," Maud Green; "Said to Leaves," Ida Henry; "Christmas Tree," Kitty Wicks; "I Have Found Him," Florence Miller; "Kris Kringle's Surprise, Etta Kingslow; "Santa's Secret," Mabel Fisher; "The Mouse and the Promise," Cathie Mitchell; "The Sea," Edna Scudder; "The Happy Day," Sarah Scott; vocal solo, "Lightly Row," William Connett; vocal duet, "Softly the Night," Mamie Kline and Ida Conover; song, "Christ Our King," infant class; duet, "Caterpillars," Ivory Henry and N. Henry; duet, Miss Randolph and Miss Ethel Henry.

The Sunday school scholars of All Souls' church, Park avenue, passed a very pleasant time yesterday afternoon celebrating their Christmas festivities. There was a goodly number of scholars and friends present who were pleased to see the former enjoy themselves.

The Sunday-school room was prettily decorated with evergreens and two Christmas trees, while an improvised platform was arranged upon which the following scholars gave recitations: Harold Brownell, Grace Osgood, Laura Osgood, Ethel Kerl, Harold Hegeman, Dorothea Wells, Irving Buckle, Joseph Osgood and Grace Woolston.

The part of Santa Claus was well taken by Gordon Kerl, who gave each scholar a substantial present.

PASSING COMMENT.

F. S. Runyon, cashier of the First National Bank, has been in the employ of the bank for twenty-nine years this month.

* * * *

W. E. Brock, of Mountain avenue, has in course of construction in the borough a sectional house, which can be put up and taken down at pleasure. It is a very complete affair and is the only one of the kind in this section of the State.

* * * *

Many an unsuspecting youth and young woman will still continue to date their letters "1896." It should be borne in mind that this is another year later in the history of the Christian world, and that letters now dated "1896" may be taken by the recipients as having been a year old.

* * * *

New Year's calling in this city seems to be a thing of the past. In years gone by many of the residences in town had beautiful and artistic card baskets suspended from the front door knobs, but this year very few were seen hanging from the knobs. This is a sure evidence that New Year's calling is not in vogue or public favor as it was some eight or nine years ago

Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits.' Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

ALL OVER THE TOWN

NEWS IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS THAT INTEREST ALL PLAINFIELDERS.

Gathered by Enterprising Press Reporters From Both Sides of the Brook and Tersely Served for Your Perusal.

—This evening the Scandia Society will open their hall for dancing by the Junior Society.

—At Grace M. E church tomorrow evening the Christmas Sunday service will be repeated.

—The Christmas service held at the First Baptist church last Sunday morning will be repeated tomorrow evening.

—The regular meeting of the McAll Auxiliary will be held at the Library on Wednesday morning, January 6th, at eleven o'clock.

—One of the handsomest calendars received at The Press office is that of Weeks & Parr, flour merchants, No. 4 State street, New York.

—Workmen are engaged today laying the wires for lighting and other electrical purposes in the new City National Bank building.

—Crane & Clark, the outfitters, of 120 West Front street, have just received a large line of lined dogskin gloves for very small boys. You should see them.

—The safety deposit vaults of the First National Bank are convenient and safe for people who have valuables that they do not want to keep around the house.

—Stakes were driven Thursday for the new fire department building on Harrison street, North Plainfield, this morning. Pope Brothers, of the borough, have the contract.

—Although it is some distance off, the Mountain Park Inn will be open again on June 1st and it is stated upon most excellent authority that the trolley will be run to and pass the Inn before that time.

—The Board of Education of North Plainfield have purchased through F. S. Menzel, of West Front street, a Kranich & Back, baby-grand piano, for use in the Public High School. The piano is expected to arrive this week.

—A half-dozen colored lads were at the North Avenue station yesterday morning asking nickels from passengers and others by wishing them a Happy New Year. One of the boys said he gathered in 85 cents, and another got 40 cents.

—The Park Club challenge trophy was played for again last Monday evening. The Ridgewood Whist Club, who held the cup, played the team from the North End Club, of Newark, and defeated them by one point. The team from the Passiac Club will play for it on next Monday evening.

Married at Netherwood.

A home wedding took place Wednesday evening last, at 7 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nielson, of South avenue, Netherwood, when their daughter, Marie, was united in marriage to William Hosinger, of Scotch Plains, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hosinger. The Rev. S. P. Simpson, pastor of St. Stephen's church, officiated. The bridemaid was Miss Minnie Hosinger, sister of the groom and the best man was Charles Hallfeld, of Cornwall on-the-Hudson.

The Cadi's New Year's Party.

City Judge DeMeza had his little New Year's party yesterday and this morning. Otto Fathoven and Tunis Vail were locked up Thursday night for being drunk and disorderly and fined $3 each yesterday morning. George Debring was also fined $3 this morning for the same offence. The trial of Peter Seader for violating the hack ordinance came up this morning, and the judge reserved his decision for a week.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1896. A. W. Gleason, Notary Public. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. Cheney, & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

X The flowers that bloom to please the eye and cheer the heart, are gone, but we have their fragrance preserved, and for sale, in bottles; prices from 10c. to $8.00, ONE QUALITY ONLY—size and kind of package making difference in price. Best value we ever offered.

MAS

Successor H. P. REYNOLDS. T. S. ARMSTRONG, "THE APOTHECARY." Park and North avenues.

—Patrolman Hartpence has returned to night duty, as Patrolman Flanagan has recovered from his illness and is now able to go on day duty.

German Conversation Method.

I will commence the week after New Year's, a class in German Conversation, the object being to enable the student to follow light conversation, which would be of benefit in traveling in Germany or for business purposes The method used condences grammatical expression as a foundation for conversation. The course consists of 40 lessons (60 hours) twice a week (number limited.)
Terms for the course $30.00.
Address REV. E. KIONKA,
325 West Second street.

Randolph Runyon,
Funeral Director,
Residence, Over Office. Office 43 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J.

H. DeMott,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J
Calls promptly attended to day or night. White and black hearses. Coaches latest style.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

TO LET—Store and rooms above, now occupied by Justice Newcorn, 110 West Front street. Inquire Samuel Drier, pawnbroker, corner Front street and Madison avenue. 1 2 tf

LOST—Wednesday morning, on Norwood avenue or vicinity, a pocket-book containing commutation ticket and sum of money. Reward for return to 91 Mercer avenue. 1 2-1

LOST—Brown horse blanket, Thursday night about 8:30 on Central avenue or West Seventh street. Suitable reward. Dr. W. C. Boone, 450 West Seventh street. 1 2-2

WANTED—Girl for general housework. Good wages to good girl 39 Albert street. 1 2 tf

TO LET—Handsome store on West Front street. Inquire Manning's City Marble Works.

LAUNDRESS—A lady leaving town desires to procure for her laundress, reliable white woman, employment one or two days first of the week. Address Mrs. L. G., Press Office.

LARGE and small furnished rooms, heated, with first-class board, gas, bath, at moderate rates. 529 West Front street. 1 2 3

LOST—On New Year's day, lady's small gold watch marked W. B. T. to C. H. H. If found please return to Press office. Finder suitably rewarded. 1 2 2

LOST—Fire Department badge No. 15. Finder will be rewarded if left with Chief Doane.

WANTED—Days work; washing and ironing or plain sewing. Call in the rear 536 West Third street. 1 2 2

IF YOU have a vacant lot I can exchange it for improved property bringing in good interest on investment. Lyman, 171 North avenue. 12 31 2

UNIMPROVED lots to exchange for improved property. Lyman, 171 North avenue. 12 31 3

GOOD position offered to lady or gentleman with acquaintance with good people in Plainfield. Salary or commission. Call on S. D. Drake, Bound Brook. 12 31 3

50 ACRE farm 1 mile from Bound Brook station, ripe for subdivision, to exchange for Plainfield property. 12 31 2

WANTED—Competent girl to do general housework. 1009 Putnam avenue. 12 31 2

HOUSE TO LET—Complete order, $8 per month. G. F. White, 116 West Front street, tea store. 12 31 2

85 ACRE farm near Somerville to exchange for Plainfield property. 15 rooms and bath, everything in fine order. Lyman, 171 North avenue. 12 31 2

FOR SALE OR TO LET—No. 120 West Fourth street, store and dwelling combined and brick stable; been used for the last five years as bakery. E.C. Mulford, broker, owner. 12 26 tf

TO LET—Elegant 6 room apartments, Jackson building, steam heat, janitor service, halls carpeted, heated and lighted. Rent reasonable, particulars at Packer's furniture store. 11 23 tf

FOR SALE—On easy terms, house on East Front street, 7 rooms, good cellar and furnace, 5 minutes from North avenue station. Lyman, 171 North avenue. 12 31 2

FIRST CLASS help and first class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 23 Somerset place. 11-10-1y

LOANS negotiated. E. C. Mulford, Broker 7 2 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, Broker. tf

HORSES boarded by the month. Terms reasonable. W. H. Rogers Washingtonville. 916tf

Plainfield's Busiest Store.

We sell goods cheaper than any Plainfield store.

January 1897.

Our January Sales.

Mean much to the shrewd buyers. Tis' closing out time with us on all winter goods that you will want and a little money goes a great way. Our prices are always satisfactory to the purchasers and the great reductions we have made render them additionally attractive.

Dress Goods.

No stock in the store shows greater reduction in prices that dress goods, not an old piece among them and some only arrived yesterday.
We sell—54-in. broad cloth, twilled back in all the new spring shades, 49c. the yard. 54-in. boucle cloth in seven different colorings, 6 yards make a full suit and only costs you $2.94 for the pattern. 54-in all wool fancy suiting, just the thing for street wear, former price 75c., now 37c.

Hosiery and Underwear.

Are as staple as wheat but all heavy weights must go and go at half the price others ask—Ladies' fine cashmere hose, 15c. the pair; Men's fine wool half hose, 13c. the pair; Ladies' fine ribbed vests and pants 23c. each; Mens natural wool shirts and drawers, 25c each; Children's fine cashmere hose in colors, 12c. the pair; Children's ribbed combination suits, 25c. per suit.

Special.

100 Doz. ladies balbriggan hose, the 25c. kind, 12c. pair. 100 Doz. Ladies black hose extra heavy, actual value 35c., at 19c.

Gloves.

Such Glove selling Plainfield never saw before. Over 2000 pairs of fine silk and cashmere gloves, importers samples and every pair worth double 25c. the pair.

Ladies Coats and Capes.

Over a hundred coats and capes for ladies and they go at cost and below. Your choice of the entire line $3.98. Were $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00 each.

Specials to be seen at Attractive prices.

100 Pairs of fine lace curtains white or cream 89c. pair. Fine curtain nets in figured and spots for sash curtains 13c. the yard. Adjustable sash curtain rods 10c. each. 50 Doz. fine huck towels, the 25c. kind 13c. Children's wool skating caps, were 50 and 75c. Now 29c. Heavy outing flannel in all colors 6c. yd. Heavy cream outing flannel 5c. yd. Chenille rugs, size 18 by 36, 49c. each. Japanese jute rugs, 18 by 36, 34c. each.

EDWARD WHITE.

WALL PAPER
"A word to the wise is efficient."
From 3c.
Buy from the manufacturer and save middlemen's profits.
On receipt of postal card a fine assortment of SAMPLES sent to ANY ADDRESS.
To $2
Warerooms, 211 215 North Ave.
EDW. LOVE,

- BOEHM'S !-

Beginning MONDAY, Jan. 4th, we will inaugurate our annual sale of
HOUSEKEEPING LINENS, TOWELS, NAPKINS, SPREADS, SHEETS and PILLOWS
at our usually low figures.

We also call your special attention to the great mark-down sale in our
CLOAK, CAPE AND SUIT DEPARTMENT.
All kinds of Cloaks and Capes must be sold, if prices have anything to do with it. Our principle not to carry over any garment whatever, will be adhered to to the letter. Shrewd buyers in search of bargains will not miss this opportunity at

- BOEHM'S, -
113 WEST FRONT STREET.

Did anyone tell you to buy SLIPPERS for Xmas Presents? If so, we have what you want at the right price.
Don't forget we have HANAN SHOES for Ladies.

A. WILLETT AND SON
NO. 107 PARK AVE.

THE WILD SOWER.

Up and down the land I go,
Through the valley, over hill;
Many a pleasant ground I sow,
Never one I reap or till;
Fan and flail I never wield,
Leave no hayrick in the field.

Farmer goes with leathern scrip,
Fills the harrowed earth with seed;
In the selfsame score I slip
Germs of many a lusty weed;
Though I scatter in his track,
I possess nor bin nor sack.

He sows wheat, and I sow tare,
Rain and sunshine second toil;
Tame and wild these acres share,
Wrestling for the right of soil;
I stand by and clap my hands,
Cheering on my urchin bands.

Mine the cockle in the rye,
Thorhed thistle, large and fine,
And the daisy's white-fringed eye,
And the dodder's endless twine;
Mine those fingers five that bind
Every blade and stalk they find.

Mine the lilies, hot and bright,
Setting summer meads on fire;
Mine the silkweed's spindles white,
Spinning autumn's soft attire.
Goldenrod and aster then
I bring up by bank and glen.

Whoso fleeth to the woods,
Whoso buildeth on the plains,
I, too, seek those solitudes,
Leading on my hardy trains;
Thorn and brier, still man's lot,
Crowd around the frontier cot.

Many serve me, unaware—
Shaggy herds that ceaseless roam,
And the rovers of the air
Passing to their winter home;
More than these upon me wait—
Wind and water bear my freight.

Thus, a sower wild, I go,
Trafficking with every clime,
Still the fruitful germs I sow
That shall vex your harvest-time;
Otherwise, ye toil-stooped men,
Eden's ease were come again!
—Edith M. Thomas, in Journal of Education.

A DEEP-WATER GHOST.

BY PAUL PASTNOR.

We were four bronzed, jolly sportsmen, who happened to meet during the partridge shooting season at a little hostelry in the southern part of Virginia. There was a real old-fashioned fireplace in the waiting room of the hotel, and here we used to gather every evening to smoke our cigars, compare notes on the sport of the day, and "swap yarns."

I remember in particular the story that Lloyd told us, the night before we parted. It was unique and weird. Lloyd was a tremendously big, athletic fellow, and he had a way of saying things in that deep bass voice of his that made them doubly impressive.

He had been sitting for some time with his chin on his hand, looking steadily into the open fire. Benson had been telling a rather commonplace ghost story, and the rest of us had dutifully oh-d and ah-d and pretended to shiver at the proper places, but Lloyd said never a word. When silence settled upon the little group once more, however, Lloyd sat up in his chair, uncrossed his feet, and remarked:

"Now, boys, I am going to tell you a ghost story the like of which you never heard before, and the best of it is it's all true, for it happened to me exactly as I shall tell it.

"When I was in Sweden, some 15 years ago, I had an opportunity to do considerable gunning, as my friend and host was a landed proprietor and controlled the hunting and fishing rights of a large and valuable territory. In this tract was one large lake, called Lake Fryksdal, which abounded in fine fish, particularly pike of a remarkable size. Hovering over this lake almost constantly were a few pairs of whitish-gray birds which the Swedes call sea-eagles — great, magnificent, broad-winged creatures, whose food consisted of the large fish that were so plentiful in the waters of their habitat.

"I had a strong desire to shoot one of these birds, although I knew them to be held in almost sacred esteem by the inhabitants, who believed that if anyone should kill one of them, he would be haunted by the sprite of the bird as long as he lived. But not being the least bit superstitious, my passion for obtaining a specimen of each new bird or animal I came across in my travels easily overcame all scruples, and I forthwith laid my plans to secure one of the sea-eagles.

"I shall never forget the circumstances connected with the shooting of this bird. It was a bright, still afternoon. I had been lying for hours behind a large rock on the shore of the lake waiting for one of the birds to come within range of my fowling-piece. A pair of them were sailing hither and thither above the surface of the lake, waiting for an opportunity to pounce upon some pike or other fish that might be sunning itself at the top of the water. At length I saw one of the eagles drop like a shot from a height of more than 100 feet, and strike the water in a cloud of foam and spray. The next moment he rose, bearing a good-sized fish in his talons, and flew heavily toward the shore. My heart began to thump against my ribs, as I saw that, if the eagle held to his course, he would pass almost directly over the place where I lay concealed. Crouching down, I waited for the shadow which I knew must precede the bird, as he was flying between me and the sun.

"At length it came—a big, slowly-traveling blot of darkness—and the moment it passed me on the shingle of the beach, I leaped up, with both barrels of my gun cocked and ready. There, scarcely 40 yards away, and a little to the left, the eagle loomed in the clear, sun-lit air. The gun sprang to my shoulder, and a quick, loud report rang out on the silence. With an almost human scream, the bird dropped the fish from his talons, and came sailing down with outspread, quivering wings, graceful even unto death. Slowly he settled upon the beach, wings extended. I dashed towards him. The great wings were vibrating silently on the stones. The head and neck had fallen prone in the weakness and stupor of death. Even as I stood over my victim, the eyes of the great bird met mine with a glance which I shall never forget—reproachful, pleading, accusing, condemning. I fairly shivered and turned away my eyes. It was a look to haunt a man his life long. But when I turned again the eyes had glazed, and the magnificent white eagle was stretched out in the motionless beauty of death.

"When I took my prize home, my host said, sadly, and more than half seriously: 'I am sorry you killed the bird. He will haunt you to the day of your death.' I laughed carelessly, yet somehow my heart misgave me, and it was weeks before I could get over a certain apprehensive uneasiness that pursued me even in my dreams.

"I spent the ensuing winter and spring in Stockholm; but with the return of another summer my friend in the country invited me most cordially to repeat my visit at his fine old estate, and as I knew he really wanted me to come, I had neither heart nor reason to decline.

"The weather during July was exceedingly warm, and during our frequent fishing trips to Lake Fryksdal my friends and I often refreshed ourselves by taking a dip in the clear waters. One afternoon, as we were fishing off shore near the place where I had shot my eagle, I said to my host with bantering triumph: 'Well, a year has passed, and I haven't seen the ghost of that sacred eagle yet!'

"'Never mind,' was the reply, 'you will see it yet. Mark my words. It will come to you some time when you least expect it.'

"I laughed and proposed that we take a swim, as the sun was getting up very warm, and the fish were not biting at all. My friends assented, so we undressed and plunged into the lake. I dove straight down, and, catching hold of the jagged end of a large rock, opened my eyes to look about me for a moment.

"Never, if I live to be a hundred, will the sight that met my eyes at that instant be effaced from memory. Coming toward me, silently, and yet with incredible swiftness, was the bleached and snowy skeleton of a gigantic bird, with wings outstretched! It made no ripple, no pulsation of the water. It seemed to have no means of propulsion, for the ghostly wings were rigid and motionless. Yet on it came, swift and still; and, to my horrified imagination, in the whited sockets of the skull gleamed those same reproachful, condemning eyes which the dying eagle had turned upon me a year ago.

"To say that I was fairly paralyzed with fear but inadequately describes my condition. Though beginninig to suffer for lack of air, I could not to save me have let go my grasp of the rock. I was fascinated, enchained. Every muscle in my body was rigid and beyond control of the brain. And still that horrible, mysterious specter was coming toward me, and I could neither avoid it or ward it off.

"How long I clung there, suffocating and helpless, I know not. I only know that, just as the water-ghost was about to strike me in the face, a lithe, white form flashed in between, a strong hand seized my arm and I was dragged forcibly up to the surface of the water. Then I lost consciousness, and the next thing I remember was being rolled over and over on the back and punched in the ribs, and then opening my eyes on the pale, anxious face of my friend, who had dived down and saved me.

"When, an hour or two later, I told him the story of my deep-water aparition, he smiled incredulously, even as he said: 'Did I not tell you you would see it some time?'

"But the mystery was solved a few days later, when, picking up a Stockholm paper, I read the following paragraph:

"'A GHASTLY TROPHY.

"'A recent writer tells what may be truly regarded as one of the most curious incidents of natural history. In some of the Swedish lakes, he says, large birds of prey are in the habit of swooping down on the pike basking at the surface of the water. In these cases, if the pike be more powerful than the bird, the latter, unable to extricate his talons, is borne to the bottom and drowned. Incredible as the story seems, Eckstrom, Rev. Mr. Moller, and other writers, state that the flesh of the pike heals with the talons of the bird in its back, while the bird becomes converted into a skeleton, which is carried about by the pike. One skeleton, which had long been exhibited by a pike in Lake Wetter, had acquired a greenish tinge and was regarded by the fishermen as a harbinger of misfortune.'" —Detroit Free Press.

A Heroine of the Albert Medal.

Miss Hannah Rosbotham is the only woman who has received the Albert medal. This lady was, and still is, assistant school mistress at the Sutton National schools, St. Helens, Lancashire. On October 14, 1881, the stone belfry of the school was blown down during a terrific gale of wind, and fell through the roof into the infant school room, where nearly 200 children were assembled, causing the death of one and injuring many others. The moment this mass of masonry had fallen the schoolroom and its gallery were filled with stones, slate and timber. Whilst others had fled for safety, Miss Rosbotham, who at the time of the accident was teaching elsewhere, deliberately went in among the fallen mass and clouds of dust, and, while fully conscious of the extreme danger to which she was exposed, remained on the spot until every child had been placed in safety. At the imminent risk of her own life this heroine of 23 removed four infants who were partially covered with the debris and also rescued therefrom a little girl who was completely buried and who must inevitably have been suffocated had not such gallantry been displayed.—Strand.

Orange Jelly.

One box gelatine dissolved in a kitchen cupful of water. In one hour's time pour on this a cupful of boiling water. Stir until melted, then add two cups of sugar, a stick of cinnamon, the grated rind of an orange and a lemon, the juice of three oranges and a lemon and a cup of sherry. If one objects to the wine more lemon juice may be substituted. Strain through a cloth and pour into molds.—Brooklyn Eagle.

BRITANNIA'S ESTATES.

An English Journal Takes Occasion to Do a Little Bragging.

It is safe to say that never has a monarch been called upon to reign over a realm of greater extent or wider influence than that which acknowledges Victoria as queen and empress.

The British isles alone consist of not far short of 1,000 distinct islands or islets. Their area is 121,115 square miles, forming the boundaries within which some 38,500,000 males and nearly 19,500,000 females live, move, and have their being.

The British empire is a political creation without parallel in the world's history. It is scattered here, there and everywhere, with an area approaching 10,000,000 square miles. Its 400,000,000 inhabitants represent all degrees and phases of civilization. The queen's Christian subjects are in the minority, there being 200,000,000 Hindoos, some 70,000,000 Mohammedans and 8,000,000 Buddhists. Something like 130 languages and dialects are spoken in this vast realm, in each of which the Bible is printed.

The union jack now floats triumphantly over a continent, 100 peninsulas, 100 promontories, 1,000 lakes, double that number of rivers, and no less than 10,000 islands. This stupendous estate enables the Britisher to perform a feat which the natives of no other nation can imitate—to circumnavigate the globe and touch a portion of the national possessions the whole journey. Sailing from England, he makes for Halifax, N. S., dashes across Canada to Vancouver, thence by the Pacific to Hong Kong. Resuming his way, he halts at Singapore, Penang, Mauritus, Cape Town, St. Helena, the last place being the last stoppage ere Britain's white cliffs are reached. There is, however, an alternate route after arriving at Penang; thence he can go to Ceylon, Bombay, Adan, Perim, Malta, Gibraltar, and home again.

All zones are embraced in the British empire, from the icy wilderness of Hudson Bay to the tropical jungles of India. There is scarcely a product of commercial value which a British province does not bring forth in the highest perfection. Notwithstanding the diversified elements comprised in this enormous organization, the government, with very rare exceptions, maintains order, and there is no apparent sign of dissolution.

Without a doubt the most splendid jewel in the queen's crown is the Indian empire, which is equal in size, if we exclude Russia, to the continent of Europe. Its population, bordering on 300,000,000, is composed of a variety of distinct nationalities, professing a multitude of religions, practicing diverse rites, and speaking different tongues. Official reports state that there are over 100 distinct languages, as apart from dialects, spoken in India. Many of the races are further divided by discordant prejudices, conflicting social usages and antagonistic material interests. The diversified elements constituting the Indian possessions represent, according to a late governor-general, an complicated a social and political organization as ever taxed human ingenuity to govern and administer.

Australia, although considerably larger than India, comes second in importance among Britannia's estates across the seas. The Australian colonies have progressed by leaps and bounds during the last generation, but their present greatness and importance give but the slightest indication of the future which awaits them. There can be no doubt that they are destined to rival European countries in wealth, population and the qualities which make a great nation. There are huge tracts of country still undeveloped, and when that great drawback, the limited water supply, is completely conquered, Australia will simply forge ahead.

By the way, New South Wales has the credit of having produced the largest lump of gold that human eyes have yet beheld. It was found in May, 1872, and its statistics were thus developed: Weight, 640 pounds; width, 3 feet 2 inches; height, 4 feet 9 inches, and last, but most important of all, its value was no less than $150,000. Who would not willingly undergo an attack of gold fever if certain of finding a similar nugget?—London Mail.

Floating Sanitariums.

The sanitarium at sea is a European idea. A large steamer especially fitted up for the accommodation of invalids in need of fresh air and a favorable climate is to be constructed by a ship-owning association. The ship is to be in constant employment for eight or nine months in the year, but for at least three months out of the twelve she will go into dock in order to be thoroughly cleansed and disinfected. It is proposed to make this steamer, which is to be the forerunner of a large fleet similarly equipped, a veritable floating palace in the matters of both comfort and salubrity. Although skilled advice and nursing will always be available, the accompaniments of a sanitarium will be kept as much as possible in the background. The prominent idea to be carried out in this new departure is the isolation of a dangerous class, with the least possible amount of discomfort to its members; and, furthermore, that by a judicious timing of moves the sufferers will be afforded a chance of recovery under the most favorable climatic conditions, which it would be difficult to secure otherwise. A list of anchorages has been made, all of which have their special seasons. As soon as any undesirable change of weather is imminent at the port of stopping, the ship will sail for a more salubrious climate.—Washington Star.

Like a Cyclone.

"Our party will sweep this country like a whirlwind," shouted the leather-tongued orator from the stump.

"I guess if wind'll sweep her you'll get there," came from the granger with a reserved seat on a barrel.—De

The Queen's Speech.

London, Jan. 2.—The queen's speech opening the coming session of parliament will, it is generally believed, refer to a closer union between Great Britain and the colonies, and will indicate the views of the government in the matter.

Funeral of Joseph B. McCullagh.

St. Louis, Jan. 2.—The funeral of Joseph B. McCullagh, late editor of the Globe-Democrat, will take place this afternoon. Services will be conducted by Rev. John Snyder of the Unitarian Church of the Messiah.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

The Portland Range doesn't lack a single thing—it's "range perfection"

Stock Taking Time

most here. Every part of our big furniture stock—including stoves, carpets, oil cloths—put at genuine stock-taking prices.

This makes a right splendid opportunity for you to get things at far less cost than will be possible later on.

Parlor Suits

marked $25.00: Sale price, $17.00, others marked $35.00: Sale price $25. also one of each of 10 different suits, were $75.00---now $50.00 the suit.

Large Lot of Chairs

---will dispose of certain patterns at nearly cost---an unprecedented opportunity.

Carpets

About every weave on the floor has been changed in price, to YOUR decided advantage---no room for details, call and get 'em.

Bedroom Suits

Were $15.00: Sale price $10.75, others $35.00: Sale price $25.00.

Extension Tables

A $6.00 make, $4.25
A 10.00 make, 7.00
A 12.00 make, 8.00
A 50.00 make, 30.00

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

NOTE NAME AMOS AND NO. 73 BEFORE ENTERING STORE

73 Market St.

Near Plane Street
NEWARK, N. J.

Telephone 580

Goods Delivered Free.

IS YOUR EYESIGHT DEFECTIVE?

There is no safer, surer or cheaper method of obtaining proper relief for over strained and defective eyesight, headache and so forth than to consult this Specialists. The happy results from correctly fitted glasses are a grateful surprise to persons who have not before known the real profit to themselves in wearing good glasses. No charge to examine your eyes. All glasses guaranteed.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,
EYE SPECIALISTS.

H. A. STILES will be at 107 East Front street, Dunham's real estate office, every THURSDAY, from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 30 CENTS.
PRIMES, $1 AND $1,50 PER HUNDRED.
-AT ROGERS.-

Have You Bought Your OVERCOAT?

If not, come to WERNER'S CLOTHING HOUSE and take advantage of the CUT SALE now going on.

STOCK MUST BE SOLD.

Hats and Furnishing Goods a Specialty.

H. WERNER, Clothier,

No. 206 West Front Street.

An Enormous Saving in Money

It is really a fact that every man, woman or child who deals with us saves money. We actually sell all qualities of honest, substantial clothing for men, boys and children at prices 40 to 50 per cent lower than any of our competitors. There's no nonsense about this statement: we mean it. We'll prove it to you any time. There's method in our madness and here's a trade secret we'll let you into; it pays us: Quick sales at small profits is our only trade secret. We buy for net spot cash and save 25 per cent in buying, which we give our customers. We ask at least 25 per cent less profit than any dealer in Plainfield. Our customers are our partners. We give them this lion's share of the profit. If you deal with us once you will always. Try it between now and Saturday night.

SPECIAL

300 all-wool Men's Kersey, Melton or Beaver Overcoats, satin lined throughout, worth $22.00, at $7.90; 150 men's all-wool overcoats, worth $14.00, at $5.90; 100 overcoats, worth $10.00, at $4.50; heavy all-wool suits, worth $12.00, at $4.50; and 1,000 other articles that we cannot mention for want of space.

New York Clothing Company,

214 WEST FRONT STREET.

M. WEINBERGER.

Near Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

Telephone, Brooklyn, 366.

COMINS & EVANS

Acorn Brand Asphalt Roofing.

Gravel and Metal Roofing, Tile and Brick Roofing, Water-Tight Cellars.

45 WAVERLY AVE, BROOKLYN, N. Y

New York office, 102 Fulto

OUR LOSS IS YOUR GAIN.

We want to close out our Toys at once, and have made prices so they will go. Don't fail to come and see us before buying your CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

We have Sleds, Hobby Horses, Tables, Blackboards, Dolls, Iron Toys, Tin Toys, Express Wagons, Desks, Chairs, Tree ornaments, Linen and Paper, Books, Photograph Albums, Shaving Sets, Pocketbooks, Wood Toys, Games, Candles, &c.

LINE & CO., 37 SOMERSET ST.

Christmas Specialties AT NEUMAN BROS.,

Fancy olives, Gordon & Dilnarths, Heinzs & Brick's mince meats, Franco-American, Gordon & Dilnarth's, Richardson & Robbins plum pudding and sauce; fancy table raisins, stuffed prunes; stuffed dates; chrystalized fruits, figs and dates; Malaga grapes; fancy table apples; nuts of all varieties, Grenable walnuts, 2lbs. for 25c; new mixed nuts 2lbs. for 25c; all kinds of fancy imported cheese; Van Rossen Brothers Edam cheese, 90c; a select lot of fancy celery.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE

of the entire stock of GEO. A. HALLOCK, 109 W. Front St.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS,

Hats, Gloves, Trunks, Umbrellas, Etc., all New Goods and Up-to-Date.

MUST BE SOLD AT ONCE.

12 22 tf

J. F. MACDONALD, Assignee.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street

Time Table in Effect NOVEMBER 15th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 3 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 20, 6 59 7 20, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 20, 8 38, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 11 10 a m; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 43, 5 22, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p. m. Sunday, 3 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 16, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30 5 36, 7 01, 8 13 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 20, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 20, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 50, 8 00, 8 33, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 11 10, a m; 12 03, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 32, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28 p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 36, 7 01 8 13 8 32 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 1s, 7 18, 7 55, 8 3s, 9 03 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 35 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 25, 5 42, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30 11 25 a m; 1 10, 1 35; 2 50, 4 05, 5 40, 7 20, 9 20, 10 2 Passengers for Newark please change car at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 40, 2 12, 2 32, 3 35, 4 36, 5 08, 5 1s, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 18, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p m; 12 44 night Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 03, 3 43 5 14, 6 35, 10 35, 7 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 20, 7, 7 30, 7 38 7 45, 8 19 9 08, 9 48, 11 45 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 3 28, 4 25, 5 28, 5 08 6 35, 8 07, 8 50, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 28, 9 45, 10 45 a m; 12 08, 1 20, 5 10, 6 35, 7 53, 8 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m; 12 40, 3 11, 4 54, 6 15, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 54, a m; 12 33, 4 04, 6 05, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 02 a m; 6 30 7 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 54 a. m; 5 05, 5 15 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

8 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 40 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

3 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

5 08 p. m., way for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

6 15 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor Allentown Mauch Chunk Scranton, Wilkesbarre Tamaqua, Shamokin, (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 28 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 14 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.,

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m. 1 15, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, p. m. Sunday, (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a. m.; 3 20 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 32, 8 13, 10 04, 10 27 a. m. 1 15, 3 12, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 20 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m.; 1 15 3 51, 5 32 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44 9 48, 10 44 a. m.; 3 17, 5 34* 6 46, 8 21, 9 37* 1 17 night, Sundays—3 17, 5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 3 15, 4 55, 5 14* p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44, 9 48, a. m. 12 46, 3 17, 4 55, 5 34*, 6 39*, 8 21, 9 37* p.m., 1 17 night. Sundays 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m., 3 15, 4 55, 5 14*, p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a. m., 3 17, 5 34*, p. m., 1 17. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, p. m., 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 6:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p.m.

Somerville and Easton Mails

Arrive—6:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

HOTEL TUILERIES !

AND ROGER'S RESTAURANT,

139-141 East Front street.

ROOMS TO LET. CATERING.

Right in the Heat.

Now is the time you need Stoves, &c. We are clearing out the odds and ends of Heating Stoves, Zines, Hods, Sleds, Skates, &c., cheap.

The J. P. Laire Hardware Co

Telephone Call 49 E. 9 8 1y

P. H. ZIMMER,

Practical Machinist and Engineer,

Steam, Gas and Electric Contracting. Complete Power Plants Installed. Experimental work. General Jobbing. All kinds of repairing. EXCHANGE ALLEY, in rear of Trinity church. Bicycles built to order. 12

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss Helen B. Dunham,

TEACHER OF PIANO AND ORGAN.

Pupil of a German Professor. For reference address, Prof. John C. Bergner, Clinton, New Jersey. Call on or address Miss Helen B. Dunham, Dunellen, New Jersey. s 20 6m

MISS FAWCETT'S SCHOOL AND Kindergarten.

25 Washington avenue.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Boys received until 10 years of age.

NEW DESIGNS
LARGE VARIETY.

HIGH GRADE

PARLOR HEATERS,

Stoves, Ranges and Oil Heaters

OUR PRICES ARE LOW.

Hardware, Heater and Furnace Work.

A. M. GRIFFEN.

119 E. Front st. Telephone 6

TOWNSEND'S

Marble and Granite Works,

SOMERSET STREET.

Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

FRANK DAY,

114 WEST SIXTH ST.,

(Near Park Avenue.)

Livery and boarding stable in al its branches all kinds of turnouts night or day at short notice. Horses boarded by day, week or month. Telephone No. 152. 9 10 tf mailed free. Patents quickly procured and sold. Lowest liberal terms. Gen. Rufus King superintends selling department. Consultation free. Call or write Clark, Deemer & Co., 189 Broadway, New York. Percy C. Ohl, Babcock Building, Plainfield, represents this firm.

"HINTS TO INVENTORS"

Oysters !

The North Plainfield Sea Food Market are selling first-class Oysters and all kinds of Fish at very reasonable prices.

Coddington & Ackerman.

7 15 1y

Get Your Turkeys, Chickens and Ducks for the holidays at

W. L. & J. M. Smalley,

94 Somerset street.

Telephone Call, 42b.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry orders will receive your work.

Hillier & Co.,

North ave., Plainfield.

Telephone 30M

M. Powers & Son.

Superior quality of

LEHIGH COAL.

No 2 Coal Only $3.75 'n the Y

A No. 1 Kindling Wood

Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp railroad station.

RUDOLPH KERSTING

BAKER AND CONFECTIONER

201-203 West Front Street.

TRY OUR NEW ENGLAND AND HOME MADE BREAD.

VIENNA BREAD A SPECIALTY.

Charlotte de Russe, Cream Puffs, Chocolate Eclair, all kinds of Pastry and Cakes, FRESH EVERY DAY.

Delivery to any part of the City or Borough at any time.

Store Open Evenings.

Useful Holiday Presents.

Desks, Tables,
Easy Chairs, Rockers, etc.
Fine China,
Elegant Lamps,
Fancy Pottery.

G. Q. PACKER. J. W. GAVETT.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Call at

J. F. MACDONALD'S

The Uptown Grocery.

And be convinced that it is our aim to supply the people with the best goods at the lowest prices and that we now have a full line of all the new goods necessary to make your order complete.

Musc Raisins,	3 lbs. for 25cts.		Figs,	10 cts. per lb.
Table "	5 " " 50 "		English Walnuts,	15 " "
Currants,	3 " " 25 "		Paper Shell Almonds,	25 " "
Cal. Prunes,	2 " " 25 "		Pecans,	18 " "
" Apricots,	2 " " 25 "		Filberts,	15 " "

A choice lot of apples $1.75 a barrel.

JAS. R. BLAIR.

126 Park Avenue,

Has a fine assortment of Neckties, Mufflers, Umbrellas, Silk Handkerchiefs, Gloves, &c.,

Ready for the Holidays.

POWLISON & JONES'

FURNITURE WAREROOMS,

149-151 EAST FRONT ST.

PRESENTS

A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF USEFUL HOLIDAY GIFTS.

IT WILL INTEREST YOU TO LOOK THEM OVER.

Open Evenings.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.

177 NORTH AVENUE.

SPECIAL SALE AT CRANE & CLARK'S,

Hat and Furnishings Store.

120 West Front street. Prices Cut on all lines of Men and Boys wear.

Special-- We place on sale today a Big Line of Suitings and Trousers.

Trousers to order $3.50 worth $5
Suits to order $18, worth $25

SEBRING'S.

Bargains in Real Estate

For sale or to let.

MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,

Send for blank contracts. 169 North avenue. Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.

BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

GOV. BLACK'S RECEPTION.

Many Persons Shake Hands with the New Chief Executive of New York.

Albany, Jan. 2.—On returning from the inaugural ceremony yesterday Gov. Black held a public reception in the executive chamber from 1 until 2 o'clock, after the members of his staff had been sworn in. Mrs. Black and the governor's son were presenter to the governor by Col. Cole, who laughingly remarked that he supposed they had met before. Mrs. Black congratulated her husband, and young Mr. Black partook of the honors of the occasion. Former Gov. Morton seemed relieved of his official burdens, for he mingled with the crowd as though happy that he was simply Mr. Morton again. Lieut.-Gov. Woodruff also was a prominent figure at the reception. The lieutenant-governor stood just beyond the governor and shook the hand of all those who passed by. Over 1,000 persons shook the hand of the governor during the hour, including the state officers and heads of departments. Gov. Black stood the ordeal nobly. The handshaking was rather severe on the governor's right hand, causing a breaking of the skin, so that blood appeared, but the governor did not complain.

Reception at Executive Mansion.

The reception to the general public at the executive mansion, which was for both ladies and gentlemen, was probably the largest New Year's reception held by a chief executive of the state in years. Governor and Mrs. Black received in the large north parlor on the main floor of the mansion. They were assisted in receiving by Mrs. William Barnes, jr., of Albany; Mrs. Woodruff, the wife of the lieutenant-governor; Mrs. Charles S. Francis of Troy and others. The staff officers in full uniform also assisted the governor in receiving. It is estimated that the callers at the mansion numbered 5,000 people, and there was a surging stream of visitors from 3 o'clock until 5:30. All of the state officials and head of departments with their wives were among the callers, and many prominent republicans from all over the state as well as the leading citizens of Troy and Albany.

NO PLACES FOR STRIKERS.

Boston Street Railway Company Determined To Stand by the New Men.

Boston, Jan. 2.—The West End Street Railway company has made its formal reply to the committee of citizens appointed at the Faneuil hall meeting to express sympathy with the striking conductors and motormen. The document is practically a reiteration of the company's statement with regard to the road's position towards the strikers and the new men employed in their places. The old men, the document says, may file their applications for work, and these will be considered only in the regular course of business by the application bureau. The company, it further says, has all the men required for the present condition of traffic, and no further engagements are required at this time. No men will be discharged for the purpose of reinstating old employes. The company will always be ready to receive a grievance committee of its own employes and consider that no personal interview with the Faneuil hall committee is necessary.

SECRETARY M'CRAITH OUT.

Resigns from the Federation of Labor—Renews His Attack on Gompers.

Indianapolis, Jan. 2.—Secretary McCraith of the American Federation of Labor, who made the sensational charge against President Gompers at the recent convention of the federation at Cincinnati, that he made a deal with Senator Jones, chairman of the democratic national committee, which contemplated the giving of the federation's influence to the free silver forces, has resigned his position. McCraith repeated his charge and produced letters purporting to have passed between President Gompers and Col. Wetmore of St. Louis, a representative of Chairman Jones, arranging for a meeting between Gompers and Wetmore which took place in Chicago, September 2. President Gompers denied the charges of McCraith, saying that the ex-secretary was a liar and a scoundrel.

Emancipation Day Celebrated.

Boston, Jan. 2.—Yesterday being the thirty-fourth anniversary of the signing of the Emancipation proclamation by President Lincoln, the day was celebrated quite extensively by the colored people in the several cities and towns of the state. In Boston there was a parade and civic demonstration [illegible] under the auspices of the Robert Gould Shaw Veteran [illegible]

HOLIDAY PRESENTS IN ENDLESS VARIETY AT HARPER'S,

411 PARK AVENUE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Joseph Carbone,

128 NORTH AVENUE,

Wholesale and retail dealer in choice fruits, nuts, etc., all kinds of temperance drinks. Closed Friday night, sun down. Open Saturday evening at sun down. 12 14 1y

SENATORIAL FIGHTS

Heated Contests Now Being Waged in Several States.

ILLINOIS HAS SIX CANDIDATES

Fairbanks in the Lead in Indiana and Vest's Re-election from Missouri Almost Assured—The Outlook in North Carolina.

Indianapolis, Jan. 2.—The legislature will meet for organization next Thursday morning, and there is a strong movement on foot to hold the republican joint caucus to settle the senatorial succession that same evening, though the election does not come up until June 19. The republicans have a majority of twenty on joint ballot, and the fight will be settled within the caucus. The candidates are Chas. W. Fairbanks, R. W. McKeen, Gen. Lew Wallace and judge R. S. Taylor. The supporters of Mr. Fairbanks claim enough votes to nominate on the first ballot in the caucus.

Six Candidates in Illinois.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 2.—The Illinois legislature will convene January 6. The most important business before it, a topic which is at present all-absorbing, is the election of a United States senator to succeed Hon. John M. Palmer. There are six candidates: William E. Mason, Clarke E. Carr, ex-minister to Denmark, and for some time speaker of the lower house; John M. Hamilton of Chicago; Samuel W. Allerton, the millionaire pork packer, also of Chicago; congressman Robert R. Hitt, and Martin B. Madden, a Chicago alderman.

Vest Will Likely Succeed Himself.

St. Louis, Jan. 2.—Political interest in the coming biennial session of the state legislature centers upon the election of a United States senator to succeed George C. Vest. There is a large democratic majority on joint ballot and the contest, if there is to be one, will be a democratic family affair. Mr. Vest is a candidate for re-election. Half a dozen names have been suggested as contestants, but none are considered as serious opponents of Mr. Vest, and at present the outlook it is safe to say that he will succeed himself.

North Carolina Senatorial Fight.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 2.—Prominent republicans from all parts of the state are assembling here to participate in the great senatorial fight. Interest is greater than ever before in a similar contest. Republicans here all declare for Pritchard. The secretary of the republican state committee, who is conducting Pritchard's campaign, says there are 72 republicans in the legislature, and, as 86 is a majority, Pritchard lacks 14 votes. The populists claim 60 members out of 170 composing the legislature.

Long Fight in North Dakota.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 2.—The Senatorial situation to-day is this: Hansbrough has a far greater following than any other candidate, but it lacks about ten votes of a majority of all the republicans in the legislature. It looks as though there would be no caucus, a long fight in the legislature, which meets Jan. 5, and the final defeat of Hansbrough by some such deal as that in which Roach won a few years ago.

Kyle Men Hopeful in South Dakota.

Huron, S. D., Jan. 2.—Many populist members of the legislature are gathered here to-day to discuss the senatorial situation. The Kyle men were so hopeful of the outcome that they expressed their entire willingness to go into caucus. The legislature meets January 6.

Big Corporations Consolidated.

Hopedale, Mass., Jan. 2.—All the principal corporations controlled by the Drapers are being consolidated into one large new corporation with $5,500,000 capital. E. S. Draper is president and George A. Draper treasurer. Among the firms included are the Hopedale Machine company, Dutcher Temple company, Hopedale Machine Screw company, and George Draper & Sons. The change will take place as soon as the legal formalities are perfected. The new corporation will be known as the Draper company.

Wages To Be Cut at Homestead.

Pittsburg, Jan. 2.—Notices have been posted at the Homestead Steel works of the Carnegie company that a readjustment will be made in the wages of employes in the two open hearth mills, which will affect the tonnage men and probably amount to from 20 to 30 per cent. reduction in their wages. The workmen are angered, and they sent a committee to present their protests to General Superintendent Schwab, who told them that he would lay the matter before the company's officials.

Charged with Fraud.

Boston, Jan. 2.—Frederick Brown, about 35 years old, has been placed under arrest here by the postoffice authorities, who claim that he is responsible for the fraudulent business of the Union Drug company, of which concern they say he was the proprietor. Brown was taken before United States Commissioner Fiske and held in $1,000 until January 7.

Receiver for an Auburn Bank.

Lewiston, Me., Jan. 2.—Judge Walton has appointed L. Linn Small of Auburn receiver of the American Bank and Trust company of Auburn.

Three Friends Disaster Discredited.

New York, Jan. 2.—Cubans in this city scout the report of the drowning of the members of the Three Friends expedition.

THE PLAINFIELD PACKING HOUSE,

153 WEST FRONT STREET,

Will open SATURDAY, JANUARY 2d, on a cash basis, believing in quick sales and small profits.

LOOK AT THESE CASH PRICES :

Roast Beef	8c. to 16c
Porterhouse Steak	18c. to 20c
Sirloin Steak	16c
Chuck Steak	3 lbs for 25c
Pot Roast	4c. to 10c
Hindquarter Lamb	12c

Legs of Lamb	12c
Legs of Mutton	9c
Lamb Chops	18c
Mutton Chops	12c. to 16c
Jersey Chickens	14c
Corned Beef	4c. to 10c
Jersey Pork and Sausage	10c

The above prices are for CASH ONLY and the quality of meats are GUARANTEED THE BEST IN THE MARKET. Goods delivered free of charge, but no orders solicited.

J. A. BLATZ, Proprietor.

MANY PARTIES GIVEN.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Townsend, of Coddington avenue, entertained a large number of young people at their home last evening. The event was arranged by the Misses Searing.

The first dance of Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-Sinque Council, Degree of Pocohontas, held Thursday evening, in the Ulrich building, was a successful one and well attended. Naylor furnished the music.

A pleasant party was given at the home of John Darby at Willow Grove, Thursday night, that was arranged by Miss Mabelle Force, of this city, and attended by a number of Plainfielders who went thither in a stage. Dancing was the principal amusement of the occasion and throughout the whole affair ran the vein of a happy new year.

A number of the friends of Miss Mabelle Phillips met at her home on Madison avenue, Thursday evening, to attend the New Year's Eve party given by Miss Phillips in honor of honor of her friend from Wellesley College, Miss Hilda Meisenbach, who is visiting her.

The holiday atmosphere and the holiday mood of hostesses and guests combined to make the second of Mrs. A. W. Haviland's teas, given Thursday afternoon, a delightful social affair. Mrs. Haviland received in the parlor with her two daughters, debutantes. Mrs. William H. Sterling and Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen assisted in receiving. Mrs. John Doull Miller and Mrs. D. E. VanFleet presided at the table and were assisted by the Misses Martha Tracy, Mary Wells, Mary Whiton, Nancy Lawson, Jennie Foster, of New York, Miss Agnes Baldwin, of Brooklyn and Miss May Hasbrook, of New York.

FRANKLIN COUNCIL ELECTS.

Wren Townley to be the Presiding Officer For a Year

Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., celebrated New Year's Eve in a lively manner. The committee appointed for the occasion provided a tree upon which were placed all sorts of toy presents suitable to every one present, and Harvey Thorn, as Santa Claus made the distribution. After each one had received a present all hands enjoyed a smoker.

The following officers were elected to serve the council during the next six months: Past Councilor, P. T. Bogert; councilor, Wren Townley; vice-councilor, Wm. Symons; Warden, John Jones; conductor, Samuel Fenner; inside sentinel, Chas. I. Young; outsine sentinel, George Townley; recording secretary, H. M. Cooke; assistant recording secretary, H. R. Thorn; trustee eighteen months, P. T. Bogert.

Run a Hair Pin in Her Head.

Mrs. Charles Dodwell, of Dunellen, who attended the dance held in the Ulrich building, Thursday evening, fell while dancing and sustained a painful injury to her head which was due to the fact that she had a silver hat pin in her hair, which caused the wound when she fell down. The injury is not a serious one, although she is confined to the house.

—The horse attached to C.W. Lines' mason wagon became frightened while standing in front of Justice Nash's office this morning and ran away. The runaway collided with a wagon in front of Demarest's store and both wagons were damaged by the collision. The runaway horse was caught at the corner of Second street by Frank Randolph and Willie Robinson.

—The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered at the Congregational Church to-morrow morning.

Mr. Wheeler (crossing the cyclone belt)—Gee whiz, I'm glad I've got my cyclometer!—Truth.

The Right Spirit.

Mamma (to George, who is escorting his sister to a party)—Now, mind you keep an eye on Minnie.

George—Oh—er—well—you know, mother, it doesn't do for a fellow to be always watching his sister. Other chaps don't like it you know.—Punch.

Inconsistent Nausea.

Cholly Yotter (qualmishly)—To think that seasickness would attack a fellah that's dressed in full yachting costume! Bah Jove! This is worse than my first cigarette!—New York Sunday World.

An Illustrated Advertisement.

A healthy, ablebodied man, to whom the confinement and monotony of his present position are irksome, would be glad of a change. No objection to go into the country.—Printers' Ink.

HUNTER KNEW HIS DANGER

Frightened Just Once and He Will Never Forget It.

"Yes, folks," said old Zeb, the hunter and mountain guide, to a party of New Yorkers who were sitting on the veranda of the little mountain hotel one evening, waiting for the old man to tell one of his "b'ar" stories, "there used to be heaps o' the biggest kind of game in these 'ere parts at one time."

"It was a common occurrence years ago, I suppose," said the young man wearing the patent leather shoes and white vest, "to see bears and wolves from the windows of your house?"

"Fur shore," answered the guide, as he replenished his pipe and got comfortably settled, "fur shore; and many a time I've sent a bullet into a critter while standin' in the door of my cabin."

"And I suppose," said another of the listeners, as Zeb stopped there without telling a story, "that you have had many hair-breadth escapes and hand-to-hand fights with the ferocious beasts?"

"Waal, I reckon, stranger."

"And haven't you ever been frightened?"

"Jess once, sir, jess once; and the fright I got that day I'll never forgit! It was one arternoon when I was in the thickest part o' the woods, 'way on t'other side o' the mountain. On the day before my old woman had gone to pay her relations a visit, and left me 'n' the little boy to hum. I had kinder got lonesome layin' around, and me 'n' the young 'un started off fur a walk. With my gun on my shoulder and the kid by the hand I was trudgin' along, when I heard a sound that made my blood run cold.

"A panther's scream, probably?" said the young man, as he drew his chair closer to the others and glanced furtively around.

"The cries of a pack of wolves, more likely," suggested another of the group.

"No," continued the old guide, "'twa'n't no panther's scream nor wolves that made that noise. 'Twas sunthin' wuss than that, and I knowed it. It was kinder a long, wheezin' sound, and at fust I didn't know what to make of it. Finally I put the young 'un behind me and crept a leetle ways through the bresh to whar I kalkerlated the sound come from, and pretty soon I saw standin' in front of a cabin two objicks that made my old heart thump right into my mouth, and my legs tremble so I could hardly stand."

The circle of listeners by this time had drawn their chairs so close to the old hunter that he was hemmed in on all sides, and many were holding their breaths for the finish of the weird story. By and by he went on:

"Them two objicks was a woman and a child. The little 'un was whoopin', and the woman was lappin' it on the back."

"And what was it that frightened you so much?" was asked.

"Why, thar I was, all alone with my only son—thar was my ole woman a hundred miles from hum—no doctor within 25 miles of me, and—"

"Well, what's that got to do with bears and mountain lions?"

"B'ars and mountain lions be dinged! Thar was that child with a terrible case o' hoopin cough, and my only son near by, and I tell you, what, folks, I lit out and didn't stop runnin' until me 'n' the kid was miles away. Yes, folks—"

But old Zeb was all alone with the fresh mountain breezes.—Harper's Magazine.

A Delicious Relish.

Put two gallons of sliced green tomatoes into a crock with layers of salt and let remain over night. In the morning drain the tomatoes and chop rather fine. Put these into a porcelain kettle with two quarts of vinegar, one quart of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls each of mustard and black pepper, one tablespoonful each of cloves and all spice. Cook until the tomatoes are very soft and put into jars.

Best Time to Wind Watches.

Watches should be wound in the morning, says an experienced jeweler. The mainspring of a watch should always be relaxed at night when the watch is still, and tight when the watch is carried about in the pocket during the day. Winding every morning will effect this purpose, and invariably secure the most accurate time.

$35. Will buy you a First-Class High Grade BICYCLE.

Peck & Snyder and Winslow Skates from 49c. up.

PLAINFIELD CYCLE AND SPORTING GOODS CO.

147-149 NORTH AVENUE.

H. F. RIDER, President. C. C LISTER, Secretary and Treas

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Albert Brugler, complainant and Mathew Kilpatrick and Jane Kilpatrick defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that certain tract of parcel of land and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and state of New Jersey.

WEDNESDAY, THE THIRD DAY OF FEBRUARY, A. D. 1897,

Beginning at a poi t at the intersection of the centre line of Sixth street and Plainfield avenue, (formerly William street); thence running in a southeasterly direction along the centre line of Plainfield avenue one hundre and twenty-two feet to a point in line of land of Manning & Sandford; thence northeasterly along the said line of land of Manning & Sandford seventy-six fe t and four inches more or less, to a point in said line distant forty-nine feet and seven inches in a southwest rly direction in said line from line of land of William M. Sandford; thence in a northwesterly direction parallel with Plainwith Plainfield avenue, as the fence now stands, one hundred and twenty-three feet and six inches, more or less, to the centre line of Sixth street; thence southwesterly along the centre line of Sixth street eighty-one feet, more or less, to the point or place of beginning.

WILLIAM T. KIRK, Sheriff.
W. R. CODINGTON, Sol'r.
ja2 5t d oaw— edj&pp Fees—$7.20.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, complainant, and Posa Woltmann et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day all that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, situate in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and state of New Jersey, described as follows: Being known and designated as lots numbers five and thirteen on a certain map entitled "Map of lots belonging to William Stitt, in Plainfield, N. J.," filed August 31st, 1870, in the office of the clerk of Union county, New Jersey in tin box No. 101, which lot number five is bounded and described as follows, to wit:

WEDNESDAY, THE THIRD DAY OF FEBRUARY, A. D. 1897,

Beginning at a point in the middle of Eighth street and corner of land now or formerly belonging to H. W. Moore; thence running a southwesterly course along the middle of Eighth street one hundred feet to corner of lot number six on said map; thence running along that line a northwesterly course three hundred and sixteen feet to a corner of lots numbers six and thirteen on said map; thence running a northeasterly course one hundred feet to a stake; thence running a southeasterly course along said Moore's line three hundred and twenty-four feet and six-tenths feet to the place of beginning; be the said several dimensions more or less.

Lot number thirteen as aforesaid is bounded as follows, to wit:

Beginning at a point in the middle of Union avenue, now Seventh street, distant four hundred and thirty-seven and three-tenths feet from the corner of land formerly of Kent and E. Dean Dows, and distant close along the centre of Seventh street about four hundred feet northeasterly from the northeasterly line of Spooner avenue; thence running along that line a southeasterly course three hundred and twenty-three feet to a stake and corner of lot number five aforesaid; thence running a southwesterly course along the line of lot number five aforesaid one hundred feet to a stake and corner of lots numbers six and fourteen on said map; thence running a northwesterly course along the line of lot number fourteen aforesaid three hundred and twenty-three feet to a stake in the middle of Union avenue; thence running a northwesterly course along the middle of said avenue one hundred feet to the place of beginning, be the said several dimensions more or less.

Being the same premises conveyed to the said Rosa Woltmann by Caroline M. Hunter and Charles A. Hunter, her husband, by deed dated May 25th, 1887, and recorded in the Union county clerk's office May 26, 1887, in book 189 of deeds, page 325, etc.

WILLIAM T. KIRK, Sheriff.
FREDERICK G. BURNHAM, Sol'r.
j2 5t oaws EDJ&PDP Fees—$12 60

ELY'S CREAM BALM CATARRH

COLD IN HEAD

Is quickly absorbed. Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals and Protects the Membrane from Cold. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Gives Relief at once and it will cure.

A particle is applied directly into the nostrils, is agreeable. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail.

ELY BROTHERS 56 Warren Street, New York.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

NOW

Our Winter Goods of all kinds MUST GO, and the REDUCED PRICES must move them quickly.

Boy's all-wool mixed Overcoats at $2.25, were $3.00.
Boy's Overcoats, all-wool, at $3.50, were $4.50.
Boy's Overcoats $3.75, were $4.50.
Boy's Ulsters at $2.50, were $3.75.
Boy's Ulsters at $3.50, were $4.50.
Boy's Cape Coats, all-wool, at $2.50, were $3.50.
Boy's Cape Coats $3, were $4.50.
Boy's Reefers, navy blue, chinchilla velvet and sailor collars at $2, were $3; and at $2.50, were $3.50.
Boy's Suits $2, were $3.25.
Boy's Suits $2.75, were $3.69.
A fine assortment of boy's all-wool Knee Pants, strong, warm and well made, only 25c., a regular 50c. article.
Ladies' long Fur Capes $7.50, were $13.50.
Ladies' long Fur Capes $9.50, were $15.50.
Ladies' black Cloth Capes $3.75, were $5.75.
Ladies' boucle Cloth Capes, lined with plaid silk, at $9, were $13.50.
Everything in Winter Coats, Suits, etc., will be sold at cost or less than cost.
Now is a splendid opportunity to buy.
All of our 50c, 60c. and 75c. novelty Dress Goods at only 39c.
Wool Blankets and Comfortable at reduced prices to close them out quickly.
Winter Gloves for men at great bargains.
And of course anything left over in Christmas Goods will go at almost any price.
Now is the golden opportunity to save money at

EDSALL'S.

The Strongest Claim

We make for the superiority of our

Demulcent Cream OF Witch Hazel

is that the people who have used it say it is the most efficient

TOILET REQUISITE

they ever used. For chapped hands it is unequalled.

Price 25c a Jar.

Leggett's Pharmacy,

Y. M. C. A. Building. Telephone No. 4.

WE WANT FEET

to fit our shoes. The invisible cork sole ones are particularly appraprate this season of the year. We're selling them at right prices.

Doane & Edsall.

Store closes at 6, Saturday 10 p. m.

Last Edition. # THE DAILY PRESS Last Edition.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., MONDAY, JANUARY 4, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

FAREWELL, '96 COUNCIL

City Solons For the Past Year Hold Their Last Session.

WORK OF MUNICIPALITY REVIEWED.

Those in Charge of the Various Departments Make Reports Which Show That Great Improvements Have Been Made Without Incurring Increased Expenses—Inspector of Buildings Doane Reports That Many New and Costly Structures Have Been Put Up—Tax Collections Have Been Rather Slow and Small—Night Lunches for Police to be Abolished—Sewage Farm Operated for Less Than Expected—Complimentary Mention of All the Retiring Councilmen.

Santa Claus in making his rounds did not forget to leave a stove at the city Council rooms, and as a result the members of the 1896 Council were able to hold their last meeting of the year, Saturday evening, with some degree of comfort, thanks to the timely suggestion of The Daily Press.

Councilmen Tolles and Moore were the only members absent. The new Councilmen, Messrs. Baker, Randolph, Newman and Runyon, who take the places of ex-Councilmen Ginna, See Fisk and Moore, were present and watched the proceedings with interest.

The first business was the receiving of Constable Moffett and Mattox's bonds, which were referred to the Corporation Counsel for examination as to correctness.

The reports of the City Tre surer and Collector were also received. Chief of Police G. W. Grant submitted his report, which showed that during the year 682 arrests had been made and 219 persons fined, from which source $1,291 had been received.

Three patrolmen were added to the department, making sixteen in all.

Inspector of Buildings T. O. Doane reported that nine permits had been granted during the past month, making a total of 203 for the year. Of the latter number sixty-four were for buildings ranging in price from $12,000 to $23,000. As chief of the fire department, Mr. Doane also made his annual report. He recommended that the membership of the department be increased, so that there could be three men on the chemical engine and a regular man to take the wheel on the hook and ladder truck. He also suggested that the men be given three days off a month instead of one day in ten. Other suggestions were that a fire alarm box be placed at the corner of West Front street and Madison avenue, that all wires in the business part of the city be placed under ground and that suitable protection be given the west end part of the city by the placing of an apparatus there. He reported that there were four more fires this year than last. At present there are 255 hydrants with a water pressure of seventy-four pounds. There is 456 feet of hose and twenty-seven fire alarm boxes. He also stated that the city owns eight horses and hires three. The latter, he suggested, should be purchased by the city. In conclusion he thanked ex-Mayor Gilbert, the chief of police and and his assistants and also the the firemen for the excellent support they have given in the department.

Mr. Dumont in speaking about the city treasurer's report stated that the taxes received this year were less than the previous year, and the collections were very small. He then offered a resolution that $5,000 be borrowed in anticipation of taxes, the same to be charged to the general fund, and that the Mayor and City Clerk be authorized to draw warrants for the same. The resolution was adopted, as was also another offered by Mr. Dumont that the city treasurer pay the interest on the sewer notes now due and those that come due, and that he take proper receipts therefore.

The report of the Police Board, through the chairman, Mr. Barrows, was quite interesting, it being a review of the past year's work. It speaks of a three months trial of night lunches at an expense of $115, and concludes that the continuance of it is not warranted. The patrolman now take fifteen minutes off every night for lunch. The expense at present of furnishing them coffee at the station house is $10 per month. A compliment is paid Dr. Simpson for his gratitutious services in treating the members of the department when sick.

The board recommend that the special policemen be divided as follows: Uniformed, specials, janitors and citizen specials. It is suggested that all trials in the department be held in the council rooms. The total expense of the department last year was $15,470.89, which is $129 less than the previous year.

The bill of A. I. and N. B. Smalley for $462 for crushed stone was received and ordered paid, and the

CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.

SANTA A LITTLE LATE.

BUT STILL HE COULDN'T FORGET THE CHILDREN OF ST. JOSEPH'S.

Christmas Exercises of the Borough Catholics Were Held Yesterday and Many Little Hearts Were Made Happy

The last Sunday-school celebration in relation to Christmas tide was held yesterday afternoon in the Sunday-school room of the St. Joseph's R. C. church.

There was the usual large attendance of scholars and friends, which made the event one of pleasure. Father Miller was in charge, while Andrew Kenney announced the programme as follows: Opening chorus, Adeste Fideles; recitation, The Turkey Gobler, Archie Bailey; chorus, Little Bells; recitation, A Chime of Bells, Florence Smith; recitation, Just Before Christmas, Willie Daly; recitation, Hail December, Grover Caster; recitation, Boys Essay on Girls, Harry Casey; chorus, Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star; recitation, Girls Essay on Boys, Mabel Hamilton; concert recitation, Why We Love Christmas, school; chorus, The Holy Child; recitation, Little Paul's Christmas, Frances Laporte; recitation, Seeing Things at Night, Kennett Anderson; address, May Neely; recitation, Santa Claus is Coming, Leo Kenney; recitations, The Little Red Drum, Edward Conshee, Samuel Watson, Martin Whalen and Fred Emmons.

At this time James Bailey, in the person of Santa Claus, made his appearance and amused the scholars exceedingly with his comicalities. Every scholar was presented with a box of candy by Santa, and they also received ice cream and cake.

Father Miller was thoroughly surprised to receive a handsome clock from the Sunday-school, and Santa Claus was equally surprised to receive an umbrella. After the latter sang a solo he made his escape, and the last number on the programme was "Over Judah's Starry Plain" by the chorus.

Those who arranged the programme and drilled the scholars were the Misses Fitzgerald, Smith and Mullen and Mrs. Wilkens, and they are deserving of praise of their work.

A HAPPY PEOPLE.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck Returns to Trinity Reformed Congregation.

A large congregation greeted Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., yesterday morning in Trinity Reformed church, and the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered by the pastor, previous to which nine persons were received into membership of the church, four on confession and five by letter.

The singing by the male quartette, Messrs. Robert and Edward Clark, A. Cornish and F. S. Cutter, at the morning service, was thoroughly enjoyed by the large congregation.

At the evening service the Christmas music of the preceding Sunday was repeated by the choir, Mrs. H. E. Rider, soprano; Miss L. Dunn, contralto; Robert Clark, tenor, and Fred. S. Cutter, bass, and was thoroughly enjoyed.

The pastor then delivered an able sermon from Rev. 3, part of the eighth verse—"Behold, I Have Set Before Thee an Open Door."

The Story of Ben Hur.

The lecture managed by the united lodges of the Odd Fellows of this city and given in Association Hall last evening was a gratifying success from every point of view. The hall was filled with an appreciative audience. H. Theodore Chamberlain was the lecturer and "Ben Hur" his topic.

The story was so well told and the views so beautiful that the audience did not grow restless, although he talked for two hours, an unusual thing for a New Brunswick audience.—New Brunswick Home News. Mr. Chamberlain will lecture under the auspices of the Odd Fellows of this city in the Y. M. C. A. hall tomorrow evening.

Special Baptist Services.

The will be preaching services in the chapel of the Park Avenue Baptist church this week. The topics are as follows: Tuesday evening, "Real Penitence, Have I Exercised it?" by J. W. Richardson; Wednesday, "Asking for Jesus," by Rev. Mr. Fitch; Thursday, "The True Missionary Spirit," by Rev. J. W. Richarson; Friday, "The Holy Ghost, Have Ye Received Him," by Rev. Mr. Fitch. The public cordially invited.

To Be Organized for Another Year.

The regular January meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education will be held this evening in the Board room in the High School building. The re-elected member, Fred C. Lounsbury, will take his seat and the Board will be organized for the new year.

—Old Glory Council, D. of L., meets this evening.

THE NEED OF A REVIVAL

DR. BARNES WANTS A QUICKENING OF SPIRITUAL LIFE IN PLAINFIELD.

The People Are Growing Too Material in Their Thoughts and Interests—Turning to God Will Bring Better Times.

Plainfield's greatest need, as pointed out by Rev. Charles R. Barnes, D. D., in his sermon at the First M. E. church, last evening, is a grand revival among the church people of the city and the consequent quickening of the spiritual life here. "Plainfield's Greatest Need" was the topic of his sermon last evening and his Scriptural lesson was from Jonah, the part referring to his call to Ninevah to convert the inhabitants of that beautiful city.

Trouble in one part of the body affected the rest of the body, said Dr. Barnes, and so it was with the world, trouble in one quarter was felt in the others to some extent. He spoke of the great interest at the present time in the Cuban rebellion and how that many of the wishes that the war would close came from financial causes and not from motives of humanity as many supposed.

He then spoke of cities and how it was not only the material that made the cities desirable. Morality was a great factor in it.

The world needs a grand revival. The people are growing too material in their thoughts and wishes. It is the same in all portions of the country. I am surprised, continued the speaker, that after these four years of financial trouble that the world does not seem to turn to God more than it does. The people are constantly being told how to get out of their troubles by the best writers of the country, but how little is said about men getting nearer to God as a remedy. Unless there is a general turning to God soon there will be worse times ahead of us. It is righteousness that builds up economy and frugality and with them real prosperity.

What Plainfield needs most is a revival, said Dr. Barnes. Revival means an awakening of the people of God. There are periods of spiritual declination that come at intervals and one is now here. He went on to say that he had not only noticed the need, but the workers in the different churches in the city have told him of it. The week of prayer is at hand. Everyone should pray earnestly for the coming of the revival.

He spoke of the beneficient results of a revival and said that every church in the city should be crowded if all the church members did their duty. He closed with an exhortation to all to do their share in the furthering of the general awakening.

UNION SERVICES.

Week of Prayer to be Observed in the Local Churches.

The week of prayer in Plainfield this week will be union services as follows:

Monday evening, (tonight,) in Trinity Reformed church, at 8 o'clock, Rev. Dr. Yerkes will lead the meeting. H. J. Martin will lead the singing, which will be from "The Living Hymn" books.

Tuesday evening the meeting will he held in the same church and Rev. A. E. Main, of the Seventh Day Baptist church, will lead.

Wednesday and Thursday evenings the meetings will be held in Vincent Chapel.

Friday evening the meeting will be held in the First Baptist church.

The churches uniting in these services this week are the Trinity Reformed church, the First Baptist church, the First M. E. church and the Seventh Day Baptist church.

The subject for tonight's meeting will be "The Endownment of Power."

Prof. Fiske's Lectures.

There is probably no one better fitted to discuss questions connected with the doctrine of evolution, than Professor John Fiske, of Cambridge, Mass., who is soon to be heard here under the auspices of the Current Events Club, of North Plainfield. The Darwinian hypothesis which met with such bitter opposition when first promulgated, less than forty years ago has come to find very general acceptance.

Mr. Fiske has the remarkable faculty of speaking on obtuse topics with the same ease and simplicity as we should expect in a narrative of every day experiences. He is so familiar with his theme that he can set forth his profound thought in simple phrase and with homely illustrations. We shall have the opportunity to learn some of his conclusions on these great matters at the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Thursday evenings, January 14th and 21st, and Friday evening, January 29th, as appears from the advertisement in another column. Thoughtful people cannot afford to miss these lectures.

DEATH OF A POSTMASTER

JAMES A. BAKER, OF SCOTCH PLAINS, PASSED AWAY SUDDENLY.

The Direct Cause of Death Was a Hemorrhage and He Expired Before a Physician Could Arrive—An Acitve Career.

Many Scotch Plains and Plainfield people were surprised to hear yesterday morning of the death of Postmaster James A. Baker of the former place. His illness was of long duration, but the end was not expected so soon. Mr. Baker had gone to his room as usual and at a late hour went to the bath room and had a bath. He was returning to his room and had evidently put his hand on the door latch, when he was stricken down and expired before medical aid could be summoned. Rheumatism, neuralgia and kidney trouble, resulting in a hemorrhage, is assigned as the cause of death.

Decedent was an honored member of Chemical Engine Company and a member in good standing of the Knights of Pythias and Royal Arcanum. The two latter societies will no doubt have charge of the funeral arrangements, which will take place at the M. E. church, Wednesday, at 2:30 p. m. Interment will be made in the Scotch Plains cemetery.

James A. Baker was a man liked by all. He was postmaster under the present administration and naught could be said against him while in office.

He was born in Gallopinette, Schoharie county, N. Y., fifty-nine years ago last May, and after attaining an unusually good education launched out into business. At the age of 14 he went to Albany where he remained until 1864, when he marrried Miss E. M. Schoolcraft. During the same winter Mr. Baker engaged in the grocery and dry goods business at Scotch Plains, in a small building on the John R. Marsh property, almost oppo site his late place of business. From there he went to the store now occupied by Thomas Paff, Jr., and still later erected the building wherein he transacted his business and where he had built up a large and flourishing trade. In connection with his Scotch Plains business he was his own architect for his store building near the Fanwood station, which has built up an admirable reputation during the past year or two.

He was secretary treasurer of the Scotch Plains Building and Loan Association and an active member of the M. E. church.

WORK AND HELP FOR THE NEEDY.

Relief Association Encourages the Poor to Help Themselves.

The Relief Association solicits donations of half-worn and discarded garments. Such garments, sent to the Relief house, 544 West Front street, will be a help to the needy, first in enabling the association to provide work for the unemployed in repairing and remodeling the articles donated, and again in providing warm and well-appearing clothing at a nominal price for self-respecting persons who are in straitened circumstances. The clothing is sold after being mended or otherwise renewed, on every Saturday morning between the hours of 9 and 11 at the Relief house. All who desire to buy may apply in advance for permits.

The Relief Association also desires customers for kindling wood, sawed and split under its supervision by the needy and unemployed. The wood is of good quality and is sold at market rates. An order by mail directed to Mrs. Horton, 544 West Front street, will be immediately filled.

The ladies of the Relief Association are struggling to pay off the balance of the mortgage debt on their house. Only about $560 more must be raised to free from indebtedness this headquarters of Plainfield charities. Contributions to this fund will be gratefully appreciated and may be sent to the president, Mrs. L. V. F. Randolph, or to the vice-president, Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, or handed to any member of the Relief Board.

Contributions for the relief work will be welcomed by Mrs. Emil Woltman, treasurer. The association spends from $2,000 to $3,000 per year in the most careful and judicious manner for the temporary assistance of the needy. At this season especially the demands are numerous and urgent.

A Will Probated.

The will of Deborah W. Brant, who died at her home at New Providence a few days ago, was admitted to probate by the Surrrogate of Union county on December 31st. She left considerable property, the bulk of which was left to Mary Alice Nason, of New Providence, who was appointed executrix of the will. Ex-Mayor John H. Van Winkle, of the borough, was the counsel of the executrix.

A CHURCH STARTS WELL

MONROE AVENUE PEOPLE NOW A REGULAR METHODIST SOCIETY.

Reports Show That the Church is in the Best of Standing With Members and Finances—Want Rev. O'Donnell Retained

The final details of the organization of the Monroe Avenue church were completed yesterday morning when the first quarterly conference of the church was held. It was conducted by the presiding elder, Rev. George W. Smith. First came the election of the trustees which resulted as follows: William C. Burt, James McGee, D. P. Hicks, J. T. Stafford, James Whitely and Adam Neuman. The following stewardesses and stewards were then elected: Mrs. LaRue, Mrs. D. P. Hicks, Miss Leora Wenzel, Nicholas Broyard, Edwin Beekman, N. J. Eaken and J. J. Praed. The pastor made his report which showed that the church had, at present, 101 members in good standing and all on probation. He also reported the church to be free from debt and in a flourishing financial condition. A general request was made to the approaching conference to have the present pastor, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, returned to them for another year. James McGee was chosen a local preacher.

A sub-committee, composed of Rev. W. C. O'Donnell and James McGee, was appointed for benevolent purposes.

Then followed a communion service and a sermon by Rev. G. W. Smith, the presiding elder, on the text, Luke, 25th chapter, 46th and 47th verses. Four were taken into membership and one probation member was admitted to full membership.

The annual report of the church was made by James McGee. It showed that the expenses had been paid and that there was a nice balance in the treasury. It was a pleasing report and told of the faithful work of the Ladies Aid Society and the other societies of the church. The good work done in the Sunday-school was also mentioned.

ON A SUNDAY RAMPAGE

AN ELIZABETH MAN TRIES TO DRIVE A HORSE ON THE SIDEWALK.

Had Been to a Place Where Drink Had Befuddled His Brain—This Morning He Was Sorry and Sentence Was Suspended.

The Sunday peace and quiet of East Front street was disturbed last evening by a man from Elizabeth. He drove up to see a friend in the borough and accompanied by that friend, not a young lady, however, went out for a ride. They evidently went somewhere where the Sunday saloon closing law is not as strict as it is in this city, for they came back rather the worse for drink.

They drove out of Fairchild's alley and instead of turning into Front street they went on over to the sidewalk and started to drive along there. Patrolman Myers was in the vicinity and their little experiment came to a sudden end. The Elizabeth man was driving and the officer promptly locked him up for reckless driving and for being drunk. His companion was allowed to depart homeward on foot.

This morning the offender was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza and then gave his name as Joseph Nessler and said that he had recently been employed by the Elizabeth Beef Company. After hearing his story the Judge suspended sentence.

A SATURDAY EVENING FIRE.

An Upset Lamp Made a Lively Blaze for the Firemen to Squelch.

A fire broke out about 6:30 Saturday evening in the house on Arlington avenue adjoining the railroad, occupied by a colored family name Lewis. It was the result of a lamp being upset. An alarm was sent in from Box 13 at the corner of Park and North avenues by Patrolman McCue. The department were quickly on the scene and hard work resulted in the saving of the house, though everything on the first floor was destroyed except a feather bed, a pair of springs and a few other things. The house is a small one, making it difficult for the firemen to work.

Those who saw the blaze at first thought the lumber yard of Boice, Runyon & Co., was on fire, and a great crowd gathered. The firemen, however, did great work in saving the house and the contents of the upper rooms.

During the fire the fire rope was used to good advantage.

—The Germania Beneficial Society will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening.

—From this date until further notice Edsall's Commercial Palace will close at 6 p. m. excepting Saturday.

FRACTURED RIGHT LEG.

WILLIAM HICKEY JUMPED ON TO A ROLLING STONE WITH BAD RESULTS.

Seated in a Wagon When the Horse Became Frightened and Hickey Jumped to Escape Being in a Runaway.—Broken Leg.

William Hickey, a laborer, of 543 West Third street, sustained a compound fracture of the right leg, midway between the ankle and knee, while on his way to work this morning. Mr. Hickey, together with several other men, were in a wagon going to Stirling, where they are engaged in rebuilding the silk mills.

A stop was made at the Arlington hotel to water the horses. In the meantime car No. 5 of the street railway, in charge of Motorman Totten and Conductor Lance, appeared and frightened the horses who attempted to get away.

The men in the wagon, thinking that there was going to be trouble, jumped out in different directions. When Hickey jumped he landed on a large stone which resulted in the fracture. He was unable to move and his fellow-workmen carried him to the car and he was brought to North avenue. From there he was taken to the hospital in the ambulance.

The doctors in charge found the fracture a bad one and they were obliged to wire the bone. He will be confined to the hospital for sometime.

Mr. Hickey is about forty-five years old and he has a wife and two children.

WHIST THE AMUSEMENT.

Mr. and Mrs. Nightingale Entertain the Saturday Evening Club.

The Saturday Evening Whist Club was charmingly entertained by Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Nightingale, of Sandford avenue, Saturday evening. The house being tastefully decorated for the holiday season, still retained its beauty.

Eight tables were provided and those who were guests of the club were Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt V. Weed, of Washington Heights, N. Y., Miss Herring, of Baltimore; Miss Holton, of Philadelphia; Mr. Pratt and H. O. Nightingale, of Harvard University, and Edgar I. Serrell, of this city. The first ladies' prize, a brocaded silk couch pillow, was awarded the hostess, Mrs. Nightingale, and a cut glass olive dish, as second ladies' prize was awarded Mrs. Peter Schultz. The first prize for the gentlemen, a pair of sterling silver-mounted suspenders, was awarded Peter Schultz, while Assemblyman W. R. Codington, secured second honors, a gold wreath scarf pin, set with pearls. Dainty refreshments were served by Stephenson, the caterer, in his usual pleasing manner, thus making the evening a thoroughly delightful one to all present.

Mr. and Mrs. Schultz, of East Second street, will entertain the club Saturday evening, January 16th.

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

Sunday-school Officers.

The annual meeting of the executive board of the Sundays-school of the Park Avenue Baptist Church was held yesterday afternoon and the election of officers took place. The election resulted as follows: Superintendent, Miss Alice B. Spangenburg; assistant superintendent, George Poole; secretary, Thomas U. Cuming; treasurer, J. M. Hawkins; librarian, E. Frank Vail. The reports of the different committees for the year were read and showed the school to be in a prosperous condition. An increase in membership and amount of the offering was shown.

Narrow Escape From Optical Injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh R. Knox's three-year-old daughter, of Webster place, came very near losing the sight of one eye a few days ago by falling on the point of a pair of scissors. The point struck close to the eyeball and entered the flesh. The serious part of the accident was that a piece of steel was broken off and remained in the flesh. Dr. Ard was called and removed the piece of steel and the little girl is now rapidly recovering.

ITS FINAL SESSION

Congress Reassembles To-morrow After the Holiday Recess.

FORECAST OF WORK IN BOTH HOUSES

Senator Cameron's Resolution To Be Antagonized by the Army Bill---Loud Bill and Pacific Railroad Funding Bill in the House.

Washington, Jan. 4.—When the senate meets to-morrow after the holiday recess it is quite likely that the debate on matters pertaining to our foreign relations and the position assumed by Secretary Olney for the executive will at once begin to take shape. Whether Mr. Cameron will call up the Cuban resolution on the opening day of the session is not yet known, for that senator has not yet returned to the city and the subject is entirely in his hands. It is hardly thought that he will seek to force the issue on the opening day, owing to the fact that there is not likely to be a quorum of the senate present. During the morning hour, however, under any guise that may be put forward, the debate on the subject can be commenced, but it must give way to the unfinished business at 2 o'clock unless there are sufficient votes to displace the Oklahoma free homestead bill with the more pressing question of Cuba. The homestead bill, which is championed by Mr. Pettigrew, is not to have smooth sailing. A strong minority report by Mr. Platt is to be presented, and that senator will lead the opposition to the measure on the floor of the senate. Mr. Hale, who is looked upon as the leader of the anti-Cuban sentiment in the senate, says that several senators who have been heretofore silent on the subject have come out against the Cameron resolution and there is now no possible chance for its passage. On the other hand Messrs. Cameron, Lodge, Chandler, Morgan and Mills assert that the sentiment favoring action by congress is becoming more vigorous and that the fighting will be forced from the start. Mr. Hale, who, in the absence of Mr. Allison, is acting chairman of the committee on appropriations, expects to have the army bill reported to the senate Wednesday, and this will be put forward to antagonize the Cuban proposition. Two speeches are booked for the coming week, one by Mr. Peffer, probably Wednesday, on his resolution for the appointment of a national monetary conference, and another by Mr. Proctor, on the joint resolutions providing for the election of president and vice-president and senators by a popular vote.

House of Representatives.

Just before the holiday recess the house of representatives, upon the recommendation of the committee on rules, arranged the business of the house for the first week of the new year. To-morrow and Wednesday the Loud bill to amend the postal laws so as to prohibit the transmission in the mails of serial novel publications and "sample" copies of newspapers at the second class rate will be the special order. Discussion under the general rule will continue from immediately after the reading of the journal to-morrow until 2 p. m. on Wednesday and under the five minute rule upon proposed amendments until 4 o'clock, when voting will begin upon pending amendments and the final passage of the bill. When the bill was called up, rather unexpectedly, several weeks ago, it developed surprising strength but since then the opposition has been active, and the chances of its passage are considered rather doubtful. After this bill has been disposed of the rest of the week—Thursday, Friday and Saturday—will be devoted to the consideration of the Pacific railroad funding bill, reported by Judge Powers, chairman of the committee on Pacific railroads. Two days will be given to general discussion, and one day to debate and action in committee of the whole upon proposed amendments. The bill will be reported to the house at 5 o'clock Saturday and the vote on its passage taken on Monday, the 11th instant, immediately after the reading of the journal. By the terms of the orders, making these measures the special business, consideration of any other matters is shut out, and it will take unanimous consent to act on anything else until the orders have been exhausted. The only exception is that on Friday night private pension bills will be discussed for two hours and a half as usual without a quorum.

Killed Her Husband.

New York, Jan. 4.—While quarreling with his stepdaughter Lizzie, Jesse Smith, colored, was fatally stabbed in the throat yesterday by his wife, Belle, who ran to the defense of her daughter. Early in the morning Smith slapped the child in the face. Mrs. Smith attempted to defend the child and he slapped her also. Mrs. Smith then seized a pair of scissors that were lying on a table near by and plunged them into her husband's throat. Smith started to run to the police station but fell from the loss of blood. He died before he could be picked up by a policeman who had seen him fall. Mrs. Smith was arrested.

Archbishop of Naples Dead.

Rome, Jan. 4.—Cardinal Guglielmo Sanfelice di Acquavella, Archbishop of Naples, died yesterday. He was liberal and conciliatory and was very popular. He was born in Aversa, April 18, 1834, and was created a cardinal March 24, 1884.

Hotel Destroyed by Fire.

Avalon, N. J., Jan. 4.—The hotel Peermont was destroyed by fire yesterday. The hotel was built in 1889 at a cost of $26,000.

M'KINLEY VERY BUSY

The President-elect Working on His Inaugural Address.

TO BE FINISHED WITHIN A WEEK

His Cabinet, as a Whole, Will Not Be Completed Before March 1---Senator Sherman Urged To Accept the State Portfolio.

Cleveland, Jan. 4.—Major McKinley expects to set to work on his inaugural address this evening and to finish it by the end of the week. He feels that the time between the present and the inauguration is very short and said this morning there would be so much to do that the few weeks remaining to him would slip by very swiftly. Major McKinley wants to get the portfolios of his cabinet assigned in a fortnight or three weeks, but the cabinet, as a whole, will not be completed till March 1. The impression grows that Senator Sherman's friends in many parts of the country are urging him to accept the portfolio of state if it is offered him, and it is also true that some of them are suggesting to Major McKinley that Senator Sherman would make an excellent secretary of state and one whose manifest fitness for the position would very strongly impress the country.

McKinley May Surprise the Country.

Senator S. M. Cullom of Illinois says the opinion prevails among senators that Mr. Sherman, while perhaps not willing to go into the cabinet, seems to regard the proposition with less disfavor than formerly. Senator Cullom says he has no desire at this time to leave the senate, and that he is not to be considered a cabinet possibility. It is his belief that Illinois may not be represented in the cabinet at all. He discussed the senatorial contest, and expressed the opinion that in the event of a prolonged and bitter contest the prize might fall to the lot of Gov. Tanner himself. Senator Cullom says the impression exists among his colleagues in the United States senate that Mr. Allison will not be inclined to give up his present career to accept a cabinet portfolio, but hopes the Iowa senator can be prevailed upon to become secretary of the treasury. If neither Mr. Allison nor Mr. Dingley should be in Major McKinley's cabinet, Senator Cullom says, a new quantity for secretary of the treasury will have to be found, and that the chances are that the president-elect will treat the country to something of a surprise. A good deal of speculation about the New England member of the cabinet has been heard in the last day or two, both here and in Canton.

Lodge and Proctor Possibilities.

If Mr. Dingley remains at the head of the committee on ways and means another man from his section of the country will be invited to accept a cabinet position. The names of Senators Proctor of Vermont and Lodge of Massachusetts are discussed not a little and the selection of either of them by Major McKinley should occasion no surprise. If a secretary of state is not chosen from New York it may be set down as certain that Cornelius N. Bliss will have a place in the cabinet. There has been no change in the situation so far as Mr. Bliss is concerned, nor is there likely to be, save in the contingency just mentioned.

Hendricks and the Manhattan "L."

New York, Jan. 4.—Mortimer Hendricks, whose petition for the removal of the directors of the Manhattan Elevated Railroad company and compel them to pay back to the company dividends paid out in 1895 and 1896, which he alleges were illegally paid, has been refused by the state attorney-general, has decided to bring the matter before the state railroad commission at once.

Spain Reports a Victory.

Madrid, Jan. 4.—A dispatch from Manila says that the insurgents have been signally defeated at Balacan. According to the dispatch 1,100 of the insurgents were killed, including Gen. Ensebro. Seven cannon were captured. The Spanish loss is placed at twenty-three killed and sixty-eight wounded.

Sudden Death of Amos Stevens.

Manchester, Conn., Jan. 4.—Amos Stevens, who was connected with the Northampton bank robbery, died suddenly of heart disease last night at Cowles' hotel. Stevens had been in New York, but came here to visit relatives a few weeks ago. He was 76 years of age and leaves a widow.

$30,000 Fire in Lynn, Mass.

Lynn, Mass., Jan. 4.—Two small buildings in the rear of 843 and 855 Washington street were burned yesterday. They were of wood, three stories high, and owned by S. N. Breed. Adjacent lumber piles and H. N. Breed & Co.'s stable were slightly damaged. Total loss, $30,000.

Will Be Broken Up for Junk.

Boston, Jan. 4.—Steamer City of New York, which was towed here from New London, will be broken up for junk. She was formerly one of the Norwich line steamers, and will be taken to Nut island, where she will be beached and burned for the old iron.

New Spanish Warships.

London, Jan. 4.—Four torpedo boat destroyers are now being constructed on the Clyde for the Spanish government, and two other British-built vessels of the same class are ready to be placed in commission.

Plain Talk from the Czar.

Constantinople, Jan. 4.—The czar has notified the sultan that the integrity of his empire depends upon the granting of the reforms demanded by the powers.

RUSSIANS WORSHIP A NEW SAINT

His Remains Said to Be Incorruptible and Reverenced by the Orthodox.

What orthodox Russians regard as a great event, and one which must have a curious interest for Frenchmen, has just taken place at Chernigoff, a town of about 30,000 inhabitants in south Russia. It is described by the Moscow correspondent of the London Standard as "the officially sanctioned 'invention of the incorruptible remains of Archbishop Theodosius,' who died 200 years ago."

The Russian Greek church, he says, recognizes, in addition to the various forms of relics familiar to the Roman Catholic faith, a symbol of higher sanctity than any in the so-called "moshchi," a word apparently signifying "(Divine) power." These "moshchi" are to be found in all the principal churches throughout the empire, and are the objects of especial veneration to all pilgrims.

Every traveler in Russia will recall having seen in the churches a number of tombs, usually without lids, but covered with glass, through which may be discerned the figure of a man in rich vestments and covered, as a rule, from head to foot. The hands are usually folded on the bosom, and a portion of the right hand, with a round spot the size of a shilling on the forehead, are left to appear through the coverings for the devout to kiss as they murmur their prayer to the sleeping saint that he will intercede for them above. These are the "moshchi."

The Russian church teaches that very holy men, during life, may become the means of divine proof of the truths of Christianity after death by the fact that the corpses of such, however long they have remained underground, and notwithstanding the quality of the earth in which they lie, damp or dry, cold or heated, may, even if exposed to the direct action of atmospheric influence above ground, be divinely preserved from any trace of corruption. The garments of the dead almost invariably, and the coffins sometimes, share in this manifestation of indestructibility.

These "incorruptible remains" are very numerous throughout Russia, but of late years few of them have been found, as the holy synod and the emperor now cause more strict investigation to be made into the details of each case than was the custom in former days. For it is not sufficient that these remains should be found, after long periods of interment, incorruptible, but they must have manifested wonder-working powers.

The usual order of things is for some devout believer to see, generally in a dream, the figure of a saint, who bids him search for his (the saint's) body in a certain place. The body is taken up, and miracles, chiefly of the healing kind, at once begin and are carefully recorded, with such detail and corroboration as seem proper to the local church authorities on the spot. After a longer or shorter lapse of time the clergy make application for the canonization of their saint and formal sanction for the "invention" of his "incorruptible remains" to the holy synod, which, if the proofs and miracles are considered satisfactory, advise the emperor to accede to the request. A day is then appointed and preparations are made for the great event.

In the present instance the ceremonies lasted five days and drew over a hundred thousand people to the little town, which is a long distance from any railway. A universal holiday for a week was declared and two regiments of infantry, with two squadrons of Cossacks, were dispatched to the spot to prevent a possible recurrence of the Moscow disaster. The services concluded on September 21, after a day's prayer for preparatory services. The "moshchi" was carried to the cathedral at eight o'clock in the evening, through crowds of pilgrims, each of whom bore a lighted taper. At the same hour services were held and the bells rung in the Moscow churches and throughout Russia.

The Moscow papers report several miraculous cures by the new saint among the highest classes as well as the peasant pilgrims. The saint now lies in a silver sarcophagus weighing over 300 pounds and valued at $20,000. This is only one of the numerous and costly offerings which were dispatched to Chernigoff for the great occasion.

The belief in these "incorruptible remains" is peculiar to the orthodox Russian faith. The "old believers and other dissenting Russian sects reject it and it is not held, for example, by so nearly allied a faith as that of the Armenians. It is scarcely necessary to say that in these days not all, even of the orthodox, give full credence to this marvel, but the vast mass of the population are undoubtedly sincere in the deep veneration they pay to these extraordinary symbols of the czar's creed.—N. Y. Times.

Unnecessary Question.

"Madam," said one of her rapturous admirers, "you grow more youthful every day. What is the secret of it?"

"As to that," absently replied the prima donna, "permit me to refer you to the advertising columns of any newspaper."—Chicago Tribune.

Hoped to Change Them.

Miss Wanterwed—I am going to cut my initials on this old tree.

Mr. Hangfire—So that you will find them again when you come next year?

Miss Wanterwed—Good gracious, no! I hope not.—New York Sunday World.

Easy to Take Easy to Operate

Are features peculiar to Hood's Pills. Small in size, tasteless, efficient, thorough. As one man said: "You never know you have taken a pill till it is all over." 25c. C. I. Hood & Co., Proprietors, Lowell, Mass. The only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills

Scott's Emulsion

Will Cure a Stubborn Cough when ordinary specifics fail. It restores strength to the weakened organs and gives the system the force needed to throw off the disease.

50 cents and $1.00 at all druggists.

Scott & Bowne, Chemists, New York.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset street. 6 13 tf

Honeyman's Private Tours.
To OLD POINT COMFORT, December 29th—6 days.
To FLORIDA, Jan. 21—16 days.
To CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 18—25 days
Office 181 NORTH AVENUE, Plainfield, N. J.

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.
Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

Climatic Extremes
OF
NORTH and SOUTH
are blended ideally at
OLD POINT COMFORT
AND
RICHMOND, Va.,
Thus making these the most desirable places for winter outings.
They may be reached delightfully by the luxurious and modern steamships of the
Old Dominion Line
Sailing every week day from New York.
Send for full information.
Old Dominion S. S. Co.
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILLAUDEU, Vice-Pres't & Traffic Mgr
12 17-6 m

Boots, Shoes & Rubbers.
AT FORCE'S,
119 West Front St.
Formerly 129 Park Ave. 29 tf

L. A. HUMMER'S
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 28-A

PIANOS
If you want a deep, clear, rich tone, and the best material, buy your PIANOS at W. R. BROKAW'S. Piano Parlors, 311 Madison ave. Bargains in second-hand instruments. Parlors always open. Tuning and regulating a specialty.

Your Valuables
will be safe in
Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.
Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

J. W. VanSickle,
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Philadelphia Scrapple.

McCullough's
STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

W. N. Pangborn,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER,
Residence, 33 Linden Ave.
Personal attention. Prompt service.
Telephone 29b. Established 1878. 1 14 tf

Within the reach of all.
ACCIDENT TICKETS.
THE INTER-STATE
Casualty Company of New York
gives SIX MONTHS' insurance
$1,000 for $1.00,
to men or women
between 18 and 60 years of age, against accidental death. $100,000 deposited with the Insurance Deparment of the State of New York for the security of the insured.
For sale at office of
Honeyman's Private Tours,
181 North Ave. Plainfield, N. J.
6 25-6 mos

Rushton, Hansen & Luthman,
PAINTERS
AND PAPER HANGERS,
Office and shop Sycamore and 4th sts.
Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 3 11 tf

REVERE HOUSE
PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD, New Jersey.
Families accomodated for the fall and winter months at greatly reduced prices.
The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity, Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisine unsurpassed.
GEO. B. DE REVERE.

Potter & Kellogg,
DEALERS IN
Lehigh Valley Coal.
Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard—At Mt. Pleasant, Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1-y

The Metropolitan Boarding Stables
C. V. D. CORLE, - - - - - - Proprietor
No. 138 East Second street. Livery and Boarding and Sale Stable. Horses boarded by the day, week, month or hour. Reasonable prices. 11 17 1y

HERMAN KELLER,
Manufacturer of and Retail Dealer in
Cigars, Tobacco, etc.
"PRIDE OF PLAINFIELD" CIGAR a specialty. 116 North avenue. 9 26 tf

MRS. L. ADAMS,
MILLINERY.
Ready made gowns and dresses ordered from samples. All the latest novelties of the season.
114 EAST FRONT STREET.

A. LUSARDI,
120 NORTH AVENUE.
Wholesale and Retail
Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds of Confectionery, Peanuts, Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets

NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE
Sewer Connections.
DAVID BOWDEN,
General Contractor. 109 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J. Carriage drives macadamized, sewers and sewer connections promptly made, lawns carefully restored. All work done in a practical and skilful manner.
28 YEARS EXPERIENCE.
Best of references furnished. Charges moderate 4 19 tf

C. W. LINES,
Mason and Builder
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly 1y

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. O. STEVENS & CO.
OAL,
147 WEST FRONT ST.
Branch office with
G. A. HALLOCK,
109 West Front street.

30,000 CIGARS
of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of the city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.
M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue,
8 15 tf Plainfield.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.
Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.
Telephone Call 138a

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 100 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

William Hand & Son.
STAGES
For Parties, etc., 518 Park ave.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing,
Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS.
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools filled

BRAIN FOOD.
Edw. P. Thorn,
RETAIL DEALER IN
Fish, Oysters, and Clams.
Terms Cash. Goods Delivered

E. H. Holmes,
Dealer in
Coal & Wood.
Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 148 North ave.
Telephone 49-A.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country. Charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed. Orders may be left at Sattel's music store, 321 Park ave.

"Time or Tide Waits for No Man."

Have your time always correct and you won't want time to wait. Our watches or clocks never vary. They are sure and reliable timekeepers, whether in the exquisitely jeweled chatelaine watch, or fine gold or silver case. They are always correct. Speaking of time—remember now is the time to be looking around for a useful and handsome Christmas present for wife, husband or sweetheart; and who doesn't love a good watch?

COLLIER,
103 Park Ave. Established 1869.

The Largest Selection of Wall Papers
—AND—
Painter's Supplies
in Plainfield.

Woolston & Buckle,
141-145 North avenue.

New Year's Gifts
AT RANDOLPH'S.

ARROW BRAND CANDIES
Handsomely Boxed, in one-half and pounds. Quality Superior.

Cut Glass Bottles,
A Large Assortment of Choice Handkerchief Extracts.

Reasonable Prices Prevail.

L. W. Randolph,
PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST.
No. 143 West Front street.
Telephone Call, 109.

"It is Making a Hit."
FEIGENSPAN'S Finest Pale Ale
IN BOTTLES and
FEIGENSPAN'S SAAZER BEER
At Hotel Grenada Bar.

The Plainfield Confectioners,
112 West Front street.
Candies from 10, 15 and 20 cents per lb. up. The very best goods. Made daily on the premises. Formerly known as the New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Comp'y. 9 9 1y

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL,
No. 711, Royal Arcanum.
—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
Harry C. Adams, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

A GOOD FIRE
will make cheerful many of the evenings of the New Year. We'll sell you the coal—good coal—and plenty of it. We don't sell you dirt for coal. We don't sell you short measure. We want your coal trade always.

D. C. IVINS & CO.
Coal, Lumber, &c. 301-311 Watchung Ave.

Rushmore & Co.,
WATCHUNG AVENUE,
COR. FOURTH ST.
Lumber yard and Planing Mill.

Large and full assortment of lumber including 21 varities from Hemlock to Mahogany always in stock. Window frames, moulding, sash, doors and blinds. Hardwood floors a specialty. Turning and scroll sawing. We can make anything. Call and see us. Satisfaction guaranted.

ALEX. LUSARDI,
211 West Front Street,
Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores. 991 year

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
Stables attached. I. E. Beerbower, Prop

CLEANER COAL.
and L. A. RHEAUME,
N. H. SAXTON.
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invite the public to inspect the operation of their newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which they confidently believe enables them to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Kindling Wood a Specialty.

Christmas Wreaths Roping Holly, etc. Also, Palms,
Rubber Trees, Begonias, Ferns Floral Designs, House and Church Decorations. Southern Smilax at 15 days notice.
DENTON'S.
131 Hillside avenue.

Safe Deposit Vaults
THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK
Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital..... $200,000.
Surplus and Profits..... $90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. RUNYON, Ass't

DIRECTORS:
Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Corlell,
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil,
Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Rushmore,
J. W. Johnson, Wm. B. Codington,
F. S. Runyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.
Boxes to Rent from $5 and upwards per annum.
VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

IF THE BEST WILL DO,
Try Royal Tooth Powder. 1 ½-oz. can, 10c.; 4-oz. nickel-top bottle, 25c. It contains no acid or grit, and is recommended by all dentists of standing who will advise the use of Chalk and Castile Soap, flavored. Royal Borated and Carbolated Talcum, at 10c., is intended to give entire satisfaction and win your favor. Prepared by
ALLEN PHARMACY M'F'G CO.,
Plainfield, N. J.

E. D. BARRETT,
No. 148 East 5th St.
Sole Agent for the
Richmond Heaters.
STEAM and HOT WATER.
SANITARY PLUMBING

Owners of Property
Now is the time to call and list your property you have for rent, sale or exchange, with the Central Real Estate Co.,
No. 150 North Ave. Over U. S. Ex. Office.

NEW YEAR'S CARDS
AND DIARIES
AT
R. C. RAND'S,
140 West Front street.

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield December 28th, 1896.

Applegate Mrs C B	Murdough, Miss A
Arnold Harry	Moore Chas W
Blessing J E	Mitchell Warren
Burk Miss Kate	Moore Wm
Beishenclong Richard	Nicholl Geo R
Chase John M	Pierson, Miss Nellie
Cornilus Mr	Post Sutphen E.
Demarest Mrs W Harry	Smyth Miss Maria
Gillette Frank	Smith Mrs C
Hewitt Mrs Mathew	Taylor Mrs Mary E
Holyeysfel Miss Anna K	Turner Mrs Annie
McMahon Miss Mary Ann	Wilson Miss J R

MULLINS & SONS
218-220 Market St., Newark.

GREAT CLEARING SALE
OF
PARLOR SUITS.
500 Parlor Suits this week at
HALF ACTUAL VALUE.
$25.

Handsome New Parlor Suits, upholstered in Brocatelle, Silk Tapestry, Mohair, Plush or Rug. It is worth while your time to see them even if you do not intend to buy.

$25 $25

Such values have never before been offered. Over 100 styles to select from. No other house shows as large a stock. No other house can offer yau such great values.

Some at $18.50.

SPECIAL.
A GOOD CYLINDER STOVE
FOR
$2.60.

Don't Miss Our Great Sale of Parlor Suits
Easy terms of credit to everybody. We will furnish your home for $1 per week. Make your own terms.

MULLINS & SONS.
218-220 Market St., Newark.
Branch Stores 78-84 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. 121-125 Newark Ave., Jersey City, N. J. 136-138 Main St., Paterson, N. J.

An Enormous Saving in Money

It is really a fact that every man, woman or child who deals with us saves money. We actually sell all qualities of honest, substantial clothing for men, boys and children at prices 40 to 50 per cent lower than any of our competitors. There's no nonsense about this statement; we mean it. We'll prove it to you any time. There's method in our madness and here's a trade secret we'll let you into; it pays us: Quick sales at small profits is our only trade secret. We buy for net spot cash and save 25 per cent in buying, which we give our customers. We ask at least 25 per cent less profit than any dealer in Plainfield. Our customers are our partners. We give them this lion's share of the profit. If you deal with us once you will always. Try it between now and Saturday night.

SPECIAL

300 all-wool Men's Kersey, Melton or Beaver Overcoats, satin lined throughout, worth $22.00, at $7.90; 150 men's all-wool overcoats, worth $14.00, at $5.90; 100 overcoats, worth $10.00, at $4.50; heavy all-wool suits, worth $12.00, at $4.50; and 1,000 other articles that we cannot mention for want of space.

New York Clothing Company,
214 WEST FRONT STREET.
M. WEINBERGER.
Near Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

Have You Bought Your
OVERCOAT?
If not, come to WERNER'S CLOTHING HOUSE and take advantage of the CUT SALE now going on.
STOCK MUST BE SOLD.
Hats and Furnishing Goods a Specialty.
H. WERNER, Clothier,
No. 206 West Front Street.

COLD WEATHER GOODS
AT
PUTNAM & DEGRAW'S
Underwear, Gloves, Hosiery, &c.
Agents for the "Golden Rule" CLOTHES RACK and IRONING TABLE, $1.00 each.

LOSS OF THE COMMODORE.

Eight of the Crew of the Filibuster Now at Sea on a Raft.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 4.—All of the crew of the Commodore were not saved, as reported last night. Twelve are in Jacksonville, and three alive and one dead are at Daytona. Four are reported to have arrived near Ormond, but the report is not confirmed, and eight are at sea on a life raft. Capt. Murphy, Stephen Crane, the novelist; C. B. Montgomery, the cook, and W. Higgins, a stoker, have landed at Daytona. Their boat was turned over in the surf and Higgins received a wound which caused his death soon after getting ashore. The party on the raft are all Cubans. They left the boat before Capt. Murphy's party and nothing more has been heard of them.

NASHVILLE'S BIG FIRE.

Amount of Damage Inflicted Amounts To Not Less Than $600,000.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 4.—The destructive conflagration which visited this city Saturday night was far more disastrous than was indicated yesterday. The total damage is at least $600,000. Several trifling accidents were reported. A series of unfortunate conditions handicapped the fire department in its work, and a very strong wind playing from the south made matters much worse. The falling of a wall caused damage to the extent of $50,000 by crushing through adjacent buildings. A feature of the fire was the fighting from roofs, as few alleys traversed the district. When sufficient pressure was finally secured the department rendered very effective service though at first it seemed almost helpless.

GOLD AND SILVER.

Production of the Two Precious Metals in This Country Last Year.

Washington, Jan. 4.—From information received from officers of the mint service and other agents employed to collect the statistics of the production of gold and silver from the mines of the United States during the calendar year 1896, the director of the mint estimates the product of gold to have approximated $51,000,000, being an increase of $5,000,000 over 1895. The product of silver in the United States in 1896, from the information now at hand, is estimated to have been from 52,000,000 to 53,500,000 fine ounces, a decrease of 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 ounces from that of 1895.

Insurance Companies in Kansas.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 4.—More than one-half of the members of the populist legislature are pledged to pass a law requiring life and fire insurance companies to invest 65 per cent. of their premiums collected in the state in Kansas securities and deposit with the state treasurer. A committee has reported to Gov.-elect Leedy that the life insurance companies took $1,700,000 out of the state during the past year.

A Supreme Court for Russia.

Berlin, Jan. 4.—A special dispatch from St. Petersburg says it is the intention of the czar to create a supreme court, with the object of relieving him of much of the work which devolves upon the emperor. The court will settle all the matters now decided by the czar, except those of the highest importance, which will, as heretofore, be referred to the emperor himself.

Cashier Durk Arrested.

Buffalo, Jan. 4.—Henry Durk, cashier of the defunct First National bank of Niagara Falls, was arrested Saturday night, brought to this city and arraigned before Commissioner Norton on a charge of being implicated in the failure of the bank. Durk pleaded not guilty and was released on bail, pending a hearing on January 15.

Dr. Theodore G. Wormley Dead.

Philadelphia, Jan. 4.—Dr. Theodore G. Wormley, a distinguished chemist and toxicologist and professor of these branches in the Medical school of the University of Pennsylvania, died at his residence yesterday of stomach trouble, after an illness of several months.

Laurada Sails for Home.

Gibraltar, Jan. 4.—The American steamer Laurada, the report of the intention of which to call at Valencia, Spain, caused such a commotion in that city, the Laurada having, it is said, been engaged in filibustering to Cuba, has sailed for the United States.

Farmers Burning Their Crop.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 4.—As a result of continued wet weather throughout the state farmers have begun to utilize a part of their immense corn crop for fuel for fear it may spoil. The market price is only 9 cents a bushel, and it is much more precious for fuel.

Bishop Scarborough's Daughter Weds.

Trenton, Jan. 4.—Miss Catharine Scarborough, daughter of Rt. Rev. John Scarborough, Protestant Episcopal bishop of the diocese of New Jersey, was married yesterday to Rev. E. J. Knight, rector of Christ's Episcopal church of this city.

Suicide of Walter S. Martin.

Portland, Me., Jan. 4.—At Sebago yesterday Walter S. Martin, the principal witness in the Bacheldor assault case, committed suicide by hanging. The cause for his suicide was undoubtedly over the Bacheldor matter.

Death of J. J. Davidson.

New Brighton, Pa., Jan. 4.—Word has reached here that James Johnson Davidson, congressman-elect from the Twenty-fifth district of Pennsylvania, is dead at Phoenix, Ariz.

Ohio Miners on Strike.

Massillon, O., Jan. 4.—The employes of all the mines in this district, about 2,000 men, have struck on account of a reduction in the price of pickmining from 61 to 51 cents per ton.

MILLIONS STARVING

The Famine in India Assuming Gigantic Proportions.

AN UPRISING OF NATIVES FEARED

British Jealousy Converts Russia's Action in Sending Relief to the Sufferers into a Deep-laid Political Scheme—The Plague at Bombay.

London, Jan. 4.—Advices received from Bombay, Calcutta and other central points in India regarding the famine in that country say that the apparent indifference of the British government to the sufferings of the people is causing great irritation among the natives, and that fears are entertained that if grain riots break out they may assume such proportions as to be similar to the Sepoy rebellion of some years ago, and again threaten English rule in that portion of the British empire. British jealousy of Russia is shown by the misconstruction placed upon the action of the government and people of that country in contributing funds for the purchase of grain and other foodstuffs for the starving millions of India. The statement that millions are starving is believed to be conservative, inasmuch as it is known that the famine is present in districts containing at least 15,000,000 inhabitants, and while some of these, of course, are in good circumstances, the vast majority are actually suffering for the wherewithal to sustain life. They are of the poorest classes, who have been compelled for years to live from hand to mouth with never a chance to lay by any provision in case of the total failure of their always scanty crops. Why Englishmen should look askant at the action of Russia in doing what they themselves seem disinclined to do can only be explained by the belief expressed in some quarters, particularly in the tory newspapers, that the generous action of the Russians is only a mask hiding some deep-laid political scheme, having for its object the raising of disaffection in India against British rule. Some of the tory papers express their approval of declarations that have appeared in certain Indian papers to the effect that aid from such a source should not be accepted. But they do not urge the government to extend aid to the sufferers, and in the meantime thousands of natives are dying. There is no question in the minds of those who are not prejudiced against Russia that the Russian movement had its origin entirely in charitable motives, and that it was intended as a response to the foreign aid given at the time of the great Russian famine some five years ago. The Russian newspapers point out in their appeals for subscriptions that had it not been for the aid extended to the Russian sufferers by Great Britain and the United States the death roll would have been much larger than it actually was. Quantities of grain have been purchased with the money raised by public subscriptions in Russia, and the Russian government has undertaken to forward all the grain to India free of cost. Advices from Bombay show that the bubonic plague is rapidly extending among the natives, who thus far have been the principal sufferers. Thousands of residents have fled from the city, but the exodus is more than counterbalanced by the arrival of large numbers of victims of the famine, who are pouring into the city in the hope of either obtaining work or of at least finding among the charitable relief from the pangs of starvation. These, weakened by want of food, quickly fall victims to the disease, which thus far has baffled the efforts of the physicians to control it. The sanitary condition of the native quarters also tends to the spread of the disease, but the natives, with their usual fatalism, are not to be taught the benefits of cleanliness in their habitations, and accept the plague as a visitation from their gods. It is thought that unless the sanitary regulations can be enforced by the civil authorities, it will be necessary to call upon the military for assistance in compelling the natives to observe the health laws.

Steel Works Resume.

Johnstown, Pa., Jan. 4.—The Johnson company, steel motor works, which have been idle for several weeks, will resume in full this week. This means that several hundred idle men will be put to work. The Cambria Iron company's open hearth mill resumed operations this morning and the steel works, blooming mill and billet mill will start up to-morrow. This will be good news to a large number of the men who have been out of work off and on during the last seven or eight months.

Watson-Spreckles Wedding.

San Francisco, Jan. 4.—The announcement of the marriage of Miss Emma Spreckles, the only daughter of Claus Spreckels, the multi-millionaire sugar planter, ship owner and railway promoter, to Thomas Watson, a well known broker of this city, in San Jose on Wednesday last, created a mild sensation in society, where both are very prominent.

Suicide of Mrs. Tuttle.

Waterbury, Conn., Jan. 4.—Mrs. Julia Farley Tuttle, aged 26, who committed suicide Saturday night at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Daniel Farrington, by inhaling chloroform, had made several previous attempts to commit suicide, but was unsuccessful owing to the watchfulness of her sister.

Nickel Steel for British Warships.

London, Jan. 4.—Following the example set by the American navy department, the British naval authorities have decided to use nickel steel instead of Harveyized steel for the protection of the warships under construction.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m. at 28 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 4, 1897.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Threatening and Light Rain. Cooler Tuesday.

At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 54 Degrees.

MR. DUMONT TO PRESIDE.

As predicted in these columns last week, Councilman Dumont will be chosen president of the Common Council for 1897 and Councilman Baker, of the Third ward, one of the new members, will succeed Mr. Dumont as chairman of the finance committee. Councilman Frost will be made chairman of the street and sewerage committee. A caucus of the incoming Council was held Saturday night, and much of the preliminary organization decided on. Another caucus will probably be held this evening before the meeting.

DEATH OF AUGUSTUS W. CUTLER.

The death of Hon. Augustus W. Cutler removes one of the most distinguished characters of New Jersey political life. Though an active partisan in Democracy's cause, his ardor never descended into offensiveness to opponents and in this way he was porsonally very popular. He was prominent in the councils of the Democratic party and had been honored with elective office several times. Mr. Cutler was well known to many Plainfielders, and his death will be the source of much regret.

GYMNASTIC LOGIC.

One of the veracious chroniclers who find employment on the paper published by the editorial drone writes writes an item to the effect of little boys "staggering around so drunk that they could not stand up," and following up this statement with one that the boys give Chief Grant a trying chase "through backyards and over fences." How boys could jump fences when they were unable to stand up is a bit of logic that the Drone's men are alone capable of elucidating.

THE REASON THEREFOR.

The total value of the taxable property of Plainfield is $12,600,00-, whereas that of New Brunswick is only $10,225,000. Who would think that Plainfield, with about 13,000 population, had a higher taxable value than our city, with 30,000 population and so many large factories?—New Brunswick Home News.

And who would think of comparing New Brunswick with Plainfield? About the only thing New Brunswick spends money for is to officeholders. Of modern improvements she is woefully lacking, and it is the possession of all these things that makes Plainfield property valuable.

A MODEL CITY CLERK.

Compared with the slipshod methods and unaccommodating spirit that characterized the administration of a former city clerk, the systematic routine and obliging ways of James T. MacMurray in that office for the past few years makes it eminently proper that he should be reappointed to that position, as undoubtedly he will be, the Mayor recognizing in him all the qualifications that tend to make a model official.

GET AWAKE!

Union county could get recognition in the Legislature if there was a little more push in her Assembly delegation. John Kean is only human. He cannot perform an impossibile task. There must be something like united action or Essex and Hudson will take not only the plums, but the tree that bears them.—New York Press.

BIMETALLISM.

Senator Woolcott has sailed for England with the avowed intention of investigating the attitude of European powers as to an international bimetallic conference, a bill to provide for which is now being framed for introduction in Congress.

The Legislature meets on Tuesday, January 12th, and immediately after its organization Governor Griggs will send his message to both Houses.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The Misses Saxton, of East Fourth street, entertained friends from out-of-town yesterday.

Mrs. Banta, wife of Dr. J. H. Banta, of Paterson, accompanied by her two boys, John and Frank, who have been the guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Meeker, of West Front street, returned home today after a delightful visit.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chillblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For Sale By L. W. Randolph.

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East.

James McFadden, of New York, spent Sunday with his parents on West Fourth street.

Fred Durand, of West Second street, leaves town today for a business trip to Virginia.

Roy Tyndell, of New Brunswick, was the guest of Plainfield friends on New Year's Day.

Miss Nellie Voorhies and Charles Veitch, of Brooklyn, are guests of Plainfield friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Fairchild, of Duer street, have been in Newark visiting relatives.

Will Fritz, of Westfield, has been visiting at the home of Adam Fritz, of Somerset street.

Miss Mary Collier, of East Sixth street, has been spending the holidays with friends in Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Allen, of Grandview avenue, have returned from a trip through New York State.

Miss Mabel Stillman, of Westerly, R. I., is the guest of her cousin, Miss Maxson, of West Fourth street.

Miss Luella Crowther, of Craig place, has returned after spending the holidays at her home in Oil City, Pa.

Nathan Lewis, of West Eighth street, has returned after spending his vacation with relatives in Ashaway, R. I.

Harry Hall, of Madison avenue, returned to Harvard College this morning after a two weeks' stay in this city.

Charles Noble, of East Fifth street, returned today from his home at Mendham, where he spent the holidays.

Louis S. Kelly, of Watchung avenue, left today for Readington, to spend the balance of the week with his parents there.

George Watson, of New York, was the guest of his friend, Wm. L. McClure, of Crescent avenue, over New Year's Day.

Benjamin H. Doane, of New York, was the guest of J. Hervey Doane, of LaGrande avenue, for over New Year's Day.

Miss Emily Dunham, of Congress, N. Y., spent the holidays at the home of her uncle, Peter Emmons, of Jackson avenue.

Miss Mary Hoxsey, of Westerly, R. I., has been visiting at the home of Mrs. George H. Babcock, of West Eighth street.

Miss Carrie Kellogg, of Mt. Pleasant, has gone to Bernardsville to resume her duties as teacher in the district school there.

George Burdick, of Westerly, R. I., has returned home after a visit at the home of Mrs. George H. Babcock, of West Eighth street.

Prof. Rush Rheese, of Newton Theological Seminary, preached a deeply interesting sermon at the First Baptist church yesterday morning.

George A. Horne, of Lehigh University, returned to his studies at college this morning after spending the holidays at his home on Willow avenue.

Wilbur F. Cornwell, of Waynewood place, has returned to his duties at the New York Homœopathic College after enjoying his vacation at home in this city.

Arthur Serrell, of Plainfield avenue, has returned to Bethlehem to resume his studies at Lehigh University after his Christmas vacation spent in this city.

Walter B. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street, returned to his studies at Stevens Institute this morning after spending the Christmas holidays at home.

Harry Maxson, of Westerly, R. I., who has been spending the holidays at the home of Mrs. Albert Utter, of Central avenue, returned home this morning.

Miss Edna Howell, of Chester, Pa., who has been visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. E. Alberti Whiting, of East Sixth street, returned home this morning.

Charles L. Lewis, of Watchung avenue, sang with the Lotos Glee Club at the watch night service in the Second Presbyterian church in Germantown, Pa.

Miss Josie Fritz, of Somerset street, received a large box of mistletoe last week, sent from Mr. and Mrs. A. Trust, of this city, who are now stopping in North Carolina.

Alfred Smalley, of Somerset street, Samuel Wheeler, of Mountain avenue, and A. M. Griffin, of Prospect place, left Saturday afternoon on a trip to North Carolina.

Fred Bird, of East Front street, starts this week for the great pine forests of North Carolina where he intends to start a saw mill. He will be accompanied by Edward Smalley, of Somerset street, who will assist him.

FAREWELL, '96 COUNCIL

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

street commissioner's report was ordered filed. The petition of the Plainfield Sanitary Company to erect a crematory for the disposal of garbage was referred to the incoming council, as was also the petitions for crosswalks now in possession of the council. The report of the committee on sewers was presented by Chairman Frost.

It states that there is at present 23.65 miles sewer pipe laid which was completed December 1st, 1895. During the year 705 permits for house connections were granted. A small area at the sewer farm was put under cultivation and the yield was 1-7 bushels of oats and 175 bushels of corn. It is hoped that during the second year of operation a self-sustaining sewerage system may be reached. Three men constitute the permanent working force employed on the beds. The local Board of Health has prepared an ordinance that conforms to the state law which makes it obligatory that every house on the line of the sewers be connected and it will be enforced with reasonable consideration.

The cast of maintenance of the sewage farm for 1896 was, net, $1,907.90, to which add interest $5,000, making $6,907.90, against $7,574 estimated for the maintenance of a cesspool system. The report is signed by G. H. Frost, S. A. Ginna and J. B. Dumont as the committee.

Mr. Frost offered a resolution that a certified copy of the report of the commissioners on sewers be furnished the sewer committee of the council.

Owing to the vacancy of one constable in the city, Mr. Fisk moved that J. C. Kirkner be elected to fill the vacancy and it was so ordered by an election by ballot. Mr. Dumont called up the Madison avenue commissioners report, and after the members took a recess to examine it, he stated that in his judgment the city would not be benefited to the amount assessed them. Another objection he cited was that there was one property over which there would probably be litigation if the work was pushed forward. Mr. Dumont then moved that the council refuse to confirm the report of the commissioners and it was so ordered.

While City Clerk MacMurray was being given an opportunity to write up the minutes of the last meeting, a little pleasantry was enjoyed among the members. Mr. Fisk moved that a vote of thanks be extended to President Ginna for his able services in the council. He said that Mr. Ginna, who now retires from the council, had served almost eleven years, during which time he had been president three times. He spoke of the valuable work Mr. Ginna had performed as a member of various committees and to the city.

Mr. Barrows also spoke a few words. He said that during the past year there had been no serious misunderstanding, and that the members had given honest expressions to their convictions. He paid a glorious tribute to the members now about to leave, who had supported the able administration of ex-Mayor Gilbert. There were six men, he said, to whom were due the success of the administration. They were Messrs. Ginna, Dumont, Erickson, See, Fisk and Frost. Of the above, Mr. Erickson had been taken away by death, Mr. See had moved out of the city and county, Mr. Fisk had been promoted and the members would lose the association of Mr. Ginna who now retired.

Mr. Frost re-affirmed the above words and spoke highly of the valuable work performed by Mr. Ginna, who had always shown a great deal of carefulness in all things. Mr. Fisk's motion was then seconded by Mr. Frost and it was adopted unanimously. Mr. Ginna said that he appreciated the kindly feelings shown, and that during the past five years the work in the Council had been particularly pleasant and harmonious. During his services as a Councilman the improvements made in the city were exceedingly gratifying to contemplate. He said that the streets were in good condition, the sewers were the finest in the State, the police department is better than ever and the fire department is second to none in the state.

Continuing, Mr. Ginna said that it would be his pleasure to assist the members at any time. After thanking Mr. Fisk for the pleasant political obituary, he wished all a Happy New Year.

Mr. Fisk then brought up the matter of fixing the compensation of the Sewer Commissioners, which he said had to be done by the 1896 Council.

A resolution was then offered by Mr. Dumont that $1,500 be appropriated as fees for the commissioners, and that the said amount be distributed by the commissioners. It was so ordered. The matter of fixing the compensation of the Corporation Counsel for legal work in connection with the sewers was left to the incoming council.

The last minutes of the council were then read and approved, and the council adjourned sine die.

Young housewives may depend on Cleveland's baking powder. It does the work just right every time. "I have used Cleveland's baking powder over 25 years—it never disappoints."—Mrs. B. F.

UNCLE OATCAKE EXPLAINS.

But His Explanation Puzzles His Little Nephew From the City.

"Say, Uncle Oatcake," said the little boy who was staying at the farm, "what makes you go to bed now?"

The time was a quarter past 8 on a winter's evening, and Farmer Oatcake, according to his lifelong custom, having wound up the kitchen clock, thrown the cat out into a snowdrift and read a chapter from Hezekiah, was preparing to go to bed.

"What makes me go to bed now?" repeated the agriculturist in blank amazement. "Why, so I can git up early."

"But, uncle, now that there is no work on the farm, what is there to do so early?"

"God bless the boy!" said Farmer Oatcake. "Do? Why, light the fire, to be sure."

"But what do you want the fire for so early?"

"Har, har!" laughed the farmer. "Well, now, don't that beat all! Ef you don't have no fire, how are you going to git breakfast?"

"But, uncle," persisted the boy, "what is the good of having breakfast so early?"

"The good of it!" cried Uncle Oatcake. "By gosh, sonny, ef you was to get up at 4 on a winter's morning you wouldn't want to be kept waiting round for breakfast! No, siree!"

"But you said you only got up to light the fire"

"That's it," assented the farmer.

"And you only light the fire so as to get breakfast?"

"That's right."

"And you only have to get breakfast because you're up so early? Aren't you arguing in a circle?"

"Aren't I which?" said the farmer.

"Arguing in a circle—a vicious circle?"

"See here, bub," said Uncle Oatcake sternly, "I've been working hard on this place for nigh 40 years, and, by gum, I ain't going to have a young whippersnapper like you telling me my life's vicious. I git up because I've got to git up, and don't let me hear no more d——d fool questions!"

Saying which, Farmer Oatcake took down his bootjack from its hook and retired.—Stephen Leacock in Truth.

Insuring a Friendship.

That there may be such a thing as carrying insurance too far is indicated by the case of Mr. Mulcahy and Mr. Mulhooly, two Irish gentlemen. Though they were known to be great friends, they were one day observed to pass each other on the street without a greeting.

"Why, Mulcahy," a friend asked in astonishment, "have you and Mulhooly quarreled?"

"That we have not!" said Mr. Mulcahy, with earnestness.

"There seemed to be a coolness between you when you passed just now."

"That's the insurance of our friendship."

"I don't understand."

"Whoy, thin, it's this way: Mulhooly an I are that devoted to wan another that we can't bear the odiea af a quarrel, an as we are both moighty quick timpered we've resolved not to shpake to wan another at all!"—Youth's Companion.

Retort Courteous.

He was deep in his paper and didn't want to be interrupted, but of course she didn't care anything about that.

"Did you read about that young couple that went through the marriage ceremony just for a joke?" she asked.

"No," he replied. "What of it?"

"Why, after it was all over they discovered that it wasn't a joke, after all."

"Oh, every one who tackles the marriage question finds that out!"

He wasn't interrupted again for a full half hour.—Answers.

Then He Left.

It had been time for him to go for nearly an hour, but still he lingered. Then in some way the subject of telegraph codes came up, and he said:

"Speaking of ciphers, the"—

"Now, don't be egotistical," she interrupted.

Then at last he decided that it was time to go.—Chicago Post.

Holds Without Tearing THE Velvet Grip Hose Supporter

Never Slips or Unfastens

All Styles and Sizes at Your Store.

Sample Pair, by Mail, 25 Cents.

CATALOGUE FREE.

GEO. FROST CO. BOSTON. P. O. BOX 1004.

Cushion Button Clasp

YOU

who have been looking for

KID GLOVES

that will give you the wear and service that you have a right to expect,

COME TO PECK'S,

where you will find satisfaction and style at a moderate price.

--JAQUETT'S--

CLOTHING Of the Latest Style for Men, Boys' and Children. Suits and Overcoats.

SUITS and OVERCOATS. School Suits, from 75c. up.

NOVELTIES FOR CHILDREN. Full lines in Top Coats, Beefers and Separate Pants.

MEN'S FURNISHINGS. All of the latest Novelties in Ties, Collars, Shirts, Suspenders.

HOSIERY, GLOVES, UNDERWEAR.

HATS of the Latest Styles at Moderate Prices.

One Price—Cash. Money refunded if goods are not as represented.

129 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

- YOUR LAST CHANCE - to secure the

GREATEST BARGAINS EVER OFFERED

in Plainfield. Everything

MUST BE SOLD

in two weeks. The balance of stock of

Dress Goods, Cloaks, Millinery,

Notions, Hosiery, Underwear,

Corsets, Men's Furnishings, Oil-Cloths, Mattings, etc., etc., to be closed out at your own price.

LEDERER'S,

115 WEST FRONT STREET.

EVERY THING

For the Fire-place.

MANTELS, TILES, GRATES.

SPARK GUARDS, $1.25 and up.

Curtis M. Thorpe, 310-312 Park Avenue.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

GEORGE E. ROGERS.....Lessee. | GEORGE H. WILLEY.....Manager

MONDAY, JANUARY 4th.

THE TORNADO

Lincoln J. Carter's Mammoth Scenic Production

The Awful Tornado, The Great Rigging Scene, Six Tars Furling a Monster Sail. The Collision of Two Ocean Liners at Full Speed. The Mighty Open Sea Scene, with Waves Running Mountain High. Dissecting Room of a Medical College. Chicago Harbor at Night, and many other Scenic Wonders.

"To hold as well as win success, Keep all your play-bill promises."
—LINCOLN J. CARTER.

Prices 75, 50, 35, 25. Seats on sale at Box Office Saturday, Jan. 2d.

THE BEE HIVE.

Men's Unlaundered Shirts

Lot 1—The "Cast Iron Shirt," made of good heavy muslin, good 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—38c.

Lot 2—New York Mills muslin, 3-ply fine linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—48c.

Lot 3—Our New York Mills shirt, made of New York Mills muslin, 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, continuous facing and hand-made buttonholes, equal to the best custom-made shirt—69c.

Boys' unlaundered shirts, 38c.

Men's laundered shirts 50c., 75c. and $1.00

LOUIS CALLMAN

222 West Front Street.

FLORIST

A. E. LINCOLN, 226 Park Avenue,

Has a large assortment of Choice Blooming Plants, Palms and Ferns constantly in stock. Sends out nothing but the best. Everything for the Holidays in the florists' line. Evergreen Roping, Holly Wreaths, Branches and Mistletoe. Fern Jardinieres and Floral Design Work a Specialty. The largest assortment of cut flowers in the city. Leave orders early.

Story of Ben Hur.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., have arranged for a rare treat for their friends and the public by the engagement of the celebrated stereopticon lecturer Prof. H. Theo. Chamberlain introducing the great dramatic spectacle—Ben Hur. This is in no sense a lecture but the story graphically told and illustrated with over 100 magnificent sterepticon pictures. There is not a moment of dullness in the whole evening. A crowded house may be expected.

Y. M. C. A. HALL,

Watchung Ave. & Front St., Plainfield, N. J.

TUESDAY EVENING JAN. 5, 1897.

Tickets 25c. Doors open at 7:30.

Story begins at 8 p. m. 200 seats will be reserved at 35cts. each. 1-2-2t

German Conversation Method.

I will commence the week after New Year's, a class in German Conversation, the object being to enable the student to follow light conversation, which would be of benefit in traveling in Germany or for business purposes. The method used condences grammatical expression as a foundation for conversation. The course consists of 40 lessons (60 hours) twice a week (number limited.)

Terms for the course $30.00.

Address REV. E. KIONKA, 325 West Second street.

P. MARKEY, Bakery,

144 PARK AVENUE.

A full assortment of bread, cakes, and pies fresh every day. Fig and malt bread a specialty. 2 17 tf

NEWMAN'S STAGE LINE TIME TABLE
Between Plainfield and Scotch Plains.

Leave Plainfield.....{7.00; 9.30; 12.45 a. m. 4.00; 6.00; 9.00 p. m.
Sunday—9.00; 12.30 a. m., 3.00, 6.00 p. m.

Leave Scotch Plains. {6.20; 8.15; 10.30 a. m. 2.00; 5.00; 7.00; 9.30 p. m.
Sunday—9.45 a. m., 2.00; 4.00, 7.00 p. m.

DEPOT—FRONT STREET AND PARK AVE.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Fireman James E. Touzeaux called on his brother in Brooklyn, New Year's Day.

A. S. Giles on Saturday completed the new heating apparatus in the Town Hall.

A. J. Whitney and family have returned from their holiday vacation spent at Newton, Mass.

Edwin Lewis has been entertaining his friend George Strueble, of High Bridge, for a few days.

Conductor Charles Dinneen and family enjoyed New Year's dinner with friends in Brooklyn.

John Rheinhart and family spent the latter part of the old year with friends in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Griggs are spending this week with relatives and friends at New Brunswick.

Union services were held in the Presbyterian church, Sunday evening, in charge of Rev. Mr. Custard, the pastor.

Frederick Holden, of New Market, has recovered from an attack of the grip, and resumed his duties with C. T. Rogers.

Mr. and Mrs. P.C.Smith entertained a jolly party of friends from Plainfield, Raritan and Pottersville over New Year's Day.

Mrs. John Book and children, of Irvington, returned home Saturday from a week's visit with Mrs. Book's mother, Mrs. J. C. Apgar.

William Gulick has been confined to the house for the past few days, suffering from intermittent fever. He is, however, today much improved.

E. J. McLaughlin, manager of the Ryder place, on Prospect avenue, is suffering from an aggravated felon on his left thumb. The wound is very painful.

A. A. Parker, who has been in attendance at the Madison Square Garden poultry show for the past week, returned home with his exhibits early Sunday morning.

The Dunellen Gun Club will hold their next annual meeting, on Monday evening next, after which the annual supper for club members and their friends will take place.

Tax Collector H. N. Spencer, of North Plainfield, was in Dunellen after dark, Saturday, sizing up the street and house lights. He called on several of the merchants and other consumers and received the assurance that the lights furnished by the company he represents are now giving better satisfaction than they have for a long time past.

Louis Wahl and family, of Washington avenue, had a narrow escape from suffocation, last Friday night. The family consists of Mr. and Mrs. Wahl and their three children, and before retiring the stove had been filled up with coal, and the damper shut off. All the members were more or less overcome by the gas, but they were soon resuscitated and pronounced out of danger.

An exciting runaway took place here Saturday afternoon, but fortunately no serious damage resulted. The horse was owned by C. Schepflin and became frightened near the depot at a passing train. The animal ran to the street railway terminus and turned safely into Dunellen avenue, with the hired man still clinging on to the reins. After making a circuit of the borough the runaway was brought to a stop and, it is said, the driver was as much frightened as the horse.

Some of the people in Dunellen want their pathway strewn with roses, and others want the new fire alarm moved from the round house to the new fire department building. The latter class evidently do not know the fact that by leaving the gong where it now is, is a saving to the taxpayers, on account of the cost of steam, which the railroad company, it is understood, furnishes gratuitously, and by transferring the gong it would be necessary to have a certain amount of steam on hand at all times—winter and summer—to blow it. The more conservative people of the borough are in favor of keeping the fire alarm just where it is.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Fred Schmidt has been visiting New York friends since New Year's Day.

The fire department apparatus has again been housed, and it is now in good working order once more.

Lynus Walpole has a pen of choice game fowls in the rear of his store, which will be ready to "get there" within a few nights.

The ice on what is known as the back pond was measured yesterday and in shallow water it was found to be five inches thick. But it is fast going to decay.

Real estate agent Thomas M. Paff has sold to George Kyte six acres of valuable land on Mountain avenue, near Park avenue. The land was purchased from Benjamin Clark and the purchase price was $300 an acre. Mr. Kyte is undecided as to what he will do with the land, but at any rate he will improve it in the spring.

The side and crosswalks in the Plains, were perhaps never worse than at present, and the residents who have to use them most, seem content to leave them in the condition they now are. Some of the people do not seem to know or realize that some ten inches of snow fell some days ago, and much of it still remains on their walks.

A stranger, well dressed, apparently about forty years of age, was found crouching in one of the closets adjoining the public school building, Saturday afternoon, late, and he was summarily bounced out. The man had been seen about town during the day, and to two or three persons he said that resurrection day at the Plains would not come until a big fire or flood. The fellow left for parts unknown.

The big barn adjacent to Blimm's hotel had a narrow escape from destruction Saturday evening. Henry Schenck, the colored porter, was putting oil into a lighted lantern when the oil took fire, followed by an explosion. The oil and Henry both caught fire, and so did the barn floor, but the flames were extinguished just in time to save a human life and the building, too. Henry says he has not been well since the occurrence.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Hugh B. Knox, of Webster place, is confined to her home by illness.

Miss Thorn, of Elizabeth, is a guest of the Misses Woodland, of Duer street.

Miss Laura Underwood, of Jersey City, formerly of Plainfield, is visiting friends in town.

Miss Harriet Mullin, of New York, is visiting Mrs. Seymour G. Smith, of Crescent avenue.

Miss Wilder, of New York, is spending several days with her friend, Miss Lovell, of Crescent avenue.

Miss Maxwell, of Hoboken, is a guest at the home of the Rev. E. M. Rodman, of East Seventh street.

Charles E. Butt, of East Front street, left for Toronto, Canada, Thursday night for a week's visit.

Miss Hilda Meisenbach, of St. Louis, is the guest of her classmate at Wellesley, Miss Mabelle Phillips, of Madison avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt V. Weed, of Washington Heights, N. Y., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Terhune, of Sandford avenue.

The Misses Loomis, students of Wellesley and Smith College, are visiting the home of J. Evarts Tracy, of West Eighth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin H. Swackhamer, of Woodbury, South Jersey, are guests of Lawyer S. S. Swackhamer, of the borough.

E. S. Little has resigned his position with L. Sternberg & Co., and has returned to Newark where he will engage in business for himself.

Frank Kleinhans and Chancey Huyler, of Lafayette College, came to Plainfield, Saturday, to visit Clifford M. Braider, of Manning avenue.

Henry B. Drake, of Duer street, returned to his duties with Willmerding & Bigsett, the well-known New York importers, after a short vacation.

Miss and Mr. Mac Cracken, of University Heights, N. Y., and Prof. Wilkins, of Paris, France, are guests at the home of B. J. Shreve, of Grove street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kress, of Brooklyn, spent New Year's Day with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Newman, of Steiner place. Mrs. Kress and Mrs. Newman are sisters.

Mrs. Henry Sterens and William Prior, both of this city, will be united in marriage at the home of the bride, 514 West Third street, on the evening of January 14th, at 9 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Groves will be the officiating clergyman.

A home gathering was held at the residence of ex-Marshal and Mrs. J. W. VanHorn, of Duer street, on New Year's Day, and a very enjoyable time was had. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Schooley, the Misses Edna, Cornelia and Florence Schooley and Mr. and Mrs. J. Madison Drake, of Elizabeth; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roll, of Linden, and others.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

ALL OVER THE TOWN

NEWS IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS THAT INTEREST ALL PLAINFIELDERS.

Gathered by Enterprising Press Reporters From Both Sides of the Brook and Tersely Served for Your Perusal.

—Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., meets tomorrow evening.

—Washington Camp, No. 30, P. O. S. of A., will elect officers this evening.

—The North Plainfield public school will reopen tomorrow after the holidays.

—An important meeting of Camp 28, Sons of Veterans, will be held tomorrow evening.

—Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will hold its first meeting for the year this evening.

—The collection at the First Baptist church yesterday morning was for Muhlenberg Hospital.

—The executive committee of the W. C. T. U., will meet Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

—Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M, will hold a regular communication tomorrow evening.

—The Women's Association of the Congregational church will hold a missionary meeting on Thursday afternoon.

—The directors of the First National Bank have declared an annual dividend of 4 per cent, which was payable Saturday.

—The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the parlors of the church.

—The floors in the North Plainfield public school building have been freshly oiled during the past week and the building generally has been cleaned.

—Justice Newcorn has decided to remove from his present place of business, 110 West Front street, and the store and the rooms above it are advertised to let.

—The Congregational church will observe this week as the week of prayer. Services will be held in the lecture room on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

—A meeting of the Governing Committee of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will be held this evening at the residence of the treasurer of the club, Josiah Browne, of Watchung avenue.

—B. R. Force has vacated the store, 130 Park avenue, and has associated himself with his father, G. W. Force, at Berkaw's old stand, 119 West Front street, where he will be pleased to see old friends and customers.

You can be well when your blood is rich, pure and nourishing. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood rich and pure and cures all blood diseases, restoring health and vigor.

Hood's pills are easy to take, easy to operate. Cure indigestion, headache. 25c.

THEATRICAL.

The dissecting-room scene in Lincoln J. Carter's new play, "The Tornado," which comes to Music Hall this evening, is one of the most attractive scenes of the performance, perfect in its detail. The action of the story during the scene is the very essence of quiet and refined intensity. At its close, as the curtain slowly falls, the young husband and surgeon, alone with his great joy, a storm of appreciative and sympathetic applause invariably comes from the audience. It was this feature of the new play which was awaited by Mr. Carter's admirers, with a possible doubt as to his ability to keep it free from gruesome shades, but the reception accorded the scene at the first production settled beyond a doubt the complete triump of the feature.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1896. A. W. Gleason, Notary Public. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. Cheney, & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

X The flowers that bloom to please the eye and cheer the heart, are gone, but we have their fragrance preserved, and for sale, in bottles; prices from 10c. to $8 00, ONE QUALITY ONLY—size and kind of package making difference in price. Best value we ever offered.

MAS

Successor H. P. REYNOLDS. T. S. ARMSTRONG, "THE APOTHECARY," Park and North avenues.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Randolph Runyon,
Funeral Director,
Residence, Over Office. Office 43 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J.

H. DeMott,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J
Calls promptly attended to day or night. White and black hearses. Coaches latest style.

DIED.

BAKER—At Scotch Plains, Jan 3, 1897, James A. Baker in his 60th. year.
Relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend his funeral at the Scotch Plains M. E. church, Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 6th., at 2:30 p. m. 1 4 2

WANTS AND OFFERS.

WANTED—For general housework, competent girl, family of three; must have good reference. 61 Grandview avenue.

IMMEDIATELY—Wanted for four months, with option to rent for year or buy, large unfurnished house, all improvements, large stable, electric lights necessary. Rent not to exceed $100 month. Must know tomorrow. VanBuren Bros., 163 North avenue.

LOST—A small yellow dog. Reward for his return to 31 Somerset place.

FOR SALE—Large lot of fine manure; also a good work horse cheap. Apply to Jones & Co. 12 31 2 COMPETENT dressmaker would take more engagements. Terms reasonable. B, care Press.

GOOD dressmaker would take more sewing, home or out. D., care Press.

WANTED—Cook or general housework girl. 97 Mercer avenue.

FOR SALE—Two nice urns, several cactus plants, and rolling top office desk. 125 Park avenue.

BY women, each with an infant or young child, situations in the country (general housework, plain cooking, etc.). Small wages expected. Railroad fare paid by Association. Apply State Charities Aid Association. 105 East Twenty-second Street, New York City. 1 4 3

WANTED—White girl for general housework in small family where two girls are kept. Must have good references. 734 Watchung Ave.

WANTED—Combination billiard and pool table in good order. Address A. B. C., care Press.

TO LET—Store and rooms above, now occupied by Justice Newcorn, 110 West Front street. Inquire Samuel Drier, pawnbroker, corner Front street and Madison avenue. 1 2 tf

LOST—Brown horse blanket, Thursday night about 8:30 on Central avenue or West Seventh street. Suitable reward. Dr. W. C. Boone, 450 West Seventh street. 1 2 2

LARGE and small furnished rooms, heated, with first-class board, gas, bath, at moderate rates. 529 West Front street. 1 2 3

LOST—On New Year's day, lady's small gold watch marked W. B. D. to C. H. H. If found please return to Press office. Finder suitably rewarded. 1 2 2

WANTED—Days work; washing and ironing or plain sewing. Call in the rear 536 West Third street 1 2 2

UNIMPROVED lots to exchange for improved property. Lyman. 171 North avenue. 12 31 3

GOOD position offered to lady or gentleman with acquaintance with good people in Plainfield. Salary or commission. Call on S. D. Drake, Bound Brook. 12 31 3

FOR SALE OR TO LET—No. 120 West Fourth street, store and dwelling combined and brick stable; been used for the last five years as bakery. E.C. Mulford, broker, owner. 12 26 tf

TO LET—Elegant 6 room apartments, Jackson building, steam heat, janitor service, halls carpeted, heated and lighted. Rent reasonable, particulars at Packer's furniture store. 11 23 tf

FIRST CLASS help and first class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 23 Somerset place. 11-10-1y

LOANS negotiated. E. C. Mulford, Broker 7 2 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, Broker. tf

HORSES boarded by the month. Terms reasonable. W. H. Rogers Washingtonville. 916tf

Plainfield's Busiest Store.
We sell goods cheaper than any Plainfield store.

JANUARY CLEARING SALE
IN OUR
House Furnishing Department.

This sale means a decisive change of prices, prices that cannot help but interest the most conservative buyer.

3,000 Fancy China Plates, some of them worth 39c., for this sale only — 13c.
50 Jardinere's, 7-inch, worth 49c., for this sale only — 19c.
50 Japanese Finger Bowls, with Tray, regular price 29c., only — 19c.
56 piece Decorated China Tea Set, were $5.98, now — $3.49
Terra Cotta Art Vases, were 98c., now — 49c.
Comet Oil Heaters, were $3.98, now — $3.25
112 piece Dinner Sets, all perfect, best porcelain, were $6.98, now — $5.49

EDWARD WHITE.

WALL PAPER
"A word to the wise is efficient."
From 3c.
Buy from the manufacturer and save middlemen's profits.
On receipt of postal card a fine assortment of SAMPLES sent to ANY ADDRESS.
To $2
Warerooms, 211-215 North Ave.
EDW. LOVE,

-BOEHM'S!-

Beginning MONDAY, Jan. 4th, we will inaugurate our annual sale of

HOUSEKEEPING LINENS, TOWELS, NAPKINS, SPREADS, SHEETS and PILLOWS
at our usually low figures.

We also call your special attention to the great mark-down sale in our

CLOAK, CAPE AND SUIT DEPARTMENT.

All kinds of Cloaks and Capes must be sold, if prices have anything to do with it. Our principle not to carry over any garment whatever, will be adhered to to the letter. Shrewd buyers in search of bargains will not miss this opportunity at

-BOEHM'S,-
113 WEST FRONT STREET.

Did anyone tell you to buy SLIPPERS for Xmas Presents? If so, we have what you want at the right price.

Don't forget we have HANAN SHOES for Ladies.

A. WILLETT AND SON
NO. 107 PARK AVE.

A FEMALE CREW.

BY ARDEN.

"Now which one?" asked Polly, as she stood on tiptoe that she might determine the point.

She was a plump Polly.

She was a short Polly, and the mantelpiece was a high one, so that there was no other thing to do than to stand on tiptoe while she gazed at two faces and wondered: "Which one?"

They were not female faces, but Polly, though young, was old enough to take a very positive interest in masculine faces. She had already decided which one she would like to marry, and would she have been surprised if some day, out of that surface of paper on the mantel-piece, had broken a voice: "Polly, my dear, as I love you, will you marry me?"

But he had maintained a grave silence because only a picture, for which reason nobody could claim credit for unusual discretion of speech for a man. Yes, dumb, dumb, and that gave Polly's warm affection a chill. Then he was her "first cousin Joe," and a kind of a brother, was he not? That gave her marrying fever a still colder chill. This young man was very handsome. His eyes were as expressive as Polly's, and that is saying a good deal. Her eyes were black, soft and loving. Anyone that had eyes as handsome as Polly Ricker's owned an excellent piece of property. His features were very regular. The lines of his mouth showed firmness, yet tenderness, and Polly, first looking round to see if Aunt Nabby were "peekin'," had kissed the picture the very day of our story. Aunt Nabby was not given, though, to "peekin'." That very moment she was frying doughnuts because Polly liked them. The other picture on the mantelpiece was that of an honest, reliable soul; but Polly had no affection for him. She was a visitor under the roof, and in the two weeks that her visit had stretched across, she had learned very much about the history of beings whose only presence was that of pictures. Had not Aunt Nabby said that this plain, sensible face belonged to a sailor, a young captain?

"Oh, the other is a seaman only; but I had rather marry a handsome sailor than a homely, stiff captain," was Polly's opinion.

She sighed.

She was thinking that the handsome sailor was only Cousin Joe. She hesitated a moment, kissed the photograph again, and then went downstairs to look out of a window fronting the sea and to pity sailors.

Everybody in the neighborhood had something to do with the sea, which was only a bit of a way off, and kept pounding night and day on the rocks, making all the fuss it could to attract as much attention as possible. To keep this unruly sea in any kind of subjection every one must do something. Uncle Ronald Ricker was the keeper of the yellow lifesaving station on the rim of the gray sands.

Uncle Ronald was a big, burly, good-natured kind of a fellow. Aunt Nabby was a slim, slender woman, whose thoughts were quick moving, darting out like swallows' wings, and her eye sparkled like a run of brook water the day the spring has lifted the lid of ice covering it.

Said Uncle Ronald to Aunt Nabby, in the hearing of Polly at the window:

"I'd like to have you, Nabby, clean up at the station, if you will, sweep round and so on. Nothin' doin' there in summer, but I want to keep things sort of slicked up, and I'll 'low you the pay for it. I've got to be off to my tater-patch t'other side of the back pastur'."

"I will, Ronald."

Ronald Ricker left the room.

"Polly, soon as I have finished these ere doughnuts—then—come on!" cried Aunt Nabby. "We will run that lifesavin' station this forenoon. They shall have a female crew to-day. You get the brooms ready. It is a worn-out thing down at the station. We'll be lively and start soon."

A small but sprightly broom-brigade soon charged upon the station and captured it without difficulty. Windows were thrown up, the brooms set to whisking, and the dust routed.

The living-room below, the men's headquarters by day, speedily was swept. The boatroom, with its apparatus of surfboat and breeches-buoy, lifecar and Lyle gun, rockets and signals, received prompt attention, and this floor also was thoroughly swept. Aunt Nabby remained to do some "cleaning out" behind the door where one of the other but less particular crew had left a heap of dirt. Polly, singing away, went upstairs hopping like a robin from step to step, landing on the threshold of the masculine crew's quarters by night.

"The beds look all right," said Polly, eying six iron beds, neatly covered with bedding and set in two prim rows along the northern and southern walls of the room. "Yes, they look all right, but I know those men didn't sweep under the beds. N-o, before I sweep, I'll take a look-off from the look-out on the roof."

This was a platfrom on the roof, railed about, and supporting a flagstaff. Here on clear days a watch was kept by the surfmen. If need be, a signal could be run up to the top of the staff, and any needy craft on the water promptly instructed.

"Guess women's eyes can see as quick as men's," murmured Polly, "and we will have it so to-day."

On her way up a short flight of steps to the lookout she halted in a little recess and examined the box of signals kept there. Since her arrival she had been very much interested in the signal department, and, instructed by Uncle Ronald, felt that she could now handle those signals as readily as the keeper himself.

"Don't I wish that Cousin Joe, whom I never saw only in his picture, were off on the water and needed some signaling from the shore!"

If she had followed the promptings of her [illegible] and the signal vocabulary per-mitted, she would have at once signaled: "I love thee, Joseph." But he was just Cousin Joe, and repressing any demonstration of special interest, she lifted the scuttle in the roof, threw it back, climbed upon the platform, and looked off.

Her heart started up and began to beat like a thresher's flail, for there was a schooner flying a signal. She knew what it meant. Was it Cousin Joe off there? Whoever it was, a signal of "distress" was fluttering above the vessel. Should Polly run and get Uncle Ronald? When in summer during the season of closed doors and vacant rooms at the station, any disaster might happen on the water, the proper procedure was to run for the keeper and notify him. At the head of as many of the old crew as he could gather from the cornfields and fish-houses, the keeper hurried to the station, operating as might be advisable. Uncle Ronald, though, was off on a "tater-patch," a mile away. In the meantime the whole United States navy, ducking their heads one after the other, could sink off this very station.

"Wasn't a female crew running this station to-day?" soliloquized Polly. "I'll answer that signal myself."

The schooner was so near the shore that if her sails had been set the appropriate signal would have been the JD of the international code of signals: "You are standing in to danger," but this vessel had dropped her canvas, as if meaning to halt anyway, and then she had a suspicious look, as if sinking.

"I'll let them know they are recognized, and that they may expect help," thought Polly, working swiftly.

Turning away from the staff, at whose head now fluttered this signal like a tongue of cheering speech, Polly ran down the short stairway into the crew's night quarters, then down the stairs, dropping to the kitchen, and cried, in jerks:

"Oh—oh!—zounds!—auntie—quick! Danger!"

"What?"

"Quick!"

She was now darting through the outer door.

"Git your uncle, Polly!"

"Too—too—far off! Come!"

And Nabby sprang after Polly.

"Let's—take—uncle's—boat, Aunt Nabby!"

"We go off?"

"Yes—yes! You can row; so can I."

"Good for ye!" cried Aunt Nabby. "I am with ye."

They rushed uncle's boat down to the firm, shelving sands. They pulled it through the low-running surf, and soon were alongside the schooner in distress.

"Quick—quick!" said a sailor, bringing a box to the vessel's rail. "We ran on the rock in the night, lost our boat, though we got off the rock, started a leak, and have been settlin' ever since—there, I'll go back with ye. Then I'll pull off and get another load. Cap'n is in the cabin gettin' things up. You are good to come off—women, too. Ready? Hum—now? All together. Pull!"

The boat was rowed ashore, the box, precious with papers and money, carried up the sands, and then the sailor said:

"Lemme go back alone. I will make more room for the next load, with cap'n or anyone that comes."

"I won't marry that captain, running on a rock," thought Polly. "He must be stupid and homely. Give me a handsome sailor."

She thought of Cousin Joe and the homely captain perched in state on the mantel-piece at the house.

As if looking behind and discovering her thoughts, the sailor remarked:

"It wa'n't the fault of our cap'n that we were on that rock, or narybody's. Things will happen, you know."

"I wouldn't marry him anyway," silently resolved Polly.

As the boat was rustling through the surf, Aunt Nabby said:

"Now, Polly, we are the crew to-day, you know, and must do jest as the crew does to the shipwrecked. I'll start a fire in the kitchen stove in the station. I saw some coffee and sugar down there in the pantry, and I'll git some milk and cake and biskit. We'll fix 'em. You watch by the stuff, as it comes. Rest of the crew is agoin' to the station."

Load after load was safely brought from the schooner, which all this time was settling. With the last boat-load came the captain. Polly started when she saw him step on the sands. Why hadn't she seen it while he was in the boat nearing the land? If Cousin Joe's picture had left the mantel-piece, and, turning up, had stepped out of the boat, she could not have been more surprised. This was Cousin Joe himself. She sprang forward.

"Why, Cousin Joe, is it you?" she cried, this short surfman flying up to him, reaching as high as she could and throwing her arms about him.

"I—I—I—" stammered the young man, blushing, though not displeased. "I—I—thank you with my whole heart for helping us so nobly, but I am not your Cousin Joe, sorry to say!"

Not Polly's Cousin Joe?

"Why, why!" she murmured, in confusion, starting back.

Another voice, though, was speaking—somebody from the station—and laughing heartily. "Dick Warner, I do declare—ha, ha! Glad to see ye hum! Polly, Polly, dear, come here! This is Dick Warner."

"I thought it was Cousin Joe—that picture on the mantel-piece," said Polly, blushing and hanging low her head.

"No, no," screamed Aunt Nabby, "you made a mistake. Cousin Joe is t'other picture—ha, ha! He'll be hum soon!"

Yes, the real Cousin Joe came home soon, and just in time to hear of the engagement between a certain young female surfman and Capt. Richard Warner.—N. Y. Ledger.

—Talleyrand never was in love but once, and that was when he was about 16 years old. When Napoleon ordered him to marry and picked out a wife for him, he pleaded this youthful attachment, which was immediately scoffed at by the great matchmaker as a piece of nonsense.

MENTAL ANXIETY KILLS.

How Constant Strain of Care Wears Away the Brain.

Destruction Is Brought About Through a Chemical Action Similar to the Constant Striking of a Hammer on the Cells.

Worry will kill!

Modern science has brought to light nothing more curiously interesting than this; and, more remarkable still, it has determined and can give in full detail, because of recent discoveries, just how worry does kill.

It is believed by many scientists—those who have followed most carefully the growth of the science of brain diseases—that scores of the deaths of each year, deaths set down to other causes, are due to worry, and that alone. The theory is a simple one. It is so simple that anyone can readily understand it. Below it is given in detail. Briefly put, it amounts to this: That worry injures beyond repair certain of the cells of the brain; that the brain, being the nutritive center of the body, the other organs become gradually injured, and some disease of these organs or a combination of them, arising, death finally ensues.

Thus worry does kill. Insidiously, like many another disease, it creeps upon the brain in the form of a single, constant, never lost idea, and as the dropping of water over a period of years will wear a groove in a stone, so does worry gradually, imperceptibly, but no less surely destroy the brain cells that lead all the rest and are, so to speak, the "commanding officers" of mental power, health and motion.

Worry, to make the theory still stronger, is an irritation at certain points, that if continued has serious results; but produces little harm if it comes only at intervals or irregularly. Occasional worrying the system, the brain itself, can cope with easily. But the iteration and the reiteration of one idea of a disquieting sort the cells of the brain are not proof against.

It is precisely as if the skull were laid bare and the surface of the brain was struck heavily with a hammer every few seconds, with mechanical precision, for days and weeks, with never a sign of let-up or the failure of a stroke. Such a succession of blows from a hammer would, of course, injure the brain irretrievably almost immediately, but that is the principle.

HOW MENTAL ANXIETY DESTROYS LIFE.

For just in this way does the annoying idea, the maddening thought that will not be done away with, strike or fall upon certain nerve cells, never ceasing, and week by week diminishing the vitality of these delicate organisms that are so minute that they can only be seen under the microscope.

The injury worry does is a curious one, and the way its influence works is a marvelously strange one. The best method of explaining it is to use the exact words of one of the greatest neurologists or nerve specialists in the country, Dr. George M. Jacoby, of New York, with whom a New York Recorder reporter had an extended talk the other night.

"Any one-sided work or effort," said Dr. Jacoby, "is deleterious, is harmful. A person worries on a single subject the same as people frequently overwork certain muscles. But in the former case the worry is constant.

"Now, the concentration of thought and mind not only tires out the nerve cells that are being used in this constant worry, but the other nerve cells which are not used at all, are, so to say, dormant and waste for lack of sufficient exercise. This is the first principle. In corroboration of this it is a well-known fact that a person who gets ill from worry continues to worry over that one thing, broods over it, lets it absorb him and his thoughts to the exclusion of all his other interests, bringing into play, it is supposed, continually the same set of nerve cells. It is the same as if a man used one muscle or one set of muscles continuously, only the effect on the nerve cells is far worse.

"That is the reason," Dr. Jacoby went on, "why a brain will wear out far more quickly under worry than under work. Under work, there is an attenuation of exercise and repose. There must be a judicial alternation between the two. All parts of the brain must be exercised, and then allowed to rest."

The doctor here explained that the cells that would be affected by worry were those in that portion of the brain that presides over the intellect, the cortex of the frontal lobes as the upper layer, this lying directly under the upper part of the forehead, where the hair begins in the average man, or possibly a trifle above that. The exact spot, practically the center of the "intellectual area" of the brain's surface, is shown in the picture, indicated by where the hammer is about to fall.

Tramps in Winter Quarters.

A gang of tramps are living very near Benton Harbor, Mich. They have fixed up a deserted mill with beds and fire and expect to spend the winter there.

Turkeys,
Chickens,
Ducks,
All Jerseys.
Prime Beef,
Mutton,
Lamb,
Jersey Pork and Sausage.
We invite an inspection of the FINEST STOCK IN THE CITY before you buy elsewhere.
SMALLEY BROTHERS,
The North Avenue Butchers.
Near the Depot.

Wall Paper
2cts. A Roll
Borders and Ceilings to Match, at
Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
201 Park avenue, corner Second street.
☞ The Largest Supply House in the City.

THE SAME STEEL.

Is in our cultery out of which the finest tempered swords are made. Our Pocket Knives, Table Knives, Carving Knives, French Kitchen Knives, Razors, Butcher Knives, Bread Knives, Oyster Knives, Clam Knives, and every other kind of knife. Are made of Superior Steel.
The famous Purity Oil Heater, still on sale for $3.98.
The J. P. Laire Hardware Co
Telephone Call 49 I. 93 1y

HOLIDAY PRESENTS
IN ENDLESS VARIETY
AT HARPER'S,
411 PARK AVENUE.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

HOTEL TUILERIES!
AND ROGER'S RESTAURANT,
139-141 East Front street.
ROOMS TO LET. CATERING

Joseph Carbone,
128 NORTH AVENUE,
Wholesale and retail dealer in choice fruits nuts, etc., all kinds of temperance drinks. Closed Friday night, sun down. Open Saturday evening at sun down. 12 14 1y

P. H. ZIMMER,
Practical Machinist and Engineer,
Steam, Gas and Electric Contracting. Complete Power Plants Installed. Experimental work. General Jobbing. All kinds of repairing. EXCHANGE ALLEY, in rear of Trinity church. Bicycles built to order. 12

PUBLIC BOWLING ALLEYS
AT
117 and 119 East Second Street.
C. M. ULRICH,
12 22 1y. Manager.

IRVING SAVINGS INSTITUTION,
96 WARREN STREET, NEW YORK.
The Trustees of this institution have declared interest on all sums remaining on deposit during the three and six months ending December 31, 1896, at the rate of FOUR PER CENT. per annum on amounts from $1 to $5,000, payable on and after Monday, Jan. 18, 1897. Deposits made on or before Jan. 10 will draw interest from Jan. 1.
G. BYRON LATIMER, Secretary. W. H. B. TOTTEN, President.
12 30 10

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.
Stock-Taking Sale
Columbia Sewing Machine—five years' guarantee—$29.00—Cash or Credit. has just begun. Sale is not made up of a few pieces here and there, but includes EVERYTHING carried in our immense stock, PORTLAND RANGES excepted. We want to have as few goods on hand as possible when stock records are taken. THAT accounts for present low prices. No better opportunity for GENUINE bargains ever offered in the State.

Exceptionally large line of well-built Parlor Suits—newest kind of coverings and frames.
$25. Suits to $17.00
$40. Suits to $30.00
$50. Suits to $35.00
$75. Suits to $50.00
$125. Suits to $75.00
This Parlor Suit, silk brocatelle, plush trimmed, $25.00

Bedroom Suits
Our enormous stock of Bedroom Suits—over 200—oak, mahogany, Walnut. They're below wholesale now.
$35. suits to $25. $40. suits to $30.
$50. suits to $35.00
Others up to $100. Formerly one-third more than present prices.
HERE'S OUR OFFERING IN CARPETS
Moquettes, 75c. Best Body Brussels, 90c. Velvets, 75c. Best Brussels, 75c. Other Brussels, 45c. All-wool Ingrains, 55c. About 50 rolls good heavy Ingrains, suitable for any part of the home, formerly priced 65c and 75c, now at 35c and 39c yard—rare chance. As an EXTRA inducement, we propose to make and lay Carpets FREE at these prices!
Balance of Stove stock at cost. See us before selecting elsewhere.
Self-Feeding Parlor Stoves, $5.63 up.
LIBERAL CREDIT TO ALL.
AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.
NOTE NAME AMOS AND NO. 73 BEFORE ENTERING STORE
73 Market St. Near Plane Street
NEWARK, N. J.
Telephone 580 Goods Delivered Free.

IS YOUR EYESIGHT DEFECTIVE?

There is no safer, surer or cheaper method of obtaining proper relief for over strained and defective eyesight, headache and so forth than to consult this Specialist. The happy results from correctly fitted glasses are a grateful surprise to persons who have not before known the real profit to themselves in wearing good glasses. No charge to examine your eyes. All glasses guaranteed.
Leech, Stiles & Co.,
EYE SPECIALISTS.
H. A. STILES will be at 107 East Front street, Dunham's real estate office, every THURSDAY, from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 30 CENTS.
PRIMES, $1 AND $1,50 PER HUNDRED.
-AT ROGERS.-

ASSIGNEE'S SALE
of the entire stock of GEO. A. HALLOCK, 109 W. Front St.
GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS,
Hats, Gloves, Trunks, Umbrellas, Etc., all New Goods and Up-to-Date.
MUST BE SOLD AT ONCE.
12 22 tf J. F. MACDONALD, Assignee.

The Better the Food
The Better the Health.
MORAL
Use my White Lable Canned Vegetables.
California Naval Oranges. Tangerines. Table Apples.
Preserved Fruit. White Grapes and Lady Apples.
G. W. ROCKFELLOW,
The Park Avenue Grocer.

W. J. STEPHENSON,
The Caterer,
Has RESUMED business again at his old stand,
146 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will be pleased to see his many friends and former customers.

Central Railroad of New Jersey

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street

Time Table in Effect NOVEMBER 15th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59 7 28, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 30, 8 38, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 37, 11 10 a m; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 46, 5 22, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 16, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30 5 36, 7 01, 8 13 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 00, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 1 30, 3 30 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 8 00, 8 38, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 37, 11 10 am; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 22, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28 p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 3 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 36, 7 01 8 13 8 32 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 18, 7 55, 8 30, 9 05, 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 35, 3 05, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 25, 5 42, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30, 11 35 a m; 1 10, 1 35, 2 50, 4 05, 5 40, 7 20, 9 20, 10 2 Passengers for Newark please change car at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 2 11, 2 32, 3 35, 4 36, 5 09, 5 15, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 58, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p m; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 03, 3 43 5 14, 6 26 10 15, 7 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 30, 7 35, 7 45, 8 19, 9 05, 9 48, 11 45 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 3 25, 4 25, 5 28, 6 08 6 35, 8 07, 8 50, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a m; 12 08, 1 30, 5 10, 6 35, 7 53, 9 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m., 12 46 2 11, 4 58, 5 15, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 06, 7 00, 8 54, a m; 12 33, 4 04 7 00, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 52 a m; 6 30 7 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 54 a. m; 5 03, 5 15 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

6 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 04 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

5 05 p. m., way for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

6 15 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor Allentown Mauch Chunk Scranton, Wilkesbarre Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 39 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 58 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 11 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 28 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

5 05 p. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua Reading, and Harrisburg.

8 16 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

9 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m. 1 15, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, p. m. Sunday, (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 13, 10 04, 10 27 a. m 1 15, 3 12, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m.; 1 15 4 21, 5 32 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34°, 6 46, 9 21, 9 37° 1 17 night. Sundays—5 17, 5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14° p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m. 12 46, 2 17, 2 32°, 5 34°, 6 39°, 9 21, 9 37° p.m., 1 17 night. Sundays 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14°. p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a. m., 2 17, 5 34°, p. m., 1 17. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14° p. m., 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 25 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (°) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect December 2d, 1896.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7 44 a. m. Daily (Sundays 8 01) Local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m. 3 34, 5 22, 7 32 p. m. daily except Sunday. Local for Bound Brook.

11 54 a. m. Daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday. "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

1 44 p. m. daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

2 34 and 4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6 26 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

8 22 and 9 54 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9 32 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn-Local-6 49, 7 15, 7 43, 9 40, a. m. 2 29, 4 45 and 6 40 p. m. Sunday 9 03 a. m., 2 21, 6 08 p. m. Express—7 23, 8 27, 10 02 a. m 12 14, 2 17, 5 11, 7 07 and 8 17 p. m. Sundays—7 23 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 48, 7 50, 10 06 a. m. 12 13, 2 33, 5 20, 7 07 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 10 a. m. 2 20 and 6 30 p. m.

For Metuchen only 6 23 p. m. except Sunday.

For further information consult Ticket Agent.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent,
S. Bethlehem, Pa.
CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
Philadelphia, Pa.
A. W. NONNEMASHER,
Ass't General Passenger Agt.,
South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt or Desbrosses street.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:20 p. m. Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:20 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m: closes 9:30 a. m

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor
109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss Helen B. Dunham,
TEACHER OF PIANO AND ORGAN.
Pupil of a German Professor. For reference address, Prof. John C. Bergner, Clinton, New Jersey. Call on or address Miss Helen B. Dunham, Dunellen, New Jersey. s 20 6m

MISS FAWCETT'S SCHOOL AND Kindergarten.
25 Washington avenue.
Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Boys received until 10 years of age.

NEW DESIGNS
LARGE VARIETY.
HIGH GRADE
PARLOR HEATERS,
Stoves, Ranges and Oil Heaters
OUR PRICES ARE LOW.
Hardware, Heater and Furnace Work.
A. M. GRIFFEN.
119 E. Front st. Telephone 6

TOWNSEND'S
Marble and Granite Works,
SOMERSET STREET.
Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

FRANK DAY,
114 WEST SIXTH ST.,
(Near Park Avenue.)
Livery and boarding stable in all its branches all kinds of turnouts right or day at short notice. Horses boarded by day, week or month. Telephone No. 152. 9 10 tf

BARRELS-MONEY IN GOOD PATENTS
"HINTS TO INVENTORS"
mailed free. Patents quickly procured and sold. Lowest liberal terms. Gen. Rufus King superintends selling department. Consultation free. Call or write Clark, Deemer & Co., 189 Broadway, New York. Percy C. Ohl, Babcock Building, Plainfield, represents this firm.

Oysters!
The North Plainfield Sea Food Market are selling first-class Oysters and all kinds of Fish at very reasonable prices.
Coddington & Ackerman.
7 15 1y

Get Your Turkeys, Chickens and Ducks for the holidays at
W. L. & J. M. Smalley,
94 Somerset street.
Telephone Call, 42b.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

Hillier & Co.,
North ave., Plainfield.
Telephone 30M

M. Powers & Son.
Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No 2 Coal Only $3.75 'n the Y.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

RUDOLPH KERSTING
BAKER AND CONFECTIONER
201–203 West Front Street.
TRY OUR NEW ENGLAND AND HOME MADE BREAD.
VIENNA BREAD A SPECIALTY.
Charlotte de Russe, Cream Puffs, Chocolate Eclair, all kinds of Pastry and Cakes, FRESH EVERY DAY.
Delivery to any part of the City or Borough at any time.

Store Open Evenings.
Useful Holiday Presents.
Desks, Tables,
Easy Chairs, Rockers, etc.
Fine China,
Elegant Lamps,
Fancy Pottery.
G. Q. PACKER. J. W. GAVETT.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,
—Dealers in—
Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c.
Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.
BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Call at
J. F. MACDONALD'S
The Uptown Grocery.
And be convinced that it is our aim to supply the people with the best goods at the lowest prices and that we now have a full line of all the new goods necessary to make your order complete.

Muse Raisins,	3 lbs. for 25cts.	Figs,	10	cts. per	lb.
Table "	5 " " 50 "	English Walnuts,	15	" "	"
Currants,	3 " " 25 "	Paper Shell Almonds,	25	" "	"
Cal. Prunes,	2 " " 25 "	Pecans,	18	" "	"
" Apricots,	2 " " 25 "	Filberts,	15	" "	"

A choice lot of apples $1.75 a barrel.

JAS. R. BLAIR.
126 Park Avenue,
Has a fine assortment of Neckties, Mufflers, Umbrellas, Silk Handkerchiefs, Gloves, &c.,
Ready for the Holidays.

POWLISON & JONES'
FURNITURE WAREROOMS,
149-151 EAST FRONT ST.
PRESENTS
A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF USEFUL HOLIDAY GIFTS.
IT WILL INTEREST YOU TO LOOK THEM OVER.
Open Evenings.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.
177 NORTH AVENUE.

SPECIAL SALE AT CRANE & CLARK'S,
Hat and Furnishings Store.
120 West Front street. Prices Cut on all lines of Men and Boys wear.

Special—We place on sale today a Big Line of Suitings and Trousers.
Trousers to order $3.50 worth $5
Suits to order $18, worth $25
SEBRING'S.

Bargains in Real Estate
For sale or to let.
MONEY to loan on first mortgage.
E. C. Mulford,
Send for blank contracts. 169 North avenue.
Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.
BROKER.
Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

Election of Assembly Officers Only Needed To Complete Its Organization.

Albany, Jan. 4.—Although this afternoon is the time set apart for the organization of the legislature, very little in that line will be done until to-morrow. Many members of both houses are still absent. The organization of the state senate will not be materially changed from last year, and all that will be necessary to complete the organization of the legislature this year is the election of officers in the assembly. Assemblyman O'Grady, who expects to be chosen speaker without opposition, will not open headquarters until to-morrow. The caucuses of the republican and democratic members to nominate candidates for the various assembly positions will be held to-morrow evening. After organization is completed and the members have drawn for seats, the legislature will adjourn until the evening of January 13, when the assembly committees will be announced. The members of the legislature are to take an active part in the celebration on Wednesday of the one hundredth anniversary of the location of the state capitol at Albany. The celebration is in charge of a state commission appointed by the governor, of which Mayor Thacher is president. This will be an elaborate event in the history of the capital city and many prominent citizens from all sections of the state are interested in making it a success.

CELESTIAL PHENOMENON.

Reflected Sun Rays Caused the Earth To Appear To Be Afire.

New Orleans, Jan. 4.—An extraordinary celestial phenomenon was visible here yesterday. Thick heavy clouds were rolling and it was as dark as night. At that hour, suddenly, the sky was overcast with a peculiar pinkness and the rays reflected gave the earth the appearance of being on fire. The remarkable display lasted perhaps ten minutes, but it was startling during its brief existence. The weather bureau explains that it was the sun's rays reflected through a certain cloud. It was followed by a fierce gale along the lake front. Persons residing at West End declare that in eleven years they have witnessed no such storm. The people there were much frightened. The waters of Lake Ponchartrain were driven in and overflowed Spanish Fort and all the roads leading from the city to the lake, in some places reaching a depth of three feet.

HINDOO-CREOLE COLLISION.

Damage to the Former Is Under Water—Will Have To Be Docked.

New York, Jan. 4.—The Wilson liner Hindoo, which was in collision with the Cromwell line steamer Creole in the lower bay Saturday evening, is now anchored off Clifton, S. I., but will be towed to her dock this afternoon. Capt. Douglas reports that the Hindoo is leaking in the forepeak, some of her bow-plates are cracked, and as the damage is under water its exact nature cannot be ascertained until she reaches her dock. A portion of the cargo in the forehold will have to be discharged before the necessary repairs can be effected. The steamer's pumps are kept constantly going to keep the forepeak free of water. Several stanchions and beams are also cracked and will have to be repaired before the steamer resumes her voyage.

Two Missions to King Menelek.

London, Jan. 4.—An English special mission to the Negus Menelek is under the consideration of the foreign office. The French government is about to dispatch from Obok an important mission headed by M. Lagarde, late governor of Obok, who has already held frequent communications with Menelek, and, it is believed at the English foreign office, has approached that potentate on the subject of a French protectorate over Abyssinia or some such understanding as would effectually check the expansion of British influence in the regions of the upper Nile.

Death of Dr. B. W. Munson.

Sharon, Conn., Jan. 4.—Dr. Byron W. Munson, a well-known physician, died here yesterday of asthma and heart trouble at the age of 53 years. Dr. Munson was a graduate of the Yale Medical school. He served through the late war with the medical corps, and was a member of Elias Howe post, G. A. R., of Bridgeport. From 1881 until 1890 Dr. Munson was superintendent at the State Soldiers' home at Noroton, Conn.

Fears for a Missing Schooner.

Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 4.—Considerable fear exists in this city for the safety of the schooner Blanche B. King, Capt. Bennett, from Philadelphia for this port, with a cargo of coal. The schooner left three weeks ago, and about ten days ago came over Nantucket shoals in company with another schooner for this port which has been here for over a week. It is feared that the schooner has been run down or met with some other mishap.

Death of James A. Smith.

Hartford, Jan. 4.—James A. Smith of the grain firm of Smith, Northam & Co. of this city died yesterday, aged 58. He was a director of the Connecticut Mutual Life, the Aetna Fire Insurance company and the Phoenix National bank. Mr. Smith was a cousin of J. Pierpont Morgan, the New York banker.

Mark Hanna To Attend.

Albany, Jan. 4.—Mark Hanna will attend the banquet to be tendered by the state league of republican clubs to the next United States senator-elect at Harmonius Bleecker hall here on January 26.

Duke of Cumberland Out of Danger.

London, Jan. 4.—The Duke of Cumberland, who has been suffering from nephritis at his home in Gmunden, Germany, is now out of danger.

GERMANY'S DEFENSES

Artillery Bill Carries an Appropriation of 177,000,000 Marks.

FOR REORGANIZATION OF THE ARMY

Russia Negotiating in Paris for a New Loan of 600,000,000 Marks—The Czar's Liberal Policy—Austrian Court Scandal.

(Copyright, 1897, by the United Associated Presses.)

Berlin, Jan. 4.—The new artillery bill, which will be laid before the reichstag soon after the chamber resumes its sittings, will propose an addition to the military budget of 177,000,000 marks. Certain semi-official papers, commenting on the reports current that 200,000,000 marks would be demanded, have denied the accuracy of the statement and inferentially suggested that the country had at present no reason to fear an additional burden through the army estimates. In point of fact the new bill has for some time been drafted and forms part of a general scheme for the reorganization of the army, involving the creation of new regiments of infantry and a new grouping of battalions and brigades. Military authorities who are permitted to speak on the subject, and whose opinions are worth having, deny the current reports that the impending reorganization of the artillery is due to the Canet quick-firing gun being adopted by the French army. The new German field gun was tested at Krupps in the presence of the kaiser and a special staff of officers more than a year ago, was approved as the most potent field piece yet invented, and has been since under constant construction. The kaiser keeps in close touch with the Krupps, at whose works guns on the new model, but of a different calibre, are rapidly being manufactured and tested.

New Russian Loan.

Leading Berlin banking firms concur in crediting the report that the Russian government has been negotiating a new loan in Paris amounting to no less than 600,000,000 marks. Private advices from St. Petersburg, supported by letters from Paris, at first mentioned an even greater sum, 800,000,000, and added that the French bankers had refused to consider terms on the ground that France was overloaded with Russian loans; that part of the last loan had not yet been absorbed by the public, and further that under the conditions of that loan Russia was debarred from raising another before April, 1897. Some tentative action towards negotiating with Berlin and Frankfort houses have been going on since the reluctance of the French bankers to deal became known at St. Petersburg, but these overtures were not received favorably, so the Russian finance minister has resumed communication with Paris firms. The loan, if obtained soon after April, will be the prelude to the resumption of specie payments by Russia, provided nothing happens in Europe to endanger the czar's present peace policy.

The Czar's Liberal Policy.

Apropos of the now known tendency of Nicholas II. towards a liberal and pacific regime, advices from Warsaw and other centers in Poland concur in speaking of a marked change in the restrictive measures enforced against the people by the authorities, greater freedom being allowed to the press and the public. A notable instance of the change of spirit in the Russian authorities is seen in the correspondence of the St. Petersburg Novoe Vremya, which has opened its columns to advocacy of the conciliation of Poland, a larger degree of toleration for the Catholic Poles, and the cessation of restrictive measures throughout those now wide regions where the Russian government has the adhesion of the people. The Novoe Vremya has long been the fierce enemy of the Catholic Poles, and this change of front is therefore significant. The czar's recent action in resisting the pressure of the Moscow authorities to punish the riotous university students by deporting them to Siberia is another favorable sign of better times in Russia.

Austrian Court Scandal.

Berlin as well as Vienna court circles have recently been eagerly watching the developments of a scandal connected with the career of the Austrian Crown Prince Rudolph, who, with his sweetheart, the Baroness Marie Vetsera, committed suicide at Meyerling in January, 1889. It is known that the Emperor Francis Joseph has paid enormous sums to meet the responsibilities which his son left behind him and to conceal some of the lamentable results of his disorderly life. Some correspondence which the archduke left fell into the hands of a man who did not scruple to have part of it photographed and sent to the emperor, with an offer to restore the originals for a large sum, the alternative being publication. As the letters contained some frank criticisms of the emperor's secret policy and of the personages around the throne, the affair became a matter of reference to the cabinet. Arrests and legal prosecutions were talked of in Austrian court circles for a time, but now it is understood that there will be no public scandal, the matter having been arranged privately.

French Elections.

Paris, Jan. 4.—The elections which were held yesterday in different parts of France for one-third of the members of the senate, resulted in the defeat of the radicals, who failed in their attempt to oust moderate republican candidates wherever the latter contested the districts. Even Seine-et-Marne, the bourgeois' own department, and the department du Nord re-elected the retiring moderate republican candidates.

PASSING COMMENT.

There is one little newsboy that frequents the streets late in the afternoon who has attracted quite a little attention by the extremely mournful tone in which he accosts the passerby. He is quite a small lad and his voice has that watery tone which suggests that tears are soon to flow. It seemed natural to the youngster until recently when he changed his tune to one of general disgust at the world in general.

* * * *

There is one man in this city that believes that bicycles were made to use every day, rain or shine, hail or snow, and that man is Whitney Frazee, the package expressman. Every day he can be seen riding down the street hidden under his load of bundles. The recent snow did not phaze him at first but when the second fall came he had to walk part of the way. He will ride through the mud as if he enjoyed it and there is not a street too muddy in the city for him to try.

* * * *

Three years ago Rev. Father Miller was assigned to St. Joseph's (R. C.) church, in the borough. At that time the church was $10,000 in debt. During the three years, both pastor and people have worked hard to liquidate the enormous debt, and they have succeeded remarkably well. Yesterday morning Father Miller announced that all but $2,500 of the debt had been raised. This news will encourage the members to make an extra effort to raise the remaining amount of the debt.

New Year Calls.

The Misses Shreve, of Grove street, with a few friends, received New Year calls on the afternoon and evening of January 1st. The revival of an old custom was attended with much pleasure for the young people. The hostesses were, in addition to the Misses Shreve, Miss MacCracken, of University Heights, N. Y., the Misses Haviland, Clark, Rodman, Clapp and Well, of Plainfield; Miss Jennie Loster, of New York; Miss Maxwell, of Hoboken; and Miss Agnes Baldwin, of Brooklyn.

Chronic Rheumatism Cured.

Dr. H. B. Hettinger, Indiannapolis, Ind., says: "For several months after spraining my ankle I was severely afflicted with Rheumatism. I finally tried Detchon's 'Mystic Cure' for Rheumatism, and in four days could walk without my cane; two bottles cured me sound and well. I take pleasure in recommending the 'Mystic Cure' to all who are afflicted with Rheumatism." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Entertained at Euchre.

Mrs. R. H. Rice gave a progressi v euchre party at her home on Craig place, Saturday evening, in honor of Miss Gussie Smith, of Wilkesbarre, Pa. The first lady's prize was won by Miss Sarah Long and the first gentleman's prize was captured by Willis West. The consolation prize was received by Miss Dottie Long. Among those present was Harry Austin, of Elizabeth.

Sixth Anniversary.

The sixth anniversary of the Salvation Army in Plainfield will be celebrated Thursday evening. The services will be led by Adjutant Emily March, formerly stationed here as captain. On Saturday and Sunday Ensign MacLaren and Captain Dart will have charge of the services. From the 16th to the 26th a great midwinter camp meeting will be held.

To Plant Game.

President John Goff, of the local branch of the New Jersey State Game and Propagating Society, is in New York today for the purpose of purchasing 500 young rabbits and fifty dozen young quail, which are to be distributed on the society's reserves in and near this city. The society is still on the alert for persons who shoot and fish out of season.

Remembered the Janitor.

Janitor S. R. Hope, of the Bryant School, was kindly remembered by the teachers of the school, a day or two ago. He was presented with a well-filled purse of money and a note conveying to Mr. Hope their appreciation for his many kindnesses during the past year.

Branch Freight House Started.

The old freight house, now known as the Grant avenue freight house, was opened for business today. It has been placed along the track, between Plainfield and Grant avenues, with an opening on South Second street. Edwin Beekman is in charge.

CHARMING CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Miller Lamps are Beautiful.

Give a bright and steady light that is better than gas or electric light to read or work by; are simple, clean, convenient, delightful to use.

No other lamp will please you so much.

All styles to select from. If not for sale by dealers you can buy at our store.

Our Fine Brass and Onyx Tables are Beautiful.

Edward Miller & Co., Manufacturers. Established 1844.

28 and 30 W. Broadway, N. Y.

For cool weather buy a Miller Oil Heater.

10 15-Mon-Thur

PARTICULAR MENTION.

"Freddie" Jones, of baseball fame, spent Sunday in town with friends.

J. Fred MacDonald is confined to his home on East Front street by illness.

Forrest J. Kleinhans, of Lafayette College, is the guest of his cousin, Clifford M. Braider, of Manning avenue.

Mrs. and Miss Hellwig have gone to Brooklyn to spend a week. Any messages for them may be left with Hebard, the druggist.

Miss Powers, of New York, who was to take the position of aoprano soloist in the Crescent Avenue church, yesterday on trial, was unable to be present on account of illness and the position was filled by Miss Cora Marion Purviance, of Crescent ave.

The Misses Nellie and Elizabeth Wells, of this city, spent New Year's Day at the home of their sister, Mrs. Jacob Kress, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Kress received many callers on the new year from Plainfield, New York and Brooklyn, wishing them happiness in their new home.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The classes in St. Mary's parochial school will resume their studies tomorrow morning.

—Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26 F. and A. M., installs its officers tomorrow night to serve the lodge for the ensuing year.

—Queen City Lodge, No 226 I. O. O. F., will meet in the Elkwood building this evening for the transaction of routine and some important business.

—Theo. Roder, of East Second street, desires The Press to state that it was not his child that upset the oil stove at his home last Friday, but his wife's nephew who was a visitor at the house.

New Building For Union County.

The county of Union, through the Board of Freeholders, may purchase the Sheridan House, in Elizabeth, to convert it into a county building. The hotel, which is now the largest in the city, will be vacated next month, as the present proprietor, John A. Staats, has leased the new building just erected in Broad street, by former Congressman Clark. The Sheridan House belongs to the estate of the late Postmaster Sheridan. The Board of Freeholders, it is said today, will make an offer of $25,000 for the property.

The New Solons.

The City Council for 1897 will hold its first regular meeting this evening, when the announcement of committees, and the selection of a president, clerk and janitor will be made.

It is likely that the incoming Common Council will make several reductions in the salaries of some of the officers of the various departments, that of the Street Commissioner being reduced to $1,000. If such action is taken Mr. Meeker will not permit his name to be used in connection with the office.

A Benefit Dance.

A benefit dance will be given in T. A. B. hall next Wednesday evening, for Thomas Miles, of this city, who is very low with consumption. An effort will be made to secure funds to send Mr. Miles to Colorado.

Cases in Justice Newcorn's Court.

In Justice Newcorn's Court the case of the Nason Manufacturing Company against Voorhies has been settled, and judgment was given the plaintiff in the case of Wolf against McNamee.

To Raise Chiefs.

District Deputy William Newcorn and staff, of Miantonomah Tribe, I. O. R. M., will go to Elizabeth this evening and raise up the chiefs of the Tribe in that city.

A Return to Their Old Home.

Steps were taken recently toward the return of the congregation of Disciples to their house of worship on Grove street, now occupied by the Brethren.

Public Schools Open.

The Plainfield public schools opened this morning with a good attendance after the Christmas vacation.

Collector Bird in Office.

Collector E. H. Bird assumed the duties of his office today for the first.

Doing His Part.

Chauncey—And so you are going to marry Miss De Billion? You're a deuced lucky chap.

Lord Smallmeans—Yaas, but—hang it—the luck isn't all on my side. If she finds money, I find blue blood, bwains and—er—beauty.—New York Sunday World.

IN A COUNTRY POST OFFICE

The Postmistress Draws Inferences and Arrives at Conclusions.

"I have an aunt," said a well-known Rochesterian the other afternoon, as he sat in a down-town office to wait until the worst of the rain had passed over, "who is postmistress in one of the prettiest little hamlets in western New York. A beautiful town it is, I tell you, nestled amid vineclad hills and bold scenery. It is an ideal place for a summer's vacation, as it stands at the foot of a pretty lake, whose waters stretch away for miles, and upon whose waves many a moonlight ride can be enjoyed."

The men who were gathered in the office applauded the beauty of expression into which their friend had fallen in his poetic fervor for the place of his aunt's nativity. It was declared by one that to have an aunt who lived in such a town was better far than to wear a crown, whether of gold or silver.

"Yes," replied the eulogist, "it is a great joy. To have an aunt serenely abiding in such a lovely place is more than falls to the lot of any of you ordinary mortals. But to have an aunt who is postmistress as well as resident —that is perfectly entrancing. I have been down to see her lately, and I spent one or two mornings with her behind the little boxes into which the mail of the inhabitants is placed. Of course she knows everyone, and almost all of them have a word of greeting for her.

"'You must get quite an insight into the affairs of this neighborhood,' I said to her one day, 'handling so much of its corespondence.'

"'Yes,' she said, 'I know a good deal that is going on. I cannot help it. Many of the letters which go through my hands tell their own story without opening them. It is all stamped on the outside. I get very familiar with the handwriting of these people about me, and this fact often reveals to me some plots and schemes which the writers fancy are profoundly secret.'

"'You interest me grea'ly,' I said.

"'Lawyers, doctors, newspaper men and business men have their secrets,' she went on, 'and post office officials have theirs also. I think, however, ours are guarded the best, because the law compels us to keep our mouths closed.

"'There comes a girl now,' she exclaimed, as she looked out of the window down the street. 'Now, just watch her when she comes in. She will carry a very anxious look on her face until she sees there is a letter in her box, then just notice how her expression changes. She will go and peek at the letter first, and when she sees it is from him—from the young man—she will give one little subdued exclamation of joy, and ask me for it with a face wreathed with smiles. See if I have not described her actions correctly.'

"Of course I was deeply interested, and secured a point of view where I could observe the young woman closely. True enough, she came in with a most preoccupied look on her face, as if she were debating whether she dared to hope for a letter; she went directly to the box which interested her, and when she saw the letter it contained a little smile rippled over her face, which made me feel both guilty and envious as I watched her from behind the scenes. Then she raised herself on her tiptoes, screened her face with her hands and carefully examined the directions on the envelope. When her heel touched the floor again a look of such ecstasy swept over her countenance that I was for going out and congratulating her on the spot. A man feels like throwing up his hat in the air and shouting hurrah when a girl beams like that, no matter if the lucky man is miles away. But the postmistress frantically motioned for me to keep quiet, as she went to the delivery window to wait on the young miss. Up walked the girl as big as life, her face radiant, her eyes full of laughter which told the entire story, and her whole bearing that of a very satisfied girl.

"The postmistress handed the letter to her demurely enough, but it was pounced upon as if it were the rarest treasure on top of the earth. It went into her pocket after she had given it one loving glance, and then the girl disappeared down the street, walking as if she was as happy as a queen.

"'She gets a letter about every day,' explained the postmistress, 'and she seems as anxious for every one of them as if it were the first in years. And when she expects a communication from that youth and it does not come her face is a study. Every particle of joy seems to leave it. You noticed how triumphantly she swaggered down the street just now, I presume.

"'If you could see her on one of the days when the coveted epistle does not reach her, you would hardly believe it was the same girl. Slowly she drags herself along, her head downcast, her eyes almost in tears, and you fairly hear her exclaiming out of her heart full of woe: "Oh, why didn't he write? What is the matter?" Not so very strange, either. I used to feel that way myself once upon a time. There were lots of joy and sorrow, many heartburns and little quarrels, but after all it was very sweet to me—those years long ago when he was young and I thought there was no one on top of the earth his equal. It couldn't last forever, could it? He turned out bad, and has paid the debt, but—'"

"'See here,' said one of the party, 'the skies are clearing, and it is time we were all going, before you go any further in the affairs of the postmistress. It is quite scandalous the way you are telling her secrets.'

"Yes, I have given you enough for to-day, but there are a number of characters which I saw through the eyes of the postmistress, and some other afternoon I will give you another one of them."

And the party broke up with the understanding that the next story from the lips of the postmistress should not be of love, but something more blood curdling.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

$35. Will buy you a First-Class High Grade BICYCLE.

Peck & Snyder and Winslow Skates from 49c. up.

PLAINFIELD CYCLE AND SPORTING GOODS CO.

147-149 NORTH AVENUE.

H. E. RIDER, President. C. C LISTER, Secretary and Treas.

AFRICA'S NEW BISHOP.

Head of the Methodist Church in the Dark Continent.

For Many Years Bishop Hartzell's Work Has Been Among the Negroes of the United States—His Record as a Churchman.

Bishop Joseph Hartzell, D. D., LL. D., who was elected at the last general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church to fill the bishopric made vacant by the retirement of Bishop Taylor from the head of the missionary work in Africa, is making preparations to leave this country the latter part of November for a tour of inspection in his new field.

The new missionary bishop is of medium height and of muscular build, and his hair and beard are white. Among the ministry of his church he is held in high esteem, and in the south, where most of his life has been spent, he is very popular. The bishop is the son of Michael and Nancy Hartzell, of Moline, Ill., who celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding day last May. He was born in Moline, Ill., in 1841. At the age of 16 years he entered the Northwestern university at Bloomington, Ill., and from there went to the Garrett Biblical institute at Evanston. He spent 11 years in these institutions fitting himself for the ministry. Before he left the Garrett institute he proved his courage by swimming out during a storm to a schooner wrecked on the lake shore and saving the lives of four men. The young preacher stayed in Illinois for two years. In February of 1870 he was transferred to New Orleans, where for three years he was the pastor of the St. Charles Avenue church. During his pastorate there he became deeply interested in the work of the church among the negroes, and when by the rules of the conference he was obliged to give up his pastorate, he was elected presiding elder and superintendent of the churches and educational institutions in the conference. This post he held for ten years. During that time he founded many schools and churches, and devoted himself to the practical work of the church. He founded the Southwestern Advocate, and was its editor for nine years.

In 1882 Mr. Hartzell was elected assistant secretary of the Freedman's Aid and Educational society, and since then his work has been mainly among the negroes. So successful was he that in 1888, at the general conference in New York city, he was elected corresponding secretary of the society for four years, receiving reelection at the conferences at Omaha in 1892 and at Cleveland in May of this year. As the executive officer of the society he has handled more than $2,000,000, and his work has been most successful. When the general conference decided to retire Bishop Taylor on account of age, Rev. Mr. Hartzell was elected to the post. In speaking of his plans he said to a New York Sun reporter:

BISHOP JOSEPH C. HARTZELL.

"I shall attend the meeting of the bishops of the church in Pittsburgh, and the general executive committee of the Women's Foreign Missionary society. I shall then go to the meeting of the general missionary committee of the church in Detroit, beginning on November 11, and as soon as is practical after that I shall sail for Africa. My field includes the whole continent, and my first tour will be one of inspection and exploration, occupying probably two years. I will visit the missions already established and then study new fields for possible openings for others. I shall open the Liberia annual conference in Monrovia on the first Wednesday in February, and shall give careful attention to the missions in that republic. My next visit will be to the Congo, where a mission conference will be held. Fillowing this I shall visit the missions in Angola, extending 400 miles inland from the St. Paul de Liando. I shall also visit the missions on the southeastern coast, and shall probably return and report to the church in about two years. My post is a life one, and I enter upon its duties with enthusiasm and hope."

Bishop Hartzell has three sons. His wife was Miss Jennie Culver, of Chicago, a relative to Miss Helen Culver, who recently gave $1,000,000 to the Chicago university. His son, Joseph, is a teacher at Johns Hopkins university. Mrs. Hartzell will remain in this country while her husband is making his first tour of Africa, and when he goes there two years hence she will accompany him.

Satisfied With Himself.

Missionary—Now, my friend, is it possible that your conscience does not reproach you?

Westerner—Well, I s'pose there's a few cusses I ought to have shot and didn't, but there ain't many.—New York Sunday Journal.

NOW

Our Winter Goods of all kinds MUST GO, and the REDUCED PRICES must move them quickly.

Boy's all-wool mixed Overcoats at $2.25, were $3.00.
Boy's Overcoats, all-wool, at $3.50, were $4.50.
Boy's Overcoats $3.75, were $4.50.
Boy's Ulsters at $2.50, were $3.75.
Boy's Ulsters at $3.50, were $4.50.
Boy's Cape Coats, all-wool, at $2.50, were $3.50.
Boy's Cape Coats $3, were $4.50.
Boy's Reefers, navy blue, chinchilla velvet and sailor collars at $2, were $3; and at $2.50, were $3.50.
Boy's Suits $2, were $3.25.
Boy's Suits $2.75, were $3.69.
A fine assortment of boy's all-wool Knee Pants, strong, warm and well made, only 25c., a regular 50c. article.
Ladies' long Fur Capes $7.50, were $13.50.
Ladies' long Fur Capes $9.50, were $15.50.
Ladies' black Cloth Capes $3.75, were $5.75.
Ladies' boucle Cloth Capes, lined with plaid silk, at $9, were $13.50.
Everything in Winter Coats, Suits, etc; will be sold at cost or less than cost.
Now is a splendid opportunity to buy.
All of our 50c, 60c. and 75c. novelty Dress Goods at only 39c.
Wool Blankets and Comfortable at reduced prices to close them out quickly.
Winter Gloves for men at great bargains.
And of course anything left over in Christmas Goods will go at almost any price.
Now is the golden opportunity to save money at

EDSALL'S.

Opportunity for Safe and Profitable Investment.

The N. J. MUTUAL REALTY COMPANY.
(Incorporated.)

Have acquired 200 acres of land with 6,000 feet frontage on C. R. R. of N. J. and Lehigh Valley Railroad at a cost of $22,500 and propose selling stock to small investors in $100 shares at par to pay for property. Already negotiations are pending to locate first-class manufactories along railroad front.

This plan will enable the Company to sell building lots at low prices, and all profits derived from sale of this property is to be divided among stockholders.

All stock payable to Treas. of Company on or before April 1, 1897. Already upwards of $10,000 stock have been subscribed for.

The following gentlemen are officers and directors of the Company.

A. D. Thompson, Sylvanus Ayres, Jr., Peter Egenolf, President Board of Trade, Elizabeth; P. H. Oakley, Insurance Broker; S. D. Drake, Richard H. Brokaw, cashier First National Bank, Bound Brook; W. W. Smalley, firm of L. D. Cook & Co.

For prospectus and full particulars call or address,

N. J. MUTUAL REALTY CO.,
ROSS BUILDING. BOUND BROOK, N. J.
Or First National Bank, Plainfield and Bound Brook.

The Strongest Claim

We make for the superiority of our

Demulcent Cream OF Witch Hazel

is that the people who have used it say it is the most efficient

TOILET REQUISITE

they ever used. For chapped hands it is unequalled.

Price 25c a Jar.

Leggett's Pharmacy,

Y. M. C. A. Building. Telephone No. 4.

ELY'S CREAM BALM is a positive cure. Apply into the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York City.

WE WANT FEET

to fit our shoes. The invisible cork sole ones are particularly apprapriate this season of the year. We're selling them at right prices.

Doane & Edsall.

Store closes at 6, Saturday 10 p. m.

NEUMAN BROS.,

Grocers,

Corner Watchung Ave. and 5th St.

Last Edition. THE DAILY PRESS Last Edition

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., TUESDAY, JANUARY 5, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

ENTER COUNCIL OF 1897.

City Fathers Organize for the Present Year.

COUNCILMAN DUMONT CHOSEN PRESIDENT.

The Streets and Sewers Put Under One Committee With Mr. Frost as the Chairman—Councilman Baker to be the Watch-Dog of the Treasury—A Committee Appointed to Work With the Mayor For a City Hall—Other Business of the First Session.

The first meeting of the new City Council for 1897 was held last evening and the members took their seats as follows:—Messrs. Barrows, Baker, Stebbins, Frost, Runyon, Randolph, Serrell and Westphal. Mr. Tolles was the only member absent.

City Clerk MacMurray called the meeting to order, and Mr. Barrows nominated J.B. Dumont for president. Mr. Westphal seconded the nomination and by motion the clerk cast the ballot for Mr. Dumont.

The latter, on being escorted to the chair by Messrs. Barrows and Westphal, thanked the members for the honor bestowed. He said that there were few cities as clean in municipal government as Plainfield, and he hoped it would be kept so. He thought that inasmuch as the delinquent tax list is large and money is needed, it would be wise to have a permanent committee on assessment and collection of taxes. He also thought it wise to elect a clerk from year to year, though some legislation in an attempt to lengthen the term had been tried.

J.T. MacMurray was then re-elected clerk, and W. V. Mundy as janitor.

Mr. Barrows moved that The Daily Press and Courier-News be designated as official papers of the city. Mr. Barrows also moved that the rules of 1896 govern the council for 1897, and that the street and sewer committee be consolidated, that there be a committee on assessment and collection of taxes, and that the clerk be authorized to secure the necessary stationery for the council and committees. All of the above motions were adopted.

President Dumont then announced the following standing committees:

Finance—John T. Baker, Harold Serrell, Ralph I. Tolles.

Street and Sewers—George H. Frost, Ralph I. Tolles, Elliot T. Barrows.

Police—Elliot T. Barrows, William N. Runyon, William A. Westphal.

Fire and Buildings—Albert C. Stebbins Charles J. Newman, William N. Runyon.

Alms—William A. Westphal, George H. Frost, Albert C. Stebbins.

Lights and Trees—Ralph I. Tolles, William A. Westphal, John T. Baker.

License—Isaac S Randolph, Elliot T. Barrows, Charles J. Newman.

Laws and Ordinances—William N. Runyon, Isaac S. Randolph, Harold Serrell.

Assessments and Collection of Taxes—Harold Serrell, John T. Baker, George H. Frost.

Auditing—Charles J. Newman, Albert A. Stebbins, Isaac S. Randolph.

An application from W. H. Wyckoff for the position was received and filed.

Ex-Collector Johnson reported a check of $300 received from the Street Railway Company as fees to the city. A letter was also received from Mr. Johnson, in which he asked for extra pay for collecting the sewer interest taxes, and he asked the Council to fix the amount of compensation. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

J. B. Coward stated in a communication that he had had a fire proof vault erected in the collector's office as recommended, at a cost of $300, and he felt obliged to ask the city an additional rent of $100 per year in consequence. This matter was referred to the Finance Committee. The bonds of Constable J. C. Kirkner and Wm. C. Mattox were received, approved and ordered filed and W. Odam applied to the Council for the position of a special policeman and the matter was filed. At this point the first message of Mayor C. J. Fisk was presented and read. It will be found in another column. After it was read Mr. Barrows moved that a copy of it be furnished every member.

Mr. Barrows offered a resolution that a committee of three be appointed to act with the Mayor, President and Council, in taking up at once the city hall matter. Messrs. Barrows, Baker and Westphal was the committee appointed.

A similar resolution was offered by Mr. Barrows regarding the collection of back taxes under the Martin act, and the present Committee on Assessments and Collection of Taxes was named, to confer with the Mayor, President and Council.

The matters brought up at the meeting of the old council last Saturday evening, that were referred to the incoming Council, were brought up in due form and referred to the proper committees, to be reported upon later.

Mr. Baker offered a resolution that the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to secure bids for an amount of money not to exceed $24,000, in sewer bonds,

CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.

DR. PROBASCO PRESIDENT

BOARD OF EDUCATION RE-ORGANIZED FOR A YEAR.

Fred C Lounsbury Chosen Secretary of the Board—But Little Important Important Business at the First Regular Session.

The new year did not bring much business for the Plainfield Board of Education to transact. On the contrary, the opening meeting of the year was short and to the point.

The entire Board was present when called to order by the president, Mr. Lounsbury, who was re-elected to the Board at the last election, and was in his usual seat. Mr. Lovell was chosen temporary chairman to preside while the election of officers was held. Dr. Probasco was unanimously re-elected to the office of secretary. Dr. Probasco then took the chair and thanked his colleagues for the honor conferred on him, and wished them a Happy New Year. F. B. Clark was elected clerk at the same salary, $440, as last year.

The usual batch of approved bills was read and ordered paid. Then the secretary presented the bill of Horatio H. N. Johnston for flagging at the Lincoln school. Mr. Johnston, said the secretary, had been unable to complete his job on account of bad weather, but he had now done about $450 worth of work and he asked for a portion of the money due him on account. Mr. Lounsbury recommended that he be paid $350 on account, and the board accepted the recommendation.

The report of the city collector of taxes, John Johnson, for December was read and showed that taxes had been collected to the amount of $27,254.05, and that with the interest due on it, amounting to $45.10, the total was $27,300.15 Of this $16,300.15. had been deposited in the First National Bank and $1,100 in the City National Bank.

A communication was read from Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., inquiring as to the decision of the Board as to their request that they be allowed to present an American flag to the new Lincoln school. The secretary read his reply to the communication in which he asked for further information regarding the details of the presentation, should the Board decide to grant the request.

Another communication came from the Improved Stone Blackboard Company regarding terms for the making of blackboards for the upper floor of the Lincoln school. Their terms, they wrote, were the same as in their present contract for the boards for the first floor, the payment to be made after September 1st. The Board decided to accept these terms and Mr. Lounsbury was authorized to take action in the matter.

An application was read from Henry L. Palmer for the janitorship of the Lincoln school. The application was placed on file.

Superintendent Maxson made a report of the monies received by him during the past year. He reported that $436.50 had been received from tuitions and $59.04 from the sale of books.

President Probasco made a few remarks about the excellence of the recent Christmas exercises at the High School. In response to a question by one of the members of the Board, Mr. Lounsbury said that he thought that the new building would be completed about the first of March. The Board then went into executive session.

WANT NO BLOOD SHED.

Friends Society Urge the Adoption of International Arbitration.

At a conference, under the auspices of Friends Philanthropic Committee held in Friends' Meeting House Sunday afternoon, the following on the subjects of International Arbitration was unanimously adopted:

This Conference hails with much satisfaction the adoption by official representatives of the Governments of the United States and Great Britain of an international arbitration ready to provide for the settlement by arbitration of difficulties which may hereafter arise between the two countries, and it unites in the expression of an earnest desire that the proposed treaty may be satisfied by the two nations at an early date; and it trusts that kindred treaties may soon be made with other European nations.

The Conference was addressed by Isaac Roberts, of Pennsylvania, Aaron M. Powell and others.

—Dr. Johnston's School re opened yesterday after the Christmas holidays.

—A meeting of the McAll Auxiliary will be held tomorrow morning in the Library.

—The Misses Scribner and Newton's School on LaGrande avenue will open Monday after the holiday vacation.

A BOOM IN REAL ESTATE

SILAS D. DRAKE PROPHESIES GREAT THINGS FOR SUBURBAN LAND.

Plainfield Trolley Road Likely to Be Extended to Somerville, and the Trade of Lincoln Sent to Plainfield.

A reporter of The Press called at the offices of the S. D. Drake Real Estate Company at Bound Brook yesterday and interviewed Mr. Drake, the president of the company, as to the outlook for real estate for the coming year.

"I am very much interested in Plainfield's future," he said, "as I have been in its past history, as Washington Valley was the home of my ancestors, and about a year ago I assisted in forming the Mountain Park Company. This company's work during the past year has been phenomenal in the building of the famous Mountain Park Inn. A number of prominent people have purchased plots of land there and built several cottages, and a number will be built in early spring. This company deserve credit for promoting this grand movement, that will add so much to Plainfield's other attractions as a place of residence.

"While this movement aids in making the Greater Plainfield, the crowning effort of my life will be in the founding and building up the new town of Lincoln, composed of 200 acres, with 6,000 feet frontage on the Central Railroad and Lehigh Valley, being about one and one-half miles west of Dunellen. Recently the New Jersey Mutual Realty Company acquired this valuable property, and already several high-grade manufacturers are negotiating to locate there on account of its splendid railroad facilities. As soon as the frost leaves the ground in early spring active work will be done in grading streets and avenues, which will be laid out at right angles. The New Jersey Mutual Realty Company is what its name implies—a mutual company. Already some twenty-five subscribers have taken $7,000 of the stock, and while the company have had propositions for the balance of the stock from several individual capitalists, the promoters are anxious to give small investors an opportunity to subscribe for from one to two shares each, and thus make it a popular movement.

"Already Plainfield has partially annexed Dunellen with its trolley line, and during the coming year the trolley line will be extended through Lincoln to Somerville, and the up-to-date business men and financial institutions of Plainfield will profit from these improvements."

The officers of the company are: President, A. D. Thompson, Plainfield; vice-president, Sylvanus Ayres, Jr.; second vice-president, Peter Egenolf, president Board of Trade, Elizabeth; P. H. Oakley, treasurer; S. D. Drake, secretary and manager. Richard H. Brokaw, cashier First National Bank, Bound Brook, and W.W. Smalley, of L. D. Cook & Co., Bound Brook, are directors. The First National Bank, of this city, will receive subscriptions for stock.

PRAYING FOR SELVES AND OTHERS.

Union Prayer Meeting Services Marked by a Spirit of Devotion.

The very disagreeable state of the weather last evening was the cause, no doubt, of the small attendance at the first of the union prayer meetings, held in Trinity Reformed church. Those in attendance, however, were spiritually refreshed and strengthened by the very helpful service of the evening, and a genuine spirit of consecration seemed to prevail. Rev. Dr. Yerkes, who had charge of the meeting, in his remarks, made all feel the need of greater efforts in soul saving, by the Christian people themselves. Then followed many prayers for the coming of God's spirit and the quickening of His people. Drs. Barnes and Schenck were present, as were representatives from all the churches in the movement. To-night the meeting will be held in the same church and Rev. Arthur E. Main, D. D., pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will have charge.

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

WANT CLEAN CROSSINGS

BOROUGH COUNCIL HEAR COMPLAINT ABOUT STREET COMMISSIONER.

Prominent Citizens Allege That the Cross-Walks Are Not Passable in Wet Weather.—Lively Meeting All the Way Through.

The rain or something else had a deteriorating effect upon the members of the North Plainfield Council, last evening, for when Mayor Hegeman called that august body together in regular adjourned session only Councilmen McLaughlin, Valiant and Woolston responded to the roll call.

The financial statement of the clerk, showing recent collections to be $203.50, and a total deficit of $544.94, was read, received and ordered on file.

Tax Collector H. H. Spencer submitted his usual report and it was filed. A recapitulation showed that of the 1896 taxes, $25,894.73 had been collected and of the levy of 1894, $1,301.91 had been gathered in. The 1895 taxes had been previously acknowledged.

John Harman, claiming to own land fronting on what is known as the east end of Regent street, petitioned council to have that section of the thoroughfare vacated. The matter was referred to the street committee.

George Townsend and others petitioned the council for a crosswalk at Myrtle and Sycamore avenues.

Mr. Valiant, from the Fire, Water and Lamps Committee, reported the location of three additional electric lights on Coddington avenue; nine on Mountain avenue and one on Leland avenue, the same to begin burning from Jan. 1. The report was filed.

The Street and Public Health Committe, through its chairman, Mr. Woolston, reported verbally that the Watchung avenue extension was nearing completion and the only drawback at present was the scarcity of stone.

Mr. Valiant presented a petition asking for street lights on Wilson avenue, between Cedar street and the "Stone House."

Mr. McLaughlin raised a point by asking whether or not the avenue had ever been accepted by the borough, and he was told that it had not.

Mr. Woolston favored giving the petitioners the required light, and Mr. McLaughlin considered that by so doing would only be to establish a poor precedent.

Mr. Valliant wanted the matter referred to the Street Committee with power. Finally the opinion of Corporation Council Chas. A. Reed was asked, and he replied that if the people living on that thoroughfare wanted light they should be willing to have the avenue accepted by the borough. In short the borough had no right to order it lighted. A resolution accompanied the petition, but the resolution was lost.

The action of Warren Engine Company in electing William Debele a member was confirmed.

Mr. Valiant asked for information concerning the tax receipts and the disposition of the same, and Clerk Arnold replied that the borough's share of the $25,000 would amount to about $3,000 in round numbers. The same Councilman also offered resolutions, which prevailed, substantially as follows: That the note for $1,025.25 be renewed for 30 days and the same be charged to the light account; that the note for $1,108.40 be renewed for 30 days and charged to the fire department account; and that the Mayor and Clerk draw a warrant for $800, due on account of work done on the Watchung avenue extension.

Mr. MacLaughlin offered a resolution to the effect that those objecting to the vacating of Wilson avenue make known their objections early this month, when a special meeting of the Council will probably be called to take final action in the matter. The resolution was adopted.

A street light at the corner of Chatham street and Watchung avenue was authorized.

Mayor Hegeman appointed, and the Council unanimously confirmed, Rev. W. E. Honeyman as a member of the Board of Health for five years, his term of office to begin on January 15, 1897.

Contractor Dowd called attention to the cross walk at Duer street and Lincoln place, also the walk in front of the Wooden property, which he said had not been cleared of snow and ice this winter. "For the last six years," said he "we've waded through snow and slush in the winter, but the Lord has been good and melted off the recent snow."

Mr. Woolston thought it eminently proper for people living adjacent to crosswalks to keep the walks clear.

Mayor Hegeman scored the street commissioner by declaring it to be a disgrace the way some of the walks are allowed to remain. He said: "There is absolutely no excuse for the street commissioner not doing his duty, and if he don't, we'll get some one who will. The condition of many of our walks is a disgrace to the borough."

There being no further business the Council then adjourned.

JILTED AND WENT MAD.

JOHN ROTH CRAZED OVER A GIRL WHOM HE LOVED.

One Day He Insulted Her and After That She Wouldn't Have Anything to Do With Him—His Mind Now Affected.

Unreciprocated love for a woman bas had a sad effect on the life of John Roth and now, in the very prime of his life, his long broodings and meditations have borne their fruit and his mind, weakened by the severe strain, has wandered, and so sorrow has entered the Roth household.

Martin Roth is well-known as a shoemaker in this city where he has lived for years. His shop is now located on Exchange alley above Front street. His two sons, Martin Jr., and John, assist him.

At one time John Roth drank more than was good for him, but about five years ago he gave it up and started to live a temperate life. He met a young woman from Netherwood with whom he kept company for several years. Two years ago he took her on a Sunday school excursion to Asbury Park. He fell in with some old friends from Scotch Plains and they persuaded him to sample the contents of a bottle that they had with them. The fumes of the liquor went to his head and he grew excited. He found the young woman with another young man and he grew very indignant at the latter. The young woman sided against John and the latter insulted both in his anger.

After that the young woman would have nothing to do with John, despite the efforts of the latter to make up. She moved away from Netherwood but, for some reason, John would not believe it and he had often wandered about there in search of her. He gave up drink and showed a great hatred for it.

About two months ago he suddenly took the notion that he had to atone for his sins of the past by fasting. He would touch neither food nor water, but continued at his work. At last he grew too weak to work and retired to his bed. He was examined by Drs. Boone and Long and they declared that he was suffering from a mild form of insanity. The commitment papers was secured and he was just about to be taken to the Morris Plains State Hospital when he seemed to recover his senses and returned to work as rational before.

Two weeks ago his mania took another line and he declared that he had been commissioned by the almighty to convert the world. He declared himself to be the spiritual master of all his friends and ordered them to reform. He seemed to think that all his friends and relatives were sinning against his sweatheart, whom he still declared lived in Netherwood. At first he was mild in his speech but he gradually grew more violent and told all sorts of strange things that the Lord had commanded him to do. Although he would not curse or swear, he called all his relatives the most insulting epithets. He was very rational to all strangers, however.

He grew still more excited yesterday and abused his brother and father more than usual. They feared that in his madness he would think that the Lord had called upon him to commit some crime and so the City Judge was appealed to. John had become so scathing in his remarks and so fierce in his actions that it was finally decided to place him in a cell in the lock up for safe keeping. He remained there over night. A short examination by the doctors satisfied them that he was insane and this morning Drs. Boone and Long and the father of the demented man went to Elizabeth for the commitment papers by which he will be sent to Morris Plains this afternoon.

John Roth is about 31 years of age and was well and favorably known among the people of this city before afflicted by this trouble. He was an active member in the Catholic T. A. B. society, and a member of the Roman Catholic church.

ARM CAUGHT IN A BELT.

Narrow Escape From Death of a Bound Brook Young Man.

Marley King, a young machinist, employed in the factory of the Graphite Lubricating Company, at Bound Brook, had a narrow escape from serious death yesterday morning while adjusting a belt. His arm was caught by another belt and he was carried to the shafting near the ceiling, where hung until the machinery could be stopped. He was taken immediately to the office of Dr. Fisher, where upon examination it was found that his arm was broken in two places and that there was also a fracture of the wrist. These injuries were attended to, and he was taken to his home where he is now doing well.

Mrs. A. Williard Ware, of Second place, is confined to her home with illness.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

Mr. Fisk Outlines His Ideas of City Government.

SUGGESTIONS FOR MAKING PLAINFIELD A MODEL CITY.

The Work of Various Departments Taken up and New Plans For Improvement Offered in a General Way—Wants a Readjustment of the Assessing Method—Believes Permanent Street Improvement Fund Should be Started—Advocates the Service of Call Firemen at $30 a Year—Underground Wires, City Hall and Many Other Things are Commented Upon.

The following is Mayor Fisk's first message to the Common Council, read at the meeting last night:

Honorable Common Council, City of Plainfield.

GENTLEMEN:—For the present condition of the city, and what has been accomplished during the past year, I would refer you to the reports of the various officers and committees now on file with the City Clerk. I shall at this time confine myself to calling your attention to certain matters that, in my opinion, require your prompt and immediate consideration.

TAXES.

One of the first things that the Common Council should consider is the question of the assessment and collection of taxes, and in this connection I would suggest that a special committee be appointed at your first meeting to take up and consider this matter. It is evident to those who have had occasion to examine into the matter, that the method of assessing property for the purposes of taxation should be radically changed. In making this recommendation, I would not for a moment cast any reflection on the present assessor, as I consider him one of the best, and a most conscientious officer. The property interests, however, are too large and important for any one man to do the work as it should be done. I would therefore recommend the passage of an ordinance, creating a Board of Assessors, as provided by the statute of this State, and would call your attention to an act to provide for a Board of Assessors in cities of the third class, page 327, chapter 202, of the General Laws of 1890. This law provides for the appointment of a board of five members, to consist of four to be appointed by the Mayor, with the consent of the Common Council, no more than two of whom shall belong to the same political party, and no two of whom shall be appointed from the same Ward, and the fifth to be elected by the legal voters on a general ticket, at the annual charter election.

In addition to the assessment of taxes for general purposes, this board would have authority to take control and charge of all awards for damages in the taking or damaging of lands for public improvement, and making all assessments for benefits required by any law or laws, by reason of such improvement, or by reason of the laying out or opening of any street, road, highway, &c. The city should be provided at once with a complete set of tax assessment maps, and all assessments should be made by block and lot number and not by street number.

Your committee should also be instructed to consult with the Board of Education, and arrive at some method of co-operation and conference between this Board and the Common Council in advance, for fixing the rate of tax for school purposes, as I consider it only right that the Common Council, as fiscal body, should be notified and consulted before having a peremptory demand made upon them, which, under the present laws, they must honor, without taking into consideration the requirements of the City in other respects. (Attention was called to this by Mayor Male in 1890.)

They should also be instructed to communicate through the County Board with the authorities in other municipalities in other parts of the county, and arrive if possible at a uniform method of assessment, so that the city shall not be called upon to bear more than its just portion for State and county purposes.

The collection of unpaid back taxes should have immediate attention, and the necessary steps should be taken at once to put the machinery in motion for their collection, as provided by the present laws of this State.

In regard to the finances of the city, I may have occasion to address you later, after the treasurer makes his report for the fiscal year 1896, but pending the issuing of that report, I will pass the subject for the present.

CITY HALL.

The question of the erection of a municipal building, to be used for a Council room, court room, jail and city offices, should be considered and acted upon without delay, and a committee appointed at once to select a site and to secure plans. Under the present laws the Common Council are authorized to spend $30,000.00, to be raised by an issue of bonds for this purpose, and, in my opinion, the Common Council should proceed at once to act under this law, and secure for the city this much-needed improvement.

STREETS.

The question of street cleaning, repairs, and permanent improvements requires the most careful and serious consideration. The outgoing council did not deem it advisable to fix any amount to be assessed by the present council for the permanent improvement of streets, as the present needs of the city were such that, in their judgment, they did not see, taking into consideration the needs of other departments, how any sum could be appropriated out of the money raised by the general tax for this purpose.

You are authorized to appropriate, from time to time, out of any unappropriated funds, money sufficient to clean the streets and make necessary repairs. There are now in the city about seventy miles of streets, about twenty-five of which are macadamized. There are a number of streets that should be permanently improved, but for this purpose you must provide the necessary funds, either by assessment on the property directly benefited, or the issuing of street improvement bonds. I would suggest that a fund be created, as I understand has been done in some other cities, out of the back taxes collected, and that a certain portion, say two-thirds of the cost of any new street improvement, be paid directly by assessment on the property owners, and one-third out of this fund. I have not had the time to look up the laws in regard to the matter, but am under the impression that the statutes of the State provide for the creating of such a fund.

I would not deem it advisable to raise

CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.

MONEY IN HAVANA

Spaniards Believe the Senator-Elect Visited a Rebel Camp.

DENIAL BY CONSUL LEE, HOWEVER

The American Law-Maker Said To Have No Connection with the Cuban Junta. His Visit To Obtain Personal Information Within the Law.

Havana, Jan. 5.—La Lucha refers to the rumors that are afloat regarding the disappearance of Mr. Money. Speaking of the reports that he had gone to visit the insurgent leaders, the paper says it does not believe that he would commit such a misdemeanor and place himself outside the pale of the law. Such an act would be unpardonable in a person whose duty it is to know and respect the laws of the country he visits. If it is a serious offense for other Americans to visit the insurgent camps it is still worse for one to do so who represents his country in its parliament. Mr. Money returned to Havana last evening. All efforts to learn from him where he had been were fruitless, he declining to say anything that would tend to disclose his whereabouts since he disappeared. The general opinion is that he has been within the rebel lines seeking the information he desired, but there is no way of proving this belief.

Statement by Consul Lee.

Consul General Lee is authority for the statement that Mr. Money has no connection with the Cuban junta in New York. This statement is made in view of the fact that a report has been circulated to the effect that Mr. Money is an agent of the junta or has some connection with that body. General Lee adds that Mr. Money made the trip to Cuba for pleasure and to obtain personal information within lawful limits of the condition of the country in order to enable him to speak with authority on the Cuban question. Last Saturday Mr. Money, General Lee says, was invited to visit the town of San Jose de las Lajas, some fifteen miles southeast of Havana, in order to see the country. He went there that day and remained until last evening. He remained in the town during his entire stay and saw no rebels.

Rebel Defeat Reported.

Gen. Luque reports from Cienfugos that his command met 1,500 rebels at Marroquin, province of Santa Clara, and after a long fight compelled them to retreat. No mention is made of the losses on either side. Four hundred rebel cavalrymen commanded by Maximo Gomez, the insurgent commander-in-chief, made attacks at Santa Teresa and other places upon a government convoy. The Spanish forces comprised artillery and the charges of the rebels were met with volleys of grapeshot, which caused havoc in their ranks. It is calculated that 100 of the insurgents were killed. The Spanish losses are said to have been only a captain and private killed and thirteen wounded. The convoy has arrived at Arroyo Blanco.

Dissatisfied with Affairs in Cuba.

London, Jan. 5.—The correspondent at Madrid of the Times says: "The country is becoming impatient at the unaccountable inactivity of the executive in Cuba, which is inexplicable, considering the favoring circumstances—the opportune death of Maceo, the complete breakdown of the attempt of the American filibusters aided by certain adventurous and sympathizing senators to induce the United States government to adopt an active policy, and the consequent reaction of public opinion throughout Europe in favor of Spain. All of this points to one of two crying evils. Either the home government is deplorably lacking in initiative or the military chiefs in Cuba are incapable and unworthy of confidence. Perhaps there is a little of both. Anyway, public opinion is unanimous regarding the latter. Private advices reveal that a state of maladministration is prevailing in the island of a most scandalous character. Even the government organs do not altogether deny this."

Slaughter of Cuban Rebels.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 5.—Thomas Lovelace of this city has just returned from Havana. Speaking of the state of affairs there he said: "In three days at Havana I saw sixty-eight insurgents executed on a sand bar near the ship. They stood the prisoners up in squads of eight or ten and then one soldier was selected to pick them off, one at a time, just as though they were shooting rats. The prisoners were in all sorts of attitudes while the shooting was going on. Some were kneeling in prayer, others were standing erect. None of them showed any signs of fear. The prisoners ranged in age from boys who could not have been over 18 to gray headed men."

Says Gomez Wants To Give Up.

Madrid, Jan. 5.—A dispatch from Havana reports that it is expected that Maximo Gomez and other insurgent leaders will soon make overtures to the Spanish military authorities in Cuba, with a view of securing favorable terms of surrender.

May Intervene at Washington.

Berlin, Jan. 5.—The Tageblatt asserted to-day that France and Russia have agreed to intervene at Washington to prevent a breach between the United States and Spain.

Gov. Cook's Escort.

Hartford, Jan. 5.—The military escort to Gov. Cooke during the inaugural parade to-morrow will be the four companies of the Governor's guards from this city and New Haven. The First regiment C. N. G., which for years escorted the new governors will not parade this year, having so decided last April.

MINISTER WILLIS' CONDITION.

On Dec. 28 His Physicians at Honolulu Gave His Case Up as Hopeless.

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 5.—The Honolulu correspondent of the United Associated Presses, writing under date of December 28, says that United States Minister Willis, who has been suffering from pneumonia for some time, has been given up by his physicians. For three days previous to the dispatch of the letter Mr. Willis' death was hourly expected.

LOSS OF THE COMMODORE.

Seven of the Crew Probably Drowned—Carelessness Now Charged.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 5.—Capt. Edward Murphy, the commander of the wrecked filibustering steamer Commodore, and the remainder of those saved from the wreck, arrived in this city from Daytona last night. Seven men are still missing and are believed to be drowned. The cruiser Newark and the steamer Three Friends as well as a fleet of small boats from the Halifax river are now hunting for them. The Newark went to the scene Sunday night and used her powerful search-light, but to no effect. It is now believed that the men are all lost. Captain Murphy's story of the sinking of the Commodore is as follows: "At midnight Friday, the engineer reported that the vessel was leaking badly and the water was rapidly rising in the hold. The pumps could not be made to work for they were choked as the suction was gone. The men were put to work with buckets, balling, and wood, oil and alcohol were put in the furnace in order to keep up steam to get the vessel to the shore if possible. The water gained in spite of the efforts of the men and before the vessel ran three miles the fires were extinguished. Anchor was then dropped and the boats launched. All hands who could took to the boats, and those for whom there was no room built a raft. The raft was taken in tow by the dingy, but the heavy sea caused the raft to break loose and it was carried out to sea.' When asked if there was treachery on board, Capt. Murphy said: "No; I do not think so. It was neglect more than anything else." G. B. Montgomery, the steward, still insists that there was treachery, but he does not definitely place it on any one.

BRAM'S WONDERFUL NERVE.

Public Opinion Seems To Be with the Convicted Sailor.

Boston, Jan. 5.—Thomas Bram sleeps well and his nerve is collected again. He is still the same calm, imperturbable man that caused wonder at his appearance all through his famous trial. Yesterday morning he was not so bright as usual, but to-day his good spirits have returned, and no one would guess from his manner and actions that he has passed the first corner on the road to the scaffold. His counsel are preparing for one of the greatest contests ever waged to save a man's life, and no stone will be left unturned to keep Mate Bram from the gallows. One thing is apparent: Public sympathy is with Bram. Hundreds of men are to be found who are firmly convinced that there was not evidence enough to convict and that they hoped to see disagreement. Few persons can be discovered, however, who will openly declare that they believe he should have been acquitted. The point in all discussions seems to be that there should have been another trial and a clearer presentation of the case before the law demanded that his neck should be broken by a rope. United States Marshal Swift has sent a communication to the jail requesting that no person except the counsel be allowed to see Bram, and that no outsiders be permitted to talk with the witnesses. The latter cannot see Bram and he cannot talk with them. The sailors are feeling quite well. They get a good living and as much, if not more, pay than they would on shipboard without working; so they find no fault with their surroundings and do not complain at their confinement.

Platt for United States Senator.

Albany, Jan. 5.—The Albany Evening Journal's canvass of the choice of the members of the legislature for United States senator shows that seventy-four members have signified their intention of voting for Hon. Thomas C. Platt. Assemblymen Saunders of Cortland and Writner of Rockland are the latest additions to Mr. Platt's supporters.

Journalist McGrath Dead.

New York, Jan. 5.—Michael J. McGrath, who was for a number of years connected with journalism in New York, died at his home at Van Pelt Manor, Brooklyn, yesterday from Bright's disease. He was editor of the Kings County Journal, and one of the assessors for that county. His age was about 48 years.

Supposed To Be a Suicide.

Baltimore, Jan. 5.—A man, supposed to be V. W. Stiles of Washington, was found dead in the Hotel Rennert last evening with a bullet wound in the right temple. The body was in a sitting position on a chair in front of a mirror, and beside it lay a 32-calibre revolver. The man had evidently committed suicide.

Wyoming Hospital Burned.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 5.—The Wyoming State Central hospital at Rock Springs, Wyo., burned to the ground yesterday. The ten patients were removed, but one, a woman, died from fright while being taken to the temporary quarters.

Coal Miners Strike.

Pittsburg, Jan. 5.—About 1,200 coal miners along the Wheeling division of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad have struck as a result of the refusal of the operators to pay the sixty cent rate as proposed at the last joint convention of the miners and operators.

ARGUMENT FOR PEACE.

It Is Suggested by Miss Clara Barton's Work in Armenia.

It strikes us that Miss Clara Barton has a clearer perception of Christian duty in the relations of the people of the United States to suffering humanity in Asia Minor than those eminent citizens and great organizations that are calling for war to enforce collection of damages to property. Referring to her mission in Armenia, the Red Cross president said: "We found want, desolation and suffering, and relieved it so far as we were able. In spite of all, these are still there, and they have grown since. Winter is approaching, and unless the open hands of charity—not of this country alone, but of all civilized countries—be reached out and access be secured, hunger and cold will gather victims by the tens of thousands and bury them like the falling leaves beneath the snow."

MISS CLARA BARTON.

However important it may be to hurry up the sultan's government in the matter of the burned mission houses, we submit that succoring the distressed, saving the imperiled lives of thousands, is a more imperative Christian duty than trying to induce the president to enter on a course that would inevitably and immediately result in war. We do not suggest the abandonment of the claim for damages. It should by no means be permitted to lapse for want of proper attention. But to force a settlement would seal the fate of the people for whom Miss Barton pleads. If they are to be reached at all, it must be with the consent of the authorities at Constantinople.

The Washington Post holds that war is not the worst of all evils. With all its horrors war is preferable to national dishonor. But neither the honor of this nation, the interests of its citizens domiciled in Turkey nor the welfare of the Armenians can be promoted by belligerent acts at this time. "Let us have peace," and let us give due heed to the practical Christianity for which Miss Barton pleads and which is so beautifully exemplified in the work of the Red Cross.

Color Blindness Increasing.

"Color blindness is on the increase," says a New York optical expert. "The causes of this defect in vision that may be otherwise perfect are not very well understood. It would seem that the use of tobacco had a good deal to do with it. I have examined a great many for color blindness, having on several occasions been employed by railroad companies to do so, and in every instance where the man examined was found to be color blind, he was a user of tobacco. Women are seldom afflicted in this way, hence it must be caused by something that men do which women do not. What cases exist among women will be found to be inherited from male ancestors. I have never known a woman to be color blind whose father was free from the defect. I am a smoker, and my perceptions of colors are unusually good, so that it is not impossible that a man may use tobacco without such an effect, but I believe a large proportion of the cases are caused by tobacco."—N. Y. Sun.

Perhaps.

"All men are created equal." Doubtless this is what the girls mean when they turn up their noses and say "the men are all alike."—Boston Transcript.

Cures Talk

"Cures talk" in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as for no other medicine. Its great cures recorded in truthful, convincing language of grateful men and women, constitute its most effective advertising. Many of these cures are marvelous. They have won the confidence of the people; have given Hood's Sarsaparilla the largest sales in the world, and have made necessary for its manufacture the greatest laboratory on earth. Hood's Sarsaparilla is known by the cures it has made—cures of scrofula, salt rheum and eczema, cures of rheumatism, neuralgia and weak nerves, cures of dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles, catarrh and malaria.

Such Cures as This Prove Merit.

"My little nephew was a plump and healthy baby until a year and a half old, then sores broke out behind his ears and spread rapidly over his head, hands and body. A physician said the trouble was scrofula humor in the blood. The child became one complete sore. We had to restrain his hands to keep him from scratching the sores. We were induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and in a short time he had more life. He improved rapidly, his skin became entirely clear of sores and he is now a healthy child." MRS. FLORENCE ANDREWS, Clearfield, Iowa.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills cure liver ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

To Kill Thistles

It is not necessary to kill all the seeds of the thistles in order to exterminate these undesirable weeds. You can so cultivate the ground that they will not thrive; and at last will disappear altogether. It might be better to kill the seeds, but we cannot do it. It would be the wisest course to destroy all the germs, or seeds, of consumption, could we do so. But this cannot be done. So we must keep the tissues of the lungs, the soil, in such a condition that the germs will not thrive the of Cod-liver Oil with the Hypophosphites has remarkable power to maintain a healthy condition of the throat and lungs. It is also the best remedy to restore these parts to health when diseased. Treat your coughs and colds early; heal the inflamed membranes; and thus prevent the germs of consumption from gaining a strong foothold.

Scott's Emulsion

"Just as Good" is not SCOTT'S EMULSION.

50c. and $1.00 at all druggists.

SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

THE GRANDVIEW Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset street. 6 13 tf

Honeyman's Private Tours.
To OLD POINT COMFORT, December 29th—5 days.
To FLORIDA, Jan. 21—16 days.
To CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 18—25 days
Office 181 NORTH AVENUE, Plainfield, N. J.

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.
Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

Climatic Extremes
OF
NORTH and SOUTH
are blended ideally at
OLD POINT COMFORT
AND
RICHMOND, Va.,
Thus making these the most desirable places for winter outings.
They may be reached delightfully by the luxurious and modern steamships of the
Old Dominion Line
Sailing every week day from New York.
Send for full information.
Old Dominion S. S. Co.
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILLAUDEU, Vice-Pres't & Traffic Mgr
12 17-6 m

Boots, Shoes & Rubbers.
AT FORCE'S,
119 West Front St.
Formerly 129 Park Ave. 39 tf

L. A. HUMMER'S
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 20-A

PIANOS
If you want a deep, clear, rich tone, and the best material, buy your PIANOS at W. R. BROKAW'S. Piano Parlors, 511 Madison ave. Bargains in second-hand instruments. Parlors always open. Tuning and regulating a specialty.

Your Valuables
will be safe in
Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.
Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

J. W. VanSickle,
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Philadelphia Scrapple.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
at Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
127 North avenue

W. N. Pangborn,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER,
Residence, 33 Linden Ave.
Personal attention. Prompt service.
Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

Within the reach of all.
ACCIDENT TICKETS.
THE INTER-STATE
Casualty Company of New York
gives SIX MONTHS' insurance
$1.000 for $1.00,
to men or women
between 18 and 60 years of age, against accidental death. $100,000 deposited with the Insurance Deparment of the State of New York for the security of the insured.
For sale at office of
Honeyman's Private Tours,
181 North Ave. Plainfield, N. J.
6 25-6 mos

Rushton, Hansen & Luthman,
PAINTERS
AND PAPER HANGERS,
Office and shop Sycamore and 4th sts.
Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

REVERE HOUSE
PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD, New Jersey.
Families accomodated for the fall and winter months at greatly reduced prices.
The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed.
GEO. B. DE REVERE.

Potter & Kellogg,
DEALERS IN
Lehigh Valley Coal.
Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard—At Mt. Pleasant, Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1-y

The Metropolitan Boarding Stables
C. V. D. CORLE, - - - - - - Proprietor
No. 138 East Second street. Livery and Boarding and Sale Stable. Horses boarded by the day, week, month or hour. Reasonable prices. 11 17 1y

HERMAN KELLER,
Manufacturer of and Retail Dealer in
Cigars, Tobacco, etc.
"PRIDE OF PLAINFIELD" CIGAR a specialty. 116 North avenue. 9 26 tf

MRS. L. ADAMS,
MILLINERY.
Ready made gowns and dresses ordered from samples. All the latest novelties of the season.
114 EAST FRONT STREET.

A. LUSARDI,
120 NORTH AVENUE.
Wholesale and Retail
Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds of Confectionery, Peanuts, Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets

NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE
Sewer Connections.
DAVID BOWDEN,
General Contractor. 109 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J. Carriage drives macadamized, sewers and sewer connections promptly made, lawns carefully restored. All work done in a practical and skilful manner.
28 YEARS EXPERIENCE.
Best of references furnished. Charges moderate 4 15 tf

C. W. LINES,
Mason and Builder
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly to

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. O. STEVENS & CO.
OAL.
747 WEST FRONT ST.
Branch office with
G. A. HALLOCK,
109 West Front street.

30,000 CIGARS
of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of the city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.
M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue,
8 15 tf Plainfield.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.
Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.
Telephone Call 128a

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

William Hand & Son.
STAGES
For Parties, etc., 518 Park ave.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing,
Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS.
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Sol

BRAIN FOOD.

Edw. P. Thorn,
RETAIL DEALER IN
Fish, Oysters, and Clams.
Terms Cash. Goods Delivered

E. H. Holmes,
Dealer in
Coal & Wood.
Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.
Telephone 49-A.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country. Charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed. Orders may be left at Sattel's music store, 221 Park ave.

The Largest Selection of

Wall Papers

—AND—

Painter's Supplies

in Plainfield.

Woolston & Buckle,

141-145 North avenue.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital..... $200,000.
Surplus and Profits..... $90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. RUNYON, Ass't

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter. Wm. McD. Corlell.
P. M. French. H. Mulford Estil.
Wm. M. Stillman. Isaac W. Rushmore.
J. W. Johnson. Wm. R. Codington.
F. S. Runyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

Christmas Wreaths Roping Holly, etc. Also, Palms,

Rubber Trees, Begonias, Ferns Floral Designs, House and Church Decorations. Southern Smilax at 15 days notice.

DENTON'S.

131 Hillside avenue.

A GOOD FIRE

will make cheerful many of the evenings of the New Year. We'll sell you the coal—good coal—and plenty of it. We don't sell you dirt for coal. We don't sell you short measure. We want your coal trade always.

D. C. IVINS & CO.

Coal, Lumber, &c. 301-311 Watchung Ave.

CLEANER COAL.

L. A. RHEAUME,
and N. H. SAXTON,

Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,

Invite the public to inspect the operation of their newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which they confidently believe enables them to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.

Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal

in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.

Kindling Wood a Specialty.

Rushmore & Co.,

WATCHUNG AVENUE,
COR. FOURTH ST.

Lumber yard and Planing Mill.

Large and full assortment of lumber including 21 varities from Hemlock to Mahogany always in stock. Window frames, moulding, sash, doors and blinds. Hardwood floors a specialty. Turning and scroll sawing. We can make anything. Call and see us. Satisfaction guaranteed.

"It is Making a Hit."

FEIGENSPAN'S Finest Pale Ale
IN BOTTLES, and
FEIGENSPAN'S SAAZER BEER

At Hotel Grenada Bar.

The Plainfield Confectioners,

112 West Front street.

Candies from 10, 15 and 20 cents per lb. up. The very best goods. Made daily on the premises. Formerly known as the New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Comp'y. 9 9 1y

CITY HOTEL,

Plainfield, N. J.

Corner Park avenue and Second street.

J. E. Beerbower, Prop

Stables attached.

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL,

No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.

Harry C. Adams, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

RING OUT THE OLD

RING IN THE NEW.

GET THINGS IN GOLD

AND SILVER TOO

AT

J. Wiss & Sons,

755 Broad Street, Newark.

Notwithstanding the general depression, our sales have been remarkably big in Jewelry and Watches, Diamonds and Diamond Jewelry, Cut Glass, Silverware and Cutlery.

Nor have we any reason to complain of our sales in Leather Goods, Opera Glasses, Art Potteries and Novelties.

WE ATTRIBUTE OUR BIG SUCCESS

to the fact that we gave more value for money than could be procured elsewhere. We propose to continue on this line all year. Remember it when you want

Jewelry, always the newest design. Cut Glass, of the best and deepest cuttings. Silverware, Sterling and Best plate for the table or dresser. Table Cutlery, Our own make that cannot be beaten.

When Your Eyes and Eye Glasses require attention call at our Optical Office. L. B. Hilborn (R. O.) in charge. Here you are assured of satisfaction. Eyes carefully examined. Glasses nicely adjusted.

J. Wiss & Sons,

755 Broad Street, Newark.

An Enormous Saving in Money

It is really a fact that every man, woman or child who deals with us saves money. We actually sell all qualities of honest, substantial clothing for men, boys and children at prices 40 to 50 per cent lower than any of our competitors. There's no nonsense about this statement; we mean it. We'll prove it to you any time. There's method in our madness and here's a trade secret we'll let you into; it pays us: Quick sales at small profits is our only trade secret. We buy for net spot cash and save 25 per cent in buying, which we give our customers. We ask at least 25 per cent less profit than any dealer in Plainfield. Our customers are our partners. We give them this lion's share of the profit. If you deal with us once you will always. Try it between now and Saturday night.

SPECIAL

300 all-wool Men's Kersey, Melton or Beaver Overcoats, satin lined throughout, worth $22.00, at $7.90; 150 men's all-wool overcoats, worth $14.00, at $5.90; 100 overcoats, worth $10.00, at $4.50; heavy all-wool suits, worth $12.00, at $4.50; and 1,000 other articles that we cannot mention for want of space.

New York Clothing Company,

214 WEST FRONT STREET.

M. WEINBERGER.

Near Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

Have You Bought Your OVERCOAT?

If not, come to WERNER'S CLOTHING HOUSE and take advantage of the CUT SALE now going on.

STOCK MUST BE SOLD.

Hats and Furnishing Goods a Specialty.

H. WERNER, Clothier,

No. 206 West Front Street.

COLD WEATHER GOODS

AT

PUTNAM & DEGRAW'S

Underwear, Gloves, Hosiery, &c.

Agents for the "Golden Rule" CLOTHES RACK and IRONING TABLE, $1.00 each.

Telephone, Brooklyn, 366.

COMINS & EVANS

Acorn Brand Asphalt Roofing.

Gravel and Metal Roofing, Tile and Brick Roofing, Water-Tight Cellars.

45 WAVERLY AVE, BROOKLYN, N. Y.

New York office, 102 Fulton st., room

BLOW TO PUGILISM

Duffy's Death May End Prize-fighting in New York State.

SURE CESSATION IN THE METROPOLIS

The Autopsy Showed Clearly That His Death Was Due Directly to a Blow or Fall---Athletic Club Managers Held.

New York, Jan. 5.—The death yesterday of James Duffy, the Boston pugilist, who had to be taken to St. Vincent's hospital after his fight with George Justice on Saturday night at the Broadway Athletic club, is probably the death-knell of pugilism in New York state, and certainly in this city, for the present at least. Duffy never rallied after reaching the hospital, although every expedient known to surgical skill was resorted to in the efforts of the attending physicians to save his life. Dr. A. T. Weston performed an autopsy on the body. It was found that death was due to menngeal hemorrhage. There were no bruises on the head or face, but there was a slight abrasion on the shoulder. While there were no bruises on the face, Dr. Weston said that death was due to a blow or a fall. The autopsy showed that Duffy was not strong and was afflicted with thickening of the muscles of the heart. The inquest will probably be held on Thursday. Justice O'Rourke, the manager of the club, and Roche, the referee, were arraigned before Magistrate Flammer in the Jefferson Market police court yesterday afternoon and held in $2,000 bail each. Dr. Phillips of Bellevue hospital, who was present at the autopsy, told the court that he thought death was due to a blow struck by a soft weapon, such as a glove.

FITZSIMMONS SIGNS.

Agrees To Meet Corbett for the World's Heavyweight Championship.

Jersey City, Jan. 5.—Robert Fitzsimmons signed the articles of agreement for the fight with Corbett for a purse of $15,000 and a side bet of $5,000 last evening. The meeting between him and Stuart took place in Taylor's hotel. Among the sporting men present were Captain Moore, Joe Vendig and Sam Fitzpatrick. They went over with Fitzsimmons and Martin Julian at 3:30 o'clock. Stuart was not on hand when Fitzsimmons arrived, but he appeared later. When he arrived Fitzsimmons read down the articles until he came to the clause which read: "All privileges reserved by the club." This meant that the club, or rather Stuart, had the right to dispose of privileges to the kinetoscope concerns. Julian said that his principal should get in on any money coming in from that source, and a verbal agreement was made that all money should be equally divided between the principals.

FIRE LOSS IN 1896.

The Showing Very Satisfactory and Encouraging to Underwriters.

New York, Jan. 5.—The Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin of to-day will say: The fire loss of the United States and Canada, as compiled from our daily records, amounts for the month of December to $11,362,000. This makes the total for the year 1896 $115,655,500. December 1894 and 1895 showed about one million dollars less than the same month in 1896, and the increase is attributable to the abnormally heavy fires of the last week of the year. During 1896 there were 2,175 fires where the estimated loss in each case amounted to not less than $10,000 and the largest loss by any one fire was $2,000,000 at Cripple Creek, Col., in April. The reduction of over fourteen millions in the fire loss account for 1896, as compared with 1895, has been very decidedly felt by the fire underwriters. They had in the year just closed a happy combination of high rates and light losses, and their gains have been very handsome.

Bottlers' Association Incorporated.

Albany, Jan. 5.—The Bottlers and Manufacturers' association of central New York has just been incorporated with the secretary of state. The objects are mutual protection and benefit to the members in their trade as owners of bottles, boxes, syphons and kegs used in the sale of soda and mineral waters, lager beer, ale and other beverages. The association will have its principal office at Utica.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spot dull and heavy. Jan., 12c.; May, 89¾c.; July, 86c.

Corn—Spot quiet; prices firmer. Jan., 29¾c.; May, 31¾c.

Oats—Market quiet; prices steady. May, 23¼c.

Eggs—Market steady and firmer. State and Pennsylvania, fresh, 19@21c.; ice house, 14@15c.; western, fresh, 18@19c.; limed, 13@14½; southern, 17½@18½c.; in case, $1.50@$3.30.

Pork—Market steady; trade easy. Extra prime, nominal, short clear, $9.00@10.50; mess, $8.25@8.75; family, $9.25@10.50.

Lard—Steady; moderate demand. Prime western, $4.07.

Butter—Market quiet; fair demand. Creamery western extras, 21½c.; state and Pennsylvania, extras, 20@22½c.; creamery, western seconds, 17c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fresh factory, 18c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fall made extras, 19@20c.; western imitation creamery, seconds to firsts, 11@17c.; western factory, firsts to extras, 8½@11c.

Cheese—Market steady. State, full cream, large size, fall made, colored, 10½c.; large, common to choice, part skims, 3½@7½c.

Potatoes—Market firm; good supply. Long Island, in bulk, per barrel, $1.25@1.37; New Jersey, round, choice, per barrel, $0@1.01.½

NEW YORK STATE TROOPS.

Measures Taken Against a Repetition of the McLewee Incident.

Albany, Jan. 5.—Gov. Black has issued through the adjutant-general his first order assuming command of the national guard and naval militia. He appoints Edward Earl Britton as assistant adjutant-general, ranking as colonel from Jan. 1, 1897, and assigns him to duty as aide-de-camp on the governor's staff. The governor takes measures against a repitition of the McLewee report publication by the following order: "All reports of an official nature are the property of the superior to whom they are addressed, and must be considered confidential until their publication in part or in full is authorized by him. The adjutant-general being by law the chief of staff of the commander-in-chief, all officers of that staff will perform their prescribed duties under his direction. The adjutant-general being by law also the auditor of all military and naval accounts, no officer will incur any expense on account of the state, except as expressly provided in the regulations, without having first the sanction of the adjutant-general. Officers seeking legislation on military or naval matters must obtain the approval of the adjutant-general before approaching the legislature." To regulate the wearing of gold stripes and medals, this order is issued. "A permanent board on the question of uniforms and equipments and all matters relating thereto, consisting of the adjutant-general, the brigade commanders, the senior commanding officer in the naval militia, and the senior assistant adjutant-general of the state, is hereby constituted to convene at the call of the adjutant-general and to submit its conclusions and recommendations from time to time for my action."

THE M'LEWEE INCIDENT.

The Deposed Officer Will Dissiminate Copies of His Report.

New York, Jan. 5.—Frederick C. McLewee, who was summarily removed from his position of inspector general on the staff of former Gov. Morton, continues to criticise Adjt.-Gen. E. A. McAlpin of the governor's staff and Major Burbank of the United States army. The deposed inspector general was seen at his rooms, this morning. On his desk lay a number of letters and marked copies of newspapers. He said: "I continue to receive letters of sympathy and support for my unmerited disgrace, and it gives me much comfort and satisfaction to know that the rank and file of the national guard of this state are back of me." In support of this statement, he read letters and telegrams from officers of the militia in this city, Brooklyn, Buffalo and other parts of the state. Resuming, he said: "As the matter continues to gain publicity, it becomes more and more apparent that McAlpin has played upon Mr. Morton's ingorance of the military laws and has revenged himself upon me in a manner never before heard of among military men of honor. I shall stand by all that I have said, and a great deal more. Why doesn't McAlpin refute my assertions? Because he cannot do so; because he knows that I told only the truth, and not all of it. It is my intention to have copies of my report printed, and to send them, not only to every officer of the National guard in this state, but to every army officer in the country."

DYING OF HYDROPHOBIA.

Victims of Baltimore County's Rabid Dog May Number Five.

Baltimore, Jan. 5.—Another of the boys who were bitten by a rabid dog in Baltimore county a few weeks ago, and who were treated at the Pasteur institute in New York, has developed symptoms of hydrophobia, and his death is expected within the next twenty-four hours. The boy's name is Lawrence Wilson. John Buhl, another of the mad dog's victims, is also reported to be in the first stages of hydrophobia. Should they succumb to the dread disease, the death list will be swelled to five, three of the eight victims of the dogs bites having already died in terrible agony.

The Toll Gate Riots in Kentucky.

Vanceburg, Ky., Jan. 5.—Owing to the recent disturbances and the threats of the organizations against toll gates, Judge Hillis announces an extra term of court on Monday, January 11, to devise plans by which the toll gates can be legally disposed of instead of being destroyed by mobs. Most of the stockholders have agreed to assign their holdings in the roads to the courts.

Tennessee's Oldest Woman Dead.

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 5.—Polly Brannum, the oldest woman in this state, died last night at the age of 109. She was a daughter of a revolutionary patriot and in her day was acquainted with Sam Houston, Andrew Johnson, Jackson, Polk and other men of national reputation.

Great Ice Floe Off Newfoundland.

St. Johns, N. F., Jan. 5.—The Allan line steamer Assyrian, from Liverpool, reports an unusually extensive field of ice 150 miles off the coast. She steamed through the ice for two hours, but found it too heavy and made to the south. The floe extended as far as the eye could see.

Cycle Company Resumes.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 5.—The Liberty Cycle company resumed operations with an enlarged force of hands yesterday and expects to increase it as room is made in the factory.

Old Employes Reappointed.

Hartford, Jan. 5.—The comptroller has appointed Captain Butler superintendent of the capitol, B. C. McKenney assistant, and reappointed the rest of the capitol employes.

POINTS TO PENROSE

Indications That He Will Succeed Cameron in the Senate.

ACTION OF HOUSE CAUCUS LAST NIGHT

Mr. Wanamaker's Managers, Nevertheless, Declare That the Fight Has Just Begun---Joint Senatorial Caucus To Be Held To-night.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 5.—The result of the house caucus last night indicates pretty clearly the drift on the senatorial question. The Penrose men supported P. M. Lytle of Huntingdon for chairman and the Wanamaker forces voted for Ward R. Bliss of Delaware. There were seven absentees. The first ballot resulted: Lytle, 93; Bliss, 71; the two candidates voting for each other. After the announcement of the vote, Mr. Lytle called the caucus to order and H. K. Boyer of Philadelphia was for the third session nominated for speaker of the house by acclamation. The house caucus authorized its chairman to confer with the chairman of the senate caucus regarding the calling of a joint senatorial caucus, which will be held to-night. Penrose's managers regard the result of the house caucus as a settlement of the contest for United States senator in their favor. They say the unpledged members will now line up with them. On the other hand, the Wanamaker leaders declare the result has no significance whatever, and that many members that voted for Lytle will vote for Wanamaker in the caucus. They emphatically declare that the fight has just begun. Senator Quay and his lieutenants adhere to their claim of 150 votes for Penrose, and they affirm with confidence that the caucus to-night will show this result.

LAWRENCE CITY GOVERNMENT.

Legal Complications Probable Over the Action of the Joint Convention.

Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 5.—After the inaugural proceedings of the city government yesterday three democratic aldermen joined the common council in the main hall to hold a convention. The mayor and three republican aldermen remained away. In the absence of the mayor President McCarthy of the common council presided. Six republican councilmen participated up to the point of balloting and then withdrew. Thirteen democratic members then proceeded to elect a city clerk, city treasurer, superintendent of streets, superintendent of public property, an assessor for three years and overseers of the poor. The city hall was crowded with democrats, who cheered in approbation of the action of the thirteen members. The republicans say the action is illegal owing to distinguishing ballots of yellow paper, separately marked and numbered, which were used.

Ex-Queen Lil Acknowledges Greeting.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Don Celso Caesar Moreno of this city has received the following letter date at Boston from Julius A. Palmer, secretary to ex-Queen Liliuokalani: "Dear sir—Her majesty, Liliuokalani, has directed me to acknowledge the receipt of your New Year's greeting and express to you her appreciation of your loyal sentiments. Her majesty's health continues good and she is living in perfect retirement here save for the attentions of her personal or family friends. With assurances of consideration, I have the honor to be, respectfully yours, JULIUS A. PALMER."

Blizzard in the West.

Sioux City, Ia., Jan. 5.—The worst blizzard known for years has been raging here for the past forty-eight hours. In this town the street railway is blocked and business is practically closed. A general blockade is feared as many trains have already been abandoned. Deaths are reported from the outlying districts, but until after the storm nothing definite can be learned from these districts.

Great Isolated Electric Light Plant.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Jan. 5.—John Jacob Astor has just concluded a contract with the Walker company for an electric plant for the new Waldorf hotel in New York city, which will be the largest isolated plant in the world. It will run easily 25,000 lights, and when pushed it will be able to develop 50,000 lights, or enough for a small city.

Claims Infringement of Patents.

Hartford, Jan. 5.—There has just been filed in the United States circuit court a patent suit, brought by the Welsbach Light company of Gloucester City, N. J., against L. A. Holmes of New Haven. Five thousand dollars damages is claimed for alleged manufacture and sale of a light which is an infringement upon the plaintiff's patents.

Work for 2,000 Men.

Pittsburg, Jan. 5.—Two thousand employes of the Westinghouse Air Brake company started to work in the Wilmerding shops yesterday after an idleness of almost a month. Large orders have been received and the works will probably run steadily from now on.

Receiver for Iowa Mortgage Company.

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 5.—In the federal court Judge Foster has appointed Wm. F. Fuller of Hartford, Conn., receiver of the Iowa Mortgage company, in ancilliary proceedings. The capital stock of the company is only $100,000.

Boston Union Terminal Station.

Boston, Jan. 5.—The railroad commissioners, in an order issued yesterday afternoon, approves the plans for a new southern union station as submitted by the terminal company.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

108 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 5, 1897.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

(Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Partly Cloudy and Probably Threatening Tonight; Wednesday Fair; Colder. At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 58 Degrees.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

The first annual message of Mayor Fisk to the Common Council, read at the meeting of that body last night, and published in another column of to-day's Press, shows that Mr. Fisk has observed carefully of the needs of the city in the way of local govern ment. The suggestions are concise and practical in many ways, and while their attainment would mean a model city, indeed, it cannot be expected that they will all come in the first term of Mr. Fisk. But it is well for us to consider them in the abstract as thoughtful consideration will best determine what is just right when the time is opportune for accomplishment.

Mr. Fisk's idea of a Board of Assessors is along the right line. While Plainfield has an Assessor in Mr. Hubbard against whom but little fault finding comes, it would be much better for the city to have a Board as prescribed by the law mentioned. In many matters city government would be simplified thereby.

The need of a city hall has long been recognized and it is but a matter of time when such a building will be constructed as the conveniences and ul timate economy of the city officials demand.

Nothing adds more to the desirability and growth of a place than good streets and while the thoroughfares of Plainfield are better than most of the neighboring towns, there is still room for much improvement. It is a pleasure to know that Mr. Fisk contemplates a method for better things in this direction, but his advice that extraordinary expenses should not be incurred without the consent of tax payers is also timely.

The suggestion that the West Second street fire department house be sold and the proceeds devoted to establishing a fire company in both the east and west ends of the city is practical and desirable. While $1,200 seems an insignificant sum in itself to pay forty call firemen, instead of having a volunteer department, it is a question whether this would be a trend in the direction of economy and practicability. It is the small sums that count up in the aggregate, and the taxpayers will not countenance indulgence in plans whereby taxes may be increased.

The creation of Department of Public Works has been hinted at frequently of late, and in the consolidation of the street and sewerage committees under one head much has been accomplished in this direction. There is nothing more of a disgrace to Plainfield than the alleged police station house, and the Mayor's suggestion of a new one being provided strikes a sympathetic strain. But if a city hall is erected it would seem best to locate it there and avoid the expense of another building.

We are glad to learn that the Mayor does not believe in the employment of cheap men at low salaries to perform city work. The city should be willing at all times to pay fair compensation for competent officials.

FOR BOROUGH GOVERNMENT.

The result of a meeting of some twenty representatives from different New Jersey boroughs held in Trenton, last week, was the appointment of a committee of seven to receive complaints and suggestions from the different boroughs and use these as a basis for formulating a bill, to be submitted to the joint commission on revision of borough laws appointed at the last session of the Legislature. The committee will hold a meeting at Trenton, January 9th, to consider suggestions for the proposed bill.

BLOOMERS NOT SO NEW.

Mrs. Lillie Devereaux Blake is responsible for the following: "A modern girl declared the other day that she was astonished at the shocking customs of the Puritans. She had, she said, been looking at the pictures of a history and, incredible as it might seem, the Pilgrim Fathers wore bloomers!"

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chillblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For Sale By L. W. Randolph.

—Wednesday will be the Feast of the Epiphany. Masses will be celebrated in St. Mary's church at 6:30 and 8 o'clock a m.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

[CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.]

money for street improvements by an issue of bonds for any great amount, without first submitting the question to the legal voters of the city, either at the charter election, or a special election called for the purpose.

The condition of our streets might be greatly improved by the co-operation of the property owners taking a pride in keeping that portion of the street in front of their respective properties clean and free from leaves, papers, etc., and in this connection would suggest that the street committee co-operate with our Town Improvement Society.

An important matter for the committee on streets to take into consideration is the flagging and curbing of sidewalks. The ordinance requires that in certain sections of the city, which are now built up, these sidewalks should be laid at once. There are a number of places on important streets, where this ordinance has not been complied with, and the street commissioner should be directed to serve the required notices as soon as practicable, and the weather will permit the work to be done, directing such delinquent property owners to lay their sidewalks at once.

TREES.

The beauty of our city and the health of the city depends a great deal on the care and proper location of the trees. The laws of 1893, page 497, chapter 285, provides for the appointment of a commission of three freeholders, who shall serve without compensation, and who shall have the exclusive and absolute control and power to plant, set out, maintain, protect and care for shade trees, in any of the public highways of the city, the cost and expense of caring for such trees to be borne by the general tax, to be raised by the city, such tax not to exceed the sum of one-tenth of one mill on the dollar.

I recommend that your committee carefully look into this matter, and if in your judgment such a commission seems advisable, I will take pleasure in making the necessary appointments.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The fire department is one of the best equipped in the State as far as apparatus is concerned. All of the apparatus is now concentrated in the centre of the city. The extreme western part of the city below Plainfield avenue has grown very rapidly and needs better fire protection; also the Netherwood district east of Richmond street. I would recommend as soon as it is possible to do so the erection of a building west of Plainfield avenue and the locating there of a hose wagon and the small hook and ladder truck; and in the eastern portion of the city the erection of a building with a combination wagon for hose, chemicals and two ladders. The East Second street fire headquarters are sufficient for the accommodation of all the apparatus needed immediately in that section of the city, and the West Second street house now used by the Alert Hose Company and Gazelle Engine Company should be sold, and these companies could be located as suggested above.

I would call your attention to the fact that under the present volunteer system by next October the time of required service of all but about twenty-five men will have expired In my opinion instead of opening the doors for further volunteer firemen I would recommend that the Council authorize the appointment of the necessary number of men to man the different apparatus to be known as call men, and paid at the rate of $30.00 a year. This would require about forty men, and would only add to the expenses of the department about $1,20.000. There are a number of exempt firemen who would gladly give their services to the city in this way.

OVERHEAD WIRES.

The overhead wires, especially in the business streets of the city, should be put under ground as soon as it is practicable to do so. I have already had conferences in regard to this matter with the Electric Light Company and with the Telephone Company, and would recommend that negotiations be entered into at once with these different companies, as well as with the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies, to have their wires placed under ground within this portion of the city.

PUBLIC WORKS.

As soon as practicable a Department of Public Works should be created, with one responsible head, and the street work, sewers, disposal beds, and all matters of this character should be placed under the control of this department, as these matters are all of such a character that one superintendent can take charge and save the expense to the city of more than one high-salaried officer.

The sewerage system now being practically completed, you should see to it that an ordinance is passed at once, requiring all property owners on the line of the sewer to make connections, and all cesspools and vaults should be ordered to be thoroughly cleaned and filled up.

POLICE.

For the condition of the police department I would refer you to the very full report made by the Police Board of last year. As recommended above, a new station house or jail should be provided at once, and pending the erection of such a building, or some other provision, I would recommend that the lease of the present building used for that purpose, be renewed only from month to month.

As soon as practicable, a police alarm system, similar in character to the fire-alarm system, should be introduced into the City, especially for the protection of the outlying districts, and a patrol wagon should be provided for the use of the department. Later in the year, after the organization of the new Police Board, I shall probably take the opportunity to communicate with you again more particularly, in regard to the management of this department.

SALARIES.

In regard to fixing the salaries of the officers and employees of the city, I would suggest that the committee having this matter in charge look carefully into the matter, and adjust the salaries in accordance with the work or services required in each particular case. I do not believe in the appointment of cheap men, at low salaries, but the city cannot afford to pay salaries unless it receives the requisite amount of services in return, and like every other business, we must take into consideration the amount that we can afford to pay, and try to secure competent men to fill the places at this amount.

In conclusion, I would recommend and urge the members of the Common Council and the members of the several committees to take up the important matters at once, and act on them as promptly as is possible, consistently with good judgment. I shall be ready and willing at all times to act with the members of the Council, where my services can be of any help to them, and trust that they will never feel any hesitancy in calling upon me.

Hoping that our relations may always be harmonious, and that we may always realize the duty of working together for the best interests of the city, I am,

Yours very truly,

C. J. FISK,
Mayor.

ENTER COUNCIL OF 1897.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

the same to be opened at the first meeting of the Council in February. Mr. Barrows thought that two weeks time would be sufficient to receive the bids, as it was a small matter and it was not necessary to wait a month. Mr. Westphal was of a different mind and he thought that plenty of time should be given and that February 1st was soon enough. By a vote Mr. Westphal's motion that the time for opening the bids be February 1st was adopted.

Another resolution was offered by Mr. Baker that the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to have $124,000 sewer bonds engraved and printed by the American Bank Note Company, at a cost not to exceed $300, and the form of the bond to be prepared by the Corporation Counsel. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Serrell asked that all ordinances be referred to the committee on laws and ordinances, and it was so ordered.

Mr. Frost reported on the petition of the Plainfield Sanitary Company for permission to erect a garbage disposal plant. In his judgment he thought that the Board of Health should appoint a committee of three to confer with a similar committee from the Council, in the consideration of the matter. He then moved that the Board of Health be requested to appoint a committee of three to confer with a committee from the Council. President Dumont appointed the committee on streets and sewers from the Council.

Mr. Baker offered a resolution that a sewer note for $3,000 now due be renewed for three months, which was so ordered.

The Council then adjourned for two weeks.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Rockafellow, of West Front street, has been entertaining a friend from Rahway.

Mr. and Mrs Marshal May have returned to their home on Stone street after a view days visit with relatives at Weston.

Mrs. Catharine Obitz, of Brooklyn, but formerly of this city, spent Saturday in the borough, where she visited a few friends.

Mrs. J. Voilin and daughter, of New York, have returned home after a visit at the home of J. A. Blatz, of Somerset street.

L. B. Van Camp and family returned to their home on Prospect place, yesterday after a week's visit with relatives at Somerville.

Miss Grace Oakley, who has been the guest of Miss Mabel Schenck, of East Second street, for several days, has returned home.

Miss Florence, of Grove street, returned to boarding school at Baltimore, yesterday, after spending the holidays in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Vanderbeek, of Duer street, have returned after a pleasant visit with Mr. Vanderbeek's parents at North Branch.

Raymond Barnes, of Rahway, who has been the guest of his uncle, Rev. C. R. Barnes, D. D., of Grove street, has returned to his home.

Miss Alice Smith has returned to boarding school at Hackettstown after spending the Christmas holidays with her parents on Craig place.

Norman Probasco, of East Front street, went to New York to resume his studies, yesterday, at the medical department of Columbia College.

C. W. Smith and family, of Willow avenue, returned to their home on Sunday after a few days visit with Mr. Smith's parents in Brooklyn.

Miss Susie Davies, of LaGrande avenue, has returned after spending the holidays with her brother, Rev. Arthur Davies, at Petersburgh, N. Y.

George A. Horne, of Willow avenue, returned yesterday morning to the Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., after enjoying his holiday vacation at home.

Mrs. James Grover and daughter, of Philadelphia, who have been visiting at the home of L. B. Bromfield, of East Sixth street, have returned to their home.

Rolland Tomlinson, of LaGrande avenue, returned to the Columbia P. and S. school yesterday afternoon after spendidg the Christmas vacation in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Ely have returned to their home on Governor's Island, after a short visit with Mrs. Ely's sister, Mrs. E. S. Hooley, of Rockview avenue.

Miss Catherine Famous, of New Centreville, Pa., has returned home and was accompanied by her cousin, Miss Lillie Mirex, of Steiner place, who will remain a few weeks.

You can be well when your blood is rich, pure and nourishing. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood rich and pure and cures all blood diseases, restoring health and vigor.

Hood's pills are easy to take, easy to operate. Cure indigestion, headache. 25c.

The Labor of getting 1095 Meals confronts some one in every home each year. Whoever the work devolves upon should know about

NONE SUCH MINCE MEAT

It's a labor-saver—a woman-saver. Without the long and wearying peeling, chopping, boiling, seeding and mixing, a woman can quickly make mince pie, fruit pudding, or fruit cake that will be the delight of her household. Since None Such is sold everywhere there is no more need of making your own mince meat than of making your own yeast. Try one package—10 cents. Take no substitutes.

Send your address, naming this paper, & we will send you free a book, "Mrs. Poppins' Thanksgiving," by one of the most popular humorous writers of the day.

MERRELL-SOULE CO., Syracuse, N. Y.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. J. P. Laire of East Fifth street, has returned from Annandale, Hunterdon county.

U. G. Force, of Richmond street, entertained a few friends at his home Sunday evening.

Miss Evelyn Smith, of Madison avenue, returned yesterday from a visit in Philadelphia.

Miss Clara Long, of Park avenue, has been spending a few days with her cousin in Somerville.

Harold A. Chandor, of East Fifth street, has returned after a visit with relatives in New York.

Mrs. F. B Childs, of Elizabeth, is visiting at the home of Miss Helen Brown, of Duer street.

William Tracy, of West Eighth street, has gone back to Yale after spending the holidays at home.

The Misses Alice and Bertha Needham, of Craig place, are home after visiting friends in Ocean Grove.

Miss Sarah Schuyler, of LaGrande avenue, returned yesterday after a visit with relatives in New York.

Miss Edith Horton, of Craig place, has returned after spending the holidays with relatives in Oswego, N. Y.

Miss Emma Lockwood, of Brooklyn, will be the guest tomorrow of the Misses Langdon, of East Ninth street.

The Misses Millie and Nettie Langdon, of East Ninth street, have returned from a visit to New Haven, Conn.

The Misses Valentine and Alice Chandor, of East Fifth street, have been spending the holidays in New York.

Alfred Obits, formerly of Texas, but now of New Market, was the guest, Saturday, of Adam Fritz, of Somerset street.

THEATRICAL.

Proctor's Pleasure Palace, New York, which reaches out in every direction for novelties, offers a superior attraction in the famous Lutteman Quintet of Swedish male singers, who were last heard in New York with the Damrosch orchestra. Others to be seen and heard are the brothers Webb, English musical clowns; the flying Hanlons, six Glinserettis, McVoy and May, Dan Waldron, Polk and Kollins, Alexandra Martens, Dolly Theobald, Stewart and Morton, Georgia Magdalina Churchill. At the Sunday concerts, from 2:30 to 11 p. m., are Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, Maxwell and Simpson, the Borellis, Sam J. Ryan, Swift and Chase, Anita Cluss, J. L. Ashton and Mrs Harry Bloodgood and thirty others.

ALEX. LUSARDI.

211 West Front Street,

Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectioner: Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores. 8 9 1 year

IRVING SAVINGS INSTITUTION,

96 WARREN STREET, NEW YORK.

The Trustees of this Institution have declared interest on all sums remaining on deposit during the three and six months ending December 31, 1896, at the rate of FOUR PER CENT. per annum on amounts from $1 to $3,000, payable on and after Monday, Jan. 18, 1897. Deposits made on or before Jan. 10 will draw interest from Jan. 1.

G. BYRON LATIMER, Secretary. W. H. B. TOTTEN, President.
12 30 10

it's a death tap at your life door. If you knew it you wouldn't neglect such a cough.

HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR

Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar is a simple remedy but it acts like magic in all cases of throat or bronchial trouble. Sold by druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

YOU

who have been looking for

KID GLOVES

that will give you the wear and service that you have a right to expect,

COME TO PECK'S,

where you will find satisfaction and style at a moderate price.

--JAQUETT'S--

CLOTHING Of the Latest Style for Men, Boys' and Children. Suits and Overcoats.

SUITS and OVERCOATS. School Suits, from 75c. up.

NOVELTIES FOR CHILDREN. Full lines in Top Coats, Reefers and Separate Pants.

MEN'S FURNISHINGS. All of the latest Novelties in Ties, Collars, Shirts, Suspenders, HOSIERY, GLOVES, UNDERWEAR.

HATS of the Latest Styles at Moderate Prices.

One Price—Cash. Money refunded if goods are not as represented.

129 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

-YOUR LAST CHANCE-

to secure the

GREATEST BARGAINS EVER OFFERED

in Plainfield. Everything

MUST BE SOLD

in two weeks. The balance of stock of

Dress Goods, Cloaks, Millinery, Notions, Hosiery, Underwear,

Corsets, Men's Furnishings, Oil-Cloths, Mattings, etc., etc., to be closed out at your own price.

LEDERER'S,

115 WEST FRONT STREET.

EVERY THING

For the Fire-place.

MANTELS, TILES, GRATES.

SPARK GUARDS, $1.25 and up.

Curtis M. Thorpe, 310-312 Park Avenue.

THE BEE HIVE.

Men's Unlaundered Shirts

Lot 1—The "Cast Iron Shirt," made of good heavy muslin, good 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—38c.

Lot 2—New York Mills muslin, 3-ply fine linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—48c.

Lot 3—Our New York Mills shirt, made of New York Mills muslin, 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, continuous facing and hand-made buttonholes, equal to the best custom-made shirt—69c.

Boys' unlaundered shirts, 38c.

Men's laundered shirts 50c, 75c. and $1.00

LOUIS CALLMAN

222 West Front Street.

A JEWEL.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear."
And many a gem by mortals here unseen
Are waiting to be worn by some sweet fair.
In our well-stocked cases now are laid
Jewels that shine with scintilating fire;
In the latest fads and fashions made
That the connoisseur in jewelry must admire.
Design and workmanship are of the best.
So lovely woman do not hide
Those charms that Nature's sweet behest
Endows you with, but with woman's pride
Enhance your beauty as you see best.

COLLIER,

103 Park Ave. Established 1869.

P. H. ZIMMER,

Practical Machinist and Engineer,

Steam, Gas and Electric Contracting, Complete Power Plants Installed. Experimental work. General Jobbing. All kinds of repairing. EXCHANGE ALLEY, in rear of Trinity church. Bicycles built to order.

12

COURSE OF LECTURES BY

Prof. John Fiske,

of Cambridge, Mass.

Y. M. C. A. HALL,

Thursdays, Jan. 14th and 21st, Friday, Jan. 29th, at 8 p. m.

SUBJECTS:—

Jan. 14th—The Mystery of Evil, Viewed in the Light of the Doctrine of Evolution.

Jan. 21st—The Cosmic Roots of Love and Self-Sacrifice. (The Phi Beta Kappa Oration, delivered at Harvard University in June, 1895. It's theme was suggested by Huxley's remark—in his Romanes lecture at Oxford June, 1893—that "the cosmic process has no sort of relation to moral ends" Mr Fiske maintains the exact contrary, viz—that "cosmic process exists purely for the sake of moral ends.)

Jan. 29th—The Everlasting Reality of Religion.

Tickets for the course—$1.00 each—may be obtained at Armstrong's pharmacy—or from any member of the Club of Current Events.

No reserved seats and tickets will be sold beyond the seating capacity of the hall.

E. D. BARRETT,

No. 148 East 5th St.

Sole Agent for the Richmond Heaters.

STEAM and HOT WATER.

SANITARY PLUMBING

NEW YEAR'S CARDS AND DIARIES AT R. C. RAND'S,

140 West Front street.

P. MARKEY, Bakery,

144 PARK AVENUE.

A full assortment of bread, cakes, and pies fresh every day. Fig and malt bread a specialty. 2 17 tf

NEWMAN'S STAGE LINE TIME TABLE
Between Plainfield and Scotch Plains.

Leave Plainfield..... { 7.00; 9.30; 12.45 a. m.
{ 4.00; 6.00; 9.00 p. m.
Sunday—9.00; 12.30 a. m., 3.00, 6.00 p. m.

Leave Scotch Plains. { 6.20; 8.15; 10.30 a. m.
{ 2.00; 5.00; 7.00; 9.30 p. m.
Sunday—9.45 a. m., 2.00; 4.00, 7.00 p. m.

DEPOT—FRONT STREET AND PARK AVE.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Miss Carrie Hyle has returned from a visit with her sister in Brooklyn.

Mrs. F. A. Nelson has been visiting among friends in New York and Brooklyn.

Raymond Dorsett has returned to his home in Philadelphia, after a visit at the home of Mrs. M. Lane.

Expressman John Huff found a valuable gold ring, yesterday, and he likewise found the owner. But he was too modest to accept a reward.

Joseph Maier and his fiance from Cranford, together with his two sisters, were present at "The Tornado" in Music Hall, Plainfield, last evening.

Miss Laura Van Arsdale, Miss Mathina Bodine and Miss Titsworth, who have been at home from the Normal School, over the holidays, returned to their school labors yesterday.

After an illness of a week's duration, bordering on pneumonia, during which time his store was closed, W. R. Gulick was at his place of business yesterday. But he is yet under the doctor's care.

Harry Boice and W. S. Chase, Jr., were catching on to a passing wagon on Front street, about dusk yesterday, when they both fell off in the mud. Both were slightly injured, but the injuries are not serious.

The Week of Prayer is being observed in the churches here this week and the services are being conducted by the local pastors. On Sunday and Monday evenings the services were held in the Presbyterian church, and the balance of the week, excepting Saturday, meetings will be held in the M. E. church. Thus far the meetings have been prolific of much good and many persons, both old and young, have asked for prayer and Divine assistance.

There is likely to be some trouble over locating the new Dunellen fire alarm permanently. The Central Railroad Company has generously agreed, it is said, to place the whistle or gong on their round house, gratuitously, and to furnish steam necessary to sound the alarm in case of fire. But a few think it would be far better to have the gong located on the engine house, which is directly in the centre of town, and a few others wouldn't object one bit if the Borough Commissioners would erect the fire-gong alongside of their house, so they could be easily aroused in case of an emergency. Among the more enlightened residents, however, it seems to be the universal opinion thst the borough should show its appreciation of the railroad company's and keep the fire-gong where it was first located.

SCOTCH PLAINS

A meeting of Fanwood Council, No, 744, Royal Arcanum, was held last evening to take action on the death of its late member, Postmaster J. A. Baker. The members of the council decided to attend in a body and will meet at the rooms tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock for that purpose.

Special meetings of the Buckat and Engine Company, and Goodwill Lodge, No. 101, Knights of Pythias, to both of which the late Mr. Baker belonged, were held last evening and they are also expected to turn out for the funeral.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs C. Adams, of Duer street, is quite sick at her home.

Mrs. Line, of Duer street, is confined to the house by illness.

Mrs. H. Obitz, of Brooklyn, was the guest of Plainfield friends on Saturday.

Miss Cora Laire, of East Fifth street, is entertaining friends from out of-town.

Mrs. James McCormick and family, of Linden avenue, have moved to Newark.

S. E. Terry, of Richmond street, has returned after spending the holidays in New York.

Mrs. L. W. Randolph, of West Second street, has returned from a few days visit with Newark relatives.

Mrs. Force and daughter, Miss Minnie Force, of LaGrande avenue, have returned from a visit to Easton, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Runyon have returned from their wedding journey to Washington and have taken up their residence in one of the flats in the Jackson building on West Front street.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East.

Miss Alice Callahan, of this city, is visiting friends in Trenton.

Joseph Runyon, of LaGrande avenue, is kept at home by illness.

Miss Amy Gee, of Bayonne, is visiting relatives on Linden avenue.

Mrs. Reighton, of Park avenue, is entertaining her niece from Newark.

Miss Grace Peck, of Second place, is confined to her home with illness.

Miss Ethel Walsh, of Brooklyn, is a guest of Miss Gertrude Tier, of Bank place.

Mrs. Uhler, of East Front street, is entertaining her brother from Lebanon, Pa.

Miss Tomlinson, of LaGrande avenue, has gone to visit friends up in Pennsylvania.

Miss Grace Rowland, of East Second street, has about recovered from a severe illness.

Lawrence Doyle, of Richmond street, returned to his studies at Seton Hall College, yesterday.

Edward Blackburn, together with his sister, of Brooklyn, are visiting friends on Orchard place.

William M. McCutchen, of Rockview Terrace, has returned to his studies at Yale University.

Miss Lily Lathrop, of Oswego, N.Y., is the guest of her friend, Miss Elizabeth Brower, of East Fifth street.

Miss Anna Holmes, of East Front street, who has been visiting Westfield friends, returned home yesterday.

Miss Alice Ross, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit with her friend, Miss Elsie Horne, of Willow avenue.

Isaac Titsworth, of Dunellen, has returned to his studies at Rutgers College after spending the Christmas vacation at home.

Miss Emma U. Taptum, of Craig place, returned yesterday after spending the holidays with relatives in Ocean Grove.

Fred Breem, of Richmond street, is now able to get around with crutches. He was a welcome visitor at fire headquarters yesterday.

Miss Newman, of the Trenton Normal School, who has been spending the holidays at her home in this city, has returned to Trenton.

Miss Marie Steinhauser, of Jersey City, has returned home after spending the holidays with her aunts, the Misses Verdon, of Somerset street.

Joseph Wadsworth, of Yale University, returned to his studies yesterday afternoon after spending the holidays at his home on West Eighth street.

Mrs. Kate Slater and her granddaughter, Miss Clyde Slater, of Jackson avenue, returned Sunday from Elizabeth, where they were visiting for a few days.

The Misses Charline and Pearl Stillman, of Westerly, R. I., who have been visiting at the home of George E. Stillman, for the holidays, have returned home.

The family of the late Walter A. Bass have moved from their home on West Eighth street to 815 Second place in the house formerly occupied by John Leal.

Miss Alice and Miss Eva Holmes, of Eastport, Me., who have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Bowers, of Putnam and LaGrande avennes, for the past ten days, left for school at Hartford yesterday.

Louis VanLoan, formerly bookkeeper at the oil-cloth works in this city, and now traveling for an oil-cloth firm in New York, was in town over Sunday. He has just returned from New Orleans, where he says the thermometer registered 84 degrees in the shade less than ten days ago.

Joseph Grant and his daughter, Miss Fairie, of Toms River, who have been visiting Police Captain and Mrs. George W. Grant since Thursday last, returned home yesterday. Jos. Grant is the oldest brother of the Captain, and he served through the war as a cavalryman with honor to himself and his regiment.

Mr. and Mrs. Jules B. Bovey, of Somerset street, were agreeably surprised Sunday by the unexpected visit of an old friend, Ferdinand Chappins, accompanied by Mr. Vogele, both of New York. Mr. Bovey and Mr. Chappins were friends in their native country, Switzerland, and they passed a few pleasant hours recalling old times.

ALL OVER THE TOWN

NEWS IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS THAT INTEREST ALL PLAINFIELDERS.

Gathered by Enterprising Press Reporters From Both Sides of the Brook and Tersely Served for Your Perusal.

—Work was stated yesterday erecting the new hose house in Prideville.

—Unity Lodge, No. 102, Knights of Pythias, will meet tomorrow evening.

—Lucetta Council, Daughters of Liberty, meet this evening in their lodge rooms.

—Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., will hold its regular meeting this evening.

—The Board of Directors of the Public Library will hold a meeting at the Library tonight.

—Leal's School re-opened yesterday morning after two week's vacation for the Christmas holidays.

—A meeting of the Plainfield Medical Association will be held this evening in the Hotel Tuilleries.

—Miss Fawcett's School, in the borough, will re-open tomorrow morning after the Christmas holidays.

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps will hold a practice meeting this evening in the rooms of the corps.

—Line & Co., of Somerset street, are selling out their stock of goods. They will continue business in Westfield.

—The consistory of the German Reformed church will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorrow evening.

—Ackerman & Coddington, the Somerset street fish dealers have given up business and dissolved partnership.

—The sewing school of Warren chapel will give a benefit entertainment Thursday, January 21st, in the chapel.

—Robert M. Clark opened his new law offices in the City National Bank building today. They are very handsomely fitted up.

—The Saenger and Turn Verein will hold a general meeting on Thursday evening, when the officers for the next year will be elected.

—Week of prayer services will be held in the Monroe Avenue church on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week.

—At the meeting of Martha Washington Council, D of A., this evening, the recently elected officers will be installed and other important business transacted.

—The meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps next Friday night, will be of especial interest, and exercises appropriate to the retirements of the present officers will be held.

—Corby's Poultry Farm in Washington Valley purchased at Madison Square Garden last week, the first prize White Leghorn cock and the first prize White Leghorn hen.

—Owing to the repairs being made to Red Men's Hall, the meeting of Old Glory Council, No. 62, D. of L., was adjourned until the repairing etc, is completed. They will probably meet on Monday evening.

—While playing hockey on the New Market pond last week Geo. A. Horne of Willow avenue, had his hand severely injured by a blow from a hockey club. He will be unable to use his hand for some time.

—The Press is in receipt of handsome calandars from the Elizabeth Daily Journal and the American Bank Note Company, the former through the courtesy of G. F. MacDonald and the latter by favor of J. Kirtland Myers.

—Mrs. Gould, of 250 West Twenty-second street, New York, who has opened an office in this city for the treatment of the hair and scalp, at 431 Park avenue, on Wednesdays, has arranged to remain over during the evening to accommodate the gentlemen who are unable to be treated during the day.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1896. A. W. Gleason, Notary Public. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. Cheney, & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

X The flowers that bloom to please the eye and cheer the heart are gone, but we have their fragrance preserved, and for sale, in bottles; prices from 10c. to $8 00. ONE QUALITY ONLY—size and kind of package making difference in price. Best value we ever offered.

MAS

Successor H. P. REYNOLDS. T. S. ARMSTRONG, "THE APOTHECARY." Park and North avenues.

Something to Know,

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

BOROUGH NOTICE.

Public notice is hereby given that application in writing signed by John Herrmann, being a person who owns all of the land fronting on the Street proposed to be vacated, has been presented to the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield asking for the vacation of the unopened portion of Regent street lying easterly of Whitewood avenue, and that it is the intention of said Mayor and Council to cause the same to be vacated.

Such persons, if any there be, as object thereto are required to present their objections in writing to the subscriber on or before the eighteenth day of January, eighteen hundred and ninety seven, at 6 o'clock p. m. on said day. Dated January 4, 1897.

JAMES K. ARNOLD,
Borough Clerk.

1 5-7-9-12-14 16

Treatment of the Hair and Scalp.

TOMORROW, WEDNESDAY, Mrs. Gould, of No. 250 West 22d St., New York, will be at her Plainfield office, 431 Park avenue, corner Fifth street, and also every Wednesday during the winter, for the purpose of treating ladies' and gentlemen's hair and scalp. If unable to consult her during the day, will treat gentlemen evenings. 1 5 caw tu t

Randolph Runyon,
Funeral Director,
Residence, Over Office. Office 43 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J.

H. DeMott,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J
Calls promptly attended to day or night. White and black hearses. Coaches latest style.

DIED.

BAKER—At Scotch Plains, Jan 3, 1897, James A. Baker in his 60th. year.
Relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend his funeral at the Scotch Plains M. E. church, Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 6th., at 2:30 p. m. 1 4 2

WANTS AND OFFERS.

CALF—Strayed from my stable last night, will finder please notify me. Jerry Rowe, Grove street.

LOST—On yesterday, between Kensington avenue and the Casino, a pocket book containing sum of money. Reward to finder at Daily Press office.

WANTED—A girl for general housework. Apply 817 First place. 1 5 2

WANTED—Three or four rooms cheap, near depot. State rent and location. Address H., care Press. 1 5 tf

ROOM with board, heat, gas, (suitable for gentleman). 21 Sandford avenue. 1 5 6

WANTED—Girl for general housework; plain cooking; small family. Apply 325 E. 2d St. 1 5 2

GIRL WANTED for general housework in small family. Apply 14 Craig place. 1 5 2

FOR SALE—Well bred bull terrier pupies. 624 La Grande. 1 5 3

STORE to let in Stillman Block, now occupied by Mrs. Dyer. 1 5 1w

WANTED—White girl for general housework in small family where two girls are kept. Must have good references. 734 Watchung Ave.

BY women, each with an infant or young child, situations in the country (general housework, plain cooking, etc.). Small wages expected. Railroad fare paid by Association. Apply State Charities Aid Association, 105 East Twenty-second Street, New York City. 1 4 3

TO LET—Store and rooms above, now occupied by Justice Newcorn, 110 West Front street. Inquire Samuel Drier, pawnbroker, corner Front street and Madison avenue. 1 2 tf

LARGE and small furnished rooms, heated, with first-class board, gas, bath, at moderate rates. 529 West Front street. 1 2 3

FOR SALE OR TO LET—No. 120 West Fourth street, store and dwelling combined and brick stable; been used for the last five years as bakery. E.C. Mulford, broker, owner. 12 26 tf

TO LET—Elegant 6 room apartments, Jackson building, steam heat, janitor service, halls carpeted, heated and lighted. Rent reasonable, particulars at Packer's furniture store. 11 23 tf

FIRST CLASS help and first class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 23 Somerset place. 11-10-1y

LOANS negotiated. E. C. Mulford, Broker 7 2 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, Broker. tf

HORSES boarded by the month. Terms reasonable. W. H. Rogers Washingtonville. 916tf

Plainfield's Busiest Store.

We sell goods cheaper than any Plainfield store.

JANUARY CLEARING SALE

IN OUR

House Furnishing Department.

This sale means a decisive change of prices, prices that cannot help but interest the most conservative buyer.

3,000 Fancy China Plates, some of them worth 39c., for this sale only — — 13c.

50 Jardinere's, 7-inch, worth 49c., for this sale only - - - - - - 19c.

50 Japanese Finger Bowls, with Tray, regular price 29c., only - - - - - 19c.

56 piece Decorated China Tea Set, were $5.98, now - - - - - $3.49

Terra Cotta Art Vases, were 98c., now 49c.

Comet Oil Heaters, were $3.98, now $3.25

112 piece Dinner Sets, all perfect, best porcelain, were $6.98, now - - - - $5.49

EDWARD WHITE.

WALL PAPER

"A word to the wise is efficient."

From 3c.

Buy from the manufacturer and save middlemen's profits.

On receipt of postal card a fine assortment of SAMPLES sent to ANY ADDRESS.

To $2

Warerooms, 211 215 North Ave.

EDW. LOVE,

= BOEHM'S !=

Beginning MONDAY, Jan. 4th, we will inaugurate our annual sale of

HOUSEKEEPING LINENS, TOWELS, NAPKINS, SPREADS, SHEETS and PILLOWS

at our usually low figures.

We also call your special attention to the great mark-down sale in our

CLOAK, CAPE AND SUIT DEPARTMENT.

All kinds of Cloaks and Capes must be sold, if prices have anything to do with it. Our principle not to carry over any garment whatever, will be adhered to to the letter. Shrewd buyers in search of bargains will not miss this opportunity at

= BOEHM'S, =

113 WEST FRONT STREET.

Did anyone tell you to buy SLIPPERS for Xmas Presents? If so, we have what you want at the right price.

Don't forget we have HANAN SHOES for Ladies.

A. WILLETT AND SON
NO. 107 PARK AVE.

IN A TEACUP.

BY GENEVIEVE L. BROWNE.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

Harry Ellard had risen half an hour earlier than usual this morning, to give himself sufficient time to write a letter upon which his entire future happiness depended—so he told himself; but the half hour had elapsed before he had been able to formulate his thoughts satisfactorily. He was due at his office in 20 minutes, during which time it would be necessary for him to shave and consume his breakfast. So, without further attempt at elaboration, he dashed off what he had to say, sealed the letter and wrote her Christian name on the envelope, placing the stamp on the wrong side. Why he had not written the letter the previous evening, during which he employed several hours in meditation concerning it, is a conundrum that only a man in love can answer.

After ornamenting his face generously with ugly little razor scars, he hurriedly completed his toilet and rang vigorously for the bell boy.

"Here, Alexander, take this letter and mail it for me." He handed him a button instead of a dime, and rushed down the hotel corridor to stop the descending elevator.

"AIN'T GOT ANY ADDRESS."

Alexander stared after him, then looked at the button, grinned and turned the letter over.

"Ain't got any address—stamp on wrong side. Well, I guess he knows his business." And he dropped it into a box.

A month passed. Harry had received no reply, and became in consequence extremely uneasy, thinking that perhaps in his haste he had written something that might have offended the recipient, or that the letter had not reached its destination. Alexander observed his patron's discomfiture with a troubled conscience, for he was fond of him because he tipped him more liberally than anyone else in the hotel.

The letter was returned in due time from the dead letter office, and Alexander was intrusted to take it to Mr. Ellard's room. He rested on the stairway and thought the matter over. He did not wish to lay himself liable to reproof for his carelessness. He knew that when a man makes a fool of himself it is not well for anyone who acknowledges he knows it.

The envelope was addressed simply:

Agnes

—

Alexander remembered certain rose tinted notes that were strewn about Mr. Ellard's dresser, signed: "Yours, as always, Agnes. No. — W. — street—the lady, doubtless, for whom the letter was intended, and instead of returning it to the writer, he delivered it at the above address.

Agnes Moran read it with a gleam of triumph in her eyes.

"At last!" she exclaimed. "I had a severe struggle landing that fish—wealthy, handsome, healthy, the beau ideal of our circle. What a triumph! I wondered why he was so silent and lackadaisical the last time he called. But how is this! The letter is dated October 1—it is now the 5th of November. The envelope has been opened—how odd! oh—" and upon examining it closely she realized what had happened and laughed heartily.

"Poor fellow—and he has been in uncertainty for over a month. But what possessed him to send the letter in this condition after its return! Perhaps to let me know how perturbed he has been Well, no matter. He shall know his fate by to-night. The first thing to do is to go over to see Angie Fairfax and tell her the news. Hateful thing—she played her cards hard to get him. She will squirm with jealousy." And the black-eyed, red-lipped, round, lithe damsel started off at a deliberate self-conscious pace with her head up, as a fine young animal which has tasted blood and knows where more prey can be obtained.

She found Angie in her modest boudoir, before a dainty white dressing table.

"What do you think, dear," cried Agnes, breaking in upon her calm, and throwing her luxurious figure into a dimity-covered chair, "the strangest thing has happened and I have come to spend the whole afternoon and evening to tell you about it." She handed Angie the letter, watching her narrowly. Angie's hand trembled slightly as she saw the writing, then she read it aloud with perfect composure.

"My Dearest Girl: I address you thus because you have always been so to me—because, from the first time I saw you, you seemed to belong to my life.

You are so different from the women about you—so sincere, pure and simple—a mountain flower against hothouse plants; and although I have lived in this whirl of society for years, I long for a restful atmosphere, such as your love might give me.

I have written this to tell you that I cannot call on you again until I know in what capacity I may come. If it is to be only as your friend—and I will be your friend as long as you will allow me—it would be a kindness in you to let me know at once. In deep anxiety, HARRY."

"A mountain flower!" laughed Agnes. "He does not know me. If he thinks he will find rest with me he is very much mistaken. What do young people want of rest—they need excitement and activity. I shall cure him of his sentimentalisms. But we will humor him for the present."

"Agnes," said Angie, with a look of pain, "that man offers you a beautiful affection. It is wrong for you to depreciate it."

"Oh, you don't know anything about him," she said, tossing her head in enjoyment of Angie's discomfiture. "It takes a woman of my knowledge of human nature to see through such a man. He is simply flattering me to predispose me in his favor. And now I want you to do something for me, dear. I want you to invite him here to-night. You know you tell fortunes beautifully with tea grounds. I want you to tell him his fortune, terminating with this affair of the letter, and when you have aroused him to a high pitch of anxiety concerning my reply, I will step into the room, quite by accident, and you, of course, will be taken aback and retire precipitately."

"ANGIE, YOU HOAX!" HE CRIED.

Angie, mastering the feeling of revolt with which her friend's cold-blooded reception of her suitor had inspired her, entered into her plans with an assumed seriousness that awakened in Agnes an unpleasant suspicion that she was amusing herself at her expense. "At any rate, I shall laugh last," thought Agnes.

Angie sent for Mr. Ellard, and having dressed in a simple white gown with a dash of pink, that threw a pretty glow beneath her eyes, waited among the cushions of the divan. Agnes had arrayed herself elaborately in an imported costume, displaying her figure to its greatest advantage.

The electric bell rang and Harry was announced. He was visibly embarrassed, but Angie's frank and cordial reception soon put him at ease, and presently when she kindled the tiny alcohol flame beneath the brass teapot, saying: "I am going to brew you a cup of tea, and if you don't mind the grounds I will tell your fortune," he had quite recovered his self-possession. "I shall be glad to have you do so," he replied, "for I am very desirous of knowing my fate." Angie glanced towards the portieres, which trembled noticeably. His eyes followed hers, and he said: "There seems to be a draft. Is the window open? Do you feel chilly? I will close it." And he arose with alacrity to cross the room.

"Oh—no! no!" said Angie, precipitately, "you must not—that is, I mean—I am not chilly." Then she began to talk rapidly to conceal her confusion, while he sat down, looking at her curiously.

After he had disposed of his tea she ordered him to reverse the cup on the saucer and turn it three times; this he did, wondering what motive had prompted her to select this peculiar method of entertainment. As he handed her the cup she said, impressively: "I see a young man; he has written a letter." Here her auditor colored, evading her glance. "He has written it in great haste," she continued, "and very carelessly, which he should not have done, considering the importance of its substance." At this point they were interrupted by a cough from the portiers. Harry Ellard looked at her steadily. "Angie, is there some one behind those curtains?"

"Don't interrupt," was the reply. "Listen to what I have to say. The young man neglected to address the letter further than the Christian name of the lady for whom it was intended. It was returned to him, and this morning the lady received it in a somewhat demoralized condition. The lady loves you very, very much, and her answer—"

The portiers were thrown apart and Agnes stepped out, just in time to see him knock the teacup from Angie's hand as he made a wild dash towards her.

"Angie—you hoax!" he cried, covering her in his big arms and holding the face of the struggling girl where he could kiss her lips over and over again, "why didn't you tell me at once that you had received the letter?"

"Because — because" — turning her head with difficulty and glancing at Agnes, "I did not receive the letter at all; it went to Agnes."

HOME OF ONE OF THE WORKING STUDENTS.

"But you know it was for you."

"I suspected—but you had the 'g' in the wrong place." But at this point Agnes passed out of the room, slamming the door.

A COLLEGE FARM.

Called the People's University and Run on Communistic Principles.

Where Learning Rewards Toil—Every Student Tills a Part of the Institution's Land and the Joint Crop Supports It.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

They are making a communistic educational experiment near the little town of St. Anne, Ill., some 60 miles south of Chicago, that has already attracted a good deal of attention and is sure to be talked of the world over if anything like success is accomplished.

This experiment is known as the People's university. St. Anne is far removed from the railroad in a region that is strictly rural, and the university owns an entire section of land, 640 acres. Upon this tract stand not only the university buildings, but also the homes, for the time being, of all the students and teachers. The land is cultivated cooperatively, by all, the proceeds are sold for the benefit of all, and the property of the community is kept in a common storehouse.

A portion of the section of land occupied by the school is high and wooded. The remaining portion, amounting to more than 500 acres, consists of recently-reclaimed swamp land with a deep, black, sandy loam soil, entirely protected from water, and is of unusual fertility, available for the greatest variety of crops.

The community started with a capital of $4,500, invested in tools, machinery and live stock. The school has asked for no gifts, does not expect to secure any endowments, and will appeal neither to the charity nor the beneficence of the public in any way. The students and teachers who are on the ground are working with their own hands at the construction of the buildings, and are carrying on the agricultural work of the school, all of which is done without compensation. The labor is employed directly in producing the food, clothing, fuel and shelter necessary for their own comfortable existence. When this labor has provided these necessities, the balance of their time is devoted to study.

The educational workers are building up their own city; including houses, school and farm. The dwellings are cottages, 12 by 18 feet on the ground, and a story and a half high, with first-class cedar shingle roofs. The school building is 16 by 32 feet on the ground, and two stories high, containing a recitation room, 16 by 24, and eight small rooms. They have built five miles of fences; planted fruit trees and 500 grape vines; have set out an immense garden of about ten acres; have fields containing 20,000 sweet potato plants, 22 acres of Irish potatoes, 80 acres of oats, 250 acres of corn, 40 acres of sorghum, 20 acres of millet and 20 acres of buckwheat, all of which is in very fine condition. It is the universal verdict of the large number of visitors that no finer crops nor better farming is to be found anywhere than here.

The cottages are built in a sort of semicircle, following a slight raise of ground which is everywhere overgrown with blue grass. It would be difficult to find, or to produce even with a considerable expenditure of money, a more beautiful location for the home than this little grove has furnished, ready-made.

The form in which the buildings are constructed is that of a small village, but there is no subdivision of land, and no sale of lots. The school will hold, in its own name and for its own use, all land, houses, shops and implements of every kind. There is no way in which any person can secure a speculative or even legitimate business interest in any of the work of this school. There is no plan for admitting, for residence in this village, anyone who does not come solely for an educational purpose. The school simply provides an opportunity for study to those who are willing, by their own toil, to take advantage of such opportunity; and the only return offered for labor is mental training. The man who does not want to study has no reason for going there, and will not be admitted, or, if admitted by mistake, will not be permitted to return. All who are not willing to labor with their own hands at tasks necessary to comfortable existence are also excluded.

In fact this unique community combines the elements of socialism and communism, and it is to be hoped without any of their evils. The aim of the students of the People's university is to sink individualism and accomplish the greatest good for all.

Here is the order of the day's work: The rising bell rings at four o'clock, breakfast is at six, chapel at 6:30, and all hands attend this morning service in their working clothes. They go direct from this service to their work in the field. At 11:45 the bell rings a field call to dinner. Dinner is at 12:10, and the classes begin at 1:30. At 5:30 the classroom work is over; supper is at six. From 6:30 to eight the time is spent in rest and play, and from eight to nine in study, after which the day is done and all retire. Sunday forenoon is one's own for reading and rest, and at three in the afternoon a service of public worship is held. The use of tobacco, intoxicants and opiates is not permitted within the university's precincts.

The work of building this community was undertaken by Walter Thomas Mills, who, as field secretary for the organization, is entirely responsible for its management. The appointment of teachers, securing of students, direction of discipline, in fact the complete management of the school in its industrial and its classroom work is, for the present, in his hands. It is an old idea of his. Mr. Mills is known as a lecturer on temperance and other social and economic topics.

The wonderful growth of the crops of the little colony and the very satisfactory returns which the immediate future promises is held to justify the expectation, that, in a very short time, the fruits of its own toil will entirely provide for its support.

Where Stump Speaking Originated.

The expression "stump speaking" was originated by Kentuckians, and gives this account of its origin: In 1815 John McLean, at the age of 24, moved from Logan county to Shawneetown, Ill., without other capital than is generally possessed by lawyers of that day—"poor, talented and ambitious." Nature and life on blue grass soil made him a great orator. Indeed, as a biographer expressed it, "besides his great str of mind, there was no man in Illinois, before or since his day, that surpassed him in pure, natural eloquence." McLean's first serious trial of his power was for a seat in congress upon the admission of his adopted state into the union in 1818. His opponent was Daniel P. Cook, also a Kentuckian, from Scott county, "quick, wiry, eloquent and determined." On stumps of trees (literally) the two spoke all over the country, and from that campaign originated the title since given to "word-of-mouth" politician.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

Stock-Taking Sale

Columbia Sewing Machine--five years' guarantee--$29.00--Cash or Credit.

has just begun. Sale is not made up of a few pieces here and there, but includes EVERYTHING carried in our immense stock, PORTLAND RANGES excepted. We want to have as few goods on hand as possible when stock records are taken. THAT accounts for present low prices. No better opportunity for GENUINE bargains ever offered in the State.

Exceptionally large line of well-built Parlor Suits—newest kind of coverings and frames.

$25. Suits to $17.00
$40. Suits to $30.00
$50. Suits to $35.00
$75. Suits to $50.00
$125. Suits to $75.00

This Parlor Suit, silk brocatelle, plush trimmed, $25.00

Bedroom Suits

Our enormous stock of Bedroom Suits--over 200--oak, mahogany, Walnut. They're below wholesale now.

$35. suits to $25. $40. suits to $30. $50. suits to $35.00

Others up to $100. Formerly one-third more than present prices.

HERE'S OUR OFFERING IN CARPETS

Moquettes, 75c. Best Body Brussels, 90c. Velvets, 75c. Best Brussels, 75c. Other Brussels, 45c. All-wool Ingrains, 55c. About 50 rolls good heavy Ingrains, suitable for any part of the home, formerly priced 65c and 75c, now at 35c and 39c yard---rare chance. As an EXTRA inducement, we propose to make and lay Carpets FREE at these prices!

Balance of Stove stock at cost. See us before selecting elsewhere.
Self-Feeding Parlor Stoves, $5.63 up.

LIBERAL CREDIT TO ALL.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

NOTE NAME AMOS AND NO. 73 BEFORE ENTERING STORE

73 Market St. Near Plane Street NEWARK, N. J.

Telephone 580 Goods Delivered Free.

IS YOUR EYESIGHT DEFECTIVE?

There is no safer, surer or cheaper method of obtaining proper relief for over strained and defective eyesight, headache and so forth than to consult this Specialist. The happy results from correctly fitted glasses are a grateful surprise to persons who have not before known the real profit to themselves in wearing good glasses. No charge to examine your eyes. All glasses guaranteed.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,
EYE SPECIALISTS.

H. A. STILES will be at 107 East Front street, Dunham's real estate office, every THURSDAY, from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 30 CENTS.
PRIMES, $1 AND $1,50 PER HUNDRED.
-AT ROGERS.-

ASSIGNEE'S SALE

of the entire stock of GEO. A. HALLOCK, 109 W. Front St.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS,

Hats, Gloves, Trunks, Umbrellas, Etc., all New Goods and Up-to-Date.

MUST BE SOLD AT ONCE.

12 22 tf

J. F. MACDONALD, Assignee.

The Better the Food
The Better the Health.

MORAL

Use my White Lable Canned Vegetables.

California Naval Oranges. Tangerines. Table Apples. Preserved Fruit. White Grapes and Lady Apples.

G. W. ROCKFELLOW,
The Park Avenue Grocer.

W. J. STEPHENSON,
The Caterer,

Has RESUMED business again at his old stand,

146 NORTH AVENUE.

Where he will be pleased to see his many friends and former customers.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street

Time Table in Effect NOVEMBER 15th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59, 7 29, 7 58, 8 00, 8 30, 8 38, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 11 10 a m; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 22, 3 12, 3 51, 4 03, 4 33, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 22, 10 17, 11 26, p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 18, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30 5 36, 7 01, 8 13, 9 08, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 3 00, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 1 30, 3 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 29, 8 00, 8 33, 8 48, 9 29, 10 04, 10 27, 11 10, am; 12 03, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 32, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 26 p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 48, 3 17, 3 30, 5 36, 7 01, 8 13, 9 32, 10 17 p m.

Leave Newark at 6 1h, 7 1s, 7 55, 8 3s, 9 03, 10 08, 11 25, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 35, 3 38, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 25, 5 42, 6 30, 7 15, 7 25, 8 40, 9 08, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30, 11 25 a m; 1 10, 1 35; 2 5o, 4 05, 5 40, 7 30, 9 20, 10 2 Passengers for Newark please change car at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 2 11, 2 32, 3 35, 4 38, 5 02, 5 18, 5 34, 6 04, 8 09, 8 19, 9 36, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p m; 12 44 night Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 03, 3 43 5 14, 6 35, 10 15, 11 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 30, 7 36, 7 46, 8 19 9 08, 9 48, 11 45 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 3 08, 3 38, 4 08, 5 28, 6 08 6 35, 8 07, 8 50, 11 05 p. m. Sunday 8 38, 9 48, 10 45 a m; 12 08, 1 30, 5 10, 6 35, 7 53, 8 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m., 12 46, 3 11, 4 56, 5 15, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 38, a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 06, 7 00, 8 54, a m; 12 32, 4 04, 7 00, p, m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 02 a m; 6 30, 7 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 54 a. m; 5 03, 5 15 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

9 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

3 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

5 03 p. m., way for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

4 45 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor, Allentown Mauch Chunk Scranton, Wilkesbarre Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

6 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

9 2o a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

3 05 p. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 34 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 10 27 a.m. 1 15, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, p. m. Sunday, (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 28, 8 13, 10 04, 10 27 a.m. 1 15, 3 12, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m.; 1 15 3 51, 5 32 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37* 1 17 night. Sundays—5 17, 5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14* p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m. 12 44, 2 17, 2 25*, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* p.m., 1 17 night. Sundays 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14*. p. m., 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 3 44, 10 44 a. m., 2 17, 5 34*, p. m., 1 17. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, p. m., 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect December 2d, 1893.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7 44 a. m. Daily (Sundays 8 01) Local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m 3 34, 5 22, 7 32 p. m. daily except Sunday, Local for Bound Brook.

11 54 a. m. Daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

12 05 p. m. daily except Sunday, "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

1 44 p. m. daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

2 34 and 4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6 25 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

8 23 and 9 54 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9 33 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn-Local-6 49, 7 15, 7 43, 9 40, a. m. 2 29, 4 45 and 6 40 p. m. Sunday 9 03 a. m., 2 21, 6 08 p. m. Express—7 23, 8 27, 10 02 a. m 12 14, 2 17, 5 11, 7 07 and 8 17 p. m. Sundays—7 23 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 48, 7 50, 10 06 a m. 12 13, 2 33, 5 20, 7 07 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 10 a. m. 2 20 and 6 30 p. m

For Metuchen only 6 23 p. m. except Sunday.

For further information consult Ticket Agent.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent,
S. Bethlehem, Pa.
CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
Philadelphia, Pa.
A. W. NONNEMASHER,
Ass't General Passenger Agt.,
South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt or Desbrosses street.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:20 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 50 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m: closes 9:30 a. m

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 5:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor
109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss Helen B. Dunham,
TEACHER OF PIANO AND ORGAN.
Pupil of a German Professor. For reference address, Prof. John C. Bergner, Clinton, New Jersey. Call on or address Miss Helen B. Dunham, Dunellen, New Jersey. s20 6m

MISS FAWCETT'S SCHOOL AND Kindergarten.
25 Washington avenue.
Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Boys received until 10 years of age.

NEW DESIGNS
LARGE VARIETY.
HIGH GRADE
PARLOR HEATERS,
Stoves, Ranges and Oil Heaters
OUR PRICES ARE LOW.
Hardware, Heater and Furnace Work.
A. M. GRIFFEN.
119 E. Front st. Telephone 6

TOWNSEND'S
Marble and Granite Works,
SOMERSET STREET.
Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

FRANK DAY,
114 WEST SIXTH ST.,
(Near Park Avenue.)
Livery and boarding stable in al its branches all kinds of turnouts night or day at short notice. Horses boarded by day, week or month. Telephone No. 152. 9 10 tf

BARRELS OF MONEY IN GOOD PATENTS
"HINTS TO INVENTORS"
mailed free. Patents quickly procured and sold. Lowest liberal terms. Gen. Rufus King superintends selling department. Consultation free. Call or write Clark, Deemer & Co., 189 Broadway, New York. Percy C. Ohl, Babcock Building, Plainfield, represents this firm.

IF THE BEST WILL DO,
Try Royal Tooth Powder. 1 1-2-oz. can, 10c.; 4-oz. nickel-top bottle, 25c. It contains no acid or grit, and is recommended by all dentists of standing who will advise the use of Chalk and Castile Soap, flavored. Royal Borated and Carbolated Talcum, at 10c., is intended to give entire satisfaction and win your favor. Prepared by
ALLEN PHARMACY M'F'G CO.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Get Your Turkeys, Chickens and Ducks for the holidays at
W.L. & J.M. Smalley,
94 Somerset street.
Telephone Call, 42b.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry offices will receive your work.

Hillier & Co.,
North ave., Plainfield.
Telephone 30M

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No 2 Coal Only $3.75 a the Y.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

RUDOLPH KERSTING
BAKER AND CONFECTIONER
201–203 West Front Street.
TRY OUR NEW ENGLAND AND HOME MADE BREAD.
VIENNA BREAD A SPECIALTY.
Charlotte de Russe, Cream Puffs, Chocolate Eclair, all kinds of Pastry and Cakes, FRESH EVERY DAY.
Delivery to any part of the City or Borough at any time.

Store Open Evenings.
Useful Holiday Presents.
Desks, Tables,
Easy Chairs, Rockers, etc.
Fine China,
Elegant Lamps,
Fancy Pottery.
G. Q. PACKER. J. W. GAVETT.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO., —Dealers in—
Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c.
Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.
BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Call at
J. F. MACDONALD'S
The Uptown Grocery.
And be convinced that it is our aim to supply the people with the best goods at the lowest prices and that we now have a full line of all the new goods necessary to make your order complete.

Muse Raisins,	3 lbs. for 25cts.	Figs,	10 cts. per lb.
Table "	5 " " 50 "	English Walnuts,	15 " " "
Currants,	3 " " 25 "	Paper Shell Almonds,	25 " " "
Cal. Prunes,	2 " " 25 "	Pecans,	18 " " "
" Apricots,	2 " " 25 "	Filberts,	15 " " "

A choice lot of apples $1.75 a barrel.

JAS. R. BLAIR.
126 Park Avenue,
Has a fine assortment of Neckties, Mufflers, Umbrellas, Silk Handkerchiefs, Gloves, &c.,
Ready for the Holidays.

POWLISON & JONES' FURNITURE WAREROOMS,
149-151 EAST FRONT ST.
PRESENTS
A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF USEFUL HOLIDAY GIFTS.
IT WILL INTEREST YOU TO LOOK THEM OVER.
Open Evenings.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance
177 NORTH AVENUE.

SPECIAL SALE AT CRANE & CLARK'S,
Hat and Furnishings Store.
120 West Front street. Prices Cut on all lines of Men and Boys wear

Special-- We place on sale today a
Big Line of Suitings and Trousers.
Trousers to order $3.50 worth $5
Suits to order $18, worth $25
SEBRING'S.

Bargains in Real Estate For sale or to let.
MONEY to loan on first mortgage.
E. C. Mulford,
Send for blank contracts. 169 North avenue. Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.
BROKER.
Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

FASHION AND FANCY.

Ladies' Wraps for the Coming Cold Season.

The coming season will be marked by a lavish use of exceedingly bright colors. Military scarlet will be one of the prominent features of the cold-weather costumes. Red hats, red cloaks, red dresses, red trimmings of all sorts, are in the ascendant. Conservative taste modifies red with black or clouds it with white. A red satin dress literally smothered in white lace was a recent order. A cloak of red broadcloth, lined with satin and trimmed with a lattice pattern of black satin ribbon, is one of the most stylish garments of the season.

The interest of womankind is just now turned toward outside garments, and everybody is wondering what is coming next. Among the styles shown are square-cut box coats that extend 10 to 14 inches below the waist-line. These are made with perfectly square fronts and backs, either plain or with a box-plait pressed closely down, watteau fashion, from the shoulders. Other styles have the plait running up to the collar. Another idea is three heavy plaits in the back, but these are not for autumn, being almost too heavy and cumbersome. They weight the shoulders, and are not pleasant to wear.

A garment modeled somewhat after the fashion of the old-time redingote is shown among the best importations. One model is of moderately heavy cloth, and is lined with iridescent satin. The edges are finished with a wide band of black velvet, and similar bands of black velvet outline the seams and finish the cuffs, collars and lapels.

A novelty is a long coat of broadcloth in two colors. The body of the garment is of tan color, the trimmings of black. The collar, deep cuffs and lapels are of black, and black bands are stitched down over all the seams, and a wide trimimng of the broadcloth turns back from the front on either side. The garment is double-breasted, and closes over a vest-shaped section that extends about half way down the skirt from the belt. This vest portion is embroidered and braided in the most elaborate fashion. The rest of the garment is without garniture other than the black cloth mentioned. The sleeves are in the modified leg-o'-mutton shape that has been introduced to let us down by easy gradations from the enormous sleeves to the almost tight-fitting styles.

The ulster is to be the general all-around useful cloak of the season. A few ulsters with capes are shown, others are merely the fitted garment. Many of them are lined throughout the waist and the upper half of the skirt portion. This is done for warmth, and cloaks of this pattern, with double-breasted fronts, are adapted for extremely cold weather and driving. The latter cloak is a garment which is very popular, as many women are extremely fond of driving, and must be so arranged as to be easy and comfortable, and, at the same time, sufficiently well fitted to be trim and stylish, which combination is by no means easy to secure. A cold-weather garment of this sort is made of coffee-brown cloth, of a material somewhat like Irish frieze. The front laps over rather farther than the average double-breasted garment, giving an additional warmth. The sleeves are very loose at the tops, and quite full at the elbows, then narrow to cuffs of the usual shape. A cape, which is long enough to cover the arms to the wrists, is furnished with the cloak. A new point in this cape is a button and buttonhole at the extreme points of the front. In windy weather the front corners of the cape are crossed and button and buttonhole are fastened at the back of the waist. This makes what is equivalent to big sleeves over those of the regularly fitted garment.

Another cape, which is much longer, has a buttonhole made about 12 inches back on either side of the front. Through these holes straps attached to the edges of the cloak pass and fasten at the back. This arrangement permits the cape to fall below the waist line and is a much greater protection than could be imagined unless one has tried it. Circular capes will be quite as much worn as heretofore and differ very slightly in shape from those of last season. A fancy of the moment is the round cape made of West-of-England broadcloth. The trimming may be either the elaborate braiding heretofore described in the Ledger, or, what is just as much liked by many, latticework either of the material itself, made into narrow strips and stitched on, or satin, velvet or ribbon. One cape is trimmed with a ribbon of satin and moire. This describes curves, right angles and arabesques, and makes a most effective garment.

Fur collars and wide lapels are also used on these West-of-England broadcloth capes, and short capes of brocade or velvet are lined with ermine and trimmed with rose ruchings of silk or velvet.—N. Y. Ledger.

A Fast Beard.

Three brothers bearing a remarkable resemblance to one another are in the habit of shaving at the same barber's shop. Not long since one of the brothers entered the shop early in the morning, and was shaved by a German who had been at work in the shop only a few days. About noon another brother came in and underwent a similar operation at the hands of the same barber. In the evening the third brother made his appearance, when the German, dropping his razor in astonishment, exclaimed:

"Vell, upon my vord! dat man hash de fashtest beard I ever saw. I shaves him dis morning, shaves him at dinner-times, and he comes back now, mit his beard so long as it never vash!"—London Tit-Bits.

Grape Jam.

The common wild grape is best for this. Boil soft and strain the grapes through a sieve, a pound of sugar to a pound of pulp. Boil 20 minutes, stirring often.—Ladies' World.

ALL ARE SOLVENT

Frightened Depositors Caused the St. Paul Bank Suspensions

THERE IS NO DANGER OF ANY LOSSES

The Institutions Are In Good Shape and Will Soon Resume Business—Suspensions Necessary to Prevent Complete Ruin.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 5.—The Germania, the Allemania and the West Side banks, all doing business as state banks, which closed their doors yesterday, were literally pulled down by their depositors. The failure of the Bank of Minnesota, December 22, caused unrest in the community and depositors withdrew their money from the three banks above to such an extent that they were forced to go to the wall because they had not funds enough immediately in hand to meet the demands made upon them. Each of the three, however, is solvent, and all of them will reorganize as soon as the machinery for that purpose can be put into use. The directors of the Germania met last evening and appointed a committee on reorganization. The Germania is in the hands of an assignee and the other two are in the hands of the bank examiner. A receiver will be appointed for the Allemania to-day and the West Side bank will try to make arrangements with its creditors and reopen without the intervention of a receiver. The Allemania closed soon after the Germania with a crowd of depositors clamoring at the paying teller's window for their money. Speaking of the failure of the West Side bank, President Staples said: "Our suspension was due to the Allemania. We did all our clearing through the Allemania and yesterday they failed to cover our clearings and sent them all back to us. In the meantime the news of the suspension of the Germania and Allemania spread through West St. Paul and our depositors began scrambling in and demanding their money. We could not refuse, and in a little while there was a good-sized run on the bank. We were obliged to close up to save ourselves."

DEFAULTER AND SUICIDE.

Surprising Downfall and Death of an Aged Baltimore Bank Cashier.

Baltimore, Jan. 5.—Richard D. Cornelius, one of the oldest and best known bank cashiers of this city, committed suicide yesterday. His body was found in the duck pond in Druid Hill park a few hours after a shortage of $60,000 had been discovered in his accounts at the National Farmers' and Planters' bank. Last Saturday Bank Examiner Winchester drew the attention of the officers of the bank to some irregularities in the accounts of an out-of-town institution. Yesterday Mr. Cornelius was asked to explain the irregularities. He did not attempt to do so, but abruptly walked off. A closer examination of his accounts disclosed an apparent shortage of $60,000. When the officers of the bank learned that the cashier had left the building they telephoned to Smith, West & Lyon, the detectives, to hunt him up. Mr. West traced the defaulter to Druid Hill park and thence to the duck pond. There they found his body floating in three feet of water. The man had evidently held himself to the bottom of the pond by the weeds that grow there. Mr. Cornelius was about 68 years of age and had been connected with the National Farmers' and Planters' bank for over forty-two years. He was a close friend of the late Enoch Pratt, who was president of the bank for almost half a century. In religious circles, Mr. Cornelius was almost as prominent as in banking circles. His tragic end is the sole topic of conversation in down-town circles. Hundreds of his friends refused to believe that he was either a defaulter or suicide. The matter caused more excitement in the banking district than any other event in years. For many years Mr. Cornelius had been very prominent in Methodism, and at the time of his death was a local preacher of the Baltimore conference, president of the City Missionary and Church Extension society; president of the Emory Grove association, one of the trustees of the Baltimore annual conference and a member of the official board of Madison avenue church. The National Farmers' and Planters' bank is one of the oldest and considered one of the strongest in the city. It has passed ten per cent. dividends for several years in addition to its surplus fund annually. The surplus given in the bank's report on Dec. 17, 1896, was $600,000. Its capital stock is $800,000.

Escaped Burglars Sentenced to Death.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 5.—Gov. Carr has set February 8 as the date for the execution of Monroe Johnson of Mecklenburg, convicted of burglary, and of George Cody and William Cody of Madison county, also convicted of burglary. Neither of the Codys is in custody, they having made their escape from jail in 1894 after death sentence and pending an appeal.

Steamer Warwick Will Be a Total Loss.

Seal Cove, Grand Manan, N. B., Jan. 5.—The British steamer Warwick, Glasgow for St. John's, N. B., before reported stranded on Yellow Muir ledge, about ten miles from here, lies in an exposed position, and it is expected she will go to pieces the first southerly gale.

Accused of Stealing Lodge Funds.

Boston, Jan. 5.—William H. Arnold is under arrest in Somerville charged with the embezzlement of $125 from Bunker Hill lodge, Knights of Pythias, of which he was the treasurer. He was held in $800 for trial.

PASSING COMMENT.

Mayor Fisk was present at the meeting of the new Council last evening, and previous to the meeting he shook hands with every member.

* * * *

The total expense of the police department for 1896 was $13,600, instead of $15,470.89 as published on Monday. The above amount is $129 less than the previous year. The police board suggested that the city judge hold the trials in the City Council rooms instead of the city court rooms at an expense of $144.

* * * *

His reappointment as a member of the Board of Health of the borough came in the nature of a surprise to Dr. Honeyman. Through an error no record has been kept as to when the terms of the various members of the board expires, and Dr. Honeyman was under the impression that it was Andrew Love's term that ended this year. Mr. Love has been such an efficient member of the board that Dr. Honeyman felt that a serious loss would be effected if he was not reappointed, and in view of this he urged Mayor Hegeman to reappoint Mr. Love. However, when the Mayor looked into the matter he found that it was Mr. Honeyman's term that expired, and last night he reappointed him for a term of five years. Mr. Honeyman was not aware of this fact until informed by the Mayor this morning. He was taken very much by surprise. Though Mr. Honeyman is exceedingly modest with reference to his own work on the board, the public knows very well that to him is due to a great degree the credit for having the board recognized by the State Board of Health as the most efficient and aggressive in New Jersey. Mayor Hegeman's act was on the line of good government.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Lloyd VanMiddlesworth spent Sunday with friends in Westfield.

Nicholas Conway, formerly of this city, but now of Jersey City, spent Sunday in Plainfield.

Miss Josephine Johansen, of the North Plainfield public school, has returned to her boarding place on Craig place after spending the holidays at her home at Washington, N. J.

Lester Baldwin and his college chum, Kendall Fellows, left yesterday for Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, where they will resume their studies at the New York State Military Academy.

Arthur B. Crane, of East Second street, and Walter E. Probasco, of East Front street, returned to their studies at the Dental department of the University of Pensylvania, yesterday morning.

Miss Edith DuBois, of Park avenue, entertained a number of her friends at her home last evening in honor of her guest, Miss Ethel Simmons, of Brooklyn. The evening passed enjoyably in games and the like.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The case of Smith against Hall has been continued in Justice Newcorn's court.

—E. L. VanEmburgh & Son have commenced the closing of their store at 7 o'clock evenings.

—The borough tax collections for this year are considerably in excess of the previous year, and the collection of back taxes is far better.

—Eminent Sir. D. D. Adams of Trinity Commandery No. 17, K. T., conferred the order of Malta on three candidates last evening.

—On Thursday, the first of the Epiphany will be observed in St. Stephen's church, by a celebration of Holy Communion at 7:30 in the morning, and evening prayer with sermon at 7:45.

—In Chief Doane's annual report, an abstract of which was published in these columns, was stated that there is 456 feet of hose in the department. It should have been 4,650 feet of hose.

—While a carpenter was engaged in removing a window from the composing room of the Daily Press this morning, the glass fell out of the frame and narrowly missed striking a passer-by in front of Armstrong's pharmacy.

—Dr. Wm. Newman, died at his home in Lafayette avenue, Brooklyn, on New Year's eve. He was a resident of the Seventh Ward, New York, nearly fifty years, and was the grandfather of Wm. T. Newman, of West Second street.

Another Christmas Tree Afire.

A Cristmas tree at the home of Wm. VanSickle, on East Third street, caught fire last evening, and was considerably burned. Frank Eick and Wren Townley, who happened to be near the house, succeeded in extinguishing the flames, without sending in an alarm of fire.

A Court of Enquiry.

A court of enquiry will soon be held regarding the frequent use of a false fire alarm key in the borough. It is said that a borough official has full knowledge concerning the matter.

Give It a Trial.

On receipt of ten cents, cash or stamps, a generous sample will be mailed of the most popular Catarrh and Hay Fever Cure (Ely's Cream Balm) sufficient to demonstrate its great merit. Full size 50c.

ELY BROTHERS,
56 Warren St., New York City.

My son was afflicted with catarrh. I induced him to try Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrhal smell all left him. He appears as well as anyone.—J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

Along Legal Lines.

So far, the new year has been a busy one for Justice Nash and yesterday he issued summons in a number of suits. Summons were issued in the following contract cases returnable on the 14th: Werner against Johnson, Werner against Moran, Werner against Labeau, Werner against Wood, Werner against Stevens, Force against Hudson, Thorn against Harold, Thorn against Myers, Tubbs against Martin, Thorn against Bower, Rugg against Pond. Summons were also issued in the case of Delaney against Smith, on contract.

Primary Teachers.

Mrs. VanName led the devotional exercises at the meeting of the Primary Teachers Union yesterday afternoon, and Miss Shinn, city missionary from the First Baptist church, taught the lesson. Mrs. Dunning, of Bound Brook, who is a member of the Somerville Union, was present, and gave an interesting report of her union. A short business meeting followed, when the treasurer reported 90 cents on hand. It was also stated that the union has at present 32 members.

No Increase in Alimony.

Another move has been made in the Kurzhals divorce case which is at present agitating the gossips of Westfield. Paul I. Oliver, of Westfield, solicitor for Mrs. Kurzhals, made a motion before Vice-Chancellor Stevens, at Jersey City, for an increase in the alimony allowed her. Counsellor W. S. Angleman, of this city, successfully opposed the motion, and Mrs. Kurzhals will have to be content with her present allowance.

An Impressive Funeral.

The funeral services of the late Miss Emma J. Lewis were held in the Mt. Olive Baptist church yesterday afternoon and were largely attended. The pall bearers were John Perkins, John X. Taylor, Junius Harrison, Joseph Smith, Will Parker, and John Walton. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. P. S. Gibson and was a very touching one. The remains were interred in Greenwood cemetery.

Especially for Odd Fellows.

The story of Ben Hur is interesting to all classes but to the Odd Fellows it has a special significance. Prof. Chamberlain's lecture in the Y. M. C. A hall this evening will have to do with this famous literary work of General Wallace and all who attend may feel assured of not only entertainment but of wholesome instruction. The lecture is handsomely illustrated with stereopticon views.

Pigeons Quick Flight.

Three carrier pigeons belonging to A. C. Vail, of Grant avenue, and three more belonging to John James, of Clinton avenue, were flown from Jersey City to this city, yesterday. The birds were young, but they made the journey in a trifle over fifty minutes. The three birds belonging to Vail were the first to arrive and then came two from James' loft. The other did not appear.

Nomination of Officers.

Washington Camp, No. 30, P. O. S. of A., met in the Elkwood building, last evening, and nominated the following officers: President, Frank Kesselring; vice-president, Cyrus E. Moore; recording secretary, C. F. Stevens; financial secretary, C Burham; treasurer, N. H. Saxton; master of forms, I. N. Wyckoff; conductor, Edward Tomlinson.

Married Men Defeated.

The regular bowling team of the Park Club rolled a five men team of the Benedicts of the club on Saturday evening and had no trouble in defeating the married men in the first game by a score of 806 to 672. The married men turned the tables in the second game and won by a score of 740 to 735. Several of the regular team were not present.

For Endeavorers.

Dr. W. H. Morse, of the Cranford Disciples mission, will hold an Endeavor rally at the home of Miss Mabel VanMiddlesworth, 122 Liberty street, tonight at 8 o'clock, on the opening of the fourth year of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Church of Christ. All Endeavorers and their friends are welcome.

A Chance to Get a Bicycle.

A high grade bicycle is to be given to the member of the Y. M. C. A. securing the largest number of new members between now and April 1st.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured in 3 Days

Morton L. Hill, of Lebanon, Ind., says: "My wife had Inflammatory Rheumatism in every muscle and joint, her suffering was terribe and her body and face were swollen almost beyond recognition; had been in bed for six weeks and had eight physicians but received no benefit until she tried the Mystic Cure for Rheumatism. It gave immediate relief and she was able to walk about in three days. I am sure it saved her life." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, cor. Park and North avenue, Plainfield.

—From this date until further notice Edsall's Commercial Palace will close at 6 p. m. excepting Saturday.

WHAT IS THIS DISEASE CALLED DYSPESIA?

Like a thief at night, it steals in upon us unawares. The patients have pains about the chest and sides, and sometimes in the back. They feel dull and sleepy; the mouth has a bad taste, especially in the morning. A sort of sticky slime collects about the teeth. The appetite is poor. There is feeling like a heavy load on the stomach; sometimes a faint, all-gone sensation at the pit of the stomach which food does not satisfy. Eyes are sunken, the hands and feet become cold and feel clammy. After awhile a cough sets in, at first dry, but after a few months it is attended with a greenish colored expectoration. The patient feels tired all the while, and sleep does not seem to afford any rest. After a time he becomes nervous, irritable and gloomy, and has evil forebodings. There is a giddiness, a sort of whirling sensation in the head when rising up suddenly. The bowels become costive; the skin is dry and hot at times; the blood becomes thick and stagnant; the whites of the eyes become tinged with yellow; the urine is scanty and high colored, depositing a sediment after standing. There is frequently a spitting up of the food, sometimes with a sour taste and sometimes with a sweetish taste; this is frequently attended with palpitation of the heart; the vision becomes impaired with spots before the eyes; there is a feeling of great prostration and weakness. All of these symptoms are in turn present. It is thought that nearly one third of our population has this disease in some of its varied forms. It has been found that medical men have mistaken the nature of this disease. Some have treated it for a Liver Complaint, some for Dyspepsia, others for Kidney Disease, etc, etc., but none of the various kinds of treatment have been attended with success.

Now, the Shaker Digestive Cordial causes the food eaten to be digested. This will cause an appetite for more food, and this being digested will result in an increase of strength, an increase of flesh and an increase of nerve power.

The tired, weary feeling will give way to vigor and courage. The pale, thin and emaciated will recover their color and plumpness, because red blood and fat are the result of properly digested food.

A ten cent trial bottle will produce a result. Its good effect will be realized at once. You will not have to take a dozen bottles to find out if it is doing you any good Try it, and then give praise to the Shakers of Mount Lebanon, New York, for the relief you obtain.

Sale of Land for Taxes in Fanwood Township.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a warrant issued by the Township Committee of Fanwood Township, Union county, New Jersey, under their common seal, signed by their Chairman and attested by their Clerk, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided for the collection of taxes laid on certain lands in said township for the years of 1893, 1894, 1895, the subscriber, special constable for the collection of delinquent taxes, of said township, will on Thursday, the 4th day of February, 1897, at the hour of two o'clock p. m., of said day, at Town rooms, (Excelsior Hall) Scotch Plains, in the Township of Fanwood, Union County, N. J., by public auction, sell the lands and premises hereinafter described, taxed to the undernamed persons, to make the taxes with interests, costs, fees, charges and expenses thereon, to any person or persons who will take the same for the shortest time not exceeding thirty years, and pay the amount due thereon. The following is a correct list of those in arrears for taxes for the years of 1893, 1894, 1895, and a description of the lands upon which said taxes have been laid and that are to be sold, hereunder:

Water E. Hyer, 30 acres, district 5, $38.48, in 1895.

George H. Muller, lot, district 4, $4.42, in '95.

J. C. Cloyd, 59 1-2 acres, district 8, $38.64, in 1893, $43.68, in 1894, $62.44, in 1895.

Wm. Thomas estate, 6 3-4 acres, district 7, $3.00 in 1895.

HENRY COOK, Special Constable for the collection of special taxes, Fanwood, N. J., Jan 4th '97.
Fees $9.00. Press 1-9 12-19-26-2-2.

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield January 4th, 1897.

Amerman Rev Jas L	Hickey Miss Rosie
Boehm Miss A 3	Mitchell C H
Bristand, Miss Ann Allison	Mattis Wm
	Stewart Mrs Leonora
Corbett Miss Mary E.	Sullivan Jas F
Compton T A	Tevis E E
Eager Geo	Tennyson Mrs Jas
Hamilton John M	VanDoren H J
Haldane Miss Emily	Voorhees Miss E A
Hopkins Mr	Vermeule Wm

Foresight.

"Do you think Julia will accept the offer of her foreign lover?"

"No; her father says when they go abroad they may get something cheaper and just as good."—Chicago Record.

Done For.

"I'll never ask another woman to marry me as long as I live!"

"Refused again?"

"No. Accepted."—Tit-Bits.

McKinley on Cabinet Making.

I've got to have a cabinet,
But one thing I'm afraid of—
I don't see how in time I'll choose
The stuff it's to be made of.

For kindly friends on ev'ry hand
Their ready tongues unlimber
To tell me just the very spots
To look for likely timber.

According to the tales they tell,
The woods are full of giants
On any of whom 'twould seem
'Twere safe to place reliance.

While lofty heads all round us tower
'Tis puzzling to tell which is
The best for any place, 'mid such Embarrassment of riches.

The woods are full of giants, peers
Of Seward and of Stanton,
And ev'ry day sees sample lots
Dumped right down here in Canton.

Yet I can't help suspicioning
That folks who talk the longest
Are those who'd make the poorest sticks
Appear to me the strongest.

And some, I know, in spite of all
The booming that is cheering
Ambitious hearts and hopes just now
Are nothing but veneering.

I want a good, strong cabinet.
I don't propose to cumber
The presidential office with
A lot of useless lumber.

But, oh, sometimes I can't but wish
We were a little scant on Fine timber for a cabinet—
Such carloads come to Canton!

—Mary Norton Bradford in Boston Globe.

$35. Will buy you a First-Class High Grade BICYCLE.
Peck & Snyder and Winslow Skates from 49c. up.
PLAINFIELD CYCLE AND SPORTING GOODS CO.
147-149 NORTH AVENUE.
H. E. RIDER, President. C. C. LISTER, Secretary and Treas.

Turkeys,
Chickens,
Ducks,
All Jerseys.
Prime Beef,
Mutton,
Lamb,
Jersey Pork and Sausage.
We invite an inspection of the FINEST STOCK IN THE CITY before you buy elsewhere.
SMALLEY BROTHERS,
The North Avenue Butchers.
Near the Depot.

Wall Paper
2cts. A Roll
Borders and Ceilings to Match, at
Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
201 Park avenue, corner Second street.
The Largest Supply House in the City.

THE SAME STEEL.

Is in our cultery out of which the finest tempered swords are made. Our Pocket Knives, Table Knives, Carving Knives, French Kitchen Knives, Razors, Butcher Knives, Bread Knives, Oyster Knives, Clam Knives, and every other kind of knife. Are made of Superior Steel.
The famous Purity Oil Heater, still on sale for $3.98.
The J. P. Laire Hardware Co
Telephone Call 49 I. 9 3 1y

A New Year's Sermon
which has its practical side. During this year we're going to keep the same good qualities of goods which we have always been well known for. We are going to put as moderate prices on these goods as possible. It wouldn't pay us to do otherwise. We're in business to stay.
L. W. Randolph,
PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST.
No. 143 West Front street.
Telephone Call, 109.
HOTEL TUILERIES!
AND ROGER'S RESTAURANT,
139-141 East Front street.
ROOMS TO LET. CATERING
HOLIDAY PRESENTS
IN ENDLESS VARIETY
AT HARPER'S,
411 PARK AVENUE.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

N O W
Our Winter Goods of all kinds MUST GO, and the REDUCED PRICES must move them quickly.

Boy's all-wool mixed Overcoats at $2.25, were $3.00.
Boy's Overcoats, all-wool, at $3.50, were $4.50.
Boy's Overcoats $3.75, were $4.50.
Boy's Ulsters at $2.50, were $3.75.
Boy's Ulsters at $3.50, were $4.50.
Boy's Cape Coats, all-wool, at $2.50, were $3.50.
Boy's Cape Coats $3, were $4.50.
Boy's Reefers, navy blue, chinchilla velvet and sailor collars at $2, were $3; and at $2.50, were $3.50.
Boy's Suits $2, were $3.25.
Boy's Suits $2.75, were $3.69.
A fine assortment of boy's all-wool Knee Pants, strong, warm and well made, only 25c., a regular 50c. article.
Ladies' long Fur Capes $7.50, were $13.50.
Ladies' long Fur Capes $9.50, were $15.50.
Ladies' black Cloth Capes $3.75, were $5.75.
Ladies' boucle Cloth Capes, lined with plaid silk, at $9, were $13.50.
Everything in Winter Coats, Suits, etc., will be sold at cost or less than cost.
Now is a splendid opportunity to buy.
All of our 50c, 60c. and 75c. novelty Dress Goods at only 39c.
Wool Blankets and Comfortable at reduced prices to close them out quickly.
Winter Gloves for men at great bargains.
And of course anything left over in Christmas Goods will go at almost any price.
Now is the golden opportunity to save money at
EDSALL'S.

Opportunity for Safe and Profitable Investment.
The N. J. MUTUAL REALTY COMPANY.
(Incorporated.)
Have acquired 200 acres of land with 6,000 feet frontage on C. R. R. of N. J. and Lehigh Valley Railroad at a cost of $22,500 and propose selling stock to small investors in $100 shares at par to pay for property. Already negotiations are pending to locate first-class manufactories along railroad front.
This plan will enable the Company to sell building lots at low prices, and all profits derived from sale of this property is to be divided among stockholders.
All stock payable to Treas. of Company on or before April 1, 1897. Already upwards of $10,000 stock have been subscribed for.
The following gentlemen are officers and directors of the Company.
A. D. Thompson, Sylvanus Ayres, Jr., Peter Egenolf, President Board of Trade, Elizabeth; P. H. Oakley, Insurance Broker; S. D. Drake, Richard H. Brokaw, cashier First National Bank, Bound Brook; W. W. Smalley, firm of L. D. Cook & Co.
For prospectus and full particulars call or address,
N. J. MUTUAL REALTY CO.,
ROSS BUILDING. BOUND BROOK, N. J.
Or First National Bank, Plainfield and Bound Brook.

The Strongest Claim
We make for the superiority of our Demulcent Cream
OF Witch Hazel
is that the people who have used it say it is the most efficient
TOILET REQUISITE
they ever used. For chapped hands it is unequalled.
Price 25c a Jar.
Leggett's Pharmacy,
Y. M. C. A. Building. Telephone No. 4.
Joseph Carbone,
128 NORTH AVENUE,
Wholesale and retail dealer in choice fruits nuts, etc., all kinds of temperance drinks. Closed Friday night, sun down. Open Saturday evening at sun down. 12 14 1y
PUBLIC BOWLING ALLEYS
AT
117 and 119 East Second Street.
C. M. ULRICH,
12 22 1y. Manager.

WE WANT FEET
to fit our shoes. The invisible cork sole ones are particularly apprapriate this season of the year. We're selling them at right prices.
Doane & Edsall.
Store closes at 6, Saturday 10 p. m.
NEUMAN BROS.,
Grocers,
Corner Watchung Ave. and 5th St.

Last Edition. THE DAILY PRESS Last Edition.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 6, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

CONSECRATION TO WORK

REV. A. E MAIN ADMONISHES CHRISTIANS TO BECOME ACTIVE.

This Week of Prayer Christians Should Make a Special Effort of Stretching Out a Hand to Those in Sorrow and Trouble.

The second of the union week-of-prayer services was held in the Trinity Reformed church last night. The meeting was largely attended and the church was well-filled in the central line of pews.

The meeting opened with singing, led by Horace J. Martin. George R. Cornwell offered the opening prayer, which was followed by several more hymns. Rev. Dr. Charles R. Barnes acted as leader of the service. After the devotional services, Rev. A. E. Main made a short address on the topic for the evening which was "Consecration to work and Christian Service." He took his text from Romans 12th chapter, 1st verse. "I beseech you therefore, brother, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy acceptable to God."

Paul, he said, did not call upon them as in the early times for a burnt offering but for them to offer themselves as a living sacrifice. By consecration, he continued, it is meant that they are to offer, to give themselves unto God. Consecration should not be an act of self-denial but an offering of love of joy.

Next he asked from what does consecration separate the Christian and gave as his answer that the soul was taken from the kingdom of Satan, from the service of that king into the service of a greater king. It is simply, he said, the voluntary separation from the kingdom of Satan. From the service of Satan the consecration was into the work and Christian service. That is the duty of the churches, to work.

Christians should make a special effort this week to consecrate themselves to the work of stretching out a hand to those in sorrow and trouble. And for such consecration, preparation is needed. He closed with an earnest prayer along the same lines as his remarks and after another hymn, was followed several other prayers by the other pastors present and some of the principal workers. A period of prayer, praise and testimony followed in which quite a number took part.

Rev. Mr. Schenck was missed from the service, but it was thought best for him to remain at home and husband his strength for the regular Sunday services in his own church. To-night and tomorrow night the meetings will be held in Vincent chapel, and a still larger attendance is hoped for.

CHANGE OF TEACHERS.

Better Work Arranged for the Borough High School.

Several important changes have just been made in the teaching department of the North Plainfield Public School. Miss Laura Sydenham, teacher of the seventh grade, now devotes her time to instruction in music and drawing in the school, and her place has been filled by Miss Grace Fraser, a graduate of the McGill University, Montreal.

Miss Bainbridge has entered the State Normal College at Albany, N. Y., and her place is taken by Miss May Baldwin, a graduate of Boston University.

Miss Maude McKane, a graduate of the Trenton Normal School, has been engaged to teach the fifth grade.

The board of education are to be congratulated on securing such excellent teachers who will maintain the high standard attained.

Entertained at Dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Townley, of West Second street, entertained a few friends at their home last evening. There were about fifty people present who enjoyed the dancing which was the principal feature of the evening. O'Reilly furnished the music. It was very early in the morning when the guests departed for home, but they all agreed that they had a good time.

Still Abusive.

John Roth, the insane shoemaker, who was locked up on Monday night pending his commitment to the New Jersey State Hospital at Morris Plains, was driven over to the hospital this morning under the care of Sergeant Kiely and his father, Martin Roth, Sr. Roth made no objection to the ride, but continued to abuse both the officer and his father with his tongue.

Lost the Tip of His Finger.

J. B. Meffard, aged 40 years, an employee of Potter's Press Works, had one of his fingers caught in a piece of machinery while at work this morning. He went to the hospital where it was found necessary that the tip of the finger should be taken off. The man was able to return to work this afternoon.

TAKEN FOR A GREAT MAN

FANWOOD'S ASSESSOR'S PICTURE LABELED GARRETT A. HOBART.

Exhibited in a Big New York Dry Goods Store as That of the Vice-President-Elect—Clerks Saluted Mr. Stanbery.

Unbeknown to the residents of the little borough of Fanwood, or to those of this city either, one of the well known citizens of that place has been posing as the Vice-President-elect of the United States. He, however, knew no more of it than the rest for a time.

In the mammoth store of Seigel, Cooper & Co., in New York, there is an art gallery and there are displayed in a large velvet frame a photograph of McKinley and another picture supposed to be of Garret A. Hobart. But it wasn't. It was a photograph of Fanwood's genial assessor, William R. Stanbery, better known as "Billie" Stanbery. Everybody thought the picture was all right and so they might for, on examination, the likeness between the Paterson statesman and the Fanwood assessor is very noticeable.

Mr. Stanbery was in New York yesterday when one of his friends came up and asked him how long since he had been having his photographs on exhibition. Now Mr. Stanbery did not know that a crowd was standing in front of his picture at that moment admiring the new Vice-president and he replied that his picture was not on exhibition. Then the friend advised him to visit the art gallery in Seigel, Cooper & Co.'s store and see for himself, so he hurried to that store and came to the place in question and, to his great astonishment, beheld his own likeness staring at him from within a handsome velvet frame. He did not notice the photograph of the next President along side but started to investigate.

Mr. Stanbery removed his hat and with his sweetest smile accosted the lady in charge of that part of the art gallery.

"By what authority do you exhibit my picture here?" he inquired with a bow. The young woman looked at him and then at the picture. Then with a deep courtesy as best befitting an official of such high rank, she answered.

"Oh yes. This is Mr. Hobart, the Vice-President." Then Mr. Stanbery dropped to the situation. Meanwhile the crowd had also seen the likeness and drew round for a closer look at such a rare curiosity as a vice-president of the United States. But Stanbery was equal to the situation. He explained that he was not the great man from Paterson, neither was he vice-president, but only William R. Stanbery, a quiet and well-behaved citizen of the borough of Fanwood and the picture that was now on exhibition was not of the successful candidate for national office, but himself.

Some time ago Mr. Stanbury lent the negative from which the picture was made to the Bas-Relief Company, now of Elizabeth, but then of New York, for them to make one of their new style pictures from but how the picture went from the company's office to the art gallery and how it came to change its name is still a mystery. The likeness is a good one and singularly resembled that of the Vice-President, except that the face of the Fanwood man is somewhat narrower.

NOW HUSTLE FOR MEMBERS.

A Chance to Get a High Grade Bicycle Free of Cost.

This announcement was made at the Y. M. C. A. on New Year's Day, and the explanation of it is as follows:

A local dealer has contributed a high-grade 1897 wheel to the association, to be used in extending the membership, and the committee in charge has decided to offer it as a prize to the member securing the largest number of new members previous to April 1st.

This is a peculiarly attractive offer, and is sure to enlist the young men in an earnest rivaling for a prize of such value, and which can be secured without cost except of a comparatively small amount of effort, for almost any man not already a member of the organization will join it if the matter is properly presented to him.

Application blanks and ammunition in the way of printed matter and other information can be secured from the general secretary at the association building.

Slowly Recovering.

Abe Hooley, formerly of this city, who has for some time been confined in a New York hospital, the result of injuries received a long time ago, came to Plainfield on Monday and spent the night with his brother, Edward, of Washington Park. Mr. Hooley is now able to move about with the aid of crutches.

—The Seminary opened yesterday after the holiday vacation.

A MAYOR FOR BOROUGH.

PETER EMMONS MAY BE NOMINATED TO SUCCEED MR. HEGEMAN.

Democrats Not Likely to Remain Silent This Year and ex-Mayor Saunders Talked of For a Candidate to Make a Fight.

Though the borough election is still some time distant, there is a good deal of talk among the politicians who know the ins and outs of municipal life across the brook as to who will be the ones to capture the honors to be bestowed by the nominating conventions.

While the Democrats were in a condition of innocuous desuetude at the last Mayoralty election of the borough there are signs that they will throw off this lethargic state this year and give the G. O. P. a hustle for the offices to be contested for.

Mayor Hegeman has been a good chief executive for the borough, but he has no further desire to burden himself with the duties for another term and is determined to step out into the rank and file of the party. Everything points to ex-Councilman Peter A. Emmons as being his successor. Mr. Emmons made a creditable record as a member of the Council, has been a faithful Republican worker, is personally popular with the people, and is considered to be an all-round strong candidate for the Republicans to continue in power with.

Just who the Democrats may center upon, if they put a candidate in the field, is somewhat uncertain, but ex-Mayor William L. Saunders' name is frequently and favorably mentioned. Mr. Saunders has not, as yet, evidenced an inclination to take up the gauntlet for his party. Should he consent to do this, however, he would doubtless make such a run that the Republicans will have to put on their hustling togs to beat him.

TAKEN BY SURPRISE.

Josie Van Natta Given a Pleasant Time at Her Home.

A very pleasant surprise party was tendered to Miss Josie Van Natta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Van Natta, at her home 351 East Third street, last evening. The surprise was almost complete but the young lady was equal to the emergency, and in furnishing entertainment for her guests she acquitted herself most admirably. During the evening there was vocal and instrumental music, followed by games and refreshments. Music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Tyrrell, Mr. Blatz, Mr. Burtsell and Miss Van Natta. A list of the guests follow:

Missess Mildred Tyrrell, Cora Scull, Lillian Thorn, Madora Ulrick, Lyda Pangborne, Mabel Hockridge, May Shimer, Bertha Wilcox, Fanny Mills, May Squires; Messrs. M. Sutphen, F. Blatz, W. Trembath, A. McVoy, W. Thorn, F. Schuck, T. Scully, G. Graves, S. Robertson, R. Tolles; W. Bertsell, W. Wertz, Newark.

Great Embroidery Sale.

Edsall advertises in another column a great special sale of fine Hamburgh embroideries, which he has just purchased of a manufacturer in St. Gall, Switzerland. They are what are called the clearings up of the factory; odd pieces, and are put at about one-half the usual price. Edsall said yesterday while they were arranging them on the sales tables one lady selected about fifteen dollars worth of them in a few minutes. Those who purchased say they are the cheapest they have ever seen.

A Benefit Concert.

A benefit concert for the piano fund at the North Plainfield Public High School will be given in the school building about the middle of February. Superintendent Warde is preparing a delightful programme which is sure to be greatly enjoyed by all. Only two hundred tickets will be sold and of that number nearly one hundred have been subscribed for already.

A New Trial Granted.

Judge McCormick, of the Union County courts, has granted a new trial in the appeal case of Mary E. Gartland against Laura R. Ellis, on contract, at the request of S. S. Swackhamer, the lawyer for the plaintiff Ex-Judge W. A. Coddington is the attorney for the defendant.

Sale of Fancy Articles

A sale of fancy articles was held by the ladies of St. Stephen's church, Saturday afternoon, to raise sufficient funds to issue a catalogue of the Sunday-school library. The sale was a successful one and the net proceeds amounted to about $25.

Sprained Her Wrist.

Miss Emma V. Shattuck, principal of the Bryant Public School, while on her Christmas vacation fell and seriously sprained her left wrist. She has not yet recovered from the effects of the fall and is still unable to use her left hand.

WAR ON SLOT MACHINES

JUDGE VANSYCKEL DRIVES THE DEVICES OUT OF ELIZABETH.

His Charge to the Grand Jury Was the Signal for Saloon Men to Remove Them—J. F. Hubbard Foreman of the Jury.

At the opening of the January term of the Union County Court yesterday at Elizabeth Judge VanSyckel severely scored the saloonkeepers and others who ran nickel-in-the-slot machines in disorderly houses. The Judge said it was gambling, pure and simple, as the machines were played for money and drinks, thus constituting the places they were in disorderly houses. The Judge told the Grand Jurors they could indict the owner of any place where these devices were found as running a disorderly house, and it would be their duty to fully investigate the matter and act accordingly.

Immediately after Judge VanSyckel's charge the slot machines began disappearing from Elizabeth. There were over four hundred machines scattered about the city, and two hours after the Grand Jury had received its instructions not a single machine could be found.

Telephones, messengers and trolley cars were pressed into service to notify the threatened parties by their friends, and the result has been simply astonishing. Never in the city's history has an evil been eradicated so quickly.

The calendar for the January term is light and the term promises to be short. The jail list numbers only eleven. Three of the prisoners are the Summit burglars, Miller, Warner and Ballinger. They had two confederates, a man and a woman, who are now in jail at Wethersfield, Conn., for a robbery committed there.

Following is a list of Grand Jurors: Plainfield, J. Frank Hubbard, foreman; Frank A. Pope, J. Augustus Smith. Clark, John A. Haliday. Fanwood, George Kyte. Springfield, Albert P. Carter. Cranford, George W. Littell. Westfield, John F. Dowell. Summit, Richard Phair. Union, Geo. W. Doty. New Providence. Eugene M. Badgley. Rahway. Charles E. Reed, Dr. H. Page Hough, John L. Crowell. Elizabeth, Samuel C. Miller Thomas H. Benton, Benjamin H. Hinds, John S. Sauer, Edward C. Woodruff, George W. Rogers, George A. Squires, William McCully, Sr., Adam Sauer and John N. Meeker.

MAYOR FISK PRESENTS TWO SHIELDS.

Valuable Acquisition to the Library Acknowledged by the Directors.

A regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Public Library was held last evening. There were present: Mason W. Tyler, J. Evarts Tracy, John B. Dumont, William H. Larrabee, Joseph W. Yates and William M. Stillman.

The minutes of the meeting of December 1st were read and approved. A number of bills were ordered paid.

It was moved that the president have power to arrange for the placing of the boulder given to the library by Mr. Fountain in the front yard of the library grounds.

Miss Sara Dean, of Mr. Leal's school, was granted eight teachers' cards for school use.

On motion the following resolution was passed:

Whereas, The Honorable Charles J. having offered to loan the Library two shields, one described as the Pilgrim Shield, designed to illustrate scenes from Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," and the other described as the Milton Shield, designed to illustrate scenes from "Paradise Lost;" Therefore, be it

Resolved, That the offer of Mr. Fisk be accepted and that the thanks of the Board be tendered to him therefor; and that the shields be hung under the direction of the art committee.

The report of the librarian was read, approved and ordered on file.

A Growing Lodge.

Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, the only confined auxiliary to the Jr. O. U. A. M., is not yet six months old, but is growing very rapidly, and the members are endeavoring to bring the membership up to 150 by the time the Council celebrates its first anniversary which will be on August 4th, next. At their meeting last evening seven propositions were received, and the Council also arranged for a series of evening socials to be held at the homes of the members. The first will be held at the home of Mrs. Andrew Mattis, of Madison avenue, Friday evening, January 15th.

—The Plainfield Camera Club will hold its first meeting for the new year on Monday evening, at which time the new administration will be in charge. Business of importance to all the members will be brought up at the meeting.

CONNECTING TO SEWERS.

ALL HOUSE OWNERS OBLIGED TO CONFORM WITH A STATE LAW.

Board of Health to Have an Ordinance Passed Containing the Provisions Necessary to Enforce the Law Here.

There was very little of importance done at the meeting of the Board of Health, held in the Mayor's office, last evening, besides the regular routine business. All the members of the Board were present.

Councilman Frost appeared at the meeting and held an informal conference with the members of the Board regarding the proposed garbage crematory. No action was taken, but the Board will soon appoint a committee to confer with a committee from the Council on the matter.

There was also a discussion of the proposed ordinance relative to the connecting of all houses with the sewer as conforming with the State law recently passed. Now that the local system of sewers is in perfect running order everybody along the line of the sewer will be compelled to connect their houses at once. The Board has charge of the passing of such an ordinance, and one containing such provisions will be brought up for first reading at a special meeting of the Board, which will be held on next Monday evening.

BEN HUR KEPT THEIR INTEREST.

H. Theo. Chamberlain Gave a Graphic Description of Wallace's Masterpiece.

There was a large and appreciative audience at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, last evening, when H. Theo. Chamberlain gave his wonderfully interesting illustrated lecture on "Ben Hur," under the auspices of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., for the benefit of the Odd Fellows' Home.

Those who have read the story of "Ben Hur," which is a master-work by Gen. Lew. Wallace, know what an intensely interesting story is presented, and to have the same illustrated with fine views makes the story doubly interesting.

Mr. Chamberlain is an entertaining speaker and the expression given to his remarks is marked. He exhibited over one hundred views of the finest specimens and he held the closest attion of his audience as he led them from the beginning of the life of Ben Hur to the triumph end. That portion leading up to and through the chariot races was so interesting that the audience was spell-bound, and as the views, showing the different parts of the races were given, those present almost imagined they were at the races. The remarkable life and characteristics of "Ben Hur" were graphically related in a manner that will leave a lasting impression on the minds of all present.

INSTALLATION AND BANQUET.

Jerusalem Lodge, F. and A. M., Had a Fraternal Time Last Night.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., met in the Babcock building, last evening, and installed the officers elected at the meeting of December 10th last. They were installed by Past Master Dr. D. C. Adams in a manner that did credit to both himself and the lodge. Following the installation exercises there was the usual collation which consisted of chicken salad, coffee, cake, fruit and other necessary perquisites, at which there was a flow of wit and good humor. Those who spoke in response to informal toasts were: Master-elect H. M. Beeching, C. C. Howard, Dr. H. H. Lowrie, Henry Woodland, B. F. F. Coriell and H. O. Hance.

The officers installed were as follows:

Worshipful master, Stephen Beeching; senior warden, H. O. Hance; junior warden, Garret T. Dunham; treasurer, Alex. Titsworth; secretary, Charles Yaeger; chaplain, J. H. Van Horn; senior deacon, Robert A. Meeker; junior deacon, E. R. Pope, Jr.; senior master of ceremonies, L. S. Pocock; junior master of ceremonies, Charles Conover; stewards, L. B. Woolston and J. W. VanSickle; tyler, Kasper Bolsterli.

Officers to Be Installed.

There is to be a big time at the meeting of Unity Lodge, No. 102, Knights of Pythias, this evening. The recently elected officers will be installed and the regular district meeting will also be held. All the grand officers of the State will be present and the installation promises to be an impressive one. At the district meeting the new deputy grand chancellor will be chosen from among the members of Unity Lodge.

An Invitation Reception.

The Board of Governors of the Plainfield Catholic Club held a meeting last evening and transacted routine business. They also made arrangements for an invitation reception to be given in the club hall on the evening of January 21.

IN THE WAY OF A BULLET

MISS AILIDA CLARK MAY LOSE THE SIGHT ON ONE EYE.

Shooting at a Target in Company With Her Sister Margaret and Accidentally Got in Range of the Rifle in the Latter's Hands.

A serious shooting accident occurred yesterday afternoon at the home of the Misses Clark, of Maple avenue, and may result in the loss of an eye Miss Ailida Clark, who is about thirty-six years of age, and her sister, Miss Margaret Clark, aged thirty-two years, reside with their father on the above avenue. The sisters are especially fond of shooting at a target with a flobert rifle, and they often pass their spare time in this way. The target is erected near the house and the range is a fairly long one.

Yesterday afternoon the two women were enjoying their practice, as usual. A dog owned by them happened to be nearby, and he ran in front of the target. Miss Margaret was shooting at the time and the other sister ran to the target to drive away the dog, lest he be shot. The canine had just been taken away, and the sister had called back that everything was all right, when the rifle went off.

At the same moment Miss Ailida Clark turned around just in time to get in range of the course of the bullet. The sister who had discharged the rifle ran to her sister, and to her astonishment learned that the ball had struck on the side of the nose next to the left eye.

The two immediately went to the house and Dr. Hedges was sent for. When the doctor arrived he examined the wound and thought it best that the injured woman should be taken to the hospital. Miss Clark was accordingly removed to the hospital. As yet the doctors are unable to tell whether Miss Clark will lose the sight of her eye. Drs. Ard and Hedges have the case in hand.

Miss Margaret Clark, the sister who performed the deed, is nearly frantic with grief, for she fears that her sister may lose her eye. The injured apparently suffers no great pain.

A JOINT INSTALLATION.

S. of V., G. A. R. and W. R. C. to Meet Together for That Purpose.

John Hand Camp, No. 28, S. of V., met last evening and accepted an invitation to install their officers jointly with G. A. R. Post No. 73, and the Woman's Relief Corps. Another invitation from the W.C. T. U. to attend a patriotic service in the rooms of the latter early in February, was also accepted.

In response to a request from department headquarters, G. A. R., asking for the appointment of a committee to wait on the Senator and Assemblymen in this district and secure their support towards favorable legislation for the Soldiers' Home at Kearney, a committee was appointed, with H. C. McVoy as chairman.

THE DOCTORS DINE.

The Medical Association Enjoy a Period of Relax From Professional Duties.

The quarterly meeting and dinner of the Plainfield Medical Association was held last night at the Hotel Tuileries on East Front street, and was attended by the following physicians: Drs. Hallock, Long, Probasco, Tomlinson, Ben. Hedges, Carman, Clawson, Jenkins, Davis, Gaston, Fritts and Boone.

Dr. Gaston read a paper of peculiar interest to the profession and afterwards it was discussed by those present in an edifying manner. During the course of the dinner, which occupied a couple of hours, there was evidenced much sociability by the doctors.

First Anniversary Soon to be Here.

The regular monthly meeting of the Germania Beneficial Society was held on Monday evening. One new member was initiated and two more were proposed for membership. Arrangements were made for the private celebration of the first anniversary of the society about the middle of next month. A committee, composed of Fred Conde, M. Menzeinbach and P. Postler, was appointed to look after the matter.

Contract Case Adjourned.

The case of Wells against Brown, on contract, was adjourned in Justice Mosher's court this morning until to-morrow night. City Judge DeMeza is the attorney for the plaintiff.

Jerry's Calf is Gone.

Jerry Rowe, of Grove street, has lost a very valuable calf weighing nearly two hundred pound. The calf strayed away on Monday and nothing has been heard of it since.

A Temporary Postmaster.

Norman Dunn has been assigned to fill temporarily the position of the late Postmaster Baker, of Scotch Plains. The term of office will expire next June.

$3,400.00 CASH AND PRIZES GIVEN FREE EACH MONTH FOR Sunlight SOAP WRAPPERS

As follows:

4 First Prizes, each of $100 Cash - - - $ 400.00
20 Second " " " $100 PIERCE SPECIAL Bicycles 2,000.00
40 Third " " " $ 25 Gold Watches - 1,000.00
Cash and Prizes given each month - - $3,400.00
12
Total given during 12 mos. 1897, $40,800.00

HOW TO OBTAIN THEM.

Competitors to save as many SUNLIGHT SOAP Wrappers as they can collect. Cut off the top portion of each wrapper, that portion containing the heading "SUNLIGHT SOAP." These (called "Coupons") are to be sent, postage fully paid, enclosed with a piece of paper stating Competitor's full name and address and the number of Coupons sent in, to Lever Bros., Ltd., New York, marked on outside Wrapper (top left hand corner) with NUMBER of the DISTRICT Competitor lives in.

No. of District	NAME OF DISTRICT.
1	New York City, Brooklyn, Long and Staten Islands, New Jersey.
2	New York State (outside of N. Y. City, Brooklyn, Long and Staten Islands).
3	Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and District of Columbia.
4	The New England States.

The Bicycles are the celebrated Pierce Special, 1897 Pattern, m'f'd by Geo. N. Pierce & Co., of Buffalo, Boston and New York. Fitted with Hartford Tires, First Class Nickele Lamps, New Departure Bell, Standard Cyclometer, and Hunt Lace Saddle.

RULES.

1. Every month during 1897 in each of the 4 districts prizes will be awarded as follows:
The 1 Competitor who sends in the Largest Number of coupons from the district in which he or she resides will receive $100 Cash.
The 5 Competitors who send in the Next Largest Numbers of coupons from the district in which they reside will Each receive winner's option a lady's or gentleman's Pierce Special bicycle, price $100.00.
The 10 Competitors who send in the Next Largest Numbers of coupons from the district in which they reside will Each receive at winner's option a lady's or gentleman's Gold Watch, price $25.
2. The Competitions will Close the Last Day of Each Month during 1897. Coupons received too late for one month's competition will be put into the next.
3. Competitors who obtain wrappers from unsold soap in dealer's stock will be disqualified. Employees of Lever Brothers, Ltd., and their families, are debarred from competing.
4. A printed list of Winners in Competitor's district will be forwarded to Competitors in about 21 days after each competition closes.
5. Lever Brothers, Ltd., will endeavor to award the prizes fairly to the best of their ability and judgment, but it is understood that all who compete agree to accept the award of Lever Brothers, Ltd., as final.

LEVER BROS., Ltd., New York.

TUPPER ADMIRES US

But Says Canadian Security Rests in Unity with Great Britain.

ONLY ASSURANCE OF REAL LIBERTY

The Former High Commissioner Says We Desire To Absorb the Dominion and in the Event of Isolation She Would Fall Into Our Lap.

London, Jan. 6.—Sir Charles Tupper, formerly Canadian high commissioner to Great Britain, and more recently prime minister of Canada, which office he resigned on July 8, last; Sir Robert George Wyndham Herbert, who was permanent under secretary of state for the colonies from 1870 to 1892, and who is now agent general for Tasmania, and the Hon. Duncan Gillies, agent general for Victoria, were the guests of honor last evening at a banquet given by the St. George's club of this city. Major General Sir Owen Burke presided in the absence of Lord Loch. In replying to a toast Sir Charles said that he did not go from London to Canada for the purpose of succeeding Sir Mackenzie Bowell in the premiership, but that he was summoned by the latter to confer with the government on important public business connected with Canada and the empire. He had been reluctantly drawn into politics when he thought he had retired from an active political life. The liberal and conservative parties in Canada had asked him to reenter the arena. Referring to the Washington treaty of 1888, respecting the fisheries, which the American senate refused to ratify, Sir Charles paid a high tribute to the tact and ability of Joseph Chamberlain, now secretary of state for the colonies, who was one of the treaty commissioners. Referring to the situation in Canada Sir Charles said that if the Dominion were isolated it must fall into the lap of the United States. Consolidated, it would remain firmly attached to Great Britain. He greatly admired the United States, but was profoundly convinced that union with Great Britain Britain was the only true security for real liberty to all parties. The United States, he added, desired to absorb Canada. (Cries of "they will never get it"). The Canadian fisheries were the chief attraction for the United States and the minerals of the Dominion was another. Canada could give the United States the finest harbors in the world, besides bringing that county 600 miles nearer to Great Britain. He contended that Canada's deep-seated loyalty to Great Britain would always constitute an impassable barrier to absorption.

TWO ASSEMBLIES IN DELAWARE.

Outcome of the Bitter Legislative Fight Awaited with Much Interest.

Dover, Del., Jan. 6.—The final outcome of the bitter legislative fight now being conducted in this state is awaited with deep interest. The seven union republican candidates for the house of representatives in Kent county who were declared not elected by the board of canvass and the seven union republicans who were defeated in Sussex county met in the state library yesterday and decided to form a rump house, to meet at the Hotel Richardson. They then repaired to the hotel and organized with Luther C. Conwell as temporary chairman. Thomas C. Moore was elected permanent speaker, and the oath was administered to him by Mr. Conwell. Mr. Moore then swore in the thirteen other members. Charles S. Hastings was made clerk and Thomas E. Brown recording clerk. They, with the minor assistants, then took the oath. The regular senate met and selected Hezekiah Harrington, democrat, speaker. The democrats captured the senate through the failure of the republicans to stand together. Meredith, democrat, of Kent county, was seated, and Allee, republican, was rejected. The regular house organized by making E. B. Riggin, democrat, speaker. The house appointed a committee on the contest of W. W. Chears against J. T. Dickey, both democrats, from New Castle county.

Lord Beresford's Condition.

London, Jan. 6.—Lord William Beresford, husband of the former Duchess of Marlborough, who was injured by the falling of his horse while riding to hounds a few days ago, is not progressing as favorably towards recovery as could be desired, though he does not appear to have grown weaker. He passes restless nights and is somewhat feverish.

PENROSE THE CHOICE

Nominated by Republican Caucus for United States Senator.

ONLY ONE BALLOT WAS TAKEN

He Received 133 Votes and Mr. Wanamaker 75—The Nomination Then Made Unanimous—Keystone Legislature Organized.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 6.—The full republican caucus of the senate and house last night to choose a candidate for United States senator to succeed Senator Cameron resulted in 133 votes for State Senator Penrose of Philadelphia; 75 for ex-Postmaster General Wanamaker one for Senator Cameron, one for ex-congressman John B. Robinson and one for Judge Rice, president judge of the superior court. Thus ends the great fight for Senator Cameron's seat and Senator Boies Penrose has won. When the chairman of the caucus announced that Senator Penrose had received the highest number of votes and was the caucus nominee, Senator Kauffman, the Wanamaker leader, rose, and in a brief speech, moved to make the nomination unanimous. He said the motion to make the nomination unanimous was at the request of Mr. Wanamaker and the noble body of men who stood with him who are loyal to their party. Senator Kauffman's motion was adopted and Senator Penrose was made the unanimous choice of the republicans for United States senator. The caucus then adjourned. The democratic caucus was also held last evening and ex-Lieut.-Gov. Chauncey F. Black of York was chosen as the democratic candidate for senator.

KEYSTONE LEGISLATURE.

Organization Perfected and the Governor's Message Read.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 6.—Both branches of the legislature convened at noon yesterday. In the senate long before the opening hour visitors swarmed through the chamber greeting senators of their acquaintance or viewing the changes that have been made since the session of 1895. The galleries were crowded and there was a lively interest taken in the proceedings. When Senator Penrose entered the chamber as the gavel fell there was a cheer from the galleries, but it was cut short by the lieutenant-governor. Senator McCarrell of Dauphin was named on the part of the republicans as president pro tem. and Mr. Cochrane of Lycoming on the part of the democrats, who received the votes of the six democrats: Mr. McCarrell was elected. Chief clerk Edward W. Smith was re-elected. After a short recess the governor's message was presented and read. The governor urges strict economy in the expenditure of public moneys, owing to the falling off of the revenues. The manner of the distribution of the five and one-half million dollars appropriated for the public schools, he says is decidedly at fault, and discriminates against districts which lack industries, and the lack of school facilities in the country is causing many citizens to move to boroughs and cities in order to educate their children. The governor refers to the crowded condition of the state prisons and recommends the erection of another penitentary and the enlargement of the old ones. "The individual or corporation that seeks to obtain from you dishonest advantage over his neighbor or competitor, or to bring gain to himself at the expense of the state, should be driven from your halls as the comenemy of the people," the governor says. In the assembly H. K. Boyer of Philadelphia was elected speaker; J. Rex of Huntingdon chief clerk and A. B. Fetterolf of Montgomery resident.

Illinois Senatorship.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 6.—Edward C. Curtis was nominated for speaker at a caucus last night of the republican members of the lower house. The majority of votes for him insures his election. He was the choice of the state machine which is backing Alderman Madden of Chicago for United States senator, and the result of the caucus is taken by the machine leaders and their followers in the legislature to forecast the election of Madden.

Perkins To Succeed Himself.

Sacramento, Jan. 6.—George C. Perkins will succeed himself in the United States senate. That was the conclusion arrived at by a joint caucus of the republicans last night.

THE VATICAN RECORDS.

Venezuelan Commissioner Coudert Has Found Them Very Valuable.

Frederic R. Coudert, a member of the Venezuelan commission, has just returned from a trip abroad connected partly with the boundary dispute. He reports that the records in the vatican and the archives of the propaganda have been offered to the commission. There was, found there, says the Illustrated American, a great mass of information collected by the Jesuits and the Capuchin monks, who had traveled all over the disputed country. A Jesuit priest has recently published a volume of travels and investigations in South America. England, too, has published in her blue books certain things which treat on the reports of the old Dutch governors of Guiana to the state's general in Holland about many boundaries formerly in dispute between the Dutch and the Spanish. Mr. Coudert brought back with him some documentary evidence collected by personal investigation of the records at Rome.

FREDERIC R. COUDERT.

Drought Every Nineteen Years.

Mr. H. C. Russell, a scientific man of New South Wales, announces as a result of a prolonged examination of history, from the earliest times that seasons of drought occur with unfailing regularity at intervals of 19 years. Of 208 droughts recorded since the year 900, all but 15 conform to this theory, which is that there are every 19 years one long period of three years during which the rainfall is somewhat deficient, and a shorter period between each of the long periods when the deficiency is excessive. He even finds a confirmation of the Bible chronology in the fact that the dates of the Egyptian drought in Joseph's time, the drought during King David's reign, that foretold by Elijah and that predicted by Elisha all fall into the 19-year period.

Collapse of an Empire.

The probability of the collapse of the Austrian empire before many years is great. The archduke, Franz Ferdinand, nephew—and, since the death of his father, Archduke Karl Ludwig, heir presumptive—of the emperor of Austria, is now in his 33d year, but in health so feeble that he was not allowed to attend his father's funeral. He is unmarried. Since he inherited the property of Francis V., the last duke of Modena, in 1875, he has styled himself archduke of Austria-Este. This archduke's heir and brother, Archduke Otto, has made himself so notorious throughout Europe by his profligacy that it is doubtful now if even Austria would accept him as a monarch. The aged emperor has, therefore, as heirs a dying invalid and a discredited man. The various races of the heterogeneous empire are ready at a convenient moment to assert their independence.—St. Louis Republic.

Candidate for Pension Commissioner.

Albany, Jan. 6.—Hon. Andrew Davidson, deputy secretary of state, is a candidate for the office of commissioner of pensions under President-elect McKinley. Mr. Davidson resides in Cooperstown, Otsego county.

Cigarettes Drove Him to Death.

New York, Jan. 6.—Frederick C. Smith, 25 years old, committed suicide last night by taking carbolic acid. Excessive cigarette smoking, which partially destroyed his reason, is given as the cause.

Postmasters Nominated.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The president has sent the following nominations for postmasterships to the senate: Connecticut—G. B. Benham, Hamden. Massachusetts—W. A. Torrey, South Braintree.

Assassination of an Armenian Official.

Constantinople, Jan. 6.—Bedros Effendi, the Armenian who was recently appointed sub-kaimakan of Tsbharsandjak, was assassinated two days after his arrival there.

Expressions on the Death of Gen. Walker.

Boston, Jan. 6.—A special meeting of the Boston city government met at noon to-day and made expression of their sense of the public loss upon the death of Gen. Francis A. Walker Declined the Honor of Knighthood.

Montreal, Jan. 6.—While Hon. Wilfred Laurier, the Dominion premier, declines to discuss the matter, it is learned from reliable sources that he has definitely refused the proffered honor of knighthood, and that it is not open to question.

Torpedo Boat No. 4 Launched.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Torpedo boat No. 4 will be launched this afternoon at the Columbia Iron works, Baltimore.

Constipation

Causes fully half the sickness in the world. It retains the digested food too long in the bowels and produces biliousness, torpid liver, indigestion, bad taste, coated tongue, sick headache, insomnia, etc. Hood's Pills cure constipation and all its results, easily and thoroughly. 25c. All druggists. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. The only Pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills

a million killed

would make no impression on the number of the germs of consumption that exist in one affected lung. All germs are little enough, but those which cause consumption are very minute. Cod-liver oil won't kill them. We don't know a remedy which will. The germs float in the air and we can't keep from breathing them into our lungs. Then why don't all of us have consumption? Because a healthy throat, sound lungs, and a strong constitution won't allow the germs to gain a foothold.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, restores and maintains the strength, increases the weight, heals inflamed membranes and prevents serious lung trouble. This is why it is the food-medicine in coughs, colds, loss of flesh, and general debility.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

Just as Good is not SCOTT'S EMULSION.

C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS.
10 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

Honeyman's Private Tours.
To OLD POINT COMFORT, December 29th—5 days.
To FLORIDA, Jan. 21—16 days.
To CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 18—25 days
Office 181 NORTH AVENUE, Plainfield, N. J.

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.
Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

Climatic Extremes

OF
NORTH and SOUTH
are blended ideally at
OLD POINT COMFORT
AND
RICHMOND, Va.,

Thus making these the most desirable places for winter outings.

They may be reached delightfully by the luxurious and modern steamships of the

Old Dominion Line

Sailing every week day from New York.

Send for full information.

Old Dominion S. S. Co.
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILLAUDEU, Vice-Pres't & Traffic Mgr
12 17-6 m

MULLINS & SONS
218-220 Market St., Newark.

GREAT CLEARING SALE
OF
PARLOR SUITS.
500 Parlor Suits this week at
HALF ACTUAL VALUE.
$25.

Handsome New Parlor Suits, upholstered in Brocatelle, Silk Tapestry, Mohair, Plush or Rug. It is worth while your time to see them even if you do not intend to buy.

$25 $25

Such values have never before been offered. Over 100 styles to select from. No other house shows as large a stock. No other house can offer yau such great values.

Some at $18.50.

SPECIAL.
A GOOD CYLINDER STOVE
FOR
$2.60.

Don't Miss Our Great Sale of Parlor Suits.

Easy terms of credit to everybody. We will furnish your home for $1 per week. Make your own terms.

MULLINS & SONS.
218-220 Market St., Newark.
Branch Stores 78-84 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. 121-125 Newark Ave., Jersey City, N. J. 136-138 Main St., Paterson, N. J.

Boots, Shoes & Rubbers.
AT FORCE'S,
119 West Front St.
Formerly 129 Park Ave. 39 tf

L. A. HUMMER'S
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

Rushton, Hansen & Luthman,
PAINTERS
AND PAPER HANGERS,
Office and shop Sycamore and 4th sts.
Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 3 11 tf

Potter & Kellogg,
DEALERS IN
Lehigh Valley Coal.
Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard—At Mt. Pleasant, Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10:01-y

The Metropolitan Boarding Stables
C. V. D. CORLE, - - - - - - Proprietor
No. 138 East Second street. Livery and Boarding and Sale Stable. Horses boarded by the day, week, month or hour. Reasonable prices. 11 17 1y

HERMAN KELLER,
Manufacturer of and Retail Dealer in
Cigars, Tobacco, etc.
"PRIDE OF PLAINFIELD" CIGAR a specialty. 116 North avenue. 9 26 tf

MRS L. ADAMS,
MILLINERY.
Ready made gowns and dresses ordered from samples. All the latest novelties of the season.
114 EAST FRONT STREET.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.
Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.
Telephone Call 138a

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing,
Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS.
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Rel

BRAIN FOOD.

Edw. P. Thorn,
RETAIL DEALER IN
Fish, Oysters, and Clams.
Terms Cash. Goods Delivered

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country. Charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed. Orders may be left at Sattel's music store, 221 Park ave.

The Largest Selection of

Wall Papers

—AND—

Painter's Supplies

in Plainfield.

Woolston & Buckle,

141-145 North avenue.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital..... $200,000.
Surplus and Profits..... $90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. RUNYON, Ass't

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Corbin,
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil,
Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Rushmore,
J. W. Johnson, Wm. B. Codington.
F. S. Runyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

Christmas Wreaths Roping Holly, etc. Also, Palms,

Rubber Trees, Begonias, Ferns Floral Designs, House and Church Decorations. Southern Smilax at 15 days notice.

DENTON'S.

131 Hillside avenue.

A GOOD FIRE

will make cheerful many of the evenings of the New Year. We'll sell you the coal—good coal—and plenty of it. We don't sell you dirt for coal. We don't sell you short measure. We want your coal trade always.

D. C. IVINS & CO.

Coal, Lumber, &c., 301-311 Watchung Ave.

CLEANER COAL.

L. A. RHEAUME,
and
N. H. SAXTON.

Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,

Invite the public to inspect the operation of their newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which they confidently believe enables them to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.

Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal

in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.

Kindling Wood a Specialty.

Rushmore & Co.,

WATCHUNG AVENUE,
COR. FOURTH ST.

Lumber yard and Planing Mill.

Large and full assortment of lumber including 21 varities from Hemlock to Mahogany always in stock. Window frames, moulding, sash, doors and blinds. Hardwood floors a specialty. Turning and scroll sawing. We can make anything. Call and see us. Satisfaction guaranted.

"It is Making a Hit."

FEIGENSPAN'S Finest Pale Ale

IN BOTTLES, and

FEIGENSPAN'S SAAZER BEER

At Hotel Grenada Bar.

The Plainfield Confectioners,

112 West Front street.

Candies from 10, 15 and 20 cents per lb. up. The very best goods. Made daily on the premises. Formerly known as the New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Comp'y. 9 9 1y

CITY HOTEL,

Plainfield, N. J.

Corner Park avenue and Second street.

C. E. Beerbower, Prop

Stables attached

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL.

No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.

Harry C. Adams, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

An Enormous Saving in Money

It is really a fact that every man, woman or child who deals with us saves money. We actually sell all qualities of honest, substantial clothing for men, boys and children at prices 40 to 50 per cent lower than any of our competitors. There's no nonsense about this statement; we mean it. We'll prove it to you any time. There's method in our madness and here's a trade secret we'll let you into; it pays us: Quick sales at small profits is our only trade secret. We buy for net spot cash and save 25 per cent in buying, which we give our customers. We ask at least 25 per cent less profit than any dealer in Plainfield. Our customers are our partners. We give them this lion's share of the profit. If you deal with us once you will always. Try it between now and Saturday night.

SPECIAL

300 all-wool Men's Kersey, Melton or Beaver Overcoats, satin lined throughout, worth $22.00, at $7.90; 150 men's all-wool overcoats, worth $14.00, at $5.90; 100 overcoats, worth $10.00, at $4.50; heavy all-wool suits, worth $12.00, at $4.50; and 1,000 other articles that we cannot mention for want of space.

New York Clothing Company,

214 WEST FRONT STREET.

M. WEINBERGER.

Near Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

Have You Bought Your OVERCOAT?

If not, come to WERNER'S CLOTHING HOUSE and take advantage of the CUT SALE now going on.

STOCK MUST BE SOLD.

Hats and Furnishing Goods a Specialty.

H. WERNER, Clothier,

No. 206 West Front Street.

COLD WEATHER GOODS

AT

PUTNAM & DEGRAW'S

Underwear, Gloves, Hosiery, &c.

Agents for the "Golden Rule" CLOTHES RACK and IRONING TABLE, $1.00 each.

A. LUSARDI,

120 NORTH AVENUE.
Wholesale and Retail

Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds o Confectionery, Peanuts, Cigars, etc Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets

NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE

Sewer Connections.

DAVID BOWDEN,

General Contractor. 109 Park ave., Plainfield N. J. Carriage drives macadamized, sewer and sewer connections promptly made, lawns carefully restored. All work done in a practical and skilful manner.

28 YEARS EXPERIENCE.

Best of references furnished. Charges moderate 4 18 t

C. W. LINES,

Mason and Builder

Plainfield, N. J.

Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly to

PEARSON & GAYLE,

Carpenters and Builders.

Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.

All work promptly attended to.

GEO. O. STEVENS & CO.
OAL.
747 WEST FRONT ST.

Branch office with

G. A. HALLOCK,

109 West Front street.

30,000 CIGARS

of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of the city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue,
Plainfield.

8 15 tf

E. H. Holmes,

Dealer in

Coal & Wood.

Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

Telephone 49-A.

William Hand & Son.

STAGES

For Parties, etc., 518 Park ave.

Within the reach of all.

ACCIDENT TICKETS.

THE INTER-STATE

Casualty Company of New York

gives SIX MONTHS' insurance

$1.000 for $1.00,

to men or women

between 18 and 60 years of age, against accidental death. $100,000 deposited with the Insurance Deparment of the State of New York for the security of the insured.

For sale at office of

Honeyman's Private Tours,

181 North Ave. Plainfield, N.J.

6 25-6 mos

McCullough's STEAM MILL,

21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.

R. H. McCullough, Prop.

Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,

Real Estate and Insurance,

197 North avenue

W. N. Pangborn,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER,

Residence, 33 Linden Ave.

Personal attention. Prompt service.

1 14 tf

Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

PIANOS

If you want a deep, clear, rich tone, and the best material, buy your PIANOS at W. R. BROKAW'S, Piano Parlors, 311 Madison ave. Bargains in second-hand instruments. Parlors always open. Tuning and regulating a specialty.

Your Valuables

will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

J. W. VanSickle,

FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.

Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Philadelphia Scrapple.

REVERE HOUSE

PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD New Jersey.

Families accomodated for the fall and winter months at greatly reduced prices.

The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity, Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed.

GEO. B. DE REVERE.

CONGRESS' DULL DAY

Nothing of Unusual Interest Before Either House.

MANY MEMBERS ARE STILL ABSENT

Mr. Call's Resolution Demanding Sanguilly's Release Before the Senate—Loud Postal Bill in the House.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The proceedings in both branches of congress today are almost devoid of general interest, and only about half the members have returned to the city since the close of the holiday recess to complete the work of the last session of the 54th congress. In the senate this afternoon Mr. Call will speak on his joint resolution instructing the president to "Demand the immediate release of Jules Sanguilly, condemned to perpetual imprisonment for his connection with the Cuban insurrection." Mr. Peffer, pop., Kan., read a speech in favor of a joint resolution introduced by him on the 14th of December, for the appointment of a national monetary commission to examine and study the general subject of finance in its practical relations to the business affairs of the people of the United States. After the speech the joint resolution was referred to the committee on finances. A memorial was presented from the Massachusetts Historical society for the repair and preservation of the famous old frigate Constitution, as a naval museum, just as Nelson's battleship Victory is preserved at Portsmouth.

House of Representatives.

The Loud bill, to amend the postal laws by excluding "sample copies" and serial novel publications from second-class mail matter, is the suuject of discussion in the house to-day, and a vote will be taken at 4 o'clock this afternoon on its passage. A resolution introduced by Mr. Broderick, rep., Kan., was agreed to, calling upon the secretary of the interior to report to the house the reason why patents for lands in Kansas granted to the old Kansas Pacific Railroad company had not been patented to the company, and why homestead entries upon them were being permitted to be made by the officers of the Topeka land district.

WANTS THEM PENSIONED.

A Bill in the House Providing for the Retirement of Civil Service Employes.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Mr. Brosius of Pennsylvania, the chairman of the house committee on civil service reform, has introduced a bill to provide for the retirement of government employes in the classified service. The bill creates a retirement fund by withholding 2 per cent. monthly of the salaries received by clerks in the civil service. Provision is made for retirement under three qualifications, each retiring clerk to receive for life an income amounting to 75 per cent. of the highest pay received by him while employed in the civil service, this income to be drawn from the retiring fund. Every person who has been employed in the service twenty years and who shall have become mentally or physically disqualified will be retired on his application or compulsorily retired. Every person who has attained the age of 60 and shall have been employed thirty years may be retired on his application. Every person who has attained the age of 70 and been employed in the civil service thirty-five years shall be compulsorily retired.

To Reduce Government Employes' Pay.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Senator Chandler has offered as an amendment to the deficiency bill his bill reducing the salaries of all government employes and officers 10 per cent.

Successful Filibustering Expedition.

St. Louis, Jan. 6.—A special to the Scripps-McRae Press association from Key West, Fla., says that the steamer Dauntless landed a cargo and men taken from No Name Key, left by the Three Friends, in Cuba Monday. The location cannot be ascertained yet, but is supposed to be in Pinar del Rio province. Cubans are jubilant, while the Spanish consul is frantic over the trick of the Dauntless in eluding the Spanish cruisers.

Shot Himself Through the Brain.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 6.—Charles H. Bradley, aged 20, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself through the brain. He was injured in an explosion in the priming department at the Winchester factory a month ago and was discharged. Temporary mental derangement caused the deed.

Double Hanging in Norfolk.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 6.—William Downing and Charles Williams, both negroes, were hanged here yesterday. Downing killed a woman of the name of Emma Lane in this city last May. Williams killed George Hess, a negro, on board a schooner.

Frozen to Death.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 6.—News has just reached Fargo of the death of Edward and John Pettit in the blizzard of Sunday. They were caught not far from their home at Hunter, twenty miles from this city, and were frozen to death.

Application for New Trial.

Boston, Jan. 6.—Counsel for Thomas M. Bram, convicted of the murder of Captain Nash of the barkentine Herbert Fuller, filed yesterday afternoon in the United States court an application for a new trial.

Appointed Receiver.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—Maurice Aurbach has been appointed receiver of the Allemania bank. Mr. Aurbach is president of the Union National bank of this city.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

Both Branches Convened This Morning and Organization Perfected.

Albany, Jan. 6.—Both branches of the legislature met at 11 o'clock this morning to organize. In the assembly the officers chosen by the republican caucus last night were elected, and Speaker O'Grady read his address. The senate organized with the old officers, and Lieut.-Gov. Woodruff read his address. After the governor's message is read the legislature will adjourn until the evening of Jan. 13, when the committees will be announced.

WORK OF THE CAUCUSES.

Not a Single Contest and Everything Done Unanimously.

Albany, Jan. 6.—The caucuses of the two parties in the legislature were held last night and had all finished their business inside of twenty-five minutes. It required less time than usual to prepare for the organization of the legislature, as there was not a single contest and everything was done unanimously. The republican assembly caucus chose James M. E. O'Grady of Rochester for speaker, Archie Baxter of Elmira for clerk, James C. Crawford of New York for sergeant-at-arms, Joseph Bauer of Monroe for head doorkeeper, Frank W. Johnson of Erie for first-assistant doorkeeper, ex-assemblyman Eugene L. Demers of Lansingburg for second-assistant doorkeeper, and Henry C. Lammert of Brooklyn, the assembly stenographer of last year, was again named. All of the nominations were unanimously agreed to by the caucus. The speaker was given authority to appoint a caucus committee to call future caucuses.

Democratic Assemblymen.

The democratic assemblymen met in ausus in the assembly parlor and made the following complimentary nominations: Speaker, Daniel E. Finn of New York; clerk, Charles Marshall of Erie; sergeant-at-arms, Thomas H. Murphy of New York; head doorkeeper, Edward Owens of New York; stenographer, Thomas Hassett of Steuben. Assemblyman Finn is to be the democratic leader on the floor of the assembly.

Senate Caucus.

The caucus of the republican senators was very brief. Senator Ellsworth offered a resolution that the places allotted to the several senators by the senate caucus last year be continued to the same senators this year and that they be authorized to name the appointee for the different places for this year, such names to be handed to the clerk of the senate. The senators can name the employees of last session or make new appointments. Nearly all of last year's appointments will stand for the present session. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

M'KINLEY AND CUBA.

Senor Pierra of the Junta Had a Conference with the President-elect.

Cleveland, Jan. 6.—It has just leaked out that Senor F. G. Pierra of the New York junta had a conference with President-elect McKinley last Sunday afternoon at Mr. Hanna's home. At that conference the whole history of the Cuban troubles was outlined to the next president. Senor Pierra is one of the best posted men in this country upon the present Cuban insurrection, and it was to give Major McKinley the benefit of his knowledge of facts that he visited this city. It was the president-elect's desire to obtain all the information possible that made him welcome the visitor. Major McKinley did not indicate what use he would make of the information nor what stand he proposed to take when the time should come. It was understood, however, that he will treat of the Cuban difficulties at some length in his message to the extra session of congress.

Conflicting Rumors About the Pope.

London, Jan. 6.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily News telegraphs that he learns from an official source that the condition of the pope is very grave. He adds that Austria, having certain prescriptive rights in a conclave to elect the pope's successor, would be one of the first powers to be informed of his condition. Other reports received here agree that his holiness is enjoying his usual good health, and that to-day he received the papal secretary of state.

Western Trains Late.

St. Louis, Jan. 6.—Every train arrived at Union station late this morning, owing to the severe storm that had covered the whole Mississippi valley. The heavy rains of the past two days have flooded all the streams and washouts delayed travel on the Iron Mountain and the 'Frisco roads. The succeeding clear and cold weather has, however, been of benefit.

Maine Legislature.

Augusta, Me., Jan. 6.—At the republican caucus of the house of representatives last night Seth L. Larrabee of Portland was nominated for speaker. The republicans of the senate nominated Albert R. Day of Corrina for president. Most of the old officers of both branches were also renominated. The democrats held no caucuses.

Massachusetts To Be Represented.

Boston, Jan. 6.—A special meeting of the executive council of the Massachusetts board of trade was held yesterday afternoon at the Parker house. The advisability of having the board represented at the monetary convention at Indianapolis was considered and President Adams was elected a delegate to that conference.

Bubonic Plague in India.

Bombay, Jan. 6.—The bubonic plague is raging with much violence at Kurrache, in Sinde, one of the chief seaports in India. The panic caused by the spread of the disease is increasing daily. The natives continue to flee from the city.

GREETED BY WEYLER

Senator Money Visits the Captain-General in Havana.

HIS RECEPTION WAS VERY CORDIAL

The Spanish Official Said He Would Be Pleased if Others Came to Cuba with the Same Purpose as Mr. Money.

Havana, Jan. 6.—Mr. Money, accompanied by Consul General Lee, last evening visited Captain General Weyler and was received very cordially. General Weyler expressed regret that he was not in the city when Mr. Money arrived. He added that had he been here he would have invited him to join him in his trip to the province of Pinar del Rio, and he would then have had an excellent opportunity to see the country. Mr. Money said he was enchanted with the little he had seen of Cuba. He alluded to the comments that have been made on his trip to San Jose de las Lajas, to which General Weyler replied cheerfully that he had paid no attention to what had been said. He declared that he would be pleased if others came to Cuba with the same purpose as Mr. Money, that is, to admire and study the country. Alexander C. Brice, American consul at Matanzas, and Walter B. Barker, American consular agent at Sagua la Grande, have arrived here to pay their respects to Mr. Money. Mr. Barker comes from the same state as Mr. Money.

The Case of Henry Delgado.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The friends of the American newspaper correspondent, Henry Delgado, now lying ill in a Spanish prison in Cuba, have taken measures to clear away a misunderstanding that exists as to his identity. It has been asserted by the Spaniards that he is the noted Cuban leader Ricardo Delgado. The affidavit of Maria Elena Delgado Green of New York has been filed with the state department asserting that Henry Delgado is an American citizen, born in Brooklyn in 1865, and adopted by her father, Jose Delgado. According to the affiant, he lived in the United States most of his life, and went to Cuba to act as a correspondent for a New York newspaper. He was ill when he landed in Cuba, and went directly into the hospital, where he was arrested. The affidavit further says that Ricardo Delgado is her cousin. He is a Cuban, a Spanish subject, and an officer of the Cuban artillery. He has been in the United States since July, 1896.

Foreign Papers for Cuban Independence.

New York, Jan. 6.—Nicola Cardimus, a well-to-do Cuban patriot who went to Paris some four months ago to raise money there for the Cubans, has returned to this city and reported at once to Delegate Palma at the Cuban junta. He told the general that most of the foreign papers were for Cuban independence, especially two Paris newspapers and the London Times. He gave General Palma $1,000 which he had collected and said that he would return shortly to Europe to obtain more aid for his fellow countrymen.

Sulzer's Cuban Resolution.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Mr. Sulzer, dem., N. Y., yesterday introduced in the house a resolution which declares that the kingdom of Spain is not conducting the war in Cuba in accordance with the laws of war as recognized by all civilized nations. The resolution calls upon the United States to notify Spain that if the barbarous manner in which the war is being conducted does not cease within thirty days the United States shall recognize the independence of the island and maintain it by force of arms.

Anti-High Building Bill.

Albany, Jan. 6.—Assemblyman Austin of New York city says that an anti-high building law will be introduced at the coming session. It provides that the height of a building be limited to fifteen times the square foot of the width of the street upon which the building fronts.

Assistant Adjutant General.

Albany, Jan. 6.—Adjutant General Tillinghast has appointed Isaac Fonda Handy of Troy as an assistant adjutant general in his department. This is a new position. Heretofore there has only been one assistant adjutant general.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spot weaker, with fair export inquiry. Jan., 91⅝c.; May, 89½c.; July, 85⅛c.

Corn—Spot quiet and easier. Jan., 29⅛c.; May, 31⅝c.

Oats—Market quiet; prices steady. May, 23⅝c.

Eggs—Market steady and firmer. State and Pennsylvania, fresh, 19@21c.; ice house, 14@15c.; western, fresh, 18@19c.; limed, 13@14½; southern, 17½@18½c.; in case, $1.50@$3.30.

Pork—Market steady; trade easy. Extra prime, nominal, short clear, $9.00@10.50; mess, $8.25@8.75; family, $9.25@10.50.

Lard—Steady; moderate demand. Prime western, $4.07½.

Butter—Market quiet; fair demand. Creamery western extras, 20½c.; state and Pennsylvania, extras, 19@20c.; creamery, western seconds, 16c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fresh factory, 13c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fall made extras, 18@19c.; western imitation creamery, seconds to firsts, 11@16c.; western factory, firsts to extras, 8½@11c.

Cheese—Market steady. State, full cream, large size, fall made, colored, 10½c.; large, common to choice, part skims, 3½@7½c.

Potatoes—Market firm; good supply. Long Island, in bulk, per barrel, $1.25@1.37; New Jersey, round, choice, per barrel, $0@1.01.12.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m. at 18 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 6, 1897.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Generally Fair Tonight and Thursday; Colder Tonight. A Moderate Cold Wave.

At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 58 Degrees.

PLAINFIELD LEADS.

The general impression that has prevailed for the past few years that Plainfield is the fastest growing city in Union county or this section of New Jersey, has found conclusive corroboration, at least in the first particular, by the statement published by the New Jersey Contractor and Gazette, that Plainfield leads in the number of deeds recorded in the County Clerk's office for the past year. The Contractor adds this comment to the statement of fact:

The considerations as a rule as noted in the deeds appear to be of honest figures, showing that in a majority of the transactions that it has been a bona fide sale or exchange. This being the case it is conceded that Plainfield real estate owners are hustling and that property in the Crescent City is in demand for both business and residential purposes. It is generally understood that Plainfield people are jealous of their fair city, and want it to grow and will sell their property or exchange it, and thus establish a market value of some sort.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Another strong effort will be made to get the incoming Legislature to pass a marriage license law for New Jersey. This State is one of five in the country that does not have such an act on its statute books, and many claim that the morality and decency of the people require such a law. In Camden, it is said, there are ministers who do nothing but make a business of marrying couples from Philadelphia who do not want to conform with the license law of Pennsylvania, or else would find it impossible to do so. Rev. C. H. Barnes, of this city, is one of the most ardent advocates of the marriage license law in the New Jersey ministry.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Andrew Lutkins, of Somerset street, is building an addition to his house which is a great improvement.

—After the Christian Endeavor meeting at Warren chapel last evening a short routine business meeting was held.

—Tuesday morning was "ladies morning" at the Park Club and quite a number were present enjoying the bowling and other attractions.

—The chiefs-elect of Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, will be raised up this evening. There will be other business of importance transacted.

—Owing to the week of prayer, the regular meeting of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. will be postponed one week and will be held on Thursday, January 14th, at 8 o'clock.

—Perseverence Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will hold a meeting on Friday night when the recently elected officers will be installed. The members will attend the district meeting to be held in Unity Lodge rooms this evening.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Elizabeth Loyd, of Philadelphia, is visiting at the home of Mrs. Susan Clapp, of Mercer avenue.

Miss Carrible Harris, of Crandford, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hope, of Richmond street.

Miss Belle Lewis, of City Judge DeMeza's law offices, is confined to her home on Somerset street today with illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris VanArsdale, of Greenwich, Conn., have returned home after a few days visit with relatives in Plainfield.

General James S. Negley, of West Seventh street, will go to Washington, D. C., the latter part of this week, to attend to some matters of public interest. He will be gone for a few days.

Among the students who have returned to their respective colleges after spending the Chrismas holidays at home are Miss Martha Tracy, of Bryn Maur College, Misses Mary Wells, and Viola Conklin, of Smith College, Messrs. Charles and Fred Case, of Harvard Uuniversity; Fred Goddard, of Amherst College and James Middiedith, of Lehigh University.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East.

Fred Sutton, of Liberty street, is kept at home by illness.

Miss Helen Lovell, of Crescent avenue, is out af er a short illness.

Andrew Cox, of Liberty street, is suffering with a severe attack of grip

Miss Ruth Maxson, of West Sixth street, has been confined to her home with illness.

Walter Vesey, of East Sixth street, has just returned from an extended trip abroad.

Miss Minnie Arnold, of Manning avenue, is the guest of friends at Jamaica, L. I.

Miss Evelyn Smith, of Madison avenue, has returned to her studies at Smith College.

Edward Randolph has returned to Philadelphia where he attends a col lege of pharmacy.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, of West Second street, were in Philadelphia yesterday.

Robert Tilney, of West Eighth street, has returned from a visit with relatives in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Doull Miller, of Third place, have gone to Washington for a ten days' stay.

Miss Clara Hellwig has returned from her visit to Brooklyn and commenced her instruction.

James Werenga, of West Fourth street, is able to be out again after his recent serious illness.

Charles and Fred Squires, of Watchung avenue, have returned to studies at Williams College.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. MacClymont, of Washington avenue, left yesterday for a sojourn at New Haven.

Richard G. Simpson, of Watchung avenue, returned to his studies at Columbia College, yesterday.

Fred W. Goddard, of East Ninth street, went back to Amherst College after spending his vacation at home.

Frank J. Blatz, of Somerset street, has returned to his studies at the Law Department of the University of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. William Haynes, of South Waterford, Me., will, in a few days, be the guest of Plainfield friends.

William E. MacClymont and family, of Washington avenue, have returned from a visit with friends in Philadelphia.

Alex. Muir, of West Fourth street, returned Monday evening after spending a few days with friends at Poughkeepsie.

Mrs Halloway, of LaGrande avenue, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthias Price, of Newark.

Christopher Wise, of North Plainfield, has returned from the south. He brings with him a tame fox squirrel.

Steven Bushmore has returned to Amherst College after enjoying his Christmas vacation at his home on Park avenue.

Will Rushmore, of Park avenue, has returned to boarding school at Hartford, Conn., after spending the holidays at home.

Bert Stevenson, of Somerville, is stopping at the home of John Leal, of Central avenue, while attending school in this city.

Fred and George Case have returned to Harvard College after spending the Christmas vacation at their home on Central avenue.

Frank Kleinhans and John Huyler, of Lafayette College, have returned after a visit with their friend, Clifford M. Braider, of Manning avenue.

J. A. Gurnell, night operator at the depot, has been granted a ten days' leave of absence, which he will spend at his former home in Maryland.

Miss Nellie Crevling, of Watchung avenue, together with her friend, Miss Murray, of Wentworth Park, Somerset county, will leave today for Chicago.

Misses Alice Callahan and Lizzie Kysler, who have been spending their vacation with their parents, returned on Monday to the Trenton Normal School.

Conductor John Deady, of the street railway service, returned to his post, yesterday, after a week's vacation at Philadelphia, New York and other points of interest.

James Bradley Smith, of Philadelphia, has returned from a trip to Oregon and is spending a few days with his daughter, Miss Nellie B. Smith, at the home of William A. Wheeler, of LaGrande avenue.

You can be well when your blood is rich, pure and nourishing. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood rich and pure and cures all blood diseases, restoring health and vigor.

Hood's pills are easy to take, easy to operate. Cure indigestion, headache. 25c.

PASSING COMMENT.

The residents of the borough will be pleased to learn that the commencement exercises of the North Plainfield Public High School will be held next June in Music Hall. By this arrangement all who care to can attend, and the exercises will be held on a different night than the one selected by the Plainfield High School.

* * * *

The Press has been favored by John T. MacMurray with severel copies of old time New York daily papers, among them being a Tribune of June 21, 1841, a Herald of July 6, 1835 and The Democratic Press of September 30, 1840. They are well preserved and show what wonderful strides have been made in journalism between then and now.

* * * *

The Newark High School is soon to be the recipient from J. Ackerman Coles of a handsome and valuable gift in the shape of a large copper bronze globe. The gift is to perpetuate the memory of the donor's father, the late Dr. Abraham Coles, who was for a number of years a member of the Board of Education and chairman of the Normal School Committee.

* * * *

There is a story going the political rounds that when one of the city's appointive officers understood that it was the intention of some of the Councilmen to reduce the salaries now paid, he immediately gave them to understand that they might look for another man to fill his place—that he was not here to give the city valuable services at cheap compensation. And it is said that this gentleman will probably be re-appointed at his present salary.

* * * *

The nightly slumber of people who reside in the vicinity of North and Watchung avenues, and for two or three blocks in each direction for that matter, has been rudely and aggravatingly disturbed for many months by a squeaking, mournful noise that gave the timid visions of ghosts and other bugabears. The noise is always omnipresent when there is any wind and comes at intervals of thirty seconds with clock-like regularity. It is nerve distracting and for a long time the oppressed people were unable to account for it. Now, however, it has been found to be the wind mill in the rear of the stores on North avenue, which is woefully lacking for a drop of oil to eradicate the squeak of the wheel as it turns on the dry and rusted axle.

* * * *

Who of Plainfield's gay sports of the past doesn't remember Sam Allen. Sam, jolly good fellow that he was, too liberal for his own wellfare, rolled on the top wave of gaiety for a time, but even the fortune that was left him could not always last, and one day Sam found himself bumping up against the cold world with narry a penny to his credit. He never knew the worth of a dollar and when he had one it went with the spirit that characterizes a hale fellow well met. But when Sam found himself broke he didn't try to live on past remembrances but buckled right down to work, and hard work at that. Gradually Sam has been returning to prosperity, not the kind that $75,000 or $100,000 brings, however, but that which comes from faithful work, and now he has just been appointed to the position of second engineer on the steamship City of Paris of the American line. Sam's friends are glad to hear of his good luck.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

P. J. Cullen visited friends in Brooklyn, Sunday.

City Clerk J. T. MacMurray is in Philadelphia on business for a few days.

Mrs. Isaac Stites, of this city, has gone to New York for medical treatment.

J. Fred MacDonald, of East Front street, is somewhat improved from his illness.

Miss Violin, of New York, who has been visiting Miss Etta Blatz, of Somerset street, returned home this morning.

Rev. James Groves, of West Fourth street, is visiting in Philadelphia for a few days.

Lester Baldwin and his college chum, Kendall Fellows, left yesterday for Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, where they will resume their studies at the New York State Military Academy.

Raymond A. McGee, of Orchard place, Washington Park, returned to the Yale Scientific School yesterday afternoon after spending a few days at home. He returned last Sunday from a trip to the west with the Yale Glee Club, on which he sings second bass. He had a very delightful trip.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For Sale By L. W. Randolph.

A Model Cook.

She can bake, she can broil, she can fry,
Ne'er a cake does she spoil, nor a pie,
She's perfectly neat,
Her temper is sweet,
And this is the reason why,—
She uses Cleveland's Baking Powder.

Receipt Book Free.

76 pages, covering the whole subject from soup to dessert. Mailed on receipt of stamp and address. Cleveland Baking Powder Co., 81 Fulton St., New York.

Their Eyes Opened.

Jack—Golly! There's ma on a new bike!

Geoff—Now we know why she hadn't time to sew our buttons on.—Pick Me Up.

One of the Things We Say.

"GOING FOR A TRAMP BEFORE BREAKFAST."
—Up to Date.

There Are Few Others.

One politician who is faithful to a conviction.—Truth.

ELY'S CREAM BALM is a positive cure. Apply into the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York City.

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield January 4th, 1897.

Amerman Rev Jas L	Hickey Miss Rosie
Boehm Miss A 3	Mitchell C H
Bristand, Miss Ann Allison	Mattis Wm
Corbett Miss Mary E.	Stewart Mrs Leonora
Compton T A	Sullivan Jas F
Eager Geo	Tevis E E
Hamilton John M	Tennyson Mrs Jas
Haldane Miss Emily	VanDoren H J
Hopkins Mr	Voorhees Miss E A
	Vermeule Wm

LOOK! for the Cushioned Button.

IT'S ON

The Velvet Grip Hose Supporter.

PERFECT IN USE.
NO SLIPPING. NO TEARING.

All Styles and Sizes at Plainfield Stores.

YOU

who have been looking for

KID GLOVES

that will give you the wear and service that you have a right to expect,

COME TO PECK'S,

where you will find satisfaction and style at a moderate price.

EVERY THING

For the Fire-place.
MANTELS, TILES, GRATES.
SPARK GUARDS, $1.25 and up.
Curtis M. Thorpe, 310-312 Park Avenue.

--JAQUETT'S--

CLOTHING Of the Latest Style for Men, Boys and Children. Suits and Overcoats.

SUITS and OVERCOATS. School Suits, from 75c. up.
NOVELTIES FOR CHILDREN. Full lines in Top Coats, Reefers and Separate Pants.
MEN'S FURNISHINGS. All of the latest Novelties in Ties, Collars, Shirts, Suspenders.
HOSIERY, GLOVES, UNDERWEAR.

HATS of the Latest Styles at Moderate Prices.
One Price—Cash. Money refunded if goods are not as represented.
129 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

-YOUR LAST CHANCE-

to secure the

GREATEST BARGAINS EVER OFFERED

in Plainfield. Everything

MUST BE SOLD

in two weeks. The balance of stock of

Dress Goods, Cloaks, Millinery, Notions, Hosiery, Underwear,

Corsets, Men's Furnishings, Oil-Cloths, Mattings, etc., etc., to be closed out at your own price.

LEDERER'S,

115 WEST FRONT STREET.

THE BEE HIVE.

Men's Unlaundered Shirts

Lot 1—The "Cast Iron Shirt," made of good heavy muslin, good 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—38c.

Lot 2—New York Mills muslin, 3-ply fine linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—48c.

Lot 3—Our New York Mills shirt, made of New York Mills muslin, 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, continuous facing and hand-made buttonholes, equal to the best custom-made shirt—69c.

Boys' unlaundered shirts, 38c.

Men's laundered shirts 50c., 75c and $1.00

LOUIS CALLMAN
222 West Front Street.

A JEWEL.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear."
And many a gem by mortals here unseen
Are waiting to be worn by some sweet fair.
In our well-stocked cases now are laid
Jewels that shine with scintilating fire:
In the latest fads and fashions made
That the connoisseur in jewelry must admire.
Design and workmanship are of the best.
So lovely woman do not hide
Those charms that Nature's sweet behest
Endows you with, but with woman's pride
Enhance your beauty as you see best.

COLLIER,
103 Park Ave. Established 1869.

P. H. ZIMMER,

Practical Machinist and Engineer,

Steam, Gas and Electric Contracting. Complete Power Plants Installed. Experimental work. General Jobbing. All kinds of repairing. EXCHANGE ALLEY, in rear of Trinity church. Bicycles built to order. 12

E. D. BARRETT,
No. 148 East 8th St.
Sole Agent for the
Richmond Heaters.
STEAM and HOT WATER.
SANITARY PLUMBING

NEW YEAR'S CARDS AND DIARIES AT R. C. RAND'S,

140 West Front street.

P. MARKEY, Bakery,

144 PARK AVENUE.

A full assortment of bread, cakes, and pies fresh every day. Fig and malt bread a specialty. 2 17 tf

ALEX. LUSARDI,

211 West Front Street,

Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores. 991 rear

IRVING SAVINGS INSTITUTION,

96 WARREN STREET, NEW YORK.

The Trustees of this institution have declared interest on all sums remaining on deposit during the three and six months ending December 31, 1896, at the rate of FOUR PER CENT. per annum on amounts from $1 to $3,000, payable on and after Monday, Jan. 18, 1897. Deposits made on or before Jan. 10 will draw interest from Jan. 1.

G. BYRON LATIMER, Secretary. W. H. B. TOTTEN, President.
12 30 10

ADMINISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, Administrator of Elizabeth Stephenson, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphan's Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the third day of February next.

Dated, November 26th, 1896.

12-1-10-w. WILLIAM G. DeMEZA.

NEWMAN'S STAGE LINE TIME TABLE
Between Plainfield and Scotch Plains.

Leave Plainfield..... { 7.00; 9.30; 12.45 a. m. / 4.00; 6.00; 9.00 p. m.
Sunday—9.00; 12.30 a. m., 3.00, 6.00 p. m.

Leave Scotch Plains. { 6.20; 8.15; 10.30 a. m. / 2.00; 5.00; 7.00; 9.30 p. m.
Sunday—9.45 a. m., 2 00; 4.00, 7.00 p. m.

DEPOT—FRONT STREET AND PARK AVE.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Naylor have returned to their home in Brooklyn, after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Silas Naylor.

Mayor Brakeley has been fitting up the annex to his store with wall paper shelves, and his stock is unexcelled in the borough.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tingley, of West Dunellen, have been spending a few days with their daughter, Mrs. Wm. D. Clawson, at South Plainfield.

The door on W. H. Coles' safe, which was blown open and robbed several days ago, was taken from its hinges yesterday and I. J. Stites patched up the same.

A delegation of Plainfield firemen inspected the new engine house and fire department apparatus yesterday afternoon, and were much pleased with the arrangements.

The Emerydale station was open last evening, and a sole newsboy sat there nursing a coal fire. The refreshment part of the concern seems to be a thing entirely of the past.

The Misses Hunt will go to Bound Brook this evening to attend a reception of the Manhattan Euchre Club. These receptions are becoming quite popular, and much interest is taken in them.

The weekly meeting of the Dunellen Euchre Club, announced to take place at Miss Gray's home on Thursday evening of this week, has been postponed on account of its being the week of prayer.

The barns and outbuildings on the Earl property, which were destroyed by fire some days ago, will be rebuilt. The insurance has been adjusted, it is said, and plans are already out for the new buildings.

Court Dunellen, No. 1123, I. O. F., will install its newly-elected officers Monday night, when it is expected that several of the deputy officers from various parts of the State will be present and participate in the exercises.

Since the skating has gone some of the Dunellen boys amuse themselves by playing "shinney" on the sidewalks. Instead of using an ordinary wooden ball, they are content with knocking about iron nuts and other hard substances.

Charles D. Boice, Jr., left yesterday for a trip to St. Augustine, Fla., with a view of benefitting his health. He will be gone until spring. Mr. Boice took his bicycle along with him in the hope that the change of climate and recreation may restore his health. He is employed by the Standard Oil Company, and has been granted a leave of absence until he recovers his health.

A regular meeting of the Board of Commissioners was held on Monday evening with Mayor Brakeley in the chair. The other members present were Messrs. Dealaman, Gaskill, Fisher and Wilcox. The absentees were Messrs. Moynahan and Staples. Aside from auditing and ordering bills paid for work on the new town hall, little or no business of importance was transacted.

W. H. Carman tried his luck at shooting on the grounds of the Dunellen Gun Club yesterday afternoon, and although he shot all alone proved to be quite an expert at live game. Out of forty-three pigeons turned loose, he killed thirty-eight. Mr. Carman, it is said by some of his friends, is simply rehearsing for a big shoot which is to take place early in the spring.

SCOTCH PLAINS

Fishing through the ice is reported good at Feltville.

There is every indication that the coming spring will bring about some important real estate changes in and about this place. The advent of the trolley is that which is most needed to build up the town, and until it comes there is no use of looking for or expecting real estate purchasers.

Some of the ice dealers along the big mountain ponds would prefer to see a genuine old fashioned January thaw just at present. Their ice, much of it now, is practically worthless on account of snow and would hardly pay for the trouble of housing. What is needed is forty-eight hours of good freezing weather and then the ice harvest would begin in earnest.

Mrs. Margaret Cook died at her home here, on Monday, in the 85th year of her age. The funeral, which will be private, will take place from her late residence, on Friday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Cook was born in Prussia, Germany, but came to this country when a young girl. She was married to John Cook, Sr., in New York, sixty years ago. Ten years after that they bought a farm at Scotch Plains and there she lived the remainder of her life. She was a member of the Dutch Reformed church of New York, and was a pleasant companionable woman whom all her acquaintances knew to like. She had been sick about ten days and her old age prevented her recovery. She leaves four sons and one daughter. They are John and Henry, of Scotch Plains, George, of Madison, Herman, of New York, and Margaret, of Scotch Plains.

WILLOW GROVE.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Teis are visiting relatives at Wilmington, Del.

The many friends of Master Chauncey regret to learn that he is quite ill.

Mrs. Amza Hetfield has been visiting friends in Plainfield during the past week.

According to custom the flagpole in front of the school building has received a coat of paint.

Mrs. William Mead has returned to the home of J. E. Goodman after a visit of one week in New York State.

The service at the chapel, Sunday evening, was in charge of Miss Lambert. A short routine business meeting followed.

The people in the vicinity of Willow Grove appreciate the new lamp placed on Lambert's corner. It can be seen a half mile distant.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Freeman have returned from their wedding trip and their friends gave them a cordial welcome on Sunday.

It is reported that the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company contemplate placing gates or a flagman at Goodman's crossing. The people are very glad to hear of it, for it is a dangerous crossing, especially after dark.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

A meeting of the citizens of Washingtonville will be held this evening to consider the proposals of the Plainfield Street Railway Company to extend the lines of the latter up to Washingtonville, and to take action in the matter. It is expected that Chandler Riker, president of the company, will be present.

THEATRICAL.

Lillian Russell and "An American Beauty" have settled down to a career of continuous prosperity at the Casino in New York. It has been unanimously conceded every night that in the role of Gabrielle Dalmont, the American beauty, Lillian Russell does the most artistic and finished work of her career. The music of the new opera enables Miss Russell to exhibit all the splendors of her voice in numbers that call for a range of vocal effort from brilliant ensemble work to simple ballad singing. The rest of the cast of "An American Beauty" is quite the best that she has ever had. M. B. Curtis, the famous "Sam'l of Posen," made his first appearance in the company Monday night appearing as Ikey Eisestein, the Monte Carlo money lender.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neauralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by T. S Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

—There is to be a special meeting of the Young Men's Association of Monroe Avenue church tonight.

—Several men from the Scott Press works will testify at the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday at 4:15 p. m. Southern Jubilee singers will assist in the service.

—Thursday evening, January 14th, the Theodore Drury Company, of New York, will give a musical entertainment in Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, for the benefit of the church.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

ALL OVER THE TOWN

NEWS IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS THAT INTEREST ALL PLAINFIELDERS.

Gathered by Enterprising Press Reporters From Both Sides of the Brook and Tersely Served for Your Perusal.

—The Plainfield Board of Education has appointed Joseph Morrison janitor of the Lincoln School.

—The police committee of the City Council will hold a meeting this evening to organize for the year.

—Next Friday evening there will be a meeting of the fire and building committee of the City Council.

—A well is beginning driven at the gas works to supply an additional quantity of water for the work.

—The Midmer Glee Club, of this city, will give a concert in the Baptist church at Morristown on January 13th.

—The auditing committee of the Woman's Relief Corps met last evening at the home of Mrs. W. C. Smith, of Grandview avenue.

—The newly-elected officers of the Woman's Relief Corps held a conference yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, of Elmwood place.

—Rev. Dr. Main, the new supply of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will conduct the usual Friday evening service, and he will also preach Saturday morning.

—One West Front street business man reports business very dull. He says it has compared very favorably with the weather of late—most of the time very dull.

—The Maple avenue brick yard is delivering brick for John Hermann's new house on Regent street, North Plainfield, and he is about to start another new house.

—The regular quarterly meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church, will be held Friday afternoon at 3:30 in the church parlors.

—At the joint installation of Winfield Scott Post, Women's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans, to be held Tuesday evening, Jan. 12th, the Schubert Club, ladies orchestra, will furnish the music.

—On Monday night, February 15th, the loyal addition benefit association of the Royal Arcanum, will give an entertainment. E. A. Croser, of Orange, an amusing story teller, will be the attration.

—The entertainment and Martha Washington sociable of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., to be held on the evening of Washington's Birthday, February 22d, will be held in Skandia Hall, 106 East Front street.

—The two eyes frequently require different glasses. When a difference is found to exist we give each the glass best suited to its needs and guarantee them. Examinations made without charge. Leech, Stiles & Co., 107 East Front street, every Thursday.

—The piano purchased by the Board of Education of the North Plainfield Public High School, will take the place of the one which has been rented. The full expense of the piano and for rental will be met by entertainments given from time to time.

—West Front street, near Grant avenue, was perhaps never in such a wretched condition as now. George Stevens, the coal dealer, has been obliged to lay a cinder crosswalk from his place of business so that his customers will not become swamped in crossing the street to leave their orders.

—A number of the students of Smith College and their friends went to New York Saturday to see the presentation of the "Midsummer Night's Dream" by the class of '65 of Smith College at the Carnigie Lyceum Hall. It was a reproduction of the drama given in the Academy of Music at Northamp ton in 1895, and is also to be given at Boston.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1896. A. W. Gleason, Notary Public. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. Cheney, & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

X The flowers that bloom to please the eye and cheer the heart, are gone, but we have their fragrance preserved, and for sale, in bottles; prices from 10c. to $8 00, ONE QUALITY ONLY—size and kind of package making difference in price. Best value we ever offered.

MAS

Successor H. P. REYNOLDS. T. S. ARMSTRONG, "THE APOTHECARY," Park and North avenues.

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership lately subsisting between A. T. Ulrich of the City of Plainfield, Union county, New Jersey, and J. A. Blatz of the Borough of North Plainfield, Somerset county, New Jersey, under the firm name of Ulrich & Blatz was dissolved on the first day of January 1897 by mutual consent.

All debts owing to the said partnership are to be received by said J. A. Blatz and all demands on the said partnership are to be presented to him for payment.

Dated January 1st, 1897.

A. T. ULRICH.
J. A. BLATZ.
164

NOTICE.

Estate of Robert Anderson deceased. Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate to the county of Union, made on the application of the undersigned, administrator of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscriber under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within nine months from the 6th day of November 1896, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscriber.

ANSON W. ANDERSON, Administrator.
11 18 10-6aw-w

Randolph Runyon,
Funeral Director,
Residence, Over Office. Office 43 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J.

H. DeMott,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J
Calls promptly attended to day or night. White and black hearses. Coaches latest style.

DIED.

COOK—At Scotch Plains, January 4th, 1897, Mrs Margaret Cook, in her 85th year. Funeral private from her late residence, Scotch Plains, Friday afternoon, January 8th, 1897, at 2:30 p. m. 162

WANTS AND OFFERS.

WANTED—A neat capable girl for general housework. Apply on Thursday between 10 and 12 at 99 Rockview avenue.

LARGE furnished front room with stove $1.50 week. Also one good sized room at $1 and one for 75 cents. All on same floor, gentlemen only. Call 251 East Front street. 162

FIRE DEPARTMENT BONDS—The Borough of North Plainfield will sell seven Fire Department bonds, $500 each, 5 per cent interest. Bids for same will be received up to Jan. 15th. James K. Arnold, Borough Clerk. 166

6 ROOM house for sale, lot 50x150, cost owner $2500 3 years ago; will sell any time this month for $1500, two hundred cash, balance on bond and mortgage at 6 per cent. Reason for selling owner leaving town. Charles H. Hand, agent.

COMPETENT general houseworkers wanted at once. Mrs. Day, 134 East Front street.

FOR SALE—Two nice urns, several cactus plants, and rolling top office desk. 125 Park avenue.

WANTED—Cook or general housework girl. 97 Mercer avenue.

TO LET—Elegant new corner house, fine location, all modern improvements. Must be seen to be appreciated. Address Owner, 339 E. Sixth street. 16 tf

WANTED—A girl for general housework. Apply 817 First place. 152

WANTED—Three or four rooms cheap, near depot. State rent and location. Address H., care Press. 15 tf

ROOM with board, heat, gas, (suitable for gentleman). 21 Sandford avenue. 156

WANTED—Girl for general housework; plain cooking; small family. Apply 325 E. 2d St. 152

GIRL WANTED for general housework in small family. Apply 14 Craig place. 152

FOR SALE—Well bred bull terrier pupies. 624 La Grande. 153

STORE to let in Stillman Block, now occupied by Mrs. Dyer. 151w

BY women, each with an infant or young child, situations in the country (general housework, plain cooking, etc.). Small wages expected. Railroad fare paid by Association. Apply State Charities Aid Association, 105 East Twenty-second Street, New York City. 143

TO LET—Store and rooms above, now occupied by Justice Newcorn, 110 West Front street. Inquire Samuel Drier, pawnbroker, corner Front street and Madison avenue. 12 tf

FOR SALE OR TO LET—No. 120 West Fourth street, store and dwelling combined and brick stable; been used for the last five years as bakery. E. C. Mulford, broker, owner. 12 26 tf

TO LET—Elegant 6 room apartments, Jackson building, steam heat, janitor service, halls carpeted, heated and lighted. Rent reasonable, particulars at Packer's furniture store. 11 23 tf

FIRST CLASS help and first class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 23 Somerset place. 11-10-1y

LOANS negotiated. E. C. Mulford, Broker 72 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, Broker. tf

Plainfield's Busiest Store.

We sell goods cheaper than any Plainfield store.

JANUARY CLEARING SALE

IN OUR

House Furnishing Department.

This sale means a decisive change of prices, prices that cannot help but interest the most conservative buyer.

3,000 Fancy China Plates, some of them worth 39c., for this sale only - - 13c.

50 Jardinere's, 7-inch, worth 49c., for this sale only - - - - - - - - 19c.

50 Japanese Finger Bowls, with Tray, regular price 29c., only - - - - - 19c.

56 piece Decorated China Tea Set, were $5.98, now - - - - - - - $3.49

Terra Cotta Art Vases, were 98c., now 49c.

Comet Oil Heaters, were $3.98, now $3.25

112 piece Dinner Sets, all perfect, best porcelain, were $6.98, now - - - - $5.49

EDWARD WHITE.

WALL PAPER

"A word to the wise is efficient."

From 3c.

Buy from the manufacturer and save middlemen's profits.

On receipt of postal card a fine assortment of SAMPLES sent to ANY ADDRESS.

To $2

Warerooms, 211 215 North Ave.

EDW. LOVE,

= BOEHM'S !=

Beginning MONDAY, Jan. 4th, we will inaugurate our annual sale of

HOUSEKEEPING LINENS, TOWELS, NAPKINS, SPREADS, SHEETS and PILLOWS

at our usually low figures.

We also call your special attention to the great mark-down sale in our

CLOAK, CAPE AND SUIT DEPARTMENT.

All kinds of Cloaks and Capes must be sold, if prices have anything to do with it. Our principle not to carry over any garment whatever, will be adhered to to the letter. Shrewd buyers in search of bargains will not miss this opportunity at

= BOEHM'S, =

113 WEST FRONT STREET.

Did anyone tell you to buy SLIPPERS for Xmas Presents? If so, we have what you want at the right price.

Don't forget we have HANAN SHOES for Ladies.

A. WILLETT AND SON
NO. 107 PARK AVE.

HORSE SHOW DRILLS.

With Keen Interest Horsemen Greet the Winter Campaign.

New Games for Exhibition—The Horse Show Obliged by Public Interest to Revive High Jumping—Trick Riding in Favor.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

New York.—When fine horses are concerned there is no such thing as economy, as will be abundantly demonstrated at the big horse show to begin here a week from Monday. Poor old horses that have outlived their usefulness may sell for a few dollars each, but the other day in New York, a show horse differing but little from the ordinary farm animal in the cost of raising, brought $2,000 at auction. It was not a racer, never won a purse on the track in its life, and never will, but by patient and loving training had been qualified to be man's companion and best friend among brutes, a show saddle horse.

The season for indoor trick and exhibition riding and horseback drills and evolutions begins, in all the northern cities, this week.

I have just had a talk with John E. Cowdin, one of the judges of hunters and jumpers at the show, upon the new features of the exhibition. The most significant thing in the arrangements is the revival of the high jumping contest, which has been for several years omitted, but is now restored in direct answer to a strong demand from the box office. The contest is, however limited to six feet six inches. At that height, all the horses that remain in competition will be judged upon form and action. Horses have taken a height of seven feet two inches.

I asked Mr. Cowdin, who is a member of the Rockaway hunt, and an experienced cross-country man, if jumping competitions over barriers that fall down if kicked by the horse as he goes over, do not tend to make the jumpers sloppy in their work over more solid fences, and thus endanger their riders.

"No," he replied, "because in the field one rarely comes across a fence higher than four feet six inches, which a qualified competition jumper should clean with ease. You'll notice that the jumping contests are strong along through the entire week, at least one taking place each afternoon and evening, because riding contests of all kinds are it is for the purpose of drills and evolutions.

These grow more complicated every year. The riders circle, they waltz, they wheel by twos and fours, they oblique in single file and align by platoon, they go through the most intricate quadrille figures. Perhaps the highest degree of skill is shown in the tandem riding, where evolutions have been perfected until from four riders with eight horses the number has been raised to 12 riders with 24 horses. Tandem riding with 16 riders will probably be practiced this winter for the first time in New York. It was two years ago that a tandem ride by 12 ladies was performed for the first time. The favorite arrangement is, of course, an exhibition by six lady riders and six gentlemen, the former all upon white horses, the latter upon bay, or vice versa.

Riding clubs are mounted on well-trained saddle horses, and such animals are quite sufficient for evolution riding. The "high school" mount is quite another matter. A high school horse trained to the pirouette, to the "passage" or Spanish trot, to the Spanish walk, wherein each foot is lifted high and then thrust forward horizontally before being allowed to rest upon the earth, and to the galop a tempo, all in strict time with simple march or waltz music, is about as well educated as a horse can ever hope to become, is worth a good deal of money and is sincerely mourned by the kindest of masters when he dies. He is an equine aristocrat.

OWEN LANGDON

unquestionably popular. There is no sight during the week finer to a horseman's eyes than the judging of the four-in-hands—five or six of them in the ring at the same time—an exhibition at once of skill in the driver and beauty and action in the animal. But it is the riding that brings the crowd, and particularly the jumping contests. The riding of the mounted policemen, particularly the squadron evolutions of the park policemen, are always well liked.

Coaching is much more strongly represented on the board of directors of the show than riding by such famous whips as Frederic Bronson, F. A. Schermerhorn and Lawrence Kip; but it is the mounted horseman who wins the sympathy of the crowd; the young fellow not yet too big in the girth to take a hurdle with remote danger of a broken bone or so.

Henry A. Stoelzer, the veteran rider, has had a unique experience. Coming to this country in 1869, fresh from the famous Rittmeisters of Germany, he was one day stopped by a policeman and finally arrested for riding a horse up Fifth avenue during the hours of church service. Mr. Stoelzer lived to take his revenge by leading a cavalcade of 16 riders clattering up the avenue just at the time of "thirdly"—which was perhaps excusable under the circumstances.

It is hardly necessary to add that Mr. Stoelzer has seen a wonderful growth, for which the wealthy Germans of the country have perhaps been quite as largely responsible as the American descendants of British fox-hunting squires. Along with it has come the evolution of trick, fancy and high school riding, which is certain to be in much favor this year.

In the lead for exhibition purposes will come the contests known as "gymkhana" races, and rough riding sports generally. Horse football played by from three to ten riders on a side, upon a modification of the ordinary football rules, is to be a favorite game in academies. Tent-pegging contests with the lance, sword contests on horseback and hurdle jumping on the bare-back horse are being put in practice by riding clubs. A pretty game for boys who do not mind an occasional fall is horseback wrestling, wherein each of two, three or four riders attempts to dismount the others from the frisky little polo ponies ridden in such games The "Turk's head" exercise, or slashing with a sword at a swinging ball about as big as a man's head, is a sport long practiced in British cavalry contests and now introduced in the schools for exhibition purposes.

When larger numbers of horsemen and horsewomen come upon the scene

PHILADELPHIANS LIKE CATFISH.

In Chowdered Form They Are Almost as Popular as Scrapple.

"Philadelphia is the greatest catfish market in the world," said Mr. L. H. Cogswell at the Eleventh street wharf the other day. Two colored men were busily engaged beheading and skinning a big pile of big catfish. They were remarkably adept in the operation. While one, armed with a sharp knife, would cut off the head of a fish and slit its belly, the other would pick up the fish so treated and with a pair of nippers catch the skin deftly and pull it off. A Star reporter was watching the interesting operation and asked Mr. Cogswell where he found the demand for such a lot of catfish.

"We dispose of a very large number of the fish in this city, but when we have a surplus supply we ship it direct to Philadelphia. Philadelphia is the greatest catfish market in the world. In the districts inhabited largely by the poor venders go about the streets with buckets on their heads selling the fish, and their cry is somewhat similar to the familiar 'co-al' which we hear so frequently in Washington in neighborhoods similarly populated. Catfish are cooked in a variety of ways, but made into a chowder is the most popular form in which they are served. Nothing is more palatable than a well-prepared catfish chowder, and a great many people prefer a chowder made from the heads alone. You will notice that these two colored men who are cleaning the fish preserve a number of the largest heads. They have regular customers for the heads, which they will string in bunches and sell for probably as much as the same number of fish would bring.

"Yes," continued Mr. Cogswell, "those two fellows are very expert at skinning catfish. The best points in the vicinity of Washington for catching catfish are at Colonial beach and Mathias point. The fall season in the fishing business is now open. The varieties that will be handled are rock fish and white perch, both of which are very large and very plentiful this year. Any surplus that we have above the home demand in these varieties is shipped in ice to New Yory and Philadelphia, but catfish are only shipped to the latter city."—Washington Star.

Grateful for a Royal Peppering.

Details of an accident which happened while the prince of Wales was the guest of the earl of Crews at Frystone hall, near Pontefract, during the Doncaster week, are just to hand. The prince, Hon. Sir H. Keppel, Lord Londonderry and other members of the house party, were rabbiting in the park, when one of his royal highness' shots struck some iron railings and rebounded with great force into the faces of five of the beaters, who were ranging bushes near by. Fortunately nothing very serious resulted. The prince was evidently cognizant of the mishap, but one of the beaters, quite a typical Yorkshireman, who had received a portion of the shot in his face, shouted: "Hey! Don't send any more like that this way!" The five beaters, glad that they has escaped further injury, speak of being shot by the heir apparent to the English throne with a considerable degree of pleasure, and retain the small pellets taken from various parts of their persons as interesting relics of the incident.—London Standard.

—Excruciating, the objective, once signified such pain as one would suffer when undergoing crucificiton.

SKETCHES BY M. QUAD

Bluffing the Boys.

A long haired, rough looking man got on the train at Evergreen and took the seat ahead of me, and after looking him over and sizing him up for a cattleman I asked if that was his occupation.

"No, sir," he promptly replied. "I used to be in cattle, but I'm out now. I'm sorter foot loose fur a few weeks, and I thought I'd run down to Canon City and bluff the boys."

"Do you refer to poker?"

"Oh, no. They drove me out of Canon City three months ago and warned me to stay away. I'm goin back to make the crowd crawfish."

"That is, you propose to defy the people there?"

"Exactly. I'll drop off the train, pull my gun and walk all over town and ask 'em what they are goin to do about it."

"But may not such a proceeding be dangerous?" I persisted.

"Yes, sorter dangerous, but I think I kin bluff 'em down."

"Suppose you can't?"

"Waal, the train stops there 20 minits, and you'll see how it'll turn out. In that time I'll either bluff 'em down or they'll hang me."

I saw that he was well armed, but he took matters so calmly that I thought he was boasting. Nothing more was said about it, and half an hour later the train halted at Canon City. With a wink and a nod the stranger rose up, pulled his guns and stepped off. There was a crowd on the platform, and he was scarcely off the car before there was a wild yell and three or four pistol reports. Then the crowd started off down the street, bearing the man with it, and I was not half through my dinner when one of the waiters carelessly remarked:

"The boys have got him this time."

"Do you mean a long haired man who came down on the train?"

"Yes—Bill Holden. He came down to bluff the town."

"And what is the exact situation at present?"

"I don't know nothin about the exact situation, but if you want to find Bill Holden he's hangin from a limb down there, and the boys are all playin poker ag'in by this time."

"I'LL EITHER BLUFF 'EM OR THEY'LL HANG ME."

Discovering a General.

After supper Colonel Davis and I took seats on the hotel veranda for a smoke, and we had just begun to talk about war when a party came up whom he introduced as Major Harper. The major sat down with us for a talk, and five minutes later a second man arrived. He was introduced as Colonel Thompson and joined the circle. We had got around to the battle of second Manassas when a gentleman came up the steps and was introduced as Captain Tyler. He was drawing up a chair to join us when a man came limping along the street, and Colonel Davis called out:

"Oh, Kurnel Peters, come up heah!"

The colonel came up and was introduced and offered a cigar, and Captain Tyler had just started to tell us what he saw at the battle of Chickamauga when a man dismounted from a mule and came up to be introduced as Major Hastings. He hadn't bitten the end off his cigar and got seated when a man came over from the county courthouse and was introduced as Colonel Buckner.

I didn't say anything until five minutes later, when Colonel Davis beckoned to a man across the street and got him over and introduced him as Major Peevey. Then I inquired:

"Colonel, this town turned out a good many men for the war, didn't it?"

"Heaps, sah, heaps," he replied.

"And most of them got commissions, didn't they?"

"Yes, sah, most of 'em."

"Is there anybody in town who isn't a captain, major or colonel?"

"Let's see, let's see," he mused. "There's Jim Dodge, but he was a captain; Bill Harmon, but he was a kurnel. Say, Kurnel Peters, kin yo' name anybody in town who isn't a captain, major or general? Seems as if there was a somebody strayin around, but I'll be dawg gone if I can place him jest now."

"Was Joe Williams anything?" queried the colonel.

"Of co'se, captain in the Tenth cavalry."

"And Charlie Smith?"

"He was a major and lost his arm at Gettysburg. That takes 'em all in, I reckon."

"How about Bill Baxter?"

"Say, dawg gone my buttons, if he ain't the man I was after!" exclaimed Colonel Davis. "I know he fit into the wah, but I never heard nobody call him captain, major or kurnel. There he is now. Hey, Baxter, come over heah a minit."

Mr. Baxter crossed the street and joined our party, and Colonel Davis said:

"Yo' was in the wah, of co'se?"

"Of co'se."

"But yo' didn't come home a captain, major or kurnel?"

"No."

"Just a private soldier, eh?"

"Oh, no. As a brigadier general, sah, as a brigadier general." M. QUAD.

The Minister Meant Well.

The debt of the struggling little church in the suburbs had all been paid off but $600.

A clergyman noted for his skill and success in raising church debts had been sent for and was conducting the morning service. The sermon was over, and the work of stirring up the audience to the requisite pitch of enthusiasm had begun. Subscriptions rose rapidly to $300, then to $400, and after considerble effort to $500, where they stuck. In vain the visiting brother exhorted and pleaded. The limit of the cash resources of the congregation appeared to have been reached, and at last he sat down discouraged.

Then Brother Plantus, a highly respected undertaker, who had made a liberal subscription already, rose and said:

"Brethren, this thing shan't fall through after it has got as far along as $500. I believe in a man giving as the Lord has prospered him, and, although I have given a pretty good sized donation I am ready to do more. I'll pay that last $100 myself. Here's my check for the amount."

"I don't know your name, brother," shouted the visiting preacher, jumping to his feet with enthusiasm, "but I hope your business will double during the coming year, and I believe it will."—Chicago Tribune.

His Business.

Reader—Children sometimes make very amusing remarks.

Paragraphic Serf—Yes, indeed. I derive a large part of my income from concocting smart things that they have said.—Truth.

Penological.

They broke the news to the convict as gently as possible, but he was nevertheless quite overcome.

"Pardon!" he shrieked. "Surely you jest. You mock me. Pardon? For me? After I have been habituated to every luxury? It will kill me. Mercy! I implore you, mercy!"

But there was no mercy. The will of the law was inexorable.—Detroit Tribune.

The Terrible Infant.

Mr. Nicefellow (to adored one's little brother)—There! You did that errand very nicely. Here's a penny for you.

Little Brother—Oh, ma! Mr. Nicefellow gave me a penny.

Ma—Well, my dear, you should say—

Little Brother—Yes, I know, I should say, "Thank you," but I was so s'prised I forgot. You said he hadn't a cent.—New York Weekly.

A Better Man.

Sniffiefeg—I have had my genealogy traced by an expert, Mr. Groper, and he assures me that my ancestry runs back directly to the Mayflower.

Gobilworth—If you had gone to Tacton, you could have had your ancestry traced back to William the Conqueror at the very least, and he'd have done it for half the money.—Boston Transcript.

A Wise Provision.

"I wondah," said Pickaninny Jim, "why 'tis dat white folks doan' like possum."

"Dat's one er de ways dat de 'conomy of nature takes kyah ob de cullud folks," replied his mother. "White folks not likin hit is all dat keeps possum meat f'um costin fo' bits a pound."—Washington Star."

His Best Substitute.

Hungry Guest—William, have you any canvasback duck?

Waiter—Sorry, sah, but we ain't got no canvasback duck today.

"Well, bring me your next best thing."

"Yes, sah. We got some fust class tripe, sah."—Chicago Tribune.

Credulity.

First Village Gossip—Do you believe that awful story that they are telling about Miss Prim?

Second Village Gossip—Yes. What is it?—New York Weekly.

Confusion.

"And you will not return my love?"

"I cannot find it in my heart."

The checks must have got mixed.—Detroit Tribune.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

Stock-Taking Sale

has just begun. Sale is not made up of a few pieces here and there, but includes EVERYTHING carried in our immense stock, PORTLAND RANGES excepted. We want to have as few goods on hand as possible when stock records are taken. THAT accounts for present low prices. No better opportunity for GENUINE bargains ever offered in the State.

Columbia Sewing Machine... five years' guarantee... $29.00—Cash or Credit.

Exceptionally large line of well-built Parlor Suits—newest kind of coverings and frames.

$25. Suits to $17.00
$40. Suits to $30.00
$50. Suits to $35.00
$75. Suits to $50.00
$125. Suits to $75.00

This Parlor Suit, silk brocatelle, plush trimmed, $25.00

Bedroom Suits

Our enormous stock of Bedroom Suits--over 200--oak, mahogany, Walnut. They're below wholesale now.

$35. suits to $25. $40. suits to $30.
$50. suits to $35.00

Others up to $100. Formerly one-third more than present prices.

HERE'S OUR OFFERING IN CARPETS

Moquettes, 75c. Best Body Brussels, 90c. Velvets, 75c. Best Brussels, 75c. Other Brussels, 45c. All-wool Ingrains, 55c. About 50 rolls good heavy Ingrains, suitable for any part of the home, formerly priced 65c and 75c, now at 35c and 39c yard---rare chance. As an EXTRA inducement, we propose to make and lay Carpets FREE at these prices!

Balance of Stove stock at cost. See us before selecting elsewhere.
Self-Feeding Parlor Stoves, $5.63 up.
LIBERAL CREDIT TO ALL.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

NOTE NAME AMOS AND NO. 73 BEFORE ENTERING STORE

73 Market St. Near Plane Street NEWARK, N. J.

Telephone 580 Goods Delivered Free.

IS YOUR EYESIGHT DEFECTIVE?

There is no safer, surer or cheaper method of obtaining proper relief for over strained and defective eyesight, headache and so forth than to consult this Specialist. The happy results from correctly fitted glasses are a grateful surprise to persons who have not before known the real profit to themselves in wearing good glasses. No charge to examine your eyes. All glasses guaranteed.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,
EYE SPECIALISTS.

H. A. STILES will be at 107 East Front street, Dunham's real estate office, every THURSDAY, from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 30 CENTS.
PRIMES, $1 AND $1,50 PER HUNDRED.
-AT ROGERS.-

ASSIGNEE'S SALE

of the entire stock of GEO. A. HALLOCK, 109 W. Front St.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS,

Hats, Gloves, Trunks, Umbrellas, Etc., all New Goods and Up-to-Date.

MUST BE SOLD AT ONCE.

12 22 tf J. F. MACDONALD, Assignee.

The Better the Food
The Better the Health.

MORAL

Use my White Lable Canned Vegetables.

California Naval Oranges. Tangerines. Table Apples. Preserved Fruit. White Grapes and Lady Apples.

G. W. ROCKFELLOW,
The Park Avenue Grocer.

W. J. STEPHENSON,
The Caterer,

Has RESUMED business again at his old stand,

146 NORTH AVENUE,

Where he will be pleased to see his many friends and former customers.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street Time Table in Effect NOVEMBER 15th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 7 56, 8 00, 8 30, 8 33, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 37, 11 10 a m; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 03, 4 35, 5 04, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p. m. Sunday, 3 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 36, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 20, 6 00, 7 15, 8 05, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 3 30, 3 50, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 50 8 00, 8 33, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 11 10, am; 12 09, 1 15 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 32, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28 p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 36, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32, 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 15, 7 55, 8 35, 9 03 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 33 3 25, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 25, 5 42, 6 30, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30 11 35 a m; 1 10, 1 35, 2 50, 4 05, 5 40, 7 30, 9 20, 10 2 Passengers for Newark please change car at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 2 11, 2 32, 3 35, 4 36, 5 03, 5 15, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19 6 33, 7 12, 7 24, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p m; 12 44 night Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 03, 3 43 5 14, 6 35, 10 35, 7 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 30, 7 35 7 45, 8 19, 9 05, 9 48, 11 45 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 2 25, 4 25, 5 28, 6 08, 6 35, 8 07, 8 50, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a m; 12 08, 1 20, 5 10, 6 25, 7 55, 8 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a. m., 12 46 PM, 4 55, 5 15, 6 28, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 54, a m; 12 22, 4 04 7 05, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 02 a m; 6 30 7 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 54 a. m; 5 03, 5 15 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

5 03 p. m., way for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

4 55 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor Allentown Mauch Chunk Scranton, Wilkesbarre Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 15 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 28 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 28 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 15 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 10 27 a. m. 1 15, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, p. m. Sunday, (excep Ocean Grove) 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 13, 10 04, 10 27 a. m 1 15, 3 12, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m.; 1 15 3 51, 5 32 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37* 1 17 night. Sundays—5 17, 5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14* p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m. 12 46, 2 17, 2 22*, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* p.m., 1 17 night. Sundays 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14*. p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a. m., 2 17, 5 34*, p. m., 1 17. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, p. m., 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 8 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN, General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN, General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect December 2d, 1895.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7 44 a. m. Daily (Sundays 8 01) Local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m 3 34, 5 22, 7 32 p. m. daily except Sunday, Local for Bound Brook.

11 54 a. m. Daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday, "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

1 44 p. m. daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

2 34 and 4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6 25 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

8 22 and 9 54 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9 22 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn-Local-6 49, 7 15, 7 43, 9 40, a. m. 2 29, 4 45 and 6 40 p. m. Sunday 9 03 a. m., 2 21, 6 08 p. m. Express—7 25, 8 27, 10 02 a. m 12 14, 2 17, 5 11, 7 07 and 8 17 p. m. Sundays—7 23 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 48, 7 50, 10 05 a m. 12 13, 2 33, 5 20, 7 07 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 10 a. m. 2 20 and 6 30 p. m

For Metuchen only 6 23 p. m. except Sunday.

For further information consult Ticket Agent.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR, General Superintendent, S. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHAS. S. LEE, General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, Pa.

A. W. NONNEMASHER, Ass't General Passenger Agt., South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt or Desbrosses street.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m. Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 50 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m. Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m. Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m. Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M

F. A. DUNHAM,

Civil Engineer and Surveyor

109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss Helen B. Dunham,

TEACHER OF PIANO AND ORGAN.

Pupil of a German Professor. For reference address, Prof John C. Bergner, Clinton, New Jersey. Call on or address Miss Helen B. Dunham, Dunellen, New Jersey. s 20 6m

MISS FAWCETT'S SCHOOL AND Kindergarten.

25 Washington avenue.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Boys received until 10 years of age.

NEW DESIGNS LARGE VARIETY.

HIGH GRADE

PARLOR HEATERS,

Stoves, Ranges and Oil Heaters

OUR PRICES ARE LOW.

Hardware, Heater and Furnace Work.

A. M. GRIFFEN.

119 E. Front st. Telephone 6.

TOWNSEND'S

Marble and Granite Works,

SOMERSET STREET.

Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

FRANK DAY,

114 WEST SIXTH ST.,

(Near Park Avenue.)

Livery and boarding stable in all its branches all kinds of turnouts night or day at short notice. Horses boarded by day, week or month. Telephone No. 152. 9 10 tf

"HINTS TO INVENTORS"

mailed free. Patents quickly procured and sold. Lowest liberal terms. Gen. Rufus King superintends selling department. Consultation free. Call or write Clark, Deemer & Co., 189 Broadway, New York. Percy G. Ohl, Babcock Building, Plainfield, represents this firm

IF THE BEST WILL DO,

Try Royal Tooth Powder. 1 1-2-oz. can, 10c.; 4-oz. nickel-top bottle 25c. It contains no acid or grit, and is recommended by all dentists of standing who will advise the use of Chalk and Castle Soap, flavored. Royal Borated and Carbolated Talcum, at 10c., is intended to give entire satisfaction and win your favor. Prepared by

ALLEN PHARMACY M'F'G CO., Plainfield, N. J.

Get Your Turkeys, Chickens and Ducks for the holidays at

W. L. & J. M. Smalley,

94 Somerset street.

Telephone Call, 42b.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the Letter the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry work will receive your work.

Hillier & Co.,

North ave., Plainfield.

Telephone 30M

M. Powers & Son.

Superior quality of

LEHIGH COAL.

No 2 Coal Only $3.75 a the Y

A No. 1 Kindling Wood

Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp railroad station.

RUDOLPH KERSTING

BAKER AND CONFECTIONER

201-203 West Front Street.

TRY OUR NEW ENGLAND AND HOME MADE BREAD.

VIENNA BREAD A SPECIALTY.

Charlotte de Russe, Cream Puffs, Chocolate Eclair, all kinds of Pastry and Cakes, FRESH EVERY DAY.

Delivery to any part of the City or Borough at any time.

Store Open Evenings.

Useful Holiday Presents.

Desks, Tables, Easy Chairs, Rockers, etc. Fine China, Elegant Lamps, Fancy Pottery.

G. Q. PACKER. J. W. GAVETT.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Call at

J. F. MACDONALD'S

The Uptown Grocery.

And be convinced that it is our aim to supply the people with the best goods at the lowest prices and that we now have a full line of all the new goods necessary to make your order complete.

Muse Raisins,	3 lbs. for 25cts.	Figs,	10 cts. per lb.
Table "	5 " " 50 "	English Walnuts,	15 " "
Currants,	3 " " 25 "	Paper Shell Almonds,	25 " "
Cal. Prunes,	2 " " 25 "	Pecans,	18 " "
" Apricots,	2 " " 25 "	Filberts,	15 " "

A choice lot of apples $1.75 a barrel.

JAS. R. BLAIR.

126 Park Avenue,

Has a fine assortment of Neckties, Mufflers, Umbrellas, Silk Handkerchiefs, Gloves, &c.,

Ready for the Holidays.

POWLISON & JONES'

FURNITURE WAREROOMS,

149-151 EAST FRONT ST.

PRESENTS

A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF USEFUL HOLIDAY GIFTS.

IT WILL INTEREST YOU TO LOOK THEM OVER.

Open Evenings.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.

177 NORTH AVENUE.

SPECIAL SALE AT CRANE & CLARK'S,

Hat and Furnishings Store.

120 West Front street. Prices Cut on all lines of Men and Boys wear

Special—

We place on sale today a Big Line of Suitings and Trousers.

Trousers to order $3.50 worth $5

Suits to order $18, worth $25

SEBRING'S.

Bargains in Real Estate

For sale or to let.

MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,

Send for blank contracts, 109 North avenue. Armstrong Mulford, Assistant

BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

The Butcher's Little Joke.

Not dressed to kill, but killed to dress.—New York Sunday World.

Her Complicated Anger.

Jenks—You say your wife is in a bad humor?

Pennobunker—Yes, she is.

Jenks—What is she cross about?

Pennobunker—In the first place, she got cross at the servant girl, then she got cross at me because I didn't get cross at the servant girl, and now she is cross at herself because she got cross at the servant girl. Do you understand?—Collier's Weekly.

Trying It on the Dog.

"NOT WISELY"—

"BUT TOO WELL!"

—Pick Me Up.

True For Once Doubtless.

Douglas—Katherine, for nearly three years I have loved you fondly, and I swear to you that you are the first woman I ever loved.—New York Sunday World.

His Error.

Patrick—Och, phat a fule I be ter be running the same way as the bull. Phaix, it's the opposite way I'd have gone if I'd had sinse.—Truth.

NEARING THE AGE LIMIT.

Five Army and Three Navy Officers Will Retire During the Present Year.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Five general officers of the army and three of the navy will retire, on reaching the age limit, during the present year. The first of these, Brigadier-Gen. Michael R. Morgan, the commissary general of subsistence, goes off the active list on the 18th of the present month, when he will, without doubt, be succeeded by Col. Thomas C. Sullivan, his assistant and next in rank. The other staff retirements are those of Gen. W. P. Craighill, chief of engineers, July 1, and Gen. Ruggles, adjutant general, September 11. Gen. Craighill's vacancy will fall to Col. H. M. Robert, now stationed at New York city, or Col. John M. Wilson, stationed at Washington, D. C., both of whom retire in 1901. In the succession to Gen. Ruggles, while Gen. Greene, now at San Francisco, and Gen. Breck, Gen. Miles' chief of staff, are the ranking officers, both of them retiring next year, would ordinarily be expected to secure the promotion, but the impression is strong in army and political circles that Col. H. C. Corbin, for a long time Gen. Ruggles' assistant, and now Gen. Ruger's chief of staff at Governors Island, N. Y., will receive the appointment. The two line retirements of the army are those of Major-Gens. Thomas H. Ruger, commanding department of the east, and Frank Wheaton, commanding department of the Colorado, the former retiring April 2 and the latter May 8. In the navy the succession is absolutely fixed and the three important retirements there simply cause advancement throughout the service. Admiral John G. Walker, president of the light house board, retires March 20. Admiral F. M. Ramsay, chief of navigation follows April 5, and Admiral George Brown, for some time past the ranking officer of the navy, goes out July 19.

ARMENIAN REVOLUTIONISTS.

Their Hopeless Struggle Against the Turks the Cause of the Massacres.

Boston, Jan. 6.—A special meeting of the Woman's Board of Missions was held in the Park street church yesterday afternoon to listen to addresses by missionaries returned from Turkey. Dr. Grace N. Kimball, formerly of the Van mission, in eastern Turkey, was the first speaker. She said she would speak plainly about the Armenian revolutionists. If they had been content to live as beasts of burden and slaves they would be safe from persecution. The young men, many of whom were educated in this country and Europe, formed clubs. They comprised but one per cent. of the Armenian population in Turkey. The great mass of Armenians are as much opposed to the revolutionary party as the Turks themselves, because they saw that the revolutionists' cause was a hopeless one, and tended only to bring destruction on themselves. Of the 100,000 Armenians who were butchered 99 per cent. were people who knew nothing and cared nothing about revolution. Rev. W. A. Farnsworth, D.D., of Cesarea in western Turkey, gave the audience some conception of the extent of the Armenian massacres by comparing the loss in killed in some of the big battles of the civil war with the number killed in various places in Armenia by the Turks, showing that in many cases the Armenian loss was greater. Both speakers made appeals for aid for the Armenians.

South African Outbreaks.

Cape Town, Jan. 6.—Advices from Vryburg say that a trader named Robinson, on the Mashoning river, had been murdered by the natives and his wife and child made prisoners. It is feared that the whole of the Baltoros tribe is revolting. The police station at Takeen has been abandoned; and grave fears are felt for the many settlers between the scene of the murder and Vryburg. Volunteers are starting for the disturbed districts.

Escaped from the Erie Penitentiary.

Buffalo, Jan. 6.—Charles O. Hartwell, 30 years of age, a prisoner at the Erie county penitentiary, escaped from that institution during the night by scaling the yard wall. Hartwell was sentenced from Orleans county on May 9, 1896, to a term of eight months for grand larceny. His term would have expired to-day but he would have been rearrested on another charge.

Orders for Light Ships.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Contracts for light vessels and lighthouse tenders have been made by the treasury department as follows: Bath Iron company, Bath, Me., two light vessels to be done in nine months, $74,500 each, and one tender to be done in eight months, $72,000; Lewis Nixon, Crescent ship yard, Elizabeth, N. J., one tender to be done in eight months, $72,000.

Held for Manslaughter.

Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 6.—Edward Matthews, arraigned in the police court for causing the death of Calvin A. Yeaton, watchman at the Washington mills, last Friday, was held in $1,000 for the grand jury on the charge of manslaughter, the court saying that from the report of the medical examiner he did not think the crime a serious one.

Won by an American.

Monte Carlo, Jan. 6.—An exciting pigeon shooting match was held here yesterday between Mr. Robinson, an American, and Mr. Beresford, an Englishman. The match, which was for £100 a side, 100 birds, was won by Mr. Robinson, who killed 95 birds. Mr. Beresford killed 91.

Shirt Company Incorporated.

Albany, Jan. 6.—The Orange Shirt company of Troy to manufacture collars, cuffs, shirts and other garments, has been incorporated; capital, $50,000, and directors C. F. Crosby, F. T. Platt,

SPORTS

Sun Rises: 7:24 a. m.
Sun sets: 4:43 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be Lighted at 5:43 p. m.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

Two five men teams will roll a game at the Ulrich alleys tomorrow night.

The Park Club will roll two more games in the Journal League this evening on their own alleys. Their opponents will be the team from the Bayonne Rowing and Athletic Association. This will be the first meeting of the Parks and the Bayonne bowlers this season.

In the Central Journal League the teams are very close in their standing and only three games separate the leaders from the tail enders. The records as prepared by Secretary MacQuoid, up to January 1, and including all games except in the averages, those beween the Parks and Westfield on Dec. 14, are given herewith:

Teams.	Games. Won.	Lost.	Scores. High.	Avg.
Park	7	5	912	789.9
C. C. C.	5	7	895	813.9
Roselle	9	7	927	787.9
E. A. C.	8	8	922	851.1
N. J. A. C.	6	6	921	855.9
Westfield	7	9	947	813.5
Bayonne	4	8	882	804.3

WHIST.

The Ridgewood Whist Club seems to have quite a strong team this year, for again on Monday night they succeeded in defeating the challenging team and holding the Park Club challenge trophy. The challengers came from the Passaic Club, and they put up a strong game, but it was not sufficient to defeat the Ridgewoods. The next game for the cup will be played on Monday evening at Ridgewood when the cracks of Roseville will try to wrest the honors from the home team.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

A meeting of the Governing Committee of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club was held last night at the home of the treasurer, Josiah Browne, on Watchung avenue. There was a discussion on the question of enlarging the membership of the club. The question will be acted upon at a special meeting of the club to be held in March.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Although there has been lots of talk and planning for the coming minstrel show of the Crescent Wheelmen, it was not until last evening that anything definite was done. Tnen the first rehearsal was held and the long talked-of show seems to be assured.

IN HONOR OF A DEAD SISTER.

Memorial Services to be Observed by the Woman's Relief Corps.

At the next regular meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps, No. 10, auxiliary to Winfield Scott Post No. 73, G. A. R., the beautiful and impressive burial services of the order will be performed in memory of their honered dead, Mrs. Sarah C. Mink, Past National President.

It was during the administration of Mrs. Mink and her ardent advocacy of the cause, that the Woman's Relief Corps became the national propaganda of patriotic teaching It was Col. Thomas L. Barker who introduced the resolution into the department encampment of Massachusetts, G. A. R., recognizing the Relief Corps as an auxilary, an action which ultimately led to its recoginition by the National Encampment.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A meeting of the Young Friends' Association will be held this evening.

—In Justice Newcorn's Court the case of Sternberg against Dickerson has been adjourned, —The Plainfield High School cadet corps will resume drill tomorrow afternoon after the Christmas vacation. The drill will be held, as usual, in the Jersey Cycle Academy.

—Deputy Great Sachem Wm. Newcorn and staff will install the chiefs-elect of Paugh-Caugh-Naugh Sinque-Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., at their meeting to be held this evening.

—Foster Milligan, of Central avenue, returned this morning after a hunting trip to the south. He brought with him as a result of his prowess, a 'coon, an opposum and two foxes.

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps held a practice meeting last evening in their rooms in the Elkwood building. The books were turned over to the new officers who were recently elected.

Take No Substitute.
Gail Borden Eagle Brand
CONDENSED MILK
Has always stood FIRST in the estimation of the American People. No other is "just as good." Best Infant Food.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

City Judge DeMeza is in New Brunswick today on business.

The Misses Maggie and Carrie Fritz, of Somerset street, are visiting in Scranton.

Miss Cornwell, of Brooklyn, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Cornwell, of Waynewood place.

Richard E. Dwight, of Rockview avenue, returned this morning to his studies at Princeton University.

Mrs. Edward Campell gave a luncheon at her home at the "Evergreen," Avon Park, yesterday, in honor of her guest, Miss Smith, of Newark.

Too Grateful.

He—Madam, allow me to return the pug dog that ran away from you.

She—Noble man! How can I repay you? Are you already—married?—Fliegende Blatter.

THE WRONG MAN.

The Vagrant Was Frank, but He Made a Poor Selection.

A dilapidated pattern of a man stepped up to a citizen who was walking briskly along the street the other evening and accosted him.

"Cap'n," he said, "I hain't got no hard luck story. I'm about as lazy and oinery as they make 'em, and I won't work as long as I can pick up a livin without it. But I'm thirsty, and that's the truth. I hain't had anything to drink for two hours, and if you'll give me a dime I'll go and spend it for whisky. That's dead honest. I'm spoilin for a drink o' liquor."

His voice had none of the whine of the professional vagrant, but his sincerity made no impression on his listener.

"My friend," said the citizen slowly and solemnly, "I did not imagine such depravity existed. If you had asked me for something with which to buy food or necessary clothing I should have taken pleasure in acceding to your request. If you had asked for money enough to pay for a bath, of which"—here he looked at him from head to foot—"you appear to be in some need, it would have afforded me sincere satisfaction to extend a helping hand to you. But you have chosen to appeal to a total stranger for means wherewith to minister to the gratification of a most ignoble appetite. Do you know that the curse of strong drink annually carries into the grave 600,000 human beings in this country? Do you know that the yearly expenditure for alcoholic beverages amounts to a sum equal to the national debt? Have you any idea of the effect of spirituous beverages on the delicate, sensitive inner coating of the stomach? If you have not, my friend, let me warn you by all you hold sacred to give up your indulgence in this fearful, terrible habit. Oh, fellow mortal, think of the"—

But the greasy vagrant waited to hear no more. He hurried around the corner, sat down on the curbstone, took off his hat and fanned himself.

"And I took him for a sportin gent!" he ejaculated in a tone of deep disgust.—Chicago Tribune.

The Farmer's Discovery.

I.

Farmer Green—I'd like ter git hold of ther hound thet sticks these signs up on my pond. This'll make ther thirteenth I've pulled up!

II.

"T'anks, pard. I thought de world had lost me dat time sure!"—Truth.

Literary Information.

"I want to buy a Christmas present of a book for a young man."

"Yes, miss. What kind of a book would you like?"

"Why, a book for a young man."

"Well, but what kind of a young man?"

"Oh, he's tall and has light hair, and he always wears blue neckties."—Chicago Record.

Satisfied.

Rankin—I hear that you called me a liar.

Danby—Yes, I did, and I'll prove that you are one.

Rankin—Oh, never mind. I make it a rule never to pursue a disagreeable subject.—Cleveland Leader.

Sensitive.

"So your stomach's gone back on you again? What have you been eating?"

"I believe, doctor, I looked too long into a delicatessen shop window yesterday."—Fliegende Blatter.

A Family Affair.

STRAINED RELATIONS.
—Truth.

The Boy With the Hat.

BUT HE DOESN'T LOOK IT.
—Punch.

Heredity.

Fisher—Do you believe in heredity?

Mann—Sure. Many a time I have noticed that when a man was rich his son had the same trait.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Certain to Be.

Caller—Are you sure Skyparlor is in?

Landlady—Certainly. I am washing his shirt now.—New York Sunday Journal.

He Knew.

"Your poem," said the editor thoughtfully, "seems to me to lack something."

"Oh, yes," replied the confident young man. "I know what that is."

"Indeed! And what is it?"

"Publication."—Washington Star.

BOROUGH NOTICE

The ordinance requires occupants of property to remove snow and ice from sidewalks within five hours after it accumulates. Notice is hereby given that the penalty for violation of this ordinance will hereafter be strictly enforced.

B. A. HEGEMAN, JR.,
Mayor.

1 6 12

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT — Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscribers, executors of and trustees under the will of Daniel J. Marshall, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphan's Court of the County of Union, on Wednesday, the tenth day of February next.

JOHN H. VAN WINKLE,
FREDERICK W. McCULLY,
HARRY W. MARSHALL.

Dated December 8th, 1896. 12 9 10w w

$35. Will buy you a First-Class High Grade BICYCLE.
Peck & Snyder and Winslow Skates from 49c. up.
PLAINFIELD CYCLE AND SPORTING GOODS CO.
147-149 NORTH AVENUE.
H. E. RIDER, President. C. C. LISTER, Secretary and Treas.

Turkeys,
Chickens,
Ducks,
All Jerseys.
Prime Beef,
Mutton,
Lamb,
Jersey Pork and Sausage.
We invite an inspection of the FINEST STOCK IN THE CITY before you buy elsewhere.
SMALLEY BROTHERS,
The North Avenue Butchers.
Near the Depot.

Wall Paper
2cts. A Roll
Borders and Ceilings to Match, at
Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
201 Park avenue, corner Second street.
☞ The Largest Supply House in the City.

THE SAME STEEL.

Is in our cultery out of which the finest tempered swords are made. Our Pocket Knives, Table Knives, Carving Knives, French Kitchen Knives, Razors, Butcher Knives, Bread Knives, Oyster Knives, Clam Knives, and every other kind of knife. Are made of Superior Steel.
The famous Purity Oil Heater, still on sale for $3. 98.
The J. P. Laire Hardware Co
Telephone Call 49 I. 9 8 1y

A New Year's Sermon
which has its practical side. During this year we're going to keep the same good qualities of goods which we have always been well known for. We are going to put as moderate prices on these goods as possible. It wouldn't pay us to do otherwise. We're in business to stay.
L. W. Randolph,
PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST.
No. 143 West Front street.
Telephone Call, 109.
HOTEL TUILERIES!
AND ROGER'S RESTAURANT,
139-141 East Front street.
ROOMS TO LET. CATERING
HOLIDAY PRESENTS
IN ENDLESS VARIETY
AT HARPER'S,
411 PARK AVENUE.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

A LITTLE STORY

About a special fine lot of Hamburgh Embroideries which has just been received by us and put on sale.
They were made by a large manufacturer in St. Gall, Switzerland, and were the odds and ends of the factory.
THE PRICE 1/2 IS JUST
the usual price asked.
They come from the narrow edge to 10 inches wide, the work being 5 inches wide on some of them. You will find them on three centre tables on the right-hand aisle as you enter the store.
ONE TABLE IS 5 Cts a Yard,
ONE TABLE IS 10 Cts a Yard, and
ONE TABLE IS 15 Cts a Yard.
They had not been on exhibition only a short time when one lady's attention was called to them and she purchased about $15 worth in a few minutes.
They sell quick at sight. They can't be duplicated. If you want any of them come in quick.
Remember we are clearing out all our heavy winter stock now, and you will find plenty of
Real Bargains
all through the store. We are preparing another surprise for you, and in a few days you will know about it.
EDSALL'S.

Opportunity for Safe and Profitable Investment.
The N. J. MUTUAL REALTY COMPANY.
(Incorporated.)
Have acquired 200 acres of land with 6,000 feet frontage on C. R. R. of N. J. and Lehigh Valley Railroad at a cost of $22,500 and propose selling stock to small investors in $100 shares at par to pay for property. Already negotiations are pending to locate first-class manufactories along railroad front.
This plan will enable the Company to sell building lots at low prices, and all profits derived from sale of this property is to be divided among stockholders.
All stock payable to Treas. of Company on or before April 1, 1897. Already upwards of $10,000 stock have been subscribed for.
The following gentlemen are officers and directors of the Company.
A. D. Thompson, Sylvanus Ayres, Jr., Peter Egenolf, President Board of Trade, Elizabeth; P. H. Oakley, Insurance Broker; S. D. Drake, Richard H. Brokaw, cashier First National Bank, Bound Brook; W. W. Smalley, firm of L. D. Cook & Co.
For prospectus and full particulars call or address,
N. J. MUTUAL REALTY CO.,
ROSS BUILDING, BOUND BROOK, N. J.
Or First National Bank, Plainfield and Bound Brook.

The Strongest Claim
We make for the superiority of our
Demulcent Cream
OF Witch Hazel
is that the people who have used it say it is the most efficient
TOILET REQUISITE
they ever used. For chapped hands it is unequalled.
Price 25c a Jar.
Leggett's Pharmacy,
Y. M. C. A. Building. Telephone No. 4.
Joseph Carbone,
128 NORTH AVENUE,
Whol sale and retail dealer in choice fruits nuts, etc., all kinds of temperance drinks. Closed Friday night, sun down. Open Saturday evening at sun down. 12 14 1y
PUBLIC BOWLING ALLEYS
AT
117 and 119 East Second Street.
C. M. ULRICH,
12 22 1y. Manager.

WE WANT FEET
to fit our shoes. The invisible cork sole ones are particularly appropriate this season of the year. We're selling them at right prices.
Doane & Edsall.
Store closes at 6, Saturday 10 p. m.
NEUMAN BROS.,
Grocers,
Corner Watchung Ave. and 5th St.

Last Edition. THE DAILY PRESS Last Edition.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

STATE LAW MAKERS.

FORECAST OF HOW THE LEGISLATURE WILL BE ORGANIZED.

The Principal Officers are Already Decided on and the Occupants of the Rest Will be Settled by the End of This Week.

The New Jersey Legislature will meet next Tuesday. The presiding officers of both houses were decided upon soon after election, the Senate Presidency being conceded to Robeet Williams, of Passaic, who was chosen to the place to fill the vacancy on the last day of last session. George W. MacPherson of Mercer easily won the Speakership, being the most available of the old members qualified for the place. The Republican Senators will caucus in Trenton Friday evening to elect officers to fill three or four vacancies in the clerical force, but most of last year's officials will be allowed to fill the places another year. Richard Starr of Salem and William S. Sharp and Reuben R. Carter of Mercer are candidates for Sergeant-at-Arms, but none of them so far has succeeded in getting the back of his home Senator. Mr. Sharp held the place in 1890, during the Hudson county ballot box investigation, but was replaced the next year by a Democrat, and now insists that he is entitled to another term.

In the House the place of Sergeant-at-Arms is also the subject of a warm fight, particularly between the rival factions in the Essex delegation. Last year Andrew J. Briedenback was elected by a combination of a few Essex men with the Assemblymen from other counties, which resulted in the defeat of the Essex county candidate for Speaker. Now the opposition, led by Major Carl Lentz, Chairman of the Essex Republican Committee, seeking Briedenbach's defeat, and has brought forward ex-Assemblyman Charles B. Duncan as a candidate for Clerk of the House. Duncan has the united support of his delegation, but there are two other Essex county candidates for Sergeant-at-Arms besides Briedenbach, and the delegation has thus far been able to reach no decision on that office. Attempts to form a combination between the Essex and Hudson delegations have failed, and the Assemblymen from the smaller counties have taken alarm and practically decided to re-elect all of last year's official force. The Republican Assembly caucus will be held on the evening before the organization of the Legislature.

The Democratic caucuses will not be interesting meetings, as there will be but three Democratic Senators from Hudson, Warren, and Hunterdon counties and four Democratic Assemblymen, two each from Hunterdon and Warren counties.

Governor Griggs' message to the Legislature will be comparatively brief, and, it is said, will treat of State matters only. The Governor will not give the space to the reports of State officers that his predecessors have done.

The question of sending the National Guard, or part of it, to attend the inauguration, will be one of the first to be decided by the new Legislature. The Governor has been sounding public sentiment, and finds that the party leaders oppose the project on the score of expense. Quartermaster-General Donnelly estimates that it would cost between $30,000 and $40,000 to send to Washington the entire division of about 4,000 men. The Jersey City battalion of the New Jersey Naval Reserves has offered its services as an escort to Vice-President Hobart, and will send 100 uniformed men, without expense to the State, if the offer is accepted. The Third Regiment of the National Guard, with headquarters at Elizabeth, has also volunteered to attend the inauguration at its own expense.

Soon after the Legislature organizes Gov. Griggs will be called upon to make a number of important appointments. It is popularly believed that Samuel H. Grey, of Camden, will be named for Attorney-General to succeed John P. Stockton; Senator Edward C. Stokes, of Cumberland, to succeed Henry C. Kelsey as Secretary of State, and ex-Sheriff John J. Toffey, of Hudson, to succeed Benj. F. Lee as Clerk of the Supreme Court. State Comptroller Wm. S. Hancock, of Trenton, and State Treasurer George B. Swain, of Newark, it is conceded, will be re-elected for another three-year term by the Legislature in joint meeting.

Preserving the City's Health.

Peter V. Weaver, inspector for the Board of Health, has been doing some excellent work of late. The nuisance just off of Washington avenue, near Front street, caused by the burning of rubbish, which was referred to by The Daily Press, has been stopped by Mr. Weaver, and the people living in the vicinity are duly grateful.

CHURCH AND THE FAMILY

DR. BARNES SAYS THE CHURCH STARTS WITH THE FAMILY.

Prayer Should be Part of the Family Life and the Expounding of Scripture Should be the Duty of Every Parent.

The union week of prayer services were continued at the First M. E. church last night and the meeting was largely attended by the members of the congregations of the four churches that have arranged the meetings.

Rev. Dr. C. R. Barnes acted as leader of the meeting and made a short address after the opening devotional services. The meeting opened with several hymns, Horace J. Martin acting as leader of the singing. Prayer by Rev. Cornelius Schenck followed and then Dr. Barnes read a portion of the last chapter of Joshua and a portion the 12th chapter of First Corinthians.

The topic of the meeting was "The Church and the Family" and Dr. Barnes followed with a few remarks on the subject. The original church, he said, is the family, for with the family the church really starts. The father was the priest of the family church and taught his children in the way of the Truth.

It is the family and not the individual that is the unit in society and with that comes less of selfishness and more interest in the welfare of the whole body instead of self. Only in proportion as the parents use the principals of Christianity in their lives, so will the children. God in humanity is that which brings humanity to God. As soon as the child can realize, God is put before him. The family relations should be such that the earthly problems and troubles will not enter there.

The family prayer is part of the family life and the reading and expounding of the word is the duty of the parents. The child who is brought up a moral imbecile, continued Dr. Barnes, is the worst of all human monstrosities.

Men are to be saved by knowledge and so we want to begin to teach the children to fight the good fight when they are young. The church is the gathering place of those who wish to fight together, side by side, and to express their thoughts and pour out their prayers without being thought strange or queer. There must not be only the outward forms and ceremonies, but the spirit of God must actuate the actions from within. Then the doctor referred to the actions of the Christians, and said that the fault-finding and other weaknesses must be done away with, as the members of the church must show the men of the world that they believe in the church and consider it a great honor to be numbered in its ranks. He closed with an exhortation to all to take special care in the bringing up of their children to see that they were directed in the right path.

After a prayer by Lemuel W. Serrell and another hymn, the meeting for prayer, praise and testimony followed in which a number took part. There were earnest prayers for the church and the family, and many strong testimonies were given.

The Count Was Away From Home.

Court Constable Amos Moffett, who has, perhaps, served in securing as many juries as any man in the State, and who has brought many criminals to justice, yesterday drove out to "Count" J. K. Van Nest's place on East Front street, fully equipped with the necessary legal documents to have the "Count" and his hired girl appear before the Grand Jury at Elizabeth today. The girl was found and subpœnaed, but the Count wasn't. The latter was in Jersey City.

Dislocated His Hip.

Louis Moynihan, aged four years, living at Bound Brook, dislocated his hip a few days ago, while he and his brother Willie, were playing with a tricycle. He suffered great pain at the time, and until a physician was called, it was not known what the trouble was. The injured boy is a son of Michael Moynihan and a nephew of John J. Kenney, of this city.

At the Plainfield High School.

A meeting of the class of '97 was held in the High School building on Tuesday afternoon and the question of the holding of a class spread was discussed and it was decided to take a census of opinion of the members of the class. Most of the class seem to be in favor of the plan. A regular singing lesson was held yesterday morning and another this morning. Several new selections are now being practiced.

Minstrels on the 26th Inst.

The date has been settled upon for the Crescent Wheelmen's minstrel show. It is planned to hold the show in Music Hall on Tuesday evening, January 26th.

DIED IN A DISTANT LAND.

H. A. STREULI'S LIFE-LIGHT FLICKERED OUT IN SWITZERLAND.

He Had Gone to the Land of His Birth to Renew His Health But Was Unsuccessful—Well Known Silk Manufacturer

A large number of people in this city will be shocked to learn of the death of H. Alfred Streuli, of Prospect avenue, which occurred yesterday morning at the home of his son, Ferdinand Streuli, Rheinfelden, Switzerland, which is also his birthplace.

Mr. Streuli had been ill since last June, and he has for sometime been abroad. Death resulted from blood poisoning.

As stated above Mr. Streuli was born in Switzerland, and he came to this country in 1863, and at once engaged in the manufacture of silks in Philadelphia.

About twenty years ago he moved to Plainfield, where he still maintained his interest in the silk business. He and his son, A. F. H. Streuli, of this city, were the owners of the silk mills at Stirling which burned down sometime ago and are now being rebuilt. About three years ago Mr. Streuli retired from active business, but his interest remained in the mills at Stirling.

He was a widower, his wife having died a number of years ago. He leaves three children, A. F. H. Streuli and Mrs. Evarts Tracy, of this city, and Ferdinand Streuli, Rheinfelden, Switzerland. Mr. Streuli was well and favorably known in this city and was a member of the Union County Country Club. He was also a member of the Lutheran church at the place where he died.

The body will not be brought to this country, but will be interred at the home of his birth.

Mr. Lambert, of Westfield, was the guest of Plainfield friends yesterday.

PYTHIANS PROSPEROUS.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS AT THE DISTRICT MEETING LAST NIGHT.

Every Lodge in the District Represented—Grand Chancellor Hitchcock Talked on the Work of the Order—Banquet Given.

A district meeting of Knights of Pythias was held last evening in Unity Lodge rooms, Babcock building, and every lodge in the district was represented, including Raritan Lodge, of Sayreville. Grand Chancellor W. E. Hitchcock, of Newark, was present and gave the members a fine talk on the work of the order. The reports from the various lodges showed that all were in a healthy and prosperous condition.

The following officers-elect of Unity Lodge were installed by District Deputy Bowman:—Chancellor commander, F. Green; vice-chancellor, George Radford; keeper of records and seals, Alfred Dunavan; master of finance Jerry Van Winkle, Jr.; master of exchequer, Amos Andrews; master of work, J. D. Anderson; master at arms, Frank Humpstone; prelate, I. N. Wyckoff; inside guard, W. Johnson; outside guard, T. C. Smith.

After the installation, J. W. A. Bauersachs was elected district deputy in place of Edward Bowman, whose term expired.

This concluded the business and the members all adjourned to the banquet hall where a sumptuous repast was served.

POLICE COMMITTEE ORGANIZE.

Councilman Barrows to be Continued as Chairman.

The police committee of the Common Council met at the residence of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, of West Seventh street, last evening, and organized. Elliot T. Barrows was chosen president and William N. Runyon was elected to the position of secretary. There was a general discussion of the different matters of interest to the committee, but no action was taken on any of the subjects.

Industry for Westfield.

G. A. Reuther and J. A. Wallace of Brooklyn and W. S. Morrow of Westfield incorporated there yesterday the Reuther Clothing Company. The company will manufacture clothing at Westfield and sell it to retailers. The capital stock is $100,000.

Churcl. Affairs Quiet.

The consistory of the German Reformed church held their regular monthly meeting last evening and transacted the regular business of that body. There were no matters of importance brought up at the meeting and a general discussion of the affairs of the church followed the meeting.

To Unite With Other Churches.

No week of prayer services will be held in the Congregational church this evening and tomorrow evening as the members of that congregation will unite with the other churches in the union services which will be continued in the First M.E. church this evening.

NOT HELD RESPONSIBLE

VICTIM OF ACCIDENT LOSES HIS SECOND SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

Jacob Sacher Was Injured by a Horse Driven by Bradford Smalley, but Jury Decided it Was His Own Carelessness.

Yesterday, at Elizabeth, Bradford Smalley, of Netherwood, was successful in the Supreme Court case brought against him by Jacob Sacher. The suit was for $5,000 damages, and grew out of an accident whereby Mr. Sacher had his leg broken just above the ankle.

He was in the act of crossing Watchung avenue, near East Fourth street, on February 26th, 1895, where he was run into by the horse and buggy driven by Mr. Smalley. The disputed question of fact was whether the accident was due to carelessness of Mr. Smalley in driving too fast or without proper caution in looking out for pedestrians crossing the street, or was due to carelessness of Mr. Sacher in crossing the street without due care to avoid vehicles carefully driven along the street.

The evidence was very conflicting as usual in such cases. The witnesses for the plaintiff outnumbered Mr. Smalley's witnesses, but disinterested persons present at the trial seemed to think, as the jury did, that the plaintiff's witnesses for the most part did not stand the test of cross-examination.

Craig A. Marsh was counsel for Mr. Smalley, and secured a verdict in favor of his client. Mr. Sacher was represented by Mr. Hood, of Newark, the assistant prosecutor of Essex county. The horse and buggy belonged, it will be remembered, to Dan Roberts, and suit was first brought against him. This suit was tried several terms ago, and was won by Mr. Roberts.

THEIR BOWLING TOGS ON

PARK CLUB TEAM EASILY DEFEATS THE BAYONNE BOWLERS.

The Rooters Were Noticeably Absent, But Charlie Lyman Made Up For That By Two Solos—Scores in Detail.

The invincible Park Club bowling team, which is making such a fine record in the Central Journal League, met the Bayonne team in this city last evening for the first time this year. There was not a very large attendance of club rooters, but those who were there made up for the absent ones. It was exceedingly hard luck, but the visitors were doomed to defeat, and the Parks added two more victories to their long list. The features of the games was the score of 214 made by Worth, and the very steady bowling by Thiers. The latter only broke twice during the evening, which is doing remarkably well.

As a soloist Charlie Lyman is making quite a hit, and during the evening he rendered several effective solos, such as "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Down on the Farm." With each song followed long and hearty applause. Mr. Lyman was very ably assisted by Laurens VanBuren, the club's mascot, who sang a very fine tenor, and one had to be present to appreciate the harmony.

Some of the members of the home team were evidently rattled by the presence of ladies, but the majority of them put up good scores and their supporters feel happy.

As for the visitors, great credit is due them. They put up two good games and it was by close margins that they were beaten. At the close of the game three hearty cheers were given by both sides. Below will be found the full scores:

Parks.

	1st game	2d game
VanBuren	170	165
Ball, F. H.	161	162
Worth, Geo.	214	129
Ball, F. O.	146	181
Thiers, C. R.	171	194
	862	832

Bayonnes.

	1st game	2d game
Brown	162	147
Johnson	164	146
Estelow	166	163
Pyath	153	159
Nealon	170	168
	815	783

SCORE BY FRAMES.

1st game.

Parks	74	168	245	340	417	494	602	697	796	892
Bayonnes	81	167	246	342	421	487	570	644	734	815

2d game.

Parks	58	176	243	321	398	486	563	660	737	832
Bayonnes	77	172	257	318	394	481	563	620	709	783

Died at the Hospital.

The death of Rymer Chamberlain, of East Fourth street, occurred this forenoon at the hospital, after a confinement of two weeks. Death was the result of paralysis. Mr. Chamberlain was a well-known citizen, having lived here many years. He leaves two sons, Herbert Chamberlain, of this city, and Arthur Chamberlain, of Chicago.

Miss Lockwood, of Brooklyn, is a guest of the Misses Langdon, of East Ninth street.

DONNING THE REGALIA

INSTALLATIONS IN RED MEN'S LODGE AND THEIR AUXILIARY.

The Work of Conducting the Officers Into Their New Positions Made by Ceremonies That Aroused New Interest

The members of Paugh Caugh-Naugh-Sinque Tribe, No. 193, I. O. R. M., had a big time last evening when the following officers-elect were installed: Prophet, Charles F. Stephens; sachem, J. W. Klein; senior sagamore, Lewis DeCamp; junior sagamore, Theodore Mason; chief of records, J. H. Carney; collector of wampum, Theodore Osment; keeper of wampum, Peter A. VanFleet; first sannap, W. Young; second sannap, Aug. Weber; first warrior, Peter Blimm; second warrior, S. H. Lunger; first brave, V. W. Nash; second brave, L. S. Pocock; guard of wigwam, Edward Smith.

The work of installing was performed by District Deputy Great Sachem William Newcorn and his staff, as follows: Great prophet, N. C. Magee; great senior sagamore, D. C. Allen; great junior sagamore, J. Newman; great sannap, J. Karet; great keeper of wampum, G. W. Thompson; great keeper of records, A. J. Stiglitz; great guard of wigwam, G. S. McGinnis.

District Deputy Great Chief Mrs. Eliza Radin, of Degree of Pocohontas, and her staff, installed the following officers-elect of Iona Council, last evening: Prophetess, Mrs. Weigman; Pocohontas, Miss Lizzie Dunlap; wenona, Miss Anna Schleein; keeper of records, Mrs. Holstein; collector of wampum, Mrs. Anna Klein; keeper of wampum, Mrs. Allen; first scout, Mrs. A. J. Stiglitz; second scout, Mrs. Canfield; first runner, Miss Frazee; first warrior, Miss Florence Pullin; second warrior, Mrs. Fred Westphal; guard of wigwam, Mrs. Bowman; guard of forest, Mrs. Fahn; powhaton, D. C. Allen.

The members decided to hold a dance in the near future and the following were appointed as a committee of arrangements: Mrs. Stiglitz, Mrs. Holstein, Mrs. Westphal, Mrs. Bowman, Miss Florence Pullin.

Among the visitors present was a large delegation from Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-Sinque-Council No. 34, of this city.

A bountiful supper was served after the business of the evening was transacted.

URGING THE TROLLEY TO COME.

Washington Valley People Up and Doing for the Improvement.

The meeting held at Washingtonville, last evening, was largely represented by the taxpayers and those interested in having the trolley road go up to Mountain Park Inn by way of Washingtonville.

Robert Clark, Jr., was chosen chairman of the meeting, and F. E. Blume, secretary.

The chairman in a few well chosen remarks told of the long felt need of having the trolley come to Washingtonville and the benefits it would be in bringing a desirable class of people who would become residents of this beautiful valley. John French then told of his interview he had with Chandler Riker, the president of the railway company.

It was stated that the railway company were willing to have one-half of the $500 raised by the citizens, expended by a committee in widening the road at some places where it is too narrow to permit the tracks to be laid. The fare is to be five cents from any terminal point in Plainfield, and all cars run on Somerset street would be run over the new branch, making just as excellent service as the city or borough could have.

The following committee were appointed to investigate and determine the cost of widening the road and report at the next public meeting to be held next Wednesday evening: Robert Clark, Jr., F. E. Blume, John French, Robert Fountain and William Demler.

The Trolley Pole Broken.

There was delay on the street railway late yesterday afternoon caused by an accident to one of the cars on the Netherwood branch. The car was moving along Richmond street when the trolley pole slipped from the wire and, striking against one of the supporting wires with considerable force, was broken. The car was finally towed to the shop by one of the cars which finally came up. The conductor on the car was new to the line and did not know at what places the trolley was likely to slip off.

Mark Morris, of Federalsburg, Md., has leased for a term of six years the Patrick Keenan farm on Clinton avenue. Mr. Morris is a nephew of Eugene Laine, the Park avenue barber.

THE FIVE-THIRTY MAIL.

A NOW SOMEWHAT FAMOUS INSTITUTION IN LOCAL LIFE.

The Postoffice a Mutual Meeting Place for Lovers, Gossips, Urchins and Others Who Can Give No Reason Therefor.

Years ago, before Plainfield had its present, well-equipped postoffice, it was the custom, as in all country towns, for the people to visit the postoffice every day to get the mail. Everybody had a box and the gossips gathered there twice a day to exchange the choice bits of news that they had heard or invented during the day and incidentally to get the mail. And now, with the free delivery to all parts of the city, the young people have returned to that relic of the country life and nightly gather at Uncle Sam's station in the same spirit that prompted their ancestors to in days gone by.

What resident of this pretty residential city has not heard of the "five-thirty mail?" It is an institution in itself and has long since become famous. Every evening in the week, except Sunday, the carrier's window is opened at 5:30 o'clock and mail can be called be for by those that wish to. Now there is now nothing remarkable in that, but a visit to the postoffice at that time any pleasant evening will reveal much.

It is only in the winter that this institution seems to be popular and at this time of the year there gathers at the postoffice many of the youths and fair maidens of the city and some of their older brothers and sisters. Surely they are not all expecting a letter; most of them have not the slightest expectation of getting one, that isn't what they go for. The attractions for the frequenters of the "five-thirty" are peculiar. Some go because the rest go and they want to follow the crowd. They wander in the direction of the postoffice as the mystic hour of 5:30 o'clock draws near and they parade up and down the streets in the neighborhood, waiting for that time. When it arrives, they get in line with the rest, go to the window and are told that there is no mail for them. They look surprised, as they have for the last year, and depart to show up at the appointed hour the next night, if it happens to be pleasant.

There are other devotees of the "five-thirty" that have a more definite object in view. That object generally happens to be a girl if the devotee in question is a young man or one of the latter if the "five-thirtyite" is of the fairer sex. For this mail is a grand meeting place and many a couple meet here and start together on their homeward way with merry laugh and chatter. Some of these meetings are clandestine ones and the youthful couple keep a sharp look out for the mater familias as they strolled away from the business section of the city. There is always some flirting, such a gathering of young people would not be possible without it, but of late the presence of Patrolman McCue at the office at the time of the distribution of the mail has put a check on too lively demonstrations.

Attracted by the crowd come hordes of little newsboys who importune the "five-thirtyites" with unvarying persistency to buy an evening paper. As the days grew chilly, the newsboys hastened within the warm office and gathered around the steam heater. But quarrels were frequent and the small boy could not resist the temptation to play some tricks on an unsuspicious visitor, as he, the latter, turned his back. Hence the cause of the arrival of the officer on the scene. It was a good thing, for sometimes some of the young men were inclined to be a trifle boisterous in their fun.

Of course, there are those that come to get the mail and for no other purpose, but they are few. It is the same ones that come night after night and they fill the large corridor to overflowing, especially if the mail is a trifle late in opening as sometimes happens. Everybody has lots of friends there and, of course, they want to speak to them. Everybody has something to say and a very bedlam of voices result.

Some of the scheming ones head for the window as soon as they enter the room but the majority wait until the window opens and then make a rush in that direction. Letter Carrier Dan Shea is usually on duty there and he has made a great reputation for himself by his wonderful memory. He knows where all the regular "five-thirtyites" live and the moment they appear before the window he can call out the number and street to the other carriers who are waiting inside. It is really quite wonderful how he does recall all those faces besides his host of other friends.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.

SEVEN NOBLE LIVES

The Number Known To Have Been Sacrificed in the Convent Fire.

ALL MIGHT HAVE SAVED THEMSELVES

The Christian Women Would Not Attempt To Leave Until Their Charges Were Safe---Bodies Found Kneeling as if in Prayer.

Roberval, Lake St. George, Que., Jan. 7.—The convent burned here yesterday in which seven Ursuline sisters lost their lives was that of Our Lady of Lake St. John in Charge of the Ursuline sisters, a cloister order, and one of the oldest sisterhoods in Canada. Usually there are about fifty young ladies in attendance at the school, besides the nuns and other attaches of the establishment, making in all about one hundred inmates. Most of the students, however, were away for the holidays. When the alarm was given the nuns bravely undertook the task of rescuing those in their charge, and in this heroic task those who perished gave up their lives. From floor to floor of the doomed building these Christian devotees rushed through blinding smoke and lurid flame, sounding the alarm, and not until every one in their charge was warned of their danger and safety cut off the building did they turn to the saving of their own lives. It was then too late, and, overcome by the heat and smoke, seven of these heroic sisters gave up their lives. Having seen their charges reach a place of safety they then, and only then, endeavored to save themselves, but their escape was cut off and they were not even able to reach windows from which to jump and take their chances in a leap for life. On every floor their dead bodies were found, some terribly burned, and others suffocated to death and kneeling in prayer. Those who escaped are being well cared for at the hotels and private residences of the villages.

DESPERATE FIGHT IN A JAIL.

A Convicted Millionaire Double Murderer Resents Insults of a Fellow Prisoner.

St. Louis, Jan. 7.—Arthur Duestrow, the convicted millionaire double murderer, made a terrible attack upon George Kendal, a burglar, as the latter was passing his cell during exercise hour yesterday afternoon. "Hello, Moneybags," Kendal sneeringly said. Duestrow pretended not to hear him. "Hello, cigarette fiend," said Kendal, tauntingly. Still there was not a word from the condemned murderer. "Hello, crazy." In an instant the cell door was thrown open and Duestrow was upon Kendal like a madman. The attack was so impetuous that Kendal was thrown to the floor. Duestrow leaped upon his prostrate body, kicking him repeatedly about the face and head. As he did so he cursed like a demon. Kendal shrieked for help and guards came to his assistance. Kendal is badly injured.

New Method of Enforcing Liquor Law.

Amsterdam, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Plattsburg has three liquor dealers who are, it is alleged, dispensing intoxicants without securing a liquor tax certificate. The matter has been brought before the grand jury of the county, but indictments did not follow. Accordingly, in order to protect the state, Excise Commissioner Lyman has evolved the idea of restraining the trio from trafficking in liquor, through the aid of injunctions. Applications for injunctions have been made. This is the first case of the kind in the state.

$20,000,000 Mortgage Recorded.

New York, Jan. 7.—A mortgage has just been filed with Register Sohmer, the consideration involved being $20,000,000, and is given to the Farmers' Loan & Trust company by the Commercial Cable company, pledging all the telegraph properties, rights, privileges and franchises, including those of the Postal Telegraph company. The mortgage is given to secure an issue of 500 4 per cent. gold bonds and debenture stocks, which aggregates the sum of the mortgage.

Another Insurgent Defeat.

Madrid, Jan. 7.—Dispatches from Havana give details of the recent victory achieved by Gen. Luque over the insurgent leader, Maximo Gomez, in the province of Santa Clara, the advices saying that Gomez left 105 dead on the field of Arroyo Blanco. The dispatches also assert that there are only a few small bands of rebels now left in the province of Pinar del Rio, and that these are fast melting away.

Two Lives Lost in a Collision.

Baltimore, Jan. 7.—Two lives were lost as the result of a collision in the Chesapeake bay, near Fort Carroll yesterday. The Merchants & Miners steamer Howard, from Boston and Norfolk, crashed into the tug Job T. Wilson of the Virginia Dredging company and sunk her. The engineer and a boy off the tug were drowned.

The Flight from Bombay.

Bombay, Jan. 7.—The mill operatives and their families are quitting the city, thus adding a quarter of a million of unemployed to the country districts. It is now estimated that 325,000 persons have fled from the city as a result of the spread of the bubonic plague, scattering contagion in the villages of the country.

Cornell Prize Debate.

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 7.—President Schurman has announced the following list of judges for the '94 memorial prize debate at Cornell: Hon, S. B. Stanchfield of Elmira, Hon. John W. Church of Norwich and Henry P. Emerson, superintendent of education of the city of Buffalo.

ALLISON NOT IN IT

Says He Is Not To Be a Member of McKinley's Cabinet.

SHERMAN FOR SECRETARY OF STATI

The Impression Now Prevails That the Ohio Senator Is Likely To Accept That Portfolio---Bliss for the Navy.

Canton, O., Jan. 7.—Senator Allison said, after his conference yesterday with Major McKinley, that he was not a member of Major McKinley's cabinet and it was learned to-day that this determination was reached some days ago and that Major McKinley learned of it through friends. The president-elect and Mr. Allison discussed cabinet posibilities from Iowa and other states and talked over the whole political situation. The impression prevails here that Senator Sherman is likely to be secretary of state and Senator Allison, who seems to have this opinion, spoke of him in high terms, declaring that he would make a strong and admirable officer at the head of the department of state. Gen. Felix Agnus of Baltimore lunched with Major McKinley and Senator Allison. He is strongly opposed to the appointment of James A. Cary of Baltimore to the cabinet. Major McKinley returned to Cleveland last night and will remain there till the first of next week.

BLISS FOR THE NAVY.

Believed That His Call on McKinley Was in Connection with Cabinet Matters.

New York, Jan. 7.—An evening paper prints the following: "Cornelius N. Bliss, who returned yesterday from Cleveland, O., where he met President-elect McKinley by appointment at the home of Chairman Mark Hanna, said: "I had been intending to call on Major McKinley ever since the election. A month ago I expected to meet him in Cleveland, but was unable to get away from home. This time I was able to get away, and we had a very pleasant talk together. We talked on various matters, but my lips are sealed as to what passed between us. I can positively say nothing about our conversation." Mr. Bliss smiled and made no protest when addressed as "Mr. Secretary of the Navy." Some time ago it was announced that Mr. Bliss had been selected for the navy portfolio in President McKinley's cabinet. A report from Cleveland says that while there Mr. Bliss agreed to accept the place. He declines to discuss this report.

Nominations of Postmasters.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The president has sent to the senate the following nominations of postmasters: Massachusetts—Emma L. Lombard, South Ashburnham. New York—Mary A. S. Havanagh, Lawrence. New Jersey—Benjamin L. Williams, West Orange. Pennsylvania—Andrew J. Bard, Slippery Rock; Ransom L. Clark, Galeton; Jacob P. Criss, New Wilmington; Margaret B. Doonan, Dunbar; George Huhn, Etna; A. A. Swingle, Peckville.

Baseball Players Exchanged.

Indianapolis, Jan. 7.—A deal has just been consummated here that is of interest in national baseball league circles and especially to Cincinnati. The deal is a trade whereby William Damman, the left handed pitcher of the Indianapolis club, goes to Cincinnati in exchange for Catcher Kehoe, Billy Gray, the Red's utility, man and Frank Foreman, pitcher.

Canada Seeking Immigrants.

London, Jan. 7.—Sir Donald A. Smith, Canadian high commissioner in London, has written a letter to the newspapers advising those who contemplate emigrating from Great Britain and Ireland to go to Canada. The high commissioner recites the advantages presented by Canada and offers to furnish all information desired upon application.

Morton's Washington Residence.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Ex-Gov. Levi P. Morton's handsome residence, on Scott circle in this city, which was occupied by him during his term of office as vice-president of the United States, has been leased to Charles R. Sprague, the millionaire congressman-elect from the Eleventh Massachusetts district.

Street Electric Railway Incorporated.

Albany, Jan. 7.—The Auburn & Western Railway company, capital, $300,900, has been incorporated by the secretary of state. The company will operate a street surface electic road eleven miles long from Auburn to the village of Senaca Falls.

Postoffice Fraud Orders.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The postoffice department has issued a fraud order against the Union Drug company of Boston, and has revoked one issued in October against the Advertisers' News company and C. H. Vultee, its secretary, New York city.

Civil Service Competitive Examination.

Albany, Jan. 7.—An open competitive civil service examination for the position of chief clerk of the state board of charities will be held at Albany February 3. The salary of the position will be from $1,200 to $1,500.

The Greater Utica Bill.

Albany, Jan. 7.—The bill introduced yesterday by Assemblyman Philo, providing for a greater Utica, contemplates the annexation to the city of a portion of the towns of Deerfield, Marcy, Whitestone and New Hartford.

Death of a Famous Military Man.

St. Louis, Jan. 7.—A special from the City of Mexico announces the death there of Maj.-Gen. Miguel Negrete, one of the most celebrated military men of Mexico.

NOT HIS QUARTER.

The Grocer Was by No Means as Slow as He Seemed.

The grocer was weighing some sugar for the woman in the dyed blue bonnet when the man in the black frock coat and yellowish white tie, who had been standing at the door for some minutes, came inside and laid a silver quarter on the counter.

"I picked it up on the floor, just at the edge of the steps," he said. "It must belong to you. A quarter or $1,000, sir, it is the principle of the thing that I look at. I want nothing that is not mine. There is the money."

The grocer laid a large forefinger on the quarter and shoved it back across the counter.

"You put dot money in your pocket, mein friend," he said.

"But, sir, you or one of your clerks must have dropped it, and it rolled over there. My motto has always been"—

"I believe," said the grocer, "dot you yoost moved your family in dot house agross the street dis morgen. Vas it not so?"

"Yes, sir, I did, and, it being convenient, we expect to do a good deal of tra"—

"You put dot quarter back in your pocket righd away. Dot vos not mein quarter. You put him back in your pocket, und ven your vife come ofer vor dose groceries you vill remember dot my derms vos spod cash efery time."—Detroit Free Press.

All Seasons For Its Own.

"Ice is an awfully ruinous thing," sighed Cholly. "In winter whole towns are bankrupted by ice gorges, and in the summer the young men are bankrupted by ice cream gorges."—Chicago Tribune.

The Christmas Fool.

The April fool has passed away,
And the dunce block stands no more in school,
But every year you may see astray
In shops and bazaars the Christmas fool.
His brow is vexed.
He looks perplexed.
If you listen, you hear him sigh:
"I wish I knew what my wife wants,
I wish I knew what father wants,
I wish I knew what mother wants,
Johnny,
Susy,
Grandfather,
Grandmother,
Norah, the maid, and William, the man.
I don't know what to buy!"

The Christmas fool forgets the needs
That clamored all year in the mouths of kin,
Forgets the crime of his former deeds
And sins his regular annual sin.
Displays and the daze
Of the Christmas craze
Constrain him like long felt ties,
And the very thing his wife doesn't want,
The thing his father doesn't want,
The thing his mother doesn't want,
Johnny,
Susy,
Grandfather,
Grandmother,
Norah, the maid, and William, the man,
Are the very things he buys!

On Christmas morning he sees too late
Anticipation becomes chagrin,
But they take their gifts and submit to fate
And lie to him sweetly—his house and kin.
Chastined by years
Or choked by tears,
They tell him as they ought:
It is just the thing his wife wants,
Just the thing that father wants,
Just the thing that mother wants,
And Johnny,
Susy,
Grandfather,
Grandmother,
Norah, the maid, and William, the man—
The misfit thiffs he bought!

Sales Talk

With Hood's Sarsaparilla, "Sales Talk," and show that this medicine has enjoyed public confidence and patronage to a greater extent than any other proprietary medicine. This is because it possesses greater medicinal merit and produces greater cures than any other. It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that Tells the Story.

All advertisements of Hood's Sarsaparilla, like Hood's Sarsaparilla itself, are honest. We have never deceived the public, and this with its superlative medicinal merit, is why the people have abiding confidence in it, and buy Hood's Sarsaparilla almost to the exclusion of all others.

Customers Want Hood's.

"We order Hood's Sarsaparilla in large quantities and it is the only blood purifier which a druggist can buy in large quantities without risk. It is selling very rapidly and customers who buy it once are sure to call for Hood's the next time. We believe Hood's Sarsaparilla must possess true merit in order to retain its popularity. Its sales exceed all similar preparations and its praises are often heard." L. SOMMER & SON, Springfield, Illinois.

Thousands of druggists say the same.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

the ghastly terror of consumption stares a man in the face who neglects a cold.

HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR

It's so simple to get rid of a cough or throat trouble by Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Acts like magic. Sold by druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

The Cough Which Lingers

because of a run-down condition of the system, and is not affected by ordinary cough medicines, will yield readily to because it gives strength to the weakened body and enables it to throw off disease.

Scott's Emulsion

50 cents and $1.00
At all druggists

Scott & Bowne, Chemists, New York.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
210 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset street. 6 13 tf

Honeyman's Private Tours.
To OLD POINT COMFORT, December 29th—5 days.
To FLORIDA, Jan. 21—16 days.
To CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 18—25 days
Office 181 NORTH AVENUE, Plainfield, N. J.

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.
Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield.
Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

Climatic Extremes

OF
NORTH and SOUTH
are blended ideally at
OLD POINT COMFORT
AND
RICHMOND, Va.,

Thus making these the most desirable places for winter outings.

They may be reached delightfully by the luxurious and modern steamships of the

Old Dominion Line

Sailing every week day from New York.

Send for full information.

Old Dominion S. S. Co.
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILLAUDEU, Vice-Pres't & Traffic Mgr
12 17-6 m

RING OUT THE OLD
RING IN THE NEW.
GET THINGS IN GOLD AND SILVER TOO
AT
J. Wiss & Sons,
755 Broad Street, Newark.

Notwithstanding the general depression, our sales have been remarkably big in Jewelry and Watches, Diamonds and Diamond Jewelry, Cut Glass, Silverware and Cutlery.

Nor have we any reason to complain of our sales in Leather Goods, Opera Glasses, Art Potteries and Novelties.

WE ATTRIBUTE OUR BIG SUCCESS

to the fact that we gave more value for money than could be procured elsewhere. We propose to continue on this line all year. Remember it when you want

Jewelry, always the newest design. Cut Glass, of the best and deepest cuttings. Silverware, Sterling and Best plate for the table or dresser. Table Cutlery, Our own make that cannot be beaten.

When Your Eyes and Eye Glasses require attention call at our Optical Office. L. B. Hilborn (R. O.) in charge. Here you are assured of satisfaction. Eyes carefully examined. Glasses nicely adjusted.

J. Wiss & Sons,
755 Broad Street, Newark.

Telephone, Brooklyn, 366.
COMINS & EVANS
Acorn Brand Asphalt Roofing.
Gravel and Metal Roofing, Tile and Brick Roofing, Water-Tight Cellars.
45 WAVERLY AVE., BROOKLYN, N. Y.
New York office, 102 Fulton st., room

Boots, Shoes & Rubbers.
AT FORCE'S,
119 West Front St.
Formerly 129 Park Ave. 39 tf

L. A. HUMMER'S
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

Rushton, Hansen & Luthman,
PAINTERS
AND PAPER HANGERS,
Office and shop Sycamore and 4th sts.
Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

Potter & Kellogg,
DEALERS IN
Lehigh Valley Coal.
Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard—At Mt. Pleasant, Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1-y

The Metropolitan Boarding Stables
C. V. D. CORLE. - - - - - - Proprietor
No. 138 East Second street. Livery and Boarding and Sale Stable. Horses boarded by the day, week, month or hour. Reasonable prices. 11 17 1y

HERMAN KELLER,
Manufacturer of and Retail Dealer in
Cigars, Tobacco, etc.
"PRIDE OF PLAINFIELD" CIGAR a specialty 116 North avenue. 9 26 tf

MRS. L. ADAMS,
MILLINERY.
Ready made gowns and dresses ordered from samples. All the latest novelties of the season.
114 EAST FRONT STREET.

H. Eggerding,
128 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.
Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.
Telephone Call 138r

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 100 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing,
Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS.
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Bad

BRAIN FOOD.

Edw. P. Thorn,
RETAIL DEALER IN
Fish, Oysters, and Clams.
Terms Cash. Goods Delivered

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country. Charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed. Orders may be left at Sattel's music store, 221 Park ave.

The Largest Selection of

Wall Papers

—AND—

Painter's Supplies

in Plainfield.

Woolston & Buckle,

141-145 North avenue.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital..... $200,000.
Surplus and Profits..... $90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier
E. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. RUNYON, Ass't "

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Coriell,
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil,
Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Bushmore,
J. W. Johnson, Wm. R. Codington.
F. S. Runyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

Christmas Wreaths Roping Holly, etc. Also, Palms,

Rubber Trees, Begonias, Ferns Floral Designs, House and Church Decorations. Southern Smilax at 15 days notice.

DENTON'S.

131 Hillside avenue.

A GOOD FIRE

will make cheerful many of the evenings of the New Year. We'll sell you the coal—good coal—and plenty of it. We don't sell you dirt for coal. We don't sell you short measure. We want your coal trade always.

D. C. IVINS & CO.

Coal, Lumber, &c. 301-311 Watchung Ave.

CLEANER COAL.

L. A. RHEAUME,
and
N. H. SAXTON.

Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,

Invite the public to inspect the operation of their newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which they confidently believe enables them to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.

Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.

Kindling Wood a Specialty.

Rushmore & Co.,

WATCHUNG AVENUE,
COR. FOURTH ST.

Lumber yard and Planing Mill.

Large and full assortment of lumber including 21 varities from Hemlock to Mahogany always in stock. Window frames, moulding, sash, doors and blinds. Hardwood floors a specialty. Turning and scroll sawing. We can make anything. Call and see us. Satisfaction guaranted.

"It is Making a Hit."

FEIGENSPAN'S Finest Pale Ale IN BOTTLES, and

FEIGENSPAN'S SAAZER BEER

At Hotel Grenada Bar.

The Plainfield Confectioners,

112 West Front street.

Candies from 10, 15 and 20 cents per lb. up. The very best goods. Made daily on the premises. Formerly known as the New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Comp'y. 9 9 1y

CITY HOTEL,

Plainfield, N. J.

Corner Park avenue and Second street.

Stables attached. T. E. Beerbower, Prop

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL.

No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m

Harry C. Adams, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

An Enormous Saving in Money

It is really a fact that every man, woman or child who deals with us saves money. We actually sell all qualities of honest, substantial clothing for men, boys and children at prices 40 to 50 per cent lower than any of our competitors. There's no nonsense about this statement; we mean it. We'll prove it to you any time. There's method in our madness and here's a trade secret we'll let you into; it pays us: Quick sales at small profits is our only trade secret. We buy for net spot cash and save 25 per cent in buying, which we give our customers. We ask at least 25 per cent less profit than any dealer in Plainfield. Our customers are our partners. We give them this lion's share of the profit. If you deal with us once you will always. Try it between now and Saturday night.

SPECIAL

300 all-wool Men's Kersey, Melton or Beaver Overcoats, satin lined throughout, worth $22.00, at $7.90; 150 men's all-wool overcoats, worth $14.00, at $5.90; 100 overcoats, worth $10.00, at $4.50; heavy all-wool suits, worth $12.00, at $4.50; and 1,000 other articles that we cannot mention for want of space.

New York Clothing Company,

214 WEST FRONT STREET.

M. WEINBERGER.

Near Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

Have You Bought Your

OVERCOAT?

If not, come to WERNER'S CLOTHING HOUSE and take advantage of the CUT SALE now going on.

STOCK MUST BE SOLD.

Hats and Furnishing Goods a Specialty.

H. WERNER, Clothier,

No. 206 West Front Street.

COLD WEATHER GOODS

AT

PUTNAM & DEGRAW'S

Underwear, Gloves, Hosiery, &c.

Agents for the "Golden Rule" CLOTHES RACK and IRONING TABLE, $1.00 each.

A. LUSARDI,

120 NORTH AVENUE.
Wholesale and Retail

Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds of Confectionery, Peanuts, Cigars, etc Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets

NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE

Sewer Connections.

DAVID BOWDEN,

General Contractor, 109 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J. Carriage drives macadamized, sewers and sewer connections promptly made, lawns carefully restored. All work done in a practical and skilful manner.

28 YEARS EXPERIENCE.

Best of references furnished. Charges moderate 4 3tf

C. W. LINES.

Mason and Builder

Plainfield, N. J.

Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly 10

PEARSON & GAYLE.

Carpenters and Builders.

Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.

All work promptly attended to.

GEO. O. STEVENS & CO.
COAL.
747 WEST FRONT ST.

Branch office with

J. P. LAIRE HARDWARE CO.,

West Front street.

30,000 CIGARS

of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of the city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue,
Plainfield.

8 15 tf

E. H. Holmes,

Dealer in

Coal & Wood.

Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

Telephone 49-A.

William Hand & Son.

STAGES

For Parties, etc., 518 Park ave.

Within the reach of all.

ACCIDENT TICKETS

THE INTER-STATE

Casualty Company of New York

gives SIX MONTHS' insurance

$1.000 for $1.00,

to men or women

between 18 and 60 years of age, against accidental death. $100,000 deposited with the Insurance Deparment of the State of New York for the security of the insured.

For sale at office of

Honeyman's Private Tours,

181 North Ave. Plainfield, N.J.

6 25-6 mos

McCullough's STEAM MILL,

21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.

R. H. McCullough, Prop.

Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

WM. D. THICKSTUN.

Real Estate and Insurance,

197 North Avenue

W. N. Pangborn,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER.

Residence, 33 Linden Ave.

Personal attention. Prompt service. 1 14 tf

Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

PIANOS

If you want a deep, clear, rich tone, and the best material, buy your PIANOS at W. R. BROKAW'S. Piano Parlors, 311 Madison ave. Bargains in second-hand instruments. Parlors always open. Tuning and regulating a specialty.

Your Valuables

will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

J. W. VanSickle,

FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.

Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Philadelphia Scrapple.

REVERE HOUSE

PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD New Jersey.

Families accomodated for the fall and winter months at greatly reduced prices.

The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity, Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed.

GEO. B. DE REVERE.

DRESS REFORM SURE.

THESE BROOKLYN SOCIETY WOMEN MEAN IT.

They Propose to Wear Gowns that Will Not Sweep the Streets Even if Their Feet are Exhibited as a Result—No Bustles or Superfluous Ornamentation.

Fifty-five young women of Brooklyn met recently and completed the organization of the Dress Culture Club, a woman's association pledged to combat the promised restoration of the bustle and pull-back gown in vogue a decade or so ago, and labor to bring about a reform in the fashion of the street gowns now worn by fashionable women in favor of gowns that shall not touch the ground at all.

All the women present wore lace or button shoes with low, flat heels and ample soles. Many wore high-topped bicycle shoes with the same style of low flat heel. After a lively discussion the members all agreed never again to wear a shoe with a high heel no matter whether fashion should favor it or not. It was voted that the high heel made walking disagreeable and often painful, and that it was liable to bring about deformity of the foot, and especially to destroy the artistic formation of the toes.

Mrs. Lumsdon, who is an artist of note and president of the club, directed attention to a clause in the pledge requiring the members to wear shortened dresses in public. The clause stipulates that the club walking dress for fair weather shall be three inches from the ground at the lowest point, and the gown worn in rainy or snowy weather shall be at least six inches from the walk at its lowest part. Mrs. Lumsdon made a speech in favor of the new style of garment.

Mrs. Lumsdon then exhibited a number of drawings made from fashion plates, showing the absurdities of the pull-back, the Grecian bend, and especially the garment that was fashionable in 1780. This was a dress very high in the front, reaching to a point between the calf and the ankle, but with a heavy and long sweeping train behind.

"We propose," added Mrs. Lumsdon, "to do away altogether with the 'street-sweeping' garment of the present day, which is as objectionable in its way as the gown of 1780, and substitute a gown that will be a happy mean between the two extremes, at once becoming and comfortable. Our justification for adopting the proposed reform dress is that anything that interferes with ease and comfort cannot be beautiful to the artistic eye, and is offensive to the artistic sense."

A member said that she feared that her feet were too large to permit her to wear the short rainy dress costume. President Lumsdon stooped down and measured the foot of the objecting member.

"Your foot is really two inches short," exclaimed the woman artist.

"You forget that the classic and proper length of the female foot is the distance between the wrist and the elbow."

There was a great deal of fun over the proposal to fine members found wearing street-sweeping dresses out of doors. Some of the members declared that their husbands might object to their going on Sundays in their shortened walking dresses. It was finally voted that the wearing of the new costume could be abandoned on Sundays whenever there was objection from the "head of the house."

It Cuts Diamonds.

It has always been supposed that all the substances that would prove of sufficient hardness to be used in carving diamonds, had been discovered, but a French scientist, M. Moissan, has found a new compound which is infinitely more hard than the diamond, than anything which has previously been heard of.

The new discovery is called boron carbide. It is jet black, and resembles zeophite to a considerable extent. It is not found anywhere, and nature does not make this combination unaided. It is brought about by heating boric acid and carbon in an electric furnace. Its cheapness has caused it to find favor already among the jewelers of Europe, and one of two specimens of the new compound have reached New York.

Exasperating.

She—Once you vowed that I was the sunshine of your life; Now, you stay out night after night.

He—Er—why—I don't expect sunshine after dark.—Indianapolis Journal.

The Fitness of Things.

"Do you know," said the man who was going to have a tooth pulled, "I don't think 'dental parlor' is a good phrase." "No?" "Drawing-room would be much better."

A REASONABLE REASON.

Deacon Griffin—Why was it dat did't see you at Sunday school yesterday, Joseph Jackson?

Joseph Jackson—I reckon 'twas because I wasn't dere, sah.—New York Herald.

DEMANDS IGNORED

Feeling in Congress Against Members of the Cabinet.

THE PRESIDENT IS ALSO BLAMED

No Attention Paid to Requests of Some Members for Information on Subjects Under Discussion, It Is Claimed.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The feeling is growing in the senate and house, and especially in the latter body, that there is a disposition on the part of certain administration officers to ignore requests from congress for information in certain matters, especially when such a request comes from any one who is not in accord with the president's views on the subject in question. This was illustrated yesterday when Mr. Grosvenor, rep., O., addressed the house on a question of personal privilege. He called attention to the fact that a resolution introduced by him and adopted by the house June 5, last, calling upon the heads of the several departments for certain information as to the operation of the civil service law had as yet received no response from any one of the cabinet officers. He felt justified, he said, in raising the question whether or not congress had been properly treated in this regard, expressing the opinion that this silence of seven months showed that the heads of the several departments as well as the executive himself had begun to ignore the demands of congress. A resolution asking each cabinet officer to inform the house why no response had been made to the original resolution was agreed to without division.

Loud Postal Bill.

The principal features of the Loud postal bill which passed the house last evening by a vote of 144 to 105 after two days' debate are those denying to the mails as second-class matter sample copies of newspapers and serial novel publications and withdrawing from news agents the privilege of returning to their principals at the pound rate unsold copies of periodicals. The general debate was closed by Mr. Loud in a half hour's speech in favor of the bill, preceding which Messrs. Milliken, rep., Me.; Wanger, rep., Pa.; Tracey, rep., Mo.; Morse, rep., Mass., and Bingham, rep., Pa., addressed the house in opposition to the bill. The two hours devoted to a consideration of the bill under the five minute rule was productive of no change in the text, as referred to the committee of the whole.

No Interest in Senate Work.

The senate to-day is without any fixed programme and the proceedings are devoid of interest. The friends of Mrs. Maybrick, now confined in an English prison under life sentence, need look for no assistance from the senate, as it was plain to be seen yesterday, when the joint resolution requesting the government of Great Britain to pardon the unfortunate woman was taken from the calendar, that there was no intention to take any action, and the resolution was indefinitely postponed. The resolution was reported adversely last session. Mr. Call's resolution instructing the president to demand the immediate release of Sanguilly, referred to the foreign affairs committee, will probably be allowed to rest there during the remainder of the session. In a long speech on the subject of the resolution the case of Charles Govin was discussed quite as much as that of Sanguilly. The statements of the Spanish officials that Govin's death resulted from wounds received in battle were discredited, and the assertion was repeated, on the authority of a person whom Mr. Call did not name, but who, he said, was to be a member of the next congress, that Govin had been tied to a tree and cut in pieces with machetes by a squad of cavalry riding past. The two cases, Mr. Call said, were types of what was occurring to hundreds of American citizens in Cuba, and it only needed investigation by the senate to "take the cover off that scene of butchery." As to a combination of European powers against the United States, Mr. Call declared that there was no danger of such a thing, in view of the effect which it would have on the masses of the people in European countries, and that the sympathies of mankind would be with the American republic in such a struggle.

Boyer Died from Nervous Prostration.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 7.—Edward S. Boyer, aged 38, who had charge of the coat department in a general store here, and who was accused by Miss Clara Gable several weeks ago of presening her with a stolen sealskin cape, is dead. Boyer denied the charge and the girl was arrested on the charge of stealing it. She was tried and acquitted. The next day Boyer's mind gave way and he expired last evening from nervous prostration.

Oregon Ordered to Sea.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The battleship Oregon, Captain Howison commanding, has been ordered to sea from San Francisco on the 13th inst. for drill and target practice, and after a cruise of ten days will probably arrive at San Diego.

Work for 1,500 Men.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 7.—The South steel mill of the Lackawanna Iron & Steel company was put in operation today after an idleness of four months. Fifteen hundred employes get work by the resumption.

Bequests to Charity.

Bangor, Me., Jan. 7.—The will of Augustus D. Manson gives the Bangor Public library $10,000 for a building and the Children's Home and Home for Aged Women $5,000 each.

TRADE MARK

This Girl is an acquaintance in thousands of American homes where she is known as "The None Such Mince Meat Girl." Her smile is reflected in every home she enters for she brings delicious mince pie to all, and at the same time saves the housewife from the drudgery that old time mince pie making required.

Sold everywhere. Take no substitute. Send your address, naming this paper, and we will send you free a book, "Mrs. Peakins' Thanksgiving," by one of the most popular humorous writers of the day.

MERRELL-SOULE CO., Syracuse, N. Y., Mfrs. of

NONE SUCH

MINCE MEAT.

ALBANY CENTENNIAL.

The Celebration Brought to a Close Last Night with a Grand State Ball.

Albany, Jan. 7.—The celebration of the 100th anniversary of the establishment of the state capitol at Albany was brought to a close last night with a brilliant state ball at the armory, at which Gov. Black and staff, Lieut.-Gov. Woodruff and other state officers, senators and assemblymen, members of the city government and many other prominent citizens, together with their wives and families participated. The anniversary exercises were in charge of a state commission appointed by the governor and a committee of 100 of Albany's leading citizens. The day parade and attendant exercises of the centennary celebration began in the afternoon. Gov. Black, Mayor Thacher and the citizens' committee met in the executive chamber and proceeded to the State street entrance of the capitol, where they were met by a military escort. Carriages had been provided for the members of the legislature and other distinguished guests, and led by the governor the route to Harmanus Bleecker hall was taken up. The exercises at the hall were most impressive in character. Gov. Black acted as presiding officer. Letters of regret were read from Gov. Morton, who had been named to deliver the opening address, and also from President Cleveland and President-elect McKinley. Ex-Lieut.-Gov. Alvord of Syracuse delivered the opening address. The historical address of the day was made by Chauncey M. Depew. His remarks were well received by an appreciative audience of over 5,000 people who crowded the hall. W. H. McElroy read a commemorative poem. The Rt. Rev. William Crosswell Deane, Episcopal bishop of Albany, brought the exercises to a close with the benediction.

CONNECTICUT LAW MAKERS.

Both Branches of the Legislature Convene and Gov. Cooke Is Inaugurated.

Hartford, Jan. 7.—Both houses of the general assembly of 1897 convened here yesterday in a heavy snow storm. The house was called to order by Representative Samuel Frishie of Farmington, the oldest member, in the absence of Speaker Fessenden of Stamford of the house of 1895. The oath was administered to 236 of the 252 members. Joseph L. Barbour of Hartford was elected speaker, receiving 208 votes, to 28 for C. G. Beckwith of New London. Other officers of the house were elected as follows: Clerk, F. A. Scott, Plymouth; assistant clerk, F. F. Healy, Windsor Locks; chaplain, Rev. W. A. Richard, Hartford. After fixing February 4 as the last date for receiving business, the house took a recess. The senate was convened by State Secretary Mowry, all the members being present. Officers were elected as follows: President pro tempore, senator W. H. Marigold of Bridgeport; clerk, Samuel Eddy of North Canaan, (who received 17 votes to 7 for George A. Kellogg of Vernon); chaplain, Rev. H. H. Thompson of Hartford, and a corps of messengers and doorkeepers. The senate then took a recess. The house decided to meet again on Tuesday, Jan. 12, at noon, and the senate at 12:30. At 2 o'clock the senate convened, and Lieut.-Gov. Dewell took his seat as presiding officer. Soon after both houses met in joint convention, where Lieut.-Gov. Dewell presided. Gov. Cooke and staff and the new state officers entered the chamber. The governor read his inaugural address and the joint convension dissolved. The senate and house re-assembled and, after appointing the usual committees as decided upon in caucus, adjourned.

Gov. Cooke's Inauguration.

Hartford, Jan. 7.—Lorrin A. Cooke of Winsted, the last elected of a long list of governors of Connecticut, elected by the largest majority ever polled by a candidate for the office, was inaugurated yesterday. Four companies of Governor's guards, the two companies of horse and foot from New Haven and the two companies of horse and foot from Hartford received him at the Allyn house and escorted him, the new staff officers and the new state officers to the capitol through the principal streets. Gov. Cooke rode in an open carriage drawn by four horses and accompanied by Gov. Coffin. During the parade a salute of seventeen guns was fired on Bushnell park. The four companies were drawn up in line on the north front of the capitol and the governor and his escort left the carriages and entered the capitol between two rows of interested specators.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m. 108 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 7, 1897.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

(Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Fair Tonight; Friday Probably Fair, But With Increasing Cloudiness; Slight Changes In Temperature.

At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 58 Degrees.

BONDS FOR COUNTY ROADS.

The benefit of good roads has long been recognized in Union county, one of the pioneer counties in New Jersey to spend large sums of money in these improvemets, and now there is a plan on foot to bond Middlesex county for this same purpose. The law allows a county to bond itself for three per cent. of its assessd value. Middlesex's valuation is $23,728,889, and the present debt is about $180,000, and it is said that $400,000 would be enough to macadamize all the main arteries of travel in the county, and that the increase in property values would quickly provide for the interest on the bonds. The Freeholders adopted a resolution directing the finance committee to consider the bonding plan and report at the next meeting of the Board.

DISTRIBUTION OF SEEDS CONDEMNED.

By a two-thirds vote the State Board of Horticulture adopted a resolution yesterday condemning the free distribution of seeds by the Government, and directing that copies of the resolution be sent to New Jersey's Congressmen. Several members defended the free distribution, and cited benefits that had followed. Others thought that the system was of greater benefit to western than to eastern farmers, as they had not the facilities for procuring seeds that eastern farmers had.

VAGARIES OF POLITICAL LIFE.

Six years ago David B. Hill was the idol of the Democratic party of New York when the honor of naming a United States Senator laid in the power of the then Democratic legislature, and Hill was named for the place with great enthusiasm. Now it seems that he is to be deprived of event the empty honor of a complimentary nomination of the Democratic minority, because he remained silent during the last Presidential campaign. The vagaries of political life are here evidenced.

CHEAP MEN ARE DEAR.

Commenting on Mayor Fisk's allusion in his message to fixing the salaries of city officials, the New York Tribune says:

Cheap men are usually dear in the end, but there is no good reason why a municipality should pay double the compensation that similar labor brings from private employers, as is often the case.

REINHART GOES CLEAR.

Failure of the Government in the Santa Fe Rebate Case.

A nolle prosequi was entered yesterday at Chicago in the case of Joseph W. Reinhart, ex-President of the Santa Fe Railroad Company, who resides on Belvidere avenue in this city, charged with giving rebates on freight rates. Judge Grosscup ordered him discharged from the case at once. The Government failed to prove that Mr. Reinhart knew anything of the alleged transactions. In the case of Hanley, the ex-General Traffic Manager, the District Attorney, Gen. Black, admitted that evidence necessary to complete the proof could not be introduced because the witnesses were absent, and he suspected they would only come "by slow freight."

When the nolle prosequi was entered by General Black, Senator Duncan, attorney for Reinhart, indignantly protested against the action of Senator Shields, special attorney for the Inter-State Commerce Commission, in having his client held over since last spring without a scintilla of evidence, to which Mr. Shields retorted that the failure to convict was no fault of his, and there were reasons which he did not wish to assert now.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

—It was John W. MacMurray, and not James T., that presented the old New York papers to The Press.

Mrs. Mary Sheats, of New York city, is visiting the family of Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott at Fourth street and Park avenue.

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East.

Mrs. C. E. Rider, of New York, has been visiting friends in this city.

Andrew Cox, of Liberty street, who is seriously ill, is reported as slightly improved.

Howard Martin, of Sandford avenue, left today for the Catskills to spend several weeks.

Mrs. E. E. Marshall, of Fairview avenue, entertained friends from New Brunswick yesterday.

Percy Sandford and Gifford Cooley, of Washington Park, are enjoying a western pleasure trip.

Miss Laura Streeter, of Somerville, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. George Reighton, of Park avenue.

John T. Case, of Somerset street has returned home after a visit with friends in Easton and vicinity.

Miss Fannie Rafferty, of Park avenue, gave a whist party to a number of her friends last evening at her home.

George M. Macintyre, of the F. L.C. Martin Cycle Company, has taken up his residence at 319 West Second street.

Adjutant Emily March, from New York city, will conduct a great anniversary meeting at the Salvation Army tonight.

R. D. Schoonmaker, of West Eighth street, returned yesterday to Princeton University after spending the holidays in this city.

Henry V. Rider, of East Front street, has returned to his studies at Yale after spending the holidays in this city.

Louis Chase, of East Front street, has gone back to his studies at Yale University after enjoying the holidays in this city.

Miss Lizzie VanDorn, of Bound Brook, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott, at Park avenue and Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Cornwell, of Dennison, Conn., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. F. W. Yates, of Kensington avenue.

Thomas D. Blair, of East Second street, has returned to his studies at Princeton College after enjoying his vacation at home.

Miss Gertrude Rushmore, of West Seventh street, will not return to Wellesly College at present on account of her mother.

Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Hedges, of Watchung avenue and Seventh street, left town yesterday for a few days' visit at Warnersville, Pa.

Miss Katherine Ball, of Myrtle avenue, returned to Wellesly College yesterday afternoon after spending the holidays in this city.

The engagement of Miss Sarah Long, second daughter of General Eli Long, and George C. Worth, of Grove street, is announced.

Captain Benjamin Doane, of LaGrande avenue, has returned after spending several weeks with his sons in New York and Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bowman and John Bowman, of Brook avenue, sail for Scotland on Saturday for a several months trip in that country.

Miss Annie Miller, of LaGrande avenue, has returned to her studies at Wellesly College after spending the Christmas vacation in the city.

Bronson Smith, of West Eighth street, has returned from Brooklyn where she spent the holidays with relatives at the Hotel St. George.

The friends of Miss Fredrieka Hafner, of East Third street, are pleased to learn that she has returned to Stephenson's on North avenue.

Miss Ethel Simmons, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit with her friend, Miss Edith DuBois, of Park avenue, with whom she spent the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lunger, of Westervelt avenue, commenced the new year by the bestowment of their love on a little daughter born to them December 29th.

Miss Agnes Langhorne, of Putnam avenue, has spent her Christmas vacation in this city and returned to her college yesterday afternoon after a three weeks vacation.

Miss Mabelle Phillips, of Madison avenue, and her college friend, Miss Hilda Meisenbach, who has been spending the holidays with her, returned to Wellesly College yesterday afternoon by the Fall River Line.

Give It a Trial.

On receipt of ten cents, cash or stamps, a generous sample will be mailed of the most popular Catarrh and Hay Fever Cure (Ely's Cream Balm) sufficient to demonstrate its great merit. Full size 50c.

ELY BROTHERS,
56 Warren St., New York City.

My son was afflicted with catarrh. I induced him to try Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrhal smell all left him. He appears as well as anyone.—J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

THE FIVE-THIRTY MAIL

[CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.]

Some of the good people of this city have been quite shocked at the stories told of that wonderful "five-thirty mail" and some of the young people shun the spot at that time as if the breeding ground of some deadly microbe, but those who believe in that old custom continue to appear at the regular time. Last night 'twas the same as usual, only the wind kept some of the familiar faces away and tonight it will probably be the same.

PASSING COMMENT.

In case the City Council decides to purchase three more horses for the fire department as recommended by Chief Doane, it is not at all likely that the three horses now hired by the city will be chosen, as they are not just the style of animals wanted.

* * * *

It is not often that a department edited by a woman proves of interest to the opposite sex, but the "Feminine News and Views" column of the New York Evening Sun is so out of the ordinary in the usual class of matter in newspapers eminating from the fair sex, that we feel impelled to credit it as being about the cleverest column of incident and comment in any of the metropolitan papers.

* * * *

There has been a great deal of talk lately regarding a site for the proposed new City Hall. Some people say that the Hand property on Watchung avenue will be purchased, while others say that the MacDonald property corner of Watchung avenue and Front street will be the place. A new site has now come to light and it is rumored that one of the councilmen is very anxious to have the new building erected in the Third ward, and possibly where the city park is now located.

* * * *

The saloon keepers about town were given a great surprise a few nights ago, when Councilman Barrows, accompanied by Chief Grant, called on them. The hustling councilman introduced himself and stated that he had called to see what kind of places were being kept. The two officials were extended due courtesy and it is said that they found no reasons to find fault. In view of the fact that Mr. Barrows was placed on the license committee of the council, he probably had an object in view in making himself acquainted with the character of each saloon.

* * * *

No more liberal offer has ever been made by a merchant of this city than is that of Lederer in his advertisement in today's Press. In closing out his stock of dry goods Mr. Lederer finds that he has a larger assortment of cloaks than he will be able to dispose of to customers and in a most philanthrophic spirit he has decided to present these garments free to those of the deserving poor who present an order signed by an officer of any local charity organization on Monday, January 11th, between 3 and 5 o'clock. This act will be a God-send to many a pinched and cold body, and Mr Lederer cannot be commended too highly for his charitableness in this direction.

* * * *

Now that roller skating is grandually finding favor among the people of Plainfield, to some extent at least, the young men are preparing for polo on roller skates. A number of the young men, who distiuguished themselves on the football team last fall, have been granted the use of the Jersey Cycle Academy for several mornings in the week for practice. Although there were sundry tumbles at first, the boys have become quite experts at the game already and a game between two picked teams from this city will be played next Wednesday night in the Academy. The two teams that will play next week will be composed of the following: Thomas U. Smith, Albert P. Simmonds, Charles Dupee, Edgar I. Serrell, Albert Waltmann, Volney F. Green, Louis Darling, William L McClure, Charles H. Anglemman and Henry Vosseler.

A JEWEL.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear."
And many a gem by mortals here unseen
Are waiting to be worn by some sweet fair.
In our well-stocked cases now are laid
Jewels that shine with scintilating fire;
In the latest fads and fashions made
That the connoisseur in jewelry must admire.
Design and workmanship are of the best,
So lovely woman do not hide
Those charms that Nature's sweet behest
Endows you with, but with woman's pride
Enhance your beauty as you see best.

COLLIER,
103 Park Ave. Established 1869.

THE BEE HIVE.

Men's Unlaundered Shirts

Lot 1—The "Cast Iron Shirt," made of good heavy muslin, good 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—38c.

Lot 2—New York Mills muslin, 3-ply fine linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—48c.

Lot 3—Our New York Mills shirt, made of New York Mills muslin, 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, continuous facing and hand-made buttonholes, equal to the best custom-made shirt—69c.

Boys' unlaundered shirts, 38c.

Men's laundered shirts 50c., 75c. and $1.00

LOUIS CALLMAN
222 West Front Street.

BOROUGH NOTICE

The ordinance requires occupants of property to remove snow and ice from sidewalks within five hours after it accumulates. Notice is hereby given that the penalty for violation of this ordinance will hereafter be strictly enforced.

B. A. HEGEMAN, JR.,
1 6 12 Mayor.

COURSE OF LECTURES
BY
Prof. John Fiske,
of Cambridge, Mass.
Y. M. C. A. HALL,
Thursdays, Jan. 14th and 21st,
Friday, Jan. 29th, at 8 p. m.

SUBJECTS:—
Jan. 14th—The Mystery of Evil, Viewed in the Light of the Doctrine of Evolution.
Jan. 21st—The Cosmic Roots of Love and Self-Sacrifice. (The Phi Beta Kappa Oration, delivered at Harvard University in June, 1895. It's theme was suggested by Huxley's remark—in his Romanes lecture at Oxford June, 1893—that "the cosmic process has no sort of relation to moral ends" Mr Fiske maintains the exact contrary, viz—that "cosmic process exists purely for the sake of moral ends.)
Jan. 29th—The Everlasting Reality of Religion.
Tickets for the course—$1.00 each—may be obtained at Armstrong's pharmacy—or from any member of the Club of Current Events.
No reserved seats and tickets will be sold beyond the seating capacity of the hall.

P. H. ZIMMER,
Practical Machinist and Engineer,
Steam, Gas and Electric Contracting. Complete Power Plants Installed. Experimental work. General Jobbing. All kinds of repairing. EXCHANGE ALLEY, in rear of Trinity church. Bicycles built to order.
12

PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Librarian's Report for December, 1896.

Vols. on accession-book Nov. 30th, 1896	14,311
" added by purchase	11
" " binding	16
" " gift	8
Vols now in library	14,346
Vols. now in Babcock Scientific Lib'y	71
Number of card-holders	4,335
Non-resident subscriptions	$1.00

HOME CIRCULATION.

Fiction	1,386
Juvenile	531
Biography, correspondence, etc	151
Travel, description, geography, etc	175
Philosophy	10
Religion, mythology etc	31
Sociology	58
Philology	1
Natural Science	46
Useful Arts	37
Fine Arts	46
Literature	238
History	204
General books, periodicals, etc	23
Total	2,937
Total for Dec. 1895	2,250
Increase	687
Number of visitors	3,452

Gifts, Nov., Bryant's Picturesque America, 2 v., unbound, presented by W. D. W. Miller and Isaac L. Miller. Dec. 15th, U. S. Census Bureau, Report on Farms and Homes.

EMMA L. ADAMS,
Librarian.

—Gavett is fitting up Schwed Bros. with the Welsbach lights. Many stores are saving from $6 to $10 per month by using this great gas saver.

ALL RADIATE from THE CENTRAL STORE
PECK'S.

EVERY THING
For the Fire-place.
MANTELS, TILES, GRATES.
SPARK GUARDS, $1.25 and up.
Curtis M. Thorpe, 310-312 Park Avenue.

--JAQUETT'S--
CLOTHING Of the Latest Style for Men, Boys' and Children. Suits and Overcoats.
SUITS and OVERCOATS. School Suits, from 75c. up.
NOVELTIES FOR CHILDREN. Full lines in Top Coats, Reefers and Separate Pants.
MEN'S FURNISHINGS. All of the latest Novelties in Ties, Collars, Shirts, Suspenders.
HOSIERY, GLOVES, UNDERWEAR.
HATS of the Latest Styles at Moderate Prices.
One Price—Cash. Money refunded if goods are not as represented.
129 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LAST DAYS OF FIRE SALE!
Everything to be closed out by January 15th. The balance of stock of Dry Goods to be sold for a mere nothing. On MONDAY, JANUARY 11th,
from 3 to 5 P. M., we will GIVE about 150 CLOAKS to the DESERVING POOR of this city. Each applicant must have papers properly signed by some officer of any local charity organization.
LEDERER'S,
115 WEST FRONT STREET.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!
GEORGE E. ROGERS.....Lessee. | GEORGE H. WILLEY.....Manager
COMING ONE WEEK.
JANUARY 11th,
Engagement of the
COMEDIENNE,
Maude Hillman,
under the management of Winthrop G. Snelling.
A carload of Magnificent Scenery. Properties, &c. Elegant Costumes. Songs and dances.
MATINEES Wednesday and Saturday.
Prices 10, 20 and 30 cents. Seats now on sale at Box Office.

Desks, Tables,
Easy Chairs, Rockers, etc.
Fine China,
Elegant Lamps,
Fancy Pottery.
G. Q. PACKER. J. W. GAVETT.

NEW YEAR'S CARDS
AND DIARIES
AT
R. C. RAND'S,
140 West Front street.

E. D. BARRETT,
No. 148 East 5th St.
Sole Agent for the
Richmond Heaters.
STEAM and HOT WATER.
SANITARY PLUMBING

BOROUGH NOTICE.

Public notice is hereby given that application in writing signed by John Herrmann, being a person who owns all of the land fronting on the Street proposed to be vacated, has been presented to the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield asking for the vacation of the unopened portion of Regent street lying easterly of Whitewood avenue, and that it is the intention of said Mayor and Council to cause the same to be vacated.

Such persons, if any there be, as object thereto are required to present their objections in writing to the subscriber on or before the eighteenth day of January, eighteen hundred and ninety seven, at 8 o'clock p. m. on said day. Dated January 4, 1897.

JAMES K. ARNOLD,
1 5-7-9-12-14-16 Borough Clerk.

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership lately subsisting between A. T. Ulrich of the City of Plainfield, Union county, New Jersey, and J. A. Blatz of the Borough of North Plainfield, Somerset county, New Jersey, under the firm name of Ulrich & Blatz was dissolved on the first day of January 1897 by mutual consent.

All debts owing to the said partnership are to be received by said J. A. Blatz and all demands on the said partnership are to be presented to him for payment.

Dated January 1st, 1897.

A. T. ULRICH,
J. A. BLATZ.
1 6 4

ALEX. LUSARDI.
211 West Front Street.
Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores.

NEWMAN'S STAGE LINE TIME TABLE
Between Plainfield and Scotch Plains.

Leave Plainfield.....{7.00; 9.30; 12.45 a. m. 4.00; 6.00; 9.00 p. m. Sunday—9.00; 12.30 a. m., 3.00, 6.00 p. m.

Leave Scotch Plains.{6.20; 8.15; 10.30 a. m. 2.00; 5.00; 7.00; 9.30 p. m. Sunday—9.45 a. m., 2.00; 4.00, 7.00 p. m.

DEPOT—FRONT STREET AND PARK AVE.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Miss Mabel Walker has returned from a very pleasant sojourn with friends at Westfield.

Miss Ida Housal, of Milford, N. J., is the guest of Miss Hannah Randolph, of Green Brook.

Freeholder Gise and Charles Boice were in New Brunswick, yesterday, attending to some court and other important business.

Union communion services will be held in the M. E. church here, on Sunday. Rev. Messrs. Custard and Martine will conduct the service.

The blowing of the new fire gong, last evening, caused many people to abruptly leave the church wherein was being held the union week of prayer services.

Mrs. F. A. Nelson returned home from Brooklyn, yesterday, after a four days absence. Alfred Purser, her nephew, accompanied her home and may remain for the winter.

The skating is again fair on the New Market pond and many young people are availing themselves of the opportunity to skate on the ice, which is about seven inches thick.

Station Agent Charles English's close attention to business has won him an enviable reputation in railroad and social circles. And in each capacity he is perfectly "at home."

William Gulick is afflicted with a sore eye, so that he has to have the eye bandaged. Some years ago Mr. Gulick injured the ball of the eye and ever since then a cold gives him considerable trouble.

The women folks, some how or other, seem afraid to patronize the Emerydale station waiting room. Last night two or three of them stood around in the cold waiting for the car that didn't come—for over half an hour.

Fire Department Chief A. S. Giles, who has been erecting the new fire-gong, completed his labors last night and it is understood that at the next meeting of the Borough Commissioners the new alarm will be formally accepted.

At a regular meeting of the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders, held at New Brunswick, yesterday. H. S. Garretson, of New Market, was appointed supervisor of the county roads for Middlesex county for the ensuing year.

The Dunellen fire alarm was "tooted" from the round house, its present location, a few minutes after eight o'clock, last evening. The firemen were notified before hand of the proposed test, so no excitement followed the alarm and the department apparatus was not run out.

William G. Holton Council, No. 55, Jr. O. U. A. M., met Tuesday evening and installed the following officers, the installation exercises taking place in Lincoln School Hall: Councillor, William Shively; vice-councillor, Harry Vail; conductor, Frank Humstead; Warden, Mr. Reed; inside sentinel, Harry Dodwell; outside sentinel, Eugene Leach; trustee, Mr. Reed.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

S. M. Schoolcraft, a brother of Mrs. James A Baker, from Gallupville, Schoharie county, New York State, will remain in town with Mrs. Baker, until Monday night. A. F. Farguher, of the same county, who was present at the funeral obsequies, yesterday, returned home last evening.

The last sad rites following the death of the late James A. Baker, who died on Sunday, took place from the M. E. church here, yesterday afternoon, in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowful relatives and friends. At the house a prayer was offered by Rev. George Angleman and at the church the same divine conducted the service, assisted by Rev. Dr. Parks, formerly pastor of the Baptist church and a favored friend of the decedent. Members of Goodwill Lodge, K. of P., the Royal Arcanum and the Scotch Plains Fire Department, with all of which Mr. Baker had been prominently identified, turned out to pay their respects to the departed dead, and as the casket was borne to its final resting place in the Baptist cemetery, many were visably affected, and it was remarked by a near friend that as he had lived so he died—a kind and loving husband, generous to a fault and always looking to the interests of his fellow men. The floral offerings included one of white roses from the members of the Epworth League, a beautiful token of callas and roses from the Royal Arcanum and a wreath from members of the family. At the grave, Rev. Mr. Angleman consigned the body to its final resting place, and Rev. Dr. Parks pronounced the benediction.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Miss May Bunting, of Stelton, has returned home after a visit with Mrs. Thomas Brantingham.

Miss Carrie Randolph, of Elizabeth, has returned home after a visit at the home of Thomas Brantingham.

THEATRICAL.

A grand performance of a "A ring of Iron" was given by the Maude Hillman Company last evening in Music Hall. That the performance was enjoyable goes without saying, because the Maude Hillton Company presented it, and it was on a par with their other performances. There was no dull moment for the intelligent auditor and when the final curtain went down it called forth a round of applause and all went away satisfied that they had seen an elegant play presented in a refined manner. Miss Maude Hillman, although a very versatile lady, is best in emotional work, and last night showed what she has in her in that line.—Portsmouth Post. The company will be at Music Hall all next week. Seats now on sale.

GAZELLE MEMBERS MEET.

After Transacting Business They Listen to Past Experiences.

There was an unusual amount of interest displayed at the meeting of Gazelle Engine Company, last evening, which was held in the company's parlors on West Second street. The attendance was larger than has been seen for some time. There was little business of importance to come before the meeting besides the regular routine matters, after which the members were entertained by Plainfield's oldest active fireman, Edward P. Thorn. He has been in the company for over fifty years and was one of the charter members of the organization. He entertained the rest by telling some of his experiences when a young man in the company. Many of his anecdotes were very exciting and he told them in an interesting manner. The members were greatly delighted with that way of being entertained.

Borough Realty Changes.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded recently in the Somerset county clerk's office from North Plainfield:

Fred W. Bird et ux to Aaron D. Thompson, North Plainfield, $1.

Andrew Lutkins et ux to Aaron D. Thompson, North Plainfield, $300.

James W. Tappin to Abraham L. and Susan W. Cadmus and Alvin E. Hoagland, North Plainfield, $1.

Elias Allen et ux to Aaron Allen, North Plainfield, $1.

Aaron Allen et ux to Elias Allen, North Plainfield, $1.

Annie E. Williams and husband to Mary C. Talmage, North Plainfield, $6,000.

William Brice et ux to Edgar C. Schenck, North Plainfield, $900.

Abraham L Cadmus to John C. Tappin et al, North Plainfield, $1.

Fred W. Hargraves et ux to George W. Taylor, North Plainfield, $2,300.

Sciatic Rheumatism Cured.

L. Wagner, wholesale druggist, Richmond Va., says; "I had a fearful attack of Sciatic Rheumatism, was laid up almost two months; was fortunate enough to get Mystic Cure for Rheumatism. This cured me after doctor's prescriptions had failed to have any effect. I have also heard of fine results from others who have used it." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Queen City Lodge to Install Officers.

The recently elected officers of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O.O. F., will be installed at the meeting of the lodge on Monday evening. District Deputy Stamets, of Westfield Lodge, No. 169, will be present and install the officers, assisted by his staff.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chillblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For Sale By L. W. Randolph.

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

ALL OVER THE TOWN

NEWS IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS THAT INTEREST ALL PLAINFIELDERS.

Gathered by Enterprising Press Reporters From Both Sides of the Brook and Tersely Served for Your Perusal.

—The Rathbone Sisters will hold a reception in Skandia hall this evening.

—An excellent entertainment will be given this evening at the Reform Club.

—The contract case of Tubbs against Martin was settled in Justice Nash's court yesterday.

—A number of children were skating on Ohl's pond yesterday and the ice held them without accident.

—A meeting of the Plainfield Engine Co., No. 2, will be held this evening in the parlors at headquarters.

—If you trust luck you may lose, but if you trust to Peck's taste and experience you will always have cause to be pleased.

—A stepping stone on West Front street near Central avenue is allowed to remain in a dangerous position for pedestrians.

—For the rest of the week the Congregational church will join with the First Baptist and Methodist in the Union meetings in Vincent chapel.

—A meeting of the Planfield Branch of the Christian Alliance will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms, on Watchung avenue, this evening at 7.45 o'clock.

—The auditing commitee of Perseverance Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will hold a special meeting this evening to settle the accounts of the lodge for the year.

—Minerva Temple, No. 4, Rathbone Sisters, will give an invitation ball at Skandia hall on East Front street on Thursday evening. The grand march will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

—The regular meeting of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will be held tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock, in one of the Bible class rooms.

—It is an increase of $20, and not $100 as has been stated, that J. B. Coward asks the city to pay in the rental of the collector's office for having equipped it with a fire proof vault.

—Lederer must have his stock of goods cleared out of the way by the fifteenth of this month in order to make repairs to his store, and in order to do this he will sell goods for a mere nothing.

—The house directly back of Manning's Marble Works, which is occupied by Mr. Leland and family, is being moved back to the rear of the lot, thereby giving more frontage which is needed.

—A portion of the ceiling in the kitchen at the residence of Rev. M. E. Dwight, of Rockview avenue, fell Tuesday afternoon, damaging the stove. Fortunately there was no one in the room at the time.

—A meeting of Senate Lodge, No. 3542, Knights of Honor, will be held this evening in the lodge rooms. There will be important business to come before the meeting, and the business session will be followed by progressive dominoes and euchre.

—The Union Week of Prayer services will be continued this evening in the First M. E. church. Tomorrow evening the service will be held in the First Baptist church. All are invited to attend the meetings which, heretofore, have been well attended.

—The ice house near the Wilson pond in the valley near Washington ville has been completed with the exception of the roof which will not be put on until the house has been filled with ice. The ice house is a large one, nearly three times as large as the one which was originally there, but was pulled down so that this one might be erected.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. Gleason, Notary Public. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. Cheney, & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

"THE FINEST THING"
We think, for chapped or rough skin, is
OUR LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE.
Try it. Sprinkler-top bottles, 25c.
Park and North avenues
Successor H. P. REYNOLDS.
T. S. ARMSTRONG,
"THE APOTHECARY."

Diocesan Union To Meet.

A meeting of the Diocesan Union will be held in Newark tomorrow evening to arrange the schedule for the bowling tournament of the Union. Plainfield will be represented by two delegates.

BAKERY,
No. 132 Park Avenue.
Fine Bread, Cake, Pastry and Pies of all kinds. All orders promptly attended. A share of the public patronage is respectfully solicited.
S. H. Schleif,
Proprietor.
1 7 1y

P. MARKEY,
Bakery,
144 PARK AVENUE.
A full assortment of bread, cakes, and pies fresh every day. Fig and malt bread a specialty. 2 17 tf

Randolph Runyon,
Funeral Director,
Residence, Over Office. Office 43 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J.

H. DeMott,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J
Calls promptly attended to day or night. White and black hearses. Coaches latest style.

DIED.

COOK—At Scotch Plains, January 4th, 1897, Mrs Margaret Cook, in her 85th year. Funeral private from her late residence, Scotch Plains, Friday afternoon, January 8th, 1897, at 2:30 p. m. 1 6 2

STREULI—At Rhinefelden, Switzerland, January 6th, Herrmann Alfred Streuli, in the 55th year of his age. 1 7 3

WANTS AND OFFERS.

MAN wants situation as waiter or coachman. Call 334 East Third street.

WANTED—A girl for general housework. Apply 9 Grove St.

WANTED—Situation by a young girl to assist with general housework. Call at 462 West Second street.

A YOUNG man wants a position as assistant bookeeper; best city references. Address Assistant, care Press. 1 7 3

LOST—On Monday, between Kensington avenue and the Casino, a pocketbook containing sum of money. Reward to finder at Daily Press office. 1 7 2

LOST—In front of White's store, basket guard for carriage wheel. Reward for return to Press office.

LOST—A purse, Wednesday evening, on Lincoln place or Somerset street. Suitable reward if returned to 90 Grove street.

LARGE furnished front room with stove $1.50 week. Also one good sized room at $1 and one for 75 cents. All on same floor, gentlemen only. Call 254 East Front street. 1 6 2

FIRE DEPARTMENT BONDS—The Borough of North Plainfield will sell seven Fire Department bonds, $500 each, 5 per cent interest. Bids for same will be received up to Jan. 15th. James K. Arnold, Borough Clerk. 1 6 6

TO LET—Elegant new corner house, fine location, all modern improvements. Must be seen to be appreciated. Address Owner, 339 E. Sixth street. 1 6 tf

WANTED—Three or four rooms cheap, near depot. State rent and location. Address H., care Press. 1 5 tf

ROOM with board, heat, gas, (suitable for gentleman). 21 Sandford avenue. 1 5 6

FOR SALE—Well bred bull terrier pupies. 624 La Grande. 1 5 3

STORE to let in Stillman Block, now occupied by Mrs. Dyer. 1 5 1w

TO LET—Store and rooms above, now occupied by Justice Newcorn, 110 West Front street. Inquire Samuel Drier, pawnbroker, corner Front street and Madison avenue. 1 2 tf

FOR SALE OR TO LET—No. 120 West Fourth street, store and dwelling combined and brick stable; been used for the last five years as bakery. E.C. Mulford, broker, owner. 12 26 tf

TO LET—Elegant 6 room apartments, Jackson building, steam heat, janitor service, halls carpeted, heated and lighted. Rent reasonable, particulars at Packer's furniture store. 11 23 tf

FIRST CLASS help and first class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 23 Somerset place. 11-10-1y

LOANS negotiated. E. C. Mulford, Broker 7 2 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, Broker. tf

Plainfield's Busiest Store.
We sell goods cheaper than any Plainfield store.

JANUARY CLEARING SALE
IN OUR
House Furnishing Department.

This sale means a decisive change of prices, prices that cannot help but interest the most conservative buyer.

3,000 Fancy China Plates, some of them worth 39c., for this sale only - - 13c.
50 Jardinere's, 7-inch, worth 49c., for this sale only - - - - - 19c.
50 Japanese Finger Bowls, with Tray, regular price 29c., only - - - - 19c.
56 piece Decorated China Tea Set, were $5.98, now - - - - - $3.49
Terra Cotta Art Vases, were 98c., now 49c.
Comet Oil Heaters, were $3.98, now $3.25
112 piece Dinner Sets, all perfect, best porcelain, were $6.98, now - - - $5.49

EDWARD WHITE.

WALL PAPER
"A word to the wise is efficient."
From 3c.
Buy from the manufacturer and save middlemen's profits.
On receipt of postal card a fine assortment of SAMPLES sent to ANY ADDRESS.
To $2
EDW. LOVE, Warerooms, 211-215 North Ave.

-BOEHM'S!-
Beginning MONDAY, Jan. 4th, we will inaugurate our annual sale of
HOUSEKEEPING LINENS, TOWELS, NAPKINS, SPREADS, SHEETS and PILLOWS
at our usually low figures.
We also call your special attention to the great mark-down sale in our
CLOAK, CAPE AND SUIT DEPARTMENT.
All kinds of Cloaks and Capes must be sold, if prices have anything to do with it. Our principle not to carry over any garment whatever, will be adhered to to the letter. Shrewd buyers in search of bargains will not miss this opportunity at
-BOEHM'S,-
113 WEST FRONT STREET.

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield January 4th, 1897.

Amerman Rev Jas L
Boehm Miss A 2
Bristand, Miss Ann Allison
Corbett Miss Mary E.
Compton T A
Eager Geo
Hamilton John M
Haldane Miss Emily
Hopkins Mr
Hickey Miss Rosie
Mitchell C H
Mattis Wm
Stewart Mrs Leonora
Sullivan Jas F
Tevis E E
Tennyson Mrs Jas
VanDoren H J
Voorhees Miss E A
Vermeule Wm

IRVING SAVINGS INSTITUTION,
96 WARREN STREET, NEW YORK.
The Trustees of this institution have declared interest on all sums remaining on deposit during the three and six months ending December 31, 1896, at the rate of FOUR PER CENT. per annum on amounts from $1 to $3,000, payable on and after Monday, Jan. 13, 1897. Deposits made on or before Jan. 10 will draw interest from Jan. 1.
G. BYRON LATIMER, Secretary. W. H. B. TOTTEN, President.
12 30 10

A NEW ARMY DEPARTURE.

Soldiers to Be Given Systematic Training in Athletics.

Highly Popular with the Men — Gen. Miles' Pet Plan in Operation—Football and Other Matches for Uncle Sam's Men.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

Uncle Sam has concluded that prolonged peace is making his soldiers altogether too fat. Hereafter they must be trained down; and among other things they must learn to run. It is not meant to insinuate that running is hereafter to be the favorite mode of warfare of our forces, unless in pursuit of a fleeing enemy; but it is essential for a soldier to be active and lithe-limbed. It is not sufficient that he is well versed in the manual of arms and can go through the bayonet exercise without danger to his comrades; his calling is one which requires an athletic physique, and the army authorities propose to see that he gets it.

"An athletic team will immediately be formed at every post in the department of Colorado, in accordance with specified rules, to be commanded by a commissioned officer, selected by the post commander."

So reads the order issued by Gen. Wheaton, U. S. A., commanding the department in question. The order has been approved by the war department and by Maj. Gen. Miles, commander in chief of the army of the United States, and, in consequence, field athletics are to become just as much a recognized part of the soldiers' training as drill or target practice.

For a long time past Gen. Miles has been urging upon the department at Washington the importance of giving the rank and file of the army athletic instruction; and now that the department has at length approved of the suggestion, the different commanders are promptly acting upon it, and athletic teams are being formed at every fort and army post throughout the country. Matches between the teams of different posts are also to be arranged.

Athletic teams, as a rule, are made up of men who take a natural interest in field sports, and who join an athletic club of their own accord. They do things differently in the army, however; nothing is left to the option of the individual. But unlike some military orders, irksome simply from the fact that they are orders, the command to form athletic teams has been hailed by the men with delight; and now, between and after drill hours, the parade ground of post or fort is turned into an athletic ground, and men who otherwise might be in the guardhouse for some trivial infraction of military discipline, may be seen in regulation track costume, running, vaulting, jumping, and indulging in almost every variety of athletic exercise.

That the introduction of athletic training into the army is a good thing for the men, both physically and morally, is conceded by all. While the greater part of the United States army was busily engaged in chasing bands of hostile Indians all over the western portion of the country, the need of field athletics was not particularly felt, the men had exercise enough and to spare in endeavoring to keep within striking distance of their active foes. But when the savages were safely disposed of on the different reservations and the monotony of garrison life began, the once hardy soldiers lost their activity, and what, in their fighting days, was but a short jaunt, became, through the enervating influence of garrison life, a hard day's work.

It was while stationed in the west among these men that Gen. Miles, himself an old Indian campaigner, began to see the need of a thorough athletic training for the soldier. Other nations take pains to develop the physique of their soldiers as well as to drill them in tactics; why should not the United States do the same, he reasoned; and from that time until now Gen. Miles has been an enthusiast upon the subject of field athletics. To be sure, the troops were often taken on practice marches across country, or allowed to play an occasional game of football with some civilian team or a team from some neighboring army post; but there was no system, and the exercise was transitory in its effect.

Thus far the official introduction into the army of field sports is in its infancy, but the doubtful stage is passed, and army athletics are with the soldiers to stay.

A report has just been made to the war department by Col. Shafter, at present commanding the department of California, of a series of competitive athletic games held by the soldiers of the department, in which hand ball, tug-of-war, standing high jump, running, putting the hammer and shot, hurdle races, and baseball were the principal games indulged in; and some very good records were made.

Not only are the men instructed in ordinary field sports, but they have some novel sports of their own. A favorite one is a swimming match in light marching order, while another is a 100-yard race, or a 440-yard race, the contestants carrying their guns and being in heavy marching order.

All these tend to give the men an improved physique and to better fit them for the difficulties of long marches. The United States army, to quote the words of an officer stationed at New York, "is a fine body of men, and with thorough athletic training, they will make troops second to none in the world."

SPORTS OFFICIALLY INTRODUCED INTO THE ARMY.

AN EYE TO BUSINESS.

A Philadelphia Chinaman Wanted to Dry Shirts on the City Hall Roof.

Three Chinamen were in the big elevator which carried the "Odd Bits" man to one of the upper offices in the city hall a day or two ago.

"What floor?" queried the elevator man.

Knowledge of the English language was evidently a scarce article with the Mongolians, for they looked at each other and at the elevator man. Then they chattered among themselves for a moment.

"No flool," one of them finally said. "Loof."

They were carried up as far as the elevator went and then directed to the stairway, which leads out upon the roof of the hall. The "Odd Bits" man followed them.

The Chinamen wandered over the top of the big building arm in arm, looking up and down and around, but never venturing very near the edge anywhere.

"No like fall," one of them explained. "Very much hurt."

The big tower held their attention most. They stood and gazed at it with wide open mouths for a long time.

"Him velly high," the talkative one of the three suggested to an attache of the building.

"Yes," the latter responded with a wink to a bystander, "4,000 feet."

The wonderful information was received without any comment by the Chinamen and the joke was lost. If the attache had said 20,000 it would have been all the same.

When they had satisfied their sightseeing inclination the Mongolians started for the stairway.

"Him glate building," the spokesman confided to the watchman at the door. "We come some more."

"And they will," was the watchman's comment. "We have a batch of them every day. They're welcome, too, all except one fellow I know."

"Why isn't he welcome?"

"Because he suggested one day he was up here that the roof would be a 'glate place to dly shirts.' I gave him a line of talk that must have scared him, for he hasn't been back since."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

An Antiquarian Lunch.

Amaziah Dukes, a New York broker, recently said: "I have eaten apples that ripened more than 1,800 years ago, bread made from wheat grown before the children of Israel passed through the Red sea, spread it with butter that was made when Elizabeth was queen of England, and washed down the repast with wine that was sold when Columbus was playing barefoot with the boys of Genoa. The remarkable spread was given by an antiquary named Goebel, in the city of Brussels, in 1871. The apples were from an earthen jar taken from the ruins of Pompeii, the buried city to whose people we owe our knowledge of canning fruit. The wheat was taken from a chamber in one of the pyramids, the butter from a stone shelf in an old well in Scotland, where for centuries it had laid in an earthen crock in icy water, and the wine was recovered from an old vault in the city of Cornith. There were six guests at the table, and each had a mouthful of the bread and a teaspoonful of wine, but was permitted to help himself liberally to the butter, there being several pounds of it. The apple jar held about two-thirds of a gallon, and the fruit was sweet and the flavor as fine as though put up yesterday."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

There Are Two Kinds.

"Do you consider him a good financier?"

"Which kind—public or private?"

"What's the difference?"

"All the difference in the world. Do you mean a government financier or just a plain, ordinary home financier?"

"I don't believe I grasp your meaning."

"Why, it's just this way: If you mean a man who knows all about the finances of the government and could give John Sherman cards and spades and beat him out on telling what ought to be done to keep the country prosperous he's a bird; but if you mean a man who's able to handle his own finances so's to make his business pay and keep his family clothed and happy he isn't in it."—Chicago Post.

THE ARIZONA KICKER

POLICY OF THE EDITOR AND SAMPLES OF HIS ADVERTISING.

Not Alarmed About the Future of America or Arizona—Under Certain Conditions the Editor Could Be Prevailed Upon to Bolt Any Candidate on Earth.

In reply to many letters and verbal queries we would say that The Kicker is not a redhot party organ. Nominally we are a Democrat. Nominally number two, we are a Republican. We hold the postmastership under a Democratic administration, and we desire to hang on to it. To most readers it may seem that our policy is a selfish one. We grant it. We are taking care of number one in politics as well as in business. The Arizona editor who blows his horn for the sake of party will carry more deadheads on his subscription books than dollars in his pocket. We want some of the spoils. We do not propose to help waft a lot of ambitious, selfish and half dishonest critters into office and then take off our hat and be thankful for what loose change they may toss us. We haven't said anything about bolting, but it may be inferred that we'd throw a candidate down quicker than a jack rabbit can jump seven feet if he attempted to work us for a flat.

We are not alarmed about the future of America or Arizona, but we have no blood to shed. We simply propose to take care of ourselves during this scramble, and the galoot that picks us up for a free howler will put in the next ten years wondering how far he fell and what he struck on.

Touching the effect of our policy, we would invite the attention of people outside the territory to the extent and character of our advertising patronage. Our advertisers say what they mean in good, plain talk, and their announcements show the varied business interests of this town. Here are examples of some of the ads. of our more enterprising business men:

NEW MILLINERY STORE!

Mrs. Poll Shoemaker, better known as Cross Eyed Poll, takes this method of informing the women of this town that she has opened her bang up new millinery store on Pawnee street, and is displaying the largest and best assortment of ever seen in Giveadam Gulch or within 100 miles of it. Poll was an unbounded success as a Chicago actress, and she's going to make things hum in the millinery business or break a leg.

JIM DANDY HATS!

HATS AT $5, $10 AND $15, and if you can duplicate 'em in Arizona, then you can say I'm not on the "dead" and don't know my biz. Look for the blue front store, next door to the Centiped saloon.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. OF M.—Meets Thursday evenings in its lodgerooms over Gilbert's store. The work at the next meeting will be the seventh degree of the grapevine twist on a one eyed man, and a high old time is expected.

SONS OF GUNS.—Meets every Thursday evening in the year in its lodgerooms over the bank. At the next meeting two candidates will be given the double flop, and a banquet will follow.

QUEER KUSSES.—Meets Wednesday evenings in the lodgerooms of the G. of M. The work at the next meeting will be the "hilarious bounce," and five candidates are expected to be on hand. If you belong to this order, you can travel all over Arizona and it won't cost you a cent.

BULLY BOYS.—Meets Tuesday evenings at its lodgerooms over the postoffice. No man with a wooden leg admitted. The object of this society is to secure free drinks for its members. Has over 100,000 members in the United States. Saves every member $50 yearly on his drinks.

THE ROYAL HOTEL.

Only swell hotel in Giveadam Gulch! By putting four in a bed this hotel will accommodate 200 people. We use regular crockery in the dining room, and any one wishing a napkin can have it. Soap, water and towel in the room if desired. Beds made up once per day, same as in New York. You can sleep with your boots on or off, shoot at the lamps in the dining room, eat as much as you please and then lick the plate. The idea of the proprietor is to make you feel at home. The editor of The Kicker boards here. Terms, $3 per day and upward, according to the looks of the man.

GREEN & PERKS, Proprietors.

THE BRUNSWICK.

This old and favorite resort for travelers who desire rest and refreshment is open again after extensive improvements, and we boldly declare it the peer of the finest hostelry in the world. It contains 24 rooms, which have been fitted up at an expense of $12 each, and over 50 people can find sleeping accommodations on the bar, the billiard tables and in the back yard in case of a rush.

The best of everything to eat, and no extra charge for meals sent to rooms or for shooting at the waiters. A cloth on every table, sheets on every bed and every room supplied with a pail of water and a box of matches.

The editor of The Kicker used to board here, but our fare was too rich for his blood.

THE KYOTE RESTAURANT.

This favorite old eating house, patronized by the editor of the Arizona Kicker and other tony critters for the last five years, is still doing a rushing business and is the only place in town where you can get a square meal for $1.

NO FORKS OR NAPKINS

to offend the fastidious and take away from their appetite, but every customer is allowed to use his fingers and wipe his mouth on his coattails.

Bear Meat!
Venison!
Beef Stakes!
Prairie Chickens!

and other toothsome meats, and you can eat as much as a grizzly and no one will hit you with a club. If our waiters are impudent or dilatory, stir them up with hot lead, but for God's sake don't shoot at the crockery till we get rich enough to buy more.

OUR TERMS ARE CASH, and those who attempt to bilk us are buried in the sand lots just behind the house. Therefore come with the rhino unless you are tired of life.

BILL GREEN, Sole Proprietor.

DRUGGIST AND PHARMACIST.

Having been bulldozed by the editor of The Kicker into advertising in his paper, I hereby announce that I have the best general drug store in all Arizona.

TWENTY KINDS OF SOAP to select from in case you happen to feel like taking a wash, and, as we are badly stuck on the toothbrushes we laid in a year ago, we have reduced the price to 10 cents each.

OUR NEW SODA FOUNTAIN

was all ready to fizz when a gang of the boys decided that we were putting on too much style and came in and shot all the faucets off. We have decided to let go of soda water, but we'll hand you out root beer and lemonade which will make your hair curl. Whisky by the drink, as usual, and shooting at the colored lights permitted after dark.

WE DON'T BELIEVE IN ADVERTISING, but when a feller holds a gun under your nose what can you do about it? Sick or well, living or dead, give us a call, and we'll make it pay you.

O. K. SIMPSON.

HE WAS TWO SECONDS AHEAD OF US ON THE DRAW.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN DAN.

I am still holding forth at the old place on Third street and never carried a bigger stock of the stuff than is now under my roof.

POUR OUT YOUR OWN WHISKY.

Every critter is allowed to pour out his own whisky, and the universal price of a drink is 10 cents. If you want to make a hog of yourself, here is the place to do it.

DON'T SPIT COTTON

when Rocky Mountain Dan is ready to supply you with everything wet and help you to get gloriously drunk.

POSTOFFICE NOTICE.

From and after this date all mails for Pine Hill, Devil's Elbow, Grizzly Hill, Lone Jack, Grass Valley and Dead Man's Hill will leave Giveadam Gulch at 8 o'clock a. m.

All mails from the above places are due here at 5 o'clock p. m., but the carriers may get drunk and come in any time during the evening.

All persons calling at the general delivery window for mail are hereby informed that shooting through the window will not hasten the delivery of mail in the slightest.

No letters sent unless stamped. No trust for stamps. If you don't lick on your own stamps, they won't be licked.

Any person kicking in the door and arousing the postmaster after midnight will get more bullets than mail.

JIM HELLSO, P. M.

HO, YE THAT THIRST!
THE RED DOG SALOON ON TOP!

Best beer! Best wine! Best whisky! No one to watch you while you pour out! No gang of loafers to ring in on strangers!

We have lately added an extension to our bar, and 28 men can now stand up and drink at once. We permit pounding on the bar with the butt of a gun to attract attention, and all shooting scraps are slicked over and made as easy as possible.

JOHN WHITE, ALIAS NERVY JACK,

Will mix for you while you wait:

Grizzly Bear Mashes,
Rocky Mountain Flips,
Panther Cocktails,
White Wolf Screamers,

and all other favorite beverages of the glorious west. Don't forget the place and don't run away if you happen to come in when old Jim Hewson and Uncle Billy Smith are popping at each other.

JIM HOPE, Proprietor.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Sunday school will be held after preaching next Sunday in Joe Taylor's cooper shop, and parents are assured that their children can attend in safety. All adults who attend will be asked to leave their guns at the door. The editor of The Kicker will tell the children the story of Moses in the bulrushes, and other eminent citizens will sing and help to make the meeting interesting.

THE G. G. L. S.

The regular monthly meeting of the Giveadam Gulch Literary society will be held on Thursday afternoon at the abode of Mrs. Jefferson McCracken, the presidentess. Several interesting papers are to be read, and the question "Is Arizona Too Literary?" will be discussed.

HARRIET SHOW, Secretary.

TAXES! TAXES! TAXES!

All taxes in the town of Giveadam Gulch are now due and must be paid to me in person. Ten days after the publication of this notice I shall be out hunting up delinquents, and the man who refuses to come down will have to dodge. I was elected to collect or shoot, and I am going to do it.

HENRY JONES, Collector.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

Stock-Taking Sale

Columbia Sewing Machine—five years' guarantee—$29.00—Cash or Credit.

has just begun. Sale is not made up of a few pieces here and there, but includes EVERYTHING carried in our immense stock, PORTLAND RANGES excepted. We want to have as few goods on hand as possible when stock records are taken. THAT accounts for present low prices. No better opportunity for GENUINE bargains ever offered in the State.

Exceptionally large line of well-built Parlor Suits—newest kind of coverings and frames.

$25. Suits to $17.00
$40. Suits to $30.00
$50. Suits to $35.00
$75. Suits to $50.00
$125. Suits to $75.00

This Parlor Suit, silk brocatelle, plush trimmed, $25.00

Bedroom Suits

Our enormous stock of Bedroom Suits—over 200—oak, mahogany, Walnut. They're below wholesale now.

$35. suits to $25. $40. suits to $30.
$50. suits to $35.00

Others up to $100. Formerly one-third more than present prices.

HERE'S OUR OFFERING IN CARPETS

Moquettes, 75c. Best Body Brussels, 90c. Velvets, 75c. Best Brussels, 75c. Other Brussels, 45c. All-wool Ingrains, 55c. About 50 rolls good heavy Ingrains, suitable for any part of the home, formerly priced 65c and 75c, now at 35c and 39c yard—rare chance. As an EXTRA inducement, we propose to make and lay Carpets FREE at these prices!

Balance of Stove stock at cost. See us before selecting elsewhere.
Self-Feeding Parlor Stoves, $5.63 up.
LIBERAL CREDIT TO ALL.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

NOTE NAME AMOS AND NO. 73 BEFORE ENTERING STORE

73 Market St.

Near Plane Street
NEWARK, N. J.

Telephone 880 — Goods Delivered Free.

IS YOUR EYESIGHT DEFECTIVE?

There is no safer, surer or cheaper method of obtaining proper relief for over strained and defective eyesight, headache and so forth than to consult this Specialist. The happy results from correctly fitted glasses are a grateful surprise to persons who have not before known the real profit to themselves in wearing good glasses. No charge to examine your eyes. All glasses guaranteed.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,

EYE SPECIALISTS.

B. A. STILES will be at 107 East Front street, Dunham's real estate office, every THURSDAY, from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 30 CENTS.
PRIMES, $1 AND $1,50 PER HUNDRED.
-AT ROGERS.-

POWLISON & JONES'
FURNITURE WAREROOMS,
149-151 EAST FRONT ST.

PRESENTS

A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF USEFUL HOLIDAY GIFTS.

IT WILL INTEREST YOU TO LOOK THEM OVER.

Open Evenings.

The Better the Food
The Better the Health.

MORAL

Use my White Lable Canned Vegetables.

California Naval Oranges. Tangerines. Table Apples. Preserved Fruit. White Grapes and Lady Apples.

G. W. ROCKFELLOW,

The Park Avenue Grocer.

W. J. STEPHENSON,
The Caterer,

Has RESUMED business again at his old stand,

146 NORTH AVENUE.

Where he will be pleased to see his many friends and former customers.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street Time Table in Effect NOVEMBER 15th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59, 7 28, 7 59, 8 00, 8 30, 8 38, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 37, 11 10 a m; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 08, 4 25, 4 54, 5 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 38 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 36, 7 01, 8 13, 8 58, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 20, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 8 08, 8 28, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 11 10, a m; 12 02, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 32, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28 p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 36, 7 01, 8 13, 8 58, 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 13, 7 55, 8 35, 9 05, 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 35, 3 05, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 25, 5 42, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30, 11 25 a m; 1 10, 1 35; 2 50, 4 05, 5 40, 7 20, 9 20, 10 25 Passengers for Newark please change car at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 48, 2 11, 2 32, 3 35, 4 26, 5 02, 5 15, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 8 28, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p m; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 03, 3 43, 5 14, 6 35, 10 15, 11 16 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 30, 7 35, 7 45, 8 19 9 03, 9 48, 11 46 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 15, 4 25, 5 28, 6 08, 6 35, 8 07, 8 50, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 35, 9 45, 10 45 a m; 12 08, 1 30, 5 10, 6 35, 7 53, 8 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m., 12 48, p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 54, a m; 12 33, 4 04, 7 05, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 52 a m; 6 30, 7 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 54 a. m; 5 02, 8 15 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 15 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre Scranton, &c. with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 48 p. m., way for Easton, connecting a Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

5 03 p. m., way for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

4 56 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor Allentown Mauch Chunk Scranton, Wilkesbarre Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 36 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 28 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 14 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m. 1 15, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, p. m. Sunday, (except. Ocean Grove) 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 13, 10 04, 10 27 a. m. 1 15, 3 12, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m.; 1 15 3 51, 5 32 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37* 1 17 night. Sundays—5 17, 5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 2 25, 4 56, 5 14* p. m., 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m. 12 46, 2 17 2 25*, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m., 2 25, 4 56, 5 14*. p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 3 44, 10 44 a. m., 2 17, 5 34*, p. m., 1 17. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, p. m., 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked * change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect December 2d, 1896.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7 41 a. m. Daily (Sundays 8 01) Local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m. 3 34, 5 22, 7 32 p. m. daily except Sunday, Local for Bound Brook.

11 54 a. m. Daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday, "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

1 44 p. m. daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

2 34 and 4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6 25 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

8 22 and 9 54 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9 22 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn-Local-6 49, 7 15, 7 43, 9 40, a. m; 2 29, 4 45 and 6 40 p. m. Sunday 9 03 a. m., 2 21, 6 08 p. m. Express—7 43, 8 27, 10 02 a. m. 12 14, 2 17, 5 11, 7 07 and 8 17 p. m. Sundays—7 23 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 48, 7 50, 10 05 a. m. 12 13, 2 33, 5 20, 7 07 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 10 a. m. 2 20 and 6 30 p. m.

For Metuchen only 6 23 p. m. except Sunday.

For further information consult Ticket Agent.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent,
S. Bethlehem, Pa.
CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
Philadelphia, Pa.
A. W. NONNEMASHER,
Ass't General Passenger Agt.,
South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt or Desbrosses street.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 50 and 7:30 p m.

Somerville and Easton Mails

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M

F. A. DUNHAM,

Civil Engineer and Surveyor

109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F

RUDOLPH KERSTING

BAKER AND CONFECTIONER

201-203 West Front Street.

TRY OUR NEW ENGLAND AND HOME MADE BREAD.

VIENNA BREAD A SPECIALTY.

Charlotte de Russe, Cream Puffs, Chocolate Eclair, all kinds of Pastry and Cakes, FRESH EVERY DAY.

Delivery to any part of the City or Borough at any time.

Did anyone tell you to buy SLIPPERS for Xmas Presents? If so, we have what you want at the right price.

Don't forget we have HANAN SHOES for Ladies.

A. WILLETT AND SON

NO. 107 PARK AVE.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Call at

J. F. MACDONALD'S

The Uptown Grocery.

And be convinced that it is our aim to supply the people with the best goods at the lowest prices and that we now have a full line of all the new goods necessary to make your order complete.

Musc Raisins,	3 lbs. for 25cts.	Figs,	10 cts. per lb.
Table "	5 " " 50 "	English Wallnuts,	15 " " "
Currants,	3 " " 25 "	Paper Shell Almonds,	25 " " "
Cal. Prunes,	2 " " 25 "	Pecans,	18 " " "
" Apricots,	2 " " 25 "	Filberts,	15 " " "

A choice lot of apples $1.75 a barrel.

JAS. R. BLAIR.

126 Park Avenue,

Has a fine assortment of Neckties, Mufflers, Umbrellas, Silk Handkerchiefs, Gloves, &c.,

Ready for the Holidays.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.

177 NORTH AVENUE.

SPECIAL SALE AT CRANE & CLARK'S,

Hat and Furnishings Store.

120 West Front street. Prices Cut on all lines of Men and Boys wear.

Special—We place on sale today a Big Line of Suitings and Trousers.

Trousers to order $3.50 worth $5
Suits to order $18, worth $25

SEBRING'S.

Bargains in Real Estate

For sale or to let.

MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,

Send for blank contracts. 109 North avenue
Armstrong Mulford, Assistant
BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss Helen B. Dunham,

TEACHER OF PIANO AND ORGAN.

Pupil of a German Professor. For reference address, Prof John C. Bergner, Clinton, New Jersey. Call on or address Miss Helen B. Dunham, Dunellen, New Jersey. s 20 6m

MISS FAWCETT'S SCHOOL AND Kindergarten.

25 Washington avenue.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Boys received until 10 years of age.

Get Your Turkeys, Chickens and Ducks for the holidays at

W. L. & J. M. Smalley,

94 Somerset street.

Telephone Call, 42b.

NEW DESIGNS LARGE VARIETY.

HIGH GRADE

PARLOR HEATERS,

Stoves, Ranges and Oil Heaters

OUR PRICES ARE LOW.

Hardware, Heater and Furnace Work.

A. M. GRIFFEN.

119 E. Front st. Telephone 6

IF THE BEST WILL DO,

Try Royal Tooth Powder. 1 ½-oz. can, 10c.; 4-oz. nickel-top bottle, 25c. It contains no acid or grit, and is recommended by all dentists of standing who will advise the use of Chalk and Castile Soap, flavored. Royal Borated and Carbolated Talcum, at 10c., is intended to give entire satisfaction and win your favor. Prepared by

ALLEN PHARMACY M'F'G CO.,
Plainfield, N. J.

He Had Been There Himself.

Mrs. Jason—Don't swear like that, Ray, just because the boys hit you with a snowball. Don't lose your temper.

Mr. Jason—Lose temper? Nothing! I'm just swearing to please the boys. That's what they want.—New York Evening Journal.

To Forestall a Probable Rumor.

"From Ohio, eh?" said the hotel clerk, looking knowingly at the name on the register.

"Yes," said the man in black, handing his valise over the counter, "but it may as well be understood right now that I am not a candidate for a cabinet position or any other office under the sun. My visit to your city has no political significance whatever, and if any prying reporters should make inquiries concerning me you are at liberty to say to them that I am Dr. Rybold, manufacturer and sole proprietor of Rybold's celebrated cough cure, which I warrant to be an absolute specific for all ailments of the throat, lungs, bronchial tubes or diaphragm, including coughs, colds, quinsy, pleurisy, consumption, shortness of breath, angina pectoris, asthma, bronchitis and diphtheria, besides being highly efficacious in all cases of lumbago, peritonitis, neuralgia, nostalgia, paresis, ophthalmia, neurasthenia, cutaneous affections of every kind, liver complaint, rheumatism, freckles and ingrowing toe nails. Are you satisfied, sir?"

"Yes, sir," gasped the clerk.—Chicago Tribune.

A Fellow Feeling.

"What makes Skimley attitudinize so much?"

"He thinks he's a great author."

"But he has never had anything printed."

"No. But he thinks of all the celebrated literary men who tried for years without success to get their writings published and feels that he is right in their class."—Washington Star.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redying. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

Hillier & Co.,

North ave., Plainfield.

Telephone 30M

M. Powers & Son.

Superior quality of

LEHIGH COAL.

No 2 Coal Only $3.75 'n the Y.
No. 1 Kindling Wood

Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp railroad station.

TOWNSEND'S

Marble and Granite Works,

SOMERSET STREET.

Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

FRANK DAY,

114 WEST SIXTH ST.,

(Near Park Avenue.)

Livery and boarding stable in all its branches all kinds of turnouts night or day at short notice. Horses boarded by day, week or month. Telephone No. 182. j 9 10 tf

GOV. BLACK'S SUGGESTIONS.

Heads of The Various State Departments Carefully Consider His Message.

Albany, Jan. 7.—The ideas expressed by Governor Black in his message to the legislature upon the operation and administration of the civil service are to be embraced in a bill to be drafted by assemblyman Henry E. Abell of Brooklyn and introduced at an early date. Mr. Abell was chairman of a legislative committee which investigated the administration of the civil service laws and is familiar with the subject. The main feature of the governor's position on civil service is that he thinks an appointing officer should have the power to make an appointment from the whole number of candidates who qualify after taking a civil service examination instead of such appointing officer being confined in making an appointment to the highest on the eligible list as is at present the case. The governor's message was carefully read by the heads of the various state departments and the various suggestions made carefully noted. His recommendations regarding the urgency of keeping prisoners employed is, General Lathrop the superintendent of prisons, says, receiving his earnest and undivided attention. Superintendent Kilburn of the state banking department is considering amendments to the building and loan association law, such as the governor suggests, to make the management of such associations economical and sound. The heads of the labor departments of the state department are in sympathy with the governor's suggestion that an endeavor should be made to see if the English scheme of university extension, whereby information could be furnished which would form a basis for the friendly adjustment of differences between labor and capital, could not be put in operation in this state. The adjutant-general's office is in entire accord with the governor's suggestion that a state cruiser be provided for the state naval militia, and with the implied suggestion that the military law be changed so that a major-general can be appointed to act as commander-in-chief of the national guard, and have his own staff, to take charge of such national guard affairs as now devolve upon the governor's staff. The governor's reference to the serious accidents which result at grade crossings, has already received the attention of the state railroad commission, but laws suggested by them in previous years have not passed the legislature. Gen. Higbie has in preparation a bill providing for good roads, which would carry out the governor's ideas upon this subject. Superintendent Skinner of the department of public instruction has long advocated the establishment of truant schools, which are suggested by the governor's message. Gov. Black's expression in favor of the forests being preserved is in entire accord with a bill which will be introduced by a special committee of the last assembly, providing for the issue of $1,000,000 bones to purchase lands in the Adirondacks.

Illinois Legislature.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 7.—The senate and house of representatives constituting the fortieth general assembly of Illinois were opened at noon yesterday, and Gov. Altgeld's last message to the legislature was read and both branches adjourned until Monday next. It is the general talk that practically no further work in connection with the senatorial contest will be done this week. The party leaders have left town and will not return until Sunday night. Meanwhile, the senatorial candidates, Madden, Mason, Hitt, Carr and Alleton remain on the ground to see that no advantage is gained over each other.

Decision Against Pulitzer.

St. Louis, Jan. 7.—The supreme court at Jefferson City has decided the case of Jones vs. Pulitzer, for the control of the Post-Dispatch of this city in favor of Jones. The decision sustains the opinion of Judge Valliant of the circuit of St. Louis, in granting a permanent injunction restraining Joseph Pulitzer and the directors of the Post-Dispatch from interfering with Col. Charles H. Jones' control and management of that newspaper under a five years contract held by the latter, which continues in force until 1901.

Police Reform at New Bedford.

New Bedford, Mass., Jan. 7.—Mayor Ashley suspended chief of police George Douglass, pending the formulation of charges of misconduct and neglect of duty, and appointed Capt. James L. Wilber acting chief. It is asserted that the police for the past two years shut their eyes to policy shops, crap shops and places were illegal gambling had been more or less openly carried on.

A Portrait of Herbert Spencer.

London, Jan. 7.—In response to a letter signed by more than eighty noblemen and men eminent in literature, science and art, including Mr. Gladstone, Herbert Spencer has consented that a fund shall be opened to paint his portrait for the nation. Hubert Herkomer, R. A., has been chosen as the artist.

Lynn Public Building.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Bids for the erection and completion, except heating apparatus, of the public building at Lynn, Mass., were opened at the treasury department and L. L. Leach & Son of Chicago were the lowest bidders at $69,000. Nineteen other bids were received running up as high as $95,000.

D. & H. Canal Company Reduce Dividends.

New York, Jan. 7.—The directors of the Delaware & Hudson Canal company yesterday afternoon voted to reduce the dividend on the stock from 7 to 5 per cent. per annum. This action was taken in consequence of the shrinkage of business of the year.

BIG SALT SHIPMENT

A Train of 160 Cars Leaves Silver Springs, N. Y.

BOUND FOR NEW ENGLAND POINTS

Made Up in Three Sections and Carries 5,450,000 Pounds of Salt—Accompanied by Members of Salt Company and Reporters.

Silver Springs, N. Y., Jan. 7.—One hundred and sixty cars loaded with 5,450,000 pounds of salt left here yesterday, consigned to New England firms. The train was the Worcester salt special. The vast shipment made up the finest freight train ever put together. The cars were handsomely decorated with vari-colored banners. The train will go over the Erie railroad to Jersey City, and thence by the Consolidated road to Boston. A large crowd was gathered about the train, and as it started there was great cheering. The first section has attached a private car for representatives of the press and officials of the Worcester Salt company. In the party are F. P. Collins, Boston Journal, and C. W. Williams, New England Grocer. The shipment contains 14,223 barrels packed with salt in bags and bulk, and 10,774 sacks not in barrels. If the barrels in the train were placed standing one on top of the other, the most elevated would be six miles high.

Binghamton, N. Y., Jan. 7.—The "Worcester Salt Special Train," which started from Silver Springs, N. Y., yesterday, arrived here in three sections at 6 o'clock last night. This is the shipment of one commodity ever made. The officials of the salt company, together with prominent Erie railroad officials and representatives of the press, banqueted at the Bennett hotel last evening. Two of the sections of the special left for Port Jervis last night and started east from there this morning. The third section left Binghamton on the Delaware & Hudson at 7 o'clock this morning.

Cuban Campaign for Liberty Prospering.

New York, Jan. 7.—Delegate Palma of the Cuban junta in this city has just given out the following statement: "I have received a letter from Gen. Jose Lacret, who is in charge of the Matanzas province, and who the Spaniards claim to have killed several weeks ago. General Lacret writes me that everything is prospering in his province and the Cubans have started two newspapers, which show that they are not always fighting. He further states that he is expecting General Gomez in his province and is making preparations to receive him. He reports everything within the Cuban line to be prospering."

Kansas Bonds Offered Cheap.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 7.—Holders here of $75,000 road certificates of the county of Wyandotte, Kansas, containing Kansas City, have assigned them to a local attorney for a compromise, if possible, at 50 cents on the dollar. The county for a long time paid interest on the certificates, but then defaulted, and the default was sustained in the courts, and payment of the certificates, which was approved by commercial interests of the county, was defeated by the populist legislature.

To Teach the Folly of Gambling.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 7.—Application was made to Mayor Farnsworth yesterday by a person from New York for a license to open an establishment in this city to prove to young men the impossibility of winning money by faro, roulette, policy and other gambling games. He was referred to Dr. Newman Smith by the mayor who will decide about the license to-day.

Bankers' Sentences Commuted.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 7.—Gov. Altgeld has commuted the sentence of Charles J. and Frank R. Meadowcroft, convicted of receiving deposits up to the time their bank in Chicago was placed in the hands of a receiver, from one year in the penitentiary to sixty days in jail.

For a Bridge Across the Monongahela.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania has introduced a bill in the house authorizing the West Braddock Bridge company to construct a bridge over the Monongahela river from the borough of Rankin to Mifflin township.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spot weaker, with moderate inquiry. Jan., 89½c.; May, 87⅝c.; July, 83⅝c.

Corn—Spot quiet and steady. Jan., 29⅝c.; May, 31½c.

Oats—Market quiet; prices steady. May, 23⅜c.

Eggs—Market steady; choice firm. State and Pennsylvania, fresh, 19@21c.; ice house, 14@15c.; western, fresh, 18@19c.; limed, 13½@15; southern, 17½@18½c.; in case, $1.50@$3.30.

Pork—Market steady; trade easy. Extra prime, nominal, short clear, $8.76@10.25; mess, $8.50@8.75; family, $9.50@10.00.

Lard—Steady; moderate demand. Prime western, $4.07½.

Butter—Market quiet; fair demand. Creamery western extras, 20½c.; state and Pennsylvania, extras, 19@20c.; creamery, western seconds, 16c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fresh factory, 13c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fair made extras, 18@19c.; western imitation creamery, seconds to firsts, 11@16c.; western factory, firsts to extras, 8½@11c.

Cheese—Market steady. State, full cream, large size, fall made, colored, 10½c.; large, common to choice, part skims, 3½@7½c.

Potatoes—Market firm; good supply. Long Island, in bulk, per barrel, $1.25@1.50; New Jersey, round, choice, per barrel, $1.00@1.25.

SPORTS

Sun Rises: 7:25 a. m.
Sun sets: 4:50 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be Lighted at 5:50 p. m.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company is selling a little souvenir "Cleveland" watch fob that is all nickel-plated.

For the week ending January 1st, 4 new members has been ordered to the roll of the New Jersey division of the League of American Wheelmen, making a total of 4,721 members. The total membership of the League in the United States now numbers 73,035.

This is not the lively season for the wheelmen and so there was very little to be done at the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Crescent Wheelmen, held last evening in the club house on West Second street. Routine business was transacted while the committee in charge of the coming minstrel show reported progress.

The year of '97 will see more wheels on the road than in any previous year. The price of the best wheels has fallen somewhat during the last few years while the wheels themselves have improved wonderfully. There is a fellow feeling between cyclists that is noticeable and now that the army of wheelmen has assumed such gigantic proportions it seems but right that this great band should be united. Such an organization has been at work for for a number of years advancing the cause of the cyclist and it is the duty of every person riding a wheel to unite themselves with it. The organization in question is the League of American Wheelmen which is too well known to need any introduction to the public. The League is better able to do effective work for the cyclist than before on account of the increased numbers but every one counts and all lovers of the sport shound unite in this beneficial movement. The beginning of the year is an excellent time to join the League and all who wish application blanks or further information may have the same by applying at the office of the Daily Press.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

All members of the Y. M. C. A. football team are requested to return their jerseys and other parts of their uniform to the gymnasium as soon as possible.

The club house of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club is closed for the winter and so are the golf links close by. The greens have been covered up to protect them from the winter and all members are requested not to play there any more until spring as it will injure the links for future play. Some clubs keep their grounds open all the winter but it is much the worse for the greens and next spring the Hillside Club hopes to have one of the best links in this part of the country.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball team of the Summit Y. M. C. A. will play a return game in this city in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on Saturday evening. The excellent showing that the Plainfield boys made while playing in the strange gymnasium at Rahway promises an exciting game when teams meet in the gymnasium where the Plainfield team is at home. Steady practice has improved the team materially during the last few weeks and they are putting up a much better game than they did early in the season.

The High School Autocrat.

The students of the North Plainfield High School are about to publish a school paper to be called "The High School Autocrat." It will be in the form of a magazine and will be issued four times each year, the first number will appear about Feb. 1, 1897.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Noah Dove Encampment, I. O. O. F., will meet this evening, when the new officers will be installed.

—The officers-elect of Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., will be installed at the meeting to be held tonight.

—Pamphlets, containing the report of the Board of Education for the past year, together with other information, were given to the scholars in the city public schools yesterday, to be taken home to their parents.

—A special meeting of the Catholic Benevolent Legion will be held this evening, in the C. Y. M. L. hall. Business of importance is to come up for consideration, and a full attendance of the members is desire.

You can be well when your blood is rich, pure and nourishing. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood rich and pure and cures all blood diseases, restoring health and vigor.

Hood's pills are easy to take, easy to operate. Cure indigestion, headache. 25c.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Jaquett, of Westervelt avenue, is unable to attend to business owing to illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Lusardi, of West Front street, are the proud parents of a little girl.

Mrs. F. H. Barry, of Brooklyn, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, of Duer street.

Miss Evelyn Smith, of Madison avenue, returned to her studies at Smith College, yesterday, after spending the Christmas holidays in this city.

State President G. W. Thompson, of the Haymakers' Association of New Jersey, was in town last evening as the guest of Wm. Newcorn.

Past Sachem D. C. Allen, of Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., has just received his commission as Deputy State President of the Haymaker's Association, for this district.

Albert Marsh, senior member of the firm of Marsh, Ayers & Co., left town for Jacksonville, Fla., yesterday, for the benefit of his health. Mr. Marsh will probably remain in the south until spring.

THE LOST COPPER.

"No, I wasn't crying neither! Can't a feller rub his eyes
'Thout the neighborhood a-seemin fit to die o' their supprise?
Course I'm feelin bad. We'd counted on a piece
o' ginger cake—
Big an hot an thick an bully—me an Dick an Bill an Jake.
An we started fo' the bakeshop, an we hollered as we went,
An we whooped, till on a suddent Bill he swollered o' the cent.

"Had it in his mouth, I tell you, where it'd be safe, you see,
So when we got to the bakeshop he'd know right where it'd be;
Wouldn't half to hunt through pockets 'mongst
the marbles an the strings,
An the buttons an slate pencils, an the lot o'
other things,
But could lay his fingers on it in a secont, mighty quick—
We was in a hungry hurry, me an Bill an Jake an Dick.

"I don't know just how it happened. Bill was hollerin 'Hurrah!'
Same as us an mighty happy, till a-suddently
I saw
Somethin awful must 'a' struck him, 'cause he got as white as death,
An he gulped a time or two, an grabbed his throat, an hilt his breath.
But I never had an idy what it was his foolin meant
Till he turned an said, 'Boys, I have gone an swollered o' the cent!'

"Well, sir, my blood quit a-runnin with a somethin like a jerk,
An my heart for nigh a minute seemed as though it wouldn't work;
Then we all begun a-talkin—all at once—an scolded Bill
Till he busted out a-snufflin an a-cryin fit to kill.
But that didn't help it any. Then Dick brightened up and said,
'Mebbe it'd roll out uv him if we stood him on his head.'

"Well, we tried it. Bill was willin. He was square about it all,
An he stood up ended nearly half an hour
ag'in the wall.
But no cent come out, as we see, so we give it up an quit,
An the cake that we had planned for—that was what we didn't git.
So, o' course, I'm feelin solemn, but I wasn't cryin. See?
You'd feel bad if you was fixed like Bill an Dick an Jake an me!"

—Chicago Record.

The Coming Woman.

"Mazie," said the young lover with delicate intonation as he was escorting his best girl homeward by moonlight after the theater supper, "suppose we follow out the old adage instead of taking a car. Shall we?"

"The 'old adage?'" said the fair one. "You mystify me."

"Why, you know the ancient saw of the wise men, don't you, where they say:

"After dinner sit awhile.
After supper walk a mile."

For a moment the dear creature meditated, and then she lifted her voice in the solemn stillness. "George," said she half sternly, "I am no angel myself, but I must say I do hate shams. You might have put off my grandmother with that sort of a song and dance years ago, but not the modern up to date belle. Stick to the truth. If, after the luxurious supper that we have enjoyed, you are broke for car fare, don't quote poetry nor beat around the bush. Just say, 'Mazie, dear, lend me a dime till tomorrow, and I will repay it with two kisses a minute interest at pawnbrokers' rates.'"

With a sigh the youth closed his hand about the precious silver piece and hailed a passing car. "I wonder what the coming man will look like," he mused silently, "if the coming woman gets any cleverer?"

And with a shudder he helped the fair mind reader into the cable car and sat down beside her as gingerly as if he were sitting down in a basket of eggs. —New York Journal.

Before Their Time.

Weary Raggles—Say, pard, me and you was born before our time.

Wandering Willie—How do yer figger that?

Weary Raggles—I've bin readin de papers for awhile back, an I see de experts agree dat by de next century de wimmin will be doin all de work in dis world.—New York Sunday World.

BENEDICT ARNOLD'S LOVE.

The Letter in Which He Proposed Marriage to Miss Peggie Shippen.

Chief Justice Shippen and his wife, Margaret Frances, had nine children, among them three daughters whose beauty and charms of mind and manner made them preëminent among the belles of the Revolutionary days. Elizabeth married Major Edward Burd of the American army, Mary married Dr. William McIlvaine, and Margaret, or "Peggy" Shippen became the wife of Gen. Benedict Arnold.

Her story is a tragedy, this brilliant belle, courted by a throng of suitors, who was at the same time the darling of her household, and a tender and beloved daughter. She was fascinated by the dashing officer who had returned from hard-fought fields, crippled with honorable wounds, one of the most distinguished leaders of the American army. Her family did not fancy the match, for Benedict Arnold was a man of low birth and rough life. But he was a dashing soldier and a bold and ardent suitor.

This unfortunate marriage involved the character of the beautiful but unfortunate "Peggy" Shippen, but her family and several historians of repute have ably defended her, and have claimed that she knew nothing of her husband's treason to his country. The balance of the testimony seems to be in her favor. It is certain that General Washington believed in her, and it is not probable that she was in any way an accessory to the black career of Arnold when maddened by fancied neglect and insult on the part of his military superiors he sold his country's cause for money. "Peggy" Shippen was banished from the state of Pennsylvania, and lived the rest of her life in England with her husband.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

RIGHT REV. HENRY B. WHIPPLE.

The Venerable Bishop Married a Widow Half His Age.

Another instance of May and December is recorded, with the further interesting fact that a venerable and respected authority in the church impersonates the wintry month, while the season of buds and flowers is represented by a rich widow of New England.

RIGHT REV. HENRY B. WHIPPLE.

Bishop Potter, of New York, recently performed the ceremony which united in wedlock the Right Rev. Henry Benjamin Whipple, Bishop of Minnesota, and Mrs. Simpson, of Saxonville, Mass. She is a wealthy widow of thirty-five, and he is past seventy.

A CONVINCING COMPARISON.

A Very Lucid Illustration of a Roman Boy's Division.

Johnny Blykins has been less successful than usual in his studies, and his father was trying to stimulate him to greater endeavor.

"I can get along pretty well in most things," Johnny was saying, "but I can't manage with grammar and arithmetic."

"Those are the two essential studies of modern times," was the earnest reply. "A man nowadays must know how to talk for a chance to make money; and he's got to be mighty quick at figures to see that somebody isn't holding back any when he gets his change."

"I guess I can pull through on grammar. But I've got so discouraged with arithmetic that I don't feel like trying any more."

"Don't give up. Arithmetic is just as important as the other, if not more so. Be thankful the study isn't any harder than it is. Think of the poor little Roman boys," he went on, with a sudden inspiration.

"Did they have to study hard?"

"Study? Why those boys had to know Latin before they could understand the clown's jokes at the circus. Let's take an example," he exclaimed; drawing a pencil and a piece of paper from his notebook. "We'll work it out the way a little Roman boy would have had to do. Suppose we want to divide 49 by 6. You could do that easily. But a little Roman in the fifth or sixth grade wouldn't have it all laid out before him in a simple unmistakable fashion like that. It would be worse than grammar and mathematics combined with him, for he'd have to get his intellect right down close to spelling words that don't mean anything. He would have to state the example I mention in this way: 'XLIX divided by VI.' The next step would be to say: 'VI into XL goes VI times and IV over.'"

"And then what would he do?"

"Why then he would—er—Johnny, I don't know just what he would do then. But I shouldn't be surprised if he smashed his tablet and dropped his stylus down a knothole and ran off to fight Indians."

Both Twins.

Chatty Old Bachelor: "Most r'mark'ble likeness between those two children, nurse!" Nurse: "Yessir. Twins, sir," Old Gentleman: "What, both of 'em!"

$35. Will buy you a First-Class High Grade BICYCLE.
Peck & Snyder and Winslow Skates from 49c. up.
PLAINFIELD CYCLE AND SPORTING GOODS CO.
147-149 NORTH AVENUE.
H. E. RIDER, President. C. C. LISTER, Secretary and Treas.

Turkeys,
Chickens,
Ducks,
All Jerseys.
Prime Beef,
Mutton,
Lamb,
Jersey Pork and Sausage.
We invite an inspection of the FINEST STOCK IN THE CITY before you buy elsewhere.
SMALLEY BROTHERS,
The North Avenue Butchers.
Near the Depot.

Wall Paper
2cts. A Roll
Borders and Ceilings to Match, at
Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
201 Park avenue, corner Second street.
☞ The Largest Supply House in the City.

THE SAME STEEL.

☞ Is in our cultery out of which the finest tempered swords are made. Our Pocket Knives, Table Knives, Carving Knives, French Kitchen Knives, Razors, Butcher Knives, Bread Knives, Oyster Knives, Clam Knives, and every other kind of knife. Are made of Superior Steel
The famous Purity Oil Heater, still on sale for $3.98.

The J. P. Laire Hardware Co
Telephone Call 49 L. 9317

A New Year's Sermon

which has its practical side. During this year we're going to keep the same good qualities of goods which we have always been well known for. We are going to put as moderate prices on these goods as possible. It wouldn't pay us to do otherwise. We're in business to stay.

L. W. Randolph,
PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST.
No. 143 West Front street.
Telephone Call, 109.

HOTEL TUILERIES !
AND ROGER'S RESTAURANT,
139-141 East Front street.
ROOMS TO LET. CATERING

HOLIDAY PRESENTS
IN ENDLESS VARIETY
AT HARPER'S,
411 PARK AVENUE.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

A LITTLE STORY!

About a special fine lot of Hamburgh Embroideries which has just been received by us and put on sale.

They were made by a large manufacturer in St. Gall, Switzerland, and were the odds and ends of the factory.

THE PRICE 1/2 IS JUST

the usual price asked.

They come from the narrow edge to 10 inches wide, the work being 5 inches wide on some of them. You will find them on three centre tables on the right-hand aisle as you enter the store.

ONE TABLE IS 5 Cts a Yard,
ONE TABLE IS 10 Cts a Yard, and
ONE TABLE IS 15 Cts a Yard.

They had not been on exhibition only a short time when one lady's attention was called to them and she purchased about $15 worth in a few minutes.

They sell quick at sight. They can't be duplicated. If you want any of them come in quick.

Remember we are clearing out all our heavy winter stock now, and you will find plenty of

Real Bargains

all through the store. We are preparing another surprise for you, and in a few days you will know about it.

EDSALL'S.

Opportunity for Safe and Profitable Investment.

The N. J. MUTUAL REALTY COMPANY.
(Incorporated.)

Have acquired 200 acres of land with 6,000 feet frontage on C. R. R. of N. J. and Lehigh Valley Railroad at a cost of $22,500 and propose selling stock to small investors in $100 shares at par to pay for property. Already negotiations are pending to locate first-class manufactories along railroad front.

This plan will enable the Company to sell building lots at low prices, and all profits derived from sale of this property is to be divided among stockholders.

All stock payable to Treas. of Company on or before April 1, 1897. Already upwards of $10,000 stock have been subscribed for.

The following gentlemen are officers and directors of the Company.

A. D. Thompson, Sylvanus Ayres, Jr., Peter Egenolf, President Board of Trade, Elizabeth; P. H. Oakley, Insurance Broker; S. D. Drake, Richard H. Brokaw, cashier First National Bank, Bound Brook; W. W. Smalley, firm of L. D. Cook & Co.

For prospectus and full particulars call or address,
N. J. MUTUAL REALTY CO.,
ROSS BUILDING. BOUND BROOK, N. J.
Or First National Bank, Plainfield and Bound Brook. 1 4 1w

The Strongest Claim

We make for the superiority of our

Demulcent Cream
OF Witch Hazel

is that the people who have used it say it is the most efficient

TOILET REQUISITE

they ever used. For chapped hands it is unequalled.

Price 25c a Jar.

Leggett's Pharmacy,
Y. M. C. A. Building. Telephone No. 4.

Joseph Carbone,
128 NORTH AVENUE,
Whol sale and retail dealer in choice fruits nuts, etc., all kinds of temperance drinks' Closed Friday night, sun down. Open Saturday evening at sun down. 12 14 1y

PUBLIC BOWLING ALLEYS
AT
117 and 119 East Second Street.
C. M. ULRICH,
12 22 1y. Manager.

WE WANT FEET

to fit our shoes. The invisible cork sole ones are particularly appropriate this season of the year. We're selling them at right prices.

Doane & Edsall.
Store closes at 6, Saturday 10 p. m.

NEUMAN BROS.,
Grocers,
Corner Watchung Ave. and 5th St.

Last Edition.

THE DAILY PRESS

Last Edition.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JANUARY 8, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

WITH HOPE THEY GO ON.

SALVATION ARMY CELEBRATE THEIR SIXTH YEAR IN THIS CITY.

Adjutant Emily March Inspires the Lads and Lassies to Renewed Effort for Next Year by a Short and Interesting Address.

It is now six years since the Salvation Army established a post in this city and the anniversary of that event was celebrated at the meeting in Salvation Hall last evening. Adjutant Emily March, who was formerly commander of the corps in this city and now stationed in New York, was in charge of the meeting and led with her customary enthusiasm. There was a good attendance at the meeting at the start and the seats continued to fill all the evening.

All of the local corps, including their commander, Ensign Edith Berger, were present and in their places on the platform where they assisted the meeting with song and testimony. The first part of the meeting was devoted to the singing of rousing Salvation Army songs and to prayer. While the audience was rather slow to respond to the invitation to sing at first, their hesitation faded away as the meeting grew in interest and everyone joined in the familiar choruses. There was testimony by the soldiers on the platform and then some of those in the audience told of their experiences in the Christian life.

Then came the collection which was taken up by the adjutant while Ensign Berger sang the solo, "The Name of This Friend," with an accompaniment on her guitar. The collection finally amounted to $6. After that the leader made a short address in which she told of the watch meeting which was held at her present station in New York and the great work that was done there. She told of the motto that she had chosen for the new year which consisted of the first four words in the Bible: "In the Beginning God," and she said that during the year she hoped to have God in the beginning of everything that she did. Then some of her own experiences before her conversion were told and how she was stirred first by the Salvation Army. She related several stories, full of pathos and sorrow, which she told with great feeling so that her hearers were touched by them, and she closed with an appeal to the weary ones to come to the fold.

After more singing and testimony, the meeting closed and the seventh year of the Salvation Army in Plainfield had begun.

HOT STEEL ON THE EYE.

A BLACKSMITH WILL PROBABLY LOSE SIGHT IN ONE OPTIC.

Frank Splane Was Manipulating a Red-hot File When It Flew Out of the Tongs and Struck Him—Taken to the Hospital

Frank Splane, an employe of William Sharkey, the blacksmith, of Lincoln place, met with an accident yesterday afternoon, which will probably result in the loss of an eye. He was working at the anvil making a screw driver out of an old file. The red-hot piece of steel was being held with a pair of tongs, and in striking it with a hammer the steel flew up in the air and struck him in the eye. At first, Splane thought that there was only a scale on the eye-ball, but the pain grew so intense that he asked Mr. Sharkey to examine the eye. By this time bload was flowing freely and it was thought best to consult Dr. Matson. The latter soon learned that the injury was a serious one and Dr. Ard was called. When the latter arrived he very soon decided that the man should go to the hospital, and Splane was taken there at once.

A thorough examination proved that the eye-ball was seriously cut by the hot piece of iron, and that the chances for saving the eye are slight. However, everything possible will be done to effect a cure.

Not Good Skating.

There were quite a number at Hyde's pond yesterday afternoon to try the ice there for skating. It was strong enough but rather soft and was cut badly before the afternoon was over. Some of the skaters went up to the New Market pond and found some skating there. It will need some real cold weather, however, to make the skating as good as it was several weeks ago during the cold wave that visited this part of the country at the close of the last year.

About Foreign Missions.

The special meetings now being held in the Crescent Avenue church continue with increased interest. Last evening the subject was "Foreign Missions" and Mr. Blodgett, a returned missionary from China, led the meeting. His thorough knowledge of missions makes his expositions of great interest. The meetings are largely attended every evening.

THE PEASANT PAINTER.

PROF. SPRAGUE SMITH ENTERTAINS A CULTURED AUDIENCE ON ART.

Art Lovers Enjoyed a Rich Treat Last Night at the Seminary by Hearing a Speaker in Sympathy With His Subject.

Professor Charles Sprague-Smith delivered the first of his series of lectures in the Seminary last night before an appreciated audience. His talk was of Millet.

In beginning his address, Prof. Sprague-Smith alluded briefly to the different ways in which one might approach the general subject of art He said that a technical criticism would be attempted only by one who either practised the branch in which he assumed to be an expert or had, at least, pursued the studies connected with it. There was a broader and more human attitude, however, and this was the one from which he proposed to view Millet.

The lecturer then considered at some lenghth the various events in Millet's life. He divided his career into three grand epochs—the first extending from 1814 to 1832. comprehending his early years and first intimate association work pleasant life; the second, from 1832 to 1849, embracing the period of his studies and his first successes as a painter of the nude; and the third, from 1849 to 1875, during which Millet produced the pictures on which his fame rests.

Prof. Sprague-Smith said that Millet, during his early days in Paris, formed a great admiration for Michael Angels and Poussin and all his subsequent work exhibited traces of their influence.

In "The Haymakers," "The Gleaners," "The Angelus," and others of his masterpieces, the artist embodied his own serious, laborious and religious life. Millet desired to represent the whole cycle of peasant existence. Many of his works had the rugged grandeur of an epic poem. Critics of his own day complained that there was a political significance in his portrayal of the naked hideousness of the peasant, deformed and brutalized with labor. Nothing was further from Millet's idea. He wished simply to develop the mystery which arose through the fulfillment of the Divine mandate that "in the sweat of thy brow, shalt thou earn thy daily bread."

But Millet traversed only one-half of the circle of life. His many disappointments blinded him to the part which joy and sunshine play in life. He was emphatically the painter of the patiently-enduring, the sorrowful types of men crushed by the weight of nature.

In closing, Professor Sprague-Smith gave an interesting description of some of his personal experiences in the forest of Fontainebleau and at Barbizon.

The lecture was delightfully illustrated with stereopticon views of Millet, his home, his pictures and scenes from the country in which he lived.

Professor Sprage-Smith is well-known, having held, until recently, the chair of modern languages at Columbia. It was to the kindness of Mrs. Sprague-Smith, who has charge of the art class at the Seminary, that the students and their friends were indebted for the evening's pleasure.

Mrs. Haviland's Third Tea.

There was a large attendance of society people at the third tea in the series given by Mrs. A. W. Haviland at her residence on Rockview avenue, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Haviland and her two daughters were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Frederick Mead and Mrs. J. G. Foster. Mrs. C. W. McCutchen and Miss Truslow, of New York, presided at the table and were assisted by Misses Holt and Hyde, of New York, and the Misses Clark, Wood, Shreve and Henderson, of Plainfield.

A Parlor Meeting.

Invitations have been sent out by the Women's Christian Temperance Union for a parlor meeting to be held at the residence of Mrs. Martin I. Cooley, Rockview avenue, Monday, January 11th, at 3 p. m. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, National Superintendent of Parlor Meetings, will read the county delegates report of the National W. C. T. U. convention. The committee in charge are: Mrs. Martin I. Cooley, Mrs. J. M. McNaughton and Mrs. D. E. Titsworth.

More "At Homes" to be Held.

The geat success of the recent "at home" of the Boys' Club was very gratifying to the officers of the club and it has been decided to give something of that kind once a month. The entertainment is entirely arranged by the members of the club who show a great interest in it and a new programme will be arranged for the next entertainment, whenever it is decided it shall be held.

SAVE THE CHILDREN.

DR. YERKES APPEALS TO CHRISTIANS TO INTEREST YOUNG PEOPLE.

They Are Easily Turned in God's Way and May Then Grow to Noble Christian Men and Women to be Looked up to.

There seemed to be an increased interest in the union week-of-prayer service held in the First Methodist church last evening and there was a deep spiritual feeling on the part of all present.

Rev. Dr. Yerkes was the leader and he conducted the devotional exercises. The subject of the meeting was "Our Children and the Sunday-school," and a portion of the speaker's remarks were as follows:

"We have come here tonight to pray for all children as well as our own. God places great value on children, for He loves and cares for them dearly. The birth of a child is of far more importance than most people believe, for no one knows what a girl or boy is going to be. I remember that in a railroad office in a town where I had my first pastorate, there was two boys about twelve years of age. No one paid them any special attention at that time, but Thomas A. Scott, as president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and Andrew Carnegie, as the head of one of the largest iron industries in the country, were the two boys that started life in such a humble way.

"Children are easily turned in the way of God's testimonies and it is the duty of everyone to see that they are thus instructed. I shall never forget my early home nor my mother's voice lifted in prayer to God for her children.

"Let us pray for the children in our Sunday-schools that they may be brought to Christ in their youth so that they may grow to be noble Christian men and women."

At the close of Dr. Yerkes remarks D. E. Titsworth offered prayer. The meeting was then thrown open for testimonies and prayers. Many took advantage of the opportunity and this part of the service was a very helpful one.

THE GARBAGE QUESTION.

A MATTER OF SPECULATION ABOUT GRANTING THE FRANCHISE.

There Are Some Who Believe That the City Should Own the Plant in Order That the People May Have the Lowest Rates.

It is currently reported that the proposed crematory of the Plainfield Sanitary Company is to be located in the low lands at some point along Cedar Brook between Park avenue and Randolph road. The favorable features of the location cannot be denied. The property is not residential in character and not likely to be so very soon, and is moreover of easy access to the city which takes care of the question of short haulage, the really important financial feature of the enterprise.

Whether the Common Council will give its permission for the erection of a crematory or not is still a matter of speculation. Some citizens think that the question of the collection and disposal of garbage is as much a subject for municipal control as the disposal of sewage.

The cost of garbage collection by municipalties ranges from nine cents to thirty-seven cents per capita per year. Under the present method of collecting, families are paying from $10 to $15 per year, or about $2 per capita, allowing five persons to a family.

The subject is an important one and merits the careful consideration of the people of Plainfield.

DANCED IN DISGUISE.

An Enjoyable Masquerade Ball Given by the Rathbone Sisters.

A pleasing masquerade ball was given in Skandia hall, last evening, under the auspices of Minerva Temple, No. 4, Rathbone Sisters. There were about two hundred guests present, most of whom wore novel costumes. The grand march was led by Mrs. I. H. Boehm, gowned as "Aunt Jemima," and Eli Odam, in a natty suit representing the president of a tennis club. Otto Kellar, imitating a Jew, and Charley Shantz, a girl weighing about three hundred pounds, caused amusement for all.

Among the others present there were clowns, dancing girls, princes and princesses.

Refreshments were served about midnight, and dancing was continued until early this morning.

Samuel Robinson was the efficient floor manager, and he was assisted by A. D. Pope.

The music was furnished by Guttman.

—Finest Elgin creamery butter, 22 cents pound, Saturday only, at Demarest & Son's.

LOOKING FOR HUSBAND.

A BROOKLYN WOMAN'S STORY OF POVERTY AND DESERTION.

Mrs. Kaufman Left With Three Children by the Faithless Husband She Could Not Find in This City—Police Aid Her.

A deserted wife, left penniless by a faithless husband to support her three little children by her own labors, came to Plainfield yesterday in search of her husband. A friend had told her that he had seen the missing man in this city and the wife, driven by desperation to invoke the assistance of the law in compelling him to give her some aid, came to this city, accompanied by her brother, and tried to locate the faithless one.

She gave her name as Henrietta Kaufman and said that she came from Brooklyn where she was deserted two years ago, at about Christmas time, by her husband and left to care for her self and the three little children, the oldest of which was only eleven years and the youngest but four.

It was a sorrowful story that she told Overseer of the Poor Marx, to whom she was directed to make her complaint. Mr. Marx brought the matter before City Judge DeMeza and stated that Mrs. Kaufmann wished to arrest her husband on the charge of nonsupport. He was living here, she had been told, under an assumed name and was employed by an insurance company. Mrs. Kaufman had brought a photograph of the missing man with her and from it proposed to identify him. He was a German with a dark brown beard and hair of the same color.

An investigation followed, but the missing individual was not to be found in the city limits. There was a man that, it was thought, resembled the description of the lost Mr. Kaufman, but on comparing him with the picture it was easy to see that they were not the same people.

When it was found that her mission had been fruitless, Mrs. Kaufman and her brother departed for New York. It has not been learned whether she has obtained any other clue to the missing man.

WAR ON DEMON ALCOHOL

THE RFFORM CLUB MANIFESTS OLD TIME ACTIVITY.

Officers for the Ensuing Year Installed—Several Persons Signed the Pledge—A Social Time Enjoyed by All Afterwards

There was a great deal of the old time spirit manifested at the Reform Club meeting held last evening, when the officers-elect of the club were installed. The attendance was unusually large and everybody was filled with enthusiasm. The officers installed were as follows: President, W. C Smith; first vice-president, M. P. Marcley; second vice-president, Sylvester B. Scribner; recording secretary, William B. Ayres; financial secretary, J. W. A. Bauersachs; treasurer, J. D. Spicer.

After each officer was installed remarks were made appropriate to the occasion by each one. James McGee was present and he spoke a few words of encouragement to the members of the club for the excellent work that is being done. President Smith stated that he would announce the standing committees at the next meeting of the club.

During the evening several persons present came forward and signed the pledge, and they were given a cordial shake of the hand by the members.

The women members of the club had prepared a bountiful supply of coffee and cake, and at the close of the meeting everybody was invited to remain and enjoy the refreshments.

The club seems to be in a better condition at present than ever, and the supporters are going to make an extra effort to regain some of the lost ground.

Enjoyable features of the evening was the banjo selections by Harry Spencer and the organ selections by Miss Smith.

The club members decided to have the constitution and by laws printed so that every member can have a copy.

An Approaching Marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Giddes, of Bound Brook, have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Emma May Giddes, and Alonzo Fowler Brokaw, of North Plainfield. The event will take place Wednesday evening, January 20th, at 6:30, at the home of the bride.

A Dinner For Freeholders.

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders were entertained last evening at the annual New Year dinner given by Louis Miller at his cafe, at South Broad street and Washington avenue, Elizabeth. Covers were laid for thirty guests.

A RING CAUSES TROUBLE

A JUSTICE WILL SETTLE A DISPUTE BETWEEN DUSKY DAMSELS.

Matilda Brown Says That Rachel Wells Stole Her Jewelry, and the Latter Says She Bought it by Paying $2.

They were not regular residents of Paradise Alley, but merely boarders who had a quarrel over a ring that belonged to one of them, and it took Justice Mosher to finally settle the trouble and decide who really was to blame. Meanwhile the attendants at Justice Mosher's court were treated to some racy testimony.

The two colored women in the case were Miss Matilda Brown and Miss Rachel Wells, and the suit, according to the court records, was Brown against Wells, in tort. It came up for trial last evening and was extremely exciting.

Last August Matilda Brown was boarding in a household on Paradise Alley, and while she was there Rachel Wells, who was out of work, came there to board also. They lived there in harmony and were great friends. One day Matilda was making bread and she removed her gold ring and laid it on the mantlepiece. Her friend saw it and being taken with the appearance of the ring she put it on. Matilda saw the act but supposed that the ring would be returned. And now comes the part of the story that the two accounts differ. Matilda says her friend wanted to buy the ring she had bought for $1, and Rachel was so pleased with it that she offered to pay $2 for the ring in question. Matilda says that she wanted the ring and refused to sell it and demanded that it be returned at once, but it didn't come.

Now the other woman in the case had a different story to tell. She says that her friend agreed to sell the ring and that she paid $1 on account. Later she says that she mailed the other dollar to Miss Brown when the latter was visiting in New York. Miss Brown indignantly denied that any money changed hands for the ring.

In the cross-examination this visit of Miss Brown to New York led to some remarkable testimony. At first she thought that she went to see her husband but then remembered that she didn's have any, that it was her cousin's husband. Further examination revealed the fact that she did not have any uncles and aunts living and they never had any children. The cousin, she thought, was probably a second cousin.

After listening to much conflicting testimony, the Judge decided to reserve his dicision until Monday. The lawyer for the plaintiff was Lawyer Creamer, while Miss Wells was represented in the case by Thomas Quinn, of City Judge DeMeza's law offices.

SANGERBUND ELECT OFFICERS.

The German Society Now in a Flourishing Condition.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Gesang and Turn Verein was held in the hall of that organization last evening. The financial committee made its report which showed the society to be in a flourishing condition with a good balance in the treasury.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Henry Haurand; vice-president, Henry Vogel; corresponding secretary, Charles Dewier; financial secretary, Maxs Otto; treasurer, Lui Moraller; financial committee, Charles Dresselt, Carl Felber, Jos. Haurand.

It was decided to give a masquerade on the evening of Monday, March 1st The committee in charge of it was appointed as follows: Charles Myer, August Wolff, Lui Moraller, Henry Scheerholz, Charles Keller and others.

HURT BY FALLING INTO A DRAIN.

And Now Charles Angleman is Suing for $3,000 Damages.

The case of Charles Angleman, of this city, against the New Jersey Central Railroad Company for $3,000 damages, alleged to be due him on account of an accident caused by walking into an unprotected drain or sewer basin on the railroad company's property at Grant avenue, about eighteen months ago, whereby one of his lower limbs was dislocated and he was otherwise disabled, was set down for trial in the Union County Court at Elizabeth, today. The jury was empaneled late yesterday afternoon and one Plainfielder, who was drawn on the panel, was challenged by the Company's lawyers and excused.

Miss Clark May Retain Her Sight.

At present there seems to be hopes that Miss Alida Clark may retain her eyesight, which was impaired a few days ago with a bullet shot from a rifle. The bullet struck the lid of the eye causing the injury to the eyeball, but it did not enter the eye or flesh. Today Miss Clark seems to be much better.

GOOD WORK BEING DONE

W. C. T. U. PROGRESSING IN THEIR EFFORTS AT UPLIFTING ALL.

The Sick and Maimed Presented With Flowers and Several Poor Families Given Dinners—Articles Distributed to Others.

The progress made in the several departments of the W. C. T. U., during the past few months has been marked, as was shown at the regular business meeting of the Union held yesterday afternoon, when the reports were made by the various superintendents.

The general work of the Union is in a far better condition than ever, and harmony exists in all departments. A gratifying report was received regarding the "Festival of Days" held recently, and it was stated that $102 had been received therefrom.

Mrs. Ramsey Blair, of the evangelistic work, gave an encouraging report of the increased attendance at the meetings and the excellent leaders provided. Mrs. Thomas Minford, the superintendent of the flower and missionary work, presented one of the best reports for the month. This department sent twenty bouquets to the hospital, and during the months of October, November and December forty-seven dinners were served to poor families. There was a barrel of potatoes and four bunches of celery also given to others.

The soldiers and sailor work was reported by Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, the superintendent. On December 30th, this department sent a box of useful articles to the life saving station located at Avon-by-the-Sea, and a very interesting letter of acknowledgement from J. H. Pearce, the keeper was read. It was also reported that 200 pages of literature had been distributed to the street car employes Miss Beekman reported the work of the Loyal Temperance Legion, and an increased interest is shown in this department. The members of the Union feel highly gratified with the reports presented, and efforts are constantly being made to increase the efficiency of each department.

Going to Foreign Climes.

Among the Plainfield people who are planning a trip to Europe this month and the coming month are: Ex-Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, of East Front street, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter McGee, of Rockview avenue. Ex-Mayor Alexander Gilbert and wife will take the Mediterranean trip, sailing in the Fuerst Bismarck, January 24th.

WEDDED IN A SYNAGOGUE

HAPPY NUPTIAL EVENT IN HEBREW CIRCLES LAST NIGHT.

Civil Marriage Preceded the Religious One—Miss Fannie Mintz and Mr. Mayrowitz, the Principals—Groom From Morristown.

A very happy event in Hebrew circles took place, last evening, when Miss Fannie Mintz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Mintz, of 206 Grove street, and Morris Mayrowitz, a merchant of Morristown, were united in marriage.

The civil ceremony was performed by Justice Newcorn, in his office at 5 o'clock, and the religious ceremony took place at 7 o'clock in the Hebrew synagogue, Rev. Jacob Marcus, officiating.

At the latter place there were fully two hundred relatives and friends present from New York, Morristown and Plainfield.

At each ceremony the parents of both the bride and groom stood up with the happy couple, and the bride was given away by her parents.

The bride was richly gowned in white satin, trimmed with white silk ribbons.

Congratulations followed the ceremony, after which a sumptuous wedding supper was served at the hall, 204 West Front street. After supper dancing was indulged in and it was early this morning when the festivities came to an end.

The bride and groom were the recipients of a large collection of costly and useful presents. They will reside at Morristown, where the groom is engaged in business.

Died in Texas.

The death of Mrs. Lizzie Runyon occurred at San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 31st. She was the wife of Druell Runyon. The body will be brought to this city for interment and funeral services will be held in the First Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock.

A Public Installation.

For the first time in the history of the Improved Order of Red Men, Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, of this city, will hold a public installation of officers this evening. After the ceremonies there will be a dance and supper.

IDLE CABINET TALK

Not One of the Appointments Have Yet Been Made.

STATE AND TREASURY FIRST

Not Until These Two Principal Places Are Filled Will the Other Appointments Be Made --- The Latest Forecasts.

Cleveland, Jan. 8.—Major McKiley has removed from M. A. Hanna's handsome suburban residence, Glenmere, to the pleasant home of another friend, Myron T. Herrick, who lives in the heart of the residence portion of the city. Major and Mrs. McKinley will remain at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herrick until Monday morning, when they will return to Canton to stay till March 1, when they expect to leave for Washington. The report that Senator Sherman expects to leave Washington to make a visit to Major McKinley was received with a good deal of interest in political circles. Senator Sherman has not indicated as yet to Major McKinley when he is likely to visit him. The two principal places, that of secretary of state and secretary of the treasury, are still unfilled, and until they are provided for no other cabinet appointments will be made. It is obvious that the cabinet must be built up around these great positions. Therefore, those who understand the nature of the problem that confronts Major McKinley know when rumor seems definitely to announce that Mr. Bliss, or Mr. Payne or Mr. Merriam, or some other cabinet possibility, has been chosen and assigned a particular portfolio, before the offices of secretary of state and secretary of the treasury are filled, that the cabinet is being made up more rapidly by the gossips than by the president-elect. Gen. Felix Angus and other southern men who have talked with Major McKinley, have the impression that he would like to select one cabinet officer from the heart of the solid south and another one from the border states. Gen. Angus spoke very warmly in favor of judge Nathan Goff of West Virginia to Major McKinley, and said that it was plain that the president-elect had a very high opinion of him. H. C. Griffin, chairman, of the state central committee of Mississippi, called on the president-elect last evening.

DISCUSSED AT WASHINGTON.

The McKinley Cabinet One of the Leading Subjects at the National Capital.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Cabinet gossip is now one of the lively subjects discussed at the capitol. The report from Canton that the portfolio of secretary of state had been tendered to Senator Sherman, as printed in these dispatches yesterday, has started a general discussion of the merits of a number of gentlemen who have been "mentioned" in connection with cabinet honors. Many well informed members of the house and senate believe that Mr. Sherman will be Mr. Olney's successor in the state department, as it is known that Senator Allison will not accept the appointment. Those who assume to reflect Mr. Sherman's views maintain that he has no cabinet aspirations, and that he would prefer to remain in the senate. But Major McKinley, it is said, has determined that if Senator Allison will not accept the premiership of his administration, Senator Sherman must, and it is thought that the latter is unwilling to disappoint him. Senator Allison was recently re-elected for another term of six years beginning March 4 next. His position as chairman of the appropriations committee gives him great prominence in the senate, and his Iowa friends think he would be very unwise to exchange a position for which he is so admirably qualified for the fleeting glories of a cabinet portfolio. The same considerations are thought largely to influence Mr. Dingley of Maine. Mr. Dingley is relatively as prominent in the house as Mr. Sherman or Mr. Allison in the senate. Just at present he is more interested in the preparation of a tariff bill than in the secretaryship of the treasury, with which popular report has coupled his name. Few, if any, of his friends believe that he can be induced to enter the cabinet, and he has almost ceased to be a factor in the speculations respecting its personnel. Some of the western members believe that Judge McKenna of California, who was a member of the ways and means committee that framed the McKinley tariff bill, will be invited by President-elect McKinley to fill the office of attorney-general or secretary of the interior. Mr. Hanna is still regarded as a cabinet possibility, although his Ohio friends maintain that he has no aspirations in that direction, and only desires a seat in the senate.

DINGLEY DECLINED.

His Son's Newspaper Says the Congressman Was Offered Treasury Portfolio.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 8.—The Daily Telegraph, which is published by N. Dingley, a son of Congressman Dingley, publishes the following authoritative dispatch from Washington: "It can be stated definitely that Congressman Dingley, chairman of the ways and means committee, has decided not to accept a cabinet position. He was offered the place of secretary of the treasury by president-elect McKinley, and given time to consider it. Great pressure has been brought to have him accept it, but he has definitely decided not to take the place. His present duties are much more congenial to him. Furthermore, he fears the arduous duties of the treasury portfolio would seriously impair his health."

GOV. WOLCOTT'S MESSAGE.

Recommendations Made by the Chief Executive of Massachusetts.

Boston, Jan. 8.—Gov. Wolcott's address to the legislature yesterday after the inaugural ceremonies opened with a fitting tribute to the late Gov. Greenhalge. He also eulogized the careers of the late ex-governors George D. Robinson and William E. Russell. In his recommendations are. The improvement of Boston harbor and uniformity of systems in the responsible control of the charitable, penal and reformatory institutions of the state. The present laws against the sale of intoxicating liquors, the governor says, are good, and for the immediate present he advises concentrated effort to their enforcement rather than to venture inadvisedly upon new experiments. Local option, on the whole, he says, has proved reasonably successful. Regarding taxation, which the governor says is unsatisfactory under present statutes, the legislature is advised to postpone any important changes in the present laws until the commission appointed by the governor under authority of the legislature of 1896, to investigate the subject of taxation makes its report in October next. Regarding the repeated effort to have salaries of certain public officers increased, the governor says: "I do not think that the improved conditions of trade and business would warrant, or that the people would approve, any very considerable increase in the salary list of the commonwealth. But, if the legislature of this year shall determine wisely to deal with certain cases where the inadequacy of the salary is plainly manifest, I believe that the justice of their action would be conceded by all." The governor finished his address at 1:40, but it was not until 3:20 that any further business was taken up in the house. At that time the report of the joint special committee on the counting of the councillor vote came from the senate and was read by Clerk Kimball. Mr. Lowell of Boston moved suspension of the rules that the report might be acted upon at once. The rules were suspended and the report accepted by a viva voce vote, there being three or four nays. This report detailed the number of votes received by each candidate and certified to the election, among others, of Isaac B. Allen. The house then received the reports of the committee on the petition of John H. Sullivan, that he be declared elected councillor from the fourth councillor district. The rules were suspended and the majority report accepted unanimously. The councillors-elect were sworn in at 4:05. An order was adopted to have the secretary notify Gov. Wolcott that the councillors had been duly sworn. An order was adopted to notify the secretary, treasurer, auditor and attorney general and the house then adjourned until 2 o'clock Monday.

WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE.

Aspirants for the Place Left Vacant by the Death of ex-Speaker Crisp.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Speaker Reed gives no intimation when he will fill the democratic vacancy on the ways and means committee caused by the death of ex-Speaker Crisp of Georgia. The two principal aspirants for the appointment have been Mr. Newlands, silverite, of Nevada, and Mr. Swanson, democrat, of Virginia. Mr. Newlands is an ardent friend of silver, but he is also a protectionist. The democrats do not deny his ability, but they insist that the minority representation on the committee should be composed wholly of men who represent democratic views on the tariff and not the views of their republican opponents. To this Mr. Newlands replies that all democrats are not free traders, any more than all republicans are extreme protectionists. It is also urged in his favor that it has been a number of years since a representative of the Pacific slope had an appointment on the committee, and that the great industrial interests of that country would appreciate Mr. Newlands selection. Mr. Swanson is a young southerner. He is now serving his second term in the house and has been re-elected to the next congress. He is sound in the democratic faith from a party standpoint, but Speaker Reed is said to have expressed a doubt whether he has had sufficient experience in public life to justify his appointment to so important a committee. The name of Mr. McRae of Arkansas is under consideration. Mr. McRae was elected to the Forty-ninth congress and has been returned to the four congresses following, and in November last was elected to the Fifty-fifth congress. He has a capacity for hard work, is seldom absent from his seat in the house and is personally popular.

National Guard Athletic Carnival.

Albany, Jan. 8.—Gov. Black has ordered the members of his military staff to appear in full dress uniform next Monday night at Madison Square garden, New York city, on the occasion of the opening of the National Guard Military Bicycle and Athletic carnival. The governor said that he was not sure whether he could be present or not, but in the event of his not being able to do so Lieutenant-Governor Woodruff would represent him.

The Boer Indemnity.

Johannesburg, Jan. 8.—Johannesburg Standard announces that the government has completed its bill against the British government, demanding indemnity for the Jameson raid, and is about to forward it to London. The amount of the Boer claims, the paper says, is under £2,000,900.

Ambassador Bayard's Successor.

London, Jan. 8.—The Daily News expresses the hope that the report that Col. John Hay is to succeed Mr. Bayard as ambassador at the Court of St. James will prove true. "Besides his high ability," says the News "he is an exceedingly good fellow."

CHIMMIE FADDEN AGAIN.

He Describes Little Miss Fannie's Party to the Slum Children.

"Little Miss Fannie had a party. She's Miss Fannie's little goil, you know, and is de boss of our whole outfit, from his whiskers, what's her granddaddy, down t' me, what's stuck on her harder dan I am on most anybody or anyting else in dis wolld. Dat's right. I don't trot in her class, but she's so little she don't know it, and the only ting dat ever makes me sore is dat when she's growed up she'll know dat dere's more dan one class, and dat I ain't in hers.

"Tings is all right wid us now. She and de bull pup and me is ticker togedder dan Mr. Paul and a small bottle, and when dere ain't nobody else can jolly little Miss Fannie, when she's dead leary of her nurse and her maid and her mudder and de whole gang, den Miss Fannie she says t' me, says she, 'Chames,' she says, 'won't you amuse de baby?' And den me and de kid and de bull pup we has fun till de baby laughs till she has de hiccough.

"Up where we lives on de sound, when we ain't in town, dere isn't many poor kids like dere is on de east side, where I uster live, so de few dere is up dere is nearly killed wid all de jollying and tending and fussing dey has from de high toned folks what looks after 'em. Miss Fannie is stuck on dat kind of a job, 'cause she uster do it when I foist knowed her, before she was married.

"Say, honest, dat's a kinder habit, like hitting de pipe, dat fussing around and jollying de poor folks. His whiskers says dat if all de people in de wolld was t' get rich suddent dat Miss Fannie would have a law passed making a lot of 'em poor again, so as she could do tings for 'em.

"Well, Miss Fannie, she said she wanted de baby t' give a party for poor kids, 'cause on Christmas she is t' have all de rich little kids to a blowout, and she wanted her t' have de poor kids foist.

"Den Mr. Paul, he says, says he: 'But where are you going t' get de kids? You and your mission societies has given all de poor kids in dese parts so much close dey is all losing flesh from overweight dress, and dey all has de dispepsy from eating too much rich food.'

"I was in de room, and I says, 'Excuse me,' I says, 'but why don't you fetch a load of kids up from de city and let little Miss Fannie blow off de real article?'

"Say, dat made a hit wid Miss Fannie, and she says: 'De very ting, Chames. Will you arrange it?'

"'In a minute,' I says. And I did.

"De duchess and me we chases down here and goes to a lady I know what runs a mission school over Cherry Hill way, and I cops her de layout straight. She tumbles all right, 'cause, of course, she knows Miss Fannie, and I told her t' have 50 of de kids at de depot on de morning of de party, and I'd be dere t' fetch 'em all up to our place.

"Den de duchess wants t' know if all de kids couldn't be put in steam bat'tubs and kept dere till de day of de party.

"Say, ain't dat duchess de woist ever? 'Cert,' I says t' her. 'Dey will all be put t' soak in cologne and fed on violets all dat day,' I says. 'Dere ain't one of dose kids what ain't got a Turkey bat'room connected wid dere bedrooms,' says I.

"De lady teacher, she laughed and said she taut she could manage t' have de kids scrubbed up all right, all right.

"Well, dat's de way it was. I fetched de lady and de kids t' de house, an dey was turned loose. You never in your life seen such a graft. Foist off de kids was sort of paralyzed, and just stuck dere tumbs in dere mouts and looked like dey all had a jolt in de jaws. So I says t' de folks t' all chase dereselves and leave de kids t' little Miss Fannie and me and de bull pup.

"Dey done it, and den we had a circus. Foist, of course, we didn't do a ting t' 'em but trow grub in der mouts. We chickened 'em and tokeyed 'em and ice creamed 'em till dey was all poddy like de bull pup, and den little Miss Fannie, she says, 'What would you like t' have?' t' a little dago kid what had eyes like saucers.

"De kid taut awhile, and den he says, 'I wants dat,' says he, pointing to a marble statoo of Miss Fannie's head what a forn mug had been paid two tousand dollays for doing.

"'It's yours,' says little Miss Fannie, and den dey all began choosing, and in a minute dere wasn't a ting in de room what dat goil hadn't give away, even t' de rugs and de lectric lights. De only ting little Miss Fannie went shy on was when a Irish goil says dat she wanted me. De little one yelled murder at dat and says she couldn't spare me.

"Her yelling brought in de folks, and when I'd told how de game lay Mr. Paul asks if he wouldn't do in my place, but little Irish wouldn't have him. Den Mr. Paul, as sober as a judge in de Tombs, says how would Mr. Van Courtlandt do in exchange. Dat's his whiskers, you know, and Miss Irish looked him over and says dat he'll do.

"'He's yours,' says little Miss Fannie de first crack outter de box.

"We had a dead easy time getting de kids t' exchange de tings de little one had give 'em for de close and toys what was all fixed for 'em, except dat little Irish, who'd win his whiskers, wouldn't give up her bargain till she got a green dress besides de red one what was staked out for her."—Edward W. Townsend in New York Journal.

Winter Etchings.

The wind is growing crisper,
That makes our noses glow.
We hear it sigh and whisper,
"Look out for slush and snow."

The raven gayly circles:
The butcher does a jig,
While with his dirk he dirkles
The mellow rounded pig.

Oh, now the land is flowing
With cough drops lush and primel
The cider mill is going
In rhapsodies of rhyme.

With joy our hearts are brimming
Upon the frosty morn,
For while the sparrow's skimming
Song laden round the thorn

We watch the withered grasses
That catch the crystal flake
And pour rich gold molasses
Upon the buckwheat cake.

—R. K. Munkittrick in New York Journal.

Biliousness

Is caused by torpid liver, which prevents digestion and permits food to ferment and putrify in the stomach. Then follow dizziness, headache,

Hood's Pills

insomina, nervousness, and, if not relieved, bilious fever or blood poisoning. Hood's Pills stimulate the stomach, rouse the liver, cure headache, dizziness, constipation, etc. 25 cents. Sold by all druggists. The only Pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The Difference

"I see no difference between H-O and any other oatmeal!" We know it. The difference is not to be seen. You taste, and smell, and feel the difference, though!

H-O

is different from all others, in that it is more sweet, smooth, delicate, digestible. Its preparation begins where the others leave off. It is twice cooked, once by steam, once by super-heated air. Thus half the work of digestion is done, and the system is never over-taxed or over-heated.

Be sure to get the package with the big H-O on the end.

Subscriptions Free to

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly
Illustrated American (Weekly)
Truth (Weekly)
New England Magazine
Chatterbox (Monthly)
The American Kitchen Magazine
Home Magazine (Monthly)
of Binghamton, N. Y.

WITH COUPONS FROM THE

H.O.Co.'s Goods

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.
Tonsorial parlor, 304 Park ave., Plainfield
Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

Honeyman's Private Tours.
Plainfield, N. J.
To Florida, February 9—Two weeks.
To Inauguration, Washington, March 3—Two days.
To Washington, Easter Vacation, April 6—Three days.
To Europe, June 30—Two months.

Climatic Extremes

OF

NORTH and SOUTH

are blended ideally at

OLD POINT COMFORT

AND

RICHMOND, Va.,

Thus making these the most desirable places for winter outings.

They may be reached delightfully by the luxurious and modern steamships of the

Old Dominion Line

Sailing every week day from New York.

Send for full information.

Old Dominion S. S. Co.
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILLAUDEU, Vice-Pres't & Traffic Mgr
12 17-6 m

MULLINS & SONS

218-220 Market St., Newark.

BIG SALE

OF

PARLOR SUITS AND CARPETS.

Handsome New Parlor Suits, upholstered in Brocatelle, Silk Tapestry, Mohair, Plush or Rug. It is worth while your time to see them even if you do not intend to buy.

$25 $25

Such values have never before been offered. Over 100 styles to select from. No other house shows as large a stock. No other house can offer you such great values.

CARPET BARGAINS.

Tapestry Brussels 45c. yd
Milton Velvet 85c. yd
Ingrains 35c. yd

All of the highest quality of carpets and new designs.

All Parlor Suits Reduced From $2 50 up.

Don't Miss Our Great Sale of Parlor Suits.

Easy terms of credit to everybody. We will furnish your home for $1 per week. Make your own terms.

MULLINS & SONS.

218-220 Market St., Newark.

Branch Stores 78-84 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. 121-125 Newark Ave., Jersey City, N. J. 136-138 Main St., Paterson, N. J.

Boots, Shoes & Rubbers.
AT FORCE'S,
119 West Front St.
Formerly 129 Park Ave. 39 tf

L. A. HUMMER'S
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
29 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

Rushton, Hansen & Luthman,
PAINTERS
AND PAPER HANGERS,
Office and shop Sycamore and 4th sts.
Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

Potter & Kellogg,
DEALERS IN
Lehigh Valley Coal.
Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard—At Mt. Pleasant, Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1-y

The Metropolitan Boarding Stables
C. V. D. CORLE, - - - - - - Proprietor
No. 138 East Second street. Livery and Boarding and Sale Stable. Horses boarded by the day, week, month or hour. Reasonable prices. 11 17 1y

HERMAN KELLER,
Manufacturer of and Retail Dealer in
Cigars, Tobacco, etc.
"PRIDE OF PLAINFIELD" CIGAR a specialty 116 North avenue. 9 25 tf

MRS. L. ADAMS,
MILLINERY.
Ready made gowns and dresses ordered from samples. All the latest novelties of the season.
114 EAST FRONT STREET.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made the premises from the finest Havana. Also, Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.
Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.
Telephone Call 126a

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing,
Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS.
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Dug

BRAIN FOOD.

Edw. P. Thorn,
RETAIL DEALER IN
Fish, Oysters, and Clams.
Terms Cash. Goods Delivered

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country. Charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed. Orders may be left at Sattel's music store, 221 Park ave.

The Largest Selection of

Wall Papers

—AND—

Painter's Supplies

in Plainfield.

Woolston & Buckle,

141-145 North avenue.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital..... $200,000.
Surplus and Profits..... $90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. RUNYON, Ass't "

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Coriell,
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil,
Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Rushmore,
J. W. Johnson, Wm. B. Codington.
F. S. Runyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

Christmas Wreaths Roping Holly, etc. Also, Palms,

Rubber Trees, Begonias, Ferns Floral Designs, House and Church Decorations. Southern Smilax at 15 days notice.

DENTON'S.

131 Hillside avenue.

A GOOD FIRE

will make cheerful many of the evenings of the New Year. We'll sell you the coal—good coal—and plenty of it. We don't sell you dirt for coal. We don't sell you short measure. We want your coal trade always.

D. C. IVINS & CO.

Coal, Lumber, &c. 301-311 Watchung Ave.

CLEANER COAL.

and L. A. RHEAUME, N. H. SAXTON.

Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,

Invite the public to inspect the operation of their newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which they confidently believe enables them to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.

Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal

in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.

Kindling Wood a Specialty.

Rushmore & Co.,

WATCHUNG AVENUE,
COR. FOURTH ST.

Lumber yard and Planing Mill.

Large and full assortment of lumber including 21 varities from Hemlock to Mahogany always in stock. Window frames, moulding, sash, doors and blinds. Hardwood floors a specialty. Turning and scroll sawing. We can make anything. Call and see us. Satisfaction guaranted.

00

"It is Making a Hit."

FEIGENSPAN'S Finest Pale Ale

IN BOTTLES, and

FEIGENSPAN'S SAAZER BEER

At Hotel Grenada Bar.

00

The Plainfield Confectioners,

112 West Front street.

Candies from 10, 15 and 20 cents per lb. up. The very best goods. Made daily on the premises. Formerly known as the New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Comp'y. 9 9 1y

CITY HOTEL.

Plainfield, N. J.

Corner Park avenue and Second street.

I. E. Beerbower, Prop

Stables attached

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL,

No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.

Harry C. Adams, Regent.

Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

Opportunity for Safe and Profitable Investment.

The N. J. MUTUAL REALTY COMPANY.

(Incorporated.)

Have acquired 200 acres of land with 6,000 feet frontage on C. R. R. of N. J. and Lehigh Valley Railroad at a cost of $22,500 and propose selling stock to small investors in $100 shares at par to pay for property. Already negotiations are pending to locate first-class manufactories along railroad front.

This plan will enable the Company to sell building lots at low prices, and all profits derived from sale of this property is to be divided among stockholders.

All stock payable to Treas. of Company on or before April 1, 1897. Already upwards of $10,000 stock have been subscribed for.

The following gentlemen are officers and directors of the Company.

A. D. Thompson, Sylvanus Ayres, Jr., Peter Egenolf, President Board of Trade, Elizabeth; P. H. Oakley, Insurance Broker; S. D. Drake, Richard H. Brokaw, cashier First National Bank, Bound Brook; W. W. Smalley, firm of L. D. Cook & Co.

For prospectus and full particulars call or address,

N. J. MUTUAL REALTY CO.,

ROSS BUILDING, BOUND BROOK, N. J.

Or First National Bank, Plainfield and Bound Brook. 1 4 1w

Have You Bought Your OVERCOAT?

If not, come to WERNER'S CLOTHING HOUSE and take advantage of the CUT SALE now going on.

STOCK MUST BE SOLD.

Hats and Furnishing Goods a Specialty.

H. WERNER, Clothier,

No. 206 West Front Street.

COLD WEATHER GOODS

AT

PUTNAM & DEGRAW'S

Underwear, Gloves, Hosiery, &c.

Agents for the "Golden Rule" CLOTHES RACK and IRONING TABLE, $1.00 each.

A. LUSARDI,

120 NORTH AVENUE.
Wholesale and Retail

Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds of Confectionery, Peanuts, Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets

NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE

Sewer Connections.

DAVID BOWDEN,

General Contractor, 109 Park ave., Plainfield N. J. Carriage drives macadamized, sewers and sewer connections promptly made, lawns carefully restored. All work done in a practical and skilful manner.

28 YEARS EXPERIENCE.

Best of references furnished. Charges moderate 4 18 tf

C. W. LINES,

Mason and Builder

Plainfield, N. J.

Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly to

PEARSON & GAYLE,

Carpenters and Builders.

Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.

All work promptly attended to.

HOTEL TUILERIES !

AND ROGER'S RESTAURANT,

139-141 East Front street.

ROOMS TO LET. CATERING

30,000 CIGARS

of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of the city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue,
Plainfield.

8 15 tf

E. H. Holmes,

Dealer in

Coal & Wood.

Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

Telephone 49-A.

William Hand & Son.

STAGES

For Parties, etc., 518 Park ave.

Within the reach of all.

ACCIDENT TICKETS.

THE INTER-STATE

Casualty Company of New York gives SIX MONTHS' insurance

$1.000 for $1.00,

to men or women

between 18 and 60 years of age, against accidental death. $100,000 deposited with the Insurance Deparment of the State of New York for the security of the insured.

For sale at office of

Honeyman's Private Tours,

181 North Ave. Plainfield, N.J.

6 25-6 mos

McCullough's

STEAM MILL,

21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.

R. H. McCullough, Prop.

Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,

Real Estate and Insurance,

197 North avenue

W. N. Pangborn,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER,

Residence, 33 Linden Ave.

Personal attention. Prompt service.

Telephone 29b. 1 14 tf

Established 1878.

PIANOS

If you want a deep, clear, rich tone, and the best material, buy your PIANOS at W. R. BROKAW'S, Piano Parlors, 311 Madison ave. Bargains in second-hand instruments. Parlors always open. Tuning and regulating a specialty.

Your Valuables

will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

J. W. VanSickle,

FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.

Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Philadelphia Scrapple.

REVERE HOUSE

PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD New Jersey.

Families accomodated for the fall and winter months at greatly reduced prices.

The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed.

GEO. B. DE REVERE.

HIS FIGHT FOR CUBA

Senator Mills the Ally of Those Now Struggling for Liberty.

WILL PUSH HIS LATEST RESOLUTION

A Vigorous Speech Expected from the Texan in the Senate Next Monday---May Precipitate Sensational Debate.

Washington, Jan. 8.—When Senator Mills' resolution recognizing the independence of Cuba comes up in the senate next Monday it is anticipated that his speech on the measure will be a vigorous one, because he is a hearty supporter of the cause of the Cubans, as his resolution, the gist of which follows, indicates: "Resolved by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, That the expediency of recognizing the independence of a foreign government belongs to congress, and when congress shall so determine the executive shall act in harmony with the legislative department of the government. Second—That the independence of the republic ought to be and hereby is recognized, and the sum of $10,000 is hereby appropriated for the salary and expenses of a minister to that government, whenever such minister shall be appointed by the president." It is possible that Senator Mills' speech will precipitate a debate on Cuba highly sensational, and one which the Spanish sympathizers in the senate will be unable to check.

PLUCKY DAUNTLESS CAPTAIN.

Again Applies for Permission To Take Munitions of War to Cuba.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 8.—Although the steam tug Dauntless is in custody of an officer of the revenue cutter Boutwell as a result of her last trip, from which she returned Monday night, her owner, W. A. Bisbee, yesterday applied for clearance papers for the steamer to go to Neuvitas, Cuba, with a cargo of arms and ammunition. Deputy Collector Hopkins telegraphed the secretary of the treasury for permission to clear the vessel. Secretary Carlisle replied, ordering the collector to refuse clearance until further orders. The officers of the Dauntless still deny that they have been to Cuba. All that can be gotten from them is that they transferred the men and cargo taken from No Name Key to another vessel, presumably the Bermuda. Nothing has been done towards libelling the Dauntless for violating the navigation laws by going into foreign waters without clearing, or violating the neutrality laws. It is probable that a libel of informatian will be filed in a day or two.

Civil Trial for Dr. Betancourt.

Havana, Jan. 8.—Dr. Betancourt, a dentist of this city and a naturalized American citizen, who was arrested here last month as a political suspect, will be tried by a civil court. The chaages which he will have to answer are that he was connected with conspirators who formed groups in the Central park for the spread of the rebel propaganda, and received and distributed rebel letters. Captain General Weyler has refused to allow a demonstration in his honor that his admirers had intended to make.

To Move His Operations into Havana.

Madrid, Jan. 8.—An official dispatch received from Havana states that Capt.-Gen. Weyler will intrust the military operations in the province of Pinar del Rio to another commander while he himself will direct decisive operations against the rebels in the provinces of Havana and Matanzas. It is also stated that he has given permission to the sugar planters to resume work on their estates.

The Disbrow Statement Not Warranted.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 8.—There is no warrant whatever for the statement that Gen. W. E. Disbrow's accounts as quarter-master-general are not all right. General Disbrow is very ill at his home here and for the past six weeks his physician and nurse were about the only ones permitted to see or converse with him.

Gold Vein in Connecticut.

Winsted, Conn., Jan. 8. — Mason Brothers, farmers, living in Nepaug, six miles east of here, are out with the claim that they have discovered gold on their farm. Experts have analyzed samples of rock quartz and pronounce that it contains gold. They started to work the vein this week.

Difficult Position To Fill.

Albany, Jan. 8.—The state civil service commission has removed the qualification of citizenship in the state of New York for candidates entering junior physician and medical interne examinations. An examination of applicants for these positions will be held by the commission in Albany, Feb. 4.

Special Train for Troop F, U. S. C.

Burlington, Vt., Jan. 8.—Troop F, Third United States cavalry, will leave Fort Ethan Allen Sunday night in Wagner sleeping cars tendered by Col. W. Seward Webb of Shelburn Farms to attend the military tournament in Madison Square garden, New York, next week.

Newport's New Naval Hospital.

Newport, R. I., Jan. 8.—The new naval hospital at this point, which has just been opened, is in charge of Past Assistant Surgeon Brainstead. The hospital will take the more serious cases from the war college, torpedo station and training station.

An Eau Claire Bank Closes.

Eau Claire, Wis., Jan. 8.—The Commercial bank of Eau Claire closed yesterday. The failure was due to the suspension of the Allemania bank of St. Paul, Minn.

PRIZE FIGHTERS GO FREE.

Coroner Decides That Duffy's Death Was Not Due to a Blow.

New York, Jan. 8.—Coroner Dobbs jury has exonerated George Justice O'Rourke and Richard Roche of any blame for the death of James Duffy who died a few hours after his fight with Justice before the Broadway Athletic club on Saturday night. The inquest developed that Duffy was suffering from enlargement of the heart and that his death was due rather to excitement and overexertion than to any blow he received in the fight. Dr. John Wilson Gibbs testified that a violent sneeze could have produced the cerebral hemorrhage which was the immediate cause of death. After the testimony of Acting Inspector Allaire, Acting Captain Groo and Sergeant Albertson had been delivered the hearing lost the character of an inquest. District Attorney Olcott announced that there was no question as to the innocence of the defendants. He said he wanted to determine through expert testimony whether or not a medical examination of fighters before they entered the ring would keep men physically unfit out of it and prevent a recurrence of Saturday's tragedy. His object was to lay the matter before the legislature. The jury in closing its verdict said: "We recommend that every regularly organized athletic club or institution be compelled by law to have a reputable and competent physician and surgeon on hand to examine all would-be participants in proposed games or sports of any character to be held under the auspices of the club or institution."

CARE OF THE INDIANS.

A Board of Commissioners May Replace the Present Commissioner.

Washington, Jan. 8.—In the opinion of the house committee on Indian affairs the changed condition of things has so increased the extent and variety of the duties of the commissioner of Indian affairs that an efficient administration of the service is almost beyond the capacity of a single commissioner, and, in view of this circumstance, the committee has favorably reported a bill to abolish the office of commissioner and assistant commissioner, and to create in lieu thereof a board of commissioners. The committee believes that a more efficient administration can be obtained by apportioning the Indian work among three individuals, giving to each one certain well-defined duties and making him solely responsible for their management. An important feature of this work will be a greater permanence in the service and more uniform and systematic method of civilizing the Indians. Under the present condition of constant change all efforts to uplift the indian are more or less poradic. One commissioner has different ideas from those of his predecessor, and the result is that one policy is hardly outlined before another is substituted.

VISITORS AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Mr. and Mrs. Booth-Tucker Call on the President and Wife.

Washington, Jan. 8. — Commander and Mrs. Booth-Tucker, who are in charge of the Salvation army in the United States, are in this city, the guests of ex-Secretary of the Treasury Foster, who will give a reception in their honor this afternoon. This morning the commander and his wife visited the White House and explained to President and Mrs. Cleveland the workings of the Salvation army. It is said that their visit to the White House was at the request of Mrs. Cleveland.

Opening for an Agricultural Editor.

Albany, Jan. 8.—An open competitive civil service examination for the position of editor and librarian at the New York agricultural experimental station at Geneva will be held at Rochester, February 2. The duties of the position are to edit the publications of the station, to write popular summaries of the results of investigations, to compile data and collect and arrange the library. The salary will be $1,800.

Pratt Estate Controls L. I. Railroad.

New York, Jan. 8.—The holding of the Austin Corbin estate in the stock of the Long Island railroad has been transferred to the Charles M. Pratt estate. It amounted to $3,000,000 par value and increased the Pratt estate holding to $6,500,000, or more than a majority of the entire capital stock of the railroad which is $12,000,000.

Emigrant Rates Advanced.

New York, Jan. 8.—The board of managers of the Joint Traffic association has ordered an advance in emigrant rates to take effect March 1. The rate from New York to Chicago will be increased from $13 to $15 and to other points correspondingly. Only immigrants from foreign countries can travel on immigrant tickets.

Ziegfeld and Anna Held Not Engaged.

Philadelphia, Jan. 8.—F. Ziegfeld, jr., under whose auspices Anna Held, the Parisian dancer, is appearing in this country, denies that he and Miss Held are engaged to be married as has been stated.

Placed on the Retired List.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Col. James P. Canby of the pay corps of the army has just been placed on the retired list, having reached the age limit. The vacancy has already attracted numerous candidates.

Fell Through the Ice and Drowned.

Binghamton, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Willie Kenefick, aged 7 years, son of William Kenefick of this city, was drowned at Nickolson, Pa., yesterday. He was sliding on a pond when he fell through an air hole.

One Minneapolis Bank Resumes.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 8.—The Bankers Exchange bank of this city, which suspended some days ago, has resumed business.

WHITE HOUSE DINNER

First Function of the Kind of the Present Social Season.

EAST ROOM BEAUTIFULLY DECORATED

President and Mrs. Cleveland Receive Members of the Cabinet, Their Wives and Other Distinguished Guests.

Washington, Jan. 8.—The President and Mrs. Cleveland gave the first state dinner of the social season at the executive mansion last night. The state dining room was flooded with electric light which set off the floral decorations and potted plants and ferns and palms to great advantage. The east room, in which the guests were received, was beautifully decorated. The mantels were banked with flowers and running ivy was pendant on the magnificent chandeliers, through which the electric lights sparkled, with charming effect. Huge palms were set about the vast room, making it look like a tropical garden. At 8 o'clock the president gave his arm to Mrs. Stevenson, the vice-president to Mrs. Cleveland, the cabinet following in order of rank and the procession filed in to dinner. The guests present were: The Vice-President and Mrs. Stevenson, the Secretary of State and Mrs. Olney, the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Carlisle, the Secretary of War and Mrs. Lamont, the Attorney General and Mrs. Harmon, the Postmaster General and Mrs. Wilson, the Secretary of the Navy and Miss Herbert, the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Francis, the Secretary of Agriculture and Miss Morton, the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Reed, Senator and Mrs. Vilas, Senator Hale, Representative George P. Harrison and Mrs. Harrison, Hon. Charles S. Fairchild and Mrs. Fairchild, Hon. Wilson S. Bissell and Mrs. Bissell, Hon. Hoke Smith, Mrs. Don M. Dickinson, President Patton of Princeton university, Miss Alice Lee and Mrs. Perrine. After the dinner the guests lingered for some time in the east room.

THE FRENCH CENSUS.

A Total Increase in Population Since 1891 of Only 175,027.

Paris, Jan. 8.—The results of the last census, which are just published, show that there is no sign of recovery in the birth rate. The total increase in the population of France since 1891 is only 175,027, while the number of foreigners in France is decreasing. The large towns are growing slightly at the expense of the smaller towns and the rural districts. The inhabitants have increased in twenty-four departments and have decreased in sixty-three department. The minister of the interior, M. Barthou, notes an increase of emigration, but is compelled to confess the marked tendency of the population to remain stationary as to numbers.

Pope's Blessing for Citizens of Lawrence.

Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 8.—On Saturday last the city of Lawrence gave official reception in honor of apostolic delegate, Archbishop Martinelli, the first distinction of the kind ever accorded. In recognition, the pope through Cardinal Rampolli, has sent to Rev. James T. O'Reilly, pastor of St. Mary's church, the following blessing: "The Holy Father has heard with pleasure of the public demonstrations in honor of Monsignor Martinelli, apostolic delegate, and gratefully bestows his blessing on the citizens of Lawrence." This is said to be the first blessing bestowed by the pope upon an American municipality.

Americans for American Warships.

Washington, Jan. 8.—American warships can at last be manned by American seamen as demonstrated in the case of the new cruiser Brooklyn which has just been made ready for sea at Philadelphia. Secretary Herbert announces a report from Commander Cooke, commanding that vessel, showing in the complement of that vessel 401 sailors were enlisted of whom but thirteen were aliens. This proportion is insignificant compared with that of other warships heretofore commissioned and it is believed that in a short time it will be possible in the navy to "put none but Americans on guard."

To Be No Change in the Spanish Ministry.

Madrid, Jan. 8.—Senor Canovas del Castillo, prime minister, personally denies that there is any foundation whatever for the reports of impending changes in the Spanish ministry, which have been in circulation within the last few days. The cortes will met in April, when important measures will be submitted to parliament by the government.

To Increase the Tax on Beer.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Mr. Goodwyn of Alabama has introduced a bill in the house imposing a tax of two dollars a barrel on lager beer, ale, porter and other similar fermented liquors, where the barrel contains more than thirty-one gallons, with a like rate for any other quantity or for any fractional part of a barrel.

Diseased Cows Killed.

Schuylkillhaven, Pa., Jan. 8.—Thirty cows at the Schuylkill county home have been killed in the presence of State Veterinarian Sallada, the poor directors and a number of other people. These cattle were afflicted with tubereulosis.

Denver Bank To Reopen Its Doors.

Washington, Jan. 8.—The American National bank of Denver, which suspended April 21, 1896, has just been permitted to reopen its doors for business.

A Postoffice Fraud Order.

Washington, Jan. 8.—The postmaster-general has issued a fraud order against G. R. Stevens of New York city.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m. 28 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 8, 1897.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Tonight, and Saturday Partly Cloudy Warmer.

At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 58 Degrees.

A WEAK POINT.

Mayor Fisk's idea of having forty paid call firemen at $30 each per year, according to the News, is based on the proposition that it would not cost the city in reality any more than to have one hundred volunteer firemen enjoying an exemption of $500 on taxable property, because if that exemption was obviated by payment of a nominal salary the city would have $50,000 more assessed valuation to tax, and at the present rate this sum would produce almost the $1,200 necessary to pay the call men. This contention can only be made on the presumption that all or nearly all the volunteer firemen are property owners. We have not the exact per centage of property owners in the department at hand, but it has been stated that they are in a minority. If such is the case, and the present status of the department is the only index of what the future might be, it would mean an additional expense of a few hundred dollars for the taxpayers to raise. Admittedly, it would be small, but still the disposition of property owners at the present time is not to countenance even small additional expenses.

When we mentioned this point in our review of the Mayor's message it was not done in the light of criticism, but simply to impress on Mr. Fisk the one principal weak point of his message as reflecting against his professed intentions of giving the people the most economical administration that is possible.

THE WHY OF THE WHEREFOR.

The Elizabeth Journal gives utterance to the opinion that "Plainfield doesn't want to be a new county all unto herself, after all," because there is no pronounced sentiment in favor of such a scheme. What we want and what we can get are things that are distantly related, we hasten to inform the Journal. It can be safely ventured that a great majority—a very great—of Plainfielders would delight in seeing the Colorado of the East elevated to the position of a county seat, but knowing the animosty of the political dogs of Elizabeth towards losing Plainfield—of course, you can't blame them—and through what trials and tribulations we would have to pass to take leave, the people are rather slow to dash into a political tug-of-war that the Legislature would have to referee.

LEGISLATIVE SNAPS.

The Republican Senators will meet in caucus at Trenton this evening to formally decide on the candidates that they will support for the officials of the upper house of the Legislature. There are only three offices that have not already been settled on, and these are minor ones. Where the disappointment will come will be after the appointive officers are named by the presiding officers of both houses.

ARE YOU STEADFAST.

Has your New Year resolution flown with the first week of the year?

SINGING TO BE A FEATURE.

Union Revival Services to be Held by Evangelical Churches.

It has been decided by all the evangelical churches of the city to join in union services every evening next week at the First Baptist church, in the attempt to have a grand awakening of the spiritual forces of the city. At present there are only four churches joining in the union week of prayer services, but the meetings next week will include all the denominations. Singing is intended to be one of the special features of the meetings and an effort is being made to get the Christian Endeavor convention choir together to lead. Those in charge request all Christian Endeavorers and Epworth Leaguers, who were members of the big choir, to attend the meetings next week and add their voice to the grand volume of tone that will add interest to the services.

One New Member Added.

Senate Lodge, Knights of Honor, had a large and enthusiastic meeting in their rooms in Firemen's Hall last evening. One new member was elected. A pleasant social evening was passed after the business meeting.

You can be well when your blood is rich, pure and nourishing. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood rich and pure and cures all blood diseases, restoring health and vigor.

Hood's pills are easy to take, easy to operate. Cure indigestion, headache. 25c.

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East.

Miss Young, of Trenton, is the guest of Miss Boice, of East Front street.

Willie VanEps, of Park avenue, has recovered from a slight illness, which has detained him from school.

Miss Holt, of New York, has been a guest at the home of Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Uhler, of East Front street, expect to take up their residence in New York at an early date.

Mrs. L. C. Dunn, of Park avenue, who has been visiting relatives in New Brunswick, returned home yesterday.

Randolph Giles and Willard Randolph, of New Market, have returned home after a pleasant visit with friends in this city.

Miss Anna B. Stone, who has been in New York during the season just passed, has returned to her home on Central avenue.

Miss Jennie Morris, of New Brunswick, has returned home after a pleasant visit with her brother, L. D. Morris, of West Front street.

Mrs. Uhler, of East Front street, who has been entertaining her brother from Lebanon, Pa., regretted his departure for home yesterday.

The wife of Rev. T. Logan Murphy, of the Church of the Holy Cross, returned home last evening having passed a very pleasant week with Mrs. Charles I. Taggart, in New York.

Joel Norton, of Wellesville, N. Y., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hubburd of West Fifth street. Mr. Norton says he likes Plainfield very much indeed, and will remain here for an indefinite period.

PASSING COMMENT.

John Risler, of Locktown, near Flemington, killed a cow Wednesday which had a good-sized country hardware store in its stomach. Ninety-three pieces of hardware were found, besides two stones as large as a walnut. Among the other things were a padlock and key, a file, thirty-nine nails, two screws, three pieces of wire, one hog ring and a spike two and a half inches in length. The cow was in good health when killed.

* * * *

There are very few kinds of business that have not been advertised by the progressive people of this country but it is something new for the government to advertise its institutions. Such is the case, however, in the city of Independence, Iowa, where the Bulletin-Journal, of that city, publishes the advertisement for the Joslinville postoffice. The advertisement reads as follows:—"Joslinville Postoffice. Mailmatter received and delivered at the Joslinville Store. Stamps for sale." Whether the enterprising westerner that inserted the advertisement receives pay for the amount of mail matter that he receives and delivers or whether he is making a fortune on postage stamps, it is hard to say. At all events it is evident that there is something in it.

* * * *

It has been suggested by several politicians that the city purchase the building, now known as the Seminary, for the new city hall. The arguments advanced in favor of the plan are that the building is amply able to accomodate all the city officials and give plenty of room for the different rooms necessary in a city hall. The building is located in one of the nicest parts of the city and the large grounds that surround it could be connected with the city park which is close by. It would be in close proximity to the Public Library. The promoters of the scheme say that if, in the future, the city should wish to tear down the present building and erect a new one, they would not be cramped for room but would be able to put up a building worthy of the city.

* * * *

The friends of a certain barber in this city are enjoying a joke that the tonsorial artist played on himself the other day. He takes his laundry to the Chinamen as a usual thing and divides his custom between the Celestial on North avenue and the one on Somerset street. One day he told a friend that he was going after his laundry and the friend accompanied him. He went to the store of the Chinese laundry man on Somerset street and presented his ticket. The foreigner said that he didn't have the laundry, at which the temper of the barber rose and he demanded the wash at once. The Chinaman's command of the English language was not of the best but he tried to explain that he didn't give out the ticket. The barber raved and was for going over the counter and dragging the terrified Mongolian into the street. The next day the barber saw his friend and told him that he had found the missing laundry at the North avenue establishment but how it got there he innocently professes complete ignorance.

"A Merry-Thought"

Try a chicken potpie made with

Cleveland's Baking Powder

STOCKTON MAY STAY IN.

DEMOCRAT LIKELY TO HOLD THE STATE ATTORNEY GENERALSHIP.

He is a Warm Personal Friend of the Governor and Has Held Office For Many Years—Indorsed by Some Republicans.

Many prominent Republicans believe that Attorney-General Stockton, whose term expires next March, is to be either appointed or allowed to hold his office for several years longer. Gossip has changed materially in the last few days, and little is heard now about giving the Attorney-Generalship to the well-known corparation lawyer, Samuel H. Gray, who a short time ago was regarded as almost as good as appointed to the place.

The Attorney General is the last of the great family of Stocktons, who have figured conspicuously in the history of the State for a century and a half. He is now seventy years old, and is still vigorous, physically and mentally. Republicans admit he has made an efficient State officer, excluding his part in the Senate controversy. He has many Republican admirers, and they are willing to excuse his course in the perilous times of the rump Senate on the ground that he took a lawyer's view, based on the evidence that was submitted, and that morally he was not in sympathy with obstructionists.

The Governor is a friend of the Attorney General, and all the prominent Republicans of the State are also his warm personal friends. The Attorney General is a poor man. He has been a "good liver," and has provided magnificently for his large family. There is much sympathy for him, because it would greatly annoy him if he should be turned out, like an old horse, to end his days in idleness.

The argument is gaining ground that this Republican administration is under obligation to sound money Democrats of the State, for at least 60,000 Democratic votes were cast for McKinley and Hobart, and that the administration is bound to give a good office to a representative of that large body of voters.

General Stockton is well indorsed by Republicans, and this would be the Governor's warrant, should he decide to reappoint him.

Resented an Insult.

Some of the young people of this city are greatly excited over some trouble that occured between two well-known young men of this city a few days ago. One of them, in a moment of forgetfulness, adressed some insulting remarks to the other in the presence of several young lady friends of the latter. When they met again, the insulted one proceeded to wipe up the sidewalk with his old friend. Threats of arrest and prosecution followed but now both parties have decided to let the matter drop.

Lectures on Literary Lights.

The North Plainfield Circle of the Daughters of the Cross have arranged for three public lectures by Leon H. Vincent, of Philadelphia, on the afternoon of January 28, and the following Thursday afternoons, beginning at 4 o'clock, at the Y. M. C. A. hall. The subjects are "Carlyle and His Wife," "George Elliot" and "Charles Dickens." Mr. Vincent is one of the most enteresting and instructive speakers now on the lecture platform. He is well-known in Plainfield.

May Open a Branch Store.

Through the influence of J. Howard Leggett, it is possible that Day, the celebrated confectioner and caterer, may open a branch store in the eastern part of the city. In case Mr. Day comes to Plainfield, his store will be up to the high standard he has maintained in Newark and Morristown. It is probable that he may take the store in the new building now in course of construction on East Front street.

A Plainfield Inventor.

A recent number of the Official Gazette of the Patent Office at Washington devotes over a page to the description of a patent fire alarm system invented by Albert C. Rogers, of this city.

A JEWEL.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear."
And many a gem by mortals here unseen
Are waiting to be worn by some sweet fair.
In our well-stocked cases now are laid
Jewels that shine with scintilating fire;
In the latest fads and fashions made
That the connoisseur in jewelry must admire.
Design and workmanship are of the best.
So lovely woman do not hide
Those charms that Nature's sweet behest
Endows you with, but with woman's pride
Enhance your beauty as you see best.

COLLIER,
103 Park Ave. Established 1869.

THE BEE HIVE.

Men's Unlaundered Shirts

Lot 1—The "Cast Iron Shirt," made of good heavy muslin, good 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—38c.

Lot 2—New York Mills muslin, 3-ply fine linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—48c.

Lot 3—Our New York Mills shirt, made of New York Mills muslin, 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced ront and back, continuous facing and hand-made buttonholes, equal to the best custom-made shirt—69c.

Boys' unlaundered shirts, 38c.

Men's laundered shirts 50c., 75c and $1.00

LOUIS CALLMAN
222 West Front Street.

BOROUGH NOTICE

The ordinance requires occupants of property to remove snow and ice from sidewalks within five hours after it accumulates. Notice is hereby given that the penalty for violation of this ordinance will hereafter be strictly enforced.

B. A. HEGEMAN, JR.,
1 6 12 Mayor.

P. H. ZIMMER,
Practical Machinist and Engineer,
Steam, Gas and Electric Contracting. Complete Power Plants Installed. Experimental work. General Jobbing. All kinds of repairing. EXCHANGE ALLEY, in rear of Trinity church. Bicycles built to order. 12

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield January 4th, 1897.

Amerman Rev Jas L	Hickey Miss Rosie
Boehm Miss A S	Mitchell C H
Bristand, Miss Ann Allison	Mattis Wm
Corbett Miss Mary E.	Stewart Mrs Leonora
Compton T A	Sullivan Jas F
Eager Geo	Tevis E E
Hamilton John M	Tennyson Mrs Jas
Haldane Miss Emily	VanDoren H J
Hopkins Mr	Voorhees Miss E A
	Vermeule Wm

IRVING SAVINGS INSTITUTION,
96 WARREN STREET, NEW YORK.

The Trustees of this institution have declared interest on all sums remaining on deposit during the three and six months ending December 31, 1896, at the rate of FOUR PER CENT. per annum on amounts from $1 to $3,000, payable on and after Monday, Jan. 18, 1897. Deposits made on or before Jan. 10 will draw interest from Jan. 1.

G. BYRON LATIMER, Secretary. W. H. B. TOTTEN, President.
12 30 10

P. MARKEY, Bakery,
144 PARK AVENUE.
A full assortment of bread, cakes, and pies fresh every day. Fig and malt bread a specialty. 2 17 tf

ALMOST any old HOSE SUPPORTER will do for some people; but those looking for Comfort and Economy Use only

The Velvet Grip with the Cushion Button Clasp.

Sample Pair, by Mail, 25c.
GEORGE FROST CO., BOSTON, MASS.
YOUR DEALER HAS THEM.
Catalogue Free.

ALL RADIATE from THE CENTRAL STORE

PECK'S.

EVERY THING

For the Fire-place.
MANTELS, TILES, GRATES.
SPARK GUARDS, $1.25 and up.
Curtis M. Thorpe, 310-312 Park Avenue.

--JAQUETT'S--

CLOTHING Of the Latest Style for Men, Boys' and Children. Suits and Overcoats.

SUITS and OVERCOATS. School Suits, from 75c. up.
NOVELTIES FOR CHILDREN. Full lines in Top Coats, Reefers and Separate Pants.
MEN'S FURNISHINGS. All of the latest Novelties in Ties, Collars, Shirts, Suspenders, HOSIERY, GLOVES, UNDERWEAR.
HATS of the Latest Styles at Moderate Prices.
One Price—Cash. Money refunded if goods are not as represented.
129 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LAST DAYS OF FIRE SALE!

Everything to be closed out by January 15th. The balance of stock of Dry Goods to be sold for a mere nothing. On

MONDAY, JANUARY 11th,

from 3 to 5 P. M., we will GIVE about 150 CLOAKS to the DESERVING POOR of this city. Each applicant must have papers properly signed by some officer of any local charity organization.

LEDERER'S,
115 WEST FRONT STREET.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!
GEORGE E. ROGERS.....Lessee. | GEORGE H. WILLEY.....Manager

COMING ONE WEEK.

JANUARY 11th,
Engagement of the
COMEDIENNE,
Maude Hillman,
under the management of Winthrop G. Snelling.

A carload of Magnificent Scenery, Properties, &c. Elegant Costumes. Songs and dances.

MATINEES Wednesday and Saturday.

Prices 10 20 and 30 cents. Seats now on sale at Box Office.

Desks, Tables,
Easy Chairs, Rockers, etc.
Fine China,
Elegant Lamps,
Fancy Pottery.

G. Q. PACKER. J. W. GAVETT.

NEW YEAR'S CARDS AND DIARIES AT R. C. RAND'S,
140 West Front street.

E. D. BARRETT,
No. 148 East 8th St.
Sole Agent for the
Richmond Heaters.
STEAM and HOT WATER.
SANITARY PLUMBING

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership lately subsisting between A. T. Ulrich of the City of Plainfield, Union county, New Jersey, and J. A. Blatz of the Borough of North Plainfield, Somerset county, New Jersey, under the firm name of Ulrich & Blatz was dissolved on the first day of January 1897 by mutual consent.

All debts owing to the said partnership are to be received by said J. A. Blatz and all demands on the said partnership are to be presented to him for payment.

Dated January 1st, 1897.

A. T. ULRICH.
J. A. BLATZ.
1 6 4

ALEX. LUSARDI,
211 West Front Street,
Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores. 9 9 1 year

BAKERY,
No. 132 Park Avenue.
Fine Bread, Cake, Pastry and Pies of all kinds. All orders promptly attended. A share of the public patronage is respectfully solicited.
S. H. Schleif,
Proprietor.
1 7 1y

NEWMAN'S STAGE LINE TIME TABLE
Between Plainfield and Scotch Plains.

Leave Plainfield..... { 7.00; 9.30; 12.45 a. m. / 4.00; 6.00; 9.00 p. m.
Sunday—9.00; 12.30 a. m., 3.00 6.00 p. m.

Leave Scotch Plains. { 6.20; 8.15; 10.30 a. m. / 2.00; 5.00; 7.00; 9.30 p. m.
Sunday—9.45 a. m., 2 00; 4.00, 7.00 p. m.

DEPOT—FRONT STREET AND PARK AVE.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Charles Johnson spent Wednesday with friends in Somerville.

Mrs. Herbert Moore is entertaining Miss Laura Davis, of Long Island.

John W. Johnson was in New Brunswick on business Wednesday.

Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer is entertaining Mrs. R. Pelts of Phillipsburg.

Engineer M. Ready at the Green Brook tanks was in New York yesterday.

Clarence Vliet, of Manuet, N. Y., is visiting his sister, Mrs. William Shiveley.

Philp Harman and family are visiting at the home of Mrs. Bolton, at Somerville.

William Jennings, of Warrenville, is visiting his brother, Charles, on North avenue.

Eugene Runyon was in New York yesterday, attending to some important business matters.

Miss Ida Housall, of Pattenberg, is visiting her aunt, Miss Hannah Randolph, at Green Brook.

Chas. Boice, who resides near Persia, Illinois, is in town the guest of his cousin Joel Giddis.

The Central Railroad Comphny is laying brick and flagging in the sand house, just west from here.

Mrs. Randolph Runyon, of North Plainfield, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. George S. Giles.

Miss Carrie Hilye, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. Fern, at Brooklyn, has returned to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Tinsman have returned home from Port Murray, where they have been visiting friends.

The Misses Marlow have returned from a pleasant week's sojourn with the Misses Richters at Perth Amboy.

The members of the Dunellen checker club will meet for practice games in W. H. Cole's office Friday night.

Mrs. R. Harrison and son, of New Rochelle, N. Y., are spending the winter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Case, at Green Brook.

James Y. Wilson has returned from Salem, West Virginia, where he has been spending two week's with his daughter, Mrs. C. R. Clawson.

Mayor Brakely and Tax Collector Geo. W. Day drove over to New Market, yesterday, and interviewed some of the county officials with reference to tax matters.

The skating on the New Market lake is not so good as it has been for a week or ten days past, but the younger element seem to enjoy the sport nevertheless.

A sociable, under the auspices of the "Jolly Juniors," will be held at the residence of Miss Julia Dodwell, on High street, Friday night, at which there will be guests present from this place, New Market and Plainfield.

After being laid up a few days for repair, Engineer Wilcox has had his engine, No. 75, returned to him. During its absence the old Central drill engine, No. 218 has been doing drill duty at Dunellen and Plainfield.

Several New York parties were in in town yesterday looking about with a view of purchasing real estate and locating here. Oscar Runyon showed them about town, and they expressed themselves as highly pleased with the place and the surrounding country.

Through real estate agent Eugene Runyon's agency, about one half of the well-known Jones farm near Bound Brook has recently been sold to a Mr. Spurt, of Brooklyn, who will develop the land in the spring, by cutting a portion of it up into building lots and erecting cottages thereon.

The testing of the Dunellen fire alarm gong, on Wednesday evening, was heard so distinctly in Plainfield that some of the firemen in the latter place were under the impression that a fire was in progress here and they very generously telephoned to Mayor Brakely asking whether or not assistance was needed.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Philip Radin has been elected treasurer of Bucket and Engine Company to fill the unexpired term of the late James A. Baker, which continues until May 1st next.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Margaret Cook, who died on Monday, were held privately from the house this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment was made in the Baptist cemetery.

Bicycling for this time of the year is fairly good in and about the Plains. The heavy trucks and farm wagons have worn the ruts in the roadway smooth, and the main obstacle is in turning out for passing teams.

The Plains boasts of many things—in the summer it is the ball team and in the winter it is the game fowls. And now some of the young men of the place are advocating ice sports on the big mountain pond. Two or three have already signified their willingness to enter a 25-mile skating contest, and it is said arrangements are making for the event early in February, the weather and ice being favorable.

The members of Bucket and Engine Company, No. 1, met in the house of Chemical Engine Co., Wednesday evening, and unanimously adopted the following preamble and resolution:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst one of our esteemed members, James A. Baker, we, the members of the Fanwood Bucket and Engine Company, of Scotch Plains, express our sympathy to the family of our deceased member, and recommend them to Him that doeth all things well.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the family of our deceased member.

Charles Haberle,
Philip Radin,
John Badin,
Committee.

Scotch Plains, Jan. 6th, 1897.

At the meeting one new proposition for membership was received, and under the rules this was referred to the investigation committee and will be acted on at the next regular meeting on Feb. 3d. The members were authorized and empowered to drape the front of the engine house in mourning out of respect to the memory of their late brother and fellow fireman.

The annual election of the Scotch Plains Fire Department was held in Excelsior Hall Tuesday evening, and resulted as follows: Chief, William H. Lake; first assistant chief, John Robison; second assistant chief, Gage Walker.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

Miss Milligan, of Brooklyn, is the guest of Miss Mamie Demler.

Mr. Demler, who somtime ago sold his hotel property, will, together with his family, move in April. They will occupy a house in Washington Valley.

A reception was given on Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kliner at their new home. Mr. and Mrs. Kliner were married on New Year's Eve and have just taken possession of their new house. About fifty guests responded to the invitation and enjoyed the hospitality of the newly married couple. The parlors were cleared and soon merry hearts and light feet were keeping time to the sweet strains of music. Bountiful refreshments were served after which social games occupied the rest of the evening, the guests finally wishing the happy couple the best of good luck and departing homeward in the wee small hours of the morning. The guests included a number of friends from New York, Brooklyn, Summit, Plainfield and Washingtonville.

THEATRICAL.

Here is what an exchange says about the company appearing at Music Hall next week: Miss Maude Hillman deserves success. State settings that never were even equalled, blazing with electric novelties, a play that never lags in action and which the public followed with breathless interest, a company that is a whirlwind of gaiety and fun. All this, Mr. Snelling, her manager, has given her, and she is worthy of it. The house overflowed last night and at least half as many as those present were turned away unable to obtain even standing room.

A Big Estate.

Lawyer Arthur Miller, of this city, applied for administration papers at New Brunswick yesterday for an estate in Piscataway township worth $80,000.

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. B. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chillblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For Sale By L. W. Randolph.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

ALL OVER THE TOWN

NEWS IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS THAT INTEREST ALL PLAINFIELDERS.

Gathered by Enterprising Press Reporters From Both Sides of the Brook and Tersely Served for Your Perusal.

—Farmer almanacs are ready for distribution at L. W. Randolph's.

—An important meeting of the Royal Arcanum will be held on January 11th.

—Commander I. L. McVoy, of Post 73, G. A. R., will install the officers-elect of Post 109, G. A. R., at the meeting tomorrow evening.

—A basket wheel guard lost by Robert Clark was found and reiurned by James P. Limkin, who saw the advertisement in The Daily Press.

—A parlor meeting will be held Monday afternoon, at three o'clock, at the home of Mrs. M. I. Cooley, Rockview avenue, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U.

—The property of Mrs. Abram Hill on Main street has been exchanged for houses and lots in Plainfield valued at $8,500.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

—Rev. Dr. Main, the new supply at the Seventh Day Baptist church, will conduct services in the church this evening and he will also speak at the morning service tomorrow.

—At an early date there will be a competitive examination in this city between Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of this city, and Monroe Council, of the same order, of Newark.

—Each apparatus, together with the horses and drivers at fire headquarters, was photographed yesterday afternoon. A flash light photograph of the interior, with everything in readiness to go to a fire, has also been taken.

—J. R. Blair, of Park avenue, dealer in men's furnishing goods, will have a special sale tomorrow of men's suspenders, all the newest novelties and styles. Mr. Blair has a well selected stock of men's furnishings, and all can be easily satisfied as to quality and price.

—Central engine No. 352, attached to an empty coal train, going west, had to slow up at the North avenue station at 7.30 o'clock this morning, because the lamp in the headlight had exploded and the oil was burning fiercely. The engineer, fireman and head brakeman went forward and extinguished the flames.

—A petition is being circulated asking the Westfield Township Committee to use its influence to get the Central Railroad Company to station a night gateman at the Central Avenue crossing. Narrow escapes are frequent at this crossing, as cars standing on the north siding obstruct a clear view of the tracks when approaching from the north.

—The many friends and customers of S. H. Schleif, formerly of 120 West Fourth street, will be pleased to learn that he has removed to 132 Park avenue, the store formerly occupied by B. R. Force, as a shoe store, and that Mr. Schleif will open his bakery at that place tomorrow, and will keep on sale extra fine bread, superior cake, pastry and pies. A share of the public patronage is respectfully solicited by him.

The Blue Liner Whizzed By.

Harry Baglin, of Watchung avenue, had a narrow escape from losing his life this morning, at the North avenue station. He was attempting to catch the 8.48 train to New York, an in doing so ran in front of the Royal Blue Line train going the other way. His foot slipped, and he rolled over several times, just in time to escape the passing train. He missed his train to New York and disappeared very quickly, as soon as he picked himself up. As far as could be learned he received no injuries.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. Gleason, Notary Public. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. Cheney, & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

"THE FINEST THING"
We think, for chapped or rough skin, is
OUR LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE.
Try it. Sprinkler-top bottles, 25c.

Park and North avenue. T. S. ARMSTRONG,
Successor H. P. REYNOLDS. "THE APOTHECARY."

A Lecture Postponed.

The lecture by Rev. A. W. Halsey, of New York, on "Recent Researches in Bible Lands," which was to be delivered at the First Presbyterian church on next Tuesday evening, has been postponed until the evening of Thursday, Jan. 21st. The reason for the postponement is on account of the fact that some of the lantern slides for the lecture are not yet completed and Mr. Halsey wishes to give his Plainfield audience the best of everything that he can.

ELY'S CREAM BALM is a positive cure. Apply into the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York City.

Randolph Runyon,
Funeral Director,
Residence, Over Office. Office 43 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J.

H. DeMott,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.
Calls promptly attended to day or night. White and black hearses. Coaches latest style.

DIED.

STREULI—At Rheinfelden, Switzerland, January 6th, Herrmann Alfred Streuli, in the 55th year of his age. 1 7 3

CHAMBERLAIN—In this city, Thursday, January 7, 1897, Ryner B. Chamberlain, aged 67 years, 9 months and 10 days. Funeral services from his late residence, 308 East Fourth street, at 3 p. m.

RUNYON—At San Antonio, Texas, December 31, 1896, Mrs. Lizzie French, wife of Druell Runyon. Funeral services at the First Baptist church, this city, Saturday, January 9, at 1 p. m. Friends and relatives are invited.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

GOOD girls with reference want situations as chambermaids. Inquire Mrs. Day's office, 134 East Front street.

FOR RENT—Offices, corner Park and North avenue, central location; also a handsome flat. Apply 612 Park auenue. 1 8 2

LARGE, well heated rooms to let, with board; moderate terms. 132 Crescent Ave. 1 8 6

NICELY-FURNISHED rooms, with board, moderate terms. 214 East Ninth street. 1 8 6

WANTED—Cook or general housework girl. 97 Mercer Ave.

LARGE, pleasant front room (furnished) to let. 16 Grandview Avenue. 1 8 2

LOST—Yesterday afternoon, a fur glove fitting right hand. Will finder please return to Daily Press office.

A YOUNG man wants a position as assistant bookeeper; best city references. Address Assistant, care Press. 1 7 3

LOST—On Monday, between Kensington avenue and the Casino, a pocketbook containing sum of money. Reward to finder at Daily Press office. 1 7 2

FIRE DEPARTMENT BONDS—The Borough of North Plainfield will sell seven Fire Department bonds, $500 each, 5 per cent interest. Bids for same will be received up to Jan. 15th. James K. Arnold, Borough Clerk. 1 6 6

TO LET—Elegant new corner house, fine location, all modern improvements. Must be seen to be appreciated. Address Owner, 339 E. Sixth street. 1 6 tf

ROOM with board, heat, gas, (suitable for gentleman). 21 Sandford avenue. 1 5 6

STORE to let in Stillman Block, now occupied by Mrs. Dyer. 1 5 1w

TO LET—Store and rooms above, now occupied by Justice Newcorn, 110 West Front street. Inquire Samuel Drier, pawnbroker, corner Front street and Madison avenue. 1 2 tf

FOR SALE OR TO LET—No. 120 West Fourth street, store and dwelling combined and brick stable; been used for the last five years as bakery. E. C. Mulford, broker, owner. 12 26 tf

TO LET—Elegant 6 room apartments, Jackson building, steam heat, janitor service, halls carpeted, heated and lighted. Rent reasonable, particulars at Packer's furniture store. 11 23 tf

FIRST CLASS help and first class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 23 Somerset place. 11-10-1y

LOANS negotiated. E. C. Mulford, Broker 7 2 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, Broker. tf

Plainfield's Busiest Store.

We sell goods cheaper than any Plainfield store.

JANUARY CLEARING SALE

IN OUR

House Furnishing Department.

This sale means a decisive change of prices, prices that cannot help but interest the most conservative buyer.

3,000 Fancy China Plates, some of them worth 39c., for this sale only — 13c.

50 Jardinere's, 7-inch, worth 49c., for this sale only — 19c.

50 Japanese Finger Bowls, with Tray, regular price 29c., only — 19c.

56 piece Decorated China Tea Set, were $5.98, now — $3.49

Terra Cotta Art Vases, were 98c., now 49c.

Comet Oil Heaters, were $3.98, now $3.25

112 piece Dinner Sets, all perfect, best porcelain, were $6.98, now — $5.49

EDWARD WHITE.

WALL PAPER

"A word to the wise is efficient."

From 3c. To $2

Buy from the manufacturer and save middlemen's profits.

On receipt of postal card a fine assortment of SAMPLES sent to ANY ADDRESS.

EDW. LOVE,

Warerooms, 211 215 North Ave.

-BOEHM'S!-

Beginning MONDAY, Jan. 4th, we will inaugurate our annual sale of

HOUSEKEEPING LINENS, TOWELS, NAPKINS, SPREADS, SHEETS and PILLOWS

at our usually low figures.

We also call your special attention to the great mark-down sale in our

CLOAK, CAPE AND SUIT DEPARTMENT

All kinds of Cloaks and Capes must be sold, if prices have anything to do with it. Our principle not to carry over any garment whatever, will be adhered to to the letter. Shrewd buyers in search of bargains will not miss this opportunity at

-BOEHM'S,-

113 WEST FRONT STREET.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 30 CENTS.

PRIMES, $1 AND $1,50 PER HUNDRED.

-AT ROGERS.-

GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS

Senator Jones Says the Lines Should Be Made Toll Roads.

Will Push His Plan This Winter—He Explains His Plan for Government Control in an Authorized Interview.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

As is well known, Senator J. P. Jones, of Nevada, is an ardent advocate of the ownership of the railroads by the federal government, though he is not wholly in sympathy with the schemes for their actual operation by Uncle Sam. He has, however, formulated a plan of his own, to which he will devote almost his entire energies during the coming session of congress, and the details of this plan, which have not before been made public, become of interest, therefore, to those who disagree with his views, as well as those who are in sympathy with them.

"I believe that the people of the United States are ready to insist on the government assuming control of the railroads of the country," said Senator Jones to me the other day. "I am myself heartily in favor of it on general principles, but I do not approve of the plans thus far presented for bringing it about. Neither do I regard as wise the proposition to have the roads operated by the government, as that would be to place in the hands of a few men a dangerous political power that would be a menace to the public."

"How would you have the roads operated if not by the government?" I asked.

"By the people," replied Senator Jones. "My plan, which I worked out when the agitation for government ownership of the railroads was first advocated, is to have the government acquire the roads by purchase and foreclosure of the mortgages and indebtedness overdue, and throw them open to the public as in the case of toll roads.

"In the early days out west, when a toll road was built through a section of the mountains, the transporter of freight or passengers with his own vehicles, could pass over the road by the payment of a certain fee. That is precisely the system I propose for freight and passenger traffic on the railroads after the lines are acquired by the government.

"The tolls," continued the senator, "should be fixed at so low a rate as to produce just enough revenue for the expenses of direction and the keeping of the roadbed, tracks, stations, and other property pertaining to the roads, in a perfect state of repair and efficiency. Of course, there should be a sufficient surplus over operating expenses to maintain a fund for new bridges or stations on roads already built, and some provision might also be made for the construction of new lines.

"The railroad system of the entire country should be cut up into zones and divisions. The best qualified men should be employed by the government as managers and superintendents, at fixed salaries, and their tenure should be during good behavior. Promotion should be made in the order of merit and achievement only, and there should be special rewards in the way of promotions for those who have succeeded in avoiding accidents. The force required to keep the roads in order, to collect the tolls, and to dispatch the trains, would be comparatively small, as the greatest demand for men is, in the train service, for engineers, firemen, brakemen, conductors, etc., and these men would not be in the government service at all.

"The train service, under this system, whether for passengers or freight, would be entirely in the hands of the people. Thus a first-class engineer, a conductor and a brakeman would be at liberty to run a train of their own over any line in the country, under the conditions laid down by the government. All they would have to do would be to arrange for running time with the proper authorities, and pay the tolls fixed by law.

"The project opens up boundless possibilities that are absolutely bewildering to a man with a grain of imagination, or capacity for seeing beyond the horizon of established custom. As no request to run a train for lawful purposes could be denied, the farmers of a given locality, who are now shut out of the markets by high freight rates, could hire or buy a few cars and an engine, and go themselves with their cattle or grain to the best market. The manufacturer could do the same thing, while the pleasure seeker might visit every section of the continent, with every luxury, for what it now costs him to go from New York to San Francisco."

"But, would not the people who now own and control the cars and locomotives, monopolize the traffic as at present?"

"There would be no danger of that, first, because the skilled men would not run trains for others when they had the opportunity to conduct a more profitable business for themselves; and, second, because the great organic change affected in the whole business of carrying freight and passengers would not appeal to those now in control, as the present system does. There would be absolutely free competition.

"When you come to think of it, what is really known by the men who own the railroads about the actual operation of the many thousands of miles of railroad which they nominally control? What can they know of the time schedules, the dispatching and running of trains, the collection of freight and its delivery at its various destinations?

"All these departments are under the direct supervision of employes, who do the actual work of carrying on the business of the roads.

"If my plan is adopted, the common carriers of this country will be the men who actually do the work, and who would take a personal pride in making all classes of transportation as safe, as expeditious, as cheap and as comfortable as possible.

"It would be the duty of the government to maintain the integrity of the various roadbeds and bridges, regardless of the profits paid by any line; as there would be free and open competition, legislation would not be necessary to induce the adoption of decent and safe systems of lighting, heating and brakes on trains; and there would be an end to the working of men beyond their endurance.

"I believe, further, that free competition would bring about the introduction of sleeping cars on all night trains, so that passengers would no longer be obliged to sit or recline in cramped positions when they ought to be resting as comfortably as if they were at home. You see, the various carriers would vie with one another in giving the best possible accommodations, day and night, to all the patrons, and those who would not give sleeping accommodations without extra charge could not secure night passengers.

"Dining cars would be conducted also in such a manner as to enable people of moderate means to have their meals at accustomed hours, without being obliged to pay prices that only the rich can afford, and many other advantages will be secured by the patrons of railroads from which they are now debarred."

Mr. Jones feels sure that by the plans he has matured for the purchase of the roads no injustice will be done to those now holding stock in the lines, since it comprehends due compensation to all. More than that, he believes it will insure returns to many who have invested in roads, which are now unprofitable, and likely under present conditions to continue to be operated at a loss. He admits that what are commonly known as the "watered stock interests" may suffer some loss.

"It will take time, of course," he says, "to bring about the change I advocate. The first step will be the appointment of a commission to inquire into the whole subject, and report to congress as to the best methods of procedure. I advocate the policy of making the service of directing the railroads under the government as distinguished as the army or navy."

JAMES ARTHUR MACKNIGHT.

HON. J. P. JONES, OF NEVADA.

Better Than Position and Wealth.

See here, young people! Not all can gain high position, or great wealth, or social influence, or wide reputation. But all—all may have that which is better than position and wealth and social influence and reputation — all may possess a pure heart and a clean life. An upright, unselfish life spent amid poverty and obscurity is a larger life than that lived by a king or queen who knows not God and righteousness. —Detroit Free Press.

MRS. BOWSER'S BILLS.

THEY WERE SMALL, BUT THEY STARTED A GREAT ROW.

The Head of the House Thought of Making His Wife an Allowance, but Changed His Mind Very Suddenly — The Lesson Learned by Poor Mrs. Bowser.

"By the way," said Mr. Bowser as he looked up from his paper, "have you heard from your mother lately?"

"Had a letter yesterday," replied Mrs. Bowser, "and she asked to be remembered to you."

"The dear old soul! I think as much of her as I do of my own mother. I'll give you $10 tomorrow to buy a nice little present for her. Is your father well?"

"Not very. He's very old, you know."

"Poor old daddy! There never was a nicer man in all this world. I'll give you $10 to buy something for him as well."

"You are awfully kind," said Mrs. Bowser as she wiped a tear from her eye.

"Pooh, pooh! Everybody ought to do what is right. I was thinking this afternoon that I cut you pretty close on money matters. I suppose I ought to make you a regular weekly allowance, and then you can depend on having just so much."

"It is awfully sweet and kind of you."

"No taffy, my dear!" laughed Mr. Bowser. "I was going to say $5 per week, but I guess I'll make it $10. If that won't do you, let me know later on, and I'll make it $15 or $20."

Mrs. Bowser looked at him through her tears and called him the best hearted and most loving husband in the world. If a neighbor had come in just then to create an interruption, all would have been well, but fate willed it otherwise. In his great good nature, which in the average husband is the prelude of a row, Mr. Bowser whistled a merry air and stroked the family cat and planned with himself to buy Mrs. Bowser a $100 cloak next day as a surprise. He was growing real frolicsome when she ventured to say:

"Had you just as soon look over three or four little bills which have come in during the week?"

"Bills!" echoed Mr. Bowser as his whistle cut short off and he ruffled the cat on his knee. "I always pay cash down, and I don't know anything about bills. Where are they?"

"You—you didn't happen to have the change and told me to go ahead," she said as she produced three or four papers. "A water pipe burst one day, you know, and you told me to send for the plumber. Here is his bill, and I'm sure it's a very reasonable one."

"Two dollars, eh? Two dollars for plugging up a pin hole leak in a water pipe! Does that tinker imagine I'm a fool or a lunatic? I'll never pay it this side of the grave. What else?"

"You told me to get the doorbell fixed, and the bill is $1."

"Doorbell! I told you? Never! If the doorbell was out of order, then it was because you stood there and hauled and pulled and yanked on it and finally got it out by the roots. You'll pay that bill out of your own pocket!"

"And I had a broken window pane in the cook's bedroom replaced," said Mrs. Bowser. "I knew you'd tell me to go ahead, and the bill is only 80 cents."

"Eighty cents!" he shouted as he grew red to the roots of his hair. "Eighty cents for a small pane of glass, when glass can be bought by the rod for 50 cents! And who busted that pane of glass, Mrs. Bowser? The cook probably got mad because I found fault with the coffee and stood before the window and deliberately kicked out a pane of glass to get even. I'll keep it out of her wages! What else?"

"You know I told you that the lock on the basement door was out of order."

"Never! Never heard the slightest allusion to it!"

"And you said I should send for a locksmith."

"Never, never!"

"And the bill is 40 cents."

"Forty cents! Forty cents for two minutes' work. And, if that lock was out of order, how came it so? Did that cook, in order to get even with me again, stand there with a crowbar and whack and jab and pound until she broke the lock? That's 40 cents more out of her wages. Are these all?"

"Yes. If you don't feel like paying them, I'll do it out of my weekly allowance. The whole thing only amounts to $4.20."

"Your weekly allowance!" he repeated. "Mrs. Bowser, have you a weekly allowance from a royalty or an estate?"

"You said you'd give me one, you know."

"Never! If I said anything at all touching the subject, it was to the effect that if you had an allowance you'd pay $1 a pound for sausages."

"Then you can send mother $5 and pay these bills with the rest," she suggested.

"Mother! Five dollars! You may or may not have a mother, Mrs. Bowser—I do not know nor care. But why should I send her $5?"

"You—you said you would."

"Never! It has never occurred to me in the last 15 years to ask if you had parents or were an orphan."

Mrs. Bowser crossed the room and sat down and picked up a book, and Mr. Bowser got up and crossed his hands under his coattails and walked about. He finally stopped before her, and, balancing himself on heels and toes, he said:

"Mrs. Bowser, I had planned to spend a pleasant evening with you. I came home with a heart full of love and kindness, and I was ready to do anything to show how much I appreciatded my home."

"But what have I done?" she asked.

"It is useless to thrash over old straw. Even as I was thinking of buying you a costly present as a surprise you—you"—

"I handed you these bills. I said I would pay them out of my own pocket."

"Yes, you handed me those bills. I do not complain of that. I do not complain of the amount, which is insignificant. What I want you to understand is that there is a great underlying principle in this matter."

"I don't see it," she curtly replied.

"Of course not—no wife ever does. That is why the press of the country is filled with so many murders, elopements and divorce cases. I sit down beside you of an evening, with a heart full of love and affection. I am hardly seated when"—

"When I hand you three or four little bills for repairs to the house which you authorized me to incur," she interrupted.

"Mrs. Bowser," he said as his thumbs went up to the armholes of his vest, "it is needless to say more on this subject. If you cannot discern the great underlying principle, talk is idle. I will retire to my library, and, should any one call, you can say that I am busy—very, very busy—and that it is quite likely you may shortly go home to see your mother. Good night, Mrs. Bowser; good night!"

And Mrs. Bowser sat there for an hour and tried to figure it out, and the nearest she could come to it was: "Never present a bill to your husband when he's good natured. Wait until he's 'off,' and the bills can't make him much 'offer.'"

M. QUAD.

"BILLS! I ALWAYS PAY CASH DOWN!"

Royalty as Well.

Thereupon his majesty the czar stormed furiously.

"I think my wife," he shouted, "might better give more of her time to her home duties! Here are half the rivets out of my underclothes, and I don't propose to stand it."

Royalty, it would appear, was by no means immune from the sterner cares of life.—Detroit Tribune.

Not So Bad.

Masked Man (dashing into a parlor car on a western railroad)—Hold up yer hands!

Passenger—Don't shoot, please. Take all I've got and welcome.

Masked Man—This is a big pile o' money, so I'll give you $10 of it back. I may be a train robber, but I ain't no parlor car porter.—New York Weekly.

An Offense In Kentucky.

Stranger—I understand that they lynched a man here yesterday? What had he done?

Colonel Pepper—Done, suh? What had he done? Why, suh, he come here to open a branch agency for a mineral water company. That's what he done.—Cleveland Leader.

One at a Time.

Bacon—Is your friend Wabash a Mormon?

Egbert—Oh, no.

"You said he had five wives."

"Yes, but he had them on the installment plan, you know."—Yonkers Statesman.

Misdirected Chicago Hospitality.

"How did the vegetarians' congress go off?"

"All right until the last day, when some kind hearted but thoughtless person invited the delegates to visit the hog killing establishments."—Chicago Tribune.

Toned Down.

"Mrs. Thatcher has red hair, hasn't she?"

"Well she would have, but, you see, her father is a banker, and that makes it auburn."—Chicago Record.

The Shock.

Miss Boston—How rough this sport of football is! What shocks of irresistible bodies!

Daisy Yorke—Humph! What shocks of irresistible hair.—Truth.

Was Her Father Coming?

He—There's one thing I like about you—

She—Take your arm away.—New York Sunday Journal.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

Stock-Taking Sale

Columbia Sewing Machine.. five years' guarantee.. $29.00--Cash or Credit.

has just begun. Sale is not made up of a few pieces here and there, but includes EVERYTHING carried in our immense stock, PORTLAND RANGES excepted. We want to have as few goods on hand as possible when stock records are taken. THAT accounts for present low prices. No better opportunity for GENUINE bargains ever offered in the State.

Exceptionally large line of well-built Parlor Suits—newest kind of coverings and frames.

$25. Suits to $17.00
$40. Suits to $30.00
$50. Suits to $35.00
$75. Suits to $50.00
$125. Suits to $75.00

This Parlor Suit, silk brocatelle, plush trimmed, $25.00

Bedroom Suits

Our enormous stock of Bedroom Suits--over 200--oak, mahogany, Walnut. They're below wholesale now.

$35. suits to $25. $40. suits to $30.
$50. suits to $36.00

Others up to $100. Formerly one-third more than present prices.

HERE'S OUR OFFERING IN CARPETS

Moquettes, 75c. Best Body Brussels, 90c. Velvets, 75c. Best Brussels, 75c. Other Brussels, 45c. All-wool Ingrains, 55c. About 50 rolls good heavy Ingrains, suitable for any part of the home, formerly priced 65c and 75c, now at 35c and 39c yard---rare chance. As an EXTRA inducement, we propose to make and lay Carpets FREE at these prices!

Balance of Stove stock at cost. See us before selecting elsewhere.
Self-Feeding Parlor Stoves, $5.63 up.
LIBERAL CREDIT TO ALL.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

NOTE NAME AMOS AND NO. 73 BEFORE ENTERING STORE

73 Market St. Near Plane Street NEWARK, N. J.

Telephone 580 Goods Delivered Free.

IS YOUR EYESIGHT DEFECTIVE?

There is no safer, surer or cheaper method of obtaining proper relief for over strained and defective eyesight, headache and so forth than to consult this Specialist. The happy results from correctly fitted glasses are a grateful surprise to persons who have not before known the real profit to themselves in wearing good glasses. No charge to examine your eyes. All glasses guaranteed.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,
EYE SPECIALISTS.

H. A. STILES will be at 107 East Front street, Dunham's real estate office, every THURSDAY, from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Powlison & Jones,

Dealers in

FURNITURE,

149 and 151 E. Front St.

The Better the Food The Better the Health.

MORAL

Use my White Lable Canned Vegetables.

California Naval Oranges. Tangerines. Table Apples. Preserved Fruit. White Grapes and Lady Apples.

G. W. ROCKFELLOW,
The Park Avenue Grocer.

W. J. STEPHENSON,

The Caterer,

Has RESUMED business again at his old stand,

146 NORTH AVENUE,

Where he will be pleased to see his many friends and former customers.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Stree Time Table in Effect NOVEMBER 15th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59 7 28, 7 58, 8 00, 8 30, 8 38, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04 10 37, 11 10 a m; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 43, 5 05, 5 44, 6 40, 7 08, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 38 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30 5 36, 7 01, 8 13 9 33, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 30, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45 a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 00, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15 5 30, 5 45, 6 30, 6 45, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday 4 30, 7 45, 8 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 6 28, 6 29, 6 59, 7 50 8 28, 9 03, 9 32, 10 04, 10 37, 11 10, am; 12 03, 1 15 2 03, 2 33, 3 51, 4 48, 5 25, 5 56, 6 40, 7 02, 8 30, 10 17, 11 2 am. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m 12 32 6 17, 8 30, 5 26, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 18, 7 55, 8 35, 9 03 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 35 3 05, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 25, 5 42, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30 11 35 a m; 1 10, 1 35; 2 55, 4 05, 5 40, 7 20, 9 20, 10 2 Passengers for Newark please change car at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 05, 2 11, 2 22, 3 35, 4 26, 5 05, 5 15, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19 7 38, 9 24, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p m; 12 44 night Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 03, 3 43 5 14, 6 25, 10 35, 7 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 30, 7 25 7 45, 8 19 9 05, 9 45, 11 45 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 2 22, 4 25, 5 28, 6 05 6 35, 8 07, 8 50, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a m; 12 05, 1 30, 5 10, 6 35, 7 53, 8 05, 9 49 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m., 12 46 PM, 4 55, 6 15, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 3 05, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 54, a m; 12 33, 4 04 7 03, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 02 a m; 6 30 7 20 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 54 a. m; 5 03, 5 15 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

8 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 15 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch

8 15 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D, L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W R. R.

3 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

5 03 p. m., way for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

6 35 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor Allentown Mauch Chunk Scranton, Wilkesbarre Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 26 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 2b a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

3 03 p. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 34 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a.m. 1 15, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, p. m. Sunday, (except. Ocean Grove) 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 32, 8 13, 10 04, 10 27 a.m 1 15, 3, 12, 3 51, 5 32, 6 54, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m.; 1 15 3 51, 5 32 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 24*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 27* 1 17 night, Sundays—5 17, 5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14* p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m. 12 46, 2 17 2 22*, 5 24*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 27* p.m., 1 17 night. Sundays 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14*. p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a. m., 2 17, 5 24*, p. m., 1 17. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*. p. m., 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 38 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN, General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN, General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect December 2d, 1896.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7 44 a. m. Daily (Sundays 8 01) Local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m 3 34, 5 22, 7 32 p. m. daily except Sunday, Local for Bound Brook.

11 54 a. m. Daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday, "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

1 44 p. m. daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

2 34 and 4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6 26 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

8 22 and 9 54 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9 32 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn-Local-6 49, 7 15, 7 43, 9 40, a. m. 2 29, 4 45 and 6 40 p. m. Sunday 9 03 a. m., 2 21, 6 08 p. m. Express—7 25, 8 27, 10 02 a. m. 12 14, 2 17, 5 11, 7 07 and 8 17 p. m. Sundays—7 23 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 48, 7 50, 10 05 a. m. 12 13, 2 33, 5 20, 7 07 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 10 a. m. 2 20 and 6 30 p. m.

For Metuchen only 6 23 p. m. except Sunday.

For further information consult Ticket Agent.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR, General Superintendent, S. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHAS. S. LEE, General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, Pa.

A. W. NONNEMASHER, Ass't General Passenger Agt., South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt or Desbrosses street.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 50 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M

F. A. DUNHAM,

Civil Engineer and Surveyor

109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F

RUDOLPH KERSTING

BAKER AND CONFECTIONER,

201–203 West Front Street.

TRY OUR NEW ENGLAND AND HOME MADE BREAD.

VIENNA BREAD A SPECIALTY.

Charlotte de Russe, Cream Puffs, Chocolate Eclair, all kinds of Pastry and Cakes, FRESH EVERY DAY.

Delivery to any part of the City or Borough at any time.

Did anyone tell you to buy SLIPPERS for Xmas Presents? If so, we have what you want at the right price.

Don't forget we have HANAN SHOES for Ladies.

A. WILLETT AND SON

NO. 107 PARK AVE.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Call at

J. F. MACDONALD'S

The Uptown Grocery.

And be convinced that it is our aim to supply the people with the best goods at the lowest prices and that we now have a full line of all the new goods necessary to make your order complete.

Muse Raisins,	3 lbs. for 25cts.	Figs,	10 cts. per lb.
Table "	5 " " 50 "	English Wallnuts,	15 " " "
Currants,	3 " " 25 "	Paper Shell Almonds,	25 " " "
Cal. Prunes,	2 " " 25 "	Pecans,	18 " " "
" Apricots,	2 " " 25 "	Filberts,	15 " " "

A choice lot of apples $1.75 a barrel.

JAS. R. BLAIR.

126 Park Avenue,

Has a fine assortment of Neckties, Mufflers, Umbrellas, Silk Handkerchiefs, Gloves, &c.,

Ready for the Holidays.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.

177 NORTH AVENUE.

SPECIAL SALE AT CRANE & CLARK'S,

Hat and Furnishings Store.

120 West Front street. Prices Cut on all lines of Men and Boys wear.

Special—We place on sale today a Big Line of Suitings and Trousers.

Trousers to order $3.50 worth $5
Suits to order $18, worth $25

SEBRING'S.

Bargains in Real Estate

For sale or to let.

MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,

Send for blank contracts. 169 North avenue Armstrong Mulford, Assistant BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss Helen B. Dunham,

TEACHER OF PIANO AND ORGAN.

Pupil of a German Professor. For reference address, Prof John C. Bergner, Clinton, New Jersey. Call on or address Miss Helen B. Dunham, Dunellen, New Jersey. s 20 6m

MISS FAWCETT'S SCHOOL AND Kindergarten.

25 Washington avenue.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Boys received until 10 years of age.

Get Your Turkeys, Chickens and Ducks for the holidays at

W. L. & J. M. Smalley,

94 Somerset street.

Telephone Call, 42b.

NEW DESIGNS LARGE VARIETY.

HIGH GRADE

PARLOR HEATERS,

Stoves, Ranges and Oil Heaters

OUR PRICES ARE LOW.

Hardware, Heater and Furnace Work.

A. M. GRIFFEN.

119 E. Front st. Telephone 6

IF THE BEST WILL DO,

Try Royal Tooth Powder. 1 ¼-oz. can, 10c.; 4-oz. nickel-top bottle 25c. It contains no acid or grit, and is recommended by all dentists of standing who will advise the use of Chalk and Castile Soap, flavored. Roya Borated and Carbolated Talcum, at 10c., is intended to give entire satisfaction and win your favor. Prepared by

ALLEN PHARMACY M'F'G CO., Plainfield, N. J.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, held on Thursday, December 3d, 1896, at 2:30 p. m.

The following members were present viz.:

Director Hubbard and Freeholders Brucklacher, Burnett, Clark, Ehrlich, Farrell, Hulskamper, King, Krouse, Littell, Miller, Ogden Robison, Roll, Swain, Tier, Wahl—17.

Absent—None

The minutes of the previous meeting, (reading of bills being omitted), were on motion approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS, PETITIONS, ETC.

From the Borough of North Plainfield, as follows:

To the Board of Freeholders of Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—A street has been laid out and opened from Myrtle avenue, North Plainfield, to Front street, at Plainfield, and known as Sycamore avenue.

At a meeting of the Mayor and Council of the borough, held November 20, 1896, a resolution was passed, asking your Honorable Body to build a bridge across Green brook, on the new street.

Signed, Yours truly,
Jas K. Arnold, Borough Clerk.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell received and placed on file; it was also directed that the clerk notify the Borough of North Plainfield that this Board of Freeholders did not have the funds available this year to build the bridge as requested.

From James W. Fink, County Road Inspector, as follows:

WESTFIELD, N. J., Nov. 28, 1896.

To the Honorable the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J.:

GENTLEMEN: The undersigned respectfully reports to your honoroble body that the ten per cent of contract of regular stone repairs on county roads for the year 1895 amounts to the sum of $1,272.27; same is now due the contractor, William Chamberlain.

Signed, Very respc't submitted.

JAMES W. FINK, Inspector.

On motion of Freeholder Clark received and placed on file.

NEW BUSINESS—RESOLUTIONS.

By Freeholder Swain:

Resolved, That the County Collector pay to the Sheriff two thousand dollars as an advance on account of court expenses.

Freeholder Clark moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Roll:

Resolved, That the sum of $1 be allowed to each polling place in the county for stationery, used by the election officers and that hereafter the city and township clerks shall add this amount to their bills.

Freeholder Farrell moved the adoption of the resolution, and after some discussion, during which Freeholder Roll stated that the resolutions was offered as being a fair allowance for stationery used by election boards, and was made necessary by reason of the fact that a number of bills for stationery had been presented, ranging in amount from $1 to $3 or more.

The resolution was then adopted without dissent.

The following bills, audited and approved, were read, and on roll call ordered paid, viz:

Publication Account—Summit Record, $25. Freie Presse Printing Association, $25.

County Road Repairs Account—Wm. Chamberlain, $29 75, $1,272 27, J. W. Fink, $60.

Stationery Account—John C. Rankin Co., $19, $171.75, W. T. Kirk, $6.55.

Public Building Account—W. B. Tucker, Atorney, $15.36, N. L. Johnson, $3.60, F. F. Glasby, $42.68, Jno. C. Blore, $25, J. W. Blakely, $6, Dennis Long, $5.50, D. B. Provoost, $3, Suburban Electric Co., $45.55.

School Account—B. Holmes, $105.62.

Incidental Account—Wm. Howard, $1.598.52, Phil. E. Tufts, P. M., $12.50. S. Rusling Ryno, $42.70.

Members' Pay Account—W. H. Hulskamper, $44, W. H. Swain, $28, John H. Tier, 44, Geo. W. Little, $84. Addison S. Clark, $70, Fred Miller, $42.

Committee Expense Account—W. H. Barton, $9, $2, Addison S. Clark, $3.95. John H. Tier, $7, Benjamin King, $11 86

Salary Account—E. M. Wood, $125, S. Rusling Ryno, $25.

Jail Account—James O. Brokaw, $15.27, Henry J Schmidt, $2.50, W. H. Neefus, $59.86, J. W. Hildebrandt & Co., $65.30, Joseph Bauer, $27.20, Vienna Pressed Yeast Co., $3.88, J. P. Hanifin, $24.99.

Court Account—George Kyte, late Sheriff, $801.75, Henry Smith, 74c., Henry Bierwirth, $2.40, J. L. Bodwell, $33, Isaac A. Bunn, $33, Robert Walpole, $38.50, John Seeland, $27.50, John Dixon, $27.50, Samuel Morgan, $27.50. James H. White, $35.75, Henry J. Schoppe, $2.40, $5.70, $27.50, John R. Hargin, $27.50, William H. Sault, $27.50, William H. Trano, $38.50, W. H. Burnett, $38, Amos Moffett, $10.50, $115.50, Oliver Conlin, $7.50, $77.50, George R. Rockafellow, $8.76, $45.50, W. R. Mattox, $4.50, $3.70, $6.50, Geo. Wright, $4.80, Vincent Daniel, $10, Herbert W. Knight, $100, Frank H. Dunn, $55. James Ritchie, $75, T. F. McCormick, $391.67, F. C. Marsh, $287.25. F. M. Tiernan, J. P., $6.86, $39.45, E. R. Collins, J. P., $12.47, John Schmidt, Jr., $37.70, Max Rapps, J. P., $6.25, Charles K. Moore, J. P., $41.49.

Election Account—Thomas Parter, $3, W. H. Williams, Jr., $25, Frank W. Rea, $25, James McGann, $25, William J. McNarmara, $25, James J. Lane, $25, Charles Wear, $25, William L. A. Roehner, $25, Henry L. Neimeyer, $25, Isaac M. Littell, $25, $1, Theodore S. Payne, $1, $15, Daniel J. Haggerty, $25, Matthew McGrath, $25, Robert T. Smith, $25, H. T. Robinson, $25, Theodore C. Faitoute, $20, F. W. Runyon, $25, The Union Democrat $21, New Jersey Advocate, $21, Wm. Howard, $61, Edward L. Hand, $7.25, Charles Forster, Borough Clerk, $31.13, S. S. Woodruff, Town Clerk, $35, A. G. Rubsamen, $10 50, R. J. Muldowney, Town Clerk, $73.90.

Bridge Account—John T. Moore, $68.40, Lawrence Dumback, $46.76, M. H. Acken, $10, Chas. J. Fox, $55, Jas. Hollwood, $39, $136.40, W. H. Jayne, $2 45, W. T. Kirk, $1,500, Robert Wilson, $94.82, $187.70, James W. Hope, $5.02, John Conrad, $4, H. D. Bauer, $41 75, A. M. Drake, $10, John A. Thickstun, $37 10, Joseph T. Vail, $47.88, John T. Moore, $19.80, $18.65, Ira T. Gaskill, $5.20, John Bernhard $13 67, Frank Murphy, $46.75, W. T. Kirk, $21.55, James Coles, $15.25, W. V. Sparkman, $4.50, A. J. Collins, $9 39, A. W. Stiles, $10.50, $16.20, Daniel G Fink, $26.25.

Freeholder Farrell moved to adjourn which was carried.

The director declared the board adjourned to Thursday, Jan. 7, 1897, at 2:30 p. m.

S. RUSLING RYNO, Clerk.

Her Sympathetic Second.

Mrs. Henpeck—This is where my first husband was buried. If the Zulus hadn't killed him in that dreadful war, you wouldn't be my husband today.

Mr. Henpeck—Ah, what a curse war is!—Pick Me Up.

Didn't Know It Was Loaded.

McScorcher—My baby has had the wind colic for two days.

Sikleface—What caused the trouble?

McScorcher—The poor kid tried to cut its teeth on my pneumatic tire.—Truth.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redying. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drives will receive your work.

Hillier & Co.,

North ave., Plainfield.

Telephone 30M

M. Powers & Son.

Superior quality of LEHIGH COAL.

No 2 Coal Only $3.75 'n the Y.

No. 1 Kindling Wood.

Yard and office 703 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

TOWNSEND'S

Marble and Granite Works,

SOMERSET STREET.

Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

FRANK DAY,

114 WEST SIXTH ST.,

(Near Park Avenue.)

Livery and boarding stable in all its branches all kinds of turnouts night or day at short notice. Horses boarded by day, week or month. Telephone No. 152. 19 10 tf

HER DEEP DISGRACE

Lady Scott in a Highly Hysterical State All Last Night.

TWO PHYSICIANS REMAIN BESIDE HER

Efforts To Calm Her Nerves That She Might Stand the Ordeal of Hearing Her Sentence Pronounced—History of the Family Trouble.

London, Jan. 8.—Lady Scott, who together with John Cockerton and William Aylott, pleaded guilty in the Old Bailey court yesterday afternoon, in the action of her son-in-law, Earl Russell, for criminal libel, was in a highly hysterical state all last night, and two physicians remained constantly with her, that her nerves might be quieted enough to stand the ordeal of sentence to-day. The unexpected outcome of the exciting trial has caused a profound sensation in all parts of England, although the conviction of Lady Scott was generally looked for.

The libel suit brought by Earl Russell against his mother-in-law, Lady Tina Scott, was only the continuation of a long family row of a very involved character. Countess Russell brought a suit for divorce against the earl which resulted in a complete break down and she was condemned to pay the costs of the action, amounting to over $25,000. Earl Russell then secured a judicial separation from his wife, but about two years ago the countess sued for a restoration of conjugal rights and was again defeated. This suit was followed by an action brought by H. A. Roberts, master of Bath college, and one of Earl Russell's Oxford friends, against Countess Russell claiming damages for libel in having testified in the divorce action that certain immoral relations had existed between Roberts and her husband. The result of the suit was that Roberts secured a verdict for £3,000. Lady Scott was arrested on October 10 last upon a charge of criminal libel brought by Earl Russell and next day John Cockerton, an engineer, an Frederick Kast, a groom, were arrested in connection with the case. William Aylott was also wanted, but he fled to Algeirs to escape arrest. Later, however, he returned and surrendered himself for trial. The acts of which the defendants had alleged against Earl Russell were said to have been committed on board the earl's yabht upon which Cockerton, Kast and Aylott were employed. On November 30 Kast was taken ill with pneumonia and died in Holloway jail on December 11. Lady Scott having in the meantime been ill also. The trial of the case was adjourned when Kast was taken ill and resumed on Jan. 4.

FAMINE IN INDIA.

Necessities Are Great, Notwithstanding Timely Rains.

Calcutta, Jan. 8.—At a meeting of the council yesterday Sir John Woodburn, the revenue member, said that the timely rains in November and December had saved India from the greatest calamity of the century, so widespread and severe was the drought; but a large area sown, with the assistance of the November rains, had been greatly benefited by further rains last week, and an addition to the food stocks was expected in April. In spite of this, he continued, the present situation was very grave. Nearly 750,000 persons were already in receipt of relief, and the task of providing for these enormous numbers was gigantic. The government had given and was giving unstinted help in men and money. The viceroy, the Earl of Elgin, indorsed the statement of Sir John Woodburn, and said it was what the government was awaiting, in order to enable it to give better effect to the proposals, which it would now gladly receive. In regard to the obligations of the government, the viceroy, emphatically declared that it had, and can have nothing to do with an appeal to private charity, nor could private charity be allowed to interfere with its own duties. These were clear, and the government was determined to fulfil them. The funds were ample, and it should never be said that the full resources of the empire had not been used for relieving the distress.

Gov. Black at the Old Guard Ball.

New York, Jan. 8.—Gov. Black and his staff attended the Old Guard ball at the Metropolitan opera house last night.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spot firmer, but locally very dull. Jan., 90⅝c.; May, 88⅝c., July, 84⅜c.

Corn—Spot quiet and steady. Jan. 29⅜c.; May, 31⅛c.

Oats—Market quiet; prices dull. Jan. 11¼c.; May, 23⅜c.

Eggs—Market steady; choice firm. State and Pennsylvania, fresh, 18@19c.; ice house, 14@15c.; western, fresh, 17@18c.; limed, 14@14½; southern, 16@17c.; in case, $1.50@$3.30.

Pork—Market steady; trade easy. Extra prime, nominal, short clear, $8.76@10.25; mess, $8.50@8.75; family, $9.50@10.00.

Lard—Steady; moderate demand. Prime western, $4.07½.

Butter—Market quiet; fair demand. Creamery western extras, 20c.; state and Pennsylvania, extras, 18@19½c. creamery, western seconds, 16c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fresh factory, 13c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fall made extras, 18@19c.; western imitation creamery, seconds to firsts, 11@16c.; western factory, firsts to extras, 8½@11c.

Cheese—Market steady. State, full cream, large size, fall made, colored, 10⅜c.; large, common to choice, part skims, 3½@7½c.

Potatoes—Market firm; good supply. Long Island, in bulk, per barrel, $1.25@1.50; New Jersey, round, choice, per

SPORTS

Sun Rises: 7:24 a. m.
Sun sets: 4:51 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be Lighted at 5:51 p. m.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company has received one of the '97 models of the new Crescent wheels, which certainly is a very pretty appearing one. There are a number of changes in the wheel this year that improves its strength and rigidity as well as its appearance. The ladies' wheel of the same model is also something new and has many good points. The juvenile wheels of that line are little beauties. The padded saddle that comes with all the men's wheels recommends the wheel to those who had trouble with their saddles last year.

The number of minor novelties at the coming National Cycle Show in New York city, from February 6th to the 13th, will be astonishingly large, if the reports from the manufacturers and inventors count for anything. While a few radical changes are anticipated in the frame construction, there will be no end of new things in brakes, handle bars, tires, internal mechanism, lamps, saddles, etc. In the souvenir line there will also be a great variety of desirable tokens and many things which will be of practical use. A central feature, possessing an historical as well as an educational interest for all students of cycling, will have a prominent position on the Auditorium floor. This collection will contain bicycle freaks, cyclometers, hubs and sprockets, showing the evolution and progress in these inventions from the beginning up to the present time. The show will be held in the Grand Central Palace, Forty-third street and Lexington avenue, this year instead of at Madison Square Garden as formerly.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

While bowling at the Park Club alleys, last evening, Edward T. Wilson, a member of that organization, rolled a score of 205, which is one of the high scores for this month.

The Park Club bowlers will make their next appearance in Westfield on Monday night, when the team of that place hope to reduce the lead of the Parks by two games.

The bowling team of the New Brunswick Y. M. C. A. is very anxious to roll a game with the team from the local association. Last year the teams met on the Plainfield alleys and a return game was to be played, but the Plainfield team never went over, and this year the New Brunswick boys insist that the first game shall be rolled on their alleys. The game was to be rolled last evening, but the Plainfield team could not get together to go over and the match has been postponed until a later date.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

A recent issue of the Amateur Athlete contained a short sketch of the athletic talent in the Plainfield High School this year. The article also speaks very highly of George Proctor Smith as one of the staunchest supporters of pure inter-cholastic sport.

The twelfth match of the season for the American Whist League challenge trophy was played in Boston last Saturday between the American Whist Club, of Boston, holders, and the Staten Island Whist Club, of New Brighton, challengers. The usual forty-eight deals were played, the Bostonians winning by a score of 35 tricks to 20.

BASKET BALL.

A game of basket ball will be played tomorrow evening in the Y. M. C. A gymnasium between the team from the local association and the team from the Summit association. These teams met some time ago in Summit and the home team was victorious by one point. This time the local team hope to win, as they are well acquainted with this gymnasium.

In the Supreme Court.

City Judge DeMeza went to Jersey City this afternoon to try the case of Arthur vs. Church, on contract, before Judge Lippincott of the New Jersey Supreme Court. Judge DeMeza represents the plaintiff.

Rabbi Gorwitz, formerly of Plainfield, now has a charge at New Rochelle, N. Y.

G. O. Dolliver and family, of Fairview avenue, will take up their residence on Manning avenue, April 1st.

Always FIRST
Gail Borden
Eagle Brand
CONDENSED MILK
For 35 years the leading brand. It is the Best and the most economical.
A PERFECT FOOD FOR INFANTS

WHAT IS THIS DISEASE CALLED DYSPESIA?

Like a thief at night, it steals in upon us unawares. The patients have pains about the chest and sides, and sometimes in the back. They feel dull and sleepy; the mouth has a bad taste, especially in the morning. A sort of sticky slime collects about the teeth. The appetite is poor. There is feeling like a heavy load on the stomach; sometimes a faint, all-gone sensation at the pit of the stomach which food does not satisfy. Eyes are sunken, the hands and feet become cold and feel clammy. After awhile a cough sets in, at first dry, but after a few months it is attended with a greenish colored expectoration. The patient feels tired all the while, and sleep does not seem to afford any rest. After a time he becomes nervous, irritable and gloomy, and has evil forebodings. There is a giddiness, a sort of whirling sensation in the head when rising up suddenly. The bowels become costive; the skin is dry and hot at times; the blood becomes thick and stagnant; the whites of the eyes become tinged with yellow; the urine is scanty and high colored, depositing a sediment after standing. There is frequently a spitting up of the food, sometimes with a sour taste and sometimes with a sweetish taste; this is frequently attended with palpitation of the heart; the vision becomes impaired with spots before the eyes; there is a feeling of great prostration and weakness. All of these symptoms are in turn present. It is thought that nearly one third of our population has this disease in some of its varied forms. It has been found that medical men have mistaken the nature of this disease. Some have treated it for a Liver Complaint, some for Dyspepsia, others for Kidney Disease, etc., etc., but none of the various kinds of treatment have been attended with success.

Now, the Shaker Digestive Cordial causes the food eaten to be digested. This will cause an appetite for more food, and this being digested will result in an increase of strength, an increase of flesh and an increase of nerve power.

The tired, weary feeling will give way to vigor and courage. The pale, thin and emaciated will recover their color and plumpness, because red blood and fat are the result of properly digested food.

A ten cent trial bottle will produce a result. Its good effect will be realized at once. You will not have to take a dozen bottles to find out if it is doing you any good Try it, and then give praise to the Shakers of Mount Lebanon, New York, for the relief you obtain.

EUCHRE WINNERS.

Thursday Night Club Entertained by Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Clifton.

The members of the Thursday Night Euchre Club were entertained last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Clifton, of West Second street, and passed a very enjoyable evening. There were four tables and all the prizes consisted of hand painted china, the work of the hostess of the evening.

After an exciting game, the prizes were awarded. The first prizes were won by Miss Clara Williams and Mr. Angleman, the latter being tie with one of the other members but winning on the cut. There were several tied for each of the second prizes which finally went to Miss Becker and Robert M. Clark. Dainty refreshments were served after the game was concluded. The club will be entertained in two week's from last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Tier.

Rheumatism Cured in 24 Hours.

T. J. Blackmore, of Haller & Blackmore, Pittsburg, Pa., says: "A short time since I procured a bottle of 'Mystic Cure.' It got me out of the house in twenty-four hours. I took to my bed with Rheumatism nine months ago and the 'Mystic Cure' is the only medicine that did me any good. I had five of the best physicians in the city, but I received very little relief from them. I know the 'Mystic Cure' to be what it is represented and take pleasure in recommending it to other poor sufferers." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Blessed With Attentive Employes.

The many friends of J. Fred MacDonald, the uptown grocer, will regret to learn that he is little or no better. His illness seems to be partially the result of worry apout his business, and it dates back to a few days before his manager, E. H. Bird, took his office as collector of taxes. Thus the store was left without a head. The efficient corps of clerks in Mr. MacDonald's store are each one taking a personal interest in seeing that everything is attended to and every customer is promptly and courteously waited upon. Mr. MacDonald is to be congratulated in having such clerks, and it relieves a great deal of worry from his mind.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—An unobstructed view can now be had from North avenue, this city, to St. Joseph's church, Manning avenue, in the borough.

—Judgment was given the plaintiff, today, in the case of Linke against Mortimer, which was tried in Justice Newcorn's court.

—Jacob Snyder, of Stiger's alley, who has been confined to the hospital for some time suffering with pneumonia, was discharged to-day, having fully recovered.

—Suit has been brought in Justice Thomas' court in the contract case of French Brothers vs. Kennedy. The suit is for $100. City Judge DeMeza is the lawyer for for the plaintiff.

—District Deputy Great Sachem Newcorn and staff went to Cartaret last night and installed the officers of Tribe No. 208 of the latter place. The officers were royally entertained after the installation ceremonies.

—A turkey supper will be given by the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church the latter part of this month. It will be continued two evenings and will be held in the lecture room of the church.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. White, of Philadelphia, called on many of his Plainfield friends yesterday.

THE WHITE BLACK SNAKE.

When Andy Saw It, Uri Knew How to Explain the Wonder.

The first afternoon I was at the Bruin Hollow tavern Uri Wattels, the landlord, told me a bear story. It was the story of a bloody hand to hand fight he had had with two big black bears, both of them uglier than roaring lions, and each bent on chawing Uri up. His description of the fight was hair raising, as he was compelled to skin the bears almost alive before he vanquished them. The fight lasted more than hour.

"It's a blessin," said Uri, "that no livin thing was nigh to see that fight. No eye could 'a' gazed on it an ever got over it. It was a fight that even the lookin at was enough to scare any livin thing most to death."

Landlord Wattels had just finished his harrowing narrative, when a strapping mountaineer, whose most striking feature was a nose very knotty, very much swollen and very red, came in, looking as if he was scared.

"Andy," said the landlord, "what's ailin of you?"

"Uri," replied the mountaineer, "I seen a black snake's ghost."

The landlord looked at the man over his spectacles a moment, and then, without a word, walked behind his bar, poured a big tumbler full of rum, sat it on the bar and said sternly:

"Here, Andy, you shitt that."

Andy "shirted" the rum without a murmur.

"Set down!" said Uri.

Andy sat down on the bench, and he and the landlord looked at one another in silence for at least two minutes. Then Uri said:

"Don't see it now, do you?"

"No-o-o!" replied Andy. "I didn't see it here, Uri. I seen it on P'ison run. It wasn't no flesh an blood serpent, but a spook. It was as big a black snake as I ever see, but it was as white as peeled hemlock! You ought to see it glare at me, Uri—out o' red eyes, too, by jingles!"

The landlord poured out another glass of rum.

"Shirt that, Andy!" said he.

Andy "shirted" it without delay. Then the two gazed at one another again a minute or two. Presently the landlord said:

"Do you see it glarin now, Andy?"

"No," said Andy. "It didn't foller me."

"Sure you don't see it?" said Uri.

"Sure as kin be," replied Andy.

The landlord looked solemnly at the floor and shook his head slowly now and then. Andy sat without a word ten minutes or more, casting wistful glances toward the bottle and the tumbler on the bar. Uri made no further movement in their direction, and Andy went out.

"I knowed it," said the landlord by and by, talking to himself.

"Case of the rams?" I ventured to inquire.

"I was hopin so," replied Uri, "but it ain't. He seen the white black snake all right. But it wasn't no spook. I was afeard somethin like that'd happen, an it happened."

I looked at Uri for several minutes without speaking. He stood at the bar, with a worried expression on his face.

"How could there be a white black snake?" I asked.

"You heerd me tell you 'bout that terrifyin b'ar fight o' mine, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"You've heerd o' folk's hair turnin white in a single night from bein scared, haven't you?"

"Often."

"Well, that black snake happened to be by an seen me an them b'ars a fightin, an it turned white in a single minute."

And I bought the rum.—Ed Mott in New York Sunday Journal.

Unappreciated Blessings.

Stranger (in small town)—I saw by the papers that a boy was born here with no legs and no arms. I am a dime museum manager and I should like to find him.

Citizen—No use hunting him up. His parents won't exhibit him.

"They won't? Well, it beats all what blessings fall to folks as can't appreciate 'em."—New York Weekly.

Preparing For the Worst.

"Vy, Hans, how it vos dot you again vos so mooch getrunken?"

"It like dis is. I vas heared dot dere vos some talk like dey vos going to increase dot beer tax soon yet; so I git me pooty full vile dere is yet blenty time."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Forewarned.

"Don't ever tell Fizzletop that you haven't anything to read."

"Why?"

"If you do, he will immediately lend you that book he wrote himself."—Chicago Tribune.

It Worked the Other Way.

"By the way, how did that scheme you went into pan out—the one to get sugar out of beets?"

"I got beat out of sugar."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

$35. Will buy you a First-Class High Grade BICYCLE.
Peck & Snyder and Winslow Skates from 49c. up.
PLAINFIELD CYCLE AND SPORTING GOODS CO.
147-149 NORTH AVENUE.
H. E. RIDER, President. C. C. LISTER, Secretary and Treas.

Turkeys,
Chickens,
Ducks,
All Jerseys.
Prime Beef,
Mutton,
Lamb,
Jersey Pork and Sausage.
We invite an inspection of the FINEST STOCK IN THE CITY before you buy elsewhere.
SMALLEY BROTHERS,
The North Avenue Butchers.
Near the Depot.

Wall Paper
2cts. A Roll
Borders and Ceilings to Match, at
Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
201 Park avenue, corner Second street.
The Largest Supply House in the City.

THE SAME STEEL.

Is in our cultery out of which the finest tempered swords are made. Our Pocket Knives, Table Knives, Carving Knives, French Kitchen Knives, Razors, Butcher Knives, Bread Knives, Oyster Knives, Clam Knives, and every other kind of knife. Are made of Superior Steel.
The famous Purity Oil Heater, still on sale for $3.98.
The J. P. Laire Hardware Co
Telephone Call 49 I. 9317

GEO. O. STEVENS & CO.
OAK.
747 WEST FRONT ST.
Branch office with
J. P. LAIRE HARDWARE CO.,
West Front street.

A New Year's Sermon
which has its practical side. During this year we're going to keep the same good qualities of goods which we have always been well known for. We are going to put as moderate prices on these goods as possible. It wouldn't pay us to do otherwise. We're in business to stay.
L. W. Randolph,
PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST.
No. 143 West Front street.
Telephone Call, 109.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS
IN ENDLESS VARIETY
AT HARPER'S,
411 PARK AVENUE.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

A LITTLE STORY!
About a special fine lot of Hamburgh Embroideries which has just been received by us and put on sale.
They were made by a large manufacturer in St. Gall, Switzerland, and were the odds and ends of the factory.
THE PRICE 1/2 IS JUST
the usual price asked.
They come from the narrow edge to 10 inches wide, the work being 5 inches wide on some of them. You will find them on three centre tables on the right-hand aisle as you enter the store.
ONE TABLE IS 5 Cts a Yard,
ONE TABLE IS 10 Cts a Yard, and
ONE TABLE IS 15 Cts a Yard.
They had not been on exhibition only a short time when one lady's attention was called to them and she purchased about $15 worth in a few minutes.
They sell quick at sight. They can't be duplicated. If you want any of them come in quick.
Remember we are clearing out all our heavy winter stock now, and you will find plenty of
Real Bargains
all through the store. We are preparing another surprise for you, and in a few days you will know about it.
EDSALL'S.

Greatest Sacrifice of Clothing.
No garment reserved. Our entire stock must be sold in two weeks at 33 per cent on the dollar; no trifling, no boasting, no delusion; you know us or ought to.
READ THESE PRICES.
Men's fine Melton overcoat, worth $10, at $3.75; Men's extra fine Sunday overcoat in Melton or English Kersey, worth $15, at $4.95; the finest overcoat in Plainfield, worth $20, at $7.50, silk or satin lined. Remember we must sell every overcoat in the house in two weeks. Men's Ulster, worth $10, at $4; fine Ulster, satin lined, all wool, worth $18, at $6.50; a good Men's Ulster at $3, worth $8. Men's heavy weight all wool suit, very fine finish, worth $12, at $4.35; extra fine Sunday suit in all wool worsted plaids, latest style, worth $16, at $6.90; a fine all wool English clay cing nal suit, in frock, worth $18, at $6.90; Men's handsome fancy silk mixed suit worth $22, at $7.90; a good working suit suit $2.75, worth $7. Men's fine Sunday pants, worth $5, at $1.75; extra fine, worth $7.50, at $2.90; a good working pants, worth $1.75, at 85c. Boys winter school suit, worth $5, at $1.25; Boys' ulsters, at $1.50, worth $4; Boys' heavy knee pants at 25c, worth 75c. These special prices will only last for a few days. Remember all goods will go for one third their value.
New York Clothing Company,
214 WEST FRONT STREET.
M. WEINBERGER.
Near Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

The Strongest Claim
We make for the superiority of our
Demulcent Cream
OF Witch Hazel
is that the people who have used it, say it is the most efficient
TOILET REQUISITE
they ever used. For chapped hands it is unequalled.
Price 25c a Jar.
Leggett's Pharmacy,
Y. M. C. A. Building. Telephone No. 4.

Joseph Carbone,
128 NORTH AVENUE,
Whol sale and retail dealer in choice fruits nuts, etc.; all kinds of temperance drinks. Closed Friday night, sun down. Open Saturday evening at sun down. 12 14 1y

PUBLIC BOWLING ALLEYS
AT
117 and 119 East Second Street.
C. M. ULRICH,
12 22 1y. Manager.

WE WANT FEET
to fit our shoes. The invisible cork sole ones are particularly appraprate this season of the year. We're selling them at right prices.
Doane & Edsall.
Store closes at 6, Saturday 10 p. m.
NEUMAN BROS.,
Grocers,
Corner Watchung Ave. and 5th St.

Last Edition. # THE DAILY PRESS Last Edition

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., SATURDAY, JANUARY 9, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

LOOKING TO THE UNSAVED

FINAL ADVICE GIVEN AT THE WEEK OF PRAYER SERVICES.

Dr. Barnes Says that Society Tolerates a Discrimination in Wrongs That Are of the Some General Bad Character.

The last of the union week of prayer services was held in the lecture room of the First Baptist church, last evening. The room was crowed so that it was necessary to bring in extra chairs to seat the large number present.

The meeting opened with a song service, led by Horace J. Martin. Rev. Dr. Charles R. Barnes acted as the leader of the meeting and made a short address. The topic for the evening was "The Unsaved." After the opening song service, there were prayers offered by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes and Charles W. McCutchen, intersperced with several hymns. Then came the address by Dr. Barnes.

It is one of the natural faults, he said, to extenuate the wrongs of those in whom an interest is taken, and then to excuse them. A certain discrimination has grown up in society; the man that robs his employer from time to time is looked upon differently than the man who enters the premises with force and carries away the property, but they are both thieves in the true sense of the word, one as much as the other. He is more greatly endangered by this discrimination, for that which does not shock is tolerated by the world and so crime is encouraged.

There are only two classes of men in the world, one is animated by self, self-centered, the other is animated by God and the love for their fellow men. It is selfishness that is the cause of all sin. These men, who are self-centered, no matter how much they outwardly reverence God, will go to the devil and his angels.

In looking at the world, only the two classes are seen. All the professions and distinctions amount to nothing on the final judgement day. They make a difference here in the world but whether it will end in the joy of God or the outer darkness, de. pends on whether he has loved anyone but himself. The man that has not learned to love God more than himself is a sinner; he that has not learned that it is better to serve his brother than himself is a sinner. It overthrows everything to bring them down to the final test of God, "Do you love me?"

It is the church that brings the knowledge of this to man, continued the doctor. We are asked to pray for the unsaved. No amount of love can put a man from one class into the other, there must be some help from that person. The will must be influenced by showing them the awfulness of sin and the difference between the righteous man and the sinner. God has placed everyone where he can see someone in danger. With that knowlege comes the responsibility.

It is the business of the church to cry beware and not to hide the danger, it is the duty of all not only to see when he is in danger but to warn him. If not then they will have to answer for it at the great throne. He closed with an earnest appeal to all to do their duty in that respect and to aid their brother who had fallen by the wayside.

The rest of the meeting was devoted to short testimonies and a number of prayers. There were a number of hymns sang through the meeting.

The week of prayer has been observed in the First Presbyterian church this week, when meetings have been held in the chapel every evening. The attendance has been very large and most of those who attended took some part in the meeting. The interest shown in the services was very encouraging to the pastor, Rev. Charles E. Herring, who took charge of the meetings and acted as leader.

TWOMBLY FARM CLOSED.

Rumor That the Great Estate May Be Abandoned.

H. McK. Twombly, after having expended over $1,500,000 on his big farm of 700 acres near Madison, has decided to close it for an indefinite period.

The greater part of the land where the large farm buildings now stand was a swamp when Mr. Twombly bought it. He has ditched the place thoroughly and it is now one of the finest farms in New Jersey. The buildings upon it alone cost a fortune. The stable is furnished with electric lights throughout and has accommodations for 200 horses. It is rumored that Mr. Twombly may entirely abandon the place.

Young People to be Interested.

The union services to be held in the First Baptist Church all next week will be preceded each evening by a young people's service in the basement.

WITH HIGH SCHOOLITES.

STUDYING HARD TO GET IN SHAPE FOR EXAMINATION.

Some Social Life Appears in the Midst of the Learning—City and Borough Consolidation Debated by Kappa Delta Phi.

Now that the long winter term at the Plainfield High School has begun the students there have settled down to hard work and the regular routine of their duties. The semi-annual examinations are not far off, they come in two weeks, and the review that preceeds them will probably come next week. The dates of the different examinations will be posted in advance and will be announced in a few days.

Latin prose will be begun on Monday by those taking the classical course in the Junior class. The Seniors in the classical department will review the same subject until the end of the year. The Junior class in that object will meet twice a week and the Senior class once a week. A class in beginning French will be started on the first of February. There is one class in the subject already. Miss Bass will act as instructor.

The members of the Senior class have been given the subject for their January essay. It is a word picture of some scene in Shakespeare's "As You Like It." It is due on Monday.

In the course of a week or two, the Senior class will take up the subject of the constitutional history of the United States. It will be continued for the rest of the school year. The work will be under the direction of Mr. Travell. This is the first time the subject has been taken up in the High School.

There is a movement on foot among the young men looking toward the formation of a glee club or musical society among the young men in the school. Although no definite steps have been taken as yet, there are a number who are interested in the formation of such an organization and it is probable that it will soon be formed.

As is usual in the winter, the athletic association is practically dead for the time, with the exception of the hockey team which is quite popular. There is some talk among the members of a musical or other kind of entertainment for the benefit of the association. The matter will be brought to the attention of the Advisory Board, which will hold a meeting next week, when action will be taken on the subject. The Board will also consider the new constitution which is soon to be adopted by the association.

The interest in the literary society of the school, the Kappa Delta Phi, has greatly increased and the members are now ready for active work. The meeting held yesterday afternoon was an excellent beginning for the new year. The meeting of the Kappa Delta Phi was held at the High School building yesterday and it was largely attended by members and a few visitors. The programme consisted of a debate on the subject, "Would it be advantageous to the borough of North to be united with the city of Plainfield as a part of Union county?" The affirmative was defended by Henry W. Brower, Arthur Lederer, and Stanley Peck. The speakers for the negative side were Sydney R. Titsworth and Charles Noble. Prof. Knowlton acted as judge of the debate and gave the decision to the affirmative after an exciting debate. Then followed the business session at which little was done. The name of Wilbur F. Cornwell was added to the committee on fraternity at the reqest of the chairman. The programme for the next meeting was decided on as a "Random Talk on Miscellaneous Subjects."

Two new members were elected to membership at the meeting and the application of two more were read and laid on the table.

The cadet company re-assembled after the holidays on Thursday afternoon at the Jersey Cycle Academy. There was a large attendance and the company made an excellent showing. A photographer from Newark was present and took the picture of the company as they stood at parade rest.

MAYOR FISK'S LIBERAL GIFT.

Presents a Check for $1,000 to the Muhleuberg Hospital Nurses' Home.

The treasurer of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital recently received two handsome donations toward the building of the Nurses' Home. One was a check for $1,000 from Mayor Fisk and the other one was for $100 from S. L. Schoonmaker. The above amounts, together with $3,000 donated by the Woman's Auxiliary Board, as the profits of the Kirmess held some time ago, leaves a deficiency of about $700 to complete the new building now in course of construction.

—Four new students entered the Plainfield Business College this week.

SHOT AT THE PROWLER.

A BURGLAR ATTEMPTS TO GAIN ENTRANCE TO ED. WHITE'S HOME.

Footsteps Heard by Mr. White, Who Frightened the Burglar Away—Seen Hiding Behind a Tree and Shot At.

The residents in the vicinity of Myrtle avenue were awakened this morning at about 3 o'clock by the sharp report of a pistol shot, but after that there was no disturbance, and those that heard the noise went to sleep unconscious of what the trouble was.

This morning it was learned that the shot was fired by Edward White, the big dry goods dealer, at a man hiding behind a tree in his dooryard, whom it was believed attempted to effect an entrance into his house.

Mr. White was awakened out of a sound sleep at about three o'clock by the noise of some walking on his front porch and apparently tampering with the lock on the door. Mr. White arose and taking a revolver proceeded cautiously to the front of the house, but it was evident that the prowler became aware of this and ran off the porch. When Mr. White peered out of the front door he discovered the outline of a man hiding behind a tree about twenty feet from the house.

Mr. White discharged his revolver and the man disappeared in the darkness. The one man was the only one that Mr. White saw, but there may have been others concerned in the attempted entrance to his house.

COST OF BREAKING A HEART.

A Newark Swain Pays Dearly for Trifling With Miss Carrie.

It is not often that Somerset county is treated to a real, genuine breach of promise case in which a sad-eyed maiden and lots of effusive love letters are the principal features. The "villian" in the case was not present, and of course, the fair plaintiff, Miss Carrie Sorter, daughter of George Sorter, of Millstone, had everything her own way. On the stand she stated that a young man by the name of John S. Conover, of Newark, had, late in the year 1894, commenced to pay her attention and finally had stolen her affections. Everything had a rosy hue for a time but finally, one cruel day in March, 1895, a letter came, stating that everything was over between them and that he had married another girl. Her hopes were instantly dashed to the ground and a broken heart was the result. Then James J. Meehan, of counsel for the plaintiff, put the letters written by Conover in evidence and they proved to be couched in very endearing terms, which occasioned some amusement. This Miss Sorter did not seem to enjoy. There was no defense made and it did not take the jury long to bring in a verdict of $1,433.

POISONED BY CANNED BEANS.

John Naylor Taken Suddenly and Violently Ill.

John Naylor, an insurance agent doing business in Somerville and living on East Third street, this city, was taken suddenly and violently ill about two o'clock this morning. He was first attacked with cramps and later by vomiting. Dr. Clawson was hastily summoned and prescribed for the suffering man. The cause of the trouble is said to be from making a hearty meal last evening of canned beans, which, it is thought, poisoned him. No other cause is assigned for his sudden and unexpected illness. This morning the patient was pronounced out of danger, but he is yet quite weak.

Death of Isaac Brokaw.

The death of Isaac Brokaw, of West Fourth and Liberty streets, occurred this afternoon at 1 o'clock. He was an old and respected citizen of Plainfield. His death was caused by nervous prostration and old age, being seventy-five years old. He leaves a widow but no children.

Bitten By a Dog.

George Pope, young son of A. D. Pope, of Lincoln place, was quite severely bitten yesterday afternoon by a dog, which is owned by a resident of the street. The wound, which is in the fleshy part of the hip, was cauterized by Dr. Mattison and no bad results are anticipated.

Horse Thieves Convicted.

Edward Leer and John Murphy were convicted in the Court of Quarter Sessions at New Brunswick yesterday of stealing a horse from Farmer Dalton, near Woodbridge. The men occupied a hut in the woods and, it is alleged, made raids upon stables and henneries.

Poor People to Be Made Happy.

Many a poor soul will be made happy and comfortable next Monday afternoon when Isaac Lederer will give away 150 winter cloaks to those who present orders signed by any officer of a charitable organization of the city or borough.

A FIERCE COCKING MAIN

SCOTCH PLAINS BIRDS DO UP NORTH PLAINFIELD FAVORITES.

The Event Took Place Just Over the Borough Line Thursday Night and Was Witnessed by Many Local Sportsmen.

Only the initiated ones knew that it was coming off and so it was a very select crowd of sports that assembled in a sequestered nook not far from the borough line on Green Brook road on Thursday evening. There were many familiar faces from this side of the brook as well as from the borough, while Scotch Plains sent down a delegation of her best known sporting enthusiasts. It was a cocking main between the birds from North Plainfield and Scotch Plains and had been planned for some time.

The pit had been carefully prepared unknown to the authorities and the usual watch was set to announce the arrival of any outsider. The main was a successful one as far as the visitors were concerned for their birds fought with unusual strength and many exciting contests resulted. There was little need for artificial light as the new moon shed its rays on the scene and dimmed the light of the lanterns that were placed about the pit. The North Plainfield birds did well but the other birds did better and the Scotch Plains favorites came out ahead, winning eleven matches to the six of the North Plainfield representatives. There were several birds from this city that were brought to the pit by the visitors and they won their share of the victories.

One of the rounds was particularly exciting and it took the Scotch Plains bird twenty-five minutes to better his opponent. The birds fought with remarkable fierceness and feathers flew so that the spectators could hardly see the combatants. Another main is being arranged to take place shortly but the location has not yet been announced, even to the favored ones.

WAS HE MADE A SCAPEGOAT?

J. W. Reinhart's Acquittal May Result in Further Developments.

A dispatch from Chicago to the Wall Street Journal has the following to say about a Plainfielder:

"It is believed here that ex-President Reinhart has been made a scapegoat in connection with charges against the Atchison management. It has been known that Mr. Reinhart's indictment by the grand jury was procured without reasonable evidence against him, and this is now emphasized by the fact that after two days of trial, involving the examination of many witnesses, books, records and papers, not an item of evidence has been found connecting Mr. Reinhart's name with any rebate or irrregular transaction.

"The situation was so clear that Judge Grosscup summarily threw the case out of court, and the Judge reprimanded counsel for an attack on Mr. Reinhart, saying that it appeared to be wholly unjustified. Some of Mr. Reinhart's friends believe that his prompt acquittal in this case will be followed by developments."

GOOD SKATING NOW.

The Surface of Nearby Ponds Affords Exhilarating Sport.

There was good skating at the New Market pond this morning and quite a number of young people from this city went down to enjoy it. There were a number there yesterday afternoon and a lively game of hockey was played.

Hyde's pond is also in good condition at present and it was quite crowded last evening, the moonlight making the skating very enjoyable. There were many there this morning and a much larger crowd is expected for tonight.

Will Not Consider It.

Strong efforts are being made in Somerset county to have Clausen's sentence commuted to imprisonment for life, owing to his youth and the peculiar circumstances surrounding the murder. An application has been made to the Court of Pardons, but the case will not be considered there while pending in the other court. No application was made for Johnson.

A Heavy Shipment.

Four heavy iron castings from the Pond Machine Tool Company's Works were shipped to Garwood on the 8:16 passenger train this morning. It required six men to get them into the car and the baggage-master would not accept them until presented with an order from J. A. Haynes.

Jackson Day in Rahway.

Prosecutor Frederick C. Marsh, of Elizabeth, and James E. Connolly, of Elizabeth, spoke last night in Rahway on the eighty-second anniversary of General Jackson's victory over the British. After the addresses supper was served in the club rooms.

HOPE WHILE LIFE LASTS.

THEREFORE NOBLE WALSH DOES NOT BELIEVE IN SUICIDE.

Sixteen Persons Listen to an Alleged Lecture Against the Ingersolian Theory of Suicide When Gloom Pervades the Air.

For a week past "Professor" Noble Walsh has been in town. The professor has evidently seen better days, and hopes to again. While thousands, yea millions, are awaiting the arrival of the advance agent of prosperity and in his delay grow morose and discouraged, Noble Walsh has been burning the midnight oil and has plunged forth and locked horns with that famous agnostic, Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, in the endeavor to prove that Col. Bob does not know philosophy at all when he advises people who are down at the heel to pop out their brains with a bullet or stifle life's energies with a drop of poison. The professor exists on the theory that "while there is life there is hope," and is a living exponent of this axiom himself. In other words the professor is unalterably opposed to suicides.

The professor has pre-empted the rostrum in order to promulgate his views of why it is better to live than to die by your own hand. In its natural evolution, the mind of Mr. Walsh was beset with the idea that his duty to humanity was to get them to his lecture, and to do this he had printed large yellow cards which admitted three persons within the portals where his optimistic thoughts on life found voice. These admission tickets were sold for fifty cents, and the professor volunteered the information that they were worth $5, because on the reverse side was printed a prescription of how to get healthy, wealthy and happy. Any doctor, he said, would charge $5 for that advice.

To those whom the professor introduced himself, he said that he had met with great receptions and commendations for his lectures in other towns of New Jersey, notably at Rahway.

Last night, at Workingmen's Hall, the professor was greeted with the magnificent number of sixteen who wanted inspiration to live. The arrival of this vast audience kept the professor busy for some time in greeting and seating.

At the opening of his lecture the professor sent a little thrill through his hearers by exclaiming that in the year 1900 everybody would be a little off, but he held out hope in the next sentence by the remark that five years later confidence would be restored and we would return to the times of George Washington. His idea, he said, was to have someone present who would argue that suicides were right.

The professor did his best to get some one in the vast audience of sixteen to take up Ingersoll's end of the argument, but they all honored the professor by siding with him. This condition of affairs seemed to phase him somewhat, because the interest and success of his lecture devolved upon the scintillating replies and sarcastic flings he made at the ones who opposed his theory. The professor therefore found himself in a position like that of a man who goes fishing without bait—there was no suckers to bite. The professor was equal to the occasion, however, and he invented excuses for suicide himself, just for argument's sake he said, and then he ripped them all apart with his logic and showed how foolish it was to take one's own life.

The professor was not only a talker but also a walker and incidentally a gymnast. His erratic expressions and actions kept the audience of sixteen in roars of laughter.

"What's the use of committing suicide, anyway," exclaimed one attendant, "when there are such funny men in the world."

And the sixteen men filed out to cast sunshine on the world and tell people to live and hope for the better.

VERDICT FOR RAILROAD COMPANY.

Charles Angleman Loses His $3,000 Damage Suit in Court.

The case against the Jersey Central Railroad, that was brought by Charles Angleman, of this city, for $3,000 damages, as was told in yesterday's Daily Press, was decided in the Union County Circuit Court, at Elizabeth, yesterday, in favor of the railroad company. The jury brought in a verdict for the defendant at 9:30 o'clock p. m., after several hours deliberation.

Hack Horse Took a Sprint.

A horse owned by William Drake, the hackman, ran away from the North avenue station, yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, and was caught a few minutes later on Park avenue by A. Gibby Spencer, a Prudential Insurance Company agent. There was not the slightest damage.

WENT TO JAIL THIS TIME.

A FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE FINALLY CAPTURED THIS MORNING.

William Brown Taken by Surprise by Patrolman Totten Whom the former Once Outwitted in an Exciting Hurdle Chase.

Patrolman Totton has not forgotten his long and unsuccessful chase after an offending negro, who had been fighting up in the dump on Watchung avenue. The colored man's name was William Brown. Brown was finally enabled to escape through the assistance of his brother who opportunely came along with a horse and wagon and gave the fleeing brother a lift. The pursuing officer set such a lively clip that the offender had to jump from the wagon and run, and the rest was of sufficient length to enable him to get his wind and he finally left the representative of the law behind after a hurdle race over fences. The story was told at the time in The Press.

It is not otten that an offender gets away from Totten and the latter felt the slight that the colored man had put on him and waited until he should appear in this city again.

The time for retribution came last evening. Patrolman Totten learned that the long-expected time had arrived and the missing Mr. Brown had slipped in the back way and was preparing to become a resident of Plainfield again. He had thought that the little affair in which he had played such a prominent part had blown over and everybody had forgotten all about it, but they hadn't. Early this morning before Totten had gone off duty, which happens at 6 o'clock, he went to the home of the "wanted" man and found him there. The visit of the officer was an unpleasant surprise for Mr. Brown and he did not have time to try another flight before the firm grasp of the law had settled on his shoulder with an unrelenting grip.

Then Brown took another walk with the officer in the direction of the rookery where he was left to consider the matter until City Judge DeMeza was ready to see him. Brown was arraigned before the Judge this morning and pleaded not guilty to the charge of fighting, which has been hanging over his head for the last six months, and of trying to evade arrest. He was held in $50 bail to appear for trial on next Saturday morning.

HIS COAT TAIL MISSING.

SUPPOSED TO HAVE GONE WITH A ROYAL BLUE LINER.

William Somerset's Exciting Escapade in Climbing Over a Coal Train and Narrowly Escaping Being Struck By a Flyer.

William Somerset, colored, of Sycamore street, learned a lesson on Thursday last which will keep him off of the Central Railroad tracks hereafter. It was between 5 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon when William sauntered up East Fourth street, toward Paradise Alley, for the purpose of calling on a friend. Many thoughts were passing through his mind as to what he may say when he met his friend.

In order to reach the house he was obliged to cross the railroad, and at the time there a coal train was passing. As William is an athlete, he had no difficulty in climbing over the train, though it was moving pretty lively.

His mind being on his friend, he paid no attention to the approaching Royal Blue Line flyer, and he had just cleared the main west-bound track when the train whizzed by.

For a moment William was paralyzed with fear and fright. His knees were weak and he could scarcely move. Presently he managed to get off the railroad and reach his friend's house.

The people at the house at once noticed that something was wrong with William, as he was shaking all over. Closer examination proved that the tail of his coat was missing, and that the flying train was responsible for its absence.

A search for the missing coat tail failed to reveal its whereabouts, and it was sometime before William recovered his usual composure. He declares that he will never go on the railroad track again.

May Save His Sight.

There is yet considerable doubt as to whether Frank Splane, who is at the hospital being treated for an injury to the eye, will retain the sight of the eye. The injury was a rupture of the globe of the eye and is considered a serious one.

Cops to Go Before the Mayor.

All the police officers in this city are summoned to appear before Mayor Fisk at 5 o'clock this afternoon, when it is understood that some new orders will be laid down.

CLEVELAND'S VIEWS

First Public Utterances on Work of Chicago Convention.

LETTER TO NATIONAL DEMOCRATS

Assembled at a Jackson Day Banquet in Chicago, He Tells Them Their Reunion Cannot Fail To Do Good to the Cause of True Democracy.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—President Cleveland in his letter of regret at his inability to attend the Jackson banquet clearly outlined his views regarding the Chicago platform and democratic ticket. While the president's attitude was well known all through the campaign, this is his first public utterance in the matter. His letter was addressed to Chairman McVeagh of the banquet committee and is as follows: "My Dear Sir—I regret that official duties prevent my acceptance of the invitation I have received on behalf of the national democrats of the middle states to attend their Jackson Day banquet on the 8th inst. When passion and prejudice threatened to obscure the meaning of true democracy and pervert its patriotic purposes, a reunion of those who are democrats for the sake of principle and the good of their country cannot fail to be inspiring and useful. On an occasion when the character and achievements of Andrew Jackson are commemorated, the old landmarks of democratic faith should be distinctly pointed out. At such a time it should be impressively taught that democracy is not disorder; that its regard for popular rights does not mean the care of only a portion of our people; that its loyalty to the constitution and the law does not mean a petulant challenge of the duty of civic obedience; that its aggressiveness does not mean class hatred and sectional vituperation and that its success should never mean partisan triumph at the sacrifice of principle and patriotism. Yours, very truly, GROVER CLEVELAND."

Gen. Buckner Was Present.

Choosing the anniversary of "Old Hickory's" victory over the English at New Oleans, the members of the national democratic party from the ten middle and western states who fought for principle and the gold standard under the banner of Palmer and Buckner assembled 300 strong last night in the banquet hall of the Auditorium hotel to celebrate alike the victory of Andrew Jackson, as well as that over Bryan and free silver, and renew pledges of adherence to the Indianapolis platform. The occasion was made notable by the presence of the party's nominee for vice-president, Gen. Buckner of Kentucky; Hon. C. S. Hamlin of Massachusetts, assistant secretary of the treasury, and Hon. Henry Watterson of Louisville. The banqueters also had read to them letters from the president, from Secretary of Agriculture Morton and senator John M. Palmer, the recent candidate for president of the democratic gold party, and telegrams from Secretaries Wilson and Francis and others prominent in the party. Senator Palmer intended to be present in person, but his illness in Springfield made his presence impossible. A reception to Gen. Buckner and others preceded the feast and speech-making. Hon. Henry Watterson was given a flattering reception when he arose to speak to the sentiment "The Future of Democracy." Assistan Secretary of the Treasury Hamlin was cheered again and again as he arose.

Mutilation of Canadian Coins.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—In view of the fact that there is a vast number of mutilated and defaced coins in circulation in Canada, the department of finance at Ottawa has issued a notice stating that coins so mutilated not only cease to be legal tender, but persons so mutilating them are guily of a criminal offence and liable to imprisonment under the criminal code. It is an offense punishable by imprisonment for a person to deface a coin by stamping on it any name or word.

To Improve Relations with United States.

London, Jan. 9.—The Standard's Madrid correspondent telegraphs that the government has already formulated decrees granting reforms which will be put into effect as soon as Gen. Weyler announces the pacification of of the provinces of Havana and Matanzas. The government expects that this scheme will conciliate a majority of the Cubans and improve the relations with the United States.

Wrecked by Seas After 30 Years of Service

Boston, Jan. 9.—After sailing the oceans for the last thirty years, the old coal barge Ellida was cast up on the beach at Nantasket last night, where she will remain until the seas tear her asunder. The Ellida was formerly the Swedish bark of that name. Several years ago she was purchased by the Boston Tow Boat company, who put her in the coal carrying trade.

Population Reduced One-Half.

Bombay, Jan. 6.—The Times of India, in an article on the bubonic plagu which is ravaging the city, says tha since the outbreak of the plague th population of Bombay has been re duced one-half, and the weekly mor tality has averaged 200 per 1,000,

Yale Gymnastic Team.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 9.—Capt. Lehlbach of the Yale gymnastic team announces that the team will participate in meets with the Newark, N. J., association, February 6, and with the Bridgeport association, February 12.

Another American Girl To Wed Abroad

London, Jan. 9.—The engagement is announced of Edmond O'Brien, brother of Sir Timothy Carew O'Brien, baronet to Miss Andry Townsend, daughter of the late David Crawford of New York.

BETTER PROSPECTS

The Year 1897 Opens with One Clear Advantage.

UNSOUND CONCERNS SWEPT AWAY

Apprehension Caused by Western Bank Failures Has Almost Wholly Ceased. Money Abundant.—Prices of the Various Staples.

New York, Jan. 9.—Dun's weekly review of the state of trade for the week just ending will, to-day, say: The year 1897 begins with one clear advantage; the past year has swept out of the way a great number of unsound concerns which in any time of activity would have been dangerous to business. While banking failures have not ceased at the west, apprehension about them has almost wholly subsided, and no serious influence upon general trade is now expected. Many sound concerns were doubtless caught by the epidemic, but practically all the important failures are traced to disregard of law and of banking sense at periods somewhat distant. It is felt at the west that all business will be the sounder after its purging, and the return of money to New York has exceeded shipments to the interior by $2,000,000 for the week. Heavy disbursements by the treasury and by great corporations make money abundant, and banks and savings banks are seeking good paper, taking some formerly sold at Chicago. Foreign exchange has risen a little, as large bills are about to mature. Merchandise exports were 11 per cent. over last year, while imports were 27 per cent. less than for the same week.

Speculative Markets.

Speculative markets have been dull. After rising about 50 cents per share and $2 for trusts, stocks were checked by revival of talk about Cuba at Washington, and by reduction of the dividend on the Delaware & Hudson. Earnings reported for December amount to $31,121,905 in the United States alone, 2.4 per cent. less than in 1895, and 8.9 per cent. less than in 1892, but returns for the fourth week were the best and show general gains. Chicago eastbound tonnage in five weeks ending January 2, was 304,806 against 417,625 last year, a decrease of 27 per cent. Clearings are deceptive at the moment, as heavy annual settlements fall within the week, though less or not all in previous years, and the decrease compared with last year was 8.8 and 17.1 per cent. compared with 1895.

Wheat, Cotton and Print Cloths.

Wheat rose 92 cents on Monday, but has declined again to 89.25 cts., with western receipts a million bushels smaller than last year, while Atlantic exports, flour included, were 2,037,900 bushels against 2,337,936 last year. The trade accounts indicate a great quantity in farmers' hands, enough to permit more than 100,000,000 bushels to be exported in the remaining six months. Cotton started up a shade, but receipts from plantations are still oo large for low estimates, and the condition of the cotton mills foreshadows curtailment rather than large consumption. The market for goods is extremely slow, as many infer that the unprecedented stocks of print cloths indicate a similar surplus of other goods. The logic is bad, but in many branches the mills have doubtless manufactured goods anticipating a demand which has not come. It is now proposed to r lieve the market by selling quanties of print cloths abroad, or by locking up 2,000,000 pieces until the market improves. The only change in quotations is one-quarter cent. reduction in some bleached goods.

Wool, Boots, Shoes and Leather.

Stocks of wool January 1, not owned by manufacturers or farmers, are 123,-508,080 pounds domestic and 26,844,000 foreign, according to the Boston Commercial Bulletin, and the official estimate of production shows a decrease of 20 per cent. in three years, but sales are only 3,885,000 against 6,694,300 in 1896. Prices are a shade lower, and quotations by Coates Brothers are compared, showing a decline in six years of 16 cents in prices of northern states wool with relatively as great decline in western and territory wool, which goes far to explain the large reported stocks, and quantities held by manufacturers are probably larger than is commonly supposed. In woolen goods the only change is a reduction of 7½ cents in clay worsteds and mixtures, and orders are not more frequent. Orders for boots and shoes have almost ceased, except for a few qualities, which have been advanced only 2½ to 5 cents in price, but jobbers are buying a little more as stocks run low. Leather is stiff and hides a shade stronger.

Steel and Its Products.

Enormous purchases of billets came with a rush, most of the large conserns contracting for all they required for months and even a year to come, and some of the largest contracts are said to have been at $15 or even less, but there is as yet no better demand for structural work, bars are weak, nails have declined to $1.40 for wire and $1.30 for cut, and little is doing in rails, as possible buyers think $25 is too high with billets at $15 per ton. Nevertheless, a great trade is expected when relative prices become settled.

Yonkers Residence Burned.

Yonkers, N. Y., Jan. 9.—Last evening the residence of Mrs. S. A. Nichols, on Locust Hill avenue, was partially destroyed by a fire that originated from a defective flue. The loss is estimated at $10,000 and is covered by insurance.

Placed on the Retired List.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Capt. Robert B. Benham, assistant surgeon, has been placed on the retired list of the army on account of his physical disability.

A Water Microbe.

One of the unaccountable phenomena of the Black sea has lately been explained by the bacteriologists and the microbologists. Since time out of memory it has been a well-known fact that there were no deep-sea fish in the body of water mentioned. Away back in 1850 the scientists made an investigation and found that fish could not live at a greater depth than 100 fathoms in the water of the Black sea on account of the presence of a superabundance of sulphuretted hydrogen. Time and again the waters were stocked with deep-sea fish, but all died on account of the poisonous gas which was generated in such quantities in those portions of the water which should have been their natural habitat. It was known that the gas was at the bottom of all the trouble, but exactly where the gas came from was what so puzzled the investigators. The microbologists finally took the matter in hand and a recent observer now announces that the gas is generated by the countless number of microbes which make their home in the ooze at the bottom. This microbe decomposes mineral sulphates and has been named Bacillus Hydrosulfuricus Ponticus.—St. Louis Republic.

Marriageable Age.

The discussion had waxed warm. He had given his views upon women and marriage and she had disputed every assertion he had made in regard to the age at which a girl should marry.

"Well," he said, in desperation, at last, "what do you consider the marriageable age?"

"Why, I don't believe there can be any iron-clad rule in such a matter," she replied. "It's different with different girls, and it isn't safe to endeavor to be too specific. However, I may say in a general way that the age at which a girl should marry depends entirely upon the age at which she gets her first real good chance."—Chicago Post.

Sound Advice.

Borrowall (happening to come in)—That's a fine machine of yours, Ferguson. Some day I'll come round and take it out for a little spin. By the way, what kind of a bicycle would you advise me to ride?

Ferguson—I'd advise you to ride one of your own.—London Fun.

The Proper Pride.

"Poor fellow!" said the philanthropical passerby, sympathetically, as he looked over the fence at the wild-haired man who was galloping around the yard astride of a broomstick, which he caused to prance and pitch till it finally bucked him off on his head. "So you lost your wager?"

"You fool!" shrieked the man addressed, indignantly, as he picked himself up, "I'm not paying an election bet—I'm crazy!"—N. Y. Journal.

James' Answer.

"James," said the schoolmaster to a pupil, "what is an average?"

"A thing, sir," replied the scholar, "that hens lay eggs on."

"You silly boy; why do you say that?" asked the pedagogue.

"Because, sir," answered the lad, "I heard a gentleman say the other day as a hen would lay on an average 120 eggs a year."—Spare Moments.

They All

"There are fads in medicine as well as in other things," said a busy druggist, "but the most remarkable thing about Hood's Sarsaparilla is that customers who try other remedies all come back to Hood's, and this is why the enormous sales of this medicine keep up while others and in a short time go out of sight entirely, to be heard from no more."

Come

"Why is it?" "O, simply because Hood's Sarsaparilla has more real curative merit than any medicine I ever sold."

This is of daily occurrence in almost every drug store. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the standard remedy which has cured more sickness, relieved more distress and made more happiness by bringing people

Back to health than any other medicine. Its wonderful cures of the worst cases of scrofula, running sores, ulcers, salt rheum, etc.; of dyspepsia and other troubles where a first class tonic and aid to digestion was needed; of catarrh, rheumatism, malaria and other troubles arising from or promoted by impure blood, have made

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The standard—the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

it is what a cough may lead to that makes it so dangerous.

HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR

Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar is a medicine that has long been tested in private practice. Sold by druggists generally.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Careful experiments made upon a healthy person show that of ordinary oatmeals 83 per cent. alone is digested.

Of

H-O

99.75

is digested.

The process of preparation of H-O is "peculiar to itself."

Subscriptions Free t

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly
Illustrated American (Weekly)
Truth (Weekly)
New England Magazine
Chatterbox (Monthly)
The American Kitchen Magazine
Home Magazine (Monthly)
of Binghamton, N. Y.

WITH COUPONS FROM THE

H.O.Co.'s Goods

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
119 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset street. 4 19 tf

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.
Tonsorial parlor, 206 Park ave., Plainfield.
Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

Honeyman's Private Tours.
Plainfield, N. J.
To Florida, February 9—Two weeks.
To Inauguration, Washington, March 3—Two days.
To Washington, Easter Vacation, April 6—Three days.
To Europe, June 30—Two months.

Climatic Extremes

OF

NORTH and SOUTH

are blended ideally at

OLD POINT COMFORT

AND

RICHMOND, Va.,

Thus making these the most desirable places for winter outings.

They may be reached delightfully by the luxurious and modern steamships of the

Old Dominion Line

Sailing every week day from New York.

Send for full information.

Old Dominion S. S. Co.
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILLAUDEU, Vice-Pres't & Traffic Mgr
12 17-6 m

RING OUT THE OLD

RING IN THE NEW.

GET THINGS IN GOLD

AND SILVER TOO

AT

J. Wiss & Sons,

755 Broad Street, Newark.

Notwithstanding the general depression, our sales have been remarkably big in Jewelry and Watches, Diamonds and Diamond Jewelry, Cut Glass, Silverware and Cutlery.

Nor have we any reason to complain of our sales in Leather Goods, Opera Glasses, Art Potteries and Novelties.

WE ATTRIBUTE OUR BIG SUCCESS

to the fact that we gave more value for money than could be procured elsewhere. We propose to continue on this line all year. Remember it when you want

Jewelry, always the newest design. Cut Glass, of the best and deepest cuttings. Silverware, Sterling and Best plate for the table or dresser. Table Cutlery, Our own make that cannot be beaten.

When Your Eyes and Eye Glasses require attention call at our Optical Office, L. B. Hilborn (R. O.) in charge. Here you are assured of satisfaction. Eyes carefully examined. Glasses nicely adjusted.

J. Wiss & Sons,

755 Broad Street, Newark.

Telephone, Brooklyn, 366.

COMINS & EVANS

Acorn Brand Asphalt Roofing.

Gravel and Metal Roofing, Tile and Brick Roofing, Water-Tight Cellars.

45 WAVERLY AVE, BROOKLYN, N. Y.

New York office, 102 Fulton st., room

Boots, Shoes & Rubbers.
AT FORCE'S,
119 West Front St.
Formerly 129 Park Ave. 29 tf

L. A. HUMMER'S
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
120 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

Rushton, Hansen & Luthman,
PAINTERS
AND PAPER HANGERS,
Office and shop Sycamore and 4th sts.
Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

Potter & Kellogg,
DEALERS IN
Lehigh Valley Coal.
Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard—At Mt. Pleasant, Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1-y

The Metropolitan Boarding Stables
C. V. D. CORLE, - - - - - - Proprietor
No. 138 East Second street. Livery and Boarding and Sale Stable. Horses boarded by the day, week, month or hour. Reasonable prices. 11 17 1y

HERMAN KELLER.
Manufacturer of and Retail Dealer in
Cigars, Tobacco, etc.
"PRIDE OF PLAINFIELD" IGAR a specialty. 116 North avenue. 9 26 tf

MRS. L. ADAMS,
MILLINERY.
Ready made gowns and dresses ordered from samples. All the latest novelties of the season.
114 EAST FRONT STREET.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havanas. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.
Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.
Telephone Call 128a

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing,
Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS.
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Out

BRAIN FOOD.

Edw. P. Thorn,
RETAIL DEALER IN
Fish, Oysters, and Clams.
Terms Cash. Goods Delivered

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country. Charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed. Orders may be left at Sattel's music store, 221 Park ave.

The Largest Selection of

Wall Papers

—AND—

Painter's Supplies

in Plainfield.

Woolston & Buckle,

141-145 North avenue.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital..... $200,000.
Surplus and Profits..... $90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. RUNYON, Ass't "

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Corlell,
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil,
Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Rushmore,
J. W. Johnson, Wm. R. Codington.
F. S. Runyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

Christmas Wreaths Roping Holly, etc. Also, Palms,

Rubber Trees, Begonias, Ferns Floral Designs, House and Church Decorations. Southern Smilax at 15 days notice.

DENTON'S.

131 Hillside avenue.

A GOOD FIRE

will make cheerful many of the evenings of the New Year. We'll sell you the coal—good coal—and plenty of it. We don't sell you dirt for coal. We don't sell you short measure. We want your coal trade always.

D. C. IVINS & CO.

Coal, Lumber, &c. 301-311 Watchung Ave.

CLEANER COAL.

and L. A. RHEAUME, N. H. SAXTON.

Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,

Invite the public to inspect the operation of their newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which they confidently believe enables them to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.

Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal

in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.

Kindling Wood a Specialty.

Rushmore & Co.,

WATCHUNG AVENUE,
COR. FOURTH ST.

Lumber yard and Planing Mill.

Large and full assortment of lumber including 21 varities from Hemlock to Mahogany always in stock. Window frames, moulding, sash, doors and blinds. Hardwood floors a specialty. Turning and scroll sawing. We can make anything. Call and see us. Satisfaction guaranted.

"It is Making a Hit."

FEIGENSPAN'S Finest Pale Ale

IN BOTTLES, and

FEIGENSPAN'S SAAZER BEER

At Hotel Grenada Bar.

The Plainfield Confectioners,

112 West Front street.

Candies from 10, 15 and 20 cents per lb. up. The very best goods. Made daily on the premises. Formerly known as the New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Comp'y. 9 9 1y

CITY HOTEL.

Plainfield, N. J.

Corner Park avenue and Second street.

Stables attached. I. E. Beerbower, Prop

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL,

No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.

Harry C Adams, Regent.

Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

Opportunity for Safe and Profitable Investment.

The N. J. MUTUAL REALTY COMPANY.

(Incorporated.)

Have acquired 200 acres of land with 6,000 feet frontage on C. R. R. of N. J. and Lehigh Valley Railroad at a cost of $22,500 and propose selling stock to small investors in $100 shares at par to pay for property. Already negotiations are pending to locate first-class manufactories along railroad front. This plan will enable the Company to sell building lots at low prices, and all profits derived from sale of this property is to be divided among stockholders.

All stock payable to Treas. of Company on or before April 1, 1897. Already upwards of $10,000 stock have been subscribed for.

The following gentlemen are officers and directors of the Company.

A. D. Thompson. Sylvanus Ayres, Jr., Peter Egenolf, President Board of Trade, Elizabeth; P. H. Oakley, Insurance Broker; S. D. Drake, Richard H. Brokaw, cashier First National Bank, Bound Brook; W. W. Smalley, firm of L. D. Cook & Co.

For prospectus and full particulars call or address,

N. J. MUTUAL REALTY CO.,

ROSS BUILDING. BOUND BROOK, N. J.

Or First National Bank, Plainfield and Bound Brook. 1 4 1w

Have You Bought Your OVERCOAT?

If not, come to WERNER'S CLOTHING HOUSE and take advantage of the CUT SALE now going on.

STOCK MUST BE SOLD.

Hats and Furnishing Goods a Specialty.

H. WERNER, Clothier,

No. 206 West Front Street.

COLD WEATHER GOODS

AT

PUTNAM & DEGRAW'S

Underwear, Gloves, Hosiery, &c.

Agents for the "Golden Rule" CLOTHES RACK and IRONING TABLE, $1.00 each.

A. LUSARDI,

120 NORTH AVENUE,
Wholesale and Retail

Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds of Confectionery, Peanuts, Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets

NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE

Sewer Connections.

DAVID BOWDEN,

General Contractor. 109 Park ave., Plainfield N. J. Carriage drives macadamized, sewers and sewer connections promptly made, lawns carefully restored. All work done in a practical and skilful manner.

28 YEARS EXPERIENCE.

Best of references furnished. Charges moderate 4 18 t.

C. W. LINES,

Mason and Builder

Plainfield, N. J.

Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly to

PEARSON & GAYLE,

Carpenters and Builders.

Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.

All work promptly attended to.

HOTEL TUILERIES!

AND ROGER'S RESTAURANT,

139-141 East Front street.

ROOMS TO LET. CATERING.

30,000 CIGARS

of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of the city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue,
8 15 tf Plainfield.

E. H. Holmes,

Dealer in

Coal & Wood.

Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

Telephone 49-A.

William Hand & Son.

STAGES

For Parties, etc., 518 Park ave.

How Is It Possible?

You can't see how mince meat, as good as any made at home, can be sold for 10 cents a package (enough for 2 large pies)?

The Reason's Plain.

Many carloads of the materials for None Such Mince Meat are bought at one time, at first hands. All the paring, chopping, seeding, stemming and cleaning are done by perfected machinery. Such immense quantities are sold that a mite of profit on each package of is enough. All grocers sell it. Be sure and get the genuine.

NONE SUCH MINCE MEAT

Send your name and address and mention this paper, and we will mail you free a book, "Mrs. Pepkins' Thanksgiving," by one of the most popular humorous authors of the day.

MERRELL-SOULE CO., SYRACUSE, N. Y.

HUNTS SKUNKS ON A BICYCLE.

Maine Man Has a Novel Way of Capturing the Perfumed Animals.

The wide meadows which stretch from the Penobscot river east to Clifton make Bradley, Me., one of the best skunk pastures in Maine. In ordinary years there are at least a dozen fat skunks to every acre of land, and as land is counted by the square mile or township thereabouts there is no end to the number of skunks. In average seasons, when the grasshoppers are plenty, skunks are fit to kill during the full moon of September. Owing to the scarcity of insects and the general depression caused by hard times, the little animals have not fattened up as early as usual in 1896, and the general round-up and slaughter has been postponed for a week or more.

The few hunters who have been out report game plenty and the fur in excellent condition. James Sinclaire, of Eddington, who killed 41 skunks in three nights, says the pelts are heavier and darker colored than they have been for years. Gus Anderson, of North Brewer, who has caught about 20 in traps near his henhouses, went on a skunk hunt the other night and brought in 18 large ones before daylight. Before this year Anderson has always used a dog to help him find the animals. On Friday night, having no dog, he lighted a lantern and rode through the mowed grass fields on his bicycle. Whenever he saw a skunk he dismounted and killed it with a club. He likes the new method very much, and says a good cushion-tired bicycle is away ahead of any dog he ever saw. He offers to bet five dollars that he and his bicycle can capture 20 skunks any fair night.

Boys who want to earn money with which to buy guns and winter clothing are the chief skunk hunters. Two wide-awake boys, accompanied by a yelping dog, go along the sides of fences and brooks, killing all the skunks they can find. If the dog is a greenhorn he shakes the animals to death and is sorry afterward. If he is an old hand at the sport, he barks about his prey until the hunters come up and do the killing with a club. The animals are carried home, and after the skin has been taken off and stretched on a board the carcass is put over a slow fire and roasted for the oil. A skunk will yield from one to three pints of oil, averaging about one quart. This has always sold for four dollars a gallon to the local druggists until the present hard times reduced the rate to 40 cents a pint, or $3.20 a gallon. The price of skins varies from 25 cents for small ones that are nearly white, to $1.25 for large, black ones; 75 cents is about an average. From the foregoing figures it can be seen that every skunk nets the hunter about $1.50. As two boys and a dog frequently kill 15 or 20 skunks a night it is a profitable business while it lasts. Boys and bachelors are the chief patrons of the sport. Few married men have tried to get a living by killing skunks. Last year a Hancock county judge decided that the woman who was wedded to a chronic skunk hunter had good grounds for divorce. This pleased the boys so much that they say they are going to elect that judge governor when they get big enough to vote.

Though enterprising men in New York and Connecticut have started skunk farms of late, and are said to be getting rich selling oil and furs, no Maine man has yet made a fortune at the business. Three or four years ago a farmer in Pittston, on the Kennebec river, fenced in some land and began to grow skunks for the market. Though he fed his pets on liver and offal from the slaughterhouses and tomcods caught from the river, he found that the animals did not thrive well in confinement. More than half of them emigrated to other towns. Those that remained have picked up wonderfully and produced a large number of young skunks, which will be big enough to kill in another year. Last year Capt. Perkins, of Blue hill, fenced in three females and two male skunks and fed them through the winter. In the spring he found himself the proud owner of 34 baby skunks, nearly half of which were almost pure black. Fortune seemed about to come and make her home with him when he went out one day and found that the father skunks had eaten up all their offspring. The captain changed the diet of his captives, and, feeding them on the best the market afforded, waited for the next litters, which came along in August. There were 23 young ones that time. They got big enough to play like kittens when they all disappeared, dying from the same cause that had killed the former broods. After this the captain used his fence for restraining hens, and let the skunks shift for themselves.—N. Y. Sun.

Within the reach of all.

ACCIDENT TICKETS.

THE INTER-STATE

Casualty Company of New York gives SIX MONTHS' insurance

$1.000 for $1.00,

to men or women

between 18 and 60 years of age, against accidental death. $100,000 deposited with the Insurance Deparment of the State of New York for the security of the insured.

For sale at office of

Honeyman's Private Tours,

181 North Ave. Plainfield, N.J.

6 25-6 mos

McCullough's

STEAM MILL,

21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.

R. H. McCullough, Prop.

Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,

Real Estate and Insurance,

197 North avenue

W. N. Pangborn,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER.

Residence, 33 Linden Ave.

Personal attention. Prompt service.

Telephone 29b. Established 1878. 1 14 tf

PIANOS

If you want a deep, clear, rich tone, and the best material, buy your PIANOS at W. R. BROKAW'S. Piano Parlors, 311 Madison ave. Bargains in second-hand instruments. Parlors always open. Tuning and regulating a specialty.

Your Valuables

will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

J. W. VanSickle,

FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.

Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Philadelphia Scrapple.

REVERE HOUSE

PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD New Jersey.

Families accomodated for the fall and winter months at greatly reduced prices.

The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed.

GEO. B. DE REVERE.

IDLENESS IN PRISON.

It Terrors Illustrated by Convict Hoffman's Suicide in Sing Sing.

Sing Sing, Jan. 9.—The attempt of Frederick Hoffman, the convict, to commit suicide in Sing Sing prison yesterday, demonstrates clearly the hardship added to prision life when the inmate is compelled to remain idle. Up to the first of the year Hoffman had been employed in the printing office in the prison, but he was compelled to quite work with the others owing to the going into effect of the law against selling the products of convict labor except to state institutions. Since Jan. 1 Hoffman has been locked in his cell on gallery 10, near the top of the prison. He has been out of his cell only to take exercise since then. The cells of the convicts on this tier were opened about 6:30, and Hoffman went out with the rest of the convicts to take exercise. He fell in line with the other prisoners in the gang, to go downstairs. Just as the line had started to march, Hoffman broke out and jumped over the railing. It was about seventy-five feet from the gallery to the stone floor below. He fell head downward striking on the stone flagging with terrific force, receiving what the prison physician pronounced as fatal injuries. The evening before Hoffman wrote a note to Warden Sage, in which he told the warden he feared his mind would give way under the strain of thinking about his misfortune, and that he had decided it would be better for him if he was dead. He also made the request that his belongings, which he said were in New York city, should be given to his wife and child. Hoffman was sentenced in New York city on December 20, 1895, for attempted burglary to five years in Sing Sing prison.

NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE.

Republican Senators Caucus and Nominate Officers To Be Elected.

Trenton, Jan. 9.—Fifteen of the republican senators of New Jersey held a caucus last evening at the state house to determine upon the official personnel of the senate. Senator Voorhees of Union, who will be leader on the floor of the chamber, presided over the caucus. The following slate was made: President, Robert Williams of Passaic; secretary, Henry B. Rollinson of Union; assistant secretary, J. C. Kingdon of Burlington; journal clerk, Walter E. Edge of Atlantic; assistant journal clerk, A. S. Church of Middlesex; sergeant-at-arms, Samuel T. Atchley of Mercer; assistant sergeant-at-arms, William W. Binnin of Bergen; calendar clerk, William H. Fisher of Ocean; engrossing clerk, Edgar Williams of Essex; assistant engrossing clerk, James Shoemaker of Cape May, and bill clerk, James E. Stanton of Sussex. To Senator Vreeland was left the naming of the clerk to the committee on engrossed bills. All the minor officers in the senate will be filled at another caucus of the senators to be held next Monday night.

The Hawaiian Cable Project.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Since the deadlock in the committee on commerce, over which of the two projects for a Hawaiian cable was the most meritorious, the general question of the Pacific cable has been in abeyance. It is understood, however, that an effort towards action will now be made, and that Gen. W. A. Swayne of New York will appear before the house commerce committee next Tuesday to present a new proposition in behalf of the Spalding committee.

The Suffering in India.

Calcutta, Jan. 9.—It is officially announced that 1,250,000 persons are now engaged on the relief works and that the number will probably reach 2,000,000 during the coming week. A public meeting has been called under the presidency of the viceroy, the Earl of Elgin, to consider private measures to relieve the famine sufferers. It is suggested that a fund be formed and subscriptions invited from Great Britain, the colonies and America.

Mysterious Crazy Woman at Ayer, Mass.

Ayer, Mass., Jan. 9.—Chief of Police O'Toole found a crazy woman wandering around the railroad yard last night. She was well dressed and had bank books in which was the name "Sarah A. Dawson, Oxford street, Guelph, Ont.," showing deposits amounting to $2,100; also a valuable watch and some money. A telegram was sent to Guelph, Ont., and she is detained here waiting an answer.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spot weak and locally lower. Jan., 89¼c.; May, 90⅝c.; July, 83¼c.

Corn—Spot quiet and active. Jan., 29¼c.; May, 31⅛c.

Oats—Market quiet; prices dull. Jan., 22¼c.; May, 23⅛c.

Eggs—Market quiet; choice firm. State and Pennsylvania, fresh, 18@20c.; ice house, 14@15c.; western, fresh, 17@18c.; limed, 14@14½; southern, 17@17½c.; in case, $1.50@$3.30.

Pork—Market steady; trade easy. Extra prime, nominal, short clear, $8.75@10.25; mess, $8.50@8.75; family, $9.50@10.00.

Lard—Steady; moderate demand. Prime western, $4.12½.

Butter—Market steady; fair demand. Creamery western extras, 20c.; state and Pennsylvania, extras, 18@19½c.; creamery, western seconds, 16c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fresh factory, 13c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fall made extras, 18@19c.; western imitation creamery, seconds to firsts, 14@16c.; western factory, firsts to extras, 8½@11c.

Cheese—Market steady. State, full cream, large size, fall made, colored, 10¾c.; large, common to choice, part skims, 3½@7¾c.

Potatoes—Market firm; good supply. Long Island in bulk, per barrel, $1.25@1.50; New Jersey, round, choice, per barrel, $1.00@1.25.

AGAINST THE EARL

Sympathy in England Generally Is with Lady Scott.

HER STATEMENTS NOW BELIEVED

Unable To Produce the Necessary Evidence—During Her Eight Months' Imprisonment She Will Be Treated as a First Class Prisoner.

London, Jan. 9.—Although Lady Scott pleaded guilty to the charge of criminally libelling her son-in-law, Earl Russell, there are many who believe that she is the victim of circumstance and was only unable to produce evidence necessary in a court, to have substantiated and justified her charges against the earl. This belief is more generally accepted since her assertion in court yesterday, after being sentenced, together with Cockerton and Aylott, to eight months' imprisonment, that every word she uttered against her daughter's husband was true. The Old Bailey court was crowded when the prisoners were arraigned for sentence. Lady Scott entered the court room accompanied by her daughter, Countess Russell. When the prisoners were called to the bar, John Lawson Walton, M. P., solicitor for Lady Scott, addressed the court in behalf of his client saying that her ladyship pledged herself not to republish any of the libels she had uttered against Earl Russell. Solicitor Hall, speaking for Cockerton and Aylott, said that his clients did not withdraw a single word they had made concerning Earl Russell, having told nothing but the truth about him. Lady Scott in reply to the usual question by the court as to what she had to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon her, said that she was perfectly willing to accept any puuishment that his lordship, the judge, might see fit to inflict. All that she had done, she said, was in defence of her darling daughter and she would gladly suffer anything for her sake. The judge then addressed the prisoners, speaking for half an hour. He was repeatedly interrupted by Lady Scott, who finally became exasperated at the lecturing of the court and exclaimed: "For goodness sake let me have my sentence. I am only a woman." The judge then pronounced sentence upon the prisoners, condemning each of them to eight months without hard labor. Lady Scott, on account of her delicate health will be treated as a first-class misdemeanant, but Cockerton and Aylott will be treated as ordinary prisoners.

DELAWARE'S RUMP HOUSE.

Secret Session Held and Days for Meeting Selected—Efforts for a Rump Senate Fail.

Dover, Del., Jan. 9.—The rump house of representatives, Addicks men, met late last evening and held a secret session. The only thing done was the adoption of a resolution to meet every third day until January 19. That is the day on which a United States senator is to be chosen. The house also provided for the payment of milage to members. At a consultation in Wilmington to consider the formation of a rump senate the project failed. Senators Moore and Pierce of Sussex refused to have anything to do with the scheme.

Bauman's Story Discredited.

New York, Jan. 9.—Detectives at police headquarters take no stock in the story told by Frederick Bauman in a Louisville newspaper dispatch. Bauman declared that he and another man murdered Frank P. Arbuckle, the Denver politician, by beating him on the the head with a pistol and slungshot. There were no marks of violence on Arbuckle's body.

Griffith To Become a Colonel.

Albany, Jan. 9.—Wm. H. Griffith, Gov. Black's private secretary, is to have the title of colonel, which has for some years been meted out to those holding the position. It is announced that Brig.-Gen. Carroll, chief of artillery on the governor's staff, is to appoint Mr. Griffith assistant chief of artillery, which carries with it the rank of colonel.

Pawtucket Boat Club House Burned.

Pawtucket, R. I., Jan. 9.—The Pawtucket Boat club house was burned to the ground last evening with all the racing shells and gigs and athletic apparatus. Twenty-six boats, the property of the club and private parties, and the early records of the club are in the ruins.

Presented with a Life-Saving Medal.

Hartford, Jan. 9.—The Connecticut Humane society has presented a life-saving medal to Eugene Walker, a son of W. W. Walker of this city. He saved G. W. F. Gillette from drowning at Woodmont, Conn., September 13, 1896.

New York C. E. Union.

Elmira, N. Y., Jan. 9.—The executive committee of the State Christian Endeavor union will meet here Feb. 16, to begin the preparation of the programme of the state convention of Endeavorers, which will be held in Elmira next fall.

Wales To Entertain Bayard.

London, Jan. 9.—The Prince of Wales has invited the Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, the American ambassador, to visit him at Sandringham. The date of the visit has not yet been fixed.

Court-Martial for Ensign Coleman.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Ensign N. T. Coleman, steel inspector at Harrisburg, will be court-martialed at the Washington navy yard next Monday on a charge of neglect of duty.

Gale at Nantucket.

Nantucket, Mass., Jan. 9.—A heavy northeaster prevailed here all last night, the wind plowing thirty to forty miles an hour.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, - Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

108 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 9, 1897.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

(Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Fair; Warmer Tonight and Sunday. At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 58 Degrees.

A RANK INJUSTICE.

The State of New Jersey pays all sorts of clerks in the State House all the way from $80 to $150 a month for five and a half short days' work, with holidays and vacations thrown in. It charges the litigants in its courts five cents a folio for making copies and enrolling papers. The later clerks in chancery paid out of this three cents to the copyists and enrollers. The State, which pays these liberal salaries to the men whom it employs, proposes to cut down the fee of the copyists to 2½ cents a folio, in order that the office may make larger profits for the State, and thus lay ground for an increase in the salaries paid for higher positions. This is rank injustice and is unworthy of a great State.—Trenton True American.

TAFFY FOR DEMOCRATS.

Governor Griggs was asked in New York yesterday what he thought about the prospect of New Jersey remaining in the Republican column. He is quoted as saying that this depended on several things. In case the gold standard Democrats did not reunite with the silverites, he thought the Republican party should, and probably would receive large accessions from the ranks of those Democrats who joined hands with them last fall. The Governor appears to think that Republican ascendancy in the State depends largely on the retention of the votes of gold standard Democrats, and he is in favor of encouraging them to continue the support that helped to bring about Republican success last year.

REAL ESTATE OWNERS.

When reference was made to "property owners" in the editorial in these columns, yesterday, concerning Mayor Fisk's suggestion for call firemen, it was meant to apply to those who own real estate. It is conceded that a majority of the present volunteer firemen own household property.

SCOTT'S MEN TURNED THE TABLE.

Swamped Their Bowling Opponents From Potter's by a Big Score.

There was an exciting bowling match rolled on the Ulrich clubhouse alleys last evening between the bowling contingent from the Scott Press Works and their friends from the Potter Press Works. It was the second game of a series in which the Potter boys came out victorious in the first. Their opponents from the eastern end of the city turned the tables on them last evening and fairly swamped them, beneath a lead of 172 pins at the close. The game was replete with exciting incidents, but the Scott contingent seemed to be in their element, and as one of their number remarked, "they didn't do a thing" to their opponents from the start. They led the way without trouble. The deciding game will be rolled soon.

The individual scores were as follows:

SCOTTS.		POTTERS.
Sutphen	139	Matthews	121
Loughlin	105	Galleghar	137
Adams	108	Marsh	105
Eick	133	Muir, Andy	98
Smith	141	Mattox	95
Shultz	125	Symons	116
Sowden	144	Fielding	106
McLean	155	Squires	101
Bittle	160	Buckley	98
Wilson	112	Muir, A.	177
	1322		1150

Umpires, Herbert Overbaugh and Ben Eddy; scorer, F. Willett.

REVIVAL SOUGHT FOR.

Church Leaders to Arouse Religious Interest by Special Meetings.

Union revival services will be held in the First Baptist church on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of next week. All the churches of the city will unite in holding the meetings, which will not interfere with the regular mid-week services of the churches as on Wednesday night the revival meetings will not be held. These meetings will be on the same lines as those which have been held during the last week. The leaders next week will be as follows:—On Monday evening, Rev. A. E. Main, D. D.; on Tuesday evening, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich; on Thursday evening, Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D.; on Friday evening, Rev. C. R. Barnes, D. D.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East.

City Clerk James T. Murray has gone to Dover, today, on a business trip.

C. E. Searls, of New York, has been the guest of Plainfield friends for several days.

Miss Anna Voilin, of New York, is the guest of her friend, Miss Etta Blatz, of Somerset street.

Miss Daisy Sprague, of Spooner avenue, who has been quite ill at her home, is not much improved today.

Miss Ada Chandler, of Plainfield avenue, has returned from a visit with relatives in Orange county, New York.

Nicholas R. O'Connor, of New York, was the guest yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bovey, of Somerset street.

John Bushnell, of Central, was recently elected a member of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital.

A. D. Porter and family have returned to their home on Craig place, after a two weeks visit with friends in Boston.

Miss Bertha F. Warman, of Grove street, is at Phœnix, Arizona, where she will remain for the rest of the winter.

Mrs. James Tilby, of Stone street, is spending a few days with her brother, George W. Day, at Bridgeport, Conn.

Miss Sherwin, of West Fourth street, has gone to the University of Chicago where she fills the positions of student and teacher.

Mrs. Mary Sutphen, of Central avenue, is recovering from an illness from which she has been suffering for several weeks.

Miss Truslow, of New York, is spending a few days at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. W. Haviland, of Rockview avenue.

Fred Sutton, of Liberty street, who is confined to the house by illness, does not improve as rapidly as his friends would like.

Mrs. John Higgins and children, of Stone street, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Higgins' mother, Mrs. Hockenbury, at Weston.

Mrs. John Weir and daughters, of "The Towers," Rockview avenue, will take up their residence at 19 Craig place for the winter.

Miss Florence G. Thorn has returned to her home in Elizabeth after spending a few days with her friend, Miss Susie Woodland, of Duer street.

Rev. Rush Rhees has returned to the Newton Theological Seminary, Newton Centre, Mass., after a two weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue.

Mrs. John Weir, of Rockview avenue, has rented her handsome residence, "The Towers," to Mrs. Gould, of Seneca Falls, who will take possession Friday of next week. Mrs. Gould is a sister of F. W. Perry, of Willow avenue.

H. Reeve Stockton, of West Eighth street, has left Dr. Johnson's School, after receiving a business education, and has accepted a position in the office of Harvey Fisks' Sons in New York, where he will begin his new duties on Monday.

Miss Josie W. Martin, of Chatham street, who has been so seriously ill for the past several weeks, wishes through The Daily Press to thank her many friends who have called on her during her illness and otherwise befriended her. Miss Martin is now able to sit up for a few hours each day.

A Card.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I was very much pleased to read in your issue of last night a comment on the personal interest each clerk in my employ is taking in my business while I am sick, and I wish to add that I thoroughly appreciate their efforts and at the same time to correct a wrong impression that I am worrying because I am obliged to leave my business in their care, for I am not.

Yours respectfully,
J. F. MacDonald.

Game Protectors to Be Elected.

A meeting of the Protective Game and Propogating Association will be held in the parlors of the Ulrich clubhouse on Wednesday evening. There will be election of officers and other important business to be transacted.

Entertained at Euchre.

A progressive euchre party was held last evening at the residence of Chas. W. Smith on Willow avenue, in honor of Miss Longford, a visiting friend from Brooklyn. It was a very enjoyable evening.

You can be well when your blood is rich, pure and nourishing. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood rich and pure and cures all blood diseases, restoring health and vigor.

Hood's pills are easy to take, easy to operate. Cure indigestion, headache. 25c.

PASSING COMMENT.

T. W. Sisty, a well-known Central Railroad man, is mourning the loss of a valuable pointer dog, which he believes was enticed away by a couple of strangers going toward Bound Brook last Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Sisty terms it "a cruel act" as the canine left a brood of young puppies at home.

* * * *

The cyclists are out again, not very many it is true, but the good roads which have dried up and are not full of ruts have tempted some of the most devoted of the wheelmen and wheelwomen and they are ont again for a few days. Many of the wheels have been stored away for the winter, but there are always some that keep their machines ready for emergencies and this is one.

* * * *

It has been frequently noticed that the fire department building on East Second street does not strictly conform to the line of the street, and people have often wondered why the building seems to be on a bias. The reason for it is that in order to get the building on the lot it had to be set that way. If the other plan had been adopted, there would have been an inequality in the dimensions of the rooms, which was not desired.

* * * *

It is understood that several barbers in the city are making efforts to have the Sunday law repealed, thus giving them the privilege of keeping open on Sunday. This is being done because of the hard times and the fact that one barber closes on Saturday and keeps open on Sunday. As soon as the new Council gets down to business they will probably receive a petition from the barbers, asking for a repeal of the law.

* * * *

Revs W. R. Richards, D. J. Yerkes and C. R. Barnes, the committee of ministers who have in charge the arrangement of the revival services for next week, have issued a public statement, of which the following is a part: "The committee would urge upon all Christians to abstain, as far as possible, from all social engagements, and pray and labor for the unsaved. We especially urge upon all the importance of prayer, that the Divine Spirit may grant His presence and give success."

* * * *

Here is a story that came from Dunellen last night: Three poorly-dressed young men, evidently from nineteen to twenty-one years of age, alighted from a passing coal train, yesterday afternoon; and for a time walked along the main street sizing up the stores and residences in general. In front of some of the more prominent business places they chalked the sidewalk and door-posts with peculiar hieriographics, such as are often used by professional thieves in locating their places of prey. In front of one business place was marked "X up." Two of the fellows wore overcoats and the third didn't.

* * * *

In all of North Plainfield's several thousand of inhabitants there are very few that know the names of all the streets. If they did they would learn several other facts. Although it is not generally known, there are two instances where two entirely different streets have the same name. While these thoroughfares in question are out on the outskirts of the borough at present, there would be lots of trouble if the sections should be thickly settled. A glance at the atlas of the city of Plainfield and the borough of North Plainfield, recently published by F. A. Dunham, will show the streets in question. First, there are two Maple avenues. One runs north-west and south-east from Green Brook road to Cedar street, and the other lies in the western part of Washington Park, running north-east from West End avenue to Magnolia avenue. The other instance is in the case of the Mountain avenues, of which there are two. The first is the best known and runs north-east from Somerset street out through the borough limits to Scotch Plains. The other takes the same direction but runs from Grove street to Jefferson avenue and is the next street to the northern boundry of the borough.

Hurt at Scott's Press Work.

Robert Gray, an employe of the Walter Scott Printing Press Works, sustained a slight inside wound of the forehead this morning while at work The man was taken to the hospital in a carriage, and the wound was quickly dressed, so that he was able to return to work soon afterward.

—The initiatory team of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., have received an invitation from Unity Lodge, No. 102 K. of P., to attend the next meeting of the latter lodge and work the third degree on several candidates.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Chiefs and members of Lona Council, 14, Degree of Pocahontas, you are hereby requested to meet at our wigwam on Monday afternoon, January 11, 1897, at one o'clock to attend the funeral of our departed Sister Bushton. By order of Lizzie Dunlap, Pocahontas.

Attest,
Levinia Holstein,
K. of R.

A JEWEL.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear."
And many a gem by mortals here unseen
Are waiting to be worn by some sweet fair.
In our well-stocked cases now are laid
Jewels that shine with scintilating fire:
In the latest fads and fashions made
That the connoisseur in jewelry must admire.
Design and workmanship are of the best.
So lovely woman do not hide
Those charms that Nature's sweet behest
Endows you with, but with woman's pride
Enhance your beauty as you see best.

COLLIER,
103 Park Ave. Established 1869.

THE BEE HIVE.

Men's Unlaundered Shirts

Lot 1—The "Cast Iron Shirt," made of good heavy muslin, good 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—38c.

Lot 2—New York Mills muslin, 3-ply fine linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—48c.

Lot 3—Our New York Mills shirt, made of New York Mills muslin, 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced ront and back, continuous facing and hand-made buttonholes, equal to the best custom-made shirt—69c.

Boys' unlaundered shirts, 38c.

Men's laundered shirts 50c., 75c and $1.00

LOUIS CALLMAN
222 West Front Street.

BOROUGH NOTICE

The ordinance requires occupants of property to remove snow and ice from sidewalks within five hours after it accumulates. Notice is hereby given that the penalty for violation of this ordinance will hereafter be strictly enforced.

B. A. HEGEMAN, JR.,
1 6 12 Mayor.

P. H. ZIMMER,
Practical Machinist and Engineer,
Steam, Gas and Electric Contracting. Complete Power Plants Installed. Experimental work. General Jobbing. All kinds of repairing. EXCHANGE ALLEY, in rear of Trinity church. Bicycles built to order. 12

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield January 4th, 1897.

Amerman Rev Jas L	Hickey Miss Rosie
Boehm Miss A 3	Mitchell C H
Bristand, Miss Ann Allison	Mattis Wm
	Stewart Mrs Leonora
Corbett Miss Mary E.	Sullivan Jas F
Compton T A	Tevis E E
Eager Geo	Tennyson Mrs Jas
Hamilton John M	VanDoren H J
Haldane Miss Emily	Voorhees Miss E A
Hopkins Mr	Vermeule Wm

IRVING SAVINGS INSTITUTION,
96 WARREN STREET, NEW YORK.

The Trustees of this institution have declared interest on all sums remaining on deposit during the three and six months ending December 31, 1896, at the rate of FOUR PER CENT. per annum on amounts from $1 to $3,000, payable on and after Monday, Jan. 18, 1897. Deposits made on or before Jan. 10 will draw interest from Jan. 1.

G. BYRON LATIMER, Secretary. W. H. B. TOTTEN, President.
12 30 10

P. MARKEY,
Bakery,
144 PARK AVENUE.
A full assortment of bread, cakes, and pies fresh every day. Fig and malt bread a specialty. 2 17 tf

HOME BUILDING AND LOAN Association.
ORGANIZED APRIL, 1888.

Meets at Republican Headquarters, room No. 12, East Front street, on the third Monday of each month for payment of dues and interest. New series opened in April and October of each year.

Monthly dues are $1 per share. Shares $200 each. Entrance fee 25 cents per share.

Members are entitled to borrow the face value of their shares on approved real estate security.

Present receipts available for loans over $4,000 monthly.

ISAAC W. BUSHMORE, President.
S. R. Struthers, Secretary. 10 11 6m-s

ALL RADIATE
from
THE CENTRAL STORE

PECK'S.

EVERY THING
For the Fire-place.
MANTELS, TILES, GRATES.
SPARK GUARDS, $1.25 and up.
Curtis M. Thorpe, 310-312 Park Avenue.

--JAQUETT'S--
CLOTHING Of the Latest Style for Men, Boys' and Children. Suits and Overcoats.
SUITS and OVERCOATS. School Suits, from 75c. up.
NOVELTIES FOR CHILDREN. Full lines in Top Coats, Reefers and Separate Pants.
MEN'S FURNISHINGS. All of the latest Novelties in Ties, Collars, Shirts, Suspenders, HOSIERY, GLOVES, UNDERWEAR.
HATS of the Latest Styles at Moderate Prices.
One Price—Cash. Money refunded if goods are not as represented.
129 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LAST DAYS OF FIRE SALE!
Everything to be closed out by January 15th. The balance of stock of Dry Goods to be sold for a mere nothing. On MONDAY, JANUARY 11th,
from 3 to 5 P. M., we will GIVE about 150 CLOAKS to the DESERVING POOR of this city. Each applicant must have papers properly signed by some officer of any local charity organization.

LEDERER'S,
115 WEST FRONT STREET.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!
GEORGE E. ROGERS.....Lessee, | GEORGE H. WILLEY.....Manager
COMING ONE WEEK.
JANUARY 11th,
Engagement of the
COMEDIENNE,
Maude Hillman,
under the management of Winthrop G. Snelling.
A carload of Magnificent Scenery, Properties, &c. Elegant Costumes. Songs and dances.
MATINEES Wednesday and Saturday.
Prices 10 20 and 30 cents. Seats now on sale at Box Office.

Desks, Tables,
Easy Chairs, Rockers, etc.
Fine China,
Elegant Lamps,
Fancy Pottery.
G. Q. PACKER. J. W. GAVETT.

NEW YEAR'S CARDS
AND DIARIES
AT
R. C. RAND'S,
140 West Front street.

E. D. BARRETT,
No. 148 East 5th St.
Sole Agent for the
Richmond Heaters.
STEAM and HOT WATER.
SANITARY PLUMBING

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership lately subsisting between A. T. Ulrich of the City of Plainfield, Union county, New Jersey, and J. A. Blatz of the Borough of North Plainfield, Somerset county, New Jersey, under the firm name of Ulrich & Blatz was dissolved on the first day of January 1897 by mutual consent.

All debts owing to the said partnership are to be received by said J. A. Blatz and all demands on the said partnership are to be presented to him for payment.

Dated January 1st, 1897.

A. T. ULRICH.
J. A. BLATZ.
1 6 4

ALEX. LUSARDI.
211 West Front Street,
Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores. 9 9 1 rear

BAKERY,
No. 132 Park Avenue.
Fine Bread, Cake, Pastry and Pies of all kinds. All orders promptly attended. A share of the public patronage is respectfully solicited.
S. H. Schleif,
Proprietor.
1 7 1y

NEWMAN'S STAGE LINE TIME TABLE
Between Plainfield and Scotch Plains.

Leave Plainfield..... { 7.00; 9.30; 12.45 a. m. 4.00; 6.00; 9.00 p. m.
Sunday—9.00; 12.30 a. m., 3.00 6.00 p. m.

Leave Scotch Plains. { 6.20; 8.15; 10.30 a. m. 2.00; 5.00; 7.00; 9.30 p. m.
Sunday—9.45 a. m., 2.00; 4.00, 7.00 p. m.

DEPOT—FRONT STREET AND PARK AVE.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

John Logan is able to go out again after several days illness.

Mrs. M. Finger, of Cranford, is visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. P. Kratzel.

Mrs. William Terry was in New York yesterday, both on a shopping and visiting trip.

The next regular meeting of the Borough Council will be held on the evening of February 1st.

Miss Jennie Stevens, of Hagerstown, Md., is visiting at the home of her friend, Miss EmmaGiddis.

Several young people from this place attended a dance at Bayonne last evening given by Clarence Fields and Raymond Leonard.

Rev. Dr. Fletcher went to Jersey City, on Thursday, and officiated at the marriage ceremony of two of his former parishioners there.

The annual meeting of the Dunellen gun club will be held on the night of Friday, January 15th, when the prizes for the year will be given out.

Rev. Dr. Fletcher will preach in the Baptist church at New Market tomorrow morning, and in the evening he will assist at the union services.

W. H. Cole has in his possession a deed written on parchment dated 1767, conveying certain lands in Readington township, Hunterdon County.

Union services were held in the Baptist church at New Market, this morning, with Rev. Dr. Fletcher in charge. Tonight will decide whether the revival services will continue for another week or not.

Court Dunellen, No. 1123, I. O. F., will meet in the school hall, next Monday evening and install the recently elected officers The annual report of the Finance Committee will be submitted for approval at the same time.

Reports to the contrary, notwithstanding, the skating continues fair on the New Market pond. Yesterday afternoon and last evening parties of young people from Dunellen and Plainfield went over and enjoyed the moonlight skating.

Street car No. 13, when making its Dunellen trip at four o'clock yesterday afternoon, run over a good-sized chunk of iron which lay crosswise on the rail It was at the "turn" near the eight row, and the motorman could not have possibly seen it.

It may seem strange, but it is nevertheless a fact that the dust blows in the roadway near Dunellen and at Scotch Plains a foot or more of snow can be seen in many places along the roadway. This can only be accounted for because Dunellen is five miles further south.

W. H. Cole has a desk in his office that an expert alone could only get into the inner recesses. But the thief or thieves who "cracked" Mr. Coles' safe the night of the big snow storm, were equal to the emergency, for they went through the whole place from A to Z in search of money.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Cinders and crushed stone have been spread on some of the walks leading to Fanwood. The cinders are far preferable to the stone for pedestrians.

Lymus Walpole's spaniel dog, valued at $100 or less, has been very sick and a Plainfield veterinarian was called in yesterday to prescribe for the animal.

Richard Hart and John Rike have arranged for a shooting match at 25 clay birds each, on Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22. The match will be for $5 a side, the loser to pay for the birds.

Prof. Eugene O Reilly's orchestra will furnish the music for the first annual dance of the Scotch Plains Social Club, at the Fanwood Club House, on the evening of Thursday, January 14.

So far as known the late postmaster James A. Baker left no will, and an administrator will therefore necessarily have to be appointed to administer the estate and his knowledge of the affairs and his aptness in taking hold of such matters makes him a most desirable one.

S. M. Schoolcraft, a brother of Mrs. James A. Baker, who has been here attending his brother-in-law's funeral, will leave for his home in Gallupville, Schoharie Co., N. Y., on Monday. Mr. Schoolcraft is anxious to remain here longer, but pressing business engagements necessitates his return.

Master Willie Turton son of Mr. and Mrs. Turton, of this place, celebrated the eighth anniversary of his birth at his home from four to eight o'clock yesterday. Willie was presented with money, books, games, and in fact everything that would make his young heart throb for a repetition of birthday festivities.

Buckien's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chillblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For Sale By L. W. Randolph.

Highest of all in Leavening Power—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

SUNDAY SERVICES.

[Notices under this head are published by The Daily Press free of charge, when supplied fresh each week by authority. Copy must be in hand by 10 a. m. Saturday to insure insertion, and should be supplied Friday when possible.]

Bible classes at Y. M. C. A. at 9:15 a. m.

East Third Street Mission—F. C. Harder will lead.

Reform Hall—4:15 meeting will be led by Rev. A. A. Phelps.

W. C. T. U. Rooms—James McGee will conduct the 4 o'clock p. m. meeting All are invited.

Y. M. C. A., 4:15 p. m.—Several men of the Scott Press Works will testify and the Southern Jubilee Singers will sing.

St. Joseph's (R. C.) Church—Rev. William. H. Miller, pastor. Masses at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m.; Sunday-school, 2:30; evening devotions, 8.

St. Mary's (R. C.) Church—Rev. R. E. Smyth, pastor. Masses at 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30 a. m.; evening devotions at 8. Sunday-school, 2:30 p. m.

Salvation Army Hall—Tonight and all day tomorrow interesting meetings will be conducted by Ensign MacLaren and Captain Dart, from National Headquarters.

Mission Church of the Heavenly Rest—Morning prayer and sermon at 11 a. m. William Winans Moore, lay reader, will conduct the services. Sunday-school, 9:45 a. m.

First Presbyterian Church—Rev. Chas. E. Herring, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. Evening subject, "The Greatest Sinner." Communion at morning service.

Grace Church, Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector—Early celebration of Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m.; morning prayer and sermon at 10:30; Sunday-school at 3 p. m.; evening services at 7:45.

Trinity Reformed Church—Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor. Preaching at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. by the pastor. Evening subject, "Thoughts for Revival Seasons." Sunday-school at 2:30 p. m.

All Souls' Church, Park avenue, (Unitarian)—Rev. A. C. Nickerson, the newly-elected pastor of the society, will preach at 10:45 a.m. Subject: "The Law of Succession in Religion and Life." Sunday-school at 12 m.

Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. H. J. Johnston, pastor—Services, 10:30 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. Sunday-school at 2:30 p. m. Epworth League at 7 p. m. Morning subject, "Unconcerned;" evening, "The Offer of Life."

Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. C. R. Barnes, D. D., pastor—10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Morning subject, "What is Life?" Evening, "Unfinished Towers." Sunday-school at 2:30 p. m. Epworth League prayer meeting at 7 p. m.

Park Avenue Baptist Church, Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor—Sunday-school at 2:30 p. m. Preaching at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. by the pastor. Morning theme, "The afflicted man's consolation;" evening "Joseph: the heroic young man."

Monroe Avenue M. E. Church, Rev. William C. O'Donnell, pastor—Preaching at 11 a. m. and at 8 p.m. Morning subject, "The Trumpet Call to Battle;" evening, "The Deceitfulness of the Devil." Sunday-school at 3 p. m. Epworth League, 7:15 p. m.

First Church of Christ—This congregation will meet at Elder Joseph Shultize's, 106 Manning avenue, morning and evening. Rev. W. O. Thomas, of New York, will conduct the services. It is expected that arrangements will be made for the meeting places during the week.

St. Stephen's Church, Rev. S. P. Simpson, rector—Holy Communion, 7:30 a. m.; Sunday-school, 9:45 a. m.; morning prayer, litany and sermon, 11; evening prayer and sermon, 7:45. Free stages have been discontinued, as the trolley cars run past the church every twelve minutes.

THEATRICAL.

Comedy, sentiment and sensation are all combined in the plays of Maude Hillman to be seen at Music Hall next week. A scene representing a quarry is introduced in "Miss Ray of Colorado," men, engines, steam drills, etc., are all seen working, the same as in life, and as a climax, an explosion takes place, and rocks, stones and debris are seen to fall into space. A person could hardly believe such a heavy and realistic scene could be safely handled. In every play Miss Hillman will introduce her famous specialties. Harry Brooks, the great banjo soloist, and Miss Blanche Hillman, the pretty and charming danseuese, are members of this company.

Board of Agriculture Meets.

The Union County Board of Agriculture, at its annual meeting Thursday, elected the following officers: President, Emerson P. Beebe; vice-president, Dennis C. Crane; secretary, F. E. Woodruff; treasurer, Gideon E. Ludlow; advisory board, E. P. Beebe, Gideon E. Ludlow, John O. Magie, D. L. Magee, Ogden Woodruff, The annual report of the treasurer showed that there were no debts and a surplus of $10.48 in the treasury.

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

ALL OVER THE TOWN

NEWS IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS THAT INTEREST ALL PLAINFIELDERS.

Gathered by Enterprising Press Reporters From Both Sides of the Brook and Tersely Served for Your Perusal.

—J. A. Blatz's market is being improved with a new coat of paint on the interior.

—The foundation for the new building now being erected on East Front street, is about completed.

—Cypress Commandery, Colored Masons, will consider business of importance next Monday evening.

—James McGee will address the W. C. T. U. meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

—The new fire department house being erected in Prideville is being pushed very rapidly toward completion.

—The Organized Aid Association will hold a meeting on Monday evenid the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church.

—The members of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps are expecting to receive their new uniforms in about ten days.

—An important meeting of the Plainfield Camera Club will be held on Monday evening in the club room in the Babcock building.

—A gospel service for the G. A. R. and S. of V., of this city, is being arranged to take place in the W. C. T.U. rooms at an early date.

—A meeting of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., will be held next Monday evening, when business of importance will be transacted.

—An operatic concert will be given at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church on Thursday evening by the Theodore Drury Company, of New York.

—Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., met last evening and installed officers. District Deputy Edward Bowman was the installing officer.

—The work at the new City National Bank building is progressing very slow, and it will be some time before it will be ready for occupancy.

—Sunday afternoon, Jan. 17th. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes will make an address before the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and their friends.

—One of the best equipped drug stores in the city is the one kept by Leggett. The very best of everything in the drug line can be found at this place.

—There was little to be done in Justice Nash's court yesterday. The contract case of Delaney vs. Smith was adjourned and the case of Barrett vs. Brown, in tort, was settled.

—It is earnestly desired that all persons who are sons of veterans of the late war, or grandsons, will send their names to Herbert C. McVoy, 305 East Front street, as soon as they can.

—A free singing class will receive instruction weekly in the afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. by E. A. Gurbury. Boys not over 14 years of age may apply on Tuesday or Thursday afternoon at 4:30.

—Special week of prayer services have been held in the Monroe Avenue church this week and they have been largely attended. The last one was held last evening, when the attendance was especially good. They have been under the charge of the pastor of the church. Rev. W. C. O'Donnell.

Rescued From Death.

The number of deaths from the effort to catch trains in motion is alarmingly on the increase. The other day this practice would have numbered another victim but for the fact that the commuter saw his danger in time to avert the penalty. His eyes had been fitted with a pair of Collier's matchless glasses, a certain insurer against misjudgment of speed and distances.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1896. A. W. Gleason, Notary Public. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. Cheney, & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

"THE FINEST THING"
We think, for chapped or rough skin, is
OUR LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE.
Try it. Sprinkler-top bottles, 25c.
Park and North avenues
Successor H. P. REYNOLDS.
T. S. ARMSTRONG,
"THE APOTHECARY."

BOROUGH NOTICE.

Public notice is hereby given that application in writing signed by John Herrmann, being a person who owns all of the land fronting on the Street proposed to be vacated, has been presented to the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield asking for the vacation of the unopened portion of Regent street lying easterly of Whitewood avenue, and that it is the intention of said Mayor and Council to cause the same to be vacated.

Such persons, if any there be, as object thereto are required to present their objections in writing to the subscriber on or before the eighteenth day of January, eighteen hundred and ninety seven, at 8 o'clock p. m. on said day. Dated January 4, 1897.

JAMES K. ARNOLD,
Borough Clerk.

1 5-7-9-12-14-16

Randolph Runyon,
Funeral Director,
Residence, Over Office.. Office 43 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J.

H. DeMott,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J
Calls promptly attended to day or night. White and black hearses. Coaches latest style.

DIED.

STREULI—At Rhinefelden, Switzerland, January 6th, Herrmann Alfred Streuli, in the 55th year of his age. 1 7 3

RUSHTON—In this city, Saturday, January 9, 1897, Kate E. N., wife of Robert Rushton, aged 30 years, 10 months, 23 days. Funeral services at Hope Chapel, Monday, January 11 at 2 p m.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

INCUBATOR wanted; any first-class hot air machine. Beardsly, Berkeley Heights N. J.

COLORED woman wants situation as chambermaid or laundress; best city references. Apply 663 West Third street.

BRICK barn to let. 112 West Fourth street. 1 9 tf

YOUNG MAN (19) would like situation of any kind. Call 215 Muhlenberg place. 1 9 3

YOUNG GENTLEMAN, now residing in New York City, desires pleasant room, with board, in first-class private family; vicinity of Park avenue preferred. Address "C. A.," care Daily Press.

TABLE board and furnished rooms at 515 Park avenue.

WANTED—First class bakery for cash. Address Bakery, care Press. 1 9 3

TO LET—Handsome store on West Front street. Inquire Manning's City Marble Works. 1 9 tf

WANTED—Store in good location. Address Store, care Press. 1 9 3

LARGE and small furnished rooms with board, heat, gas, and bath at moderate rates. 529 West Front street. 1 9 6

FOR RENT—Offices, corner Park and North avenue, central location; also a handsome flat. Apply 612 Park auenue. 1 8 2

LARGE, well heated rooms to let, with board; moderate terms. 132 Crescent Ave. 1 8 6

NICELY-FURNISHED rooms, with board, moderate terms. 214 East Ninth street. 1 8 6

LARGE, pleasant front room (furnished) to let. 16 Grandview Avenue. 1 8 2

A YOUNG man wants a position as assistant bookeeper; best city references. Address Assistant, care Press. 1 7 3

FIRE DEPARTMENT BONDS—The Borough of North Plainfield will sell seven Fire Department bonds, $500 each, 5 per cent interest. Bids for same will be received up to Jan. 15th. James K. Arnold, Borough Clerk. 1 6 6

TO LET—Elegant new corner house, fine location, all modern improvements. Must be seen to be appreciated. Address Owner, 339 E. Sixth street. 1 6 tf

ROOM with board, heat, gas, (suitable for gentleman). 21 Sandford avenue. 1 5 6

STORE to let in Stillman Block, now occupied by Mrs. Dyer. 1 5 1w

TO LET—Store and rooms above, now occupied by Justice Newcorn, 110 West Front street. Inquire Samuel Drier, pawnbroker, corner Front street and Madison avenue. 1 2 tf

FOR SALE OR TO LET—No. 120 West Fourth street, store and dwelling combined and brick stable; been used for the last five years as bakery. E.C. Mulford, broker, owner. 12 26 tf

TO LET—Elegant 6 room apartments, Jackson building, steam heat, janitor service, halls carpeted, heated and lighted. Rent reasonable, particulars at Packer's furniture store. 11 23 tf

FIRST CLASS help and first class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 23 Somerset place. 11-10-1y

LOANS negotiated. E. C. Mulford, Broker 7 2 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, Broker. tf

Plainfield's Busiest Store.
We sell goods cheaper than any Plainfield store.

A GOOD THING.

WATCH THIS SPACE MONDAY.

EDWARD WHITE.

WALL PAPER
"A word to the wise is efficient."
From 3c.
Buy from the manufacturer and save middlemen's profits.
On receipt of postal card a fine assortment of SAMPLES sent to ANY ADDRESS.
To $2
Warerooms, 211 215 North Ave.
EDW. LOVE,

-BOEHM'S!-
Beginning MONDAY, Jan. 4th, we will inaugurate our annual sale of
HOUSEKEEPING LINENS, TOWELS, NAPKINS, SPREADS, SHEETS and PILLOWS
at our usually low figures.
We also call your special attention to the great mark-down sale in our
CLOAK, CAPE AND SUIT DEPARTMENT
All kinds of Cloaks and Capes must be sold, if prices have anything to do with it. Our principle not to carry over any garment whatever, will be adhered to to the letter. Shrewd buyers in search of bargains will not miss this opportunity at
-BOEHM'S,-
113 WEST FRONT STREET.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 30 CENTS.
PRIMES, $1 AND $1,50 PER HUNDRED.
-AT ROGERS.-

AN ASSAYING-ROOM PUZZLE.

One morning, early in June, I was sent for by my employer, the head of a detective agency, and found a visitor with him. The latter rose when I entered, and the chief formally introduced us.

"Mr. Vincent," he said, addressing the gentleman, "this is Mr. Borland, the detective whom I had been speaking to you about."

Mr. Vincent bowed and I returned the salutation. "That is my card, sir," he said, handing me the piece of pasteboard as he spoke.

I looked at the card; it bore the name: "Mr. Horace Vincent," and in the corner the name of Mr. Vincent's firm, "Leggit & Vincent, Assayers to the Bank of Great Britain."

"We are in great trouble," said Mr. Vincent, after a short pause; "we have reason to believe that one of our assistants is robbing us daily of the gold dust which passes through his hands."

"Indeed," I returned; "then why not have the gentleman arrested at once?"

"That is impossible," he said—"quite impossible."

"May I ask why?" I said, briskly.

"We cannot do so because there is not one jot of proof to justify such an arrest. Every man is searched nightly on leaving the premises, and this man whom we suspect has undergone the same treatment. Not a tenth of an ounce of the dust has been found on his person on any occasion."

"Then why suspect him?" I asked, somewhat impatiently.

"There is no one else to suspect. At our establishment we have some 20 assaying rooms, and each room has made up its accounts perfectly with the exception of the room in which young Renshaw is employed. Month after month a considerable deficit occurs there.

"If it is your wish that I should take the case in hand, I will come and have a look at your place and employes without delay."

Mr. Vincent shook hands with the chief, and I, having made a few necessary preparations, set out with the assayer for the scene of the trouble.

As we walked along, I said:

"How much of the dust has been missed altogether?" I asked, after a short pause.

"Close on 150 ounces. You see, the robberies have been extending over some time now, and we are determined to either find the thief or discharge every man in our employ."

"I hope that there will be no need for such an extreme measure," I remarked; "doubtless, we shall be able to bring home the crime to the culprit."

No more was said until we reached the assaying-rooms. Mr. Vincent opened the door, and, bidding me follow him, passed rapidly into the room, No. 15, where the robberies had been committed.

A young fellow was bending over a pair of hair scales as we entered.

"That is Renshaw," whispered Mr. Vincent; "quite a youngster, as you see."

Renshaw, becoming aware of my presence, looked up. I am something of a reader of physiognomy, and reading that face, I distrusted it at once.

Mr. Vincent was the first to speak.

"Renshaw," he said, in a low voice, "I am indeed grieved that I should have to speak to you as I am going to speak, but there is no alternative. This gentleman is a private detective. He has come to inquire into the mysterious disappearance of the gold dust from this room."

"Well," said Renshaw, sulkily, "what has that to do with me, sir?"

"I only hope for your sake and your dead father's sake that it has indeed nothing to do with you," returned Mr. Vincent, sadly; "but the facts are so black against you that I have determined to take up the matter now and pierce the heart of the mystery. Renshaw, it is not too late to confess. I will not be hard on you, nor will Mr. Leggett."

"I have nothing to confess," he returned, moodily; "I have never taken anything out of this room that was not my own property."

"If you are speaking the truth," said Mr. Vincent, not unkindly, "how do you explain that there is such a remarkable deficit at the end of each month in the accounts connected with Room 15? Nobody besides yourself is allowed in here—to whom else can we look for an explanation?

"I cannot help you, sir," he said, quietly. "I am very sorry, of course, for what has occurred, but it is out of my power to do anything in the matter."

He paused, and then broke out, almost passionately:

"Haven't you searched me night after night, as if I were a dock laborer?" he said. "Surely, if I had stolen anything, it would have been found on me then. What more do you want?"

"We want to find the culprit, my boy, that's all. There is some great puzzle here—some strange mystery, black as night. Renshaw, if you will take a last chance, I offer it to you now. If you are connected with this business, speak out, and I promise you that the law shall not touch you. Lose this opportunity, and then the law shall go to work, and if it, indeed, can convict you, then we shall have no mercy on you. What is your answer?"

"My answer is as before," he said, slowly. "I know nothing whatever of the affair. If I did I would say so; as I don't, I can't."

We left him alone, and I went to Mr. Vincent's private room, where we spent half an hour in earnest consultation.

"My opinion," I said, "is certainly that the youth is guilty, and that he has discovered some method of hiding his spoils from the searchers night after night."

"But what method could he possibly use?" asked Mr. Vincent, putting his hand to his forehead in despair; "nothing escapes the searchers—absolutely nothing."

"I am not so sure of that," I returned, slowly; "searchers are only human, after all, and possibly a most simple trick has deceived them. Is there any means by which Renshaw could be watched from a room above?"

"Curiously enough," replied Mr. Vincent, "there happens to be a skylight in room 15. Perhaps you noticed it when you were there? Through that skylight you would have ample opportunity of seeing how he employs himself."

"Very well," I said, "it is no use of my watching him now, as he will, of course, be on his guard. In a week's time I will return. Meantime, you will, of course, keep your own counsel, and let no inkling as to my visit leak out in the place."

He reassured me heartily on this point, and then we shook hands and parted.

A week later, I took up my position above the skylight, and watched the young assayer closely.

I must confess that he did nothing whatever of a suspicious nature. He pursued his work calmly and methodically, showing himself to be a very industrious workman.

He had a habit or mannerism which seemed to me rather strange in so young a man. It might be natural, or it might be affected, but every now and again he would pause in his work, and pass his long, nervous hands through his bushy, auburn hair, as though trying to collect his thoughts. It reminded me very forcibly of a mannerism of Henry Irving, and I thought it possible that Renshaw might be a bit stage-struck, and had consciously or unconsciously adopted the mannerism of the great actor.

Throughout the day I stood in my uncomfortable position, eliciting nothing. At five o'clock the establishment closed, and I came down from my perch, and went straight to Mr. Vincent's room.

"Mr. Vincent," I said, "my search has been useless so far. I am now going round to Renshaw's place of residence, and I want you to give me his address and invent some pretext for keeping him here for, say, half an hour while I pursue my investigations."

"Very well," he replied, promptly; and then, ringing a bell, he told the messenger who answered it to detain Renshaw and not let him go until he had seen him. The messenger having departed, Mr. Vincent wrote the address of the young man on a slip of paper.

Jumping into a hansom, I drove as fast as the cab would take me to 22, Acacia Villas, Brixton, where Renshaw lodged. Arrived there I presented my card, and having sufficiently overawed the landlady by the magic name of "detective," I was ushered up into Renshaw's room and left alone. I had, of course, cautioned the woman against giving him the slightest hint when he came in of my visit.

Then I examined the room closely. In one of the drawers I found a collection of tradesmen's bills, which proved clearly that my "bird" had been going it for some time past. One of the bills rather astonished me, for it was for a bottle of aniline hair-dye.

"What on earth should he want to dye his hair for?" I pondered—and then it flashed upon me like a lightning stroke that Renshaw's auburn hair had never seemed to me to be quite genuine. But why should he desire to change its color?

As I stood thinking, I heard his step on the stairs. In a moment I had darted behind a screen, which, fortunately, happened to be standing in a corner of the room, and waited for his entry.

He came in hurriedly and sat down on the bed. Then he looked in his water can and found it empty.

He went to the door and called out: "Mrs. Martin. I wish you would send up some water at once. You know I always like to have a wash directly I get back."

"Funny thing, this desire for cleanliness," I thought. "I saw him wash his hands at five o'clock to-night before leaving the assaying-room. He is quite fanatical on the subject of soap and water."

Up came the servant in a moment, carrying with her a huge can. Renshaw thanked her, and having set the can down, he locked the door, and made preparations for washing.

He filled the basin, and then put his head under water for about 40 seconds, slowly raising it at the end of that time.

He repeated the process again and again, to my intense amazement and astonishment. Of course, there was nothing strange in a man's bathing his head, but when the process was gone through a dozen times, surprise was perfectly natural.

But, feeling that if the secret was ever to be discovered, it must be discovered now, I seized the opportunity, when Renshaw's head was turned towards the window, of stealing out from my hiding-place behind the screen and examining the basin and its contents.

Good heavens! In an instant the truth flashed on me; the water was full of gold dust washed from his head. Our suspicions had been correct, and Renshaw was indeed the thief.

In a moment I had him firmly in my grip.

"I arrest you, Mark Renshaw," I cried, "on a charge of theft. I've had a nice hunt to run you down, but I reckon I've done the trick at last."

He turned as white as death.

"The game's up," he said, hoarsely; "but it was a good game while it lasted. You can take me now whenever you like."

I could not help admiring his self-possession. I saw the reason for the hair-dye and the reason for his passing his hands frequently through his hair. The dye had been used to make his hair of similar color to the gold dust, and when he put his hands to his head, he quietly left a pinch of dust in the hair. It was a very clever device, but it was played out now.—Tit-Bits.

IN THE BAHAMAS

BY WILFRED BENDALL.

Amongst the numerous British colonies there is none, perhaps, about which the average Englishman is more hazy than about the Bahamas—the isles of June—of the Pink Pearl—of the Oleander, as they have been variously styled. Several reasons may account for this. The islands lie apart from the other West Indian possessions, and out of the course of the great steamships; they are in no direct communication with England whatever, nor with the nearest British colony, Jamaica, except by means of an occasional sailing vessel—and from all local schooners may heaven preserve the unwary visitor!

Most of the export and import trade is with the United States, and the only regular communication with the islands is furnished by the American steamers leaving New York fortnightly, calling at Nassau, and proceeding to Cienfuego on the south coast of Cuba; and by the Bahama Shipping company, which runs a steamer every three weeks between New York and Nassau.

The islands are largely patronized by American visitors during the winter months, who come thither to enjoy the the superb climate; and as a traveling Englishman is quite a rara avis, every stranger is assumed to be American until he proclaims his nationality.

The Bahamas consist of a group of some 650 islands (only 20 inhabited), widely scattered, the extremes being something over 400 miles apart. Many of them are only partially explored, and some of the smaller ones scarcely known; the population is, of course, very scanty; the last census giving only 44,000, of which about 90 per cent. are colored people.

Nassau, the capital (and indeed the only town worthy the name), is situated on New Providence, an island about the size and shape of Isle of Wight. The finest buildings the town possesses are the jail, the hospital and the Royal Victoria hotel, said to be the best in the West Indies. It is only open from Christmas till the end of April, that being the times at which visitors come from the states; although as far as the climate is concerned, the rains are over in October and the weather is cool and delightful from the beginning of November. The thermometer during the winter varies between 70 and 80 degrees.

At other times of the year accommodations can be had at the Curry house and at various boarding establishments. The bank, post office and most of the shops are in Bay street—a long, wide street, planted with almond trees, running along the coast, east and west. The roads around the town and indeed far into the country are excellent. The island cannot boast of any special beauty of scenery; with the exception of a very low range of hills, the country is flat, in some places swampy. The uncultivated portions are always covered with vegetation, sometimes by an almost impenetrable bush, sometimes by pine trees, and sometimes by many miles of beautiful palmettos—plants without which no London drawing-room is complete nowadays.

At the back of Nassau is a limestone ridge through or over which are roads leading to the native towns. These being sheltered from the dry north wind, and hence being somewhat damper and warmer than the capital, exhibit the most wonderful wealth of tropical vegetation. Each cabin stands in the midst of a garden where such utility trees as cocoanut palms, oranges, bananas, guavas, and sometimes breadfruit, are sure to be seen; the merely ornamental plants are also not forgotten; every species of rose seems to run wild in the gardens, and in this land of perpetual summer the trees "keep blooming right along," as an American might express it. There are four of these native settlements at the back of Nassau, and to a botanist nothing can be more interesting than a ramble through the streets, or, more properly speaking, lanes.

The list of trees and plants flourishing on the island seems almost inexhaustible; besides those before mentioned, some of the best known are: Silk, cotton, banyan, mahogany, ebony, satin-wood trees; pineapples, grape fruit, shaddocks, mangoes, yams, plantains, sugar cane, etc.

The chief and oldest industry of the place is sponging; an apparently endless supply of sponge is found on the reefs which surround the islands. The sponge boats are constantly returning to Nassau with their cargoes, and large heaps may be seen almost any morning in the exchange. Sponge is sold by auction, clipped and pressed, packed in bales, and dispatched to agents in New York and London. Several species are found, but none of them are of so fine quality as most of the sorts from the Mediterranean.

Vast quantities of live turtle are continually being shipped, which figure later at Delmonico's and the London restaurants. Another species (the non-edible) is also abundant, and furnishes an important industry in Nassau; the shells are polished whole, and form very attractive ornaments, or are cut up to make combs and other small articles.

The two great prizes for which every fisherman is on the lookout are the pink pearls and ambergris. The former are found in the flesh of the large conch (strombus gigas), a very abundant shell which is dived for by the boys, who are most expert in this exercise. A pearl of unusually large size was purchased by a dealer in Nassau lately for £405; as, however, only one shell in a hundred contains a pearl, and then probably only a small one, pearl fishing is a decidedly precarious means of livelihood. The natives much relish the flesh of the conch, but it is somewhat an acquired taste.

Ambergris, which is formed by a disease in the sperm whale, is occasionally washed ashore on the islands, and a large piece of it is a small fortune to the lucky finder.

During the last ten years an industry has been started which bids fair to be of great importance; it is the cultivation of sisal, a species of aloe (agave americana), the fiber of which supplies the best material for rope making. There are several plantations of it in New Providence, Abaco, and other islands, but Andros is found most suitable for its growth. This is the largest of the Bahamas, and the one lying nearest Nassau. It is 90 miles long and 40 miles across the middle, with a population of 3,400, of which only 20 or 30 are white people. It has a rocky soil and is covered almost everywhere with impenetrable bush. The few settlements are on the east coast, and the center of the island has never been explored. This furnishes food for the superstitious and fanciful minds of the negroes, who relate wonderful tales of a race of giants and various supernatural beings who are supposed to inhabit the interior and occasionally visit the coast at night. Almost all the settlers on this island are engaged in sisal cultivation, of which there are several large plantations, that of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, M. P., being notable.

The long straggling island of Eleuthera has also sisal estates, though the local specialty is the raising of pineapples. The island is cooler in summer than Nassau, and many of the inhabitants are glad to escape from the metropolis to Governor's Harbor and other settlements, where decent accommodations may be found, which is more than can be said of most of the other islands.

Inagua, the most southerly of the group, lying close to Hayti, is somewhat different in character. It possesses extensive prairie lands and numerous wild horses. Mention must be made of San Salvador, which was the first land touched upon by Columbus. He subsequently visited New Providence, October 17, 1492, which he named Fernandina after Ferdinand of Spain.

The island was chiefly celebrated in early days on account of the deeds of a daring set of pirates who had fixed on Nassau as their headquarters. The reefs and shoals which surround the harbor made a convenient retreat for those knowing the waters, but extremely dangerous for any unwary vessel that might be driven towards the shores. The pirates at length attracted so much attention that, at the solicitation of British merchants George I. dispatched an armament to reduce the colony to obedience. During the early part of the American war of independence the island was taken by Commodore Hopkins, but abandoned as untenable. It was retaken in 1781 by the Spaniards and Americans, but afterwards restored to Great Britain.

Of course the palmy days of the Bahamas (like the other West Indies) were before the abolition of slavery; still during the American civil war, money literally poured into Nassau. It was the principal center for blockade running, and all provisions and stores were bought up at fabulous prices.

The sights of Nassau are certainly not numerous; there are two, however, which the visitor should not neglect. The first is the phosphorescent lake which lies two miles east of the town, and only about 50 yards from the sea, with which it is connected by a channel. It is said to be the most phosphorescent piece of water in the world, but the reason of the phosphorescene has never been satisfactorily explained. The lake, or pond, is artificial, having been cut many years ago, probably for storing turtle. Certain it is that on any dark night the water presents a wonderful spectacle. A boat is there for the use of visitors, and plenty of small boys always on hand to dive under and around it. As soon as the water is disturbed, it appears simply transformed into liquid fire.

The other sight to be recommended is a visit to Grantstown (one of the native settlements) on a Saturday evening. Stalls covered with various comestibles line the roadway, each one brilliantly illuminated by a small bundle of candlewood, which forms a splendid natural torch. Then there are shanties where charateristic negro singing and dancing may be heard and seen.

Surely there never was such a place for psalm-singing as Nassau; it seems to be the only dissipation of the colored people. Almost every night there is a function in the various churches and chapels; if it is not a service, it is a choral practice. The negroes are notably a musical race, and here they have full opportunity of cultivating their tastes as far as psalmody is concerned.

The knowledge of the tonic sol-fa is widely diffused, and the part-singing of the people is really admirable; the quality of the voices often leaves much to be desired, but the singing is correct and always hearty, not to say boisterous. The sailors on the sponge boats and other craft, when their attention is not otherwise required, usually produce their tonic sol-fa books and begin deciphering new tunes, sometimes in two or three parts, in a really extraordinary way. In short, when the negroes are not talking or eating they are usually singing hymns. There are several races of negroes in the islands, successors of those originally brought by the Spaniards. Some of the African languages are still spoken by the older people amongst themselves, though English is the only language one hears, and remarkably pure English it is, for the most part, with but very little slang.

Mosquitoes are a terrible scourge to the island, still from November to May Nassau is practically free from them. Snakes are plentiful in the bush, but are perfectly harmless. Tarantulas and centipedes may be found by those who take the trouble to look for them. The most brilliant humming birds and butterflies are always abundant.—Pall Mall Magazine.

Cost of Fertilizers.

The department of agriculture states that the average cost of fertilizers for an acre of wheat in New Hampshire is $5.59. In the newer states this item cuts little figure.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

Stock-Taking Sale

Columbia Sewing Machine—five years' guarantee—$29.00—Cash or Credit.

has just begun. Sale is not made up of a few pieces here and there, but includes EVERYTHING carried in our immense stock, PORTLAND RANGES excepted. We want to have as few goods on hand as possible when stock records are taken. THAT accounts for present low prices. No better opportunity for GENUINE bargains ever offered in the State.

Exceptionally large line of well-built Parlor Suits—newest kind of coverings and frames.

$25. Suits to $17.00
$40. Suits to $30.00
$50. Suits to $35.00
$75. Suits to $50.00
$125. Suits to $75.00

This Parlor Suit, silk brocatelle, plush trimmed, $25.00

Bedroom Suits

Our enormous stock of Bedroom Suits--over 200--oak, mahogany, Walnut. They're below wholesale now.

$35. suits to $25. $40. suits to $30.
$50. suits to $35.00
Others up to $100. Formerly one-third more than present prices.

HERE'S OUR OFFERING IN CARPETS

Moquettes, 75c. Best Body Brussels, 90c. Velvets, 75c. Best Brussels, 75c. Other Brussels, 45c. All-wool Ingrains, 55c. About 50 rolls good heavy Ingrains, suitable for any part of the home, formerly priced 65c and 75c, now at 35c and 39c yard---rare chance. As an EXTRA inducement, we propose to make and lay Carpets FREE at these prices!

Balance of Stove stock at cost. See us before selecting elsewhere.
Self-Feeding Parlor Stoves, $5.63 up.
LIBERAL CREDIT TO ALL.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

NOTE NAME AMOS AND NO. 73 BEFORE ENTERING STORE

73 Market St. Near Plane Street NEWARK, N. J.

Telephone 360 Goods Delivered Free.

IS YOUR EYESIGHT DEFECTIVE?

There is no safer, surer or cheaper method of obtaining proper relief for over strained and defective eyesight, headache and so forth than to consult this Specialist. The happy results from correctly fitted glasses are a grateful surprise to persons who have not before known the real profit to themselves in wearing good glasses. No charge to examine your eyes. All glasses guaranteed.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,

EYE SPECIALISTS.

B. A. STILES will be at 107 East Front street, Dunham's real estate office, every THURSDAY, from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Powlison & Jones,

Dealers in

FURNITURE,

149 and 151 E. Front St.

The Better the Food The Better the Health.

MORAL

Use my White Lable Canned Vegetables.

California Naval Oranges. Tangerines. Table Apples. Preserved Fruit. White Grapes and Lady Apples.

G. W. ROCKFELLOW,
The Park Avenue Grocer.

W. J. STEPHENSON,

The Caterer,

Has RESUMED business again at his old stand,

146 NORTH AVENUE,

Where he will be pleased to see his many friends and former customers.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street. Time Table in Effect NOVEMBER 15th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59 7 26, 7 53, 7 56, 8 00, 8 30, 8 38, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 28, 11 10 a m; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 40, 5 25, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 34, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30 5 36, 7 01, 8 13, 8 28, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 50 8 00, 8 38, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 11 10, am; 12 09, 1 15 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 22, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28 p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 36, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32, 10 17 n. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 15, 7 55, 8 35, 9 05 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 35 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 25, 5 42, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 35, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30 11 35 a m; 1 10, 1 35; 2 50, 4 05, 5 40, 7 20, 9 20, 10 2

Passengers for Newark please change car at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 2 11, 2 32, 3 35, 4 36, 5 03, 5 15, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 36, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p m; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 03, 3 43 5 14, 6 35, 10 34, 11 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 30, 7 35 7 45, 8 19, 9 05, 9 48, 11 45 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 3 25, 4 35, 5 28, 6 08, 6 35, 8 07, 8 50, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 6 55, 9 45, 10 45 a m; 12 08, 1 20, 5 10, 6 35, 7 53, 8 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m., 12 46 3 11, 4 56, 5 15, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 54, a m; 12 32, 4 04 7 00, p, m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 02 a m; 6 30 7 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 54 a. m; 5 03, 5 15 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W R. R.

3 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

5 03 p. m., way for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

5 15 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor Allentown Mauch Chunk Scranton, Wilkesbarre Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 28 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 14 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC,

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m. 1 15, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, p. m. Sunday. (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 13, 10 04, 10 27 a. m 1 15, 3 12, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, 7 08, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m.; 1 15 3 51, 5 32 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37* 1 17 night. Sundays—5 17, 5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14* p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m. 12 46, 2 17 2 22*, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* p.m., 1 17 night. Sundays 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14*. p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a. m., 2 17, 5 34*, p. m., 1 17. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, p. m., 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked * change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect December 2d, 1896.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7 44 a. m. Daily (Sundays 8 01) Local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m 3 34, 5 22, 7,32 p. m. daily except Sunday, Local for Bound Brook.

11 54 a. m. Daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday, "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

1 44 p. m. daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

2 34 and 4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6 25 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

8 22 and 9 54 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9 32 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn-Local-6 49, 7 15, 7 43, 9 40, a. m. 2 29, 4 45 and 6 40 p. m. Sunday 9 03 a. m., 2 21, 6 08 p. m. Express—7 23, 8 27, 10 02 a. m. 12 14, 2 17, 5 11, 7 07 and 8 17 p. m. Sundays—7 23 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 48, 7 50, 10 05 a. m. 12 13, 2 33, 5 20, 7 07 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 10 a. m. 2 20 and 6 30 p. m.

For Metuchen only 6 23 p. m. except Sunday.

For further information consult Ticket Agent.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent,
S. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
Philadelphia, Pa.

A. W. NONNEMASHER,
Ass't General Passenger Agt.,
South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt or Desbrosses street.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 5o and 7:3o p m.

Somerville and Easton Mails

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor
109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F

RUDOLPH KERSTING
BAKER AND CONFECTIONER
201–203 West Front Street.

TRY OUR NEW ENGLAND AND HOME MADE BREAD.
VIENNA BREAD A SPECIALTY.

Charlotte de Russe, Cream Puffs, Chocolate Eclair, all kinds of Pastry and Cakes, FRESH EVERY DAY.

Delivery to any part of the City or Borough at any time.

Did anyone tell you to buy SLIPPERS for Xmas Presents? If so, we have what you want at the right price.

Don't forget we have HANAN SHOES for Ladies.

A. WILLETT AND SON
NO. 107 PARK AVE.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO., —Dealers in— Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Call at J. F. MACDONALD'S
The Uptown Grocery.

And be convinced that it is our aim to supply the people with the best goods at the lowest prices and that we now have a full line of all the new goods necessary to make your order complete.

Musc Raisins,	3 lbs. for 25cts,		Figs,	10 cts. per lb.
Table "	5 " " 50 "		English Walnuts,	15 " " "
Currants,	3 " " 25 "		Paper Shell Almonds,	25 " " "
Cal. Prunes,	2 " " 25 "		Pecans,	18 " " "
" Apricots,	2 " " 25 "		Filberts,	15 " " "

A choice lot of apples $1.75 a barrel.

JAS. R. BLAIR.
126 Park Avenue,
Has a fine assortment of Neckties, Mufflers, Umbrellas, Silk Handkerchiefs, Gloves, &c.,
Ready for the Holidays.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.
177 NORTH AVENUE.

SPECIAL SALE AT CRANE & CLARK'S,
Hat and Furnishings Store.
120 West Front street. Prices Cut on all lines of Men and Boys wear

Special-- We place on sale today a Big Line of Suitings and Trousers.
Trousers to order $3.50 worth $5
Suits to order $18, worth $25
SEBRING'S.

Bargains in Real Estate
For sale or to let.
MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,
Send for blank contracts. 169 North avenue
Armstrong Mulford, Assistant
BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss Helen B. Dunham,
TEACHER OF PIANO AND ORGAN.
Pupil of a German Professor. For reference address, Prof John C. Bergner, Clinton, New Jersey. Call on or address Miss Helen B. Dunham, Dunellen, New Jersey. s 20 6m

MISS FAWCETT'S SCHOOL AND Kindergarten.
25 Washington avenue.
Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Boys received until 10 years of age.

Get Your Turkeys, Chickens and Ducks for the holidays at
W. L. & J. M. Smalley,
94 Somerset street.
Telephone Call, 42b.

NEW DESIGNS
LARGE VARIETY.
HIGH GRADE
PARLOR HEATERS,
Stoves, Ranges and Oil Heaters
OUR PRICES ARE LOW.
Hardware, Heater and Furnace Work.
A. M. GRIFFEN.
119 E. Front st. Telephone 6

IF THE BEST WILL DO,
Try Royal Tooth Powder. 1 1-2-oz. can, 10c.; 4-oz. nickel-top bottle. 25c. It contains no acid or grit, and is recommended by all dentists of standing who will advise the use of Chalk and Castile Soap, flavored. Royal Borated and Carbolated Talcum, at 10c., is intended to give entire satisfaction and win your favor. Prepared by
ALLEN PHARMACY M'F'G CO.,
Plainfield, N. J.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, complainant, and Rosa Woltmann et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE THIRD DAY OF FEBRUARY, A. D. 1897,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day all that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, situate in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and state of New Jersey, described as follows: Being known and designated as lots numbers five and thirteen on a certain map entitled "Map of lots belonging to William Stitt, in Plainfield, N. J.," filed August 31st, 1870, in the office of the clerk of Union county, New Jersey in tin box No. 101, which lot number five is bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Beginning at a point in the middle of Eighth street and corner of land now or formerly belonging to H. W. Moore; thence running a southwesterly course along the middle of Eighth street one hundred feet to corner of lot number six on said map; thence running along that line a northwesterly course three hundred and sixteen feet to a corner of lots numbers six and thirteen on said map; thence running a northeasterly course one hundred feet to a stake; thence running a southeasterly course along said Moore's line three hundred and twenty-four feet and six-tenths feet to the place of beginning; be the said several dimensions more or less

Lot number thirteen as aforesaid is bounded as follows, to wit:

Beginning at a point in the middle of Union avenue, now Seventh street, distant four hundred and thirty-seven and three-tenths feet from the corner of land formerly of Kent and E. Dean Dows, and distant also along the centre of Seventh street about four hundred feet northeasterly from the northeasterly line of Spooner avenue; thence running along that line a southeasterly course three hundred and twenty-three feet to a stake and corner northeasterly in line of lot number five afore-aid; thence running a southwesterly course along the line of lot number five aforesaid one hundred feet to a stake and corner of lots numbers six and fourteen on said map; thence running a northwesterly course along the line of lot number fourteen aforesaid three hundred and twenty-three feet to a stake in the middle of Union avenue; thence running a northwesterly course along the middle of said avenue one hundred feet to the place of beginning, be the said several dimensions more or less.

Being the same premises conveyed to the said Rosa Woltmann by Caroline M. Hunter and Charles A. Hunter, her husband, by deed dated May 25th, 1887, and recorded in the Union county clerk's office May 26, 1887, in book 189 of deeds, page 325, etc.

WILLIAM T. KIRK, Sheriff.

FREDERICK G. BURNHAM, Sol'r.
j2 5t oaws ED&PDP Fees—$12 60

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Albert Brugler, complainant and Mathew Kilpatrick and Jane Kilpatrick defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that certain tract of parcel of land and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and state of New Jersey.

WEDNESDAY, THE THIRD DAY OF FEBRUARY, A. D. 1897,

Beginning at a point at the intersection of the centre line of Sixth street and Plainfield avenue (formerly William street); thence running in a southeasterly direction along the centre line of Plainfield avenue one hundred and twenty-two feet to a point in line of land of Manning & Sandford; thence northeasterly along the said line of land of Manning & Sandford seventy-six feet and four inches, more or less, to a point in said line distant forty-nine feet and seven inches in a southwesterly direction in said line from line of land of William M. Sandford; thence in a northwesterly direction parallel with Plainwith Plainfield avenue, as the fence now stands, one hundred and twenty-three feet and six inches, more or less, to the centre line of Sixth street; thence southwesterly along the centre line of Sixth street eighty-one feet, more or less, to the point or place of beginning.

WILLIAM T. KIRK, Sheriff.
W. R. CODINGTON, Sol'r.
ja2 5t d oaw edj&pp Fees—$7.20.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand re-dyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

Hillier & Co.,
19 North ave., Plainfield.
Telephone 30M

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of LEHIGH COAL.
No. 2 Coal Only $3.75 in the Y.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

TOWNSEND'S
Marble and Granite Works,
SOMERSET STREET.
Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

FRANK DAY,
114 WEST SIXTH ST.,
(Near Park Avenue.)
Livery and boarding stable in all its branches all kinds of turnouts night or day at short notice. Horses boarded by day, week or month. Telephone No. 152. j9 10 tf

RUSIE IN COURT AGAIN.

The Big Pitcher Brings Suit at Trenton for His Release.

Trenton, Jan. 9.—Amos Rusie of Indianapolis, at one time New York's star pitcher, and now reserved by the New York team, but not put on the diamond on account of a disagreement between himself and the management, has brought suit in the New Jersey United States circuit court for an injunction restraining the New York management from "reserving" his services for 1897. Rusie sets forth in his bill that the New York club is a New Jersey corporation; that for eight years he has made a livelihood as a professional baseball player, and that in the spring of 1896 the club offered him a contract for $2,400 for the season to sign, but he refused to sign one for less than $3,000 a year. So the matter stood, and although he was "reserved" by the New York team in 1896 he has never got a cent for his time. Now the metropolitan management has announced to the league that it has "reserved" Rusie for 1897. Rusie prays this reservation be declared null and void.

PRINCESS CHIMAY UNHAPPY.

Sorry She Deserted Her Husband and Children for the Gypsy Musician.

London, Jan. 9.—The Pall Mall Gazette publishes a dispatch from its correspondent in Brussels saying that the Princess of Chimay and Caraman, formerly Miss Clara Ward of Detroit, Mich., who eloped from Paris in November with a Hungarian gypsy named Janos Rigo, has recently written letters to a number of her former aristocratic friends in Belgium in which she confesses that since she left her husband and children she has been the unhappiest woman alive. The princess is living in Budapest with her Hungarian lover and a few days ago it was announced that arrangements had been made with a theatrical management for her appearance on the stage as a singer and dancer in conjunction with her gypsy's musical performances.

DENOUNCED AS FRAUDS.

A Ritualist Creates a Scene at the Enthronement of Bishop of Canterbury.

London, Jan. 9.—The Right Hon. and Most Rev. Frederick Temple, D. D., the recently appointed Archbishop of Canterbury and Primate of All England, was enthroned in the cathedral at Canterbury yesterday in the presence of twelve bishops, 350 clergymen and a large gathering of the laity. As the procession entered the cathedral an enthusiastic ritualist named Greenwood cried out: "Both the ceremony and the archbishop are frauds." Efforts were made to quiet Greenwood, but he continued his disturbance until he was seized by a policeman and locked up.

Banker Missing.

Hartford, Jan. 9.—A. U. Martin, of the firm of Martin & Co., bankers and brokers, doing business on Grove street, is missing. He was last seen here Tuesday, when it is said he left for Cleveland, where he has a brother. He carried away all of his personal effects from the office. At the Heublein hotel it was stated that he left there under a cloud. He owes about $125 to parties there. It is said financial troubles are at the bottom of Mr. Martin's absence. He represented Price, MacCormack & Co., of New York, here.

Withdraws from Senatorial Race.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 9.—The Hon. Charles A. Busiel, whose administration as governor of New Hampshire ended Wednesday, has withdrawn from the contest for the United States senatorship. Gov. Busiel was moved to this action, it is said, by the reasoning of Dr. Gallinger's friends, that it would reflect on the doctor to drop him at the end of his first term, after electing Senator Chandler to a second.

To Dine New York Electors.

Albany, Jan. 9.—The members of the electoral college of the state, which meets here Monday to formally cast the state's vote for McKinley and Hobart, will be treated by the Albany elector, William Easton, to a dinner at the Fort Orange club. Gov. Black, Lieut.-Gov. Woodruff, Secretary of State Palmer and others will be the invited guests.

Postoffice Robbed.

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 9.—Robbers last night blew open a safe in the postoffice at Blooming Grove, Tex., and rifled it of its contents. The government loss is $900. The building was badly shattered. The burglars escaped. United States Marshal Love was notified and has sent deputies to Blooming Grove.

Serious Disturbances in Bechuanaland.

Capetown, Jan. 9.—The news being received from Bechuanaland is of the most serious description. The magistrates and settlers at Kuruman have gone into laager, and 700 natives of that vicinity are raiding farms, lifting cattle and committing other depredations.

New York Presidental Electors.

Albany, Jan. 9.—Gov. Black has made the formal certification to the secretary of state at Washington of the election of the thirty-six McKinley and Hobart electors in this state. The college of electors meets in the senate chamber on Monday at noon.

Death of an Aged Clergyman.

Bethlehem, Pa., Jan. 9.—Rev. L. N. Worman, one of the best known clergymen in the United Evangelical church, died yesterday afternoon, after a week's illness, of pneumonia, he was 67 years of age.

Bishop Kane Will Remain in Rome.

Rome, Jan. 9.—Bishop Kane, formerly rector of the Catholic university at Washington, has been nominated bishop assistant at the pontifical throne. He will be stationed in Rome.

NAVAL MANOEUVRES

Admiral Bunce's Fleet To Blockade the Port of Charleston.

PRACTICE WILL BEGIN IN FEBRUARY

The Squadron Will Comprise the Most Powerful Warships of the United States Navy Gathered in Recent Years.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Admiral Bunce's squadron of evolution is to blockade Charelston early in February. The admiral had a long conference with Secretary Herbert and other naval officials yesterday afternoon, and as a result his plans for drills and manoeuvres, of which the rigid military blockade of Charleston, S. C., is the chief feature, were thoroughly approved and all necessary arrangements for carrying out the proposed operations will at once be inaugurated. The scheme involves the maintenance of a strong blockading fleet off Charleston harbor and the assignment of one or more fast vessels, including the Vesuvius, to duty as blockade runners. Stores and coal will be massed at Port Royal, as a base for the smaller blockading cruisers, but the battleships and perhaps the big cruisers will have to take turns going to Hampton Roads for supplies, unless it proves feasible to serve them on the high seas. It is expected that the new cruiser Brooklyn, which is ready to leave Philadelphia to-day to get a silver service from the city for which she was christened, and is then under orders to take abord her torpedo outfit at Newport, will be attached to the squadron in time for the manoeuvres. The fleet will be the most powerful gathered in recent years, including the battlships Massachusetts, Indiana, Maine and Texas; the cruisers New York, Brooklyn, Columbia, Newark, Raleigh, Montgomery, Marblehead and Castine; the ram Katahdin; the monitors Puritan and Amphitrite; the torpedo boats Cushing and Ericsson; the dispatch vessels Dolphin and Vesuvius, and the transport Fern.

SOCIAL LEADERS IMPRESSED.

Success of the Visit of the Booth-Tuckers to Washington.

Washington, Jan. 9.—The leading society people of Washington listened attentively for two hours yesterday afternoon in the drawing rooms of ex-Secretary and Mrs. John W. Foster, to Commander and Mrs. Booth-Tucker, the leaders of the salvation army in the United States, who described to them the purpose and achievements of that organization. Dr. Frederick Nice, private secretary to Commander Booth-Tucker, and the famous violinist of the army, entertained them with his playing and the meeting closed with all singing "Nearer My God to Thee," under his leadership. This is the first time Washington society has had a Salvation army meeting, but in view of the meeting's success, it is probable that it will not be the last, for Mrs. Lamont, Mrs. Leiter, Mrs. Brice and all the other social leaders were greatly impressed with what they saw and heard.

Connecticut Health Laws.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 9.—The State Medical association has voted to bring before the legislature a bill repealing the feature of the present medical practice act which exempts pharmacists from its provisions. It is asserted that many quacks dodge the law by becoming pharmacists. The association also voted in favor of increasing the registration fee of physicians to $22. It is now $10. A bill is also to be presented to the legislature enlarging the power of health officers and providing for the more easy enforcement by justices of the peace of penalties for violations of the health laws.

A Ship's Crew Charged with Murder.

Southampton, Jan. 9.—Fifteen of the crew of the British ship George T. Hay, which sailed from Mobile August 24 for Janeiro, where she arrived on November 22, have been brought here from Rio Janeiro charged with complicity in the killing of a seaman named Brostrom, through ill treatment, during the voyage of the ship from Mobile to Brazil. The first and second mate were arrested charged with the killing.

Efforts To Secure Delgado's Release.

Washington, Jan. 9.—The affidavits from Saran Granger Delgado, wife of Harry Delgado, the newspaper correspondent confined in a Cuban hospital, and from Ricardo Acosta, in intimate friend of his father, filed in the state department showing the prisoner's identity as an American born citizen, and distinguishing him from Ricardo Delgado, have been sent to Consul General Lee.

Hartford's Uniformed Street Sweepers.

Hartford, Jan. 9.—One of Col. Waring's "White Angels" made his appearance on the streets of Hartford yesterday and another similarly equipped in blue. The street board has determined to try the experiment of uniforming sweepers and equipped two specimens for public inspection.

Ex-Pension Examiner Sentenced.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 9.—Expension examiner James A. Jordan, sentenced in the United States court for defrauding the government, paid his fine of $1,000, and will return to the department all misappropriations of funds. Jordan was released.

Connecticut Military Resignations.

Hartford, Jan. 9.—Gov. Cooke has accepted the resignations of Major Albee of New Haven, brigade inspector of small arms practice, and of Capt. Carter of Glastonbury, aide-de-camp, both of the brigade staff, C. N. G.

SPORTS

Sun Rises: 7:24 a. m.
Sun sets: 4:52 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be Lighted at 5:52 p. m.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

A bowling match will be rolled on the alleys in the Ulrich club-house on Thursday evening between the team from the Independent Fife and Drum Corps and a team from the employes of Griffin's store.

The deciding game between the regular bowling team of the Park Club and the benedict team from the same club will be rolled this evening on the club alleys. Each team has now won one game and the result of the last game is looked forward to with considerable interest by the bowling enthusiasts of the club.

WILL HAVE AN UP-TO-DATE STORE.

Isaac Lederer to Make Extensive Improvements to His Store.

By the latter part of next week Lederer, the dry goods merchant, will have disposed of his goods which were in the store at the time of the fire. Work will be started at once to remodel the entire store, including a modern up-to-date front.

While the improvements are being made, which will take about one month, Mr. Lederer will not continue his business, but will wait until his store is completed. He will then put an entirely new spring and summer stock of goods, and the store will be one of the best in the state. Every convenience will be provided and the store will be arranged for the rapidly increasing business of this house.

Oakley, the architect of Elizabeth, is drawing the plans for the work and they will be submitted early next week.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Played Euchre.

The West End Euchre Club were entertained last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Loughlin, of East Front street. The guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Connett, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Pope, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dellahunt, Miss Nettie Krietling, Alva Carey, Harry Carey, of Plainfield, and Miss Nellie Chappell, of Kingston, N. Y. The first and second prizes for the ladies were awarded to Mrs. Harry Connett and Miss Chappell, while Alva Carey and R. H. Loughlin were awarded first and secoud prizes for the men. Refreshments were served at midnight, after which the event terminated.

Officiated For the Last Time.

The Woman's Relief Corps met last evening for the last time with the present officers in the chair and, as a fitting close to the term, a pleasant time was provided in the good of the order. There were speeches by the officers and members of the Corps, also vocal and instrumental music. As an additional feature coffee and cake was served in abundance to all the members and a few guests who were invited.

Died After a Long Illness.

After a long illness, Mrs. Robert Rushton died at her home on La-Grande avenue, this morning. She was thirty years of age and leaves a husband and two little daughters. The funeral will be held from Hope Chapel next Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Mrs. Rushton was one of the original members of the Sunday-school of the chapel, and was an active worker in the cause of Christianity when her health permitted it.

A Place to Drill In.

The Cadet Corps of the North Plainfield High School has rented Saenger and Turner hall for one evening in the week for the winter, as the space in the basement of the school building is too small in which to do any effective work. The corps will meet there first on Thursday evening.

Court Adjourned.

The Union county courts at Elizabeth adjourned yesterday until Tuesday morning.

Give It a Trial.

On receipt of ten cents, cash or stamps, a generous sample will be mailed of the most popular Catarrh and Hay Fever Cure (Ely's Cream Balm) sufficient to demonstrate its great merit. Full size 50c.

ELY BROTHERS,
56 Warren St., New York City.

My son was afflicted with catarrh. I induced him to try Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrhal smell all left him. He appears as well as anyone.—J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

PALE FACES THERE, TOO.

RED MEN'S LODGE HAVE A PUBLIC INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS.

Miantonomoh Tribe Open Up Their Lodge Work to Friends—The List of New Officers—Dance Followed Installation.

A distinguished audience gathered at the wigwam of Miantonomoh Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., last evening, when the newly elected chiefs were installed by District Deputy Great Sachem William Newcorn and staff. The work was performed in a most creditable manner, and a feature of the affair was that the installing officers appeared in evening dress.

The officers installed are as follows: Prophet, Michael Leahy; sachem, David Mourning; senior sagamore, Robert Slorah; keeper of records, C. L. Holstein; collector of wampum, A. S. Stiglitz; keeper of wampum, W. A. Westphal; first warrior, J. Gilbert; secong warrior, A. Krog; third warrior, George Houseman; fourth warrior, J. Casey; first brave, W. J. Pierson; second brave, A. Marlen; third brave, W. Whitehead; fourth brave, J. Hanglighter; guards, J. McPhillip, J. Staats; Sannap, J. Perrine; represensative, William Newcorn; trustees, D. C. Allen.

After the installation ceremonies, which were very impressive, the floor was cleared for dancing, which was continued until early this morning. At midnight supper was served.

The committee in charge consisted of D. C. Allen, C. L. Holstein and Robert Slorah. Music for dancing was furnished by Sam. Frazee.

WANT MORE PROTECTION.

Chapot & Sons Will Appeal to Congress on Monday.

Chapot & Sons, of this city, the only manufacturers of chamois leather in the United States, have prepared a statement which will be presented to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives next Monday.

The duty on the material manufactured by them is only 20 cents at present, and this does not give the above firm a chance to compete with England, France and Germany, who only pay about $3 per week wages, as against an average of $12 paid by Chapot & Sons. The latter in their letter asks Congress to add 30 per cent. duty on the material, making 50 per cent. in all.

They state that it was the McKinley tariff that induced them to come to this country, and they ask that they be protected by the increase in duty. Frank Chapot, a member of the firm, together with a representative from the firm's New York office, will go to Washington on Monday and present their petition to the above mentioned committee.

A Methodist Change.

The official board of the First M. E. church of this city has extended an invitation to Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, now pastor of the Centenary M. E. church, of Newark, to take charge of their church after Dr. C. R. Barnes term ends. Rev. Mr. Snodgrass has signified his willingness to accept the charge providing Bishop Andrews approves of the change at the April conference in Newark.

Visited Another Lodge.

A number of the members of the Trinity Commandery, Knights Templar, went over to Morristown last evening to be present at the annual inspection of the commandery in that city by the grand officers, who made it an occasion of their annual visit to that commandery. The visitors were treated most sumptuously and spent a delightful evening.

—Post 73, G. A. R., has been invited to attend the installation ceremonies of Post 109, G. A. R., to be held this evening.

—The East Third Street mission chapel that is to be built in the near future will be a great improvement to that section and will be the means of raising the value of property in that vicinity.

—The subject of Rev. A. E. Main's sermon at the union services at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Monday evening, will be: "Our Great Work; and the Great Source of Our Power for Doing It."

—The Fire and Building Committee of the Council met last night and selected A. C. Stebbins as chairman. The evening was devoted to a discussion of the recommendations made by Mayor Fisk regarding the department, but nothing definite was decided upon.

John C. Clarke, formerly of this city, has just recovered from at attack of typhoid fever and has gone to Amherst, Mass., to recuperate.

[illegible]pped.

Buckton—What a very dull week the past one has been. Nothing has happened of any importance.

Neudick—No; I wonder what on earth our preacher will find to preach about next week?—Truth.

What It Lacked.

"How did you like the sermon, John?" she asked.

"It was a very good sermon," replied the exchange editor, "but I regret to say that the minister forgot to put in the credit line."—Chicago Post.

RHEUMATISM CURED.

The Great Remedy, Dr. Greene's Nervura, Always Cures it.

Mrs. Mary Meehan, West Concord, N. H., says:—"I was sorely afflicted with rheumatism for more than six months, and it seemed to affect my whole system, pains and stiffness of muscles and joints to which was added the more acute pains of sciatica.

MRS. MARY MEEHAN.

"It was with the greatest difficulty I could keep about my house. Having in mind the great benefit my husband received from the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I concluded to resort to it. To my great joy it was completely successful, and by the use of only three bottles I was entirely cured, and my health has been perfect since."

If constipated, use Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills with the Nervura.

Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

A Fair Question.

He (bitterly)—Pshaw! All women are alike.

She—Then why in the world do you spend so much time trying to find the one you want to marry?—Boston Globe.

Not a Trilby.

"Take ye photograph altogether?"
"S-i-r!"—Truth.

In the Land of "Scorchers."

—New York World.

The Spring Poet.

WRAPPED UP IN HIS WORK.
—Truth.

Her Query.

"Isn't this delightful?" said she.

"It is," said he from the rear of the tandem. "Why should we not go through life this way?"

"On wind?"

The wheels rolled on, but the conversation lagged four or five blocks behind, panting heavily.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

An Easy Arrangement.

"What in the world have you been marrying for?" asked Callow's stern father. "You can't support a wife."

"Nobody said I could. But I got a wife that can support me."—Detroit Free Press.

What She Preferred.

"I may bring home a friend tonight, dear. Do you mind?"

"No, it's better than being brought home by one."—Truth.

$35. Will buy you a First-Class High Grade BICYCLE.
Peck & Snyder and Winslow Skates from 49c. up.
PLAINFIELD CYCLE AND SPORTING GOODS CO.
147-149 NORTH AVENUE.
H. E. RIDER, President. C. C. LISTER, Secretary and Treas.

Turkeys,
Chickens,
Ducks.
All Jerseys.
Prime Beef,
Mutton,
Lamb,
Jersey Pork and Sausage.
We invite an inspection of the FINEST STOCK IN THE CITY before you buy elsewhere.
SMALLEY BROTHERS,
The North Avenue Butchers.
Near the Depot.

Wall Paper
2cts. A Roll
Borders and Ceilings to Match, at
Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
201 Park avenue, corner Second street.
☞ The Largest Supply House in the City.

THE SAME STEEL.

Is in our cultery out of which the finest tempered swords are made. Our Pocket Knives, Table Knives, Carving Knives, French Kitchen Knives, Razors, Butcher Knives, Bread Knives, Oyster Knives, Clam Knives, and every other kind of knife. Are made of Superior Steel
The famous Purity Oil Heater, still on sale for $3.98.
The J. P. Laire Hardware Co
Telephone Call 49 L. 9 '1y

GEO. O. STEVENS & Co.
OAK.
747 WEST FRONT ST.
Branch office with
J. P. LAIRE HARDWARE CO.,
West Front street.

A New Year's Sermon

which has its practical side. During this year we're going to keep the same good qualities of goods which we have always been well known for. We are going to put as moderate prices on these goods as possible. It wouldn't pay us to do otherwise. We're in business to stay.

L. W. Randolph,
PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST.
No. 143 West Front street.
Telephone Call, 109.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS
IN ENDLESS VARIETY
AT HARPER'S,
411 PARK AVENUE.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

A LITTLE STORY!

About a special fine lot of Hamburgh Embroideries which has just been received by us and put on sale.

They were made by a large manufacturer in St. Gall, Switzerland, and were the odds and ends of the factory.

THE PRICE 1/2
IS JUST
the usual price asked.

They come from the narrow edge to 10 inches wide, the work being 5 inches wide on some of them. You will find them on three centre tables on the right-hand aisle as you enter the store.

ONE TABLE IS 5 Cts a Yard,
ONE TABLE IS 10 Cts a Yard, and
ONE TABLE IS 15 Cts a Yard.

They had not been on exhibition only a short time when one lady's attention was called to them and she purchased about $15 worth in a few minutes.

They sell quick at sight. They can't be duplicated. If you want any of them come in quick

Remember we are clearing out all our heavy winter stock now, and you will find plenty of

Real Bargains

all through the store. We are preparing another surprise for you, and in a few days you will know about it.

EDSALL'S.

Greatest Sacrifice of Clothing.

No garment reserved. Our entire stock must be sold in two weeks at 33 per cent on the dollar; no trifling, no boasting, no delusion; you know us or ought to.

READ THESE PRICES.

Men's fine Melton overcoat, worth $10, at $3.75; Men's extra fine Sunday overcoat in Melton or English Kersey, worth $15, at $4.95; the finest overcoat in Plainfield, worth $20, at $7.50, silk or satin lined. Remember we must sell every overcoat in the house in two weeks. Men's Ulster, worth $10, at $4; fine Ulster, satin lined, all wool, worth $18, at $6.50; a good Men's Ulster at $3, worth $8. Men's heavy weight all wool suit, very fine finish, worth $12, at $4.25; extra fine Sunday suit in all wool worsted plaids, latest style, worth $16, at $5.90; a fine all wool English clay cing nal suit, in frock, worth $18, at $6.90; Men's handsome fancy silk mixed suit worth $22, at $7.90; a good working suit suit $2.75, worth $7. Men's fine Sunday pants, worth $5, at $1.75; extra fine, worth $7.50, at $2.90; a good working pants, worth $1.75, at 65c. Boys winter school suit, worth $33, at $1.25; Boys' ulsters, at $1.50, worth $4; Boys' heavy knee pants at 28c, worth 75c. These special prices will only last for a few days. Remember all goods will go for one third their value.

New York Clothing Company,
214 WEST FRONT STREET.
M. WEINBERGER.
Near Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

The Strongest Claim
We make for the superiority of our
Demulcent Cream
OF Witch Hazel
is that the people who have used it say it is the most efficient
TOILET REQUISITE
they ever used. For chapped hands it is unequalled.
Price 25c a Jar.
Leggett's Pharmacy,
Y. M. C. A. Building. Telephone No. 4.

Joseph Carbone,
128 NORTH AVENUE,
Whol sale and retail dealer in choice fruits nuts, etc., all kinds of temperance drinks. Closed Friday night, sun down. Open Saturday evening at sun down. 12 14 1y

PUBLIC BOWLING ALLEYS
AT
117 and 119 East Second Street.
C. M. ULRICH,
12 22 1y Manager.

WE WANT FEET
to fit our shoes. The invisible cork sole ones are particularly appraprate this season of the year. We're selling them at right prices.
Doane & Edsall.
Store closes at 6, Saturday 10 p. m.
NEUMAN BROS.,
Grocers,
Corner Watchung Ave. and 5th St.

Last Edition. # THE DAILY PRESS Last Edition

ESTABLISHED MAY. 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., MONDAY, JANUARY 11, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

THE KIDS BEATEN AGAIN

THE REGULARS OF THE PARK CLUB CHALK UP A BIG SCORE

Borough Statesmen Are Not as Successful in Winning at Bowling as With Votes, as the Record of the Yellow Kids Show

As a parent would favor a child, so the Yellow Kids favored the Regulars in the bowling game at the Park Club last Saturday evening. The former had the interest of the latter so much at heart that they could not bear to see them beaten, and then the hard-earned reputation of the Regulars was at stake as they will meet the Westfield team this evening in a scheduled match. With these facts in view it can easily be seen that there was no good reason why the Yellow Kids should win.

In the days of old, the Park Club was glad to have such people as His Honor, the Senator, and the rest of the members that composed the Yellow Kid team, represent them in their bowling games, and at this late stage of the game it is anything but fair to cast insinuating remarks about their bowling. They are men tried and true, and as the score below will show they can do a good turn yet. The presence of the fair sex had a good effect upon the bowlers, and every ball was thrown with grace and beauty. Especially was this true of Laurens VanBuren, the club's mascot. Mayor Hegeman, with the strength and skill of an athlete, led the forces on the side of the Yellow Kids, and the deceptive movements of the Senator made the "Tall Sycamore of Somerset" a close second to His Honor. Of Douglas, Ball and Lyman, who were on the same side, much can be said, but we refrain from saying very much at present.

With a score of 192, George C. Worth very properly led the Regulars on to victory, while VanBuren followed closely after the leader. Matthews was low man, but Pete could not help that for he has not bowled much of late. Dr. Thiers, the old reliable, was on hand as usual, and though he did not put up his best game he let everybody know that he was in the swim. F. O. Ball, who is trying to make a record this year, did remarkably well, and it is quite likely that he will be kept on the regular team, although there are several after his place.

Taking everything into consideration the game was a fine one, and as this makes two victories for the Regulars, they will probably be satisfied for a while at least. Below will be found the score of the battle:

Yellow Kids.		Regulars.
Hegeman	129	VanBuren	171
Reed	115	Worth, G. C.	192
Douglas	110	Matthews	188
Ball, F. H.	162	Ball, F. O.	153
Lyman	127	Thiers	156
	643		810

A JOINT INSTALLATION.

Post, Corps and Camp Officers to Don Regalia Tomorrow Night.

The joint installation exercises of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., Woman's Relief Corps, No. 10, auxiliary to the G. A. R., and John Hand Camp, No. 28, S. of V., which will be held tomorrow evening, gives promise of being the most auspicious in the history of the above organizations. The Schubert Ladies' Orchestra will furnish the music for the event, while there will also be other pleasing features. The officers of the Post will be installed by Emil Sands, of Jersey City, and Mrs. Angleman, of Bayonne, will perform the same duties for the Corps. The Camp officers will be installed by James Atwood, of Trenton.

Not Fitted For the Work.

The iron gray horse recently purchased for the fire department is not giving satisfaction and a change will be made soon. Dr. Pocock, the department veterinary, has made a thorough examination of the horse and finds that he has heart trouble. On two different occasions the team was given a trial, and in each instance the gray was not able to run over two blocks. The matter has been reported to the man from whom the horse was purchased, and the difficulty will be adjusted satisfactorily to all parties concerned The other horse is all right and doing good work.

A Vicious Canine.

Harry Bolmer, of this city, had both hands bitten while at Hyde's pond, Saturday afternoon. He was leading his dog by a rope when the dog was attacked by another one, and in attempting to release his dog from the rope the strange canine bit the lad on both hands. Neither of the wounds were serious, however.

E. R. Ackerman's Liberality.

Another large check was received by the managers of Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday, which wipes out the estimated debt against the nurses' home. It was from Ernest R. Ackerman and amounted to $700.

TO BE A THROUGH LINE.

DUNNELLEN MAY BE CONNECTED WITH ELIZABETH BY TROLLEY.

A Company to Be Organized to Build the Road From Elizabeth to Westfield and Connect With the Plainfield System.

Another effort is about to be made to build a trolley line between Elizabeth and Westfield, says the Journal, and a company is organizing for the purpose with a capital of $200,000. The papers of incorporation are being prepared and will be filed next week. A number of prominent men are interested in the movement, and claim that the plan will be a success. The new corporation will be known as the Elizabeth and Westfield Railroad Company.

The plan is to build a trolley line along Westfield avenue between Westfield and Elizabeth, which will connect with the line from Plainfield that is about to be built from the "Colorado of the East" to Westfield. The line is planned to leave Westfield avenue at Chilton street in Elizabeth, and the route will be through Sayre street and down Morris avenue to the Central Railroad station.

It is also the intention of the new company to acquire the control of the East Jersey street line of horse cars in Elizabeth and to equip it with trolley wires. Then the two roads will be connected, and when the system is completed will give continuous communication between the water front in Elizabeth and Dunellen.

As soon as the company completes its incorporation it will begin an active canvass of the property owners along the proposed route and ask for the necessary legal consent of those persons to build the road. If they succeed in obtaining the necessary two-thirds of the total frontage along the route, the company will then apply to the Board of Freeholders and the Elizabeth Council for franchises.

The route proposed would place the trolley line along the most important thoroughfare in Union county, and one that was macadamized at no small expense to the property owners. It is understood that the new trolley company will not ask for permission to build its tracks in the middle of the macadam, but at the sides of the road where there is no pavement. In this way the members of the new organization hope to overcome the great objection that has prevented the use of the avenue heretofore by a trolley line, for all of the farmers and a very large number of the property owners object to having their fine pavement torn up for trolley tracks.

If the proposed line is built it will pass through Lorraine, Roselle, Cranford, Aldene and Garwood.

ASSUMED THEIR POSITIONS.

New Officers of Major Anderson Post Installed Saturday Night.

The officers of Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R., were installed Saturday evening by Past Commander Elmore D. Moffett. There were present several comrades from Post 73, of this city, including Chief of Department Staff W. C. Smith; Aide-de-Camp E. C. Morse; W. W. Coriell, member of the Council of Administration, and Commander McVoy. The officers installed are as follows: Commander, S. C. Baker; Senior Vice-Commander, E. J. Olssen; Junior Vice-Commander, C. H. Randolph; Adjutant, N. C. Magué; Quartermaster, J. R. Naylor; Surgeon; J.F. Berg; Chaplain, Rev. L.E. Livermore; Officer of the Day, N. C. Pennington; Officer of the Guard, John N. Anderson.

After the ceremonies the Post was thrown open and a large delegation of women, wives and sisters of the comrades were admitted to the room, and the balance of the evening was devoted to sociability and the serving of refreshments by the women. Altogether it was one of the best installations this Post has ever had and it will long be remembered with pleasure.

Justice Newcorn's Court.

A summons was issued this morning in the case of Werner against Apgar, which is returnable in Justice Newcorn's court, January 18th. Executions have been issued in the following cases: Frank against Smith; McVey against Allen; Linke against Neigbor; Kelly against Tobin and Collins.

Burglars Invade a Cellar

Burglars effected an entrance in the cellar of the house occupied by Mrs. Case on Church street, last evening, and carried away with them several cans of fruit. As far as can be learned nothing else was taken.

Engaged as Soprano.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hamlin-Fassett, of Albany, has been engaged as soprano at the Crescent Avenue church. She will fill the unexpired term of Mrs. George Brooks, resigned.

FOR A NORMAL SCHOOL

PLAN FOR A NEW INSTITUTION IN THIS PART OF THE STATE.

The Need of Another Training Place For Teachers is Urgent as the Present Normal School is Filled to Its Capacity Now.

The scheme of school teachers and educators for the erection of a normal school in the upper part of the State has taken a tangible shape by decided action on the part of the special committee of the New Jersey Teacher's Association in Trenton. The scheme for the second normal and teachers' training school was considered on November 18, when the council of the State Teachers' Association in Newark discussed the matters at great length and passed a resolution setting forth the reasons why such an institution is needed in the populous section of the State.

There is a positive need in New Jersey for more teachers who have been specifically trained for the work. A committee was appointed, consisting of Charles J. Baxter, of Plainfield, the State Superintendent; Henry Snyder, of Jersey City; John Enright, Freehold; S. R. Morse, of Atlantic City; V. S. Davey, East Orange; S.E. Manness, president of the State Teachers' Association; George S. Regan, New Brunswick, and W. L. R. Haven, Morristown.

At the present time the State has only one normal school, located at Trenton. This is now filled to its capacity with pupils from all of the twenty-one counties, and it is thought best not to expend any large sums on this school, because a new institution, located in the city of Newark, would fill a long felt want. There is much good material for teachers in Jersey City, Newark, Plainfield and Paterson. Pupils could afford to attend a school located within easy reach, while they could not afford the expense of attending school at Trenton. At the present time there are now attending the State Model and Normal School more than one thousand pupils. The new school is intended to draw from the counties above Mercer, and the present institution at Trenton to draw from the counties below Trenton.

ALL IN ONE G. A. R. POST

AN IMPORTANT ACTION TO BE TAKEN BY OLD SOLDIERS.

The Two Local G. A. R. Posts to Unite Under One Organization in Order That They May Work in Union and Strength.

One of the greatest events in G.A.R. circles in this city will probably take place in a short time when it is expected that the two organizations will unite under one head. This matter has been under advisement for sometime and it now looks as though it would become a fact. The majority of the comrades think that their work will be far more progressive if the two Posts are united and steps are now being taken to bring about that result.

At the meeting of Post No. 109 last Saturday evening it was practically decided to call a meeting of the two organizations at an early date for the purpose of consolidation. The objections to the union are so slight that it will probably be an easy matter to overcome them.

ONE EYE LOST AND ONE SAVED.

Frank Splane Loses Sight in an Injured Eye and Miss Clark Retains Hers.

Frank Splane, of the borough, who recently sustained a severe injury to his eye while at work in Sharkey's blacksmith shop, was obliged to lose the eye. The operation was performed at the hospital last evening by Dr. Ard, assisted by the hospital staff. The work of removing the eye was very successfully accomplished and the patient is doing nicely.

Miss Clark, of Maple avenue, who received a bullet wound in the eye a few days ago, was discharged from the hospital this morning. The sight of her eye is not impaired in the least.

THROWN FROM A TROLLEY CAR.

Jacob Mintz Receives a Scalp Wound and Dislocated a Joint.

Jacob Mintz, of Grove street, in attempting to alight from a trolley car at Greenbrook road, last evening, was thrown from the car and besides receiving a deep cut on the forehead the thumb on his left hand was disjointed. He was picked up by the motorman and conductor and in a few minutes was able to walk home. Dr. Ziglio was called and dressed the man's wounds and he is now getting along as well as can be expected.

A Lamp Exploded.

Early last evening a lamp exploded at the home of Mrs. Mattison, on Church street. Harry Bush, of the fire department, happened to be near at the time and he threw the lamp out doors before any damage resulted.

WANT NO RUM TRAFFIC.

W. C. T. U. WILL PROTEST AGAINST GRANTING LIQUOR LICENSES.

Petitions Will be Circulated Among the Church People for Signatures—A Special Protest by the Mt. Olive Church.

It has been the custom of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of this city for several years past, to circulate petitions the first of each year soliciting signatures of citizens protesting against the granting of liquor licenses by the Common Council. The officers of that organization are now preparing to prosecute this endeavor again. They have had a printed petition prepared and several will be placed in the hands of the members of the various churches, who will present them to the temperance people for signatures. The petition reads as follows:

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union is an organization of "Mother Love," seeking to protect the home against the enemy that lies intrenched behind the legalized saloons. Young men who should be strong in their young manhood; strong in their hopes and ambitions; strong in their desires to lead useful and honorable lives, are falling into the snares prepared for them by the votes "Our City Fathers" cast. Husbands and fathers are spending their earnings (in grog shops) that should be spent in stores for the comforts and necessaries of life.

Will you, Christian friends, appeal to the new Council by signing your names to this petition.

We, the men and women of Plainfield, entreat the Common Council to vote No to the license applications for hotels and saloons, that our city shall be free from the curse of God.

The licenses are granted at the March meeting of the Common Council, and already the liquor dealers are arranging to file their applications by getting the signatures of the twelve freeholders that are necessary. There is an unwritten law against the granting of liquor licenses in the Second or Third wards, and no one has ever had the temerity to apply for one in these bailiwicks. It is comparatively easy to secure signatures in the Fourth ward, but in the First the liquor dealers have to do a good deal of hustling and figuring to get the necessary twelve names.

Besides the efforts of the W. C. T. U. as against the whole traffic, the members of Mt. Olive Baptist church will make a strong effort to have a license refused John Goff, whose saloon is opposite the church edifice on Liberty street.

LOOKED OVER THE COPS

MAYOR FISK CONDUCTS AN EXAMINATION OF CITY GUARDIANS.

A Starter Towards Improving the Force Throughout to Make it Efficient and a Credit to the City.

It is no doubt true that during Mayor Fisk's term of office many new things will be introduced into the city government in an attempt to make it as high grade as possible, and the first step in this direction was taken last Saturday afternoon. At that time His Honor, together with Councilmen Barrows, Westphal and Runyon, had every member of the police department appear before them and undergo a rigid examination. This included every special officer in the department as well as the regulars. When the examination was concluded it was known precisely just what clothes each one has that belongs to the city, as well as the pedigree of each man. A photograph of the group of men in this department would certainly make an interesting study, and to the uninitiated it is not known what an efficient body of men there is in this branch of the city government.

After the examination the regulars were marched down the street in double file, and they certainly made a fine appearance.

It is confidently believed that strong efforts will be made this year to bring this department up to a high standard of efficiency.

James McGee Was the Leader.

The rooms of the W. C. T. U. were filled to overflowing yesterday afternoon when a most interesting meeting was held. James McGee was the leader and, after reading Scripture selections from the fourth chapter of Ephesians and the last chapter of Matthews, he made a few remarks, encouraging the members and their friends to press forward in the grand work of saving souls. A portion of the Grace M. E. church choir was present and sang "If Ye Love Me, Keep My Commandments," very acceptably.

Commander Booth to Talk.

Ballington Booth, commander of the American Volunters, will speak at Reform Hall tomorrow evening.

—Edward White will offer on Wednesday morning 300 dozen of the Star Mills underwear for ladies and gentlemen in both winter and spring weight. He bought the goods at one-half their real value and will sell them at a remarkably low price. His advertisement tells about it.

USED HEAD FOR A RAM.

A CRAZY NORWEGIAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE IN A STATION HOUSE CELL.

When Left Alone He Butted His Cranium Against the Iron Cell Grating Until it Was Fearfully Cut—Tied to a Cot.

Never in the annals of the Plainfield police department have the officers been called upon to subdue such a violent prisoner as was landed in the rookery on Saturday night by Patrolman Freleigh. He was a Norweigen and gave his name as Johan Johanson. Two of Plainfield's physicians confirmed the police in the opinion that the man was wildly insane.

Johanson has been employed on a farm near New Market and Saturday night came to Plainfield. He went to see Mr. Thompson, who lives on East Second street. Johanson acted in such a strange mnner and grew so violent that Mr. Thompson became worried for the safety of his family and finally appealed to Patrolman Freleigh, who was passing the house and the officer took the man in charge. Johanson objected to the arrest and struggled in the grasp of the officer. He finally quieted down and was taken to the lock-up and placed in one of the cells.

Sergeant Kiely was on duty at the lock-up and kept his eye on the stranger but the latter apparently went to sleep. About two o'clock the Sergeant went out on the street only to be called back by his wife, who, in her rooms above the station house, heard a great disturbance down stairs. The Sergeant returned to find the man violently dashing his head into the iron door of the cell. The back of his head was cut and was bleeding freely. Kiely opened the door only to have the man rush madly at him and strike him with his head in the stomach. Patrolman Freleigh happened to be in the building at the time and he rushed to the scene and tried to hold the man. Johanson fought with demonic rage and it took the combined efforts of Kiely and Freleigh to fasten the struggling man to a chair. The shackles were placed on his hands and feet and he was finally quieted.

It was then about three o'clock in the morning and Dr. Simpson was called to dress the self-inflected wounds of the maniac.

The Mayor was communicated with and it was decided to secure a cot and restraining apparatus to hold the man in it. It was procured and Johanson was strapped to the cot.

Sunday morning he was examined by Drs. Simpson and Davis and they declared him insane. Johanson seemed to have recovered from the paroxysm in the morning and was perfectly quiet so he was released from the cot and locked up again. Sunday night he was again taken with a violent spell and Roundsman Mattox, who was in charge of him, had hard work to place him in the restraining apparatus. He was kept thus all night and seemed better in the morning. Chief Grant went to Elizabeth this morning after the commitment papers and this afternoon Sergeant Kiely will convey the insane man to Morris Plains where he will be placed in the New Jersey State Hospital.

A CYCLE SHOW, INDEED.

W. H. Rogers' Sporting Goods Palace To Open Tomorrow.

It will, indeed, be a cycle show that will be thrown open for public gaze and inspection by W. H. Rogers at 132 North avenue tomorrow, and one well worth visiting, too, by everyone who takes interest in any sport. Mr. Rogers has leased this store for a term of years and has moved his entire business from West Fifth street, where he has been located for some years, and has fitted it up in a sumptuous and practicable manner for the sporting goods trade. In remodeling the store the interior has been made one of the finest from an artistic point of view in Plainfield.

Mr. Rogers has also taken a lease of the adjoining store and will use this for storing his stock, of which he carries a very heavy line. He is agent for the Spalding, Crawford and Stearns bicycles, three of the best on the market. In the rear of his store he has fitted up a repair shop equipped for fixing anything about a bicycle that needs fixing and employs experience machinists to execute the work for his customers.

Mr. Rogers makes a special feature of the Spalding bicycle as he claims that it is about the best wheel now on the market, honestly and carefully constructed, perfectly adjusted and elegantly finished.

Will Go on the Stage.

Oscar Vaughn and Charles Clark, of the borough, have secured positions with the Maude Hillman Company which appears in this city this week. They will appear in a vocal quartette.

ALMOST A WATERY GRAVE

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING ON TIER'S LAKE SATURDAY.

Young Woman Has the Ice Give Way on Which She Was Skating, Precipitating Her Into the Lake—Saved by Amos Stites

A narrow escape from drowning occurred last Saturday afternoon near the Elm street bridge which spans the upper part of Tier's lake. With several girl friends, Miss Helen Grapp was skating, when suddenly the ice gave way with her and she went down to a considerable depth. Her frantic cries for help attracted the attention of her young companions who, upon arrival, were powerless. They then ran back for Amos Stites, the watchman at the lake, and he hastened to the scene just in time to save the young girl's life, for in a few minutes she would undoubtedly have drowned. With great difficulty Mr. Stites succeeded in getting the girl on shore, where she almost fainted away. As soon as possible Mr. Stites carried her to the home of Mrs. Smith on Westervelt avenue, where dry clothes were provided and she was made comfortable. A little later the unfortunate girl was able to go home. Great credit is due Mr. Stites for his bravery in rescuing the girl.

While Miss Percy Emmons, of Prospect place, was skating on Smalley's mill pond, Saturday evening, the ice broke and Miss Emmons went into the water up to her waist. She was soon rescued from her unpleasant position by some of her friends.

PRESENTED WITH A CHAIR.

Little Endeavorers Show Their Appreciation of Mrs. Schenck.

Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, superintendent of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed church, was presented with a beautiful solid oak chair by her little followers, Saturday afternoon, as a token of their esteem and appreciation of her services. The presentation was made by Miss Bessie Randall in a neat little speech. Mrs. Schenck responded feelingly. Preceding the presentation a programme was rendered as follows:

Singing—"Sing With a Tuneful Spirit," Juniors
Prayer.....Rev. Mr. Schenck
Piano Solo.....Grace TenEyck
Recitation—"The Little Maid's Sermon," Anna Holder
Recitation—"New Year's Day," Cornelius Schenck, Jr
Song—"Jack Frost".....Elna Bohan
Recitation.....Bessie Martin
Address.....Rev. Cornelius Schenck
Recitation—"If I Was Santa Claus," Lena Bohan
Piano Solo.....Lucy Coriell
Song—"I Stepped Into the Boat," Anna and Bessie Randall
Recitation—"The Baby's Stocking," Bessie Randall
Piano Solo.....Hazel Martin
Recitation—"Dressed for Meeting," Violet VanWinkle
Autoharp Solo.....Bessie TenEyck
Recitation—"Anna's and Willie's Prayer," Bessie Randall

The social committee in charge of the affair was as follows: Gertrude Tier, chairman; Everett Reighton, Grace TenEyck, David Wickoff, Edna DeVere and Nellie Apgar.

A Trial Postponed.

Carminico Collucio, the Italian who was charged with selling beer from a wagon without a license, was brought up for trial this morning before City Judge DeMeza but the trial was adjourned for a week at the request of the lawyer for the plaintiff, Fred Marsh, of Elizabeth. Collucio was charged with furnishing beer to the Italian settlements in Netherwood and the West End as has already been told in the Press.

A Pastor Receives a Call.

Rev. G. A. Luckenbill, formerly of this city, has received and accepted a call to the Reformed church located at Bacon Hill, Saratoga county, N. Y., and he will enter upon his duties Sunday, January 17th. At present Mr. Luckenbill is stopping at Albany with friends. His many friends in this city will be pleased to learn of his success and will wish him God-speed in his work.

Sociable at Euchre.

A progressive euchre party was given at the home of Charles W. Smith, of Willow avenue, on Friday evening in honor of Miss Langford, of Brooklyn, who is visiting Mrs. Smith. The first prizes were won by Miss Josie Hall and Arthur E. Holmes, while the winners of the second prizes were Miss Fannie Western and Clarence Murphy. The affair was a most enjoyable one.

Promised to Leave Town.

James Baker was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning on complaint of M. C. Dobbins for being disorderly. He promised to leave the town at once and the Judge suspended sentence on him.

William P. Frazee, of New York city, Superintendent of the Metropolitan Storage Warehouse and Van Company, spent Sunday in this city, the guest of his brother, ex-Councilman Vincent L. Frazee, of West End Park.

WORK IN CONGRESS

Programme in Both Houses for the Present Week.

MILLS' CUBAN JOINT RESOLUTIONS

The Texas Senator Booked for a Sensational Speech on the Measure To-day. Little Business of Importance Before the House.

Washington, Jan. 11.—In the senate to-day Mr. Mills of Texas is booked for a speech on Cuba. His text will be the resolution he introduced a few days ago recognizing the independence of the republic of Cuba, declaring it to be the duty of the executive to act in harmony with congress in recognizing a new state and appropriating a sum sufficient to pay a diplomatic representative to the republic when the president shall have appointed one. The extreme position taken by Mr. Mills leads to the belief that his speech may be to some extent sensational and that his criticism of the attitude of Mr. Olney may be severe. Senators are awaiting the return of Mr. Cameron who is in charge of the Cuban question. There does not appear to be any desire just now to push the recognition resolutions. Mr Proctor of Vermont has given notice that to-day he will address the senate on his resolution for a constitutional amendment making the presidential office a six year term and the occupant ineligible for two terms in succession; also making the terms of members of congress three instead of two years. Early in the week the attempt will be made to secure a vote on the Oklahoma free homestead bill, and when that is out of the way the senate's Pacific railroad's refunding bill may be taken up unless the house show such hostility to Pacific railroad legislation as to make the attempt hopeless.

House of Representatives.

Voting upon the Pacific railroad refunding bill and amendments will occupy the house to-day and the vote is likely to be close, but it is believed the bill will be defeated. For the remainder of the week appropriation bills will probably have the right of way. The managers of the house are determined that no measures imposing additional charges either upon the credit or the revenues of the government shall receive consideration at this session if they can prevent it. The Nicaragua canal bill and several other propositions involving financial responsibilities may therefore be considered dead so far as this congress is concerned. On Saturday afternoon the house will listen to eulogies upon the late ex-Speaker Crisp of Georgia.

An American Honored in Russia.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 11.—The Russian Academy of Science has elected Prof. Simon Newcomb, the distinguished astronomer of Washington, D. C., who is attached to the United States Naval observatory, an honorary member of that body. Professor Newsomb's portrait is hung in the observatory at Pulkowa, the Russian government having in 1887 ordered that it be painted for the collection of portraits of famous astronomers in the observatory.

German Sugar for United States.

Berlin, Jan. 11.—The export of German raw sugar to the United States has assumed enormous proportions in the past year. From January to November last the totals were 2,397,191 double (or metre) cwts. as against 473,154 in 1895, and 675,057 in 1894. The raw sugar exports to England during these periods has largely fallen off Suicide of a Trenton Woman.

Trenton, Jan. 11.—Mary, wife of William H. Baker, a wealthy retired merchant residing at 266 Bellevue avenue, committed suicide yesterday by cutting her throat with a razor. She committed the deed in the bath room. The suicide was 44 years old and as she had been acting strangely of late the theory is that she was deranged.

Bryn Mawr Postoffice Robbed.

Bryn Mawr, Pa., Jan. 11.—The postoffice, which is located in the railroad station, was robbed early Sunday morning of $2,000 in cash and $75 worth of stamps. The work was done by some one familiar with the office, as the combination was worked and the safe opened in the regular way.

High Water in the Thames.

London, Jan. 11 —There is very high water in the Thames, and at several places between Teddington and Reading the river is out of its banks. The cellars of the houses along the riverside at Windsor are full of water. Further flooding is certain, as the river is rising.

Big Steel Works Resume Operations.

St. Louis, Jan. 11.—The Granite City Steel works on the Illinois side of the river resumed operations to-day after an idleness of several months and will run night and day. Employment is given to about 500 workmen.

Altgeld Pardons a Murderer.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—Gov. Altgeld has pardoned Joseph F. Jackman, a Chicago murderer, by commuting his sentence to 14 years' imprisonment in Joliet to five years, which releases the convict next month.

The Queen Contributes to the Famine Fund

London, Jan. 11.—The queen has contributed $2,500 to the fund that has been started by George Faudel Phillips, lord mayor of London, for the relief of the famine sufferers in India.

Madame Melba's Illness.

New York, Jan. 11.—Owing to the continued illness of Madame Melba she will not be able to sing with the Damrosch Opera company in Washington to-morrow night.

EASTERN QUESTION

Austria Sounding Germany on Her Position in Case of a War.

RUSSIA'S POLICY REGARDING TURKEY

Will Permit No Extension of the Austrian Empire---Serious Crisis in the International Relations of the Dreibund Powers.

(Copyright, 1897, by the United Associated Presses.)

Berlin, Jan. 11.—Count Goluchowski, Austrian minister of foreign affairs, will arrive in Berlin on January 17. The ostensible object of his coming is to take part in a meeting of the members of the German order of the Red Eagle, but it is known that the purpose of his visit is to confer with the emperor and Prince Hohenlohe, the imperial chancellor, upon matters affecting the position of Austria in the dreibund. The radical changes in the artillery arm of the German military service, which it is the intention of the government to effect if the assent of the reichstag to the proposals for that purpose can be obtained, will necessitate the pursuit of a similar policy in the army of Austro-Hungary involving an estimated expenditure of at least 80,000,000 florins. If as the result of the conference of the emperor, Count Goluchowski and Prince Hohenlohe the kaiser should advise simultaneous reforms in the armies of the powers signatory to the dreibund it will be a question as to how far in that direction Austria will be able to assent, while it will be a matter of still greater doubt as to whether Italy will be able to meet the financial demands which the reforms required will entail. Despite its importance from every point of view, however, the question of new armaments is a matter of minor importance compared with the crisis in the international relations of the dreibund powers arising from the policy of Russia in regard to Turkey. Indeed nobody, even the diplomats themselves, know what will be the result of the conference of ambassadors in Constantinople. Baron de Galice, the Austrian ambassador to Turkey, who by reason of his precedence as dean of the diplomatic corps, presides at the conference, does not appear to send reports of the proceedings of the meetings to Count Goluchowski which that statesman is justified in regarding as of a comforting character, and it is understood here that the Austrian government desires a fuller and more explicit understanding with the German emperor as to what action Germany will take in the event of an outbreak requiring the intervention of Austria.

Predicts a Duel Alliance.

The nomination by the Russian emperor of M. Shishkin as the successor of Prince Lobanoff in the office of Russian minister of foreign affairs, with Count Muravieff as his coadjutor, occupying the position previously filled by M. Shishkin, has greatly darkened the outlook from the dreibund point of view. Count Muravieff was at one time secretary of the Russian embassy in Berlin, and is known to be an intense partisan of France and a pronounced Germanophobe. Commenting upon his appointment as the active Russian foreign minister the Volks Zeitung declares that it will drive the wedge which will bring about a dual alliance if such a thing can be accomplished. Germany, the paper adds, will find her present support of the policy of Russia in the east a great mistake, and she by all means ought rather to turn towards England. The St. Petersburg Novosti declares that the settlement of the difficulties in Turkey cannot imply an extension of the Austrian empire. "The Balkan peninsula," this inspired journal says, "must be handed over to the Balkan peoples. The questions concerning Asia Minor and Egypt can be settled under a Franco-Russian and British entente and Constantinople made a free port." In view of these semi-official utterances and the known circumstances it is clear that the Austrian government fears the further developments of the situation and is sending Count Goluchowski here to ascertain the exact situation and learn precisely what Austria may rely upon in the event of certain conditions of affairs.

Stock Exchange Act a Blunder.

The combination of brokers against the time dealing clauses of the stock and produce exchange reform act, will only succeed if the government allows the tenor of the act to be ignored. The produce exchanges which have been dissolved, and whose late members now continue both cash and time dealings under the guise of free associations, cannot be brought back to business life by the mere fiat of the government, but the free associations are mistaken in supposing that the act cannot check their operations in "futures" if the authorities use their powers. When the brokers' intentions to drive through the act first became known, the Norddeutsche Zeitung published an official intimation that its provisions applied to all speculative business, time and other dealings, transacted outside as well as inside the the bourses. The scheme which the brokers' banks and their clients have devised for the evasion of the act, and which is now in full operation, set the law absolutely at naught. The government must either undertake a persistent and wholesale system of prosecutions, or submit to seeing the act become a dead letter. The agrarian press, in rather hesitating terms, demands prosecution, and the government is undoubtedly reluctant to act. Probably the issue of this legislative mistake, which is now recognized by the moderates of the agrarian party as something of a blunder, will be the early appearance in the reichstag of another bill rescinding the obnoxious provisions of the present law.

JAPANESE IN NEW YORK.

They Are Becoming a Prominent Factor in Domestic Life.

The Japanese are slowly but surely coming to be a factor in New York life. A short time since they were only to be found associated with a few important houses, or identified with such business as dealt exclusively with Japanese goods—callings that brought them in no very close contact with the people; now they are entering our homes as domestics, acquiring scholarships in our colleges, finding positions as clerks in our great mercantile houses, and otherwise coming in touch with the essentials of everyday life. There are nearly 400 of these warm-skinned islanders in New York and Brooklyn. Few if any of them have been in this country over ten years. They come in small numbers, but they come often. In a group adventuring together from Japan, the larger portions lay over in San Francisco or some adjacent town, but the movement in this direction continues, and the newcomers speak of the growing interest which their countrymen feel for America and American institutions.

Sanguine people see in this filtering emigration a way out of the complexities of the servant problem. At the Japanese club, in Brooklyn, at the Japanese mission room, at certain unadvertised headquarters in New York, are to be seen young Japanese men reading diligently. They are only awaiting a call to enlist as butlers, cooks, valets or men of all work in well-to-do families. In their own country their services would only give them the equivalent of $10 a month. Here they are paid from $25 to $40, and have a good and comfortable home besides. Some of these candidates look forward to higher vocations in future, and accept the menial position only to gain money for pursuing their studies, for many of them regard a good place in an American household as a distinct advantage over anything they could do at home, and these may be looked upon as premanent retainers. It is said of them that they do not like to change employers often, and that invariably they give entire satisfaction.

As regards Japanese women, there are very few in this country, compared with the number of men. Some prosperous Japanese importers and public officials, who have established their families in New York, have brought along a serving maid or two to further the comfort of the household. A few trading houses number among the other employes one or two women, in sack-shape kinomos and quaint headdresses. Certain Japanese strays and waifs, left over from the Japanese village and exhibition at the Chicago fair, have entered household service here as the only alternative to the dancing and singing that no one cares to hear. These have places in third or fourth-rate boarding houses, where their chances for advancement are slim, and their gifts as tea-makers little apt to be appreciated. Others, nursemaids and housemaids, are domiciled in the households of people who knew them in Japan, or of people who got their Japanese-American friends to send them over. In days when distance is annihilated, and people pass a year or a half year in first one clime and then another, the American housewife becomes acquainted with the excellence of all lands and grafts on her establishment such treasures as suit her best. Of these the Japanese maid is an example.

"The Japanese woman-child draws in obedience with her earliest breath," says one of these returned nomads. "She is taught it at home, taught it in the school, taught it even in the plays that she sees in the theaters when she grows up. She is her husband's upper servant, and the servant of her mother and father. Trained from her birth to sink her own identity in the interest of those around her, she is by nature a marvelously comfortable serving woman. My Japanese maid is methodical and painstaking, intelligent and industrious. She never obtrudes herself, and, having few acquaintances, never wants a day off."—N. Y. Cor. Pittsburgh Dispatch.

A Recent Casabianca.

England has a boy hero who "stood on the burning deck." He is 14-year-old Horace Comer, who, after being on the trading-ship Exmouth, was sent to the steamer Marino. The vessel caught fire in the Atlantic, and the crew were preparing to abandon her when the youngster arose and shouted: "What's the use of going on like that, men? If we have to die, die like men, and Englishmen." That renewed the crew's courage, and they took the ship safely to the Azores. Young Comer burned his foot, and was so full of spirit as to pray the doctor to cut it off, but the physician's skill saved this draft on his courage. He is evidently the stuff that good sailors are made of. Tales of heroism may have given him unduly exalted hardihood, but it was of the kind that stood the test of real danger and accomplished real good.—N. Y. Tribune.

Well Answered.

A white boy met a colored lad, and asked him what he had such a short nose for.

"I 'spects so it won't poke itself into other people's business," was the smart reply.—Tit-Bits.

No Gripe

When you take Hood's Pills. The big, old-fashioned, sugar-coated pills, which tear you all to pieces, are not in it with Hood's. Easy to take and easy to operate, is true of Hood's Pills, which are up to date in every respect. Safe, certain and sure. All druggists. 25c. C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. The only Pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills

starving children

There are children without food. They cry for it, and are not answered. The pity of it! But often nature cries out in other ways that her children need nourishment. Is your child thin; actually poor in flesh? Does it get no benefit from its food? Then give something which produces flesh and makes rich blood.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites does more than this. It changes the unhealthy action to one of health, thus removing the cause. It acts on the nervous system, which controls all the processes of the body, toning it up into sound and vigorous activity. It is food for growing bone and brain. It makes the thin plump; the pale, ruddy; the weak, strong; it feeds and cures.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

JUST AS GOOD IS NOT SCOTT'S EMULSION.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.
Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

Honeyman's Private Tours.
Plainfield, N. J.
To Florida, February 9—Two weeks.
To Inauguration, Washington, March 3—Two days.
To Washington, Easter Vacation, April 6—Three days.
To Europe, June 30—Two months.

Climatic Extremes
OF
NORTH and SOUTH
are blended ideally at
OLD POINT COMFORT
AND
RICHMOND, Va.,
Thus making these the most desirable places for winter outings.
They may be reached delightfully by the luxurious and modern steamships of the
Old Dominion Line
Sailing every week day from New York.
Send for full information.
Old Dominion S. S. Co.
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILLAUDEU, Vice-Pres't & Traffic Mgr
12 17-6 m

MULLINS & SONS
218-220 Market St., Newark.
BIG SALE
OF
PARLOR SUITS AND CARPETS.
Handsome New Parlor Suits, upholstered in Brocatelle, Silk Tapestry, Mohair, Plush or Rug. It is worth while your time to see them even if you do not intend to buy.

$25 $25
Such values have never before been offered. Over 100 styles to select from. No other house shows as large a stock. No other house can offer you such great values.

All Parlor Suits Reduced From $2 50 up.

CARPET BARGAINS.
Tapestry Brussels 45c. yd
Milton Velvet 85c. yd
Ingrains 35c. yd
All of the highest quality of carpets and new designs.
Don't Miss Our Great Sale of Parlor Suits.
Easy terms of credit to everybody. We will furnish your home for $1 per week. Make your own terms.
MULLINS & SONS.
218-220 Market St., Newark.
Branch Stores 78-84 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. 121-125 Newark Ave., Jersey City, N. J. 136-138 Main St., Paterson, N. J.

Boots, Shoes & Rubbers.
AT FORCE'S,
119 West Front St.
Formerly 129 Park Ave. 29 tf

L. A. HUMMER'S
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
120 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

Rushton, Hansen & Luthman,
PAINTERS
AND PAPER HANGERS,
Office and shop Sycamore and 4th sts.
Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

Potter & Kellogg,
DEALERS IN
Lehigh Valley Coal.
Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard—At Mt. Pleasant, Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1-y

The Metropolitan Boarding Stables
C. V. D. CORLE. - - - - - - Proprietor
No. 138 East Second street. Livery and Boarding and Sale Stable. Horses boarded by the day, week, month or hour. Reasonable prices. 11 17 1y

HERMAN KELLER,
Manufacturer of and Retail Dealer in
Cigars, Tobacco, etc.
"PRIDE OF PLAINFIELD" CIGAR a specialty 116 North avenue. 9 26 tf

MRS. L. ADAMS,
MILLINERY.
Ready made gowns and dresses ordered from samples. All the latest novelties of the season.
114 EAST FRONT STREET.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made the premises from the finest Havana. Clea. Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.
Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.
Telephone Call 1580

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing,
Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS.
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Dug

BRAIN FOOD.

Edw. P. Thorn,
RETAIL DEALER IN
Fish, Oysters, and Cla[illegible]
Terms Cash. Goods D[illegible]S.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country. Charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed. Orders may be left at Sattel's music store, 221 Park ave.

The Largest Selection of Wall Papers
—AND—
Painter's Supplies
in Plainfield.
Woolston & Buckle,
141-145 North avenue.

Safe Deposit Vaults
THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK
Of Plainfield, New Jersey.
Capital..... $200,000.
Surplus and Profits..... $90,000.
J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. RUNYON, Ass't
DIRECTORS:
Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Corlell,
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil,
Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Rushmore,
J. W. Johnson, Wm. R. Codington.
F. S. Runyon.
SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.
Boxes to Rent from $5 and upwards per annum.
VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

Christmas Wreaths Roping Holly, etc. Also, Palms,
Rubber Trees, Begonias, Ferns Floral Designs, House and Church Decorations. Southern Smilax at 15 days notice.
DENTON'S.
131 Hillside avenue.

A GOOD FIRE
will make cheerful many of the evenings of the New Year. We'll sell you the coal—good coal—and plenty of it. We don't sell you dirt for coal. We don't sell you short measure. We want your coal trade always.
D. C. IVINS & CO.
Coal, Lumber, &c. 301-311 Watchung Ave.

CLEANER COAL.
and L. A. RHEAUME, N. H. SAXTON.
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invite the public to inspect the operation of their newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which they confidently believe enables them to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Kindling Wood a Specialty.

Rushmore & Co.,
WATCHUNG AVENUE,
COR. FOURTH ST.
Lumber yard and Planing Mill.
Large and full assortment of lumber including 21 varities from Hemlock to Mahogany always in stock. Window frames, moulding, sash, doors and blinds. Hardwood floors a specialty. Turning and scroll sawing. We can make anything. Call and see us. Satisfaction guaranted.

"It is Making a Hit."
FEIGENSPAN'S Finest Pale Ale
IN BOTTLES, and
FEIGENSPAN'S SAAZER BEER
At Hotel Grenada Bar.

The Plainfield Confectioners,
112 West Front street.
Candies from 10, 15 and 20 cents per lb. up. The very best goods. Made daily on the premises. Formerly known as the New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Comp'y. 9 9 1y

CITY HOTEL.
Plainfield, N. J.
[illegible] Park avenue [illegible] street.
[illegible] F. E. Beerbower, Prop both [illegible] attached were [illegible]

[illegible]FIELD COUNCIL.
No. 711, Royal Arcanum.
Regular meetings of this Council are held the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
Harry C. Adams, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

Opportunity for Safe and Profitable Investment.
The N. J. MUTUAL REALTY COMPANY.
(Incorporated.)
Have acquired 200 acres of land with 6,000 feet frontage on C. R. R. of N. J. and Lehigh Valley Railroad at a cost of $22,500 and propose selling stock to small investors in $100 shares at par to pay for property. Already negotiations are pending to locate first-class manufactories along railroad front.
This plan will enable the Company to sell building lots at low prices, and all profits derived from sale of this property is to be divided among stockholders.
All stock payable to Treas. of Company on or before April 1, 1897. Already upwards of $10,000 stock have been subscribed for.
The following gentlemen are officers and directors of the Company.
A. D. Thompson, Sylvanus Ayres, Jr., Peter Egenolf, President Board of Trade, Elizabeth; P. H. Oakley, Insurance Broker; S. D. Drake, Richard H. Brokaw, cashier First National Bank, Bound Brook; W. W. Smalley, firm of L. D. Cook & Co.
For prospectus and full particulars call or address,
N. J. MUTUAL REALTY CO.,
ROSS BUILDING. BOUND BROOK, N. J.
Or First National Bank, Plainfield and Bound Brook. 1 4 1w

Have You Bought Your OVERCOAT?
If not, come to WERNER'S CLOTHING HOUSE and take advantage of the CUT SALE now going on.
STOCK MUST BE SOLD.
Hats and Furnishing Goods a Specialty.
H. WERNER, Clothier,
No. 206 West Front Street.

COLD WEATHER GOODS
AT
PUTNAM & DEGRAW'S
Underwear, Gloves, Hosiery, &c.
Agents for the "Golden Rule" CLOTHES RACK and IRONING TABLE, $1.00 each.

A. LUSARDI,
120 NORTH AVENUE.
Wholesale and Retail
Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds of Confectionery, Peanuts, Cigars, etc Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets.

NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE
Sewer Connections.
DAVID BOWDEN,
General Contractor, 109 Park ave., Plainfield N. J. Carriage drives macadamized, sewers and sewer connections promptly made, lawns carefully restored. All work done in a practical and skilful manner.
28 YEARS EXPERIENCE.
Best of references furnished. Charges moderate 4 18 t

C. W. LINES.
Mason and Builder
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly to

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

HOTEL TUILERIES!
AND ROGER'S RESTAURANT,
139-141 East Front street.
ROOMS TO LET. CATERING.

30,000 CIGARS
of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of the city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.
M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue,
8 15 tf Plainfield.

E. H. Holmes,
Dealer in
Coal & Wood.
Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.
Telephone 49-A.

William Hand & Son.
STAGES
For Parties, etc., 518 Park ave.

Within the reach of all.
ACCIDENT TICKETS.
THE INTER-STATE
Casualty Company of New York
gives SIX MONTHS' insurance
$1.000 for $1.00,
to men or women
between 18 and 60 years of age, against accidental death. $100,000 deposited with the Insurance Department of the State of New York for the security of the insured.
For sale at office of
Honeyman's Private Tours,
181 North Ave. Plainfield, N.J.
6 25-6 mos

McCullough's
STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

W. N. Pangborn,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Residence, 33 Linden Ave.
Personal attention. Prompt service.
Telephone 29b. Established 1878. 1 14 tf

PIANOS
If you want a deep, clear, rich tone, and the best material, buy your PIANOS at W. R. BROKAW'S. Piano Parlors, 311 Madison ave. Bargains in second-hand instruments. Parlors always open. Tuning and regulating a specialty.

Your Valuables
will be safe in
Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.
Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

J. W. VanSickle,
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.
Philadelphia Scrapple.

REVERE HOUSE
PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD New Jersey.
Families accomodated for the fall and winter months at greatly reduced prices.
The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed.
GEO. B. DE REVERE.

THE JEW'S-HARP.

German Players Who Became Famous for Their Skill with the Instrument.

It is very certain that whatever the derivation may be, it (the Jew's-harp) has little or no special affinity with the Jewish race, though it is of extremely ancient date. Its introduction in England cannot be traced, but the term is clearly a corrupted form of the French jeutrompe, literally a toy trumpet; but the corruption of jeu into Jews is evidently of a good age. Perhaps it was a jeu d'esprit. Timbs, in his "Popular Errors," says that the instrument is called a Jew's-harp by Hakluyt. Bacon called it "jeu-trumpe;" while "jeu-trump" is used by Beaumont and Fletcher. In Bailey's dictionary (1733) will be found "Jew's-harp, an instrument of musick;" the substitution of "harp" commonly for "trump" is apparently a later growth, although, of course, Hakluyt points to an early use. In all probability the French origin of the term is a correct one, and "jaws-harp" may have been the matter-of-fact name invented by the country folk among whom it circulated, maybe through the efforts of the chapman and the packman. Brewer is very brief on the subject; he confines himself to the statement that "the best players on the instrument have been Koch, a Prussian soldier under Frederick the Great; Kunert, Amstein and some others." He makes no mention of Eulenstein, who may be said to have been the master of all players.

The celebrated Stephanie Felicite, countess de Genlis, in her "Memoirs," tells us a great deal about Koch, the German player, which is worth recording. This soldier, who is described as a "musician," was in the service of Frederick the Great, and, being fond of relieving the tedium of sentry go he used to practice on the Jew's-harp with considerable skill. One night Frederick, who was an amateur musician, heard what he thought was a distinct orchestra under his window, when he discovered that the sounds came from one of his privates. Surprised on learning that such wonderful effects could be produced by a single man with two Jew's-harps, he ordered the player into his presence. He was duly presented to the king the following morning, and performed to the delight and satisfaction of his majesty, who rewarded Koch with $50, and gave him his discharge that he might devote his time and attention to the advance of his talent. Koch had not the slightest knowledge of music, but owed his ability to natural taste and instinct. He made quite a fortune traveling about and performing in public and private, and retired to Vienna, where he lived until long past the age of 80. He died about 1830. He used two harps at once, in the same manner as the peasants of the Tyrol, and produced without doubt the harmony of two notes struck at the same moment, which was considered by the musically curious as somewhat extraordinary, when the limited powers of the instrument were remembered. Herr Koch had a fine idea of theatrical effect, for it was his custom to require that all the lights be extinguished in order that the illusion produced by his playing might be increased.

Another German, a peasant and herdsman named Eulenstein, about the beginning of this century devoted his attention to the cultivation of the Jew's-harp, softening and enriching the tone of this "twanging" instrument into almost perfect harmony. Indeed, Eulenstein acquired a musical reputation from the way he manipulated this meager and not over-agreeable instrument. The Jew's-harp, usually despised and ignored, possesses three different tones; the bass tones of the first octave have some resemblance to those of the flute and clarinet; those of the middle and high of the vox humana of some organs; lastly, the harmonical sounds are exactly like those of the harmonica. It is conceived that this diversity of tone, quoted the Mirror (1827), affords already a great variety in the execution, which is always looked upon as being feeble and trifling on account of the smallness of the instrument. It was not thought possible to derive much pleasure from any attempt which could be made to conquer the difficulties of so limited an instrument; because in the extent of three octaves there were a number of spaces which could not be filled up by the talent of the player. Besides, the most ample modulation is impossible. Herr Eulenstein remedied the inconvenience by joining 16 Jew's-harps, which he tuned in his own special way, and so performed his selection by changing the harps with extreme rapidity, always keeping one harp in advance, so as not to interrupt the measure. He became so proficient that he was able to execute, with grace and ease, running over four octaves, many quite difficult Italian, French and German pieces. He was induced by the duke of Gordon in 1828, who was delighted by his performances, to tour in Scotland, where the Jew's-harp is still rather popular. Eulenstein also visited the chief towns of England and drew crowds to hear his novel entertainment in London. It is presumed that he returned to his own country about 1832. Since then the Jew's-harp seems to have fallen into disrepute and its position as a serious means of musical enjoyment is no longer admitted.—London Standard.

Slaughter with Old-Style Guns.

Nothing so far done with the long-range magazine rifles of to-day approaches the slaughter achieved with the ruder weapons of the latter part of the last century and the earlier half of this. Thus it is asserted by an eyewitness that at the battle of Fontenoy 300 French guards fell before a single English volley.—N. Y. Sun.

—The administrative board of Ann Arbor university has refused permission for the musical clubs to make their annual tours in the spring.

HINGES ON BUSHNELL

Ohio Governor's Position May Influence Cabinet Selection.

HANNA WANTS THE SENATORSHIP

Sherman Not Likely To Accept the Portfolio of Secretary of State Unless the National Chairman Is Assured of Appointment to the Senate.

Cleveland, Jan. 11.—Major McKinley attended church yesterday and later enjoyed a long drive. He left for Canton at 11 o'clock this morning and expects to remain there until March 1. Major McKinley said to a friend that this week would be an important one in the process of organizing his cabinet and administration. The formation of the cabinet hinges upon the salient and pivotal positions of secretary of state and secretary of the treasury. It is quite probable that both of these cabinet portfolios will be tendered and accepted by the end of the week. Senator Sherman has had some communication with Major McKinley and he will go to Canton whenever the president-elect desires him to, and his visit will, according to present arrangements here, be made about the middle of the week. It is now pretty well established that Major McKinley wants Senator Sherman to be secretary of state, but it is by no means certain that Mr. Sherman has made up his mind to accept a cabinet appointment. His inclination is to remain in the senate where the work is systematized and familiar, and where he can regulate the amount and quality of it to a very considerable extent. He feels no strong desire, said one of his friends of long standing, to undertake the severe and exciting task of the most important and difficult governmental department, but on the other hand he has had long experience as chairman of the committee on foreign relations and many of his valued friends are earnestly urging him to close his notable public career by a brilliant administration of the department of state.

Hanna Wants the Senatorship.

The very natural and timely desire of M. A. Hanna to go to the senate, may have much to do with Mr. Sherman's appointment to the cabinet if he accepts the portfolio. Mr. Hanna has been one of Mr. Sherman's most valuable friends. He has done a great deal for him in a political way and Mr. Sherman doubtless feels that he owes his last election to the senate in part to the zeal and support of Mr. Hanna. Their relations have been friendly and close for years. If Mr. Sherman does not accept the offer of a cabinet position, the way to the senate will be closed to Mr. Hanna, for he would not contest the seat with his personal and political friend. It is rumored to-day that senator-elect Jos. B. Foraker of Cincinnati will be invited to visit Canton while Mr. Sherman is there. Upon the action of Mr. Foraker and his friends, the senatorial aspirations of chairman M. A. Hanna depend. Governer Bushnel of Ohio will appoint Mr. Sherman's successor for the unexpired term of two years if he goes into the cabinet. He is a devoted friend and ally of senator-elect Foraker and it may be that it is feared that he would not appoint Mr. Hanna to the vacancy, for the reason that they belong to the opposite factions of the party and have been at odds in a political way for several years. The impression prevails among many politicians that while Messrs. Foraker and Bushnell are thoroughly friendly to Major McKinley, and desire to support him loyally and efficiently, they do not wish to build Mr. Hanna's personal prestige and power in the Ohio political field.

Will Be an Important Conference.

No intimation of the course he will pursue has been obtained from Gov. Bushnell, who is ill with the grip at his home in Springfield. The belief is current in Ohio that unless Gov. Bushnell will consent to appoint Mr. Hanna to the senate the latter will himself accept a cabinet appointment, so the conference at Canton this week will involve the probable disposition of two cabinet portfolios, a seat in the United States senate and the future status of Mark Hanna in national politics. One week ago yesterday Senator Cullom of Illinois came to Cleveland to call on the president-elect. He said to the correspondent of the United Associated Presses in the course of a long conversation: "I am not a cabinet possibility. It seems to me that it is my duty to remain in the Senate." Interest has marched with celerity during the past week and rumors are changing daily. Notwithstanding the fact that one week ago Senator Cullom sincerely said he could not accept a cabinet portfolio if it were offered him, he is to-day a potent possibility. Senator Cullom is highly esteemed by the president-elect and is considered a wise, well equipped, vigorous man, of high character and most excellent training in public life.

Cullom's Name Promently Mentioned.

Much more is likely to be heard of Senator Cullom in connection with the cabinet within the next three weeks. The gossip about ex-Gov. J. D. Long of Massachusetts and the cabinet seems to have a pretty strong basis for its existence. Major McKinley has been thinking about ex-Gov. Long for several weeks, and the visits of Senator Proctor evidently caused the matter to be thoroughly and seriously discussed. Major McKinley knew Gov. Long extremely well, and has always had a high opinion of his character and ability. The availability of Judge Nathan Goff for a cabinet position daily becomes more manifest, and if a secretary of state is chosen this week and a secretary of the treasury the week following, Judge Goff is likely to be the next possibility who will become a reality. If he is a member of the cabinet he will doubtless be attorney-general or secretary of war. Should Senator Sherman decide to remain in the senate, three eastern men will be considered in reference to their availability for appointment as secretary of state. They are Stewart L. Woodford and Andrew D. White of New York, and ex-Gov. John D. Long of Massachusetts. Of the New York men Gen. Woodford is thought, by those who are speculating upon the cabinet, to have the better chance, but this is a matter of surmise.

THE CHILIAN CLAIMS.

Olney and the Chilian Minister Have Practically Reached a Settlement.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Secretary Olney and the Chilian minister, Senor Gana, have practically reached a successful conclusion to the long negotiations for a rehabilitation of the Chilian claims commission, which ended its existence by limitation nearly two years ago without completing its labors, and it is understood that the commission will assemble in this city next October and consider the remaining cases, of which seventeen are American claims against Chili and two, including that for the capture and detention of the Itata, are supported by Chili against the United States. These constitute the sole causes for friction between the two countries, which have been notably cordial in the profession of friendship for the past year, and it is believed that the settlement will dispose of any lingering animosity which resulted from the Baltimore affair and other incidents which led the Chilians to the verge of war with this country. The present visit of Admiral Beardslee in the flagship Philadelphia to Valparaiso is thought to have contributed considerably to this result. When the six months' existence of the last commission, of which the then Swiss minister, Alfred de Cloprarede was president, came to an end, after having disposed of twenty-five cases, every effort was made by Secretary Gresham to induce Chili to extend its term, but a cabinet crisis occurring in that country just at that time it was found impossible to accomplish anything in that direction.

FOUGHT A DUEL AT SEA.

Second Officer of the Oil Tank Steamer Newport Killed by the Engineer.

San Francisco, Jan. 11.—The steamer Newport which arrived from Panama yesterday brings news of the exciting experience of the French steamer Madeline which is due here from Callao, Peru. She is an oil vessel and has been plying along the South American coast. Shortly after she left Callao for this port, her boiler exploded, killing several men. The accident compelled her to put into Acapulco, where after receiving necessary repairs she resumed her northward voyage. About seven hours later she returned to port flying a police flag. The brief news sent ashore was to the effect that the chief engineer and second officer had been on anything but friendly terms for some time. On leaving Acapulco, they renewed their troubles and fought a duel on the steamer's deck. The second officer was killed and the Madeline's commander retraced his course to Acapulco. The owner of the steamer was aboard the Newport, bound for this city, and a message detailing the trouble was sent to him with a request for instructions. The owner promptly went ashore and by telegraph communicated the facts to the French minister at Mexico who ordered the Madeline held at Acapulco pending an official investigation.

Suicide of an Old Bank Cashier.

Lebanon, Pa., Jan. 11.—James M. Gossler, cashier of the Lebanon National bank, the largest banking institution in this county, committed suicide shortly before noon yesterday by shooting himself through the head. Ill-health is supposed to have been the cause of the act. Mr. Gossler was about 54 years old and leaves a widow and two children. He has borne an unblemished reputation and his accounts at the bank are entirely correct, it is said.

Uphold the Kaiser's Dueling Sentiments.

Berlin, Jan. 11.—All of the German states have approved the sentiment expressed in the recent edict of the emperor in regard to dueling in the army, and have adopted his majesty's suggestions in regard to the referring of disputes to courts of honor instead of a resort to independent action on the part of the principals.

Mills Resume at Johnstown.

Johnstown, Pa., Jan. 11.—The Cambria Rail mill No. 1, the 12 and 16 inch mills and the scrap mill, resumed operations this morning, giving employment to many idle men. The Cambria Steel mill was put in blast last night. Two hundred men also went to work this morning at the Johnson Company Steel Motor works.

Wants $50,000 for the Loss of Her Husband

Trenton, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Laura L. Vandorf has instituted a suit against the Pennsylvania Railroad company to recover $50,000 damages on account of the death of her husband, who was a fireman in the employ of the company and was accidentally killed in a collision at Morrisville, Pa., about a year ago.

Big Fire at Buffalo.

Buffalo, Jan. 11.—Fire broke out in the Richmond block last evening and damaged the building and contents to the extent of $150,000. The building was occupied by the clothing firm of Altman & Co.

Signed by Rochester Club.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 11.—Pitcher McFarlan, who stood at the head of the Virginia league last year, has been signed by the Rochester baseball club for the season of 1897.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

108 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 11, 1897.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

(Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Colder and Probably a Snowstorm.

At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 58 Degrees.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

Governor Griggs will deliver his annual message to the Legislature after it convenes tomorrow. While his inaugural message of a year ago was of a general character framed from observation and information furnished by others, this year the comments and recommendations will be those that have been prompted by a year's personal contact with the subjects that he will refer to. One of the most important subjects that he will treat at length will be the financial condition of the State. Many people, it seems, are under the impression that the State is hoarding large sums of money. This is occasioned by the fact that at the end of the fiscal year large balances are usually recorded, but before the succeeding year ends this balance is wiped out by the expenses of State government that are incurred. The Governor will endeavor to clearly explain to the people that they are not always possessors of what department reports often times show on the face.

THE LEGISLATURE.

The State Legislature will convene tomorrow in annual session and the eyes of the political wise are all turned towards the citadel in which the Republicans are overpowering in number. The officers of both houses are already settled upon and their selection is a mere formality of official action. Senator Voorhees is to be leader of the Senate and Union county will therefore be prominently before the State throughout the session. The most important question to be decided by the Legislature, it is expected, will be equal taxation. There is hope for a short session, but the vagaries of political life make it uncertain for one to prophesy with any hope of fulfillment in this direction.

SERVES A TWO-FOLD PURPOSE.

Suggested by Plainfield's complimentary dinner to Mayor Gilbert, the Home News advises that a similar event be tendered to Mayor Williamson, of New Brunswick, at the completion of his term of service. Such a dinner, it has been demonstrated in Plainfield, serves a two-fold purpose. First, in expressing the gratitude of citizens for an efficient administration; and second, in offering an incentive to the succeeding officials to provide an equally as good government and thus meriting a similar honor at the completion of their term.

A BRIGHT MIND STILLED.

The legal and newspaper fraternity lose a bright and active member in the death of J. Newton Voorhees, which occurred at his home in Flemington, Saturday. He was the proprietor of the Flemington Democrat Advertiser and a senior member of the firm of Voorhees and Cotter, of Newark.

A GREAT CHANGE.

The Presidential electors met in the Supreme Couse chambers at Trenton today, and formally cast the vote of New Jersey for McKinley and Hobart, the first Republican vote that New Jersey has cast since the defeat of Horace Greeley.

Rheumatism is a Foe which gives no quarter. It torments its victims day and night. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and cures the aches and pains of rheumatism.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver medicine. Gentle, reliable, sure.

—Three boys were added to the Grace P. E. church choir, yesterday, and will hereafter sing regularly there.

Hailed Them Just in Time.

Two more lives were probably saved by train caller Edward Martin at the depot this morning. Two ladies were hurrying over from Sycamore street to board the 7:58 train and the long rows of freight and passenger cars standing on the siding obstructed their view of the incoming 7:58 Flemington train. "Ed" hailed them just in time to save their lives.

Cheapest, Because the Best

GAIL BORDEN EAGLE BRAND

CONDENSED MILK

Send for that little book, "Infant Health;" great value to mothers. Sent free.

N. Y. Condensed Milk Co.

71 Hudson Street, New York

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East.

Patrolman Flanagan has recovered from a severe illness and is again doing duty.

Miss Wicks, of Somerville, is the guest of Mrs. John Dodge, of East Front street.

Mrs. E. H. Booth, of Central avenue, arrived home from Cincinnatti, last evening.

Raymond Hodge, of Plainfield avenue, is recovering from a severe attack of tonsilitis.

Mrs. Polhemus, of Somerville, is the guest of relatives on Plainfield avenue for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Krietling, of West Front street, entertained friends from out of town yesterday.

George Watson, of New York, is the guest of his friend, William L. McClure, of Crescent avenue.

Miss Madeline Griffith, of New York, is the guest of her friend, Miss Mary A. Luckey, of East Sixth street.

Mrs. Susan Clapp and her daughter, Miss Clapp, of Mercer avenue, are making a short visit in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Miller, of Crescent avenue, arrived home from a week's trip to Washington, yesterday.

Mrs. Benjamin Day and her son Benjamin, of Rockview avenue, are registered at Haddon Hall, Atlantic City.

Bartholdi Audsley, of Grove street, who has been confined to his home with scarlet fever, is able to walk out again.

F. G. Moore, of Third place, entertained the members of his Bible class in the Grace P. E. church at his home on Friday evening.

Miss Clara Harold, of Brooklyn, spent Saturday night and Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Henry Windham, of East Front street.

The condition of Andrew Cox, of Liberty street, remains about the same and his friends are very anxious regarding his recovery.

Wm. C. Stanbery, of Scotch Plains, has been appointed by Surrogate Parrott as Administrator of the estate of the late James A. Baker.

Rev. P. S. Gibson, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, will leave town in a few days to visit friends in the west. He will probably be away some time.

Wilbur F. Cornwell, of Waynewood place, returned Saturday from the New York Homœopathic College to spend Saturday and Sunday in this city.

Rev. Mr. Gates, of Maine, who is stopping with his son on East Second street, read the Scripture lesson and pronounced the benediction at the First Presbyterian church last evening.

Among the prominent artists who were present at the annual dinner of the Fine Arts Federation given last week at the American Fine Arts Building in New York, is the name of Julian Scott, of West Front street.

Mrs. Charles Butler and her daughter, Miss Emma Butler, who have been spending several months with Mrs. Butler's daughter, Mrs. E. W. Hedges, of Watchung avenue, left Plainfield on Saturday, for their home in San Francisco.

Charles Smith and Harry Fink, of Cherryville, Hunterdon county, arrived in town, Saturday, and spent Sunday with their relative, Edward Smith, of West Fourth street. During Saturday afternoon they hired bicycles and rode about the city "taking in" the sights.

Realty Changes.

The following transfers of property have been recorded in County Clerk Howard's office from December 31st to January 6th:

Trustees of the Methodist church, Plainfield, to the trustees of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, three lots, Monroe avenue, $1; Mary A. Day, Elizabeth, to Wm. S. Darling, Plainfield, lot Adams street, near Julia street, city, $1; Mary Moran et al., to James Wilkerson, Plainfield, lot Third street, Plainfield, $1; Seaman Williams et ux., et al., Plainfield, to W. E. Bartle, Martinsville, lot West Fifth street, Plainfield, $1; Edmund V. Shotwell et ux., to Hannah W. Underwood, Brooklyn, 19 75-100 acres, road from Plainfield to New Brooklyn, township of Piscataway, $5,000.

The following contract has also been recorded in County Clerk Howard's office from December 31st to January 6th:

Vincent W. Nash with Christopher L. Nevimark, two buildings and bill board, Plainfield, $397.

Chronic Rheumatism Cured.

Dr. H. B. Hettinger, Indiannapolis, Ind., says: "For several months after spraining my ankle I was severely afflicted with Rheumatism. I finally tried Detchon's 'Mystic Cure' for Rheumatism, and in four days could walk without my cane; two bottles cured me sound and well. I take pleasure in recommending the 'Mystic Cure' to all who are afflicted with Rheumatism." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

—Willett & Son have something new in Hanan & Sons' shoes for ladies.

Cleveland's baking powder with its "rounded spoonful"

does not go so fast

as the "heaping spoonful" of others, but it lasts longer and is more economical.

THEATRICAL.

Winthrop Snelling, the manager of Miss Maude Hillman, who appears in Music Hall this week, has this season made such a stride in advance of even his previous record for carrying a well-equipped company that he has excited more than the average curiosity among his patrons. It was to learn more about this gentlemen and his methods that a reporter called upon Mr. Snelling this morning and induced him to talk for publication.

"Yes," said Mr. Snelling in answer to a question, "I made up my mind to show the public that their generous patronage of the past was fully appreciated both by Miss Hillman and myself. You see Miss Hillman has for four seasons played through this country, everywhere receiving the unqualified endorsement of press and public alike. This season we have started out with a new repertoire, written expressly for Miss Hillman, and with a carload of special scenery. My first move on reaching a theatre this season is to banish all the scenery used in the house. My company, too, is picked from the best actors in America today, inferiority I will not have, even if it does come cheap. Every man was engaged and then the parts written to suit the company."

"As for my plays," Mr. Snelling continued, "they speak for themselves. Take our opening piece, for instance, 'Buried Diamonds.'"

"I have heard that it is a great piece," said the reporter.

"Well, see it for yourself tonight," laughed Mr. Snelling, "When the piece was first read to Miss Hillman and myself, I said, 'That is a great play, and it is.'"

NEUMAN BROS.,

Grocers,

Corner Watchung Ave. and 5th St.

Joseph Carbone,

128 NORTH AVENUE,

Whol sale and retail dealer in choice fruits nuts etc., all kinds of temperance drinks. Closed Friday night, sun down. Open Saturday evening at sun down. 12 14 1y

HOLIDAY PRESENTS IN ENDLESS VARIETY AT HARPER'S,

411 PARK AVENUE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Holds Without Tearing THE Velvet Grip Hose Supporter

Never Slips or Unfastens

All Styles and Sizes at Your Store.

Sample Pair, by Mail, 25 Cents.

CATALOGUE FREE.

GEO. FROST CO. BOSTON. P. O. BOX 1604.

Cushion Button Clasp

A JEWEL.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear."
And many a gem by mortals here unseen
Are waiting to be worn by some sweet fair.
In our well-stocked cases now are laid
Jewels that shine with scintillating fire;
In the latest fads and fashions made
That the connoisseur in jewelry must admire.
Design and workmanship are of the best.
So lovely woman do not hide
Those charms that Nature's sweet behest
Endows you with, but with woman's pride
Enhance your beauty as you see best.

COLLIER,

103 Park Ave. Established 1869.

THE BEE HIVE.

Men's Unlaundered Shirts

Lot 1—The "Cast Iron Shirt," made of good heavy muslin, good 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—38c.

Lot 2—New York Mills muslin, 3-ply fine linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—48c.

Lot 3—Our New York Mills shirt, made of New York Mills muslin, 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced ront and back, continuous facing and hand-made buttonholes, equal to the best custom-made shirt—69c.

Boys' unlaundered shirts, 38c.

Men's laundered shirts 50c., 75c and $1.00

LOUIS CALLMAN

222 West Front Street.

BOROUGH NOTICE

The ordinance requires occupants of property to remove snow and ice from sidewalks within five hours after it accumulates. Notice is hereby given that the penalty for violation of this ordinance will hereafter be strictly enforced.

B. A. HEGEMAN, JR.,

1 6 12 Mayor.

NEW YEAR'S CARDS AND DIARIES AT R. C. RAND'S,

140 West Front street.

ALEX. LUSARDI.

211 West Front Street,

Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores. 9 9 7 rear

BAKERY,

No. 132 Park Avenue.

Fine Bread, Cake, Pastry and Pies of all kinds. All orders promptly attended. A share of the public patronage is respectfully solicited.

S. H. Schleif,

Proprietor.

1 7 1y

E. D. BARRETT,

No. 148 East 8th St.

Sole Agent for the Richmond Heaters.

STEAM and HOT WATER.

SANITARY PLUMBING

ALL RADIATE from THE CENTRAL STORE

PECK'S.

EVERY THING

For the Fire-place.

MANTELS, TILES, GRATES.

SPARK GUARDS, $1.25 and up.

Curtis M. Thorpe, 310-312 Park Avenue.

--JAQUETT'S--

CLOTHING Of the Latest Style for Men, Boys' and Children. Suits and Overcoats.

SUITS and OVERCOATS. School Suits, from 75c. up.

NOVELTIES FOR CHILDREN. Full lines in Top Coats, Reefers and Separate Pants.

MEN'S FURNISHINGS. All of the latest Novelties in Ties, Collars, Shirts, Suspenders.

HOSIERY, GLOVES, UNDERWEAR.

HATS of the Latest Styles at Moderate Prices.

One Price—Cash. Money refunded if goods are not as represented.

129 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LAST DAYS OF GREAT FIRE SALE!

Everything to be closed out by January 15th. The balance of stock of Dry Goods to be sold for a mere nothing. On

MONDAY, JANUARY 11th,

from 3 to 5 P. M., we will GIVE about 150 CLOAKS to the DESERVING POOR of this city. Each applicant must have papers properly signed by some officer of any local charity organization.

LEDERER'S,

115 WEST FRONT STREET.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

GEORGE E. ROGERS.....Lessee. | GEORGE H. WILLEY.....Manager

COMING ONE WEEK.

JANUARY 11th,

Engagement of the COMEDIENNE,

Maude Hillman,

under the management of Winthrop G. Snelling.

A carload of Magnificent Scenery. Properties, &c. Elegant Costumes. Songs and dances.

MATINEES Wednesday and Saturday.

Prices 10, 20 and 30 cents. Seats now on sale at Box Office.

Desks, Tables, Easy Chairs, Rockers, etc. Fine China, Elegant Lamps, Fancy Pottery.

G. Q. PACKER. J. W. GAVETT.

Greatest Sacrifice of Clothing.

No garment reserved. Our entire stock must be sold in two weeks at 33 per cent on the dollar; no trifling, no boasting, no delusion; you know us or ought to.

READ THESE PRICES.

Men's fine Melton overcoat, worth $10, at $3.75; Men's extra fine Sunday overcoat in Melton or English Kersey, worth $15, at $4.95; the finest overcoat in Plainfield, worth $20, at $7.50, silk or satin lined. Remember we must sell every overcoat in the house in two weeks. Men's Ulster, worth $10, at $4; fine Ulster, satin lined, all wool, worth $18, at $6.50; a good Men's Ulster at $3, worth $8. Men's heavy weight all wool suit, very fine finish, worth $12, at $4.25; extra fine Sunday suit in all wool worsted plaids, latest style, worth $16, at $5.90; a fine all wool English clay diag nal suit, in frock, worth $18, at $6.90; Men's handsome fancy silk mixed suit worth $22, at $7.90; a good working suit suit $2.75, worth $7. Men's fine Sunday pants, worth $5, at $1.75; extra fine, worth $7.50, at $2.90; a good working pants, worth $1.75, at 65c. Boys winter school suit, worth $33, at $1.25; Boys' ulsters, at $1.50, worth $4; Boys' heavy knee pants at 28c, worth 75c. These special prices will only last for a few days. Remember all goods will go for one third their value.

New York Clothing Company,

214 WEST FRONT STREET.

M. WEINBERGER.

Near Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

P. MARKEY, Bakery,

144 PARK AVENUE.

A full assortment of bread, cakes, and pies fresh every day. Fig and malt bread a specialty. 2 17 tf

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield January 11th, 1897.

Burke Marg't
Chase Chas A
Chase Geo B
DeMary Mrs
Edwards Mrs Wm A
Harkins Mrs John
Hall Mrs Benj E
Hoagland Mrs Eliz'th
Huffman Wm
Hubbard Mrs Alice A
King Mrs Chas
Klenck Edward
Lavery John
Noe Miss Sarah
Ogden Mrs Mary
Phraner Mrs Wm W
Runyon Jos
Runyon Mrs E C
Ryan Maggie Ann
Taller Miss Eda
Townsend Mis Phoebe
Waring Mr & Mrs John

NEWMAN'S STAGE LINE TIME TABLE
Between Plainfield and Scotch Plains.

Leave Plainfield..... { 7.00; 9.30; 12.45 a. m.
{ 4.00; 6.00; 9.00 p. m.
Sunday—9.00; 12.30 a. m., 3.00 6.00 p. m.

Leave Scotch Plains. { 6.20; 8.15; 10.30 a. m.
{ 2.00; 5.00; 7.00; 9.30 p. m.
Sunday—9.45 a. m., 2 00; 4.00, 7.00 p. m.

DEPOT—FRONT STREET AND PARK AVE.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Robert Carpenter has recovered from his recent indisposition.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Randolph are visiting at the home of J. B. Sproul in Jersey City.

Sheriff Litterest, of Perth Amboy, was in town on Saturday attending to some official business.

Thomas J. Todd today opened a gent's furnishing goods store in the Todd building on the main street.

Charles Smalley, of South Orange, has been a recent guest of his brother-in-law, Fred Nelson, during the latter part of the week.

George O. Stevens, of Plainfield, made an inspection of the new engine house, on Saturday, and he expressed himself as highly pleased with it.

There is enough snow left on the low spots along West Front street to make good sleighing for a hundred yards, if it were equally distributed.

Dunellen's new fire gong was formerly used at the Raritan Woolen Mills, but it was found to be too big for service there, so it was transferred here.

The interior of Jesse Burdick's house on Centre street, which was damaged by a Christmas tree fire, during the holiday week, has been repapered and re-painted by A. D. Pope.

Some itinerant photographer has been about town for a day or two past, taking photographs of the more prominent residences in the place, with a view, it is said, of getting out a picturesque Dunellen.

A carload of young Washington Park people went over to New Market skating, Saturday afternoon, and on the way home a quartette of sweet singers made the street car lively with their merry songs.

The work of filling in the low swamp land opposite the depot is going steadily forward, and the authorities say that before summer sets in the entire place will have been filled in, and sidings laid on the made grounds.

Miss Julia Dodwell, the talented young daughter of Conductor Dodwell, entertained a select few of her friends, Friday evening. Mr. Dodwell entertained his daughter's guests with some delightful concertina solos and besides there was singing, dancing and refreshments.

A poultry dealer from Montclair who had been buying up chickens and ducks near Somerville, drove into town with a sick horse, on his return trip Saturday. Liveryman Fred Nelson took charge of the disabled horse and generously proffered the use of another animal to the unfortunate huckster.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

A young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Blimm is quite ill at her home on account of cutting teeth.

Peter Blimm, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Blimm.

H. DeC. Richards and wife, of New York city, will be in town tonight, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Blimm.

The Kickapoo Indians which held forth here in the engine house for a fortnight, recently, are now in Stanhope, near Dover.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Heideloff and children, of Mt. Bethel, drove over to the Plains, yesterday afternoon, and spent a few hours with Mr. and Mrs. John Blimm.

Clarence Lambert commenced cutting ice from his pond on Friday, and had the cold weather continued, he hoped to store enough within the next week to serve his customers the coming summer.

J. W. Hollingworth did not care to wait for an uncertainty so he sat a force of men at work last week filling his ice house with ice six inches thick. The house was filled within two and a half days and it is of the best quality.

Proprietor Richards, who is expected here today, and who is the owner of the Berkley Heights' stone crusher, has accepted a contract to furnish the stone and grade a new railroad in Massachusetts, whither some of his men have already gone.

On Wednesday of this week at Benner's road house, Clarence Lambert and John Benner are matched to shoot at 50 live birds a side for $100 a side. Both are expert shooters and the contest will doubtless draw together a large crowd of local sports.

Frank Allen, "Lon" Collins and a party of some ten or a dozen friends had a sort of cotillion at Blimm's Hotel, Saturday evening. There was dancing, refreshments and a general good time until midnight when the guests departed for their several homes.

John M. Marsh met with a painful accident Friday night. He jumped from his butcher wagon, and in some unaccountable manner his right arm became entangled in the reins. The sudden starting of the horse badly wrenched Mr. Marsh's right wrist, and on Saturday he had to have an assistant on his Westfield route to cut the meat for him.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

A special service was conducted in the Wilson Memorial chapel in Washingtonville last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Morse. The meeting was well attended and the remarks of the visitors were listened to with great interest.

INFORMAL AND ENJOYABLE.

Miss Mary A. Luckey Entertained Young Friends at Cards.

An informal, but very enjoyable, progressive euchre party was given by Miss Mary A. Luckey on Saturday evening at her home on East Sixth street in honor of her guest, Miss Madeline Griffith, of New York. The first part of the evening passed pleasantly in an exciting game of euchre, in which Miss Griffith and Walter B. Rittenhouse were the winners. The consolation prizes were awarded to Miss Mary Collier and Charles Noble. The first prizes were very handsome, while the others were the cause of much laughter. The tally cards were decorated with little brownies, drawn by Miss Griffith. Refreshments were then served and the rest of the evening was spent in dancing.

Among those present were the Misses Grace Petrie, Ethel Holmes, Mary Collier, Bertha Thorn, Mary Buckle, Emma Buckle and Grace Crane, and Edward Petrie, Walter B. Rittenhouse, J. Vincent Rittenhouse, Wilbur F. Cornwell, Charles Noble, Henry B. Drake, Allan Taylor and Will Coriell.

There is Nothing so Good.

There is nothing just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, so demand it and do not permit the dealer to sell you some substitute. He will not claim there is anything better, but in order to make more profit he may claim something else to be just as good. You want Dr. King's New Discovery because you know it to be safe and reliable, and guaranteed to do good or money refunded. For Coughs Colds, Consumption and for all affections of Throat, Chest and Lungs, there is nothing so good as is Dr. King's New Discovery. Trial bottle free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

An Acceptable Vocalist.

Miss F. May Grant, who sang so acceptably in the choir of Trinity Reformed Church, yesterday morning and evening, is entitled to more than a passing notice. The music committee of the church have not yet secured a soprano to fill the position resigned by Mrs. Rider, and when the committee, a few days ago, made known their dilemma to Miss Grant, she very kindly consented to sing the remainder of the month, with the hope that the committee would by that time be able to fill the vacancy in the choir.

Change of Place of Worship.

On February first or possibly before, the congregation of the First Church of Christ will take full possession of the Grove street chapel and hold services in that place regularly. Rev. J. E. Thomas, of New York, has been chosen as the regular pastor of the church and will preach every Sunday. Notice of the meetings until that time will appear later.

An Informal Conference.

An informal conference was held in the Mayor's office Saturday afternoon between the officials of the Plainfield Sanitary Company and a number of the members of the Common Council. The object of the meeting was so that the Councilmen should understand the plans of the new company in regard to their proposed garbage crematory.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chillblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For Sale By L. W. Randolph.

—This is the time of the year when the good housewife commences to think about muslins, and recognizing this fact Boehm's advertisement is prolific with prices of these goods. Read it.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

ALL OVER THE TOWN

NEWS IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS THAT INTEREST ALL PLAINFIELDERS.

Gathered by Enterprising Press Reporters From Both Sides of the Brook and Tersely Served for Your Perusal.

—There will be baptism at the First Presbyterian church next Sunday evening.

—Crescent Division, U. R., K. of P., will meet on Wednesday evening of this week.

—The Board of Governors of the Park Club will hold an important meeting next Tuesday evening.

—There were several applications received last Saturday from persons anxious to become regular policemen or specials.

—The Organized Aid Association will hold a meeting this evening in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

—The Plainfield Camera Club will hold an important meeting this evening in their club rooms in the Babcock building.

—An important meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will be held tomorrow evening. A full attendance is desired.

—The recently elected officers of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O.F., will be installed at the meeting of the lodge this evening.

—At the meeting of Minerva Temple, No. 4, R. S., to be held tomorrow evening, a report of their recent masquerade sociable will be presented.

—The Sewing Society of the First Presbyterian church will meet Wednesday afternoon, at 2.30, at the home of Mrs. Van Winkle, on Park place.

—The regular meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent avenue church, will be held in the chapel of the church tomorrow afternoon, at 3.30.

—On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons of this week, Rev. C. E. Herring will visit the members of his congregation living on West Fifth and Seventh streets, Plainfield and Grant avenue.

—The first of the University Extension lectures after the holidays will be delivered tomorrow evening by Rev. Dr. J. F. Riggs. It will be the first of his series of lectures on "The Vital Forces in Modern History."

—Many of the shade trees in front of the John Taylor Johnston property on East Front street are being taken out by the roots. Most of the trees are of long standing, and their removal enhances to a noticeable degree the beauty of the place.

TO STIR UP CHRISTIANS.

First of the Revival Meetings to be Held This Week.

The first of the union revival meetings will be held this evening in the First Baptist church when Rev. A. E. Main, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will deliver the sermon from the subject, "Our Great Work; and the Great Source of Our Power for Doing it." The meeting will be preceded by a young people's service in the basement of the church. A special feature of the services will be the chorus singing, the Christian Endeavor convention choir being enlisted for this purpose.

The young people's meeting will be held from 7:30 to 7:55. This evening Rev. W. C. O'Donnell will lead. On Tuesday evening, L. H. Biglow, Jr., will preside and D. E. Titsworth has been secured for Thursday evening.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1896. A. W. Gleason, Notary Public. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. Cheney, & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

New Spring Novelties.

In the latest spring wash dress fabrics were opened up at Edsall's in grand array today. They are displayed on tables in the dress goods section, and make a magnificent showing. Edsall says come in and see them. Full particulars will be given in the advertisement tomorrow.

"THE FINEST THING"
We think, for chapped or rough skin, is
OUR LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE.
Try it. Sprinkler-top bottles, 25c.
Park and North avenues
Successor H. P. REYNOLDS.
T. S. ARMSTRONG,
"THE APOTHECARY."

Randolph Runyon,
Funeral Director,
Residence, Over Office. Office 43 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J.

H. DeMott,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J
Calls promptly attended to day or night. White and black hearses. Coaches latest style.

DIED.

BROKAW—In this city, Saturday, Jan. 9, '97, Isaac Brokaw, in his 75th year. Funeral services at his late residence, 507 West Fourth street, Wednesday, Jan. 13, at 2:30 p. m. 1 11 2

WANTS AND OFFERS.

WANTED—Girl for general housework, small family. Apply evenings, between 7 and 9 o'clock. 817 First place- 1 11 3

TO LET—Small house, 721 East Second street, near Berkman Rent $10 monthly. Apply R. J. Jackson, 409 East Sixth street. 1 11 2

BOY wanted at Moy's Pharmacy.

WANTED—A competent girl for general housework. Apply 212 East Front street. 1 11 3

LOST—Yesterday afternoon, a fox terrier; black spot on back, short tail. Reward for return to S. A. Cruikshank, Belvidere avenue.

STORE and basement to let, 165 North Ave. Mulford, Broker. 1 11 tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—Store and dwelling combined and brick stable. 120 W. 4th St. Mulford, Broker. 1 11 tf

FIRST CLASS colored steward and cook wants situation in a clubhouse; can give good reference. Call or address 117 North Avenue.

YOUNG MAN (20) wants position as coachman; can furnish good reference. Address "B," care Press.

LOST—Saturday afternoon, pair of eye glasses, steel rims. Reward at Press office. 1 11 2

FARM hand wanted, married, occupy cottage on place; German prefered. Address box 322, city. 1 11tf

DRESSMAKER wants work by the day; evening waists a specialty. Terms $1.75. Address "A.," care Press.

WANTED—Cook or general housework girl. 97 Mercer avenue.

A GOOD cook or general housework wants a situation. Call 1024 West Third street.

LOST—Left at Plainfield, on the five- thirty express from New York, on Saturday evening, January ninth, a monkey-skin pocketbook, gold mounted. Liberal reward paid if left at the Press office.

BRICK barn to let. 112 West Fourth street. 1 9 tf

YOUNG MAN (19) would like situation of any kind. Call 215 Muhlenberg place. 1 9 3

WANTED—First class bakery for cash. Address Bakery, care Press. 1 9 3

TO LET—Handsome store on West Front street. Inquire Manning's City Marble Works. 1 9 tf

WANTED—Store in good location. Address Store, care Press. 1 9 3

LARGE and small furnished rooms with board, heat, gas, and bath at moderate rates. 529 West Front street. 1 9 6

LARGE, well heated rooms to let, with board; moderate terms. 132 Crescent Ave. 1 8 6

NICELY-FURNISHED rooms, with board, moderate terms. 214 East Ninth street. 1 8 6

FIRE DEPARTMENT BONDS—The Borough of North Plainfield will sell seven Fire Department bonds, $500 each, 5 per cent interest. Bids for same will be received up to Jan. 15th. James K. Arnold, Borough Clerk. 1 6 6

TO LET—Elegant new corner house, fine location, all modern improvements. Must be seen to be appreciated. Address Owner, 339 E. Sixth street. 1 6 tf

ROOM with board, heat, gas, (suitable for gentleman). 21 Sandford avenue. 1 5 6

STORE to let in Stillman Block, now occupied by Mrs. Dyer. 1 5 1w

TO LET—Store and rooms above, now occupied by Justice Newcorn, 110 West Front street. Inquire Samuel Drier, pawnbroker, corner Front street and Madison avenue. 1 2 tf

TO LET—Elegant 6 room apartments, Jackson building, steam heat, janitor service, halls carpeted, heated and lighted. Rent reasonable, particulars at Packer's furniture store. 11 23 tf

FIRST CLASS help and first class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 23 Somerset place. 11-10-1y

LOANS negotiated. E. C. Mulford, Broker 7 2 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, Broker. tf

Plainfield's Busiest Store.
We sell goods cheaper than any Plainfield store.

A GOOD THING.

Last Saturday morning in walked the selling agent of the Star Knitting Mills, said he had been sent out to see us and to get an offer for the balance of the stock of winter and medium-weight underwear for ladies and gentlemen. You know the Star Mills goods. They make only the best kinds that sell from $1.00 to $2.50 per garment. We told him it was late in the season but if we could buy the goods so as to sell them at a price we would take the lot. Our offer was accepted, and the entire lot, over 300 dozen, on sale Wednesday, and the price will be forty-nine cents each.

49c each.

We frankly state that this is the best bargain this store has ever offered and we have offered many.

IN CONNECTION

with the great underwear sale we will offer in every department goods at such attractive prices that if it don't add wealth to the store it will add to its great name of selling goods cheaper THAN ALL OTHERS.

DRESS GOODS.

Such selling you never before saw, and the reason is plain, 'tis the price that sells them; but no matter how low the price the goods must be to your liking and these are. At 30c. we sell goods that ought to bring 50c. and would in good times. At 37c. your choice of 50 pieces of all-wool fancy mixture that were 75c.; and at 49c. you buy those stylish boucle cloths that were made to sell for $1.00.

Ladies', gentlemen's and children's hosiery. The kind that will wear well and don't cost much. Ladies' fine guage hose, the 25c. kind, 18c.; Ladies' fine cashmere hose, the 25c. kind, 15c.; Ladies' fine fleeced-lined hose, the 35c. kind, 25c.; Gentlemen's fine natural-wool hose, 15c.; Gentlemen's fine black hose, 13c.; Gentlemen's fine black extra-heavy hose, 19c, value 35c.; Children's heavy ribbed seamless hose, 10c.; Children's extra-heavy ribbed seamless hose, double sole and knee, 15c.

GOOD THINGS FOR LITTLE MONEY.

LADIES' COATS AND CAPES.

Over a hundred Coats and Capes for ladies and they go at cost and below. Your choice of the entire line, $3.98, were $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00 each.

SPECIALS TO BE SEEN AT ATTRACTIVE PRICES

100 pairs of fine lace curtains, white or cream, 89c. pair; fine curtain nets in figured and spots for sash curtains, 13c. the yard; adjustable sash curtain rods, 10c. each; 50 dozen find huck towels, the 25c. kind, 13c. each; children's wool skating caps, were 50c. and 75c., now 29c.; heavy outing flannel, in all colors, 6c. yard; heavy cream outing flannel, 5c. yard; chenille rugs, size 18x36, 49c. each; Japanese jute rugs, size 18x36, 34c. each; boys' heavy flannel shirt waists, were 75c., now 39c.; men's fine unlaundried shirts, 39c. each; lot of ten-quarter table covers, fancy bordered, $1.19 and $1.49, were $1.50 and $2.00; fine new dress ginghams and outing flannels, 10c. yard.

EDWARD WHITE.

WALL PAPER
"A word to the wise is efficient."
From 3c.
Buy from the manufacturer and save middlemen's profits.
On receipt of postal card a fine assortment of SAMPLES sent to ANY ADDRESS.
To $2
Warerooms, 211 215 North Ave.
EDW. LOVE,

-BOEHM'S!-
ON SALE THIS WEEK.
MUSLINS.

At 5c. a yard, yard wide, bleached and unbleached, at 5c. a yard. At 6 3-4c., Fruit of the Loom, Androscoggan and other staple makes, yard wide, at 6 3-4c. a yard. At 15c., 2 1-2 yard wide sheeting, unbleached, regular 20c. grade, at 15c. Ladies' Muslin Underwear—Chemise, Drawers and Nightgowns, none sold for less than 39c, and some at 50c., at the uniform price of 25c. each; a limited number to each customer.

The remainder of G. A. Hallock's stock going at 1-4 their cost. $1.50 Derbys at 25c.; $1.50 Dress Shirts at 50c.; 50c. Outing Flannel Shirts at 25c.

-BOEHM'S,-
113 WEST FRONT STREET.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 30 CENTS.
PRIMES, $1 AND $1,50 PER HUNDRED.
-AT ROGERS.-

KATE GARDNER'S CHAT.

Present Styles Will Prevail for Some Time to Come.

Fancy for Bright Colors More Popular Than Ever—Dainty Blouses in Silk, Velvet and Chiffon—Something New in Skirts.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

As far as late winter modes are concerned everything is settled, and those high in authority in matters pertaining to dress declare we need not look for any decided changes for at least six weeks or two months. This is indeed most pleasing news, for certainly fashions were never prettier or more fetching than at the present moment. Outer garments as well as gowns are chic and handsome, and so extremely varied in both design and texture as to prove universally becoming to the maiden or the matron, be she slim and sylphlike or of more generous proportions.

VELVET AND CHIFFON BLOUSE.

The fancy for bright colors seems rather to wax than wane as the season advances. The subdued greens, the dull blues and the somewhat dingy tones of terra cotta, which seemed to us once upon a time the only colors possible to wear, have vanished altogether. Now the most vivid shades of purple, emerald green and sapphire blue, deftly mingled with deep yellow and brilliant red, shine upon us with varying degrees of brightness from all the newest winter models, whether they be gowns, wraps or millinery. When tastefully arranged bright colors are really beautiful and we should all rejoice at their increasing popularity, if for no other reason than that they help to lighten in a great measure the gloom of our rather dismal northern winter. The color that leads in popular favor at the present moment is purple in all its pretty shades, from the brightest to the very dullest tone; and so far is this craze carried in the world of millinery that no hat is considered quite up-to-date which does not boast among its varied trimmings an immense bow of purple ribbon, perferably of a bright tone, and one or more bunches of violets.

The prevalence of fur as a trimming grows in favor from day to day. Look which way you may, the eye is certain to light upon a gown or mantle that has succumbed to its many charms, although it is to be remarked that artists in the modistic world prefer quality to quantity, when using this rich garniture. Both narrow and broad bands of sealskin are much sought after for trimming velvet and silken gowns, and strange and incongruous as it may seem, the best results are achieved when this trimming is used in combination with soft chiffon and lace.

Velvet also continues to play a most important part in decorating modish winter garments, and miroir velvet, showing an exceedingly rich and lustrous surface, seems to be the kind most in demand for this purpose. Artistic costume makers counsel against quantity when this handsome material is used, and also advise against its admixture with fur, wisely reasoning that one but serves to cheapen the other. On the other hand, plain velvets take most kindly to trimmings of soft fur, and some of the sweetest gowns imported for midwinter wear have these two most tastefully combined in skirt and bodice decoration. For instance, a regal-looking costume seen within the week made of cloth in a most exquisite shade of green, had placed at the bottom of the rather narrow skirt a broad band of green velvet, outlined with handsome dark fur, while the little velvet bolero, opening over a full front of pale green chiffon, was lined throughout with cream-colored satin and trimmed with a narrow edging of the fur. It would be difficult to imagine anything exceeding this in simplicity, and yet it was a gown that provoked universal admiration, not to say envy. Apropos of the bolero, quite the newest thing in this line is formed of four small pieces of velvet cut to so overlap each other as to form sharp points in front. A lovely bolero of this description to be worn at a holiday festivity is made of emerald green velvet, embroidered with small turquoises, and each point prettily outlined with jeweled passementerie. It will be worn over a bodice of fine black chiffon, closely accordion-plaited, made high in the neck and with long tucked sleeves extending over the hand in the most proper manner. The collar band is of torquoise-blue satin ribbon, over which plaited frills of pale blue chiffon fall softly, repeating in the most charming manner the torquoise blue of the embroidery.

AN EXQUISITE CREATION.

In spite of all rumors and predictions to the contrary, blouses remain as popular as ever, and never were they more attractive or fascinating than this season. They come made up in all sorts of material, from the dainty flannel waist so neat and trim with its turn-over collar and cuffs of spotless white linen intended for morning wear to the most elaborate confections in rich velvets, brocaded satins and misty chiffons, enriched with jeweled embroidery and softened with priceless lace. Some of the newest and prettiest models are composed of bright-hued silk and trimmed with rows upon rows of narrow black velvet ribbon, while others again have only the standing collar, cuffs and bolero outlined with three rows of velvet ribbon. The blouses shown in the illustrations are among the latest designs and both are strikingly chic and stylish. One is made of geranium-red velvet, a shade of red, by the way, that is marching right along in popular favor, and trimmed with ivory-white silk and lace. It is intended for evening wear, with a plain satin of moire silk skirt. The other is much more simple in both design and material and the home dressmaker will find it an easy model to copy.

To trim or not to trim is the question that confronts my lady these days when she orders the skirt to her new gown. A glance at many of the very latest importations shows that the trimmed skirt has the warmest support of some of the best-known dressmakers, while, on the other hand, equally reliable authorities in modistic circles condemn it entirely and claim that for absolute good taste, when given a handsome material to work upon, there is nothing to equal in beauty and grace the perfectly plain skirt. It is well to bear in mind, however, that it takes a master hand to cut and hang the plain skirt to perfection, and unless one is morally certain of the ultimate good result it is wiser to have a trimmed skirt, for often trimming, like charity, covereth a multitude of sins. The new skirt is very like unto the old one, except in width; and last year's skirts can be easily altered into this season's shape. Without the least hint of the bustle the very latest skirt stands out in the back insead of falling in as formerly and this most desirable end is brought about by means of a closely-wired skirt which some enterprising artist in this line has recently put upon the market. These skirts come in all sizes and range in price from five dollars up to fifty, the "up" depending on the material used in the construction; and if half the merits claimed for them be theirs one should find a place in the wardrobe of every well-dressed woman.

WINTER OPERA CAPE.

There never was a time when headgear was so generally becoming as at present. Large velvet hats have quite supersede those made of chenille which created such a furore at the opening of the season. Hats with velvet rims and richly-embroidered crowns are quite the proper caper, as are also red hats with trimmings to match.

Bonnets are beginning to be restored to favor, and many of the new shapes are so smart that they can be worn by quite young girls as well as married women. A lovely little black velvet bonnet had for its sole trimming large choux bows made of magenta satin ribbon in a very brilliant shade; and another with pointed brim something like the old-fashioned poke, made of cherry-red velvet, had upstanding bows of lace placed in front, held in place by three tiny pink ostrich tips.

Evening cloaks seem to grow in costliness as time goes on. One seen recently is well worth describing, as it is specially typical of the mode of the moment. The material employed was a handsome brocaded satin in a floral design of pale pink roses. The mantle was very wide and full, covering the gown beneath completely, and the deep sling sleeves were very wide and full, giving ample room for the sleeves of the evening dress. It was lined throughout with white fox fur, while the deep roll collar was of sable. The one given in the picture is of a more useful description, but very effective in its way. It is made of printed velveteen lined with quilted satin and trimmed with Thibet goat.

KATE GARDNER.

Beverages in England.

In England the consumption of sherry and port has decreased from 11,000,000 gallons a year to 4,700,000, while tea shows an increase of 6,000,000 pounds during the same period, and light wines an increase of 2,000,000 gallons.

CANNOT SAVE A FORTUNE

Presidents of This Republic Are Not Well Remunerated.

They Have Expenses Which Howlers for Economy Do Not Take Into Consideration—How Our Affairs Are Administered.

[Special Washington Letter.]

The plain people of this republic are about to confer upon William McKinley, of Ohio, or upon William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, the highest office within their gift—that of president of the United States. It will be pertinent for a moment to glance at this office, its duties and emoluments. There are upwards of 70,000,000 citizens of the republic, and only one of them can at any one time hold the chief executive office.

There are three great branches of our government, the legislative, the executive and the judicial. The legislative branch consists of 356 representatives, who are elected every two years, and 90 senators, who are elected for terms of six years each. There are 45 states, and each state is entitled to two senators, making a total of 90 senators. The congress constitutes the legislative branch of the government, and consists of the house of representatives and the senate. In the south wing of the capitol the house of representatives assembles, and in the north wing of the capitol the senate assembles. These two gatherings of statesmen originate all of our laws; but they must have the approval of the president before they become of force. It is the duty of the president to execute the laws, and he is the chief executive. It is the duty of the supreme court, consisting of nine judges who serve for life, to interpret the laws. Any law which passes both houses of congress and is approved by the president, takes effect at once. But, if the law shall be taken before the supreme court for its opinion, and the court decides that the law is not in accordance with the constitution, they call it unconstitutional, and thereafter that law ceases to be a law, and cannot be enforced.

Thus the three branches of our government consist of the congress of 446 senators and representatives as the legislative branch; the president, who is only one man, constitutes the executive; and the supreme court, comprising nine men, constitutes the judicial branch; and all three of these branches of the government must work in harmony or there would be anarchy.

On next election day the people will elect a president and vice president; and also 356 representatives, commonly called members of congress. They will also elect state legislatures, and those legislatures will elect senators to go to congress to fill vacancies. According to the constitution one-third of all the senators must be elected every two years, although each senator is elected for a term of six years. Consequently, the coming elections are of vast importance.

THE WAY HE SHOULD APPEAR.

The supreme court is made up of nine judges who are not elected by the people. The president appoints the judges for the supreme court, with the consent of the senate; and no judge can serve who is not confirmed in his position by the senate. Each of these nine judges, including the chief justice, is appointed for life. Consequently they are far removed from the plain people. The founders of this government deemed it wise to so constitute the supreme court, in order that those learned lawyers may be entirely free from the passions of passing events; so that they might be able to render righteous judgment in all cases. As a general thing, the judgments of the supreme court have justified the wisdom of the framers of the constitution.

The senators and representatives each receive a salary of $5,000 per annum. They are also paid ten cents per mile in going to Washington and returning to their homes. This is intended to cover all of their traveling expenses. They also have each a private secretary at $100 per month. The expenses of the congress, which is the legislative branch of the government, are very high. The vice president and speaker of the house of representatives each receive $8,000 per annum. The speaker of the house controls all legislation. The vice president is absolutely without power or authority of any kind except that, under the constitution, when there is a tie vote in the senate, the vice president may cast the deciding vote.

The nine members of the supreme court receive $10,000 each per annum, and the chief justice receives $500 additional, making his salary $10,500. These gentlemen serve for life, unless incapacitated by reason of age or infirmities. Each associate justice is entitled to retire from active service when he reaches the age of 70 years; but, if in health and vigor, a judge determines to remain in active service, he cannot be displaced.

The president receives a salary of $50,000 per annum. That seems like an enormous salary, but, as a matter of fact, it is no more than is paid to the British ambassador to this country. It is a small pittance compared with the salaries paid to the chief executives of other nations of the civilized world. The kings, emperors and rulers of European nations not only receive large annual incomes, but they have perquisites of all kinds. The president of this republic has no perquisites.

It is expected that out of his salary of $50,000 per annum a president should save enough to keep him comfortably in after life, for we never want to see an ex-president in want, or obliged to work when he is in the sere and yellow leaf of life. But how can a man in such a position save any money at all?

He must receive and entertain the representatives of all the nations of the world. He must give public receptions to the senators, to the representatives, to the ambassadors, ministers, consuls, and other foreign dignitaries. All of these state functions, which are necessary incidents of his office, must be paid for by the president out of his salary, and they are very costly. Moreover, on the first day of January of each year, the president gives a New Year's reception which costs not less than $1,000 alone. That is a starter for the expenses of each year. In accordance with the customs of the times and the high character of his guests, the president cannot give a state dinner which will cost less than $1,000, and they usually cost upwards of $1,500 each. There are not less than ten state dinners each year. These state dinners, in addition to the New Year's reception take at least $15,000 out of the salary of the president, leaving him actually but $35,000 for himself as a public man; one who is regarded as the ruler of the greatest nation in the civilized world.

OUR NEXT PRESIDENT.

The president is obliged to buy his own horses, keep his own carriages, maintain the expenses of his equipages and provide for his family besides. There is one private citizen in Washington who expends upwards of $50,000 annually in the maintenance of his family according to social customs. In New York and other large cities, there are men who expend more than $100,000 per annum on their families. And yet the president is expected to maintain his family better than the best. The man who receives $35 per month can not very well maintain a wife and family on the same style with his neighbor who earns $100 per month; and you will readily see that it is difficult for any man with a salary of $35,000 per year to keep up a social equality of appearance with the man who can afford to spend $100,000 each year out of his income. Thus you see that although the president apparently has a salary of $50,000 per annum it dwindles by comparison and by virtue of his circumstances. A millionaire may wear a shabby coat and give cheap dinners if he chooses to do so; but a president cannot wear a shabby coat, nor allow his wife to appear in public with anything but the best in the land. At all public receptions the president's wife appears by his side. She must not appear like a neglected wife. On the contrary she must have the best of everything; and the people want her to have the best, too.

Some of our good old-fashioned people, who believe in simplicity, will say that because others wear diamonds and silks, and costly ornaments, that is no reason why the president's wife should have such things. But if any good man who entertains such views will ask his wife or daughter for an opinion, he will find that the ladies will tell him that no woman can afford to go into society without keeping pace with the society in which she goes. It may not be exactly the kind of society the old gentleman would organize if he were creating the world. But it is the kind of society which exists, and the majority of us do not want our president or his wife to feel like paupers in the presence of princes. Rather would we have our president and his wife appear as princes, and let the gentry from abroad feel like paupers in the presence of the man and wife whom we have sent to the white house by the power of our votes cast at the ballot boxes, thereby expressing the will of a sovereign people, who, in their majesty and in the aggregate of their unity, are greater than hereditary sovereigns.

None of our ex-presidents has ever suffered financially, because all of them have been self-supporting, self-sustaining men before and after accession to the great office. The only living ex-president is a lawyer, and he recently received a fee of $15,000 in one case. In 1889 or 1890, while he was an ex-president, a lawyer named Grover Cleveland received a fee of $10,000 for arguing a case before the supreme court.

SMITH D. FRY.

Unanswerable Questions.

Mr. Fussy—I don't see why you wear those ridiculous big sleeves, when you have nothing to fill them!

Mrs. Fussy—Do you fill your silk hat? —Tit-Bits.

And Feel Them, Too.

"What a cramped hand Ethel writes lately?"

"Yes, she must take unusual pains." —Detroit Free Press.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

The Portland Range has duplex grate and ventilated oven door. 8000 are in use.

Stock Taking Opportunities

—as you know we offer them every year just about this time. 'Tis a season when every line in every part of store is decreased to smallest possible point. But the present Stock Taking Sale exceeds anything ever held in the past—make a note of prices, and see if we're not right.

BEDROOM SUITS

head the list - during sale, will offer this Bedroom Suit - one bed, dresser and wash stand, two chairs, one rocker, towel-rack and stand, one woven wire spring, one mixed mattress, two pillows, one bolster, one quilt, 14 pieces in all, $23.00 for entire lot - this special has NEVER been equalled. We've fully 50 other Bed Suits - ALL reduced

Here is the suit that's sold with 11 other pieces, for $23.00

PARLOR SUITS

100 different patterns - not one overlooked in this sale - all well made, new and pretty.

$25. Suits to $17. $40. Suits to $30.
$50. Suits to $35. $75. Suits to $50.
$125. Suits to $75.

DINING FURNITURE

Cane and leather-seat chairs, all patterns, 75c (were $1) to $10 (were $12)

Extension Tables:

$ 6. make $4.25 $10. make $7.00
$12. make $8.00 $50. make $30.00
Sideboards, $8.00 up.

CARPETS - Moquettes, 75c; Best Body Brussels, 90c; Velvets, 75c; Best Brussels 75c; other Brussels, 45c; All-wool Ingrains, 55c. About 50 rolls good, heavy Ingrains, formerly priced 65c and 75c, now at 35c and 39c yard. To "liven up things," we'll make and lay Carpets FREE at these prices.

ALL STOVE STOCK MARKED AT COST

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

CREDIT GIVEN TO ALL

NOTE NAME AMOS AND NO. 73 BEFORE ENTERING STORE

73 Market St. Near Plane Street NEWARK, N. J.

Telephone 580 Goods Delivered Free.

IS YOUR EYESIGHT DEFECTIVE?

There is no safer, surer or cheaper method of obtaining proper relief for over strained and defective eyesight, headache and so forth than to consult this Specialist. The happy results from correctly fitted glasses are a grateful surprise to persons who have not before known the real profit to themselves in wearing good glasses. No charge to examine your eyes. All glasses guaranteed.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,

EYE SPECIALISTS.

H. A. STILES will be at 107 East Front street, Dunham's real estate office, every THURSDAY, from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Powlison & Jones,

Dealers in

FURNITURE,

149 and 151 E. Front St.

The Better the Food The Better the Health.

MORAL

Use my White Lable Canned Vegetables.

California Naval Oranges. Tangerines. Table Apples.
Preserved Fruit. White Grapes and Lady Apples.

G. W. ROCKFELLOW,

The Park Avenue Grocer.

W. J. STEPHENSON,

The Caterer,

Has RESUMED business again at his old stand,

146 NORTH AVENUE,

Where he will be pleased to see his many friends and former customers.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street

Time-Table in Effect NOVEMBER 15th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59 7 35, 7 50, 7 58, 8 00, 8 20, 8 38, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 37, 11 10 a m; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 03, 4 35, 5 04, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30 5 36, 7 01, 8 13 9 20, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 00, 3 00, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday 4 30, 7 30, 8 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 39, 6 59, 7 50, 8 03, 8 33, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 11 10, am; 12 03, 1 15 2 09, 2 32, 3 13, 3 51, 4 48, 5 32, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28 p m, Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 36, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 18, 7 55, 8 35, 9 03 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 35 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 25, 5 42, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30 11 25 a m; 1 10, 1 25; 2 50, 4 05, 5 40, 7 20, 9 20, 10 2 Passengers for Newark please change car at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 3 11, 3 25, 5 36, 4 36, 5 03, 5 16, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p m; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 3 03, 3 43 5 14, 6 35, 10 36, 7 16 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 30, 7 36 7 45, 8 19 9 03, 9 48, 11 45 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 2 35, 4 25, 5 38, 6 08 6 35, 8 07, 8 50, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 35, 9 45, 10 45 a m; 12 08, 1 30, 5 10, 6 35, 7 55, 8 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m., 12 46 P. M., 4 55, 5 18, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 9 55, a m; 3 05, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 54, a m; 12 32, 4 04, 7 05, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 52 a m; 6 30, 7 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 54 a. m; 5 03, 8 15 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

3 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

5 03 p. m., way for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

4 35 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor Allentown Mauch Chunk Scranton, Wilkesbarre Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 30 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 14 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m. 1 15, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, p. m. Sunday. (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 13, 10 04, 10 27 a. m 1 15, 3 12, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m.; 1 15 3 51, 5 32 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37* 1 17 night. Sundays—5 17, 5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14* p. m., 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m. 12 46, 2 17 2 32*, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14*, p. m., 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a. m., 2 17, 5 34*, p. m., 1 17. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, p. m., 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect December 2d, 1896.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7 44 a. m. Daily (Sundays 8 01) Local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m 3 34, 5 22, 7 32 p. m. daily except Sunday, Local for Bound Brook.

11 54 a. m. Daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday, "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

1 44 p. m. daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

2 34 and 4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6 25 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

8 22 and 9 54 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9 32 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn-Local-6 49, 7 15, 7 43, 9 40, a. m. 2 29, 4 45 and 6 40 p. m. Sunday 9 03 a. m., 2 21, 6 08 p. m. Express—7 23, 8 27, 10 02 a. m. 12 14, 2 17, 5 11, 7 07 and 8 17 p. m. Sundays—7 23 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 48, 7 50, 10 05 a. m. 12 13, 2 33, 5 20, 7 07 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 10 a. m. 2 20 and 6 30 p. m.

For Metuchen only 6 23 p. m. except Sunday.

For further information consult Ticket Agent.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent,
S. Bethlehem, Pa.
CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
Philadelphia, Pa.
A. W. NONNEMASHER,
Ass't General Passenger Agt.,
South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt or Desbrosses street.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor
109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F

RUDOLPH KERSTING
BAKER AND CONFECTIONER
201–203 West Front Street.
TRY OUR NEW ENGLAND AND HOME MADE BREAD.
VIENNA BREAD A SPECIALTY.
Charlotte de Russe, Cream Puffs, Chocolate Eclair, all kinds of Pastry and Cakes, FRESH EVERY DAY.
Delivery to any part of the City or Borough at any time.

Did anyone tell you to buy SLIPPERS for Xmas Presents? If so, we have what you want at the right price.
Don't forget we have HANAN SHOES for Ladies.
A. WILLETT AND SON
NO. 107 PARK AVE.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,
—Dealers in—
Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c.
Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.
BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Call at J. F. MACDONALD'S
The Uptown Grocery.
And be convinced that it is our aim to supply the people with the best goods at the lowest prices and that we now have a full line of all the new goods necessary to make your order complete.

Musc Raisins,	3 lbs. for 25cts.		Figs,	10 cts.	per lb.
Table "	5 " " 50 "		English Walnuts,	15 "	" "
Currants,	3 " " 25 "		Paper Shell Almonds,	25 "	" "
Cal. Prunes,	2 " " 25 "		Pecans,	18 "	" "
" Apricots,	2 " " 25 "		Filberts,	15 "	" "

A choice lot of apples $1.75 a barrel.

JAS. R. BLAIR.
126 Park Avenue,
Has a fine assortment of Neckties, Mufflers, Umbrellas, Silk Handkerchiefs, Gloves, &c.,
Ready for the Holidays.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.
177 NORTH AVENUE.

SPECIAL SALE AT CRANE & CLARK'S,
Hat and Furnishings Store.
120 West Front street. Prices Cut on all lines of Men and Boys wear

Special-- We place on sale today a Big Line of Suitings and Trousers.
Trousers to order $3.50 worth $5
Suits to order $18, worth $25
SEBRING'S.

Bargains in Real Estate
For sale or to let.
MONEY to loan on first mortgage.
E. C. Mulford, BROKER.
Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.
Send for blank contracts. 169 North avenue
Armstrong Mulford, Assistant

EDUCATIONAL.
Miss Helen B. Dunham,
TEACHER OF PIANO AND ORGAN.
Pupil of a German Professor. For reference address, Prof John C. Bergner, Clinton, New Jersey. Call on or address Miss Helen B. Dunham, Dunellen, New Jersey. s 20 6m

Get Your Turkeys, Chickens and Ducks for the holidays at
W. L. & J. M. Smalley,
94 Somerset street.
Telephone Call, 42b.

P. H. ZIMMER,
Practical Machinist and Engineer,
Steam, Gas and Electric Contracting. Complete Power Plants Installed. Experimental work. General Jobbing. All kinds of repairing. EXCHANGE ALLEY, in rear of Trinity church. Bicycles built to order. 12

NEW DESIGNS
LARGE VARIETY.
HIGH GRADE
PARLOR HEATERS,
Stoves, Ranges and Oil Heaters
OUR PRICES ARE LOW.
Hardware, Heater and Furnace Work.
A. M. GRIFFEN.
119 E. Front st. Telephone 6

IF THE BEST WILL DO,
Try Royal Tooth Powder. 1 1-2-oz. can, 10c.; 4-oz. nickel-top bottle, 25c. It contains no acid or grit, and is recommended by all dentists of standing who will advise the use of Chalk and Castile Soap, flavored. Royal Borated and Carbolated Talcum, at 10c., is intended to give entire satisfaction and win your favor. Prepared by
ALLEN PHARMACY MFG CO.,
Plainfield, N. J.

LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLE.
Cured by Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy.

Mrs. S. R. Berry, Lebanon, N. H., says:—"I could not sleep nights, and the chills or shaking would follow, and I could do but very little of anything. I had to lie down a great deal, and my nerves were very weak and of no use. There was a terrible pain in my head, and I was almost a complete wreck of my former self. I was depressed in mind and spirits. My liver was swollen and my kidneys were very bad.

"I used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and I will say that this wonderful medicine is the greatest blessing that ever came into a family.

MRS. S. R. BERRY.

"It has done perfect wonders for me. After taking two bottles I could do more work than I had for over a year, and now I can eat better than ever, am strong again and have got back my former looks and good color."

If the bowels are constipated, use Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills with the Nervura.

Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Wall Paper
2cts. A Roll
Borders and Ceilings to Match, at
Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
201 Park avenue, corner Second street.
The Largest Supply House in the City.

Delicate Dress Goods.
Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redying. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.
Hillier & Co.,
19 North ave., Plainfield.
Telephone 30M

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No 2 Coal Only $3.75 'n the Y.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station

TOWNSEND'S
Marble and Granite Works,
SOMERSET STREET.
Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

FRANK DAY,
114 WEST SIXTH ST.,
(Near Park Avenue.)
Livery and boarding stable in all its branches all kinds of turnouts night or day at short notice. Horses boarded by day, week or month. Telephone No. 182. 9 10 tf

BENEFITS AMERICANS.

Lord Penrhyn Closes His Slate Quarries in Wales To Starve Out His Workmen.

New York, Jan. 11.—A special from London to the Sun says: A somewhat remarkable labor dispute in which Americans are interested is about to assume an acute form. Some time ago, Lord Penrhyn, owner of the world-famous slate quarries in Wales, getting the worst of a quarrel with his workmen, arbitrarily closed his quarries in defiance of the government, which had endeavored to make peace, and several thousand humble folks, in consequence, are now on the verge of starvation. The questions at issue involve the right of workmen to combine for self-protection, and it is not surprising to learn that the great trades unions have taken up the matter and intend to support his lordship's victims until the arbitrary aristocrat is brought to his knees. The American interest lies in the fact that now the Welsh quarries are closed the users of slates have turned to Pennsylvania as the only alternative district where they can obtain good material, and already very large orders have gone across the Atlantic. If the American quarry owners know their business properly, they ought to reap permanent benefit from Lord Penrhyn's asinine policy.

CONGRESS OF MOTHERS.

Much Interest Manifested in the Coming Meeting in Washington.

Washington, Jan. 11.—No little interest is being manifested in the forthcoming national Congress of Mothers which will assemble in this city on Feb. 17 next. Several ladies active in movements having in view the education of children will be prominent in the congress; among them being Mrs. Amelie Hofer, editor of the Kindergarten Magazine; Mrs. Zangster, editor of Harper's Bazaar, and Miss Anna Schriever, State Normal school, Michigan. Leading measures that will engage the attention of the congress will be those of inculcating in the minds of children principles of patriotism and humanity; the development of all qualities tending to ennoble the minds of the young, and a pure and thorough mental training generally. The first meeting of the congress, which will open at the Arlington hotel on the date previously mentioned will be followed immediately after its organization by a reception to the congress by Mrs. Clevelaud, which will be given at 11 o'clock a. m.

AGAINST COOLIE LABOR.

Several Japanese Shockingly Treated by a Vigilance Committee.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 11.—A crusade against Coolie labor has been inaugurated at Orangevale, a citrus colony in the southeastern part of this county. C. G. Roos, an orchardist, employed six Japanese on his place and late Friday night fifteen citizens, with gunny sacks over their heads, seized the Japanese and placed a rope around the neck of each and took them to a big oak tree. There they were strung up and left hanging until life was almost extinct. The Japanese were then lowered, and when they revived the hanging process was repeated several times. The Japanese were then forced to march out of the settlement, and warned never to return, on penalty of being hanged until dead. Roos, the employer, remonstrated at the outrage, and then a rope was thrown about his neck with a threat to hang him if he interfered or employed any but white laborers on his ranch hereafter.

Washington Senatorial Struggle.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 11.—The state legislature which assembles to-day at Olympia will chose a successor to United States senator Watson C. Squire. Indications point to a bitter contest. Judge George Turner of Spokane, free silver republican; Richard Winser of Seattle, populist, and Senator Squire, free silver republican, are leading candidates, and several dark horses are being groomed. The legislature stands on joint ballot: 15 silver republicans, 15 democrats, 56 populists and 25 republicans, with one contest between a populist and straight republican.

Damrosch Unsuccessful in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Jan. 11.—Mr. Damrosch's short season of Wagnerian opera, which closed Saturday night, was a failure. Only three performances were advertised and one of these was not given because of the few people in the house. Mr. Damrosch was disgusted, and before leaving expressed his opinion of Baltimoreans. He said the people did not patronize grand opera because they were too ignorant in musical matters to know what was good. He further said it was very different in New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

William C. Whitney's New Residence.

New York, Jan. 11.—The deed recording the transfer of the property on the northeast corner of Fifth avenue and Sixty-eighth street by Amzi L. Barber to William C. Whitney, former secretary of the navy, was filed Saturday. The consideration is $650,000 and the assumption of a $400,000 mortgage. Ex-Gov. Levi P. Morton holds a lease of the property, which expires in May.

Liliuokalani at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jan. 11.—Ex-Queen Liliuokalani and party spent Sunday afternoon driving about the city and seeing the sights. This is the queen's first visit to the falls and she was very much impressed with what she saw. Another trip was taken this morning and the start for Boston begun at 2 p. m.

Mrs. Phelps Visits Her Daughter.

Berlin, Jan. 11.—Mrs. William Walter Phelps, widow of the late United States minister to Germany, is visiting her daughter, the Countess von Rottengen, whose husband is curator of the university at Bonn.

PLATT FOR SENATOR

No Doubt of His Nomination at Albany Next Thursday

AND ALSO THAT HE WILL ACCEPT

Union League Club Members Preparing To Open Headquarters To Push the Canvass of Mr. Choate—Contests in Other States.

Albany, Jan. 11.—The proceedings of the legislature this week will be of much interest to the people and of personal political importance to the members. The selection of a republican candidate for United States senator will be the most important event. The senate patronage has already been distributed along the line adopted last year, but the members of assembly are anxious to know how they are to be taken care of in the distribution of the house patronage on Wednesday evening by Speaker O'Grady and Assembly Clerk Baxter. Both houses of the legislature will meet at 8:30 p. m., on Wednesday, when Speaker O'Grady will announce the standing committees of the assembly. The joint republican caucus of the legislators on Thursday night to nominate a successor to United States senator David B. Hill will be held in the assembly chamber and Thomas C. Platt will be the nominee. The talk that he will pass the nomination over to Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy or Charles W. Hackett, the chairman of the republican state committee, is not credited here. Mr. Hackett has engaged a parlor at the hotel Kenmore and is on hand to-day presumably to look after the details looking up to Mr. Platt's nomination as senator. Paul D. Cravath of the commitee of fifty of New York city, which has in charge the canvass of Joseph H. Choate fo United States, senator, has engaged rooms at the Kenmore hotel for Wednesday. Many members of the committee are expected to accompany Mr. Cravath and William D. Guthrie of the Union League club to Albany on that day and to work here in Mr. Choate's interest. What they hope to accomplish is not apparent to those familiar with the senatorial situation. The United States senator will be elected by the legislature on joint ballot in the assembly chamber on January 19. The arrangements to have the senator-elect meet over a thousand prominent republicans from this and other states at the state league of republican clubs' banquet in Harmanus Bleecker hall on the evening of January 26 are complete. Marcus A. Hanna of Cleveland, O., expects to be able to arrange his business engagements so he can attend. It is expected that the same joint caucus which selects the United States senator will also nominate a regent of the university to succeed the late Regent Bostwick of Ithaca. Chester S. Lord, the managing editor of the New York Sun, is the only republican candidate suggested for the office. Senator Raines' special excise committee will not submit its report for two or three weeks yet. The report will not be a lengthy one but will be accompanied by a bill containing suggested amendments to the Raines liquor tax law which experience has shown are needed to make its provisions entirely effective.

Peffer in the Lead for the Senatorship.

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 11.—Politicians who are in touch with the candidates for United States senatorship give Wm. A. Peffer a clear lead in the race. There will be 105 votes in the caucus. The lowest estimate of Peffer's strength on the first ballot is thirty-five. Next to him is ex-congressman W. A. Harris with eighteen. John W. Breidenthal has twelve; E. G. Little, Gov.-elect Leedy's private secretary, a free silver republican, and A. W. Dennison, a populist, have eight each. Other candidates have scattering votes of one to five each. The only democrat who has a material following in ex-senator John Martin, who will get some votes.

Idaho Senatorial Contest.

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 11.—The democrats and populists have determined to caucus separately, and there is little prospect at present of the breach between them being patched up. The Dubois men are sanguine and all indications point strongly to their success. The democrats have absolutely refused to support Claggett, the populist, and some of his own party have gone back on him so that he is considered practically out of the race. Neither Angell nor Cooper, populists, can command even the full support of their own party, all of which goes to improve the chances of Dubois.

Death of an Old Prison Guard.

Plattsburgh, N. Y., Jan. 11.—James J. Hart, for many years sergeant of the guard at Clinton prison, is dead of hemorrhage of the lungs. Mr. Hart was well-known throughout the state, having held prominent official positions at Albany.

Two Fishermen Drowned.

Gloucester, Mass., Jan. 11.—Schooner Lizzie Griffin just arrived from Grand Banks reports the loss of Alexander Nicholson and John Wilson, members of the crew, by the capsizing of a dory on Dec. 26, while attending trawls.

Chinese Consul at 'Frisco Resigns.

San Francisco, Jan. 11.—King Oyang, for twelve years Chinese vice consul, has resigned. His reason is that the salary is not sufficient to support himself and family with becoming dignity.

Cold Weather at Hamburg.

Hamburg, Jan. 11.—The weather here is very cold, the mercury registering 16 degrees of frost. So much ice has formed in the harbor that navigation is impeded.

THE PLAINFIELD CYCLE SHOW

WILL OPEN

TUESDAY JANUARY 12, 1897,

AT 132 NORTH AVENUE,

WITH A Full line of '97 WHEELS!

Call and see what we have.

W. H. ROGERS.

SPORTS

Sun Rises: 7:24 a. m.
Sun sets: 4:53 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be Lighted at 5:53 p. m.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

This evening the Park Club bowling team will go to Westfield and bowl the team of that place. The team and their friends will take the 7:03 train. It is hoped that a large number of friends will accompany the team and thus help them to remain at the top of the league. The Westfield team are very anxious to defeat their old rivals and will try hard to put up a winning game.

The first game in the bowling tournament of the Diocesan Union will be rolled in this city, tonight, between the team from the Plainfield Catholic Club and the St. Peter's, of Jersey City. The teams will be composed of five men each and two games will be rolled. They will be rolled on the alleys of the Plainfield Catholic Club on West Sixth street. The Plainfield team will be composed of Reville, Butcher, Carty, Keefe and Kenney.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

A game of polo on roller skates will be played in the Jersey Cycle Academy on Wednesday night between two teams of local players.

An exciting game of hockey was played on the New Market pond Saturday afternoon between teams of six players from Plainfield and New Market. The Plainfield boys won by a score of one goal to none after a hard fight.

Monte Scott in Mexico.

Clarence E. Teel, president of the Crescent Wheelmen, has just received a letter from Monte Scott, the well-known bicycle rider formerly of this city. Scott is now at the City of Mexico where he is showing the natives of that country what bicycle racing really is. Scott has about recovered from the trouble to his eyes from which he has been suffering for some time. He says that Mexico is not in it with the United States and hopes to return soon. Meanwhile he is doing very well there.

A Suit for Wages.

S. S. Swackhamer went to Flemington this morning to represent the plaintiff in the case of Reed against Smith, on contract, that comes up in the Court of Common Pleas of Hunterdon county today. It is a suit for wages and has been contested a number of times, and it is understood that this is the final trial. Harry Stout, of Flemington, is the attorney for the other side.

Flying Homing Pigeons.

A. C. Vail, of Grant avenue, and John James, of Clinton avenue, each released two carrier pigeons on Saturday afternoon from the corner of Liberty and West streets, New York. The four birds arrived together in Plainfield after making the trip in 57 minutes.

—The Catholic Club will hold a regular meeting tomorrow night.

NASAL CATARRH is a LOCAL DISEASE and is the result of colds and sudden climatic changes. This remedy does not contain mercury or any other injurious drug.

ELY'S Cream Balm opens and cleans the Nasal Passages. Allays Pain and Inflammation. Heals and Protects the Membrane from Colds. Restores the senses of Taste and Smell. Is quickly absorbed. Gives relief at once. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail.
ELY BROTHERS 56 Warren Street, New York.

CATARRH

COLD IN HEAD

PASSING COMMENT.

It is rumored that in the near future a very swell dinner is to be given in the borough. Just who are interested it is hard to tell at present, but it is understood that it is to be a ricochet affair.

* * * *

Beautiful aurora borealis was seen in the south-eastern sky early this morning. Ocean navigators style it the "sun dog," and say it is a sure indication of an approaching storm.

* * * *

At the Hotel Tuilleries on East Front street there is a curiosity in the shape of a group of Chinese lilies. The plants seem to thrive and flourish from a bowl of broken china and glassware, and their only nourishment is an occasional sprinkling of fresh water.

* * * *

The New York World devoted a page of its issue, yesterday, to publishing the opinions of Presidential electors as to whether or not they were in favor of having wine served in the White House. Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, recorded himself in the negative.

* * * *

Paul Ackerly, formerly a member of The Daily Press reportorial staff, and later editor of the Rockville (Conn.) Journal, is now in Washington acting as secretary of Congressman E. S. Henry, of Connecticut. Mr. Ackerly was succeeded as editor of The Journal by Charles S. Greer, also a former Plainfielder.

* * * *

Yesterday was a day that made one think of May weather, when as a matter of fact we are right in the midst of the winter season. For the first time in many weeks the bicyclists were out in force, and the city streets and country roads were liberally dotted all day long with the pedaling enthusiasts. It was a good day for the liverymen, too, for many a one enjoyed a carriage drive.

* * * *

One barber in the city, at least, believes in the scriptural admonition that man should rest one day out of the seven, and he hastens to say that the report that an attempt would be made to have the Common Council rescind the Sunday closing ordinance enacted at the solicitation of the tonsorial artists a year ago, is all bosh. It may be the desire of some of the barbers to work seven day a week, he says, but not all of them by any means.

* * * *

A great deal of guessing is being done at present by the knowing ones as to who Mayor Fisk will appoint at the next regular meeting of the city council, and the most amusing part of it all is that not one of them know who will be appointed by His Honor. A Daily Press reporter, in conversation with the Mayor, learned that the chief executive does not know himself who he will appoint, as yet. In view of this fact it can hardly be expected that outsiders would know the all-desirable movements on the checker board. It is true, however, that some of the office-holders are feeling rather shaky at present, for they do not know whether they will be retained or not. It is generally understood that the Mayor is in favor of some reform, but to what extent he will carry it is the all-important question. Some of the leaders in the party are very anxious that he should make a few changes. This they contend is essential to hold the party together, and it is true that great weight will be brought to bear on His Honor with this prospect in view.

The engagement of Miss May Dowd, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dowd, of Duer street, and Herbert C. McVoy, of East Front street, is announced.

DIVIDED THE SPOILS.

PLAINFIELD WON AT BASKET BALL AND SUMMIT AT BOWLING.

The Visitors Were Unaccustomed to the Gymnasium, But Put Up a Good Fight With the Pins—They Won Very Easy

The Summit Y. M. C. A. sent two teams over to this city on Saturday night for contests in basket ball and bowling with teams from the local association. The double contest resulted in a victory for each side. The home team winning at basket ball, while the visitors proved the better at bowling.

The basket ball game was played first, and was very exciting throughout. The Summit boys put up a rattling good game, but the strangeness of the gymnasium, where the game was played, rather handicapped them. They did not give in, however, but made the home team work to get every goal. At the end of the first half of the game the score stood 5 to 4 in favor of the home team. The second half was very hotly contested, but the local players seemed to play better than before, and the game finally ended with the score at 11 to 7 in favor of the Plainfield team. The teams lined up as follows:

SUMMIT Y. M. C. A.		PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A.
Wilson	left forward	Moraller, E
Lawton	right forward	Long
Nicoll	centre	Smith, G
Jones	left guard	Richards
Ahern	right guard	Moraller, E

In the second half of the game Hoceston, of Summit, played left guard on his team, while Marcley took Smith's place as centre on the home team. Nicoll did the brilliant work for the visitors, while the Plainfield forwards threw most of the goals for the home team. C. E. A. Heywood acted as referee and William Jessop as umpire.

The bowling match that followed was exciting, even if the scores were not very high. The first game was close, but Crane, of the local team, had a streak of poor luck and fell way behind his frame. Morris Sutphen was high man with 185. The Summit boys won by the close margin of 11 pins. The second game was not as close, and 33 pins separated the victorious Summit team from their opponents. The Plainfield boys bowled more evenly, but not as well.

The individual scores were as follows:

SUMMIT Y. M. C. A.

	1st game	2d game
Dean	115	142
Merriam	135	153
Butts	130	148
Johnson	159	110
Clayton	136	119
	675	772

PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A.

	1st game	2d game
Sutphen, M	185	133
Bristol	120	128
Smith	124	108
Crane	83	129
Sutphen, C	162	141
	664	639

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all Female Complaints, exercising a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, Constipation, Headache, Fainting Spells, or are Nervous, Sleepless, Excitable, Melancholly, or troubled with Dizzy Spells, Electric Bitters is the medicine you need. Health and Strength are guaranteed by its use. Fifty cents and $1.00 at Randolph's Drug Store.

With the advent of spring, Dunellen is to have a bicycle emporium and repair shop. Meeker Hetfield's store building on the main street is said to be the location decided upon, provided, of course, the rent is within reasonable bounds. This will be a great benefit to out-of-town bicyclists, who with punctured tires or other derangements, can have them repaired in the town.

Miss Anna Voilin, of New York, is the guest of her friend, Miss Etta Blatz, of Somerset street.

$35. Will buy you a First-Class High Grade BICYCLE.
Peck & Snyder and Winslow Skates from 49c. up.
PLAINFIELD CYCLE AND SPORTING GOODS CO.
147-149 NORTH AVENUE.
H. E. RIDER, President. C. C. LISTER, Secretary and Treas.

Turkeys, Chickens, Ducks,
All Jerseys.
Prime Beef, Mutton, Lamb,
Jersey Pork and Sausage.
We invite an inspection of the FINEST STOCK IN THE CITY before you buy elsewhere.
SMALLEY BROTHERS,
The North Avenue Butchers.
Near the Depot.

Laire's Prices Current for This Week.

Coal sieves	09c
Coal shovels	05c
Cover lifters	05c
Galvinized water pails	18c
Wash boards	10c
Wash tubs	47c
Asbestos mats	05c
Rolling pins	05c
Can opener	06c
Iron pot handlers	15c
Slaw cutters	23c
75 feet clothes line	18c
100 clothes pins	05c
100 clothes pins	09c
Purity oil heaters, best made	$3.98
Demorest sewing machine	$19.50

The J. P. Laire Hardware Co
Telephone Call 49 I. 9 3 1y
Branch office of
GEO. O. STEVENS & CO. COAL 747 WEST FRONT ST.

A New Year's Sermon

which has its practical side. During this year we're going to keep the same good qualities of goods which we have always been well known for. We are going to put as moderate prices on these goods as possible. It wouldn't pay us to do otherwise. We're in business to stay.

L. W. Randolph,
PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST.
No. 143 West Front street.
Telephone Call, 109.

PUBLIC BOWLING ALLEYS
AT
117 and 119 East Second Street.
C. M. ULRICH,
12 22 1y. Manager.

A LITTLE STORY!

About a special fine lot of Hamburgh Embroideries which has just been received by us and put on sale.

They were made by a large manufacturer in St. Gall, Switzerland, and were the odds and ends of the factory.

THE PRICE IS JUST 1/2

the usual price asked.

They come from the narrow edge to 10 inches wide, the work being 5 inches wide on some of them. You will find them on three centre tables on the right-hand aisle as you enter the store.

ONE TABLE IS 5 Cts a Yard,
ONE TABLE IS 10 Cts a Yard, and
ONE TABLE IS 15 Cts a Yard.

They had not been on exhibition only a short time when one lady's attention was called to them and she purchased about $15 worth in a few minutes.

They sell quick at sight. They can't be duplicated. If you want any of them come in quick.

Remember we are clearing out all our heavy winter stock now, and you will find plenty of

Real Bargains

all through the store. We are preparing another surprise for you, and in a few days you will know about it.

EDSALL'S.

The Strongest Claim

We make for the superiority of our

Demulcent Cream
OF Witch Hazel

is that the people who have used it say it is the most efficient

TOILET REQUISITE

they ever used. For chapped hands it is unequalled.

Price 25c a Jar.

Leggett's Pharmacy,
Y. M. C. A. Building. Telephone No. 4.

WE WANT FEET

to fit our shoes. The invisible cork sole ones are particularly appropriate this season of the year. We're selling them at right prices.

Doane & Edsall.
Store closes at 6, Saturday 10 p. m.

Last Edition. THE DAILY PRESS Last Edition.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., TUESDAY, JANUARY 12, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

PROGRESS, YET ECONOMY

Councilman Frost Interviewed About Streets and Sewerage.

MANY NEW PLANS TO BE ADOPTED.

The City Streets to Be Divided Into Districts and a Man Put in Charge and Held Responsible for the Territory—Employes to Be Paid Just What They Are Worth—None But Residents and Taxpayers to Be Employed—Great Improvements Are Also to Be Made About the City Farm.

There has been much interest in the plans of the streets and sewers committee of the Common Council for the coming year and they have been widely discussed, so it was that a Daily Press reporter visited Councilman George H. Frost, chairman of the committee, at his home on Watchung avenue last evening and interviewed him on the subject.

The Press reporter found the Councilman in his study surrounded by all the latest publications on the subject of municipal government, roads and agriculture. A large bookcase in the room was filled with authorities on the different subjects and a box of valuable clippings on sewers and sewage disposal occupied a prominent position on his desk. Maps of the sewer system and the sewer beds hung on the walls. Altogether it showed that the chairman had been thoroughly studying the subjects with which he has to deal.

Before responding to the inquiry as to the plans for the year, Councilman Frost said:

"There has been no general meeting of the committee as yet and some of the features of the following statements may be changed." Then he turned to the subjects of the interview.

"First," said Councilman Frost, "with regard to the sewers. The purpose of the committee is to make each part of the system self sustaining. In the pipe system, the city has to flush the pipes, the cost of which is the water needed to do it, which is bought from the Water Supply Company, and then the house connections to be made require a man to tap for the sewer connection and to inspect the work. These, with a few necessary repairs, constitute the cost of the pipe system, and it is expected to provide for that cost with the fees from the permits to connect with the sewer, which will be $3 instead of $1 as at present. An ordinance to that effect is to be introduced at the next meeting.

"On the sewer farm, the work to be done is the perfecting of the embankments, getting them seeded down, the planting of trees, shrubbery, and hedges along the borders, and the care of the sewage. To assist in paying for the expenses of this work, the entire area of the farm is to be put under careful cultivation in crops which will result in the greatest amount of money for the labor expended. A great deal was learned from the experience of last year so that the labor expended this year will be rendered much more effective than in the past and this result will be further enhanced by the use of well-selected tools and machinery. The special feature of this farm is its complete system of irrigation so that the crops are entirely independent of the weather conditions, as regards moisture. It is expected that after one or two more years experience the returns from the farm will be so large as to render this part of the system self supporting and thus relieve the city from any change of maintenance. This happy condition of affairs, however, is only made possible by the most intelligent supervision and increasing industry.

"During the present season the streets intersecting the farm will be put in most excellent condition and the sidewalk spaces will be planted so as to produce the best possible effect and enhance the general interest in the place. Necessarily, all the decorative features have got to be done on a very limited scale so as not to spend the city's money and a good deal of it will be done in the transferring of the present trees and shrubbery to different parts of the farm. It is intended to make Dunellen avenue specially attractive as it will, no doubt, be a favorite drive out to the farm. The city farm will be called the Mountain View farm and the citizens of Plainfield ought to realize that it is one of the prettiest landscapes in the country and well worth a visit, especially during the coming season when the entire farm will be covered with most luxuriant crops of corn and other grains.

"The general policy of the street committee will be one of street cleaning, of street repairs, and of relieving the streets from storm water. Very little, if any, new work will be done

CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.

STIR PEOPLE TO DUTY.

THAT IS THE IDEA OF A REVIVAL, SAYS REV. A. E. MAIN.

A Deep Spiritual Feeling Pervaded the First of the Union Revival Meetings Last Night—Main Points of the Sermon.

A deep spiritual feeling pervaded the first of the union revival meetings held at the First Baptist church last evening, and the large audience present gave evidence that the people of Plainfield are in no way anxious that the meetings should close.

After a short praise service led by H. J. Martin, prayer was offered by Rev. W. R. Richards. Rev. A. E. Main, pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church, then took charge, and preached the sermon from the text "Our Great Work; and the Great Source of Our Power for Doing." In part Mr. Main spoke as follows:

"It is the business of the Christian religion and the church to turn the world upside down. A few days ago I read an article in which the writer objected to revivals because they were not practical. Let us see whether that is true. A revival means that pastors, elders, laymen, and all Christians are to become more Christ like. Sin is the most unnatural thing in the world. The Holy Ghost is truly a person and it has influence.

"In the first place the Bible comes through the Holy Spirit. Paul said 'We speak not man's wisdom, but that which the Spirit teaches.' We must tell men that they are unrighteous. It not enough to patch up a little here and there. The Holy Ghost is the perfect and only guide into truth, and it is this agency that pours God's love into our hearts and gives us the power to rise above the depressing influence of disappointment. It is not by preaching, singing, ritual, church, building, or wealth, but by the manifested power of the Holy Spirit that we receive power, and we are made ministers by the setting apart of the Holy Spirit. We are a holy temple if God dwells within us.

"I believe there are tens of thousands of hungering souls tonight who are longing for Christ, the Way, the Truth and the Life. The glory of God is in the maifestation of His power.

"I urge a union that can be seen and felt, not a union which will swallow up denominational commonwealth, but a federal union for the overthrow of drunkenness and lusts, so actual that it will represent the ideal union which Christ had in mind. May we not humble ourselves while we wait and pray for this power and union."

Mr. Main closed his remarks with a short prayer, after which Dr. Barnes made a few remarks along the line of prayer.

A short time was then devoted to prayer and remarks by the pastors. Dr. Yerkes announced in closing that the meeting would be in charge of Rev. C. L. Goodrich, this evening, and he urged that every one present bring a friend. Dr. Richards then pronounced the benediction.

Previous to the union meeting held in the First Baptist church, last evening, the Christian Endeavorers of the city held a meeting in the Sunday-school room of the church, which was conducted by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell. The service was one of spiritual devotion and prepared the young people for the one which followed. Many short prayers and testimonies were offered, interspersed with appropriate hymns. After the service the young people adjourned to the main part of the church, where they formed themselves into a choir, and conducted the musical part of the meeting under the leadership of H. J. Martin and Organist Howard Case.

The young people's mee ing will be held every evening, except Wednesday evening, when each person will attend their own church service. This evening L. H. Biglow, Jr., will lead the meeting, which commences promptly at 7:30 and closes at 7:55.

Anxious to Increase Their Funds.

A meeting of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association was held yesterday afternoon. The question of holding an entertainment for the benefit of the association's treasury, which is rather low at the present time, was discussed. A committee composed of Charles Noble, Carroll R. Runyon, and Lindley Hillman, was appointed to arrange a programme which is to be presented at a meeting of the association to be held shortly when decisive action will be taken. The entertainment will be of a musical character and a High School quartette will probably be selected to give several selections.

—Thus far at the present term of court, only civil cases have come up for trial, and there are still several other cases to be disposed of before the criminal cases are brought on.

MONEY BEHIND THIS TALK

$25,000 DEPOSITED FOR THE NEW TROLLEY ROAD.

Chandler W. Riker, Who is Interested in the Plainfield System, Says the Road From Elizabeth to Westfield Will be Built

There was deposited with the State Treasurer yesterday morning $25,000 by Chandler W. Riker, who has been made president of a company which has been incorporated to operate a trolley line from the Central Railroad Station in Elizabeth to Westfield. The other officers of the company are Adrian Riker, brother of C. W. Riker, treasurer, and Colonel E. W. Hine, of Orange, secretary.

It is understood that Bernard M. Shanley, of Newark and John D. Crimmins, of New York, are also interested in the road. The capital stock is placed at $200,000.

The route of the new line will probably be as follows: From the Central Railroad arch up Morris avenue to Sayre street, to Chelton street, to Westfield avenue, thence along that thoroughfare to Westfield. The line will be about ten miles long, and will probably be double tracked. The overhead system will be used, and about fifteen cars will be run at first.

Chandler W. Riker was seen yesterday by a Newark News reporter. "Yes," said Mr. Riker, "I have been made president of the road, and we propose to push the affair along as quickly as possible. The matter of a road from Elizabeth to Westfield has been thought of for some years, but has never been fully projected until now. We are going there at the request of the property-owners and merchants who are clamoring for a line.

"We have had many assurances of good will. People have even offered to secure privileges for us in this line, and say they will bring over any opposition that there may be."

PROWLER AT THE PLAINS.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY AT EMORY'S HOTEL SUNDAY MORNING.

The Intruder Started a Dog to Barking and Mr. Emory Was Aroused and Shot at the Man as He Disappeared in the Dark.

An ever-watchful house dog probably kept Emory's Hotel at Scotch Plains from being robbed early Sunday morning. The family had retired at the usual time, leaving the dog in the lower part of the house, when at 12:30 o'clock the dog began to bark vigorously, and the occupants of the house were aroused. The night was not dark, and looking from his bedroom window Mr. Emory discovered a man who he describes as being either colored or wearing a mask, crouching under one of the rear sitting room windows. The fellow had evidently heard the inmates moving about, for he took to his heels and disappeared in the direction of Plainfield, closely followed by one or two well directed bullets.

An examination of the window showed that the thief had been working at the fastening, presumably with a putty knife or some other blunt instrument, and had he been left alone for a few minutes longer, would have undoubtedly gained admittance to the place.

HOW TO BE SAVED.

Primary Teachers' Make Inspiring and Impressive Answers.

There were thirty-seven members present at the meeting of the Primary Teachers' Union held yesterday afternoon. The lesson, "The Multitude Converted," was taught by Miss Shreve. The chief thought advanced was the effect of Peter's sermon on the multitude. To illustrate the lesson six members of the Union were placed side by side with their faces turned toward the wall. Each one was then asked the question "What Shall I Do to be Saved?" They then turned about and made a suitable reply to the question. This part of the meeting was very impressive.

The topic of the meeting was "Prayer," and Miss Rocap led the discussion, which was exceedingly interesting. The question as to whether a child should be taught a set prayer, or whether it should be taught to talk to God in a simple child-like manner, was thoroughly discussed, and it was decided that both forms should be used.

A Tin Wedding.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. and Mrs. W. J. Luckey, of West Second street, last evening, was the scene of a tin wedding, it being their tenth wedding anniversary. About twenty-five of their friends were present. The evening was spent by playing games, singing and general sociability.

—Tomorrow the great special sale of the Star Mills underwear for ladies and gentlemen at White's.

HONORED E. R. ACKERMAN

CHOSEN SECRETARY OF THE NEW JERSEY ELECTORAL COLLEGE.

The Member of the Eighth District Delivered the Official Vote to the Officers Prescribed by the Constitution.

The meeting of the New Jersey Electoral College was held in the Governor's room at the State House, Trenton, yesterday, and Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, elector in the Eighth Congressional District, was in attendance. A grand dinner, at the the residence of Colonel Robing, the elector from Trenton, preceded the meeting of the College. Vice-President-elect Garret A. Hobert and Senator W. J. Sewell were present at the dinner.

S. H. Grey, of Camden, was made president of the College and Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, was elected secretary. It devolved on Mr. Ackerman to deliver the three envelopes containing the copy of the vote, one to the messenger appointed to go to Washington, another to be taken to the Post Office and registered to the President of the Senate, and the last to be delivered to Hon. Andrew Kilpatrick, the United States District Judge at Trenton, and on this latter errand Mr. Ackerman went this morning. Those who were at the North avenue station this morning when Mr. Ackerman went away had a chance to see a copy of the vote of New Jersey with the signatures of the electors attached.

As youngest member of the College, Mr. Ackerman had the chance to be made made messenger to deliver the copy to Washington but he preferred the position of secretary which was offered him.

ON A PERMANENT FOOTING.

Charity Organized Aid Association Work Now Recognized.

One of the three regular meetings of the Charity Organized Aid Association was held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church last evening with President Tyler in the chair.

The report of the treasurer was read and showed that there is a balance of $117.49 in the treasury and all bills are paid up to January 1st.

Rev. G. Kennedy Newell reported for the district committee and the statement was very interesting. The printing committee was instructed to procure a proper record book for the use of the agent, together with blank forms required in the correspondence and office work of the agent.

The office committee was authorized to make suitable repairs, and to provide office fixtures and furniture to facilitate the work of the office.

The usefulness of the association is becoming more and more apparent to the churches and charitable organizations in town, and the disposition to use its information and general facilities is increasing. It is now felt that the association is on permanent footing and has the sympathy of all classes in Plainfield.

BICYCLISTS IN A SPILL.

Edward Voorhees' Nose Gashed and His Bicycle Wrecked.

Edward Voorhees, of the firm of VanZandt & Voorhees, of Park avenue, was in a bicycle wreck on Cole's hill, about 7 o'clock last evening. He was on his way from Scotch Plains at the time and some careless rider crossed the road directly in front of him, and Mr. Voorhees' wheel struck the other one directly in the centre. Mr. Voorhees was thrown head foremost against the other wheel and received a bad cut on the bridge of his nose, from which blood flowed profusely. The wheels came together with such force that the tire on Mr. Voorhees' machine was punctured and the wooden rim on the front wheel was almost completely torn off.

The rider who caused the wreck, it is said, works at Scott's, and he, too, was thrown off, but he did not wai to exchange either cards or address, and mounting his wheel rode away. Mr. Voorhees was obliged to hail Newman's stage, and thus convey his disabled wheel back to Plainfield.

Too Much For Bridget.

Roundsman Frederickson found a woman last evening who was considerably under the influence of an over dose of "applejack," and after a struggle landed her safely in one of the cells in the city lockup. She appeared to be a bad case and the Judge sentenced her to thirty days in the county jail this morning when she was brought before him. She gave her name as Bridget McCluskey.

Only a Short Term of Court.

The Grand Jury for the January term of the Union County Court will conclude its labors on Wednesday or Thursday. The term will be the shortest in years, and Judge VanSyckel will finish the civil cases, it is said, this week.

THE JUDGE WILTED HIM

A DEFIANT NEGRO SUDDENLY BECOMES MEEK-MANNERED ENOUGH.

Had Boarded a Central Passenger Train and Refused to Pay His Fare Beyond Fanwood—Took Judge Moore's Warning.

What portended to be a serious affair on train 35, leaving New York at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, while running between Elizabeth and this city, yesterday, was nipped in the bud by the timely appearance of Judge Charles K. Moore, of Fanwood.

At Elizabeth the train was boarded by a six-foot burly negro who preempted a seat in the smoking coach. He had a ticket to Fanwood which Conductor George Terrell took up immediately after leaving Elizabeth. But it was evident that the negro wanted to ride further than Fanwood, and he did not get off at that station.

When Conductor Terrell started on his trip through the cars, after leaving the latter station, he noticed that the negro was still on the train and insisted on his payment of additional fare to whatever place he intended to go.

The negro assumed an insolent demeanor and cocking his feet up on an adjoining seat, defiantly asked the conductor what he was going to do about it if he didn't pay, intimating by his manner that it was his intention of beating the railroad company for passage beyond Fanwood.

Conductor Terrell immediately saw that he had a hard case to deal with in a man who thought that his overpowering brute force would phase the railroad employes and impel them to let him ride rather than to have a scrimmage in ejecting him from a car.

Judge Moore had been an interested witness of the proceedings up to this point and here was where he stepped in and rapidly convinced the negro that he had better pay his fare or else get off the car peaceably.

The Judge got up and went over to the seat the negro was defiantly occupying.

"Make that man pay his fare or get off the train, conductor," exclaimed the Judge, as he carelessly sat down on the arm of the seat in which the recalcitrant man was seated.

This came in the nature of a surprise to the negro and he was just about to spit out another challenge to put him off if they could, when the Judge interposed with the remark:

"You know me, don't you?"

Up to this time it was evident that the negro had not recognized him, but at this interrogation he scanned the face of the Judge more closely, and his spirit of defiance wilted like the starched bosom of a shirt doused with water.

"Yis, sah," answered the negro in an apologetic tone. "I knows you; youse de gemmen dat sent me to jail for sixty days once. I'll pay, sah."

And the darkey paid his fare.

He got off the train at the North Avenue station in this city casting furtive glances at Judge Moore, as if he feared at any moment he might be cast into a bastile.

A SITE FOR THE NEW CHAPEL.

East Third Street Mission to Have a New Home by June 1st.

A few weeks ago The Daily Press gave the exclusive announcement that a chapel is to be erected on East Third street, under the auspices of the First Baptist church.

Since that time progress has been made in matters of arrangement. The first step taken was to purchase a lot, which is located on East Third street, a short distance above the property now used for the mission.

In a short time ground will be broken and the work of construction will begin.

It is expected to have the new chapel completed and ready for occupancy by June 1, 1897.

CHANGE OF CITY OFFICES.

City Clerk and Street Commissioner Take Those Formerly Occupied by Mayor.

A great change has taken place in the offices leased by the city, in the Coward building, on Park avenue, and it all happened last evening. The City Clerk, Treasurer and Street Commissioner now occupy the large front room formerly used by the Chief of Police and the Mayor, and the two latter officers have taken the offices previously used by the City Clerk and Treasurer. The change was a most needful one as the City Clerk should have more room.

Street Railway Employes' Dance.

The following committee has been appointed for the first annual ball of the Street Railway Employes, to be held at the Crescent Cycle Academy, Friday evening, February 5th: J. J. Mowen, president: M. J. Welsh, vice-president and secretary; T. McCarthy, chairman; J. J. McCormick, financial secretary; M. J. Nevius, treasurer.

CHURCH WORK ASSIGNED

THOSE WHO WILL LOOK AFTER MONROE AVENUE CHURCH DETAILS.

James McGee to Handle the Funds as He Did For the Chapel—Church Services to be Continued Without Any Change.

The first meeting of the official board of Monroe Avenue church was held at the church last night with a full attendance of the members. The pastor, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, was there as an ex officio member of the board.

The first business was the presentation of the rules governing the organization of the board. They were carefully read and adopted. As Miss Leora Wenzel is the secretary of the quarterly conference, she was elected to fill the same position for the board. Mrs. Hicks was elected treasurer of the poor fund and this department will be given special attention.

James McGee was chosen joint treasurer for the board and church. As a pulpit supply committee the following were chosen: John Praed, Adam Neumann, Walter McGee, James McGee, W. C. Burt. The music for the church will be in charge of Rev. W. C. O'Donell and Walter McGee.

It was decided to continue all the services of the church as heretofore and not make any changes. The matter of the church poor was referred to the stewards and they are to report at a later meeting.

According to the rules a meeting of the board will be held on the second Wednesday of each month.

The week of prayer services will be continued this week and the subject will be "Incidents in the life of Christ." Tomorrow evening there will be an illustrated talk by the pastor. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these meetings.

LEGALITY OF A WILL.

Original Destroyed by Fire and Duplicate Written With a Lead Pencil.

An interesting case is set down for a hearing in the vice chancellor's chambers in Newark today, and Judge Clark, of Scotch Plains, has been subpoenaed to appear and give testimony. The case is in relation to a will alleged to have been drawn by "Count" J. K. VanNest, relative to the disposition of certain valuable property near here, and which, it is claimed, was destroyed by fire along with his other effects some two years ago. "Count" Van Nest, it is said, has a duplicate of the alleged will, but it is written with a lead pencil, and the matter of honesty and integrity, Judge Clark says, will be carefully looked into. This morning some dozen or fifteen witnesses went from Scotch Plains to testify against the latter will.

TIED DOWN IN THE COURT ROOM.

The Case of Johan Johanson Shows the Need of a New Police Station.

The needs of a city hall with a suitable jail attached were made more evident than ever during the last few days. It has been necessary to keep Johan Johanson strapped to his cot for most of the time as he has been very violent when left alone in the cell. Johanson is the insane man who attempted to beat out his brains against the cell door, as was told in yesterday's Press. The only place that his cot could be put was in the little court room as the rest of the building was too small to accommodate it. There he has been kept until this morning when he was released from his continement and taken over to Morris Plains to be placed in the New Jersey State Hospital there. He was taken over in a two-horse carriage under the care of Sergeant Kiely.

Officers Installed.

The recently elected officers of Plainfield Council, No. 711, R. A., were installed last evening by Deputy Grand Regent Willing, of Hoboken, and Deputy Grand Regent Green, of this city.

The newly elected officers of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., were installed at the meeting of the lodge last evening.

At the meeting of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., held last evening, the newly elected officers were installed by Mrs. Snyder and Mrs. Demarest, past senior representatives of the Government Lodge.

Had No License for the City.

A man who gave his name as James Clancey was caught pedding without a license on Somerset, this side of the brook, last evening, by Patrolman Totten. He was locked up and arraigned before the City Judge, this morning, and pleaded guilty to the charge of peddling without a license. He explained that he did not know there was any ordinance against it and agreed to leave town at once. The Judge decided to suspend sentence.

ALL APPROVE IT

How the Anglo-American Arbitration Treaty Is Received.

ONLY EXPRESSIONS OF SATISFACTION

Congressmen form Every Section of the Country, Reflecting Every Shade of Political Opinion, Pleased at the Completion of the Treaty.

Washington, Jan. 12.—That the general principle of arbitrating international disputes finds favor with members of the house is evidenced by the ananimity with which the Anglo American treaty has received their approval. Representatives from every section of the country, reflecting every shade of political opinion, were spoken with. From each came expressions of cordial satisfaction. There was not a discordant note. Secretary Olney incidentally came in for a large share of praise which was as freely bestowed by republicans as by the members of his own political faith. The venerable Galush A. Grow, who began his congressional career in 1850, said with a merry twinkle of the eye when spoken with concerning the treaty, that the only excuse a nation had for going to war was when another refused to arbitrate its differences. Mr. Morse of Massachusetts characterized the treaty as being in the interests of humanity. "I believe," said he, "we have had the last war between the English speaking nations. The treaty will be a good object lesson to the rest of the world in encouraging them to enact similar treaties. It is a forerunner of the day predicted in God's word 'When men shall beat their swords into plough shares and their spears into pruning hooks, and nations shall not lift up the sword against other nations.' I consider it the most important act of President Cleveland's administration." Members of the foreign affairs committee of the house spoke in the same vein. Mr. Draper, rep., Mass.—"I heartily approve such treaties. The ultimate effect will be to extend the settling of international disputes by arbitration and tend to make war a thing of the past." Mr. Taft, rep., O.—"Such a treaty is admirable. There should never be war between the two great English-speaking nations. They stand for too much in our civilization. A war between these peoples would be a crime against humanity. Great credit is due to Secretary Olney for bringing the treaty to a successful termination.' Mr. Adams, rep., Pa.: "I consider it the greatest step that has been made in diplomacy during this century. With the two English-speaking peoples in accord on this subject all the civilized countries of the world must emulate their example." Mr. Moody, rep., Mass.: "The treaty marks an epoch when two such nations can come together and remove the little causes of irritation that may develop into war."

The Original Document.

The proposed treaty consisted of thirteen articles and covered twenty pages of special paper, on which all conventions are spread for original signatures. This paper is made distinctive by a continuous border of two heavy red lines half an inch apart and one inch from the margins of each sheet. Each copy was clearly written in legible manuscript without flourishes and the only ornamentation consisted of the red, white and blue twisted cord, with which all state department documents are held together. The copies were exact duplicates, except where references to the countries or the queen or president of the United States occurred, in which case the queen's name was placed in the British copy to be sent to London, while the president and the United States were mentioned first in the copy transmitted to the senate for ratification.

The Treaty Signed.

It was shortly after 12 o'clock when the British ambassodor reached the state department with Viscount Gough, one of his secretaries. He had earlier in the day received a final cablegram from Lord Salisbury authorizing the signature and had an appointment with Secretary Olney for consummating the negotiations. The secretary promptly met Sir Julian in the diplomatic room on his arrival and the two plenipotentiaries immediately presented their credentials to each other, Secretary Olney's signed as designated by the president of the United States, and Sir Julian Pauncefote's signed as designated by the queen on behalf of Great Britain. Sir Julian was given an extra broad pointed stub steel pen in a plain gutta percha holder and promptly wrote "Julian Pauncefote" on the British copy. The secretary of state wrote "Richard Olney" under the other signature and then repeated his signature in the first place on the American copy, after which the ambassador wrote his name below the secretary's.

Congratulations Follow.

A state department clerk lighted a taper and put a drop of sealing wax after each signature and affixed the proper seals, Secretary Olney's being the single letters "R. O," surrounded by a border cut in brass, while Sir Julian's bore his crest engraved upon an agate seal, which he brought with him for the purpose. The formalities having been completed, the secretary and Sir Julian shook hands, congratulating each other, and the British representative returned to the embassy, taking his copy of the document with him. The American copy was immediately sent over to the executive mansion and delivered to the president, who a little later sent it to the senate with a message asking for its ratification. The treaty covers eight pages and represents about 1,800 words.

Gov. Black's Confidential Stenographer.

Albany, Jan. 12.—Gov. Black has appointed Myron H. Hill of Jamestown as his confidential stenographer.

BRITISH PRESS VIEWS

The Arbitration Treaty Causes General Satisfaction

"A FAMOUS EVENT IN HISTORY"

Ambassador Pauncefote, Secretary Olney, the President and Prime Minister Salisbury Praised for Their Efforts To Complete the Treaty.

London, Jan. 12.—Commenting upon the signing of the arbitration treaty between Great Britain and the United States, the Daily News to-day says. "The 11th of January, 1897, will henceforth be a famous day in the history of Great Britain and the United States. It would be rash to regard the ratification of the treaty as a foregone conclusion, but we are inclined to believe that the senate will accept it. Anyhow, no delay in its ratification can undo the moral effect of the signing.' The paper lauds Mr. Gladstone as the pioneer of Anglo-American arbitration, and pays a tribute to Prime Minister Salisbury for using well the opportunity to put it on a permanent basis. In conclusion, it says that probably the greater honor is due to the obscure unofficial workers who familiarized the respective peoples with the idea of international good will and arbitration. The Standard will say that whether or not the senate approves the treaty the mere exchange of signatures constitutes a new departure in international relations, the interest and importance of which must be more than transient. The paper discusses with satisfaction the reassuring passages in the message, which, it says, indicate that the lessons of the panic which followed the Venezuelan message have not been thrown away. It declares that the treaty is the legitimate outcome of the state of feeling that that document evoked, and that temporary estrangement has been followed by a serious attempt to remove the possibility of misunderstanding in the future. The treaty, it concludes, is a striking evidence of the underlying sympathy of the nations. The Chronicle describes the signing of the treaty as "the event of the nineteenth century." It warmly congratulates Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador, and says: "Seldom has any diplomat had a task that made sterner demands on all the resources of his art. Never has a diplomat faced difficulties and overcome them with greater skill and persistence. The British people owe him their heartfelt thanks. We hope that the first occasion will be taken to mark her majesty's approval of his conduct. We trust also that the American people will recognize how faithfully and steadfastly President Cleveland and Mr. Olney have served the common cause of peace and humanity. Great Britain and the United States present to the civilized world an inspiring example of the greatest effort made since the world began to inaugurate the reign of universal peace."

Child Burned to Death.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 12.—Katie Smith, daughter of William Smith of Hamilton street, was burned to death yesterday afternoon. The little girl's dress caught fire from the stove and her mother became frightened and ran out to give the alarm. The child died before medical aid arrived. She was just one year old and was horribly burned.

Collided with an Ice Floe.

St. Johns, N. F., Jan. 12.—The British steamer Whickham, from Baltimore for Copenhagen, with a cargo of grain, has arrived here with her bows stove as a result of a severe collision with an ice floe. The vessel was struck by the ice on the port bow, crushing five plates and four ribs and badly shifting the cargo.

Extradition of Edward Taylor.

London, Jan. 12.—The American officers who came to London to secure the extradition of Edward Taylor, alias Arthur W. Piatt, charged with the murder of Jesse Tyree in Kentucky, expect that the papers in the case will be granted Thursday.

Electric Light Companies Consolidate.

Albany, Jan. 12.—The Little Falls Electric Light and Power company and the Little Falls Gas Light company have consolidated under the name of the United Gas and Electric company of Little Falls. The capital is $90,000.

Fourth-class Postmasters Appointed.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The following named fourth-class postmasters have just been appointed: New Jersey—T. J. McConnell, Menlo Park. New York—E. Moore, Galenville. Pennsylvania—W. J. Clark, Leoen's Corners.

John A. Hanley Not Guilty.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—The jury in the case of John A. Hanley, ex-traffic manager of the Santa Fe railroad, charged with having violated the interstate commerce law, returned a verdict of not guilty.

Lynn Public Building Contract.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The contract for the construction of the Lynn, Mass., public building has been awarded to L. L. Leach & Son of Chicago at $69,000.

Government Contract Awarded.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The secretary of war has awarded to Hughes Bros. & Bangs of Syracuse the contract for extension of the Buffalo breakwater, at $1,765,450.

Hamlin Resumes His Duties.

Washington, Dec. 12.—Assistant Secretary Hamlin of the treasury department has returned from Chicago and resumed his duties.

FEMININE FASHIONS.

New Notions in the Department of Woman's Dress.

Short fur jackets in mink, chinchilla, astrakhan, seal, etc., are very fashionable in bolero, Eton, Russian and similar styles. Slender, long-waisted figures look to advantage in fur bodices, but they are not safe wear, being much too warm for indoors, and when the wearer puts off her warm protecting fur for full evening dress, the great change in garments brings a risk to health that is undeniably great.

Not a few of the gray wool astrakhan chinchilla, and fine Persian lamb bodices are finished off with cerise velvet collars, with ceinture to match—a charming color relief to many faces. Another style shows a bodice of mink or otter lined with white satin, with a full vest of the satin striped with narrow gold braid, and finished at the throat with a band of yellow velvet and a fall of rich yellow guipure under the chin.

Tucks are still used on skirts, bodices and sleeves in many ways, and these can be made with far more effect than the simple style of decoration might be deemed capable of. The tucks may run wide or narrow, or both in conjunction; they may be straight or diagonal, in short, tucking a garment, like shirring it in smallest silk stitches, can be made quite a fine art, and the fashion prevails this season among the heaviest as well as the most diaphanous textiles.

Fashionable dressmakers both here and abroad are making most liberal use of artificial flowers that look exactly like nature's own, to decorate evening toilets, and not a few bodices are actually smothered with roses. Large soft blooms entirely without foliage are seen in many toilets, and the apron front introduced in demi-trained evening skirts is trimmed with rose garlands, or otherwise the flowers are arranged in Empire clusters and set on at equal distances down each side of the front.

Wrong trimmings, square tabs are much affected; revers and basques are finished with them; the hems of dress skirts are battlemented, and outstanding tabs are attached to straight collars and wrist frills. Most of these tabs are about 2½ inches long, and not more than two inches wide. They are attached as a rule, and are secured to a moderately wide band which slips inside the collar of the bodice. Sets of these decorations in white linen are made for the neck and sleeves, and when of this material, narrow lace insertion is let in about a quarter of an inch from the edge of the tab, and for dressy wear a tiny lace frill is added, but the plainer sets with the insertion alone are considered the most stylish.—N. Y. Post.

Yorkshire Pudding.

Three eggs, three cups of flour, sifted; three cups of milk. Beat the eggs, add the milk and then the flour; beat up well and pour into the pan with roast beef about one-half hour before the roast is cooked.—N. Y. Ledger.

—The visit of the czar to France cost the French government £[illegible]

Sleep

Induced by the use of coca, opiate or narcotic compounds is bad, decidedly bad. It undermines the health and shatters the constitution and the patient is steadily growing into a worse condition—often resulting in the terrible slavery and misery of the cocaine and opium habit. Sleep induced by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla may not come as quickly, but it comes more surely, permanently and is

Sweet

And refreshing because it is realized through nature's great restoring and rejuvenating channel—purified, vitalized and enriched blood. This feeds the nerves with life-giving energy and builds up the system and constitution from the very foundation of all health and life—the blood—pure, rich, red blood.

Refreshing

"I was generally run down last spring, appetite was poor and I could not sleep. Hood's Sarsaparilla built me right up, gave good appetite and I was soon able to get a good night's rest." G. F. WHITNEY, Merchant, Yeomans St., Ionia, Michigan.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1.

Hood's Pills cure liver ills, easy to take, easy to operate. 25 cents.

that cough or throat trouble may go to your lungs. What does that mean?

HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR

Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar isn't claimed to cure consumption, but it will often prevent it. A positive cure for a cough. Sold by druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

One Minute Late

It makes no difference whether you were one minute or one hour late, if you missed the train. Better get there on time, even if you have to wait. One hour early is better than one minute late. Delay costs thousands of lives each year. "Neglected colds" is the beginning of the story; and consumption is the end. Few remedies, and but little of them, cure in the beginning. Later, many remedies long continued, and tedious journeys, too frequently end in disappointment.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with the Hypophosphites soothes the cough, heals the inflamed membranes, and restores the parts to a healthy condition. This it does promptly and permanently, if taken in time. One bottle does more now than five would accomplish later on. If weak, pale, and thin, Scott's Emulsion will give you strength, color, and flesh.

"Just as Good" is not SCOTT'S EMULSION.

50c. and $1.00 at all druggists.

SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

J. C. Pope & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS,

110 East Front st., Plainfield, N. J.

THE GRANDVIEW

Meat Market.

George Egel, Manager.

Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

Edwin B. Maynard,

Hair Cutting and Shampooing.

Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

Honeyman's Private Tours.

Plainfield, N. J.

To Florida, February 9—Two weeks.
To Inauguration, Washington, March 3—Two days.
To Washington, Easter Vacation, April 6—Three days.
To Europe, June 30—Two months.

Climatic Extremes

OF

NORTH and SOUTH

are blended ideally at

OLD POINT COMFORT

AND

RICHMOND, Va.,

Thus making these the most desirable places for winter outings.

They may be reached delightfully by the luxurious and modern steamships of the

Old Dominion Line

Sailing every week day from New York.

Send for full information.

Old Dominion S. S. Co.

Pier 26, North River, New York.

W. L. GUILLAUDEU, Vice-Pres't & Traffic Mgr

12 17-6 m

A JEWEL.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear."
And many a gem by mortals here unseen
Are waiting to be worn by some sweet fair.
In our well-stocked cases now are laid
Jewels that shine with scintillating fire;
In the latest fads and fashions made
That the connoisseur in jewelry must admire.
Design and workmanship are of the best.
So lovely woman do not hide
Those charms that Nature's sweet behest
Endows you with, but with woman's pride
Enhance your beauty as you see best.

COLLIER,

103 Park Ave. Established 1869.

THE BEE HIVE.

Men's Unlaundered Shirts

Lot 1—The "Cast Iron Shirt," made of good heavy muslin, good 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—38c.

Lot 2—New York Mills muslin, 3-ply fine linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—48c.

Lot 3—Our New York Mills shirt, made of New York Mills muslin, 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced ront and back, continuous facing and hand-made buttonholes, equal to the best custom-made shirt—69c.

Boys' unlaundered shirts, 38c.

Men's laundered shirts 50c., 75c and $1.00

LOUIS CALLMAN

222 West Front Street.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS IN ENDLESS VARIETY AT HARPER'S,

411 PARK AVENUE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Boots, Shoes & Rubbers.

AT

FORCE'S,

119 West Front St.

Formerly 129 Park Ave. 29 tf

L. A. HUMMER'S

VARIETY MARKET.

Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.

130 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

Rushton, Hansen & Luthman,

PAINTERS AND PAPER HANGERS,

Office and shop Sycamore and 4th sts.

Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

Potter & Kellogg,

DEALERS IN

Lehigh Valley Coal.

Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard—At Mt. Pleasant, Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1-y

The Metropolitan Boarding Stables

C. V. D. CORLE, - - - - - - Proprietor

No. 138 East Second street. Livery and Boarding and Sale Stable. Horses boarded by the day, week, month or hour. Reasonable prices. 11 17 1y

HERMAN KELLER.

Manufacturer of and Retail Dealer in

Cigars, Tobacco, etc.

"PRIDE OF PLAINFIELD" CIGAR a specialty 116 North avenue. 9 26 tf

MRS. L. ADAMS,

MILLINERY.

Ready made gowns and dresses ordered from samples. All the latest novelties of the season.

114 EAST FRONT STREET.

BAKERY,

No. 132 Park Avenue.

Fine Bread, Cake, Pastry and Pies of all kinds. All orders promptly attended. A share of the public patronage is respectfully solicited.

S. H. Schleif, Proprietor.

1 7 1y

E. D. BARRETT,

No. 148 East 5th St.

Sole Agent for the

Richmond Heaters.

STEAM and HOT WATER. SANITARY PLUMBING

NEUMAN BROS.,

Grocers,

Corner Watchung Ave. and 5th St.

ALEX. LUSARDI,

211 West Front Street,

Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores. 9 9 1 Year

Joseph Carbone,

128 NORTH AVENUE,

Whol sale and retail dealer in choice fruits nuts, etc., all kinds of temperance drinks. Closed Friday night, sun down. Open Saturday evening at sun down. 12 14 1y

H. Eggerding,

131 Park ave., Manufacturer of the Celebrated

C. O. D. CIGAR.

The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

GEO J. TOBIN,

187 North Avenue.

Practical Plumber.

Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.

Telephone Call 1 9 8

L. L. Manning & S[illegible]

STEAM

GRANITE WORKS,

Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.

Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A. H. ENANDER,

Sanitary Plumbing,

Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.

Contractor for sewer connections,

210 PARK AVE.

Jones & Co.,

EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.

Cesspools Fed

BRAIN FOOD.

Edw. P. Thorn,

RETAIL DEALER IN

Fish, Oysters, and Clams.

Terms C[illegible] Daily Goods Delivered

COL[illegible]NGTON'S

Furniture and Freight

EXPRESS.

Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country. Charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed. Orders may be left at [illegible]ttel's music store, 221 Park ave.

P. MARKEY, Bakery,

144 PARK AVENUE.

A full assortment of bread, cakes, and pies fresh every day. Fig and malt bread a specialty. 2 17 tf

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield January 11th, 1897.

Burke Marg't	Klenck Edward
Chase Chas A	Lavery John
Chase Geo B	Noe Miss Sarah
DeMary Mrs	Ogden Mrs Mary
Edwards Mrs Wm A	Phraner Mrs Wm W
Harkins Mrs John	Runyon Jo-
Hall Mrs Benj E	Runyon Mrs E C
Hoagland Mrs Eliz'th	Ryan Maggie Ann
Huffman Wm	Taller Miss Eda
Hubbard Mrs Alice A	Towns nd Mis Phœbe
King Mrs Chas	Waring Mr & Mrs John

The Largest Selection of

Wall Papers

—AND—

Painter's Supplies

in Plainfield.

Woolston & Buckle,

141-145 North avenue.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital..... $200,000.
Surplus and Profits..... $90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. RUNYON, Ass't "

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Corlell,
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil,
Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Rushmore,
J. W. Johnson, Wm. B. Codington.
F. S. Runyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

Christmas Wreaths Roping Holly, etc. Also, Palms,

Rubber Trees, Begonias, Ferns Floral Designs, House and Church Decorations. Southern Smilax at 15 days notice.

DENTON'S.

131 Hillside avenue.

A GOOD FIRE

will make cheerful many of the evenings of the New Year. We'll sell you the coal—good coal—and plenty of it. We don't sell you dirt for coal. We don't sell you short measure. We want your coal trade always.

D. C. IVINS & CO.

Coal, Lumber, &c. 301-311 Watchung Ave.

CLEANER COAL.

[illegible] A. RHEAUME,
[illegible]ON.

Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,

[illegible]s the public to inspect the operation of their newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which they confidently believe enables them to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.

Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal

in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.

Kindling Wood a Specialty.

Rushmore & Co.,

WATCHUNG AVENUE,
COR. FOURTH ST.

Lumber yard and Planing Mill.

Large and full assortment of lumber including 21 varities from Hemlock to Mahogany always in stock. Window frames, moulding, sash, doors and blinds. Hardwood floors a specialty. Turning and scroll sawing. We can make anything. Call and see us. Satisfaction guaranted.

"It is Making a Hit."

FEIGENSPAN'S Finest Pale Ale

IN BOTTLES, and

FEIGENSPAN'S SAAZER BEER

At Hotel Grenada Bar.

The Plainfield Confectioners,

112 West Front street.

Candies from 10, 15 and 20 cents per lb. up. The very best goods. Made daily on the premises. Formerly known as the New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Comp'y. 9 9 1y

CITY HOTEL,

Plainfield, N. J.

Corner Park avenue and Second street.

Stables attached. I. E. Beerbower, Prop

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL,

No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.

Harry C. Adams, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

Opportunity for Safe and Profitable Investment.

The N. J. MUTUAL REALTY COMPANY.

(Incorporated.)

Have acquired 200 acres of land with 6,000 feet frontage on C. R. R. of N. J. and Lehigh Valley Railroad at a cost of $22,500 and propose selling stock to small investors in $100 shares at par to pay for property. Already negotiations are pending to locate first-class manufactories along railroad front.

This plan will enable the Company to sell building lots at low prices, and all profits derived from sale of this property is to be divided among stockholders.

All stock payable to Treas. of Company on or before April 1, 1897. Already upwards of $10,000 stock have been subscribed for.

The following gentlemen are officers and directors of the Company.

A. D. Thompson, Sylvanus Ayres, Jr., Peter Egenolf, President Board of Trade, Elizabeth; P. H. Oakley, Insurance Broker; S. D. Drake, Richard H. Brokaw, cashier First National Bank, Bound Brook; W. W. Smalley, firm of L. D. Cook & Co.

For prospectus and full particulars call or address,

N. J. MUTUAL REALTY CO.,

ROSS BUILDING. BOUND BROOK, N. J.

Or First National Bank, Plainfield and Bound Brook. 1 4 1w

Have You Bought Your OVERCOAT?

If not, come to WERNER'S CLOTHING HOUSE and take advantage of the CUT SALE now going on.

STOCK MUST BE SOLD.

Hats and Furnishing Goods a Specialty.

H. WERNER, Clothier,

No. 206 West Front Street.

COLD WEATHER GOODS

AT

PUTNAM & DEGRAW'S

Underwear, Gloves, Hosiery, &c.

Agents for the "Golden Rule" CLOTHES RACK and IRONING TABLE, $1.00 each.

A. LUSARDI,

120 NORTH AVENUE.

Wholesale and Retail

Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds of Confectionery, Peanuts, Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets

NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE

Sewer Connections.

DAVID BOWDEN,

General Contractor. 109 Park ave., Plainfield N. J. Carriage drives macadamized, sewers and sewer connections promptly made, lawns carefully restored. All work done in a practical and skilful manner.

28 YEARS EXPERIENCE.

Best of references furnished. Charges moderate 4 18 t

C. W. LINES,

Mason and Builder

Plainfield, N. J.

Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly to

PEARSON & GAYLE,

Carpenters and Builders.

Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.

All work promptly attended to.

HOTEL TUILERIES !

AND ROGER'S RESTAURANT,

139-141 East Front street.

ROOMS TO LET. CATERING.

30,000 CIGARS

of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of the city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue,
Plainfield.

8 15 tf

E. H. Holmes,

Dealer in

Coal & Wood.

Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

Telephone 49-A.

William Hand & Son.

STAGES

For Parties, etc., 518 Park ave

Within the reach of all.

ACCIDENT TICKETS

THE INTER-STATE

Casualty Company of New York gives SIX MONTHS' insurance

$1.000 for $1.00,

to men or women

between 18 and 60 years of age, against accidental death. $100,000 deposited with the Insurance Department of the State of New York for the security of the insured.

For sale at office of

Honeyman's Private Tours,

181 North Ave. Plainfield, N. J.

6 25-6 mos

McCullough's

STEAM MILL,

21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.

B. H. McCullough, Prop.

Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,

Real Estate and Insurance,

197 North avenue

W. N. Pangborn,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER,

Residence, 33 Linden Ave.

Personal attention. Prompt service.

1 14 tf

Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

PIANOS

If you want a deep, clear, rich tone, and the best material, buy your PIANOS at W. R. BROKAW'S, Piano Parlors, 311 Madison ave. Bargains in second-hand instruments. Parlors always open. Tuning and regulating a specialty.

Your Valuables

will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

J. W. VanSickle,

FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.

Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.

Philadelphia Scrapple.

REVERE HOUSE

PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD New Jersey.

Families accomodated for the fall and winter months at greatly reduced prices.

The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed

GEO. B. DE REVERE.

A slice of mince pie made of the right mince meat is a lunch in itself—an epicure's lunch.

NONE SUCH MINCE MEAT

is the right mince meat. Wholesome, fresh and delicious. For pies, fruit cake and fruit pudding. Sold everywhere. Take no substitute. Send name and address for booklet, "Mrs. Peppins' Thanksgiving," a humorous story.

MERRELL-SOULE CO., SYRACUSE, N. Y.

HUMOROUS.

—"Your life has been one of many reverses," said the kind lady. "Yes'm," answered Dismal Dawson, "'bout every place I turn up I git turned down."—Indianapolis Journal.

—"And you broke off the engagement?" said one young man. "Yes—not brutally, you know. But I managed it." "How?" "Told her what my salary is."—Washington Star.

—Excited Traveler—"Get me to the station in three minutes and I'll give you five dollars!" Driver—"Can't do it, sir; ye might bribe me, but ye can't corrupt me horse."—Detroit Free Press.

—Judge (to defendant)—"You are accused of having terribly beaten two night watchmen last night. What tempted you to do this?" Defendant—"My feeling of humanity, judge; because for one night watchman that clubbing would have been too much."—German Exchange.

—Hayseed—"Where is the durn gas-light in my room?" Hotel Clerk—"You will find the electric light near the window." Hayseed—"Do you mean that old fish-hook in a glass case? I turned the crank, and the fish-hook got red-hot. Then I shut her off for fear it might bust."—Harper's Bazar.

—The sightseer was going through the prison. A liberal fee had procured from the jailer many tales of the various crimes of the prisoners. They had passed 72 cells, and, stopping before the next, the sightseer said: "And why was this poor wretch convicted?" The jailer paused. "I never," said he, glancing up at the number over the door, "speak of the crime of '73."—Harvard Lampoon.

A NEVER-FAILING MAGNET.

Why the Crowd Gathered and Remained for the Show.

For days beforehand the billboards of Queen City had been aflame with posters announcing the nature of an entertainment which was to take place on the outskirts of the city on the afternoon of June 12, and which was heralded as the greatest effort to which the professional entertainer could aspire.

Great were the excitement and joy when the news became known, for what man had not cherished the fond hope that he would some day behold this wondrous sight?

When the day came round the residents of Queen City turned out en masse and, with beaming faces that told of cares for the once forgotten, they repaired to the rendezvous on the outskirts of the city. Arrived there, they found a square inclosure of great area which had been boarded to a height of some 20 feet, added to which, after one had been successful in the mad rush for admission, one beheld a three-story brick house in the center of the inclosure. This house was all that the arena contained, and as every spectator made a point of getting as close to it as possible, it was evident that it was to figure prominently in the day's spectacle.

The grounds were quickly packed with an eager, surging multitude that impatiently awaited the happening of what was destined to be the greatest event in Queen City's history.

"Hush! It has begun!" As the word is breathlessly passed, everyone is on tiptoe, with eyes riveted on the brick house.

Five, ten, fifteen minutes pass. During this time the immense throng stands transfixed with awe and admiration.

Then comes the rude awakening from that blissful repose; for the block and tackle have done their work, and as the fireproof safe disappears through a second-story window the mob breathes freely again and then sallies forth to continue the battle of life.—N. Y. World.

WHERE NOAH GOT HIS PITCH.

Natural Spring Which Enabled Him to Make the Ark Water Tight.

An English explorer has recently reached Hit, in Syria, the locality in which Noah dwelt. Here he found a remarkable group of bitumen springs, says the New York Journal.

From these springs, he says, it is probable that Noah obtained his supply of material to "pitch it within and without." In a basin, undoubtedly of volcanic origin, a spring of warm water bubbles up, and with the water comes the bitumen or pitch, in a plastic form, of the consistency of rather moist putty; and the Arabs gather it by simply scraping it off the surface of the water with their bare hands and pressing it into panniers carried by patient little donkeys, who then struggle up the rocky sides of the basin and take the material off to the boat-building yards, where it is used for covering the boats and gouphas, after undergoing a certain refining process.

The bitumen is continually rising, but owing to the formation of the basin into which it rises with the stream very little of it can escape, and it remains floating on the surface of the water till taken off by the Arabs. The water itself tastes slightly of sulphur, is quite warm and apparently charged with some mineral which it deposits in its rocky bed as it flows away (through channels and crevices which the bitumen cannot pass) from the basin, coating it with a lovely lilac color, which further down the stream becomes a "peacock" blue.

WORK IN CONGRESS.

The Important Business Before the Senate and House.

Washington, Jan. 12.—No action will be taken to-day in the senate on Mr. Mills' resolution recognizing the independence of Cuba, but to-morrow Mr. Bacon will speak upon it. Senator Mills' speech on his resolution yesterday is still being vigorously discussed, several members being highly complimentary in their remarks concerning the effort. Much of his speech was argumentative, and was supported by precedents in the cases of the Spanish-American republics and the republic of Texas; but the principal part of it, and that which attracted the greatest attention, was his severe criticism of the president and secretary of state and his angry denunciation of the Italian and Spanish statesmen who had ventured to suggest an interference by European powers with the government of the United States in case of the recognition of Cuba. In the course of his invectives he derided Italy as a power whose symbol of greatness was a monkey and organ grinder. Several other senators took part in the discussion, but only on the question of exclusive power of the president to recognize foreign powers. Senator Allison, rep., Ia., appeared in the chamber for the first time this session, taking his seat just as Senator Mills was complimenting him on his eminent qualifications for the office of secretary of state, in Mr. McKinley's cabinet. Mr. Allison smiled benignantly at the suggestion, but gave no further sign as to how far it coincided with his own views. A resolution on the subject of a violation of the eight-hour law on the part of contractors with the navy department, on work in Brooklyn, N. Y., was the subject of a resolution offered by Mr. Allen, pop., Neb. He was informed by Mr. Chandler, rep., N. H., that the law only applied to work done directly for the government and not work done under contract. The house bankruptcy bill was made a special order in the senate for Monday, Jan. 25. An argument was made by Mr. Proctor, rep., Vt., in favor of a proposed constitutional amendment, making the presidential term six years and making the president ineligible for re-election; also making the term of representatives in the lower house of congress three years.

House of Representatives.

Fate overtook the Pacific railroad refunding bill in the house yesterday. It was defeated by a majority of sixty-six votes and its supporters were even prevented from sending it back to the committee for reconsideration. The motion on which the decisive blow was dealt called for the engrossment and third reading of the bill. When the roll had been called and the result was announced the opponents of the measure indulged in some hand clapping but made no attempt at a more noisy demonstration. The final vote was 168 noes, 102 ayes. The house devoted the remainder of the day to the military academy appropriation bill and to measures brought forward under a call of committees. The academy bill was disposed of in short order, with amendment. Among the other bills passed was one fixing the minimum limit of capital for national banks in cities and towns between 50,000 and 3,000 inhabitants, and another extending until January 1, 1902, the time for the completion of the Blackwell's island bridge over the East river at New York city.

Death of Henry Peck Strong.

Hartford, Jan. 12.—Henry Peck Strong, a wealthy business man of New Britain, is dead there, aged 74. He was born in Woodbury and in 1855 went to New Britain, where he started the New Britain Lumber & Coal company. He was also largely interested in the New Britain Machine company, the Meriden Lumber company, the Waterbury Lumber & Coal company, the City Lumber company of Waterbury and the Pease Lumber company of Springfield. He gave to the Y. M. C. A. property valued at $10,000 and was instrumental in founding the institution.

Suicide's Identity Discovered.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 12.—The police have learned that the young man who committed suicide here by drinking carbolic acid, was Wm. H. O'Keefe. Although papers found among his effects show that he has been in Hartford, Waterbury, New Haven and Cromwell, it is impossible to tell from them in which city he belonged. Photographs of the dead man will be sent to the different places by the police.

Alleged Counterfeiters Held.

Boston, Jan. 12.—Thomas Walter, alias James Moore, the alleged counterfeiter arrested Saturday night, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Fiske yesterday on the charge of passing counterfeit money. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $2,500 for the United States district court.

Silver Dollars and Fractional Coin.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The issue of standard silver dollars from the mints and treasury offices for the week ended January 9 was $194,349, and for the corresponding period last was $168,250. The shipment of fractional silver coins from January 2 to 9 aggregated $100,770.

Mrs. Black To Receive.

Albany, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Frank S. Black, wife of Governor Black, will be at home to her friends at the executive mansion in this city on Wednesdays January 13, 20 and 27 from 4 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

Baltimore, Jan. 12.—The works of the Baltimore Glass company have started on full time, after being idle since last June. Employment was given 200 hands.

MORE CABINET TALK

Charles Emory Smith for Secretary of the Treasury.

LATEST RUMOR CURRENT AT CANTON

Some Credence Given to the Report Among Politicians—Major McKinley Dines the Ohio Electors at His Residence To-day.

Canton, O., Jan. 12.—The politicians here are busy to-day with the report that Charles Emory Smith of Philadelphia is likely to be appointed secretary of the treasury. Not since Mr. Dingley's name was first mentioned for this place has there been so much local interest in the gossip concerning it. Color is given the rumor about Mr. Smith, by reason of his well-known high standing with the president-elect, and it is recalled that he came to Canton, ostensibly by invitation, several times during the campaign. It is believed to-day that Mr. Smith is the foremost possibility for the treasury portfolio. When Major McKinley returned to Cleveland he at once set to work on the mail which awaited him. He had a number of callers during the afternoon. Among them were J. J. Halstead, H. S. Knight and U. S. Duvall of Washington, who came to urge the appointment of C. C. Shepherd of Columbus, O., to the position of commissioner of patents. Many telegrams were received during the day from the various electoral colleges. The Ohio electors called on Major McKinley at 11 o'clock this morning and were entertained at lunch by him.

THE DUPONT CASE.

Efforts To Be Made To Reopen It—He May Be Seated.

Washington, Jan. 12.—An effort is to be made to reopen the Dupont case, involving the seat of the senator from the state of Delaware. Just how it will be done has not been agreed upon, but there are several methods that may be pursued. The right to a seat in the senate has never been held to be res adjudicata. It is always open, and a motion might be made at any time to administer the oath of office to the candidate, despite the previous vote of the senate. The case might also be opened anew on petition of Mr. Dupont. The action of the senate before showed a majority of one against seating Dupont, and it is understood the republicans have good grounds for believing that this result would be reversed on another vote.

SENOR PALMA PLEASED.

Gratified at the Expressions of Money and Lee Regarding Cuba.

New York, Jan. 12.—Director General Palma of the Cuban junta in this city is much pleased at the information brought to this country from Cuba by Senator Money as to the condition of affairs on the island and the statement made by Consul General Lee, at Havana, as to the impossibility of the Spaniards ever again obtaining full possession of Cuba. He said that the declaration of Consul General Lee places Secretary Olney in a delicate position. Mr. Palma refused to say anything as to the future of the consul's position with the Spanish authorities on the island. Consul Lee, he continued, is very popular at the present time with the Spaniards on the island.

Injunction Against Liquor Dealers.

Amsterdam, N. Y., Jan. 12.—At a special term of the supreme court held in this city Justice Stover granted an injunction in the case of State Excise Commissioner Lyman against Calvin Broadwell, James H. McCorey and Thomas Ryan, the Plattsburg liquor dealers who refused to take out tax certificates, but who, it is claimed, continued in the liquor business. The order restrains the respondents from further trafficking in liquors.

Wouldn't Permit Altgeld To Speak.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 12.—The only novelty in the inauguration function at the capitol yesterday was the departure from custom in preventing ex-Gov. John P. Altgeld from delivering a 4,000-word address, which he intended to make after the speech of his successor, John R. Tanner, and was on the point of beginning when a republican motion to adjourn the joint assembly was declared carried by Speaker Curtis.

Visible Supply of Cereals.

New York, Jan. 12.—The statement of the visible supply of cereals, in store and afloat, as compiled by the New York produce exchange, is as follows: Wheat, 53,872,000 bushels; decrease, 779,000. Corn, 20,526,000 bushels; increase, 674,000. Oats, 13,686,000 bushels; decrease, 463,000. Rye, 3,160,000 bushels; increase, 73,000. Barley, 4,076,000 bushels; decrease, 327,000.

Woman Candidate for Senator.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—According to a special from Tacoma, Wash., Mrs. Mary E. Hobart, who has written several books on finance, is an active and sanguine candidate for United States senatorship in that state. She is at the capital with a small body of supporters, who consider her the ablest "stateswoman" in the United States.

Iowa Mortgage Company Claims.

Hartford, Jan. 12.—Judge F. B. Bennett of this city has been appointed by the United States district court master to receive claims against the Iowa Mortgage company. All claims must be filed by April 11, 1897.

Calcutta, Jan. 12.—Copious rains have fallen in most of the famine stricken districts of India, but a great deal more rain is needed. The bubonic plague is increasing at Karachi.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m. at 28 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 12, 1897.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Fair; Colder Tonight and Wednesday. At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 58 Degrees.

MR. FROST'S IDEAS.

The interview of Councilman George H. Frost, chairman of the streets and sewer committee, published in another column of today's Press, is prolific with ideas that when put into operation should make the municipal departments of which he is the head models of their kind. Plainfield is fortunate in having such an official as Mr. Frost, who takes an interest in his public duties almost equal to that of his private affairs. There is really only one thing that we feel like criticising Mr. Frost for, and that is his ideas of compensation for those employed on city work. He could be more liberal, and at the same time not extravagant.

THE NEW TROLLEY PROJECT.

Spasmodically for the past two or three years there has been efforts made to build an electric railway between Elizabeth and this city, and when the rumor of another company taking hold of the project was announced a few days ago, it was received by many as mere talk. But it seems there is money back of this talk, as reported in the news columns of today's Press. The backers of the new project are the same capitalists who are owners of the street railway system in this city, and whatever they say they will do can be pretty nearly depended upon.

A CONCEPTION OF DUTY.

Councilman Barrows, of Plainfield, performs his duties as a member of the license committe, after lines laid down by President Roosevelt, of New York. He has been making a personal inspection of the various saloons, with the idea of getting first hand informotion as to how they are conducted. Having ascertained this he will be able to vote intelligently when the matter of license applications comes up. The same method would bring about good results if applied by our local aldermen—New Brunswick Home News.

CHEESE-PARING.

No one will question the desirability of economy being practiced in expenses of this city, but when the street committee fixes the salary of the Street Commissioner at $75 a month, we believe that such an action comes under the head of "cheese-paring." We do not believe that the Street Commissioner of Plainfield should be a mere figurehead; it is an office in which very responsible duties are centered, and practical experience is necessary for satisfactory performance to the people.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT INTERVIEW.

In addition to the interview on the streets and sewerage matter published to day, The Press will also publish another interview with Councilman Frost to morrow on another subject that is being considered by the officials at the present time.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured in 3 Days

Morton L. Hill, of Lebanon, Ind. says: "My wife had Inflammatory Rheumatism in every muscle and joint, her suffering was terribe and her body and face were swollen almost beyond recognition; had been in bed for six weeks and had eight physicians but received no benefit until she tried the Mystic Cure for Rheumatism. It gave immediate relief and she was able to walk about in three days. I am sure it saved her life." Sold by T. S. Armstrong-druggist, cor. Park and North ave, nue, Plainfield.

A Parlor Meeting.

A parlor meeting under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. was held at the residence of Mrs. Martin I. Cooley, Rockview Terrace, yesterday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, national superintendent of parlor meetings, read the report of the National Convention held in St. Louis. The programme included two very choice selections on the piano by Mrs. Dwight and readings from "Captain January" by Miss Grace Cooley, after which tea was served. About one hundred guests were present and all enjoyed a very sociable hour.

Miss Duer, of New York, is the guest of Mrs. Martin, of East Fifth street.

Rheumatism is a Foe which gives no quarter. It torments its victims day and night. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and cures the aches and pains of rheumatism.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver medicine. Gentle, reliable, sure.

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East.

Stephen Blazier, of Madison, is the guest of Plainfield friends for a few days.

Miss Louise Keunlin, of Carleton avenue, is confined to the house by illness.

Miss Kuenlin, of Carleton avenue, has returned from a visit with friends at Hoboken.

O. B. Leonard contributes a sketch of the Dunham family to the last issue of the Sabbath Recorder.

William Jessop, secretary of the Summit Y. M. C. A., spent Sunday with friends in Plainfield.

A. M. Franklin, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday as the guest of his sister, Mrs. Platt, of West Sixth street.

Stephen Beeching, of Washingtonville, is able to be out again after a long confinement to the house.

Miss Grace Oakey, of Somerville, is the guest of her friend, Miss Mabel Schenck, of East Second street.

Walter McGee, of Rockview avenue, is planning a trip to Europe. He expects to start in about two weeks.

Mrs. John H. Higgins and children, of the borough, have returned home after a week's visit with relatives at Weston.

George Ball of Linden avenue, has recovered from a severe attack of quincy sore throat and is again able to be out.

Mrs. Charles Matthews, of Grove street, has gone to Philadelphia where she will remain for a week visiting relatives.

Mrs. Fannie H. Barry, of Wilmington, Del., is being entertained at the home of Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, of Duer street.

Miss Ella Milligan, of West Fourth street, has returned after spending Sunday as the guest of Mrs. Randolph Waldron, at her home in Brooklyn.

Gifford Cooley, of Rockview avenue, and his friend Percy Sandford, of Washington avenue, are on a trip through the Western States, in which they will combine business and pleasure.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Day and son Benjamin returned yesterday to their home on Rockview avenue, after spending two week's at Atlantic City, where they were registered at Hadden Hall.

Miss Emma Lockwood, of Brooklyn, returned home today after a visit at the home of the Misses Langdon of East Ninth street. Miss Grace Langdon accompanied her to make her a short visit.

Mrs. Dr. Main, wife of the new pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, is expected to arrive in town today from Ashaway, R. I., and with her husband will take up their abode with Mrs. J. R. Truell, at Fourth street and Central avenue.

Sheriff Kirk's New Order.

Sheriff Kirk has instituted one or two reforms since he came into office, and has well earned the gratitude of many people, especially of women, who have business in his office, the courtroom or in the other offices in the upper part of the building. He has issued an order announcing that on and after this date no loafing or smoking will be allowed in the approaches to the courtroom or to the sheriff's office. This is a move in the right direction, as in years past the assembling of idlers in the corridors of the court house has been very annoying to those who have business there. —Elizabeth Journal.

Impressive Funeral Services.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Rushton were held yesterday afternoon from Hope Chapel at 2 o'clock There was a large attendence of relatives and friends, including the members of Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, and Minerva Temple, No. 4, Rathbone Sisters, of which the departed was a member. The service at the chapel was conducted by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, who spoke lovingly of the great patience shown by Mrs. Rushton during her illness. The services at the grave, Hillside cemetery, were in charge of the members of Iona Council, and they were impressively rendered.

A Will Probated.

The will of Mrs. Dency C. Horton, late of the borough of North Plainfield, was admitted to probate, today, before the Surrogate of Somerset county. Her property was bequeathed entirely to her relatives. The executors are Mrs. Emily Cory and ex-Mayor John H. Van Winkle.

Mr. Borroughs, of Clinton avenue, entertained a few friends at his home last evening. Vocal and instrumental music was the principal feature.

—The fire, water and lamps committee of the Borough Council will hold a special meeting tomorrow evening, at which time the mystery of the false fire alarm key will be investigated.

PROGRESS, YET ECONOMY

[CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.]

by the city although property owners will be encouraged to macadamize the streets in front of their property under the supervision of the street department. One class of work will be pushed with a great deal of vigor and that is the work of curbing and flagging, which will naturally involve the bringing to grade of the sidewalks. This work is a necessity in order to make it comfortable to get about the city. While a considerable portion of the city streets are flagged, there are yet numberous large gaps in the flagging which make the walking disagreeable and are, besides, a manifest injustice to the property owners who have laid good sidewalks in accordance with the city ordinance. Notices for this week will be served very early in the season so that the work may be commenced with the opening of spring.

"In the employment of street labor several slight changes from past practices are likely to be introduced. There will be a general street cleaning as soon as the conditions require it, after which the city will be divided into districts, with one or two men employed there permanently as street cleaners and repairers; these men will be carefully selected and will be given instructions in their work so as to render them as efficient as possible with practice. They will be properly equipped with the tools for carrying out of the work most efficiently and economically and will be required to take care of their special territory in all sorts of weather and especially when it rains so as to keep the gutters and culverts clear and relieve the streets of the rain water as soon as possible. The men composing this force will have to be residents of this city for five years at least, property owners and taxpayers, so that they will have an interest in the work. The permanence of their employment will be determined by the excellence of their work.

"For the extra labor on the streets, men employed must bring evidence of two years residence in Plainfield, and married men with families will be given the preference. New comers will not be employed so long as there is a supply from the sourses already mentioned. Laborers will not be paid a uniform rate, but according to the actual value of their services as determined by the street commissioner. The pay will range from $1 to $1.50 a day; the men who are worth less than a $1 a day will not be employed. Men will be selected without regard to color or politics. They will have to pass the inspection of the committee before being employed.

"With regards to teams, a careful comparison will be made as to the hiring as in the past, and of buying horses and wagons for the city. Last year, $3.440 was spent in eight months for teaming. The investment for two double carts, four single carts, four horses, and four sets of harness would be about $700, which at $2.50 per day. as heretofore was paid for a double cart without the man, would last for 280 days or 140 days with two teams; if we had to build stables, engage men and buy grain to take care of these teams, the question of economy would not be particularly simple; as it is, however, the city is the owner of ample stable room at the Mountain View Farm for six to ten horses without investing a penny and has also barn room enough for the storage of the necessary fodder and bedding of the horses besides for protecting the wagons. From the products of the farm, ample fodder can be raised for the entire keeping of the horses. It is almost self-evident from these facts that the city can save largely by owning its own plant.

"This subject has not been carefully considered in committee as yet, but will be carefully canvassed before any definite conclusion is reached.

"The chairman of the street committee expects to spend his summer holidays of two or three months in the personal supervision of the street and sewer work, and he will from the present time, spend every Saturday in Plainfield looking after the work of Plainfield in the best possible condition that the appropriation will admit of, and to get good value out of every dollar spent."

There is Nothing so Good.

There is nothing just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, so demand it and do not permit the dealer to sell you some substitute. He will not claim there is anything better, but in order to make more profit he may claim something else to be just as good. You want Dr. King's New Discovery because you know it to be safe and reliable, and guaranteed to do good or money refunded. For Coughs Colds, Consumption and for all affections of Throat, Chest and Lungs, there is nothing so good as is Dr. King's New Discovery. Trial bottle free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

—The regular policemen of the city were photographed in a group yesterday afternoon in front of the police station.

A NEW DISCOVERY BY THE SHAKERS

For more than a hundred years the Mount Lebanon Shakers have studied the cultivation of medicinal plants and sought to extract from them their healing essences. Their labor has not been spent in vain. They have made a discovery that will prove a blessing to makind. It consists of a cordial that causes immediate relief in cases of indigestion. The importance of this discovery will be apparent when we realize that nearly nine-tenths of our suffering are caused by dyspepsia or indigestion. Nearly every person you meet has this digestive trouble in some of its varied forms—sick headace, distress after the eating, pain and fullness in the chest after eating, palpitation of the heart, etc., are but symptoms of indigestion. To relieve these sufferings has been the study of the Shakers, and they have succeeded. The reason the Shaker Digestive Cordial has such an immediate and salutary effect is that it causes the food eaten to be digested, for it is undigested food that causes the distress. The Cordial causes the food to be digested before there is time for it to ferment and sour on the stomach When the food is so digested it gives strength and vigor to the feeble body, makes one feel bright and cheerful, and makes one gain in flesh.

The Digestive Cordial is so prompt in its action hat the very first dose will have a preceptibly favorable result. It gives immediate relief.

Every druggist has been sent a supply of our handsome Donkey Puzzel Books, and a copy may be had for the asking. It tells all about the Cordial as well as Laxol, the new castor oil.

Try a twenty five cent bottle of Digestive Cordial and see what it will do for you

PASSING COMMENT.

Though the carriers in the local postoffice were prevented from publishing their annual year book for distribution at New Year's time by an order issued from department headquarters at Washington, they fared pretty well nevertheless by the favors that were extended to them along their various routes in the city and borough. Each carrier received from $25 to $ 25 from the people that they serve with mail each day, the individual favors running from twenty-five cents to $5.

* * * *

Since the article descriptive of the habits of the "five-thirtyites" at the postoffice appeared in The Press last week, there has been a noticeable falling off in some of the regular habitues. Many who made it a practice to be in line when the window opened between 5:30 and 6 o'clock, and usually received some mail, now call between 6 and 7 o'clock, thus evidently seeking to convey the impression that nothing but the desire to get their messages that Uncle Sam conveys occasions them to call.

* * * *

Mamie Brown, a soldier in the American Volunteers at New Brunswick, is made of the right stuff. She entered a barroom in George street selling Gazettes. Some of the men in the place asked her to have a drink. She agreed on condition that they buy all her papers. The money for the papers was given her and she called for a glass of beer. The men in the place also took beer and one of them raising his glass said to the Volunteer: "Here's to you." Miss Brown responded to the toast and then threw the glass, beer and all upon the floor, saying: "That's what I do with liquor." Then she left the barroom.

* * * *

W. Edward Neal, a precocious youngster with a good deal of confidence and other characteristics that make young America an interesting study at any time or under any conditions, walked in the sanctum sanctorium of The Press a day or two ago and enquired of one of the reporters, who happened to be the only one present, if any jokes or poetry was wanted. The reporter thought that Eddie was rether young to be mixing rhyme or perpetrating puns and was loath to encourage him. "Submit them, please, and we'll see," said the reporter. But Eddie was not to be put off with an evaded reply and forthwith he pre-empted a seat at a convenient desk, borrowed a stub of a pencil, knitted his eyebrows and wrote off the following in post haste:

Little drops of whiskey,
Sliding out the glass;
Makes the drinker frisky
And the urchins laugh.

Little drops of honey
Gathered by the bee.
Set a good example
Followed by you and me.

Then he tried his hand at prose and here is what he evolved:

IN BROOKLYN.

Conductor to motorman as they pull a body from under the car wheels:

"How many is that, Jim?"

Motorman—"That's de fit one on dis trip.

Overseer arriving and taking in the situation:

"No talking between employes while on duty."

We commend Eddie to continue. Some day he'll become a Longfellow and a Bill Nye all rolled into one.

Why Attempt to Cure.

catarrh by the use of so-called blood remedies? That catarrh is not caused by blood troubles is self-evident when you reflect that attacks are always due to sudden climatic changes or exposure, and occur most frequently during the winter and spring, though the blood is as pure then as in summer or fall. A remedy which quickly relieves and cures the catarrahal attacks has been found in Ely's Cream Balm.

ALL RADIATE from THE CENTRAL STORE

PECK'S.

EVERY THING

For the Fire-place. MANTELS, TILES, GRATES. SPARK GUARDS, $1.25 and up. Curtis M. Thorpe, 310-312 Park Avenue.

--JAQUETT'S--

CLOTHING Of the Latest Style for Men, Boys' and Children. Suits and Overcoats.

SUITS and OVERCOATS. School Suits, from 75c. up.

NOVELTIES FOR CHILDREN. Full lines in Top Coats, Reefers and Separate Pants. MEN'S FURNISHINGS. All of the latest Novelties in Ties, Collars, Shirts, Suspenders, HOSIERY, GLOVES, UNDERWEAR.

HATS of the Latest Styles at Moderate Prices.

One Price—Cash. Money refunded if goods are not as represented. 129 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LAST DAYS OF GREAT FIRE SALE!

Everything to be closed out by January 15th. The balance of stock of Dry Goods to be sold for a mere nothing. On

MONDAY, JANUARY 11th,

from 3 to 5 P. M., we will GIVE about 150 CLOAKS to the DESERVING POOR of this city. Each applicant must have papers properly signed by some officer of any local charity organization.

LEDERER'S,

115 WEST FRONT STREET.

SPECIAL SALE AT CRANE & CLARK'S,

Hat and Furnishings Store.

120 West Front street. Prices Cut on all lines of Men and Boys' wear.

JAS. R. BLAIR.

126 Park Avenue,

Has a fine assortment of Necktjes, Mufflers, Umbrellas, Silk Handkerchiefs, Gloves, &c.,

Ready for the Holidays.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

GEORGE E. ROGERS.....Lessee, | GEORGE H. WILLEY.....Manager

COMING ONE WEEK.

JANUARY 11th,

Engagement of the COMEDIENNE.

Maude Hillman,

under the management of Winthrop G. Snelling.

A carload of Magnificent Scenery, Properties, &c. Elegant Costumes. Songs and dances.

MATINEES Wednesday and Saturday.

Prices 10 20 and 30 cents. Seats now on sale at Box Office.

Monday, Jan. 18,

The champions of the comedy world.

LOUIS WESLEY — MARIE STUART

supported by Freeman's Fun Makers, presenting Great Farce-Comedy,

"A Railroad Ticket."

Produced in a superb manner by a company of

20 SINGERS and COMEDIANS 20

Headed by Louis Wesley, Marie Stuart, Arthur Moulton, Gus Pixley, Chas. A. Burke, and 15 others just as funny.

Prices 75. 50. 35. 25. Seats on sale at Box Office Friday, Jan. 15.

WANT THEM — Ladies' Calf Shoes for Skating.

DO YOU — Ladies' Turned Cork-Sole Shoes.

WANT THEM — Also Hanan & Son's Shoes for Ladies and Gentlemen.

A. WILLETT AND SON,

NO. 107 PARK AVE.

Telephone, Brooklyn, 366.

COMINS & EVANS

Acorn Brand Asphalt Roofing.

Gravel and Metal Roofing, Tile and Brick Roofing, Water-Tight Cellars.

45 WAVERLY AVE. BROOKLYN. N. Y.

New York office, 102 Fulton st., room

NEWMAN'S STAGE LINE TIME TABLE
Between Plainfield and Scotch Plains.

Leave Plainfield..... { 7.00; 9.30; 12.45 a. m. 4.00; 6.00; 9.00 p. m.
Sunday—9.00; 12.30 a. m., 3.00 6.00 p. m.
Leave Scotch Plains. { 6.20; 8.15; 10.30 a. m. 2.00; 5.00; 7.00; 9.30 p. m.
Sunday—9.45 a. m., 2 00; 4.00, 7.00 p. m.

DEPOT—FRONT STREET AND PARK AVE.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Court Dunellen, No. 1123, I. O. O. F., met last evening and installed its newly-elected officers.

William Thornton, representing C. H. Ditson, of New York, was in town, yesterday, on business.

Miss Mary Bolton, of Somerville, was in town, yesterday, looking to the interests of her music pupils.

The Washington Avenue Card Club will be entertained on Friday night at the home of Miss Sallie Gray.

Mrs. Arthur Carpenter, of Brooklyn, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Ambrose Marlenschek, of Prospect avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Roe, of New York, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Roe's sister, Mrs. Thomas Thomas.

Peter Trimmer has completed the work of paving and tiling the floor and side walks in the Greenbrook sand house.

By a new arrangement with the Greenbrook Electric Light Company, the Dunellen depot now has good and sufficient light at night.

Joel C. Giddis, of North avenue, had a valuable water spaniel dog stolen from his premises, on Friday, and the animal is still missing.

Mayor Brakeley and tax collector George Day were in Trenton, yesterday, it is said, on business concerning the borough taxation.

Mrs. John Case and family, of Greenbrook, go Thursday to New Brunswick to attend the funeral of Mrs. Case's mother, Mrs. Mary Wyckoff.

Mrs. Charles Carpenter, wife of the former popular station agent here, has returned from a visit with her mother at Pennington, this State, who has been very ill, but is now improving.

On the evening of Sunday, February 7th, there will be held missionary exercises in the M. E. church. Rev. J. H. Johnson, of North Plainfield, is scheduled to deliver the address of the evening.

The skating on the New Market pond continues fair. The ice is a little rough, but the Plainfield skaters don't mind that one bit, and they flock there in large numbers these afternoons and moonlight evenings.

Improvements are still being made to the new Town Hall. Saturday, iron protectors were placed on each side of the engine house doors, so that the woodwork will not be marred by reason of the engine wheels coming in contact with it in case of an alarm.

The young ladies of St. John's church will formally open and dedicate the new town hall by holding therein a bazaar and fair within the course of a few weeks. There will be dancing each evening, besides the customary features.

Arthur Giles has a force of men at work putting in the new heater in the Presbyterian church, to take the place of the old one which caused the fire in the edifice a few days ago. The heater will probably not be in thorough working order by Sunday, Mr. Giles says.

With the union services in the M. E. church, Sunday evening, ended the Week of Prayer in the Dunellen and New Market churches. While the number of conversions is not known, much good has resulted from these meetings, and more will undoubtedly follow.

Another one of those delightful card parties, given under the auspices of the Washington Avenue Card Club, will take place at the residence of Miss Gray, on Washington avenue, Friday evening and the usual dainty favors will be awarded both the winners and losers.

The members of the Dunellen Athletic Club are still advocating the erection of a club house and a meeting to consummate plans will be called for some evening this week. The members have some two or three prominent locations in view, and on these the Building Committe will report at the meeting.

Car No. 12 of the street railway while making its 3:30 o'clock trip yesterday afternoon, picked up a yellow mongrel dog which was following a farmers carriage, on the incline just east of Clinton avenue. The dog was running on the track directly in front of the car, and when the fender struck it, the animal gave a yelp and rolled over to the side of the track, more frightened than injured.

SCOTCH PLAINS

W. S. Emory was ill at his home, yesterday, but today he is much better.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Grant, of West Front street, have been visiting Mrs. Grant's parents here.

Miss Aunie Collins returned to New York, yesterday, after spending Saturday and Sunday with her sister here.

A regular meeting of the Library Association was held in the Town Hall last evening, for the transaction of routine business. To-morrow evening officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

The members of the Scotch Plains social club are anticipating a big "blow out" at the Fanwood club house, Thursday evening. Prof. Eugene O'Reilly will furnish the music for dancing.

Lyness Walpole has in the rear of store a coop of six choice full-blooded game fowls of various breeds and pedigrees. He has also a miniature arena in which the birds are trained twice a day in the art of self-defence.

In addition to the Washington birthday sports already enumerated Lynns Walpole and George Marsh are scheduled for a quoit pitching match at 21 points, best 2 out of 3. The conditions are $10 a side, and the winner is, of course, expected to furnish the crackers and cheese, which invariably follow such contests.

John Reick and Richard Hart have entered into negotiation to shoot a clay bird match on Washington's Birthday, for $5 a side, with the privilege of outside bets. The birds will be given a 25 yard rise. There will also be a sweepstake shooting and the whole will take place on the shooting grounds back of the West Side Hotel.

Real estate agent Thomas Paff predicts an early spring and plenty of business in his particular line. Yesterday he had three customers for land, and two of them were from Plainfield. One of the proposed purchasers was looking for a farm of about fifteen or twenty acres, that could be bought at a right figure, and another was in search of a summer residence, not to exceed in cost $12,000.

—House hunting has commenced here. A few people have been looking for desirable places, and two farm hunters were here on Saturday. Most of the farmers who have held their land during the winter do not care to part with it for a mere song now that spring is coming on. And they believe or at least some of them do, that the trolley will pass their very doors the coming summer, and they think this will increase the valuation of their property.

As soon as the frost is thoroughly out of the ground and the ground is settled, work on the new club house will begin. The property was generously donated by John R. Marsh, and it is a most desirable location. Once completed the building will be a sort of haven for the young men of the town, for it will give them a palce to spend their unemployed afternoons and evenings to advantage, whereas at the present time some of the younger element are allowed to run about the street, and some of them make themselves obnoxious to both strangers and the inhabitants.

THEATRICAL.

The Maude Hillman company opened a week's engagement in Music Hall last night with "Charity Bess" to a packed house. The company is a very fair one and gave a production that doubtless pleased the large audience present. Miss Hillman gave a clever impersonation of a young girl married to a man who was her social superior through what was supposed to be a Hallow E'en pleasantry, but which, by the design of a scheming villian, proved to be a horrible reality. The specialties were numerous and amused the audience greatly. This evening "A Girl in Yankee Land" will be presented.

"A Railroad Ticket," as presented by Freeman's Fun Makers at Music Hall next Monday, is worth seeing, for it is not only funny, but it is up to the times with a merry jingle of song, music and brisk dialogue. The company of singers and comedians is above the average. The joint star attraction is Marie Stuart and Louis Wesley. Miss Stuart, better known as the American "Fougere," has made a decided hit as the French maid, a part created by her in the first production of "A Railroad Ticket." She is introducing her specialties, which made her famous at Koster & Bial's, New York, and in both London and Paris. As "Chips," the office boy, Mr. Wesley has repeated his former success, he having created the part in the original production. The piece is thoroughly up to date with new music, songs and dances and medleys, and in stage parlance is full of ginger.

Thomas Murray, of New Brunswick, has rented F. C. Langhorne's house at 411 LaGrande avenue, through the agency of J. T. Vail.

Highest of all in Leavening Power. Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

ALL OVER THE TOWN

NEWS IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS THAT INTEREST ALL PLAINFIELDERS.

Gathered by Enterprising Press Reporters From Both Sides of the Brook and Tersely Served for Your Perusal.

—Unity Lodge, No. 102, will hold its regular meeting tomorrow evening.

—A meeting of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M., will be held this evening in the lodge rooms.

—The officers-elect of Old Glory Council, Daughter's of Liberty, will be installed next Monday evening.

—S. S. Swackhamer, of the Babcock building, has made a large addition to his already valuable law library.

—The first rank will be worked on one candidate at the meeting of Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., tomorrow evening.

—A poverty sociable is being arranged by the Epworth League of the First M. E church for the first part of February.

—A party of young people from the borough went to Wilson's pond at Washingtonville on Saturday night to enjoy the skating.

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps will hold a meeting for practice this evening in the club rooms on West Second street.

—The Junior Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will resume its meetings on Friday afternoon after the Christmas holidays.

—The proofs of the photograph, taken of the Plainfield High School cadets while at drill last Thursday, have arrived and they are very good.

—The minstrel show under the auspices of the Crescent Wheelmen will be given January 27th. This date has been decided upon by the committee in charge.

—At the mid-week service at the Congregational church this week, the topic will be "Our Duty to Others; the Command, Bear Ye One Anothers Burdens."

—The regular monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the Seventh Day Baptist church will be held in the church parlors tomorrow evening.

—One hundred and fifty barrels of fancy apples at Neuman Bros., embracing Kings, Northern Spy, Baldwins, Greenings, Spitzenberg's and Golden Pippens, at very low prices. 1 12 2

—The January business meeting of the Epworth League of the First M.E. church will not be held this month, but has been postponed until Feb. 5th on account of the union revival meetings.

—The case of Reed against Smith, on contract, was adjourned in the Hunterdon county court yesterday morning until Thursday. S. S. Swackhamer, of this city, represented the plaintiff.

—The next meeting of the Parliamentary Club will be held at the Y. M. C. A. hall on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, at which time the study of the constitution of the club will be taken up and discussed.

—W. J. Stephenson, the caterer, of 146 North avenue, has reduced the price of his dinners to 35 cents, and he will sell a $4 meal ticket for $3.50 to all patrons. Dinners are served from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m.

—E. E Marshall, the North avenue wall paper dealer, will move April 1st from his present store to the one now occupied by Lyman, the real estate dealer. Mr. Lyman will still retain office room in the store.

—The Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods company of North avenue, have received a full line of the Hunter and Keating wheels for '97 and they are all beauties. People in search of sporting goods can do no better than to call at this house where everything needed can be found.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State afore said, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1896. A. W. Gleason, Notary Public. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials free. F. J. Cheney, & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

"THE FINEST THING"
We think, for chapped or rough skin, is
OUR LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE.
Try it. Sprinkler-top bottles, 25c.
Park and North avenues
Successor H. P. REYNOLDS.
T. S. ARMSTRONG,
"THE APOTHECARY."

Mrs. James Tilby returned yesterday to her home on Stone street after a few days' visit with her brother George W. Day, at Bridgeport, Conn.

DIED.

BROKAW—In this city, Saturday, Jan. 9, '97, Isaac Brokaw, in his 78th year. Funeral services at his late residence, 507 West Front street, Wednesday, Jan. 13, at 2:30 p. m. 1 11 2

ENGVALL—In this city, Monday, Jan. 11, 1897, Louisa Engvall, aged 66 years. Funeral services from her late residence, South Second street, corner Prospect place, Thursday, Jan. 14, at 2:30 p. m.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

FOUND—Buckskin glove at corner Watchung and North avenues. Owner can have same by applying at this office.

SEVEN-ROOM HOUSE FOR SALE—First class condition; price reasonable. Address Box 113, Dunellen. 1 12 2

GOOD dressmaker would go out by the day. Reasonable terms. B., care Press.

TO LET—Furnished or unfurnished, twelve room modern house, fine location, for board of two adults. Owner, care Press. 1-12-tf LOST, STRAYED OR STOLEN—Sunday night. A striped Angora Tom cat. A suitable reward will be paid by returning the same to 80 Washington avenue.

YOUNG GIRL wants place as upstairs girl or nurse. Call 230 East 4th street.

WANTED—Middle aged woman for light housekeeping; small wages but good home. 248 East Ninth street.

HOME wanted for boy, 13 years old, in a quiet respectable family where he can have the advantage of home comforts. Terms must be moderate. Call or address E. B. Freeman, 115 Broadway, N. Y. 1 12 3

FOUND—A small light brown purse, with clover leaf ornament. Call at Press office. 1 12 2

ONE large and one small room with good board, central location. Terms reasonable. R., care Press. 1 12 3

A MARRIED man wants situation as gardener on gentleman's place Address P., care Press. 1 12 3 eod

FOR SALE—Half interest in a paying bakery. No money required of right party. Address Baker Shop care Press.

WANTED—A good Protestant American or Swede girl for general housework in small family at moderate compensation. Apply 916 Park avenue, Wednesday, from 3 to 9 p. m. 1 12 2

WANTED—Girl for general house work, small family. Apply evenings, between 7 and 9 o'clock. 817 First place. 1 11 3

TO LET—Small house, 721 East Second street, near Berkman Rent $10 monthly. Apply R. J. Jackson, 409 East Sixth street. 1 11 2

STORE and basement to let, 165 North Ave. Mulford, Broker. 1 11 tf

FOR SALE or TO LET—Store and dwelling combined and brick stable, 120 W. 4th St. Mulford, Broker. 1 11 tf

LOST—Saturday afternoon, pair of eye glasses, steel rims, Reward at Press office. 1 11 2

FARM hand wanted, married, occupy cottage on place; German prefered. Address box 322, city. 1 11tf

BRICK barn to let. 112 West Fourth street. 1 9 tf

YOUNG MAN (19) would like situation of any kind. Call 215 Muhlenberg place. 1 9 3

WANTED—First class bakery for cash. Address Bakery, care Press. 1 9 3

TO LET—Handsome store on West Front street. Inquire Manning's City Marble Works. 1 9 tf

WANTED—Store in good location. Address Store, care Press. 1 9 3

LARGE and small furnished rooms with board, heat, gas, and bath at moderate rates. 529 West Front street. 1 9 6

LARGE, well heated rooms to let, with board; moderate terms. 132 Crescent Ave. 1 8 6

NICELY FURNISHED rooms, with board, moderate terms. 214 East Ninth street. 1 8 6

FIRE DEPARTMENT BONDS—The Borough of North Plainfield will sell seven Fire Department bonds, $500 each, 5 per cent interest. Bids for same will be received up to Jan. 15 h. James K. Arnold, Borough Clerk. 1 6 6

TO LET—Elegant 6 room apartments, Jackson building, steam heat, janitor service, halls carpeted, heated and lighted. Rent reasonable, particulars at Packer's furniture store. 11 23 tf

TO LET—Store and rooms above, now occupied by Justice Newcorn, 110 West Front street. Inquire Samuel Drier, pawnbroker, corner Front street and Madison avenue. 1 2 tf

FIRST CLASS help and first class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 23 Somerset place. 11 10-1y

LOANS negotiated. E. C. Mulford, Broker 7 2 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, Broker. tf

Plainfield's Busiest Store.
We sell goods cheaper than any Plainfield store.

A GOOD THING.

Last Saturday morning in walked the selling agent of the Star Knitting Mills, said he had been sent out to see us and to get an offer for the balance of the stock of winter and medium-weight underwear for ladies and gentlemen. You know the Star Mills goods. They make only the best kinds that sell from $1.00 to $2.50 per garment. We told him it was late in the season but if we could buy the goods so as to sell them at a price we would take the lot. Our offer was accepted, and the entire lot, over 300 dozen, on sale Wednesday, and the price will be forty-nine cents each.

49c each.

We frankly state that this is the best bargain this store has ever offered and we have offered many.

IN CONNECTION

with the great underwear sale we will offer in every department goods at such attractive prices that if it don't add wealth to the store it will add to its great name of selling goods cheaper THAN ALL OTHERS.

DRESS GOODS.

Such selling you never before saw, and the reason is plain, 'tis the price that sells them; but no matter how low the price the goods must be to your liking and these are. At 30c. we sell goods that ought to bring 50c and would in good times. At 37c. your choice of 50 pieces of all-wool fancy mixture that were 75c.; and at 49c. you buy those stylish boucle cloths that were made to sell for $1.00.

Ladies', gentlemen's and children's hosiery. The kind that will wear well and don't cost much. Ladies' fine guage hose, the 25c. kind, 18c.; Ladies' fine cashmere hose, the 25c. kind, 15c.; Ladies' fine fleeced-lined hose, the 35c. kind, 25c.; Gentlemen's fine natural-wool hose, 15c.; Gentlemen's fine black hose, 13c.; Gentlemen's fine black extra-heavy hose, 19c, value 35c.; Children's heavy ribbed seamless hose, 10c.; Children's extra-heavy ribbed seamless hose, double sole and knee, 15c.

GOOD THINGS FOR LITTLE MONEY.

LADIES' COATS AND CAPES.

Over a hundred Coats and Capes for ladies and they go at cost and below. Your choice of the entire line, $3.98, were $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00 each.

SPECIALS TO BE SEEN AT ATTRACTIVE PRICES

100 pairs of fine lace curtains, white or cream, 89c. pair; fine curtain nets in figured and spots for sash curtains, 13c. the yard; adjustable sash curtain rods, 10c. each; 50 dozen find huck towels, the 25c. kind, 13c. each; children's wool skating caps, were 50c. and 75c., now 29c.; heavy outing flannel, in all colors, 6c. yard; heavy cream outing flannel, 5c. yard; chenille rugs, size 18x36, 49c. each; Japanese jute rugs, size 18x36, 34c. each; boys' heavy flannel shirt waists, were 75c., now 39c.; men's fine unlaundried shirts, 39c. each; lot of ten-quarter table covers, fancy bordered, $1.19 and $1.49, were $1.50 and $2.00; fine new dress ginghams and outing flannels, 10c. yard.

EDWARD WHITE.

WALL PAPER
"A word to the wise is efficient."
From 3c.
Buy from the manufacturer and save middlemen's profits.
On receipt of postal card a fine assortment of SAMPLES sent to ANY ADDRESS.
To $2 Warerooms, 211 215 North Ave.
EDW. LOVE,

=BOEHM'S!=
ON SALE THIS WEEK.
MUSLINS.
At 5c. a yard, yard wide, bleached and unbleached, at 5c. a yard. At 6 3-4c., Fruit of the Loom, Androscoggan and other staple makes, yard wide, at 6 3-4c. a yard. At 15c, 2 1-2 yard wide sheeting, unbleached, regular 20c. grade, at 15c. Ladies' Muslin Underwear—Chemise, Drawers and Nightgowns, none sold for less than 39c, and some at 50c., at the uniform price of 25c. each; a limited number to each customer.

The remainder of G A. Hallock's stock going at 1-4 their cost. $1.50 Derbys at 25c.; $1.50 Dress Shirts at 50c.; 50c. Outing Flannel Shirts at 25c.

= BOEHM'S, =
113 WEST FRONT STREET.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 30 CENTS.
PRIMES, $1 AND $1,50 PER HUNDRED.
-AT ROGERS.-

THE GROWN-UP LITTLE GIRL.

She was sitting up straight in a straight-back chair;
There wasn't a snarl in her shining hair,
There wasn't a speck on her dainty dress,
And her rosy face was full of distress.

When I drew near to this maiden fair,
She suddenly rumpled her shining hair,
And dropping down "in a heap" on the floor,
Uplifted her voice in a wail most sore.

"Now, what is the matter, my pretty maid?"
"I'm all grown up!" she dolefully said,
"And I'm lonesome, as lonesome as lonesome can be
For Humpty Dumpty and Riddle-Me-Ree.

"There's Little Boy Blue, who used to creep
Under our haystack and fall asleep;
He isn't my friend since mother dear
'Did up' my hair in this twist so queer!
And the dog and the fiddle, they left me, too,
When the baby into a woman grew;
The dish has hidden away with the spoon,
And the cow has stayed at the back of the moon!

"The little old woman who swept the sky
Is caught in her cobwebs high and dry;
And Jack and his beanstalk I cannot find
Since I began to improve my mind.

"I wouldn't be scared—not a single mite—
If the bugaboo I should meet to-night;
The bogey man I'd be glad to see—
But they'll never, no, never come back to me!

"I watched in the garden last night at dark,
A fairy favor to find, but—hark!
My mother is calling—don't you hear?—
'Young ladies don't sit on the floor, my dear!'"

—Zion's Herald.

WON ON A CROSS.

"The nurse tells me you wish to speak with me, Quilter," said Mr. Tranquill, the clergyman, as he took his seat beside the bedside of a dying man in the infirmary ward.

"Yes, yes, sir," replied the man, in a cracked voice. "I feel I shall not last the night, and I should leave this world in a happier frame of mind if I relieved my soul of the secret that has been the curse of my life.

"At the age of 14 I became apprenticed to a trainer at Newmarket, and in due course passed from under his hands 'one of the smartest horsemen I've turned out,' as he put it in introducing me to the notice of his latest client, one Capt. Disbrow Dives, as sly-looking, and, as I afterwards knew to my cost, as thorough-paced a scamp as ever disgraced the 'sport of kings.'

"The captain had been on his beam ends for some time through heavy losses at cards, and, on top of that, shortly before I knew him, came what to many would have been Dame Fortune's finishing stroke—viz: his compulsory retirement from the service through being mixed up in some shady business or other; but he soon found his feet again, for an old uncle died intestate, and Capt. Dives, as next of kin, came in for over half a million of money. After getting together a choice stud of race horses he soon saw the futility of plunging and organized a systematic and offensive campaign against the ring.

"Eventually the captain promoted me to the position of first jockey, but during all this time he did not associate with the upper crust of race-goers. He never visited the paddock, but might always be seen hanging over the rails outside, watching his horses win in the most unconcerned manner imaginable.

"For five years nothing occurred to divert the current of our 'wonderful luck,' as it came to be called. But a reverse, bearing out the adage of the pitcher going too often to the well, seemed in store for us unless we played our cards very carefully.

"The Clipper handicap was to be run in a fortnight, and our horse, Radix, six stone ten pounds, a dark three-year-old, which had been kept for this race, was a favorite at five to one. In our blind confidence we feared nothing, and, in fact, looked upon the colt as a regular top-sawyer among the handicap class; but as the time drew near my belief in the colt's vast superiority lessened as some talk I had heard about one lower down set me thinking. The captain had plunged heavily on this event, and in the course of one of our chats about the race I asked him if it was a wise line to follow, even with a supposed certainty.

"Capt. Dives always became fidgety when I threw doubts on any of his certainties, and after looking keenly at me for a few seconds he broke out with:

"'Look here, now, Quilter, what do you mean by talking in this strain? You've heard something; out with it, man, for there is no time to lose.'

"'Well, sir,' I answered, 'I have heard some ugly talk about Sir Giles Wackton's Geranium, the bottom weight, but if there is anything in it we shall soon know, as Sir Giles is not the man to let his horses run loose. Old Bridoon told me on the strict q.t. that Geranium has been tried good enough to give the top weight seven pounds and then win in a trot. Of course, it may be only a fairy tale, but it is best to watch and throw away no chances.'

This had a salutary effect on the captain, for after hurriedly looking up Geranium's form he said he would await the development of events before supporting Radix further.

"Nobody ever scanned the betting lists more eagerly than I during the next few days, and it was soon plain that some astute person who didn't wish to attract public attention to his doings was taking a hand in the game, and the captain began seriously to consider the advisability of hedging some of his bets, a thing he never liked to do; but three days before the race the Geranium people struck a blow that just about knocked him off his legs. By working commissions all over the country they rushed the filly up from 25's to the position of a red-hot favorite in one day, thus closing against us the last loophole of escape, as hedging our money was now out of the question.

"I have hitherto omitted to explain that Sir Giles Wackton considered Capt. Dives a personal enemy. They had both been in the same regiment together and had had a serious quarrel over some woman, and Sir Giles had sworn to be revenged if he waited a lifetime for the opportunity.

"The day Geranium was installed favorite Capt. Dives came down from London with a face the color of a white-washed wall, and I could see by his manner that he had been drinking a lot more than was good for him. After a long confab he told the trainer to arrange for Radix to be re-tried again early the next morning. The captain was well pleased with the spin, and, when the horses had gone home, came up to me and said he wished to have a talk with me at his lodgings, so as soon as I had changed my things I hurried over to hear what was in the wind.

"No sooner had I stepped inside the door than he carefully closed and locked it and drew a heavy curtain across it; then he broke the ice with:

"'Well, Quilter, I suppose you know by this time I'm a ruined man, or shall be in a few hours from now, for you know that though Radix has won another trial, he did it no easier than on the first occasion, and that's hardly good enough. I've more than confirmed all Bridoon told you, so, bar accidents, the race is Geranium's. All the same, I have not abandoned all hope of our falling on our feet—that is, if you will do what I wish.

"'Now, look here,' he continued, with the boastful air of a half drunken swashbuckler, 'I'm not going to stand still and be reduced to beggary, so just pay attention to what I am about to say. I've matured a plan that, if properly carried out, must succeed in saving your money and mine. Hark, now, and let me get through without interruption.'

"And for the next hour or more he was fully employed, laying before me a truly desperate scheme, whereby Radix should win the race and save his backers their money."

"The evil day arrived at last. My first anxiety was to learn if anything had happened to Geranium during the last 12 hours; but, no, the betting told me that; it was fast and furious, the bookies refusing to lay more than five to four, and old racing hands shook their heads and declared it was an unheard-of price with a field expected to reach two dozen starters, and most of them a bit above ordinary handicap class.

"We turned out of the paddock sharp to time, Radix being voted the 'gentleman of the party,' notwithstanding the furore over Geranium. While the captain was whispering me final instructions I happened to glance across the paddock, and there, right before me, I saw Sir Giles watching, as a dog would a rat hole, the captain in a way that seemed to say: 'Go on, sir; you may give your orders, but I hold the whip hand at last, and, by the powers above, you may expect as much mercy from me as the falcon gives her quarry.'

"The mocking look on that man's face brought me up sharp, and before we were half way to the post I was as keen on the job as the captain.

"I won't repeat in detail a description of the race; suffice it to say we came away at a rare bat, Radix and Geranium well placed; but I saw from the first that the filly's jockey had received orders to simply watch me, and so close did he stick to them that he aggravated me almost beyond the point of endurance, keeping as he did with Geranium's muzzle just on a level with Radix's flank on my whip-hand. And so we went, Geranium's hoof-stroke beating time to Radix's. If I increased the pace the filly likewise improved hers, and so we progressed in this ding-dong fashion until a quarter of a mile from home, when I let Radix out for all he was worth, as I was not in the least afraid of his staying home, and I determined to make a bold bid for an honest victory.

"The excitement of the spectators was terrific, as Radix, pushing his head well into his bridle, went to the front as fast as he could lay foot to the ground. For some distance I was rejoiced to see that Radix more than held his own, and that Geranium's pilot was hard at work with his whip, in hot pursuit; but the small advantage I had gained was of only momentary duration, as the pace began to tell, and the filly came up hand over hand, my blood running cold the while as I saw her nose come up level with my boot, and then forge on until we were dead level, head to head, knee to knee, in desperate career.

"Thus we ran on locked together, Radix, game as a pebble, answering my repeated calls on him in the most unflinching manner, until some 50 yards from 'the man in the box,' when I saw for certain we should be beaten, as Geranium's light weight must tell in such a hard-fought-out finish. Could I have made a dead heat of it I should still have held my hand and remained an honest man, but fate was against me, and I saw Geranium steadily but surely drawing to the front, amid the frantically delirious cheering of her supporters.

"The time for action had arrived. I raised my whip for the first time during the race, and, with a scarcely perceptible hesitation as I brought my arm up, I made my last call on Radix for an extra effort, and, noble beast that he was, right grandly did he respond to it, for in the next few strides we were once more level, neck and neck, and the enthusiasm of the crowd ran higher than ever; but the dastardly deed was done, and as Radix got his neck in front some six yards from the judge's box, Geranium stopped dead, shivered from head to heel as with a cold, lurched forward, then dropped like a stone, dashing her jockey's brains out on the rails as she came down.

"As if changed by the wave of a magic wand the excitement and enthusiasm, born of seeing two good horses gamely contesting a race inch by inch, instantly gave place to the utmost consternation; and as I was led into the paddock, amidst a regular babel of questioning and conjecturing tongues, shaking so that I could barely maintain my seat at the thought that young Rymple had met his death at my hand, I saw Sir Giles Wackton stagger out by the back entrance with a horribly haggard face, and ere I could dismount the report of a pistol shot rang out above the hum of the suppressed conversation of the vast multitude with startling clearness, and I knew that I was a double murderer.

"I passed the scales safely, and the 'all right' was given, but for once a race-course crowd was too bewildered to raise a cheer; even the bookmakers were silent.

"A vet. declared Geraniumhad died of paralysis of the heart, and the affair soon ceased to interest the public. I collected all my bets, but absolutely refused to touch a penny-piece of the money promised me by Captain Dives if Radix won. I looked upon it as no better than blood money, and from that day on, I never threw a leg across a horse of his.

"The way the thing was worked was this: When too late, he found out what a wonder Geranium was. Capt. Dives determined, if he couldn't win straight, he'd pull through on the cross, so, how I know not, he procured a whip having a fine hair tube of some light metal running through the center, with a powerful spring hidden in the butt end.

"Taking up the whip that day I was at his rooms, he said: 'Now, look at that cat there on the hearthrug.' Then he leveled the whip. I heard a noise as of a spring being released, and almost immediately the cat rolled on its side, stone dead: I was surprised, to say the least, and asked him to explain. Only too pleased at having aroused my curiosity, he at once took from his pocket a leather case, and exposed to view a row of pieces of fine steel, and pointed out that each needle, as he called them, had been daubed with a most deadly poison, which he explained would cause paralysis of the heart in less time than it takes to tell it after the needle had entered the body or punctured the skin ever so slightly.

"Then he opened the silver circlet on the whip, and deftly placed a needle in a minute chamber, and smilingly told me the instrument was ready for use once more. Still I did not fathom the purpose he had in view, though I divined there must be something in the background, for it was hardly likely he would want to see me at his rooms simply to show me this lethal toy; besides, his manner was constrained, as he was shy of getting to business, and resorted to the brandy flask too frequently to please me.

"At length, he went on: 'Now, I'm in desperate straits, for I've not hedged a stiver, and desperate men dare much on the off-chance, so my game is win honestly if you can, but win; and to win that way you must guard against raising the faintest shadow of suspicion on the part of the onlookers. No, no,' he shouted, as I was about to object, 'I won't hear a word until I have finished.

"'See here, now,' he continued, handling the whip, 'take this, and use it when your judgment tells you you cannot win. I should say you'd cut it too fine if you failed to act until you were less than 50 yards from the box; anyway, it would be risky. Press this knob at the time I tell you, and I'll guarantee Geranium does not pass the post, no not by 20 yards, no matter where the needle strikes her. Remember, it is our only chance, and the stake, £10,000, is yours if you pull it off, whether you use the whip or not. What do you say?'

"Well, I argued and hesitated and reargued, going over the old ground a dozen times, but he was always provided with a specious answer until I grew weary of his tongue, and finally gave way along the whole line of moral rectitude, and became the veriest fool that ever stepped, for from what little I could ever recall of the latter part of our conference, I believe before we parted I, with all the wonted zeal of a convert, became for the time a bigger blackguard and schemer than my mentor; but I swear that the death of a fellow-creature in connection with this bit of foul work never for an instant flashed across my brain.

"There isn't much more to tell. You see, sir, what a miserable wreck I am, and I daresay you wonder how I arrived at such a pass. From that evil day an ill-luck dogged my footsteps with untiring pertinacity, and do what I would nothing seemed to prosper under my hands. Perhaps the thoughts of the past had a deal to do with it, for I very soon sought oblivion for them in the dram shop, and owners and trainers alike were not slow to discover that I was fast going to the dogs, and declined to employ me; so, what with fast living and mad plunging, it was not long ere the crash came, and I was notified that I had overdrawn my account. Then the downhill road at once became very steep, and in endeavoring to keep soul and body together I ran through nearly every gradation of employment, every situation being lower than the preceding one—in fact, my life might be styled: From leading jockey to sandwich man;" and just before the old man, whose breath had been gradually getting shorter, gave up the ghost, he added, "and all through winning on a cross."—Tit-Bits.

Baked Spring Lamb Chops.

Season and cover with egg and bread-crumbs. Bake in the oven until brown, and serve with green peas or tomato sauce. If winter lamb chops are used, it is well to pour melted butter on them the day before using, and to scrape it off before dipping in the egg.—N. Y. Ledger.

—Horse racing was practiced as early as the days when Troy was besieged by the Greeks. In the plain before the city the besiegers celebrated holidays by sports and horse races, and Homer says the walls of Troy were covered with sporting Trojans watching the result.

BOROUGH NOTICE.

Public notice is hereby given that application in writing signed by John Herrmann, being a person who owns all of the land fronting on the Street proposed to be vacated, has been presented to the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield asking for the vacation of the unopened portion of Regent street lying easterly of Whitewood avenue, and that it is the intention of said Mayor and Council to cause the same to be vacated.

Such persons, if any there be, as object thereto are required to present their objections in writing to the subscriber on or before the eighteenth day of January, eighteen hundred and ninety seven, at 8 o'clock p. m. on said day. Dated January 4, 1897.

JAMES K. ARNOLD,
Borough Clerk.

1 5-7-9-12-14-16

Sale of Land for Taxes in Fanwood Township.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a warrant issued by the Township Committee of Fanwood Township, Union county, New Jersey, under their common seal, signed by their Chairman and attested by their Clerk, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided for the collection of taxes laid on certain lands in said township for the years of 1893, 1894, 1895, the subscriber, special constable for the collection of delinquent taxes, of said township, will on Thursday, the 4th day of February, 1897, at the hour of two o'clock p. m., of said day, at Town rooms, (Excelsior Hall) Scotch Plains, in the Township of Fanwood, Union County, N. J., by public auction, sell the lands and premises hereinafter described, taxed to the undernamed persons, to make the taxes with interests, costs, fees, charges and expenses thereon, to any person or persons who will take the same for the shortest time not exceeding thirty years, and pay the amount due thereon. The following is a correct list of those in arrears for taxes for the years of 1893, 1894, 1895, and a description of the lands upon which said taxes have been laid and that are to be sold, hereunder:

Walter E. Hyer, 30 acres, district 5, $38.48 in 1895.

George H. Muller, lot, district 4, $4.42, in '95.

J. C. Cloyd, 59 1-2 acres, district 8, $38.64, in 1893, $43.68, in 1894, $62.44, in 1895.

Wm. Thom estate, 6 3-4 acres, district 7, $3.60 in 1895.

HENRY COOK, Special Constable for th collection of special taxes.
Fanwood, N. J., Jan 4th 1897.
Fees $9.00. Press 1-5-12-19-26-2-2.

BOROUGH NOTICE

The ordinance requires occupants of property to remove snow and ice from sidewalks within five hours after it accumulates. Notice is hereby given that the penalty for violation of this ordinance will hereafter be strictly enforced.

B. A. HEGEMAN, JR.,
1 6 12 Mayor.

A New Year's Sermon

which has its practical side. During this year we're going to keep the same good qualities of goods which we have always been well known for. We are going to put as moderate prices on these goods as possible. It wouldn't pay us to do otherwise. We're in business to stay.

L. W. Randolph,
PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST.
No. 143 West Front street.
Telephone Call, 109.

Laire's Prices Current for This Week.

Coal sieves	09c
Coal shovels	05c
Cover lifters	05c
Galvinized water pails	18c
Wash boards	10c
Wash tubs	47c
Asbestos mats	05c
Rolling pins	05c
Can opener	06c
Iron pot handlers	15c
Slaw cutters	23c
75 feet clothes line	18c
100 clothes pins	05c
100 clothes pins	09c
Purity oil heaters, best made	$3.98
Demorest sewing machine	$19.50

The J. P. Laire Hardware Co
Telephone Call 49 L. 9 3 1y
Branch office of
GEO. O. STEVENS & CO.
COAL
747 WEST FRONT ST.

PUBLIC BOWLING ALLEYS
AT
117 and 119 East Second Street.
C. M. ULRICH,
2 22 1y. Manager.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

The Portland Range has duplex grate and ventilated oven door. 8000 are in use.

Stock Taking Opportunities

—as you know we offer them every year just about this time. 'Tis a season when every line in every part of store is decreased to smallest possible point. But the present Stock Taking Sale exceeds anything ever held in the past —make a note of prices, and see if we're not right.

BEDROOM SUITS

head the list - during sale, will offer this Bedroom Suit - one bed, dresser and wash stand, two chairs, one rocker, towel-rack and stand, one woven wire spring, one mixed mattress, two pillows, one bolster, one quilt, 14 pieces in all, $23.00 for entire lot - this special has NEVER been equalled. We've fully 50 other Bed Suits - ALL reduced

Here is the suit that's sold with 11 other pieces, for $23.00

PARLOR SUITS

100 different patterns - not one overlooked in this sale - all well made, new and pretty.

$25. Suits to $17. $40. Suits to $30.
$50. Suits to $35. $75. Suits to $50.
$125. Suits to $75.

DINING FURNITURE

Cane and leather-seat chairs, all patterns, 75c (were $1) to $10 (were $12)

Extension Tables:
$ 6. make $4.25 $10. make $7.00
$12. make $8.00 $50. make $30.00
Sideboards, $8.00 up.

CARPETS - Moquettes, 75c; Best Body Brussels, 90c; Velvets, 75c; Best Brussels 75c; other Brussels, 45c; All-wool Ingrains, 55c. About 50 rolls good, heavy Ingrains, formerly priced 65c and 75c, now at 35c and 39c yard. To "liven up things," we'll make and lay Carpets FREE at these prices.

ALL STOVE STOCK MARKED AT COST

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

CREDIT GIVEN TO ALL

NOTE NAME AMOS AND NO. 73 BEFORE ENTERING STORE

73 Market St. Near Plane Street NEWARK, N. J.

Telephone 550 Goods Delivered Free.

IS YOUR EYESIGHT DEFECTIVE?

There is no safer, surer or cheaper method of obtaining proper relief for over strained and defective eyesight, headache and so forth than to consult this Specialist. The happy results from correctly fitted glasses are a grateful surprise to persons who have not before known the real profit to themselves in wearing good glasses. No charge to examine your eyes. All glasses guaranteed.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,
EYE SPECIALISTS.

H. A. STILES will be at 107 East Front street, Dunham's real estate office, every THURSDAY, from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Powlison & Jones,

Dealers in

FURNITURE,

149 and 151 E. Front St.

The Better the Food The Better the Health.

MORAL

Use my White Lable Canned Vegetables.

California Naval Oranges. Tangerines. Table Apples. Preserved Fruit. White Grapes and Lady Apples.

G. W. ROCKFELLOW,
The Park Avenue Grocer.

W. J. STEPHENSON,

The Caterer,

Has RESUMED business again at his old stand,

146 NORTH AVENUE,

Where he will be pleased to see his many friends and former customers.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street Time Table in Effect NOVEMBER 15th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59 7 28, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 30, 8 38, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 37, 11 10 a m; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 00, 5 22, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 14, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30 5 36, 7 01, 8 12 8 33, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 00, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 8 00, 8 38, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 37, 11 10, a m; 12 03, 1 15 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 32, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 2 p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 36, 7 01 8 13, 8 32 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 13, 7 55, 8 35, 9 03 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 35 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 25, 5 42, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30 11 35 a m; 1 10, 1 35; 2 50, 4 05, 5 40, 7 20, 9 20, 10 2 Passengers for Newark please change car at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 2 11, 2 32, 3 35, 4 36, 5 05, 5 15, 6 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 39, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p m; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 03, 3 43 5 14, 6 35, 10 25, 7 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 30, 7 35 7 48, 8 19 9 05, 9 48, 11 46 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 2 25, 4 25, 5 26, 6 08 6 35, 8 07, 8 50, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a m; 12 08, 1 20, 5 10, 6 25, 7 52, 8 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m., 12 46, 2 11, 4 56, 5 15, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 38, a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 54, a m; 12 32, 4 04, 7 03, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 32 a m; 6 20, 7 20 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 54 a. m; 5 05, 5 15 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c, with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

5 05 p. m., way for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

4 55 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor Allentown Mauch Chunk Scranton, Wilkesbarre Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 38 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 14 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 25 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 10 27 a.m. 1 15, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, p. m. Sunday. (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 13, 10 04, 10 27 a.m 1 15, 3 12, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m.; 1 15 3 51, 5 32 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 5 45, 8 46 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37* 1 17 night. Sundays—5 17, 5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14* p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m. 12 48, 2 17 2 32*, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* p.m., 1 17 night. Sundays 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14*, p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 3 44, 10 44 a. m., 2 17, 5 34*, p. m., 1 17. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, p. m., 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West week-days at 9 54 a. m., 3 21 p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked * change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rate may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect December 2d, 1896.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7 41 a. m. Daily (Sundays 8 01) Local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m 3 34, 5 22, 7 32 p. m. daily except Sunday, Local for Bound Brook.

11 54 a. m. Daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday. "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

1 44 p. m. daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

2 34 and 4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6 25 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

8 22 and 9 54 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9 32 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn-Local-6 49, 7 15, 7 43, 9 40, a. m. 2 29, 4 45 and 6 40 p. m. Sunday 9 03 a. m., 2 21, 6 08 p. m. Express—7 23, 8 27, 10 02 a. m. 12 14, 2 17, 5 11, 7 07 and 8 17 p. m. Sundays—7 23 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 48, 7 50, 10 05 a. m. 12 13, 2 33, 5 20, 7 07 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 10 a. m. 2 20 and 6 30 p. m.

For Metuchen only 6 23 p. m. except Sunday.

For further information consult Ticket Agent.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent,
S. Bethlehem, Pa.
CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
Philadelphia, Pa.
A. W. NONNEMASHER,
Ass't General Passenger Agt.,
South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt or Desbrosses street.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 50 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor
109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F.

RUDOLPH KERSTING
BAKER AND CONFECTIONER
201–203 West Front Street.

TRY OUR NEW ENGLAND AND HOME MADE BREAD.

VIENNA BREAD A SPECIALTY.

Charlotte de Russe, Cream Puffs, Chocolate Eclair, all kinds of Pastry and Cakes, FRESH EVERY DAY.

Delivery to any part of the City or Borough at any time.

Greatest Sacrifice of Clothing.

No garment reserved. Our entire stock must be sold in two weeks at 33 per cent on the dollar; no trifling, no boasting, no delusion; you know us or ought to.

READ THESE PRICES.

Men's fine Melton overcoat, worth $10, at $3.75; Men's extra fine Sunday overcoat in Melton or English Kersey, worth $15, at $4.95; the finest overcoat in Plainfield, worth $20, at $7.50, silk or satin lined. Remember we must sell every overcoat in the house in two weeks. Men's Ulster, worth $10, at $4; fine Ulster, satin lined, all wool, worth $18, at $6.50; a good Men's Ulster at $3, worth $8. Men's heavy weight all wool suit, very fine finish, worth $12, at $4.25; extra fine Sunday suit in all wool worsted plaids, latest style, worth $16, at $5.90; a fine all wool English clay diagonal suit, in frock, worth $18, at $6 90; Men's handsome fancy silk mixed suit worth $22, at $7.90; a good working suit suit $2.75, worth $7. Men's fine Sunday pants, worth $5, at $1.75; extra fine, worth $7.50, at $2.90; a good working pants, worth $1.75, at 65c. Boys winter school suit, worth $3, at $1.25; Boys' ulsters, at $1.50, worth $4; Boys' heavy knee pants at 29c, worth 75c. These special prices will only last for a few days. Remember all goods will go for one third their value.

New York Clothing Company,
214 WEST FRONT STREET.
M. WEINBERGER.

Near Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,
— Dealers in —
Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.
BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Call at
J. F. MACDONALD'S
The Uptown Grocery.

And be convinced that it is our aim to supply the people with the best goods at the lowest prices and that we now have a full line of all the new goods necessary to make your order complete.

Musc Raisins,	3 lbs. for 25cts.	Figs,	10 cts. per lb.
Table "	5 " " 50 "	English Walnuts,	15 " " "
Currants,	3 " " 25 "	Paper Shell Almonds,	25 " " "
Cal. Prunes,	2 " " 25 "	Pecans,	18 " " "
" Apricots,	2 " " 25 "	Filberts,	15 " " "

A choice lot of apples $1.75 a barrel.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.
177 NORTH AVENUE.

Desks, Tables,
Easy Chairs, Rockers, etc.
Fine China,
Elegant Lamps,
Fancy Pottery.

G. Q. PACKER. J. W. GAVETT.

Special—We place on sale today a
Big Line of Suitings
and Trousers.
Trousers to order $3.50 worth $5
Suits to order $18, worth $25
SEBRING'S.

Bargains in Real Estate
For sale or to let.
MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,
Send for blank contracts. 169 North avenue
Armstrong Mulford, Assistant
BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss Helen B. Dunham,
TEACHER OF PIANO AND ORGAN.
Pupil of a German Professor. For reference address, Prof John C. Bergner, Clinton, New Jersey. Call on or address Miss Helen B. Dunham, Dunellen, New Jersey. s 20 6m

Get Your Turkeys, Chickens and Ducks for the holidays at
W.L. & J.M. Smalley,
94 Somerset street.
Telephone Call, 42b.

P. H. ZIMMER,
Practical Machinist and Engineer,
Steam, Gas and Electric Contracting. Complete Power Plants installed. Experimental work. General Jobbing. All kinds of repairing. EXCHANGE ALLEY, in rear of Trinity church. Bicycles built to order. 12

NEW DESIGNS
LARGE VARIETY.
HIGH GRADE
PARLOR HEATERS,
Stoves, Ranges and Oil Heaters
OUR PRICES ARE LOW.
Hardware, Heater and Furnace Work.
A. M. GRIFFEN.
119 E. Front st. Telephone 6

IF THE BEST WILL DO,
Try Royal Tooth Powder. 1 4-oz. can, 10c.; 4-oz. nickel-top bottle, 25c. It contains no acid or grit, and is recommended by all dentists of standing who will advise the use of Chalk and Castile Soap, flavored. Royal Borated and Carbolated Talcum, at 10c., is intended to give entire satisfaction and win your favor. Prepared by
ALLEN PHARMACY M'F'G CO.,
Plainfield, N. J.

CURED OF RHEUMATISM.

"Dr. Greene's Great Nervura Worth More than Gold."

S. R. THORNE, Chapin Home, E. 66th st., New York City, says:—I have been laid up with rheumatism thirty years; confined to bed months at a time, in the most excruciating pains.

"I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I am a new man to what I was. It has cured my rheumatism and I now have no pain. It has relieved me from trembling and nervous prostration. This medicine has been to me worth more than all the gold dug out in California, and does so much good that it should be known throughout the world."

MR. S. R. THORNE.

If constipated, use Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills with the Nervura. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Wall Paper
2cts. A Roll

Borders and Ceilings to Match, at
Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
201 Park avenue, corner Second street.

The Largest Supply House in the City.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work

Hillier & Co.,
19 North ave., Plainfield.
Telephone 30M

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No 2 Coal Only $3.75 'n the Y.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station

TOWNSEND'S
Marble and Granite Works,
SOMERSET STREET.
Our motto—Good work, good material, fair prices.

FRANK DAY,
114 WEST SIXTH ST.,
(Near Park Avenue.)
Livery and boarding stable in all its branches; all kinds of turnouts night or day at short notice. Horses boarded by day, week or month. Telephone No. 153. 9 10 tf

NEW YORK ELECTORAL COLLEGE

Efforts To Pass a Resolution Endorsing Platt for Senator Not Approved.

Albany, Jan. 12.—The electoral college met yesterday afternoon in the senate chamber and cast the thirty-six votes of the college for William McKinley for president of the United States and Garret A. Hobart for vice president. Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy was elected presiding officer of the college. James G. Cutler of Rochester was selected to act as messenger to the president of the United States senate, and Charles A. Moore of Brooklyn to act as messenger to the United States judge for the northern district of New York, and were given the official envelope containing the vote of the college for president and vice-president. Messrs. Howland, Milliken and Armour were appointed a committee to convey the letter to the Albany postoffice, which is to be sent to the president of the United States senate by mail, and which is a duplicate of the letter sent to that official by the special messenger. The work of the college was purely ministerial. The only event of any interest was the attempt of Henry Birrell of New York city to introduce a resolution endorsing the leadership of the Hon. T. C. Platt, as well as his candidacy for United States senator. Gen. Tracy did not consider such action proper and a telephone message was received from Mr. Platt saying that he did not want the resolution presented. The matter was then dropped.

New Jersey Electors.

Trenton, Jan. 12.—The New Jersey electors met at the state house at half past 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and cast the ten votes of the state for McKinley and Hobart. Samuel H. Grey of Camden was chairman of the college and Ernest R. Ackerman of Plainfield acted as secretary. All the electors, as well as Vice-President-elect Hobart and Senator Sewall, were dined by Mrs. Washington A. Roebling, at her mansion on West State street.

Connecticut's Electoral College.

Hartford, Jan. 12.—The republican electors of Connecticut met at the state house yesterday afternoon and cast their votes for McKinley and Hobart for president and vice-president. Their plurality in the state was 53,545, the largest plurality ever given for a president. Ex-senator James Graham was selected as the messenger to carry the official returns to Washington. The electors afterwards dined together at the Allyn house.

Pennsylvania Electors.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 12.—The republican electors in this state in November last met in the senate chamber yesterday afternoon and cast the thirty-two votes of Pennsylvania for McKinley and Hobart for president and vice-president. William Witherow of Pittsburg was chosen messenger to carry the returns to Washington.

Massachusetts Electoral Messenger.

Boston, Jan. 12.—The electoral college voted to have Peter Morrison of Boston act as messenger in carrying the official returns of the state electoral vote to Washington.

MILITARY CARNIVAL.

Brilliant Opening of the Athletic and Bicycle Tournament in New York.

New York, Jan. 12.—The military, athletic and bicycle tournament, which has for its object the raising of funds for the endowment of a hospital ward for national guardsmen, was opened last night in Madison Square Garden amid much splendor and enthusiasm. Long before 8 o'clock fully five thousand persons were in the amphitheatre and a constant stream of humanity continued to pour in. Shortly after 8 o'clock Lieutenant Governor Woodruff and the members of Governor Black's staff, in full uniform, entered the garden and took their places in boxes. As the gaily-plumed, gold-braided officers filed into their boxes, a mighty cheer, shaking the very garden, arose. Closely following upon the entrance of Governor Black's staff came Governor Cook's staff from Connecticut. Then came the New Jersey staff in escort of Brigadier General Spencer. The entrance of each was the signal of renewed cheering. In the other boxes were Gen. Howard Carroll, Col. G. M. Smith, Gen. Thos. Ruger, U. S. A.; General Miles, U. S. A.; Colonel Appleton and staff and a host of other well known military and social lights. The athletic programme was an excellent one, including the names of many of the crack regiment athletes of this and other cities.

Sullivan in Poor Debtors' Court.

Boston, Jan. 12.—The examination of the ex-champion pugilist, John L. Sullivan, in the municipal court upon his application for the oath for the relief of poor debtors, has been continued to Jan. 15. Sullivan was arrested a fortnight ago upon an execution in favor of a local florist for about $300.

Charged with Embezzlement.

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 12.—J. J. Jugh, alias A. M. Frost, alias A. M. Thompson, was arrested here last night on a warrant sworn out by Chief of Police Mulligan of Athens, Pa. Jugh is charged with embezzling $3,000 from Alfred Foyer, his former employer of Athens.

Wealthy Druggist Convicted.

Belvidere, N. J., Jan. 12.—William F. Shields, the wealthy druggist of Hackettstown, was yesterday convicted of the charge of committing a criminal operation on Lizzie Sliker, an 18-year-old girl of Hackettstown.

French Life Senator Dead.

Paris, Jan. 12.—Stanislaus Alphonse Condier, a life senator, is dead, aged 77. He was the author of a number of works upon commercial, industrial and manufacturing topics.

THE MONEY QUESTION

National Monetary Conference Convenes This Afternoon.

INDIANAPOLIS FILLED WITH VISITORS

Nearly 400 Delegates Present from All Parts of the Country—A Noted Gathering of Men of Importance and High Standing.

Indianapolis, Jan. 12.—The hotel corridors this morning present much the same appearance as on the opening day of a national political convention. Delegates with badges of the monetary conference pinned to their coats push in and out of the crowds that throng the lobbies. Men gathered in groups, earnestly discussing the problems that they have come here to help solve. Instead of professional politicians, however, those present are heads of commercial establishments—manufacturers, merchants, importers, railroad presidents and bankers—men of importance and high standing in the communities which they represent. The conference has no parallel in the history of the country. Its conception was due to the feeling that the money question was not entirely settled by the recent election; but that business men should take a hand in giving the country a sound financial system. Boards of trade and chambers of commerce in 250 cities have appointed delegates. Nearly all of the 400 delegates who were expected have arrived. The gathering is non-partisan. There is no cut and dried programme and no man can tell what will be the outcome of the deliberations which will be begun this afternoon and continued two or three days. The conference will follow the lines of a regular convention. It will be called to order at 2 p. m. by Hugh M. Hanna of this city, who is chairman of the executive committee, which was appointed at the preliminary conference. Hon. E. O. Stannard, ex-governor of Missouri, will be temporary chairman, and C. Stuart Patterson, dean of the University of Pennsylvania, will be permanent presiding officer. At a meeting of the executive committee last night it was decided to recommend these officers and also to recommend the appointment of committees on credentials, permanent organization and resolutions. To the latter committee all papers and propositions will be referred, and only a limited time will be permitted to a delegate to state the substance of his proposition. This will save the conference from listening to a number of lengthy essays on currency revision and prevent interminable debate. The consensus of opinion among the delegates who are here is that it will be impossible to digest the whole subject of currency reform during the time of the present conference, and that the wisest plan will be to make a declaration of general principles and appoint a non-partisan representative committee to formulate a legislative plan or to act in conjunction with a committee of congress in drawing up the legislation.

DISCHARGED FROM WEST POINT.

Thirty Cadets Fail To Pass the January Mental Examinations.

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 12—There are many chagrined young men among the corps of cadets at the Military academy to-day. The result of the January mental examinations has just been made known, and thirty of them were found deficient. They were discharged from the academy, and a number of them immediately started for their homes. Among them are the following: Fourth class—Herman Williams, Alberry, O.; Wm. Tyson Graham, Pa.; Joseph Cornelius Kay, N. J.; George Mason Lee, Va.; Edward Winson Robinson, N. Y.; Frank Robert Roth, Pa.; John Patrick Sullivan, La. Third class—Lewis Brown, jr., R. I.; Benjamin F. Sawtelle, Pa. Second class—Chauncey B. Humphrey, Kan.; William L. Reed, N. Y.; Philip R. Ward, N. Y. George M. Lee, in the fourth class, is a son of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, consul-general at Havana. Ward is a son of Adjt.-Gen. Thomas Ward. Sullivan was the heaviest man in the corps. Humphrey was a prominent member of the football team.

For Public Buildings.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The house committee on public buildings and grounds has reported favorably on bills authorizing the erection of buildings at the following named places, action having been taken by the committee at various meetings: Connecticut—Waterbury, $125,000; Bridgeport, enlarging building, $100,000. Massachusetts—Malden, $75,000; Lawrence, $100,000. New Jersey—New Brunswick, $125,000. New York—Brooklyn, extension to present building, indefinite appropriation. Pennsylvania—Washington, $75,000; Bradford, $60,000; Lebanon, $100,000.

The Prince of Wales' Plan.

London, Jan. 12.—The Prince of Wales in response to requests made to him for advice as to the most fitting plans for celebrating the occasion of the sixtieth anniversary of the queen's reign, has caused to be announced that he is confident that her majesty would prefer that the occasion should be marked by works of mercy among the sick and suffering, embracing any movement tending to brighten the lives and ameliorate the condition of the queen's poorer subjects.

For Contract Labor Law Violations.

Providence, Jan. 12.—Four suits have been begun by the United States government against the British Hosiery company of Thornton, this state, for violations of the contract labor law. Damages are placed at $1,000 in each suit.

THE PLAINFIELD CYCLE SHOW

WILL OPEN

TUESDAY JANUARY 12, 1897,

AT 132 NORTH AVENUE,

WITH A Full line of '97 WHEELS!

Call and see what we have.

W. H. ROGERS.

SPORTS

San Risen: 7:23 a. m.
San sets: 4:54 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be Lighted at 5:54 p. m.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Charles Krewson will soon open a pool tournament in his pool room on West Front street.

Tomorrow afternoon there will be a match shoot between John Benner and Clarence Lambert at fifty birds for $100 a side. The shoot will take place on the grounds of the Climax Gun Club.

Several mem ers of the Crescent Wheelmen are about to organize a gun club with the only "Tee Kay" at the head of it. The club will hold weekly shoots on the Crescent Oval and already much enthusiasm has been manifested in the new club. A meeting will be held in a few days to complete the organization.

The report of the Fish and Game Commissioners of New Jersey has just been completed, and it shows that during the year, fines amounting to $1,581.89 were collected for violations of the laws. The Fish Wardens received $14,644.18, and the entire cost to the State for the department was $25,444.75. During the year the commission purchased 50,000 trout, which were released in the different brooks and streams.

The first regular game of polo on roller skates will be played tomorrow evening between two local teams. The teams have named themselves the "Sons of Rest" and the "Sons of Toil." The latter will consist of the commuters among the players and the other team will be picked from the young men that remain in this city. The game will be played in the Jersey Cycle Academy and the teams will meet for practice this evening at the same place. The two teams will be composed of the following:

SONS OF REST.	SONS OF TOIL.
Smith, captain.	Freeman, captain.
Dupee.	Serrell.
Green.	Woltman.
Darling.	Brown.
McClure.	Platt.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The following is the standing of the clubs in the Journal Bowling League:

Parks	9	5	927	Westfield	5	5	858
Cranford	9	7	912	N. J. A. C.	5	7	921
Roselle	7	3	927	Bayon'e R.A	4	10	382
Elizabeth	7	7	922

They are old rivals, the bowlers of the Park Club and the Westfield Athletic Club, and when they meet an exciting contest is sure to follow. They met, last evening, on the alleys of the Westfield club and the home team proceeded to do up their opponents from Plainfield in fine style. The first game was very close and the leaders in the Central Journal League made a hard fight for the game but there is a hoodoo on the Westfield alleys which has always phased Park Clubities and they finally succumbed. The score of the first game was 835 to 807, in favor of the Westfield team. In the other game the visitors went all to pieces and bowled far below their usual standard. Maybe it was caused by their hard game with the yellow kids of the club last Saturday evening, for their score was unusually low. The final score was 805 to 694 in favor of the Westfield bowlers.

—W. H. Rogers, the bicycle dealer of North avenue, says that he considers the Spalding wheel the best machine on the market, and he will place it in competition with any of the other wheels.

—The members of Post No. 73, G. A. R., and Woman's Relief Corps will attend the funeral services of the late Isaac Brokaw who was a member of the above Post. The services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 from the house.

HAD EVERYTHING THEIR OWN WAY.

Plainfield Catholic Club Easily Defeat a Jersey City Team.

The bowlers of the Plainfield Catholic Club had everything their own way in their first games in the Diocesan Union bowling tournament with the team from the St. Peter's Sodality Lyceum of Jersey City. The games were rolled on the Plainfield alleys and the visitors were apparently bashful about making big scores while away from home. They seemed a trifle rattled for they missed the pins in a way that nearly broke the heart of their captain. Reville, captain of the local host, was in his element, and headed his team with high scores in both games.

While the games were pretty exhibitions of bowling on the part of the Plainfield team, they were devoid of excitement, as it was apparent from the start that the home team had a cinch on the games.

The individual scores were as follows:

Plainfield Catholic Club.

	1st game	2d game
Reville	191	178
Butscher	173	168
Kenney	154	130
Keeffe	161	188
Carty	155	176
	857	840

St. Peter's Sodality Lyceum.

	1st game	2d game
Ward	111	135
Crum	125	161
Rooney	142	123
Murphy	143	129
Martin	141	131
	663	679

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all Female Complaints, exercising a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, Constipation, Headache, Fainting Spells, or are Nervous, Sleepless, Excitable, Melancholly, or troubled with Dizzy Spells, Electric Bitters is the medicine you need. Health and Strength are guaranteed by its use. Fifty cents and $1.00 at Randolph's Drug Store.

A New Choral Society.

A new choral society is being formed by Mrs. May Jeffery, the well-known vocal teacher of this city. Application can be made at 322 West Front street, Wednesday from 2 to 5 p. m., and Friday from 6 to 8 p. m.

A License Transferred.

At Somerville yesterday John Hibbitts, beer bottler in the borough, had his license transferred by the court to Fred Hand, of Netherwood. James Loughlin, of this city, will run the delivery wagon for Mr. Hand.

A Camera Club Lecture.

An important meeting of the Plainfield Camera Club was held last night. The entertainment committee reported that the first lecture would be the one on "English Cathedrals" by G. A Audsley.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chillblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For Sale By L. W. Randolph.

—Mrs. Louisa Engvall, aged sixty-six years, died at her home on South Second street, corner of Prospect place, yesterday evening. Funeral services will be held from her late residence on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

—The installation of the officers of the A. O. H., will be held on Thursday evening in the hall in the Elkwood building on West Front street. A banquet will follow the initiation. The state and county officers are expected to be present.

H. DeMott,

Undertaker and Embalmer,

59 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.

Calls promptly attended to day or night. White and black hearses. Coaches latest style.

Board of Health Notice

The following proposed ordinance of the Board of Health has passed its second ding.

AN ORDINANCE

in relation to connections with sewers in the City of Plainfield.

Whereas: pursuant to Chapter 233 of Laws of 1886 in the State of New Jersey, the owners of property along the line of any sewers constructed for the purpose of carrying off the sewerage of said City shall be compelled to connect their houses and other buildings therewith in compliance with the ordinances, rules and regulations of the local Board of Health:

Therefore be it enacted by the Board of Health of the City of Plainfield, and in accordance with said law, that the owners of property along the line of any such sewers shall be compelled to connect their houses and other buildings therewith in compliance with the ordinances, rules and regulations of the said Board of Health set forth in the ordinance of said Board of Health entitled, "an ordinance governing Plumbing, Drainage and Ventilation" adopted June 25th, 1895, and to that end said property owners shall in the manner required by any ordinance of the City of Plainfield, make the necessary application to the Street Commissioners of the City of Plainfield, or to such other person as the Common Council may from time to time designate for that purpose for written permit so to do.

That the provisions of said act shall be enforced by a fine of twenty-five dollars against any delinquent who shall not comply with the terms of this ordinance within thirty days after written notification to make such connection with the sewer, by the President of the Board of Health or other officer designated by such Board, and an additional fine of ten dollars for each and every day after said thirty days in which the provisions of said Act and of such notice shall not be complied with.

G. W. ROCKEFELLOW, President.
H. O. NEWMAN, Secretary.
Plainfield January 12, 1897.

An Affair of the Appetite.

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT.
—Truth.

Cause and Effect.

The Little Fat One—Say, to look at you people'd think you had a awful ugly lookin father an mother.—Brooklyn Life.

Preposterous.

"Do you think that she will ever marry?"

"Marry? Why, she wears bloomers."—Chicago Post.

$35. Will buy you a First-Class High Grade BICYCLE.

Peck & Snyder and Winslow Skates from 49c. up.

PLAINFIELD CYCLE AND SPORTING GOODS CO.

147-149 NORTH AVENUE.

H. E. RIDER, President. C. C. LISTER, Secretary and Treas.

COURSE OF LECTURES BY

Prof. John Fiske,

of Cambridge, Mass.

Y. M. C. A. HALL,

Thursdays, Jan. 14th and 21st, Friday, Jan. 29th, at 8 p. m.

SUBJECTS:—

Jan. 14th—The Mystery of Evil, Viewed in the Light of the Doctrine of Evolution.

Jan. 21st—The Cosmic Roots of Love and Self-Sacrifice.

Jan. 29th—The Everlasting Reality of Religion.

Tickets for the course—$1.00—may be obtained at Armstrong's pharmacy—or from any member of the Club of Current Events.

No reserved seats and tickets will be sold beyond the seating capacity of the hall.

1 12-2 -27

Course of Lectures

by

LEON VINCENT,

Under the auspices of the Daughters of the Cross, at

Y. M. C. A. HALL,

Thursday Afternoon, January 28th—Carlyle and His Wife.

Thursday Afternoon, February 4th—George Eliot.

Thursday Afternoon, February 11th—Dickens.

At 4 o'clock.

Course Tickets - $1.00

For sale at Randolph's, Leggett's, Armstrong's and Shaw's Pharmacies. 1 12 tf

The Visiting Cards

that I furnish on engraving orders are the best that I know anything about and I pay 20 per cent more than the price of the "just as good kind." Each order delivered in a handsome white enameled box. Plate and 50 cards, name only, $1.25. 50 cards from your plate, 50c.

R. C. RAND'S,

140 West Front street.

NEUMAN BROS.,

FANCY GROCERS.

A few leaders in prices. Extra quality 3-lb can Shrewsbury Asparagus, 25c. a can; Extra Asparagus Tips, 3-lb can, only 25c.; Star and Crescent Peaches, 3-lb can, 20c.; Apricots, 3-lb can, 18c. Strictly Fancy Creamery Butter a specialty. Strictly Fresh Country Eggs, Warranted Fresh.

Treatment of the Hair and Scalp.

TOMORROW, WEDNESDAY, Mrs. Gould, of No. 250 West 22d St., New York, will be at her Plainfield office, 431 Park avenue, corner Fifth street, and also every Wednesday during the winter, for the purpose of treating ladies' and gentlemen's hair and scalp. If unable to consult her during the day, will treat gentlemen evenings. 1 5 oaw tu t

Randolph Runyon,

Funeral Director,

Residence, Over Office. Office 43 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J.

A NEW CHORAL SOCIETY

is being formed. Application can be made at 322 WEST FRONT STREET, Wednesday, from 2 to 5 p. m.; Friday, from 6 to 8 p. m.

1 12 4

A LITTLE STORY!

About a special fine lot of Hamburgh Embroideries which has just been received by us and put on sale.

They were made by a large manufacturer in St. Gall, Switzerland, and were the odds and ends of the factory.

THE PRICE IS JUST 1/2

the usual price asked.

They come from the narrow edge to 10 inches wide, the work being 5 inches wide on some of them. You will find them on three centre tables on the right-hand aisle as you enter the store.

ONE TABLE IS 5 Cts a Yard,
ONE TABLE IS 10 Cts a Yard, and
ONE TABLE IS 15 Cts a Yard.

They had not been on exhibition only a short time when one lady's attention was called to them and she purchased about $15 worth in a few minutes.

They sell quick at sight. They can't be duplicated. If you want any of them come in quick

Remember we are clearing out all our heavy winter stock now, and you will find plenty of

Real Bargains

all through the store. We are preparing another surprise for you, and in a few days you will know about it.

EDSALL'S.

The Strongest Claim

We make for the superiority of our

Demulcent Cream

OF

Witch Hazel

is that the people who have used it say it is the most efficient

TOILET REQUISITE

they ever used. For chapped hands it is unequalled.

Price 25c a Jar.

Leggett's Pharmacy,

Y. M. C. A. Building. Telephone No. 4.

WE WANT FEET

to fit our shoes. The invisible cork sole ones are particularly apprapriate this season of the year. We're selling them at right prices.

Doane & Edsall.

Store closes at 6, Saturday 10 p. m.

Last Edition.

THE DAILY PRESS

Last Edition

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 13, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

WHAT MR. FROST ADVOCATES FOR A GARBAGE DISPOSAL PLANT.

Believes That the Rates Proposed to be Charged by the Private Corporation are Exorbitant—Compares Different Rates.

The question of garbage disposal is one of the most interesting subjects now under consideration by the people of this city, and in addition to the interview on the streets and sewerage, printed in The Press yesterday, Councilman George H. Frost also gave the following interview on the first named subject to the reporter:

"The subject of garbage disposal is now prominetly before the people of Plainfield and the chairman of the street committee has very decided opinions on the subject. The Plainfield Sanitary Company, several weeks ago, applied for a twenty years franchise to collect and destroy the garbage of the city of Plainfield. This privilege was denied them and they are now seeking for permission from the Common Council to erect a crematory at their own expense on private property located on Dunellen avenue a few hundred feet east of Mountain View Farm. The system to be adopted is known as the Vivarrtas, as improved by ex-Councilmen Seymour G. Smith, of this city. A crematory of that system has been in operation in Scranton, doing what is reported to be excellent service. This is the extent of their request from the Council and for the further operation of the crematory it is intended to solicit the privilege of collecting the city garbage after the most improved plans, which involve the use of tightly sealed cans. These cans shall be returned to the citizens after being emptied and thoroughly scalded with steam so as to be absolutely deoderized. The garbage is to be burned at the proposed crematory and there is no doubt that it would be done without any offense to the surrounding neighborhood as far as the fumes from the crematorv are concerned. The inoffensiveness of this destruction of the garbage may confidently be assummed, as experience has shown that nearly all the crematories so far erected have accomplished this result.

"The proposition of the company, therefore, looks very enticing; a crematory to be built without expense to the city and an excellent system of collection organized. The price of collection is to be the same as at present; that is, 50 cents per month per house, making $6 a year for one house. Ashes are to be collected at the rate of 10 cents a barrel which would mean from $4 to $6 a year, altogether about $12 a year for a family of five persons or $2.40 per capita.

"The population of the city of Plainfield is about 15,000, and there would probably be 10,000 people that would contribute garbage for collection. This would mean that the company would receive $24,000 at the rate just given. Allowing for part of the ashes, which may be dumped into discontinued cesspools, say $4,000 a year, would still leave $20,000 to be paid for carrying away the garbage and ashes, leaving $2 per capita. From data collected from 149 cities where garbage and ashes are collected: for cities of 100,000 population or over, for collection and disposal on land the price per c pita for one year is 18 to 20 cents; for cities of between 40,000 and 100,000 population, the price is from 11 to 39 cents for the same service; and for still smaller cities the price ranges from 6 to 12 cents. These prices are for collection alone and add to each of them from 6 to 10 cents for the cost of cremation and we have for small cities like Plainfield, 12 to 22 cents per capita per annum for the complete destruction of the garbage inclusive of the ashes, as against $2 per capita for the same service by the proposed Plainfield company.

"It would seem then that all that is necessary for the city is a well organized place of garbage collection, which can be provided under the present system by the exercise of some organizing ability by the street committee and the Board of Health. Once organized, the service could be rendered at one-quarter of the price now paid and yet be as thoroughly efficient besides supplying employment to a considerable number of Plainfield's citizens, instead of placing it in the hands of a company at an exorbitant price while the company could not furnish any better service. Another serious question is whether it would be considered desirable to inflict upon the residents of certain streets the daily spectacle of garbage wagons, enroute to the crematory, instead of continuing as now in sending the same loads out of the city by several streets at

CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.

MODERN HISTORY FORCES

DR. RIGGS LECTURES IN THE UNIVERSITY EXTENSION SERIES.

Five Mighty Agencies Are Concerned an Civilization of the World Which Dr. Riggs Interesting Described Last Night.

The first of the second series of the University Extension lectures given this season was delivered last night by Dr. James F. Riggs, in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, before a large and appreciative audience. The subject of the course is "Vital Forces in Modern History," and the topic of the first lecture was "History as a Moral Science." It would be necessary, in order to do the lecture justice, to give it in in full, as it was so entertaining and delightful in style and so full of bright, fresh thoughts. Dr. Riggs said in part as follows:

"What are the vital forces now felt in modern life? Obviously, it is impossible to present all truth at once, and judgment differs as to relative importance of the various factors. But in this outline five mighty agencies are selected and briefly defined as a hint toward a fuller study. It is not our purpose to deny the reality of other agencies, only to emphasize those here named. Modern civilization owes its being and its nature to five living forces; the idea of imperial government, the idea of municipal society and charter privileges, the religious sense and ecclesiastical thought and feeling, scientific progress, inventions and discoveries of all sorts, and education and the intellectual evolution of humanity. I omit war altogether from the vital forces, because it is reactionary, destructive, ominous. I prefer to give time and thought to the agencies which are constructive and beneficent.

"All history is sacred history, i.e., it may be studied and ought to be studied in the light of the highest kind of truth. The acts of God are no less sacred than His words. History as a fine art is no better and no worse than any other fine art. It may be made merely a source of pleasure, like music, painting or architecture. But history as a moral science is a totally different matter. It is not an optional study, but a vital part of the education given us of God.

"We have outgrown one error in method, the folly of an exclusive reliance on narratives, by any writers whatsoever. Many other facts are to be considered: customs, languages, and, above all, institutions. Napoleon said: "History is only a fable agreed upon," and some persist in taking that view of it. This is absurd. Results argue a cause. Fruit argues a tree. History is a tracing back to their cause the effects which we now see.

"The mind that is burdened to the uttermost with the mere details of history will not be the one to make the most satisfactory analysis of the laws governing those facts. Niagara cannot be appreciated by him who merely examines samples of the water brought to him in bottles. History is a very Niagara of truth, and must be seen in bulk; it must be known and felt as a sublime unit.

"The student is warned to be on his guard in regard to certain points where it is natural to wander in the wrong direction. One allowance should be made for natural vanity in reading any author, as a sea captain makes allowance for the currents. The writer is perfectly fair in considering the rivalry of his own state with others. Arbitrary championship of any pet theory or individual, too, will go far toward destroying the historic value of any document. Power to discern between small and great is needed in a historian. Some writers are apparently incapable of distinguishing the matterhorn from a four-leaf clover, so far as the required space is concerned.

"In history we shall not be lost if we keep in mind certain great elementary moral principles. But these fundamental notions must be fearlessly applied and conscientiously worked out, otherwise they are worthless. The mind must supply an element which neither the facts nor the moral law can ever give. Facts do not make a historian, just as horns and fiddles cannot make a musician. All statements of specific facts must be tested, or modified by a two-fold rule to wit, agreement with the testimony of other writers and of other forms of truth and visible results, or fruit given to the world."

At the close of the lecture Dr. Riggs announced that the conversation hour following the lectures would be held during this course as during the preceding ones, and at the end of the course a written examination would be given to those who desired it. The subject of the next lecture, one week from last night, will be "The Holy Roman Empire."

—Advertise in The Daily Press.

NIPPING COLD IT IS.

AND AS A CONSEQUENCE ICE SKATING IS SPLENDID.

Ponds in This Vicinity Daily Thronged With Many Young People Who Glide Gracefully About on Steel Runners.

The recent cold wave that has visited this section has put the ponds in the neighborhood in condition for excellent skating and the young people of the city and borough have not failed to take advantage of the situation. The bright moon, which has made the last few evenings almost as bright as day, has added materially to the pleasure by making the evening skating delightful.

New Market pond is in good condition again and it was thronged with skaters yesterday afternoon and evening. Hyde's pond had its devotees and the mill pond and the meadows, which have been flooded, were both crowded. Smalley's pond was the scene of lots of enjoyment by the large number of skaters present there.

The cold was continued this morning, the mercury falling to 10 degrees above zero in the night. There was no wind, however, but the cold was very biting and the skaters who were out in the evening had to look carefully after their ears to prevent their being frozen.

ALLEGED FAULT OF THE DRIVER.

Miss Phelps' Suit for Damages Against R. O. Howell.

The suit for damages brought by Miss Phelps against R. O. Howell, the North avenue grocer, comes up in the Union county court at Elizabeth today. The readers of The Press will remember the accident which took place several months ago when Miss Phelps, who was riding her wheel, collided with Howell's delivery wagon which was coming in the opposite direction. The accident happened just at dusk and the general impression was at the time that the accident was unavoidable. Miss Phelps claimed that the fault lay with the driver and hence the suit. If the fact can be satisfactorily proved, the claim will be a good one as she was confined to the house for many weeks as a result of the accident.

Mr. Howell will be represented in court by Counsellor W. K. McClure and the lawyer for Miss Phelps will be Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh.

SINGING STUDENTS.

The High School Boys Organizing a Glee Club.

The movement on foot among the young men of the Plainfield High School to form a glee club, as was exclusively stated in The Press some time ago, has at last taken definite shape and a meeting of those interested in the new musical association was held at the High School building yesterday afternoon. Before organizing it was decided that it would be better to see if there was enough material in the school and so most of the time was spent in trying the voices of the candidates for the club and in singing several short and easy selections. Principal Travell met with the boys and acted as leader. There were eight who expressed a desire to go into the new club and several more who, though not present, are in favor of the forming of such an association in the school. The principal trouble is in securing the necessary tenors.

THE PARK CLUB WHIST TROPHY.

The Ridgewood Club Now Leads All Other Contestors.

The Park Club challenge trophy, which is being contested for by the clubs in the New Jersey Whist Association, changed hands again on Monday evening. The team from the Ridgewood club has been successful for the last three weeks and held the trophy in three contests with other clubs of the association. Monday evening, the team from the Roseville Whist Club played the Ridgewood four and finally defeated them by one point after a very close game.

The only other club in the association, which has not played for the trophy, is the Park Club, the donators of the trophy. The Park four will go to Roseville on next Monday evening to try their hand at the game and play the present holders of the trophy.

Long Time Between Visits.

Edwin Totton, who has been spending several days with his sister, Mrs. Ira G. Hurlburt, of West Front street, left for his home at Nevida, Ia., yesterday. He left his home three weeks ago last Sunday especially to visit his sister, whom he had not seen before in over twenty years. Mr. Totton likes Plainfield very much as a residence place, but he says the towns in the West are now growing rapidly, and in many instances the style of architecture far excels the eastern cities.

GROWTH OF VOLUNTEERS

PROSPERITY HAS BEEN THEIR LOT SINCE THE ORGANIZATION

Fred Gardner Takes the Place of Commander Booth Who Was Billed to Speak But Unable to Fill Engagement.

Reform Hall was filled to its utmost capacity last evening with a large audience which had assembled to hear an address from the commander and founder of the American Volunteers. Almost a year ago Commander Ballington Booth addressed a large audience in this city and those who heard him at that time were greatly disappointed as were all others present at the meeting last evening when it was announced from the platform that the commander could not be with the Plainfield people as he had just returned from a two thousand mile trip through the west and had received notice that he was needed in the north. The commander is somewhat tired out and it was thought best to postpone his Plainfield visit for a time.

In place of Commander Booth, Fred Gardner, of Montclair, and H. G. Smyth, of New York, were present. The principal address of the evening was made by Mr. Gardner and was substantially as follows:

"We are only about eight months old, but during that time we have organized 157 posts with 400 commissioned officers, and 55 staff officers at headquarters. Already we have established three institutions for the convicts of our land. One in New York, one in Chicago and another in San Francisco, with the view of forming another in New York in the very near future.

"One of the great works of the Volunteers is the prison work which is being carried on by Mrs. Ballington Booth. This work is the first of its kind which has been carried on in America by any body of Christian workers and is moving onward by the grace of God with amazing rapidity. The prison work is still only in its infancy yet, it is very strong and a work is being held up before the American people such as they have never seen. We are working very hard to give employment to the convicts of our prisons. Nearly 75 per cent. of our long-term prisoners die an untimely death, which is due to the lack of employment.

"The Volunteers of America are deserving of your sympathy. We are purely American and are incorporated under the laws of the state of New York. You can feel assured that any money you may give to us will stay in this country and will be used to help your fellow citizens.

"Perhaps you have heard it said that we are a high toned organization and neglect the work in the slums of of our cities, but we are not made of that material, thank God. I will tel you of what material we are made; we are composed of that which prompts us to speak the love of Christ wherever we are, in the palace or in the hovel.

"God is prospering us and we are growing stronger every day. We shall go on with our shoulders to the wheel and shall hasten on the triumphal march which is advancing onward to the kingdom of God."

Captain Merryman, who is to have charge of the post for the next term, was then introduced and spoke a few words, after which a few brief ceremonies brought the meeting to an end.

Run a Nail in His Foot.

Health Inspector P. V. Weaver, of West End Park, met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon, which confines him to the house. He was in the cellar at his home clearing away a pile of wood when he stepped on a long wire nail, which penetrated his foot. With difficulty he reached the upper part of the house, and his daughter, Mrs. V. L. Frazee, sent at once for Dr. Simpson. An examination proved that the nail had caused an ugly wound, which would need the best of care to heal properly. Mr. Weaver is able to get around the house with a crutch.

Game Meeting Tonight.

A meeting of the Plainfield Branch of the New Jersey State Game and Propogating Society will be held in the old Democratic Association rooms on West Front street this evening at 8:30 o'clock. The meeting is called principally to accept such new members as may wish to join from either Union, Somerset or Middlesex counties. Another important matter to come up for consideration is the purchase of young game for propagating purposes.

Mr. Boehm Branching Out.

The store formerly occupied by Hallock, the hatter, is being altered by the owner, I. H. Boehm, and in a short time the latter will use the store for his house furnishing goods department. Arches will be cut through the partition so that the two stores will practically be one.

POMP OF INSTALLATION.

NEWLY ELECTED OFFICERS JOINTLY DON THEIR REGALIA.

Winfield Scott Post and its Auxiliaries Had a Big Time Last Night—Sociability Followed the Official Installation.

One of the best joint installations ever held under the auspices of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., took place last evening when their officers, together with those of the Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans, doned their regalia for the ensuing year, with the pomp and display of the finest.

The rooms were filled with members of the organizations and their friends, who were deeply impressed with the ceremonies. A large delegation from Post 109, G. A. R., with Commander S. C. Baker in charge, was present and they were enthused with the exercises.

The presence of the Schurbert Club Ladies' Orchestra, under the leadership of Mrs. Buckley, was a signal success and during the evening the orchestra played several pleasing selections, which added greatly to the exercises. The Post officers were installed by Past Department Judge Advocate Emil Sands, of Post 3, Jersey City, and a more impressive installation has never been witnessed. The officers went through the ceremonies without a ritual, which is quite unusual.

At the close Commander McVoy made a few well-selected remarks, in which he thanked all for the courtesy extended and the co-operation given. The commander appointed E. C Morse as adjutant, while the latter selected W. Day as sergeant major, and C. R. Finck, as quartermaster. Following the above, the officers of the Relief Corps were installed by Past President Mrs. James Atwood, of Trenton.

These ceremonies were equally impressive with those preceding, and the excellent manner in which the work was performed was highly praised by all. The president-elect, Mrs. Stephens, appointed Mrs. Cox as secretary; Mrs. Bogert, guard, and Mrs. Devine as assistant guard.

The officers of John Hand Camp, No. 28, S. of V, were then installed by Past Post Commander James Atwood, of Trenton, assisted by Brother Reiger, of Camp No. 4, of Trenton. The work was performed in a highly creditable manner.

Captain-elect H. C. McVoy offered a few remarks in which he thanked all for the harmony and excellent support given during the past and he hoped it would continue.

The appointive officers of the camp were installed as follows:

Quartermaster, Fred Sutton; chaplain, Raymond McVoy; sergeant of guard, H. J. Martin; color guard, Charles Graves; principal musician, James Stryker; corporal of guard, John C. Hafner; camp guard, E. N. Connor; picket guard, John Naylor; camp council, W. C. Dobbins, W. V. Sutton and Charles Willis. The elective officers of the above organizations were published at the time of election, and only the appointive officers are given at this time.

After the installation ceremonies, Past Commander L. V. F. Randolph, of Post 73, was introduced and made a soul stirring speech, in which he said he considered it a great honor to be called upon. His words were filled with patriotism and love for country, and he laid great emphasis on the fact that the future of the country depended on the present generation. At the close he read an impressive poem entitled "One Hundred Years Ago."

The next speaker was Rev. L. E. Livermore, of Post 109. This interesting speaker only occupied a few minutes, but he urged greater union and progressiveness on the part of all. He said that his address was at 203 West Front street, and he could be found there. After another selection by the orchestra the exercises came to a close.

There were several visitors present from Trenton, Elizabeth and Somerville.

Cyclers to Have a Dance.

The Cleveland Cyclers, a new organization formed in this city about six weeks ago, with twenty members, will hold a reception and dance in the Gesang Hall on the evening of Thursday, Jan. 21. The committee of arrangements consists of Bert Sutphen, W. J. Keilly, Jas. Smith, Edward Sowden and Peter C. Blimm. The cyclers have fitted up cosy and comfortable rooms on North avenue as their headquarters.

—It is a little early to talk about a new wheel for this year, but the Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods Company, of North avenue, are already doing a good business in this line. Yesterday this company sent several wheels to purchasers in Florida.

UNION GOT HER SHARE.

REPUBLICANS OF THIS BAILIWICK FARED WELL WITH PLUMS.

Senator Reed Assigned to Several Important Committees and Immediately Introduced Two Bills of a Novel Nature.

Union and Somerset counties fared pretty well at the opening of the 121st State Legislature at Trenton, yesterday, and in the proceedings of the session her representatives will figure prominently. Senator Williams, of Passaic, was chosen president of the Senate, and George W. MacPherson, of Mercer, was elected speaker of the House of the Assembly. The other places were filled by the caucus nominees already published in The Press.

Assemblyman W. R. Codington was seen by a Press reporter this morning regarding the indications of the Legislative work. He said: "While everything may appear harmonious and pleasant on the exterior, yet in my opinion, it will be one of the liveliest sessions that we have seen in a number of years."

Senator Charles A. Reed told a Press reporter that it was hard to tell, at present, what kind of a session it would be but he thought that it would be about the same as usual.

Union county received her share of the appointments. In the Assembly, William Hulskamper, of Elizabeth, was appointed journal clerk, while in the Senate, Henry Rollinson, editor of the Rahway Advocate, was made secretary. Assemblyman Codington had the appointment of one page and re-appointed William Sebring, of this city, to the position.

Senator Reed had the appointment of a doorkeeper and a page for the Senate.—Theodore F. Stevens, of Bernardsville, was appointed doorkeeper and Alvak Noll, of Somerville, received the appointment as page.

The committees in the Assembly have not been appointed as yet but that will be done on Monday when the Legislature meets again. The Senate committees have been appointed and Senator Reed was made chairman of the Joint Printing committee and Senate Borough and Borough Commissioners besides being appointed on Revision of Laws, Riparian Rights of the Senate, and the joint committee of Treasurers Accounts.

Senator Reed has introduced two bills already. One provides for the changing of the colors of the official envelopes in the elections. The bill changes the color from white, as at present, to blue. The object of this change is twofold. In the last elections, there has have been a number of votes cast out as the voters forgot to put them in the official envelope. The judges of election were unable to tell if this had been done as the envelopes and tickets were both white. With the envelope blue, a glance would tell if the voter had neglected to place the ballot in the envelope. The other reason is that it is often hard for the voter, in the dimly lighted booth, to find an envelope in the mass of ballots on account of their similarity in color. The prosposed change would do away with all that. The bill was referred to the committee on elections. Mr. Reed introduced a similar bill a year ago except that the proposed color was yellow.

The other bill postpones the time when taxes become delinquent from December 20th to February 20th. This bill was referred to the committee on finance.

The reasons for the introduction of this bill are many, the Senator said. Money is always scarce at the last of the year, right after the holidays, and by this bill the people are given a chance to recover their financial balance. It will be of special advantage to farmers, who are now forced to hurry the sale of their crops so as to get the money to pay their taxes, while the delay would give them time in which to complete the sale without undue haste, and besides would give them an opportunity often times to secure better terms. Another reason is in the case of the people who have money in savings banks and are compelled to withdraw the money to pay their taxes. Heretofore they have been compelled to withdraw the money just before the interest comes due and the change would give them a chance to leave the money in until the interest due January 1st, has been paid.

There were several familiar faces at the opening of the Legislature besides the regular members from Plainfield and North Plainfield. Sheriff Kirk was there and so was Roger Murray, of this city, besides several others from here.

The match shoot which was to take place today between John Benner and Clarence Lambert has been postponed one week owing to the illness of the former.

$3,400.00 CASH AND PRIZES GIVEN FREE EACH MONTH FOR Sunlight SOAP WRAPPERS

As follows:

4 First Prizes, each of $100 Cash - - - $ 400.00
20 Second " " " $100 SPECIAL PIERCE Bicycles* 2,000.00
40 Third " " " $ 25 Gold Watches - 1,000.00
Cash and Prizes given each month - - $3,400.00
12
Total given during 12 mos. 1897, $40,800.00

HOW TO OBTAIN THEM.

Competitors to save as many SUNLIGHT SOAP Wrappers as they can collect. Cut off the top portion of each wrapper, that portion containing the heading "SUNLIGHT SOAP." These (called "Coupons") are to be sent, postage fully paid, enclosed with a sheet of paper stating Competitor's full name and address and the number of Coupons sent in, to Lever Bros., Ltd., New York, marked on outside (top left hand corner) with NUMBER of the DISTRICT Competitor lives in.

No. of District	NAME OF DISTRICT.
1	New York City, Brooklyn, Long and Staten Islands, New Jersey.
2	New York State (outside of N. Y. City, Brooklyn, Long and Staten Islands).
3	Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and District of Columbia.
4	The New England States.

*The Bicycles are the celebrated Pierce Special, 1897 Pattern, m'f'd by Geo. N. Pierce & Co., of Buffalo, Boston and New York. Fitted with Hartford Tires, First Class Nickle Lamp, New Departure Bell, Standard Cyclometer, and Hunt Lace Saddle.

RULES.

1. Every month during 1897 in each of the 4 districts prizes will be awarded as follows:

The 1 Competitor who sends in the Largest Number of coupons from the district in which he or she resides will receive $100 Cash.

The 5 Competitors who send in the Next Largest Numbers of coupons from the district in which they reside will Each receive as winner's option a lady's or gentleman's Pierce Special bicycle, price $100.00.

The 10 Competitors who send in the Next Largest Numbers of coupons from the district in which they reside will Each receive at winner's option a lady's or gentleman's Gold Watch, price $25.

2. The Competitions will Close the Last Day of Each Month during 1897. Coupons received too late for one month's competition will be put into the next.

3. Competitors who obtain wrappers from unsold soap in dealer's stock will be disqualified. Employees of Lever Brothers, Ltd., and their families, are debarred from competing.

4. A printed list of Winners in Competitor's district will be forwarded to Competitors in about 21 days after each competition closes.

5. Lever Brothers, Ltd., will endeavor to award the prizes fairly to the best of their ability and judgment, but it is understood that all who compete agree to accept the award of Lever Brothers, Ltd., as final.

LEVER BROS., Ltd., New York.

MONETARY MEETING

The Indianapolis Conference Gets Down to the Real Work.

MUCH INTEREST IN PROCEEDINGS

Gov. Stannard's Recommendations Meet with Favor---Fairchild Addresses the Convention---First Proposition from Chicago.

Indianapolis, Jan. 13.—Although the proceedings of the national monetary convention would not seem to be so great an attraction, still the sessions in Tomlinson hall are being attended by a big gathering of spectators, a many women also being sprinkled among the visitors in the galleries. The call read by the temporary chairman declared it to be the sentiment of the business men of the country that they should take part in shaping the financial legislation of the country, and that they would never agree to any proposition which would degrade the present standard of values. Mr. Hanna presented the report of the executive committee. The committee recommended that all resolutions concerning the currency and banking systems and mode of procedure shall be referred without debate to the committee on resolutions, to be appointed by the permanent chairman, and that each delegate present shall be entitled to one vote. E. O. Stannard of St. Louis was chosen temporary chairman. In his address he recommended that the greenbacks should be retired, that national banks should be permitted to issue notes up to the par value of bonds deposited to secure their payment; that paper notes of less than $5 or $10, should be circulated in the interest of a more general use of silver. These recommendations seemed to meet the general approval of the delegates.

Fairchild's Address.

Ex-secretary Charles S. Fairchild of New York was then introduced and address the convention. He said, in part, that nothing can exceed in importance the purpose which has brought this gathering here. For the first time in the history of governments a scientific financial question, a monetary question, was submitted to the people for popular consideration in our last election. It was a great test of our institutions, not alone in the way in which it was decided, but on the whole in the spirit with which it was considered. Now, the necessity is before the country of going onward and upward in another direction, and unless the educated, commercial and business community is alive and bestirs itself to influence public opinion, to educate not only their neighbors, but themselves, as to what is wise and best, then we will never attain a wise result. Therefore, he declared that it was most encouraging that these business men of what we call the middle west have invited their fellow business men from all parts of the country to come here and counsel together how best to improve the tools with which we transfer our property and our services from man to man, from city to city, from state to state, and from nation to nation.

First Proposition Presented.

The committee on credentials then reported that 270 delegates had been enrolled, representing trade and commercial organizations of various cities. The committee on permanent organization recommended the name of C. Stuart Patterson of Pennsylvania for president and a vice-president from each state represented. The report was adopted. After Mr. Patterson's address J. Harson Rhoades was recognized and allowed twenty minutes to present the views of the New York chamber of commerce, which he represented. He denied with much feeling the charge that there is hostility in New York and other cities of the east toward the west. Mr. Dausman of Chicago presented the first proposition for the consideration of the convention. It provided for the appointment of a committee of nine members to be appointed by the president of the United States within thirty day, including one member from the senate committee on finance and one from the house committee on banking and currency, to investigate the subject and report to congress by bill or otherwise.

Gen. Walker's Will.

Boston, Jan. 13.—The will of the late Gen. Francis A. Walker has been filed. All his property is left to his wife, there being no public bequests Mrs. Walker is the executrix.

CONNECTICUT SENATORSHIP.

Platt Nominated by Republicans To Succeed Himself---Sargent by Democrats.

Hartford, Jan. 13.—The republican caucus of senators and representatives for the nomination of a United States senator for six years from March 4, 1897, was held in the hall of representatives yesterday afternoon. Senator Warner of Salisbury presided. Hon. Orville H. Platt of Meriden was nominated to succeed himself by Representative Gallagher of Meriden, and the nomination was made unanimous by acclamation. The democratic members of the general assembly in caucus nominated Joseph B. Sargent of New Haven for United States senator. Representative Calkins of East Lyme presided at the caucus.

VENEZUELAN SETTLEMENT.

British Guiana Colonists Believe England Got the Best of the Bargain.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The first British Guiana papers published since the Venezuelan boundary agreement between this country and England has just reached the state department dated as late as December 23. They show that the whole arrangement, particularly the fifty year clause is highly satisfactory to the colonists, who consider that Great Britain has got the best of the bargain in every way. While the utterances are cautious, the papers express gratification "that Great Britain was able to secure its ends without any recognition of the Monroe doctrine."

Sails in a Crippled Condition.

New York, Jan. 13.—The American line steamship Paris, which left here this morning for Southampton on her regular voyage, started in a crippled condition and will only use one propeller during the passage. The agent for the company says the time of the voyage will be slightly lengthened thereby. The Paris on her last westbound voyage broke one of her propellers when two days out from Southampton, and completed the trip to New York with one propeller, making a good passage considering the bad weather.

E. G. Spaulding Critically Ill.

Buffalo, Jan. 13.—Hon. Eldridge G. Spaulding, president of the Farmer's and Mechanic's bank of this city, is critically ill and is not expected to recover. Mr. Spaulding is best known as the "Father of the Greenback," having originated the legal tender act while a representative in congress. He was born in Cayuga county in 1809, came to Buffalo in 1836, and is believed to be the wealthiest man in this city.

The Electoral Vote.

New York, Jan. 13.—As the result of the meeting of the various state electors on Monday last it is shown that McKinley and Hobart received 271 votes, Bryan 176, Sewall, 158 and Watson 18. Watson received 3 votes in Arkansas, 4 in Missouri, 4 in Nebraska, 5 in North Carolina, 1 in Utah and 1 in Wyoming. Bryan received 1 vote in California and 1 in Kentucky

Lieut. Peary Honored.

New York, Jan. 13.—Lieut. R. E Peary of the United States navy, who gained fame as an Arctic explorer, was the recipient last night in Chickering hall of the Cullom geographical medal. The medal was bestowed upon Lieutenant Peary by the American Geographical society in recognition of his services in polar seas in 1891 and 1895 when he conducted personally two expeditions to search for the mysterious apex of the earth.

Prizefighters Go Free.

New York, Jan. 13.—Manager O'Rourke, Referee Roche and pugilist George Justice, who were arrested for having been implicated in a prizefight at the Broadway Athletic club in which Johnny Duffy of Boston was killed, have been discharged from custody in the Jefferson Market Police court, the coroner having exempted them from all blame.

Payments on Warships.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The secretary of the navy has just made the fourth payment to the Newport News company on the battleships Kearsarge and Kentucky, and the fifteenth payment to Lewis Nixon of Elizabethport on the gunboat Annapolis

Postmasters Confirmed.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The senate has confirmed the following postmaster nominations: New Jersey—May J. Munson, Millington; George Mc Cracken, Dover; Charles W. Scott, Cramer Hill; Frank S. Dailey, Bloomfield; Michael J. Hickey, Raritan. William Pintard, Monmouth; William J. Whelan, Elizabeth. Pennsylvania—Thomas J. Butler, Mount Jewett.

AN IMPROMPTU FIDDLER.

Fun and Frolic on St. Patrick's Day in a Washout on a Western Railroad.

On St. Patrick's day, 1894, five through trains, bound to the eastward and westward, of the Oregon Short line, of the Union Pacific, were tied up at Glenn's Ferry, Idaho. They had been caught between two serious washouts, one at Pocatello and the other at Indian Creek, three days before, and had to wait at Glenn's Ferry for repairs along the line before they could proceed. Glenn's Ferry is a bleak little railroad and sheepherders' town of 300 or 400 inhabitants, situated on a sagebrush bluff overlooking the unspeakably dark and dreary Snake river.

The five stalled trains carried about 500 passengers of as miscellaneous a character as could be gotten together at a carefully selected congress of types. There were emigrants and millionaires; soldiers on the move; dainty women in palace cars and women bound for Creede and Cripple Creek in day coaches; miners who killed time during the wait in shooting magpies circling over the Snake river; Shoshone Indians traveling to the limits of their reservation; well-behaved and quiet people, noisy and tumultuous people. But all were stuck alike and they made the best of it.

Lines of social demarcation were for the time erased. All hands mingled easily on the little station platform and in the little station waiting room. The supply of food on the dining cars gave out the first day of the hitch, and everybody was fed, and well fed, too, in the station eating room. They sat down at the tables in relays, and patiently awaited their turns.

The railroad employes and their wives were to give a dance at the little town hall on St. Patrick's night. The switchman who had been customarily employed to fiddle for them had been switched to another division. In a quandary, the dance committee toured the trains and station to ascertain if any of the stalled passengers happened to be carrying a violin and was capable of producing music on it. In one of the sleeping cars they came across an artistic-looking man, with very long hair, a seraphic, oleaginous countenance, and exceedingly baggy clothes. They were looking for a fiddler, they said. Did he know of anyone on the train? Well, he didn't know (in outrageously bad English); he played a little himself once in awhile, and had rather a fair fiddle with him. The long-haired man accented the "fiddle" rather curiously. But the railroad men were overjoyed. Would he play for them to dance with their wives and sweethearts? Certainly! Did he know dance music? Well, some.

All of the stalled passengers were invited to the dance, and they all went. A good many of them could not get in. The baggily clothed fiddler turned up in good time. The pianist was waiting for him. So was the railroad dance committee, one of the members of which slipped three dollars in one-dollar bills into the fiddler's hand as payment in advance for the evening's work. It was smilingly accepted. The dance began. The fireman's wife, who played the piano, produced an old bethumbed violin and piano tune book, and turned to the lancers. She told the fiddler at the end of the first dance, that he did pretty well, only he went too fast. Then there was a waltz. The fiddler was informed by his accompanist that he was getting along finely, and everybody in the room began to prick up his ears at the sweetness of the violin music, although the dances were common enough and tawdry enough.

Another waltz—the "Beautiful Blue Danube." All of the dancers on the floor stopped dead at the first bar, and the travelers with cultivated musical ears moved close to the piano. The pianist ceased. She wanted to listen. The violin music was miraculous. The player swayed from side to side as he phrased. He appeared to be oblivious of his surroundings. He improvised variations of inspiring tenderness. He out-Straussed Strauss. His violin sang, throbbed with passion. When the last note died away the people in the hall appeared to be in a dream. All but one.

"M. Ysaye," said "Charley" Fair, the son of the late United States Senator Fair, stepping from the throng, "won't you play that lively, rattling thing you gave us at the Bohemian club in San Francisco the other night? It's been running in my head ever since."

M. Ysaye played Berlioz' "Pizzicato" as he never played it before.—Washington Star.

Connecticut N. G. Resignations.

Hartford, Jan. 13.—Gov. Cooke has accepted the resignation of the following members of the brigade staff, C. N. G.: Major Walter Fitzmaurice of New London; Major T. C. Watrous, Hartford; Capt. W. H. Pendleton, New London.

Increase of Capital Stock.

Albany, Jan. 13.—The Edison Electric Illuminating company of Brooklyn has filed with the secretary of state a certificate of increase of its capital stock from $3,750,000 to $4,000,000.

President Brisson Re-elected.

Paris, Jan. 13.—M. Henri Brisson was re-elected president of the chamber of deputies yesterday, receiving 295 votes.

A Great Battle.

Do consumptives recover? Yes, thousands of them. Even after the disease has a firm hold? Yes, no doubt about it. After cavities have been formed and hemorrhages have occurred? Yes, even then. If the system is too weak, the disease will probably conquer, but if the body can be reinforced there is a fair chance for a winning fight. For twenty years, thousands have testified how they gained the victory.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with the Hypophosphites is still coming to the rescue. Out-door life, fresh air, and good pluck are of immense value. But in addition to these the body must be supplied with that peculiar kind of fat which is found only in cod-liver oil; combined with valuable medicinal agents; and there must be the tonic effect which comes from the hypophosphites. It is a great battle, and a great victory is often gained.

"Just as Good" is not SCOTT'S EMULSION.

50c. and $1.00 a all druggists.

SCOTT & BOWNE. New York

J. C. Pope & Co.
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset street. 6 13 tf

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.
Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

Honeyman's Private Tours.
Plainfield, N. J.
To Florida, February 9—Two weeks.
To Inauguration, Washington, March 3—Two days.
To Washington, Easter Vacation, April 6—Three days.
To Europe, June 30—Two months.

Climatic Extremes

OF
NORTH and SOUTH
are blended ideally at
OLD POINT COMFORT
AND
RICHMOND, Va.,

Thus making these the most desirable places for winter outings.

They may be reached delightfully by the luxurious and modern steamships of the

Old Dominion Line

Sailing every week day from New York.

Send for full information.

Old Dominion S. S. Co.
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILLAUDEU, Vice-Pres't & Traffic Mgr
12 17-6 m

Much in Little

Is especially true of Hood's Pills, for no medicine ever contained so great curative power in so small space. They are a whole medicine chest, always ready, always efficient, always satisfactory; prevent a cold or fever, cure all liver ills, sick headache, jaundice, constipation, etc. 25c. The only Pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills

A JEWEL.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear."
And many a gem by mortals here unseen
Are waiting to be worn by some sweet fair.
In our well-stocked cases now are laid
Jewels that shine with scintilating fire;
In the latest fads and fashions made
That the connoisseur in jewelry must admire.
Design and workmanship are of the best,
So lovely woman do not hide
Those charms that Nature's sweet behest
Endows you with, but with woman's pride
Enhance your beauty as you see best.

COLLIER,
103 Park Ave. Established 1869.

THE BEE HIVE.

Men's Unlaundered Shirts

Lot 1—The "Cast Iron Shirt," made of good heavy muslin, good 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—38c.

Lot 2—New York Mills muslin, 3-ply fine linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—48c.

Lot 3—Our New York Mills shirt, made of New York Mills muslin, 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced ront and back, continuous facing and hand-made buttonholes, equal to the best custom-made shirt—69c.

Boys' unlaundered shirts, 38c.

Men's laundered shirts 50c., 75c. and $1.00

LOUIS CALLMAN
222 West Front Street.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS
IN ENDLESS VARIETY
AT HARPER'S,
411 PARK AVENUE.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Boots, Shoes & Rubbers.
AT FORCE'S,
119 West Front St.
Formerly 129 Park Ave. 39 tf

L. A. HUMMER'S
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
230 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

Rushton, Hansen & Luthman,
PAINTERS
AND PAPER HANGERS,
Office and shop Sycamore and 4th sts.
Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 3 11 tf

Potter & Kellogg,
DEALERS IN
Lehigh Valley Coal.
Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard—At Mt. Pleasant, Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1-y

The Metropolitan Boarding Stables
C. V. D. CORLE. - - - - - - - Proprietor
No. 128 East Second street. Livery and Boarding and Sale Stable. Horses boarded by the day, week, month or hour. Reasonable prices. 11 17 1y

HERMAN KELLER,
Manufacturer of and Retail Dealer in
Cigars, Tobacco, etc.
"PRIDE OF PLAINFIELD" CIGAR a specialty 118 North avenue. 9 26 tf

MRS L. ADAMS,
MILLINERY.
Ready made gowns and dresses ordered from samples. All the latest novelties of the season.
114 EAST FRONT STREET.

Laire's Prices Current for This Week.

Coal sieves	09c
Coal shovels	05c
Cover lifters	05c
Galvinized water pails	18c
Wash boards	10c
Wash tubs	47c
Asbestos mats	05c
Rolling pins	05c
Can opener	06c
Iron pot handlers	15c
Slaw cutters	23c
75 feet clothes line	18c
100 clothes pins	05c
100 clothes pins	09c
Purity oil heaters, best made	$3.98
Demorest sewing machine	$19.50

The J. P. Laire Hardware Co
Telephone Call 49 I. 9 31y
Branch office of
GEO. O. STEVENS & CO.
OAL.
747 WEST FRONT ST.

A New Year's Sermon

which has its practical side. During this year we're going to keep the same good qualities of goods which we have always been well known for. We are going to put as moderate prices on these goods as possible. It wouldn't pay us to do otherwise. We're in business to stay.

L. W. Randolph,
PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST.
No. 143 West Front street.
Telephone Call, 109.

BAKERY.
No. 132 Park Avenue.
Fine Bread, Cake, Pastry and Pies of all kinds. All orders promptly attended. A share of the public patronage is respectfully solicited.
S. H. Schleif,
Proprietor.
1 7 1y

E. D. BARRETT,
No. 146 East 8th St.
Sole Agent for the
Richmond Heaters.
STEAM and HOT WATER.
SANITARY PLUMBING

ALEX. LUSARDI.
211 West Front Street,
Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores. 9 27 1ear

Joseph Carbone,
128 NORTH AVENUE,
Wholesale and retail dealer in choice fruits nuts, etc., all kinds of temperance drinks. Closed Friday night, sun down. Open Saturday evening at sun down. 12 14 1y

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.
Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before re-sewering with new sewer.
Telephone Call 128a

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS.
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

The Largest Selection of Wall Papers
—AND—
Painter's Supplies
in Plainfield.
Woolston & Buckle,
141-145 North avenue.

Safe Deposit Vaults
THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK
Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital..... $200,000.
Surplus and Profits..... $90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. RUNYON, Ass't "

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Corlell,
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil,
Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Rushmore,
J. W. Johnson, Wm. R. Codington.
F. S. Runyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

Christmas Wreaths Roping Holly, etc. Also, Palms,
Rubber Trees, Begonias, Ferns Floral Designs, House and Church Decorations. Southern Smilax at 15 days notice.
DENTON'S.
131 Hillside avenue.

A GOOD FIRE
will make cheerful many of the evenings of the New Year. We'll sell you the coal—good coal—and plenty of it. We don't sell you dirt for coal. We don't sell you short measure. We want your coal trade always.
D. C. IVINS & CO.
Coal, Lumber, &c. 301-311 Watchung Ave.

CLEANER COAL.
and L. A. RHEAUME, N. H. SAXTON.
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invite the public to inspect the operation of their newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which they confidently believe enables them to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Kindling Wood a Specialty.

Rushmore & Co.,
WATCHUNG AVENUE,
COR. FOURTH ST.
Lumber yard and Planing Mill.
Large and full assortment of lumber including 21 varities from Hemlock to Mahogany always in stock. Window frames, moulding, sash, doors and blinds. Hardwood floors a specialty. Turning and scroll sawing. We can make anything. Call and see us. Satisfaction guaranted.

"It is Making a Hit."
FEIGENSPAN'S Finest Pale Ale
IN BOTTLES, and
FEIGENSPAN'S SAAZER BEER
At Hotel Grenada Bar.

The Plainfield Confectioners,
112 West Front street.
Candies from 10, 15 and 20 cents per lb. up. The very best goods. Made daily on the premises. Formerly known as the New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Comp'y. 9 9 1y

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
I. E. Beerbower, Prop

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL,
No. 711, Royal Arcanum.
The regular meetings of this Council are held the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
Harry C. Adams, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

MULLINS & SONS
218-220 Market St., Newark.
BIG SALE
OF
PARLOR SUITS AND CARPETS.
Handsome New Parlor Suits, upholstered in Brocatelle, Silk Tapestry, Mohair, Plush or Rug. It is worth while your time to see them even if you do not intend to buy.

$25 $25
Such values have never before been offered. Over 100 styles to select from. No other house shows as large a stock. No other house can offer you such great values.

All Parlor Suits Reduced From $2 50 up.

CARPET BARGAINS.
Tapestry Brussels 45c. yd
Milton Velvet 85c. yd
Ingrains 35c. yd
All of the highest quality of carpets and new designs.
Don't Miss Our Great Sale of Parlor Suits.
Easy terms of credit to everybody. We will furnish your home for $1 per week. Make your own terms.
MULLINS & SONS.
218-220 Market St., Newark.
Branch Stores 78-84 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. 121-125 Newark Ave., Jersey City, N. J. 136-138 Main St., Paterson, N. J.

Have You Bought Your OVERCOAT?
If not, come to WERNER'S CLOTHING HOUSE and take advantage of the CUT SALE now going on.
STOCK MUST BE SOLD.
Hats and Furnishing Goods a Specialty.
H. WERNER, Clothier,
No. 206 West Front Street.

COLD WEATHER GOODS
AT
PUTNAM & DEGRAW'S
Underwear, Gloves, Hosiery, &c.
Agents for the "Golden Rule" CLOTHES RACK and IRONING TABLE, $1.00 each.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country. Charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed. Orders may be left at Sattel's music store, 221 Park ave.

P. MARKEY, Bakery,
144 PARK AVENUE.
A full assortment of bread, cakes, and pies fresh every day. Fig and malt bread a specialty. 2 17 tf

Advertised Letters.
Plainfield January 11th, 1897.

Burke Marg't	Klenck Edward
Chase Chas A	Lavery John
Chase Geo B	Noe Miss Sarah
DeMary Mrs	Ogden Mrs Mary
Edwards Mrs Wm A	Phraner Mrs Wm W
Harkins Mrs John	Runyon Jos
Hall Mrs Benj E	Runyon Mrs E C
Hoagland Mrs El'z'th	Ryan Maggie Ann
Huffman Wm	Taller Miss Eda
Hubbard Mrs Alice A	Townsend Mis Phœbe
King Mrs Chas	Waring Mr & Mrs John

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS.
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Bui

BRAIN FOOD.

Edw. P. Thorn,
RETAIL DEALER IN
Fish, Oysters, and Clams.
Terms Cash. Goods Delivered

A. H. ENANDER
Sanitary Plumbing,
Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections
210 PARK AVE.

Within the reach of all.
ACCIDENT TICKETS
THE INTER-STATE
Casualty Company of New York
gives SIX MONTHS' insurance
$1.000 for $1.00,
to men or women
between 18 and 60 years of age, against accidental death. $100,000 deposited with the Insurance Department of the State of New York for the security of the insured.
For sale at office of
Honeyman's Private Tours,
181 North Ave. Plainfield, N.J.
6 25-6 mos

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
191 North avenue

NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE
Sewer Connections.
DAVID BOWDEN,
General Contractor, 109 Park ave., Plainfield N. J. Carriage drives macadamized, sewer and sewer connections promptly made, lawn carefully restored. All work done in a practical and skilful manner.
28 YEARS EXPERIENCE
Best of references furnished. Charges moderate

REVERE HOUSE
PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD New Jersey.
Families accomodated for the fall and winter months at greatly reduced prices.
The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed
GEO. B. DE REVERE

E. H. Holmes,
Dealer in
Coal & Wood.
Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.
Telephone 49-A.

HOTEL TUILERIES!
AND ROGER'S RESTAURANT,
139-141 East Front street.
ROOMS TO LET. CATERING.

30,000 CIGARS
of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of the city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.
M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue,
8 15 tf Plainfield

W. N. Pangborn,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Residence, 33 Linden Ave.
Personal attention. Prompt service.
1 14 tf
Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

PIANOS
If you want a deep, clear, rich tone, and the best material, buy your PIANOS at W. R. BROKAW'S. Piano Parlors, 311 Madison ave. Bargains in second-hand instruments. Parlors always open. Tuning and regulating a specialty.

Your Valuables
will be safe in
Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.
Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

J. W. VanSickle,
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.
Philadelphia Scrapple.

C. W. LINES,
Mason and Builder
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly t.

William Hand & Son
STAGES
For Parties, etc., 518 Park ave

GREAT BANQUET AT BUFFALO.

Successful Transmission of Electric Power from Niagara Falls Celebrated.

Buffalo, Jan. 13.—The successful transmission of electric power from Niagara Falls to Buffalo was celebrated last night by a banquet at the Ellicott club, which was attended by about four hundred invited guests, among them many of the most famous electricians, inventors, manufacturers and capitalists of the age. The menu was simple in character, but the menu cards were elaborately gotten up, the covers being made of aluminum manufactured at Niagara Falls with the electricity developed there, and with the name of each guest engravde thereon. The banquet hall was handsomely decorated. The guests were seated at eight tables arranged in rows, each accommodating about fifty persons. Among the most notable personages present were Nikola Tesla of New York, Elihu Thomson of Lynn, Mass.; E. J. Houston of Philadelphia, Charles F. Brush of Cleveland, inventor of the Brush system of electric street lighting; Elisha Gray of Chicago, a famous writer on electrical subjects; Charles A. Coffin of Boston and George Westinghouse of Pittsburg, of the famous Westinghouse system. Letters of regret were read fram President Cleveland, President-elect McKinley, Governor Black and others. When the menu had been disposed of the guests devoted themselves to speech making, Francis Lynde Stetson of New York acting as toast master.

FOR THE CRIME OF REBELLION.

Four Rebel Prisoners To Be Shot at Havana To-day.

Havana, Jan. 13.—Official reports received here give accounts of several skirmishes between detachments of troops and bands of rebels in various localities, in which the aggregate losses of the rebels were thirty-nine killed, eleven taken prisoners and a large number wounded. The aggregate losses of the troops were one killed and eighteen wounded. Gen. Toral reports that the rebels in strong force made an attack upon the town of Caney, in the Santiago de Cuba province, but the troops under his command met the attack with a bayonet charge and repelled and dispersed the enemy. Leocadio Rodriquez was shot at the Cabana fortress yesterday for the crime of rebellion, and Claudio and Perez Mendel and Jose and Perez Garcia will be shot at the same place today for the same crime.

Bust and Portrait of Major McKinley.

Canton, O., Jan. 13.—Major McKinley had two French artists of distinction at his house yesterday. One is Leon Braconni, the sculptor, who has just finished a beautiful bust in marble of the president-elect. The other is T. H. Chartran, who was sent here by Andrew Carnegie to paint a portrait of Major McKinley. Major McKinley has expressed great satisfaction with the bust by Braconni and his friends unite in the opinion that it is the most successful portraiture of him that has been made by a sculptor.

Fined for Assisting Clandestine Emigration

Washington, Jan. 13.—Commissioner-General Stump is informed by Baron Fava, the Italian minister-resident, that the Italian government has fined two sub-agents 500 lires each and sentenced to one month in jail for assisting clandestine emigration to the United States. The Italian government has instituted a license system for emigration ticket agents, and each one has to give a bond in $10,000 for the faithful performance of his duties.

Death of Dr. Asa J. White.

Cortland, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Dr. Asa J. White, one of the best known and most skilful physicians in this country, is dead of apoplexy. He was born in 1838 in Newfield, Tompkins county, New York, and graduated from the Buffalo Medical college in 1865. He was one year an assistant surgeon of the 109th regiment. A widow and two daughters survive him. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity.

Captain Murphy's Trial Postponed.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 13.—Captain Murphy appeared in court with his arm in a sling, the limb having been broken when he was washed ashore on the Florida coast after being wrecked on the Commodore. United States Senator Gray and H. H. Ward, counsel for Murphy, asked a postponement owing to the absence of a material witness. The motion was granted and March 9 fixed as the day for the trial.

Vesuvius Again in Commission.

Philadelphia, Jan. 13.—After having been out of service for more than a year, during which time she has been thoroughly overhauled and repaired, the United States dynamite gun vessel Vesuvius went into commission yesterday afternoon. The cruiser's stores and ammunition are ready for her and will be put aboard at once, and the ship will sail in a few days for southern waters to watch for filibusters.

The Omaha Exposition.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Secretary Carlisle has issued customs regulations to govern exhibits at the Omaha Trans-Mississippi and International exposition at Omah, Neb., in 1898. The regulations are identical with those in force at the Atlanta exposition in 1896.

Foul Play Suspected.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 13.—Wm. Scully, aged 30, of Peekskill, N. Y., a steam driller working here for some time past, has been missing since Wednesday last. He had $150 with him and some believe that he has been foully dealt with.

Fourth-class Postmasters.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The following fourth-class postmasters have just been appointed: Maine—H. D. Crie, Criehaven. New Jersey—J. Henselman, Cologne. Pennsylvania—Mrs. L Sheeder, Shermansdale.

CONTRADICTS MONEY

His Representation of Affairs in Cuba Said To Be Incorrect.

NO SIGNS OF WAR AT HAVANA

A New Yorker, Well Acquainted in the Disturbed Island, Declares That the Situation There Has Been Greatly Exaggerated.

New York, Jan. 13.—The representations of Hernando De Soto Money, member of congress and senator-elect from Mississipi, as to the state of affairs in Cuba, are pronounced to be incorrect in many particulars by J. A. Wood, an architect, of 163 Broadway, who was in Cuba at the time of Mr. Money's visit, and personally investigated the situation there. Mr. Wood's business affairs have taken him to Cuba every year, but one, since 1886, and he is personally known to many Cubans. During his last visit to the island which terminated Saturday, Jan. 2, four days after Mr. Money's arrival in Havana, he traversed in safety a part of the territory which Mr. Money has declared to be unsafe, and at the mercy of the insurgents, and investigated for himself the reported massacre of pacificos at Guanabacoa, which has been cited by Mr. Money as an instance of Spanish atrocity. Concerning this he said:

The Attack on Guanabacoa.

"Mr. Money states that he was informed by General Weyler that there were only a few scattered hordes of rebels in the province of Havana and denies it in this language: 'Only a few days before my arrival the insurgents three nights in succession attacked the city of Guanabacoa, of 25,000 inhabitants, within four or five miles of the city of Havana and burned twenty-five houses. They were unopposed by Weyler's troops; they did as they pleased and withdrew.' Now," said Mr. Wood, "I made close personal inquiry into the affair at Guanabacoa and learned very different facts. I was in the city of Guanabacoa on the day of the trouble, but did not hear of it until I returned to Havana. There were many rumors current concerning the damage done and the loss of life, but the most extravagant of all these rumors placed the number of dead insurgents at eighteen. As a result of investigations I learned beyond a shadow of a doubt that not more than two insurgents were killed. And yet in the report given out by Mr. Money, it appears that he added of his own volition nine persons to the list of the dead as it was irresponsibly estimated at first.

The Warlike Noises at Night.

"The reports of insurgent attacks on the suburbs of Havana are among the curious things of the war in Cuba. It is frequently announced that the residents of Havana are alarmed at the sounds of firing during the night, the inference being that the insurgents are bold enough to assail the outskirts of the city. There is a shrewd class of cafe proprietors at Guanabacoa and other suburbs of Havana. They all want their towns garrisoned for business reasons. These mock engagements are a very good means of demonstrating their need of protection. The people of Havana have ceased to be alarmed at warlike noises by night since the cause of most of them has become generally known. The inference of Mr. Money concerning the prevalence of epidemics and the inadequacy of the Spanish hospital service are not borne out by my observations. I was in Havana eleven days and saw but two of the yellow smallpox flags. There are a few cases, but no more than usually follow in the wake of an army. The disease is not known to be epidemic in Havana now. Yellow fever always exists in Havana to some extent, but it is not especially prevalent now. Mr. Money says: 'I was at once given an option when I arrived of being vaccinated or arrested.' I entered Cuba without any such experience. I was vacciuated on leaving the port for the United States on the day of my departure.

No Tax Paid to Rebels.

"In bearing out his statement that the country around Havana is not safe from insurrectionists," said Mr. Wood, "Mr. Money says that the insurgents are so close and powerful that they levy a tax on all the fruit, vegetables, corn, milk and meat that enter Havana. 'It is a tax like a tariff,' said Mr. Money, 'and goes to the height of about 25 per cent. ad valorem. Not a mouthful of Cuban products,' he adds, 'is to-day eaten in Havana that does not pay a tariff to the revolution. In this indirect way Weyler himself is contributing to the revolution.' Here are the facts on this point," said Mr. Wood. "The country lying immediately around the towns occupied by the Spanish is in a remarkably high state of cultivation. Around Havana the suburbs are all under Spanish control and the country never looked so prosperous, agriculturally, as now. Plaza Vappor, the great Havana market, is always full of fresh country produce. The greater part of this produce is raised inside the Spanish lines. When Mr. Money declares that not a mouthful of Cuban products is to-day eaten in Havana that does not pay a tariff to the revolution, he shows that he either did not keep his eyes open, or did not visit outlying districts at all.

Only Signs of Peace in Havana.

"Travelers visiting Havana and not being otherwise informed would find nothing whatever in the city to indicate that there is a war in progress on the island. The five theatres are open and there is evidence that the people in the city are not greatly alarmed. The customs authorities do not make any more rigid examination of baggage of Americans than formerly."

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

108 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 13, 1897.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Snow, Turning to Rain; Thursday Not So Cold.

At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 58 Degrees.

CHALK-LINE EDICT.

Though Asbury Park is a "temperance town," and no liquor is supposed to be sold within its limits, drunken men are a frequent and common sight on the streets. People go outside of the city limits to get drunk, it is said, and then stagger home through the streets. The Park has a reputation upon which the tipplers cast an awful reproach, and now the Chief of Police, driven to drastic measures to preserve the dignity of the town, has issued an edict that all men seen staggering on the streets must be arrested. We may soon expect to hear of the establishing of a chalk line just outside the limits of the Park for the use of its tipplers to decide what their chances of freedom are in plodding through the town.

THE MESSAGE.

Governor Griggs first annual message is a singularly well-prepared State paper, and in his treatment of the various phases of government evinces a practical and fair conception of what the needs of the commonwealth are. One of the most salient points of the document is his reference to the inclination of the last Legislature to enact only the most needful legislaton, since the statute books are now filled with acts that no lawyer or judge can fully comprehend owing to their conflicting with one another, and his hope that the present Legislature will advance still further in this reform finds a sympathetic response in the minds of all of good citizens.

EASE THE BURDENS.

There are those who will doubtless pooh-pooh at Senator Reed's bill changing the date on which taxes become delinquent as sentimental legislation whose only course should be to the committee where many a bill enters to be smothered by being pigeon-hoied. Sentiment or no sentiment, we rise to say that the "Tall Sycamore of Somerset" was filled with an acute regard for the eternal fitness of things when he framed that bill. Let the Legislature pass it and the people of moderate means will say, "Well done, good and faithful servants."

POSTMASTERS CONFIRMED.

The Senate yesterday confirmed the following postmasters in this vicinity: William J. Whelan, Elizabeth; Michael J. Hickey, Raritan; William Pintard, Monmouth, Middlesex county; May J. Munson Millington, Morris county; and George McCracken, Dover.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—All cases in Justice Newcorn's court were postponed today.

H. E. Rider, of Netherwood, will leave tomorrow for Carribel, Fla., where he will remain for sometime.

—The Stevens Institute Glee and Banjo Club will give a concert at the Park Club on Tuesday evening, January 19th.

—The members of Crescent Division, Uniform Rank, K. of P., expect to hold an open air drill this evening after their meeting.

—Cypress Commandery, No.6, K.T., will meet on Monday evening next for the transaction of some important business

—It is said man cannot live by bread alone, but with ham at such low prices he can have a sandwich. Read J. F. MacDonald's adv.

—The last days of the fire sale at Lederer's are here. The store will be closed on Saturday for repairs, and if you want bargains you must get them now.

—Dr. Pocock went to Newark yesterday to see Mr. Bainey, the horse dealer, regarding the horse recently purchased from him by the city for the fire department, and Mr. Bainey agreed to make an exchange, which will be done as soon as possible.

—The body of the late Marie Brady, who died at the hospital on Monday night, was sent to Albany this morning. She had been a faithful domestic in the household of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Reed, in Washington Park, North Plainfield, and by whom she is spoken of in tender terms.

Rheumatism is a Foe which gives no quarter. It torments its victims day and night. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and cures the aches and pains of rheumatism.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver medicine. Gentle, reliable, sure.

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East.

Louis Eaton, of East Fifth street, is detained at home by illness.

Miss Ella Dunavan, of Plainfield avenue, is ill at her home.

Wm. Morrison, of Summit avenue, is visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Mr. Raymond, of Elizabeth, was the guest of friends in town yesterday.

George Snediker, of Grove street, is very ill at his home with pneumonia.

Miss Delphine Bowers, of Franklin place, is visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Charles Graves, Sr., of Liberty street, has recovered from a slight illness.

Mrs. Charles Stephens, of the West End, is confined to her home with a severe illness.

Harry Vail, of the Union Beef Company, is looking very happy these days. It's a son.

Mrs Israel Stites has returned from New York, where she has been under medical treatment.

Miss Clara Herold, of Brooklyn, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. H. F. Windham, of Somerset street.

Miss Elizabeth Lee, of Easton, is the guest of her friend, Mrs. William Johnston, of East Fifth street.

Miss Anna Violin, of New York, has returned home after a visit with her friend, Miss Etta Blatz, of Somerset street.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson, of East Sixth street, has been made happy by the arrival of a little girl.

George R. Leland and family, of West Front street, have moved to the corner of West Fifth street and Madison avenue.

Mrs. Sarah A. Laing and Mrs. David A. Zeigler, of New York, are guests at the home of Mrs. Catharine Webster, of East Second street.

Miss Williams, of East Orange, who has been visiting her friend, Miss Mabel Bonnell, of East Fifth street, returned to her home yesterday afternoon.

Clarence Angleman, of East Fourth street, who was so seriously injured by falling into an opening in front of Lederer's store soon after the fire, has so far recovered as to be able to go out.

Albert Springer, tenor; Oscar Vaughan, bass, and Charles Clark, soprano, have been engaged by the Maude Hillman company as members of a quartette, and will make their first appearance Thursday night at Music Hall.

THEATRICAL.

As a remedy for an attack of the "blues" Freeman's Fun Makers are infallible in presenting that laugh-producer "A Railroad Ticket," and keep the audience convulsed during the entire performance, for a farce-comedy well put on, with plenty of singing and dancing interspersed, is certain to please the most subdued. The cast includes Marie Stuart, Louis Wesley, Gus Fixley, Charles A. Burke, Harry Porter, Mattie Lockette, and fifteen others equally as good. It will be seen here on Monday, Jan. 18, at Music Hall.

A breezy incident at Proctor's Pleasure Palace, New York, this week will be the production of Augustus Thomas' jolly farce, "The Man Upstairs." It will be played by Howell Hansel and his company, including Lizzie Evans, Lucille Lee, William Ranous and Maggie Fielding. The accomplishments of Myrtie Peek's trick saddle horse, Boston, will be displayed. European novelties in their last week are the Brothers Webb, the Hanlons and the six Glinserrettis. Tom Lewis and Charles M. Ernest offer a new black-face absurdity, and others in the big bill are Waterbury Brothers and Tenney, Edwin R. Lang, Alexandra Martens, Johnson and Mack, Higgins and Leslie, McLean and Hall, and Lottie Lonsdale, a new comedienne from the London 'alls.

Thankful For Assistance.

At the first regular meeting of the officers of the Children's Home for 1897 the secretary was unanimously requested to express through the daily papers, cordial thanks to all individuals, Kings Daughters Circles, schools and churches, who did so much to make Christmas Day the brightest of the year.

Lucy H. Everett,
Corresponding Secretary.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neauralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by T. S Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

THE SIN OF NOT MINDING

EASY TO PASS OVER OUR OWN FAULTS AND CONDEMN OTHERS.

Thoughtfullness is a Noble Trait, Said Rev. C. E Goodrich, But Too Many Christians Do Not Apply it to Themselves.

Owing probably to the extreme cold weather and the announcement that Ballington Booth would speak in this city, was the cause of not having the First Baptist church crowded at the union services, last evening. But those who faced the chilling winds were amply repaid, and the meeting will doubtless result in much spiritual good.

A double quartette sang the opening piece and the balance of the musical part of the programme was of a congregational nature, Horace J. Martin acting as precentor. Rev. Dr. Barnes read the 11th Psalm, and Rev. G. Kennedy Newell offered prayer. The Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes presided and announced that on Thursday evening Rev. Mr. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, would conduct the service in this church.

Rev. C. L Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, who preached the sermon, took his text from Psalms 190-99 and 60th verses: "I thought on my way."

"Thoughtfullness," said Rev. Mr. Goodrich, "is a noble trait, and the power to think is one of God's gifts to man. Thoughtlessness about religious matters is one of the worst forms of Christianity, and often results in driving the gospel out of young people's minds. One of the main objects of revivals is to get people to think of that which most concerns us. It's far easier to see how others ways need mending than to see our own; likewise with the church member, its far easier for a church member to tell others they are not living as they ought to, than to take the responsiblity upon themselves. The first and main duty of the Christian is to first think of themselves and their own ways and answer the questions 'What am I? and where am I?' On this earth things are very uncertain and we must go hence. But whither are we going and how important is it that we should be right, for straight is the gate which leads to the summit of heaven and the cross which we all hope to reach. We must turn unto the ways of Christ's testimonies. Thinking and not doing, knowing and not acting is ruinous to the souls of men. The way of peace for the unbliever is to make haste and delay not for the time is short."

Prayer and testimony were then given by several in the congreation and the meeting closed with the benediction.

BANK DIRECTORS ELECTED.

The Annual Election Held in Local Institutions Yesterday.

At the meeting of the directors of the First National Bank yesterday afternoon the following officers were elected:—President, J. W. Johnson; vice-president, H. M. Estil; cashier, F. S. Runyon; assistant cashier, D. M. Runyon; directors, Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Coriell, P. M. French, Wm. M. Stillman, H. M. Estil, J. W. Johnson, I. W. Rushmore, W. R. Codington, F. S. Runyon.

The following directors were elected at the City National Bank yesterday afternoon:—Charles Hyde, J. Frank Hubbard, J. T. Closson, J. Fred MacDonald, H. G. Runkle, J. K. Myers, J. B. Coward, Walter Scott and W. F. Arnold. The board met this morning and elected the officers as follows:—President, Charles Hyde; vice-president, J. Frank Hubbard; cashier, W. F Arnold.

There is Nothing so Good.

There is nothing just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, so demand it and do not permit the dealer to sell you some substitute. He will not claim there is anything better, but in order to make more profit he may claim something else to be just as good. You want Dr. King's New Discovery because you know it to be safe and reliable, and guaranteed to do good or money refunded. For Coughs Colds, Consumption and for all affections of Throat, Chest and Lungs, there is nothing so good as is Dr. King's New Discovery. Trial bottle free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

LOOK! for the Cushioned Button. IT'S ON The Velvet Grip Hose Supporter.

PERFECT IN USE. NO SLIPPING. NO TEARING.

All Styles and Sizes at Plainfield Stores.

The cake box is not to blame.

When your cake dries up quickly, look to your baking powder.

Bread and cake made with Cleveland's baking powder keep their natural freshness and flavor.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

[CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.]

such infrequent intervals as to practically cause no annoyance.

"Of 149 garbage destruction services, 9 per cent of them is served by public scavengers, as proposed in Plainfield, 53 per cent are let by contract and 38 per cent are cared for by the city. A comparison of the prices is interesting. In Camden, N. J., with a contract system, the price is 10 cents per capita. Evansville, Ind., by contract, pays 6 cents. Erie, Pa., by private scavengers, as proposed in Plainfield, pays 60 cents, Trenton, N.J., with a contract system, pays 10 cents, while Oakland, Cal., with private scavengers, pays 92 cents per capita. These prices for private collection, although out of all proportion to prices by contract, are yet even eclipsed by the price for Plainfield, $2 per capita.

"The only argument that is put forth by the crematory promoters is that the city does not have to pay. If the citizens of Plainfield are not to pay for it, who are? The question is, is it cheaper to contribute $3,000 by taxation for the collection of garbage by the city which would be at a rate of about 30 cents per capita per year or to pay the Plainfield Sanitary Company at the rate of $2 per capita per year. ?"

The Visiting Cards

that I furnish on engraving orders are the best that I know anything about and I pay 20 per cent more than the price of the "just as good kind." Each order delivered in a handsome white enameled box. Plate and 50 cards, name only, $1.25. 50 cards from your plate, 50c.

R. C. RAND'S,

140 West Front street

SAVE

twenty-five to forty per cent of fuel, and make your cold house warm. For particulars call or address

E. D. BARRETT,

148 East Fifth Street.

VALUABLE FARM PROPERTY FOR SALE.

The undersigned will sell at Public Auction by T. J. Carey, Auctioneer, at his offices in the City of Plainfield, State of New Jersey, on the SIXTH DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1897,

at 2:30 o'clock p. m. the following valuable farm property, formerly belonging to the late James C. Cloyd, deceased:

About 31 acres of farm land situated about two miles from the City of Plainfield, in Alton (Township of Fanwood). The above parcel of land is a part of the farm commonly known as the "Dey Farm," and is on the "Raritan Road." This property is well and conveniently located and is well adapted for farm land or building lots.

PAUL C. CLOYD,
HOMER S. CLOYD,
Executors of etc. of James C. Cloyd, dec'd.
Dated Jan'y 12th, 1897. 1 13 3 oaw

A NEW CHORAL SOCIETY

is being formed. Application can be made at 322 WEST FRONT STREET, Wednesday, from 2 to 5 p. m.; Friday, from 6 to 8 p. m. 1 12 4

ALL RADIATE from THE CENTRAL STORE

PECK'S.

EVERY THING

For the Fire-place. MANTELS, TILES, GRATES, SPARK GUARDS, $1.25 and up.

Curtis M. Thorpe, 310-312 Park Avenue.

--JAQUETT'S--

CLOTHING Of the Latest Style for Men, Boys' and Children. Suits and Overcoats.

SUITS and OVERCOATS. School Suits, from 75c. up.

NOVELTIES FOR CHILDREN. Full lines in Top Coats, Reefers and Separate Pants.
MEN'S FURNISHINGS. All of the latest Novelties in Ties, Collars, Shirts, Suspenders.
HOSIERY, GLOVES, UNDERWEAR.

HATS of the Latest Styles at Moderate Prices.

One Price—Cash. Money refunded if goods are not as represented.
129 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LAST DAYS OF FIRE SALE!

Balance of stock of

DRY GOODS

will be closed out by

SATURDAY, JAN. 16th,

Your last chance to secure the greatest bargains ever offered in Plainfield.

LEDERER'S,

115 WEST FRONT STREET.

For Bargains in Hats, Caps, Underwear, Sweaters, Flannel Shirts & Gloves

Call on JAS. R. BLAIR, 126 Park Avenue.

Saturday, Jan. 16th, 10 per cent will be Given.

HAM

PICNIC'S 7 Cents Per lb.

BEST Regular 11 Cents Per lb.

AT

J. F. MACDONALD'S,

186 E. Front St. The Uptown Grocer.

SPECIAL SALE AT CRANE & CLARK'S,

Hat and Furnishings Store.

120 West Front street. Prices Cut on all lines of Men and Boys wear.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

GEORGE E. ROGERS.....Lessee. | GEORGE H. WILLEY.....Manager

COMING ONE WEEK.

JANUARY 11th,

Engagement of the COMEDIENNE,

Maude Hillman,

under the management of Winthrop G. Snelling.

A carload of Magnificent Scenery, Properties, &c. Elegant Costumes. Songs and dances.

MATINEES Wednesday and Saturday.

Prices 10, 20 and 30 cents. Seats now on sale at Box Office.

Monday, Jan. 18,

The champions of the comedy world.

LOUIS WESLEY — MARIE STUART

supported by Freeman's Fun Makers, presenting Great Farce-Comedy.

"A Railroad Ticket."

Produced in a superb manner by a company of

20 SINGERS and COMEDIANS 20

Headed by Louis Wesley, Marie Stuart, Arthur Moulton, Gus Pixley, Chas. A. Burke, and 15 others just as funny.

Prices 75, 50, 35, 25. Seats on sale at Box Office Friday, Jan. 15.

Course of Lectures by LEON VINCENT,

Under the auspices of the Daughters of the Cross, at

Y. M. C. A. HALL,

Thursday Afternoon, January 28th—Carlyle and His Wife.
Thursday Afternoon, February 4th—George Eliot
Thursday Afternoon, February 11th—Dickens.
At 4 o'clock.

Course Tickets - $1.00

For sale at Randolph's, Leggett's, Armstrong's and Shaw's Pharmacies. 1 12 tf

NEUMAN BROS., FANCY GROCERS.

A few leaders in prices. Extra quality 3-lb can Shrewsbury Asparagus, 25c. a can; Extra Asparagus Tips, 3-lb can, only 25c.; Star and Crescent Peaches, 3-lb can, 20c.; Apricots, 3-lb can, 18c. Strictly Fancy Creamery Butter a specialty. Strictly Fresh Country Eggs, Warranted Fresh.

NEWMAN'S STAGE LINE TIME TABLE
Between Plainfield and Scotch Plains.

Leave Plainfield..... { 7.00; 9.30; 12.45 a. m. 4.00; 6.00; 9.00 p. m.
Sunday—9.00; 12.30 a. m., 3.00, 6.00 p. m.

Leave Scotch Plains. { 6.20; 8.15; 10.30 a. m. 2.00; 5.00; 7.00; 9.30 p. m.
Sunday—9.45 a. m., 2.00; 4.00, 7.00 p. m.

DEPOT—FRONT STREET AND PARK AVE.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

James Dougherty is entertaining friends from Phillipsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Griggs are spending a few days at the Forest House, Easton, Pa.

Miss Viola Sherwood, of New York, was the guest over Sunday of Miss Lillie May Warden.

Frank Wynkoop and "Al" Randolph are arranging for a shooting match at 100 birds each for $50 aside. Randolph appears to be the favorite.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gallagher have returned home from a two-months visit with their daughter, Mrs. James Mohen, at Ansonia, Conn.

The members of the Dunellen Gun Club held an individual shoot on the club's grounds yesterday afternoon, but the wind was too strong for good scores to be made.

R. J. Swackhamer, superintendent of bridges for the New Jersey Central Railroad Company, has been ailing for a day or two, but he is again able to attend to business today.

Everything is now about ready for for harvesting the ice crop from the New Market pond. When the work begins, which will be within a few days, a large force of men will be put to work and the houses filled as rapidly as possible. The ice is now about six inches thick.

Tomorrow evening the Junior Christian Endeavor Society will meet and entertain the Junior League of the Presbyterian church in the church parlors. There will be both vocal and instrumental music, recitations and possibly an address.

Miss Nellie Pierson tendered a party to her friend Miss Clara Treadwell, of Flushing, L. I., on Monday evening. There was dancing, games and refreshments, followed by a sumptuous collation. Miss Treadwell will return to her home on Thursday of this week.

Work on R. L. Fisher's handsome new residence on Prospect avenue had to be stopped yesterday on account of the extreme cold weather. The masons, carpenters and plumbers quit work at noon. The masons tried to top out a chimney, but the mortar froze as fast as it was put on.

Two applications for membership were received in the Order of Foresters, Court Dunellen, No. 1123, Monday night. The meeting was held in Lincoln School hall and the attendance was large. The following officers were installed by the High Court officials: Chief ranger, Louis Schneider; vice chief, John Logan; chaplain, James Touzeau; financial secretary, William Wyckoff; recording secretary, Charles Carpenter; senior woodward, William Dunham; junior woodward, Henry Lyons; senior beatle, Henry Kirchner; junior beatle, Magimo Johnson, court deputy, A. S. Gaston; physician, Dr. Brakeley.

SCOTCH PLAINS

Andrew Love Sr., and Andrew Love Jr., yesterday finished their work of appraising the goods in the late James A. Baker's store at Fanwood, and this morning they began the work of appraising at the Scotch Plains store. The total valuations of the two stores are not yet known, but the amount, it is said, will far exceed the expectations of the appraisers. Having been in business for so long a term of years, much stock has accumulated on the shelves and in the cellar, but most of it is in a good state of preservation.

WILLOW GROVE.

The service at the chapel last Sunday evening was in charge of Miss Anna Littell.

The engagement of Miss Adelaide Lambert and George Burt Clark is announced.

Master Clark Swezy has returned home after a two weeks visit with relatives in New York.

The boys and girls have enjoyed the fine skating on the lake during the past week and the ice is now very good.

Clarence Lambert is getting to be quite a shot. On Saturday last he killed nine birds out of a possible twelve. He is now getting ready for a match with John Benner, which takes place next Wednesday afternoon on the grounds of the Climax Gun Club.

The Sunday services are held at the chapel as follows: Junior Christian Endeavor, 2:30 p. m.; Sunday-school, 3 p. m.; Senior Christian Endeavor, 7:30. The weekly prayer meeting is held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, and the meeting this week will be led by Prof. Edwards, of the Westfield High School.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

PASSING COMMENT.

A full grown grey and black mixed dog boarded a trolley car at the Clinton avenue "turn out" yesterday afternoon, and soon afterward the conductor summarily bounced the canine. The dog had followed a little girl into the car. Dogs are not allowed in street cars.

* * * *

In reference to Senator Voorhees' alleged favoring the abolition of Boards of Freeholders, Director J. F. Hubbard said to a Press representative this morning that in some counties it may be a good thing, but in Union county it would be detrimental to the public interests.

* * * *

About 30 volumes of standard novels, essays, etc., have been presented to the Public Library by a well known teacher in Plainfield, who desires that her name should not be mentioned. Donations of this kind, providing the Library with duplicate copies of popular works, are particularly acceptable, as the supply of standard novels is not equal to the demand.

* * * *

"I am inclined to think," says a man who has had a great deal to do with the stage, "that three-quarters of a woman's chance of getting a start as an actress depends upon her personal beauty. It is not that alone, however. There are some women who will not attract in spite of their beauty. I have seen that frequently in the course of my life. A woman who has a large degree of beauty without the power of attracting makes a decided impression at first, but it is soon gone. I am not sure but it is a certain roundness of mental and physical development that makes a woman attractive. The feeling that she possesses it gives her an equilibrium which is pleasing in itself. That a good appearance is a benefit on the stage can be seen in many cases where there are both men and women holding prominent positions who cannot act, and who depend only on their looks."

* * * *

There is a joint on Grant avenue where the proprietor and his friends sometimes meet and enjoy a quiet little game of poker. Such was the case on last Sunday evening and among the players was one who was not completely satisfied with his treatment by the rest. He was not backward in letting the fact be known and, at last, the rest of the party rose up en masse and proceeded to eject the discontented one from out the rear door. His reception by the back yard was rather hard and he lay still for awhile to ruminate on the injustice of the world. After a time he recovered his wits and returned to the scene of action. His former companions were willing to receive him back if he would keep quiet, but that wasn't what he was after. He picked up the nearest thing to him, which happened to be a chair, and whirled it around his head with remarkable dexterity. The others did not wait to see his skill exhibited on their craniums but felt suddenly called elsewhere. The proprietor tumbled over his guests in his hurry to get out and soon the solitary man had it all his own way. He took his revenge out on the windows and demolished them. So ended this little comedy and by and by the proprietor and his friends returned.

University Extension Books.

Speaking of the literature on the subject of the popular University Extinsion series, "Vital Forces in Modern History," Dr. Riggs says that it is so vast that no list of books can be given. Almost everything in historical libraries will be found to bear on the question. The Library will not therefore attempt the impossible, but will content itself by stating that with the exception of Conde the Library contains all the works named by the lecturer, and also invites the attention of members of the course to its large and excellent historical department. For such of the lectures as are not so broad in their scope the Library will furnish lists, which will be printed for the benefit of students through the courtesy of the Daily Press.

—The members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., met in the Post room this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and attended in a body the funeral of their late brother member, Isaac Brokaw.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chillblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For Sale By L. W. Randolph.

ALL OVER THE TOWN

NEWS IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS THAT INTEREST ALL PLAINFIELDERS.

Gathered by Enterprising Press Reporters From Both Sides of the Brook and Tersely Served for Your Perusal.

—An entertainment will be given in Hope Chapel, Friday night, February 5th.

—Columbia Lodge, A. O. U. W., will hold a meeting on Friday evening when four candidates will be initiated.

—The officers of Martha Washington Council, daughters of America, will be installed on Tuesday evening next.

—Desirable farm property is to be sold by Carey, the auctioneer, February 6th. Particulars in advertising columns.

—At the meeting of Lucetta Council, Daughters of Liberty, to be held this evening, there will be installation of officers.

—Marsh, Ayres & Company started today at refinishing the exterior decoration of the Pittis estate house on Central avenue.

—Mr. Price, of Arlington avenue and West Ninth street, is having the interior and the exterior of his residence decorated.

—Mr. Oakley, of Elizabeth, was in town yesterday on business relating to the proposed changes at Lederer's dry goods store.

—The Missionary Society of Hope Chapel will meet tomorrow afternoon at which time a woman from Rahway will address the meeting.

—Ex-Councilman W. H. Moore, of West Front street, is having his residence repainted. Marsh, Ayres & Company are doing the work.

—A business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be held this evening in the church parlors.

—Marsh, Ayres & Company received a shipment of ten thousand rolls of wall paper, yesterday, for their spring trade. Another lot is expected today.

—The Midmer Glee Club, of this city, will go to Morristown this evening and appear in an entertainment to be given at the Baptist church, at that place.

—The junior committee of the Park Club announces the piano will be played in the club house on Saturday evening for the benefit of those wishing to dance.

—A tea and social will be held Monday night, February 22d, in Skandia Hall, under the auspices of Martha Washington Council, Daughters of America.

—A committee from Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, met yesterday afternoon and decided to recommend that the Council hold an entertainment at an early date.

—Mulford, the real estate broker, is prepared to give due attention to all those who are desirous of purchasing or renting property or obtaining loans on first mortgage, as indicated by his advertisement.

—District President Chas. Stephens, of the Patriotic Order Sons of America, will install the officers of Camp 21, at Elizabeth, tomorrow evening. A large delegation from the Plainfield Camp will accompany him.

—L. A. Hummer, the enterprising Park avenue butcher, has purchased a new delivery wagon which is painted a snow white color and presents a very handsome appearance on the street. The wagon was built by Hummer Brothers, carriage builders, Annandale, N. J.

—E. D. Barrett, the plumber, of East Fifth street, has taken the agency for the celebrated "Couch Fuel Saver," which can be attached to a furnace. The invention is one of the greatest on the market for saving fuel and those who are using them would not be without them. An inspection is invited.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County. } ss.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1896. A. W. Gleason, Notary Public. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. Cheney, & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

"THE FINEST THING"

We think, for chapped or rough skin, is

OUR LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE.

Try it. Sprinkler-top bottles, 25c.

Park and North avenues
Successor H. P. REYNOLDS.

T. S. ARMSTRONG,
"THE APOTHECARY."

—One hundred and fifty barrels of fancy apples at Neuman Bros., embracing Kings, Northern Spy, Baldwins, Greenings, Spitzenberg's and Golden Pippens, at very low prices.

Randolph Runyon,

Funeral Director and Embalmer,

Residence, Over Office. Office 43 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J.

H. DeMott,

Undertaker and Embalmer,

59 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J

Calls promptly attended to day or night. White and black hearses. Coaches latest style.

DIED.

YOUNG—In this city, January 11, 1897, Elizabeth M., wife of William Young, in her 44th year.
Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend funeral services from her late residence, 432 West Sixth street, Friday, January 15th, at 1:30 p. m., and at the Congregational church, West Seventh street, at 2 p. m. 1 13 2

WANTS AND OFFERS.

GOOD cook (colored) wants place, or would do general housework in large or small family. Call Thursday afternoon at 614 W. Third street.

WANTED—Place as waitress, or would take care of children and do up-stairs work. Address "G. K.," care Press. 1 13 2

MAN wants situation as waiter or coachman. Call 334 East Third street. 1 13 3

COLORED MAN wants work of any kind; reference; city or country. Call 612 West Fourth street.

PLEASANT rooms and good board, moderate prices at 302 East Sixth street. 1 13 4

FOR SALE OR TO LET—No. 140 West Fourth street, established bakery or grocery stand. House, store and stable, first-class oven. Mulford, broker. 1 12 tf

WANTED—Cook or housework girl. 97 Mercer Ave.

WANTED—First-class milk route for cash. Address Milkman, P. O. Box 343. 1 13 4

WANTED—Single man as coachman, white, must be able to milk. Only those with reference need apply. 1030 Park avenue.

SEVEN-ROOM HOUSE FOR SALE—First class condition; price reasonable. Address Box 113, Dunellen. 1 12 3

TO LET—Furnished or unfurnished, twelve room modern house, fine location, for board of two adults. Owner, care Press. 1-12-tf

HOME wanted for boy, 13 years old, in a quiet respectable family where he can have the advantage of home comforts. Terms must be moderate. Call or address E. B. Freeman, 115 Broadway, N. Y. 1 12 3

FOUND—A small light brown purse, with clover leaf ornament. Call at Press office. 1 12 2

ONE large and one small room with good board, central location. Terms reasonable. R., care Press. 1 12 3

WANTED—A good Protestant American or Swede girl for general housework in small family at moderate compensation. Apply 946 Park avenue, Wednesday, from 3 to 9 p. m. 1 12 2

WANTED—Girl for general housework, small family. Apply evenings, between 7 and 9 o'clock. 817 First place. 1 11 3

STORE and basement to let, 165 North Ave. Mulford, Broker. 1 11 tf

FARM hand wanted, married, occupy cottage on place; German prefered. Address box 322, city. 1 11 tf

BRICK barn to let. 112 West Fourth street. 1 9 tf

TO LET—Handsome store on West Front street. Inquire Manning's City Marble Works. 1 9 tf

LARGE and small furnished rooms with board, heat, gas, and bath at moderate rates. 529 West Front street. 1 9 6

LARGE, well heated rooms to let, with board; moderate terms. 132 Crescent Ave. 1 8 6

NICELY-FURNISHED rooms, with board, moderate terms. 214 East Ninth street. 1 8 6

TO LET—Elegant 6 room apartments, Jackson building, steam heat, janitor service, halls carpeted, heated and lighted. Rent reasonable, particulars at Packer's furniture store. 11 23 tf

TO LET—Store and rooms above, now occupied by Justice Newcorn, 110 West Front street. Inquire Samuel Drier, pawnbroker, corner Front street and Madison avenue. 1 2 tf

FIRST CLASS help and first class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 23 Somerset place. 11-10-1y

LOANS negotiated. E. C. Mulford, Broker 7 2 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, Broker. tf

Plainfield's Busiest Store.

We sell goods cheaper than any Plainfield store.

A GOOD THING.

Last Saturday morning in walked the selling agent of the Star Knitting Mills, said he had been sent out to see us and to get an offer for the balance of the stock of winter and medium-weight underwear for ladies and gentlemen. You know the Star Mills goods. They make only the best kinds that sell from $1.00 to $2.50 per garment. We told him it was late in the season but if we could buy the goods so as to sell them at a price we would take the lot. Our offer was accepted, and the entire lot, over 300 dozen, on sale Wednesday, and the price will be forty-nine cents each.

49c each.

We frankly state that this is the best bargain this store has ever offered and we have offered many.

IN CONNECTION

with the great underwear sale we will offer in every department goods at such attractive prices that if it don't add wealth to the store it will add to its great name of selling goods cheaper THAN ALL OTHERS.

DRESS GOODS.

Such selling you never before saw, and the reason is plain, 'tis the price that sells them; but no matter how low the price the goods must be to your liking and these are. At 30c. we sell goods that ought to bring 50c. and would in good times. At 37c. your choice of 50 pieces of all-wool fancy mixture that were 75c.; and at 49c. you buy those stylish boucle cloths that were made to sell for $1.00.

Ladies', gentlemen's and children's hosiery. The kind that will wear well and don't cost much. Ladies' fine guage hose, the 25c. kind, 18c.; Ladies' fine cashmere hose, the 25c. kind, 15c.; Ladies' fine fleeced-lined hose, the 35c. kind, 25c.; Gentlemen's fine natural-wool hose, 15c.; Gentlemen's fine black hose, 13c.; Gentlemen's fine black extra-heavy hose, 19c., value 35c.; Children's heavy ribbed seamless hose, 10c.; Children's extra-heavy ribbed seamless hose, double sole and knee, 15c.

GOOD THINGS FOR LITTLE MONEY.

LADIES' COATS AND CAPES.

Over a hundred Coats and Capes for ladies and they go at cost and below. Your choice of the entire line, $3.98, were $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00 each.

SPECIALS TO BE SEEN AT ATTRACTIVE PRICES

100 pairs of fine lace curtains, white or cream, 89c. pair; fine curtain nets in figured and spots for sash curtains, 13c. the yard; adjustable sash curtain rods, 10c. each; 50 dozen find huck towels, the 25c. kind, 13c. each; children's wool skating caps, were 50c. and 75c., now 29c.; heavy outing flannel, in all colors, 6c. yard; heavy cream outing flannel, 5c. yard; chenille rugs, size 18x36, 49c. each; Japanese jute rugs, size 18x36, 34c. each; boys' heavy flannel shirt waists, were 75c., now 39c.; men's fine unlaundried shirts, 39c. each; lot of ten-quarter table covers, fancy bordered, $1.19 and $1.49, were $1.50 and $2.00; fine new dress ginghams and outing flannels, 10c. yard.

EDWARD WHITE.

WALL PAPER

"A word to the wise is efficient."

From 3c.

Buy from the manufacturer and save middlemen's profits.

On receipt of postal card a fine assortment of SAMPLES sent to ANY ADDRESS.

To $2

EDW. LOVE,

Warerooms, 211 215 North Ave.

-BOEHM'S!-

ON SALE THIS WEEK.

MUSLINS.

At 5c. a yard, yard wide, bleached and unbleached, at 5c. a yard. At 6 3-4c., Fruit of the Loom, Androscoggan and other staple makes, yard wide, at 6 3-4c. a yard. At 15c, 2 1-2 yard wide sheeting, unbleached, regular 20c. grade, at 15c. Ladies' Muslin Underwear—Chemise, Drawers and Nightgowns, none sold for less than 39c, and some at 50c., at the uniform price of 25c. each; a limited number to each customer.

The remainder of G. A. Hallock's stock going at 1-4 their cost. $1.50 Derbys at 25c.; $1.50 Dress Shirts at 50c.; 50c. Outing Flannel Shirts at 25c.

-BOEHM'S,-

113 WEST FRONT STREET.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 30 CENTS.

PRIMES, $1 AND $1,50 PER HUNDRED.

-AT ROGERS.-

A HERO.

He never bucked the center
On the gory, ghastly field;
He never grasped a bully's throat
And choked him till he "squealed;"
He never entered a balloon
To navigate the air;
He never shot a tiger or
Explored a leopard's lair.

He never plunged into the flood
To save a drowning maid;
He never climbed a snow-clad peak
Or faced a flashing blade;
He never rescued from the flames
A gasping little child;
He never saved a thousand lives
From an engine running wild.

He never faced the cannon's mouth,
Oh heard grim war's alarm;
He never closed his eyes and rushed
Unheedingly to harm;
He never clasped a maiden fair
And held her foes at bay;
He never risked his life to stop
A frightful runaway.

But, though the skies be dark above
And fortune seems to frown—
Though everything appears to have Combined to keep him down—
He plods along his weary way
With hope still in his breast;
He never murmurs, but is just Content to do his best.

—Cleveland Leader.

A CURIOUS COUPLE.

The village of R—— is one of the quaintest little places imaginable. It is so small, and so out of the way, that you would never find it, except by accident. Indeed, it stands apart in some fields, absolutely concealed in a hollow, and is only approached on one side by a footpath (which in the winter is usually under water), on another by a cart track of the rudest and roughest description. When you do arrive there, the first object to strike you is the church.

There is something pleasing, something grateful to the eye in this gray, plain, disproportioned little structure. It seems to fit into its surroundings admirably; the farmyard, the cottages, the brook flowing just below (they call it "the river" there, where everything is on so reduced a scale), the ever-present geese and sheep and cattle, and the perfect seclusion of surrounding pastures. Nothing but green whichever way you look. No houses (except the quaint little cluster round the church), no distant view; everything shut in by the slopes which skirt the valley; a complete environment of everlasting fields.

I have seen many churchyards. This one, lying begirt on all sides by the farm homestead, tiny, indifferently kept, shaded by many cypresses and weeping ash, where scarcely once a year, perhaps, is the slumbering soil disturbed for a new grave, and where everything speaks of dreamy restfulness, this churchyard of R—— is the spot in which I myself would soonest choose to lie. One I knew who now reposes there—a former rector; the kindest, heartiest, tenderest, most beloved of pastors. Those who have since died in R—— have all wished to be laid near him. And now around him sleeps a little cluster of his horny-handed friends. A happy family. The whole churchyard is peaceful. But in that especial corner the peacefulness seems always most profound.

It was this rector's nephew and successor—for R—— has been a family living any time this two centuries past—to whom I am indebted for the following story. He often strolled out with me when I went to paint, and, while smoking innumerable pipes, told me many interesting local yarns. This one, however, the facts of which had lately come under his own experience, quite overtopped all the others in strikingness and peculiarity. Here it is, substantially in my informant's words:

"You see that cottage over there?" he said, pointing to a dismantled hovel in the corner of the field where I had pitched my canvas.

I nodded.

"A most remarkable history is attached to it," he went on. "Not a legend, but a fact. Of this, I can assure you, because I myself had a hand in finding it out. It centers round a certain couple who lived there—the most extraordinary old folk that I ever came across. I should like you to have seen them. I think you would have admitted them to be the ugliest pair in England, as they certainly were the most close and unfriendly. During the 16 years that they lived in that cottage, they never once asked a neighbor inside."

"Umph! Hermits, indeed," I observed.

"Absolute hermits. There was, however, some slight excuse for their eschewing all outside company. Each suffered from a severe physical infirmity. The woman was nearly stone deaf; the man was dumb. When they first came here—18 years ago now, I think—my uncle, who, as you know, was then rector, tried to find out what he could about them. He only learned a little, and that little was nothing out of the way. It transpired that the man was an ex-sailor of the royal navy, who had lost his speech after a severe attack of yellow fever in the West Indies. He was now entitled to a pension, which he drew half yearly, and which my uncle only knew about by the fact that the old fellow had to come to him periodically to get his papers signed. The woman was his sister, so she gave the neighbors to understand, and so also might have been inferred from a certain family likeness which was noticeable between them. She was a most ill-favored hag; shrivelled, unkempt, and dirty beyond description. Although she then must have been nearer 70 than 60, her long, touzled hair was still as black as a coal, and hung in hideous untidiness about her hawk-like face, which, with its dark eyes, and its hooked proboscis, was most uncommonly forbidding. The poor people all pronounced her a witch; and, for that reason, gave her a wide berth. Probably the woman purposely encouraged the idea. For her great aim and object was, evidently, to be left alone.

"Although her brother's pension amounting to about 1s. 11d a day, was ample to keep two old folks decently, and even comfortably, in that cheapest of neighborhoods, these two always gave the impression of being half starved, and I do not believe that either of them purchased a new article of clothing the whole time they lived in R——. From this people began to infer that they were misers, and as time went on many things happened to strengthen the inference. All along they had discovered the greatest anxiety and apprehension when anyone tried to gain access to their hovel. Indeed, my uncle has often told me that the expression of the old people's faces when he called there, and one or other of them peered round the chained door at him, was really quite comical in its suspicious trepidation; and the older they grew, the more pronounced did their precautions to prevent outsiders entering become.

"At first they had sometimes ventured to lock up their house and make an excursion together into F——." (He named the adjoining market town, which I will not further particularize.) "But by and by they gave up such recklessness entirely, and whenever one of them went out, the other always remained on guard at home. The precaution was quite necessary. All the poor in the neighborhood were by this time fully convinced that there was something 'unked' about them; and no one in R——, or for miles round, would have willingly crossed their threshold, even if the door had been left open. But these old misers were altogether too suspicious to reason, and seemed to live in an ever-increasing fear of having their privacy invaded.

"My uncle (as he himself told me shortly before his death) was greatly exercised about his two strange parishioners. Many rectors would have considered themselves absolved of all obligations toward people who not merely never attended church, but refused even to admit their clergyman into their house when he called. But that was not my uncle's way. Every poor man who lived in his parish he held to be under his pastoral protection, and he felt himself bound to look after his interests. In regard to these two old misers, however, it was difficult to know what was the kindest course. To let them live on in their present half-starved condition, and in that fearfully insanitary hovel, undisturbed, seemed no real kindness. And yet he was loath to set the parish or the sanitary officer upon their track. He held very strongly to the opinion that an Englishman's house—even if it be nothing better than a pig sty—is his castle; and, in his heart, by no means approved of the wide compulsory power then lately given to the local authorities.

"Besides, after all, what could such authorities do? Compel them to evacuate their miserable shanty, no doubt. But the old people would then simply change their local habitation, not their mode of life. And as regards starving themselves, not all the boards of guardians in Somerset could make people eat who did not choose to do so. It was possible, indeed, that they might be medically found of unsound mind; and, in that case, they could be removed to the workhouse infirmary or the county asylum. But even supposing that feasible, it was a course from which my uncle shrank. And the outcome of it all was that he let things remain in statu quo.

"When I succeeded him here, I went to call, now and then, on the old people; meeting, however, with the same treatment that my uncle had always experienced. Sometimes, they would not open the door at all; at others, they did so with the chain up, and conversed with me through a narrow aperture. In reply to my inquiries whether I could do anything, or give them any assistance I always had a negative returned; until at last I gave up trying to make headway in so hopeless a direction, and left the two hermits pretty much to themselves.

"The man came to me regularly every half year to get his pension papers signed; and I took advantage of these opportunities to give him some friendly advice, and to remonstrate with him on his folly in starving himself and wearing such inadequate clothing in the coldest weather. At first I had made him a present of some old coats, trousers and flannel shirts. But I soon gave up that, for he never wore them; and I formed the impression that he had probably converted them into cash. In fact, I asked him one day what he had done with them all. He only looked cunning, affected stupidity, and made some unintelligible signs. Despite his dumbness, he could make me understand things very well when he liked—especially anything connected with his pension papers. It was only when he did not wish to make himself understood that his signs had no meaning in them.

"In this matter of coming to have his his papers signed, he was, as I have said, always absolutely punctual. On March 25 and September 29 he appeared at the rectory as regularly as clockwork, taking me on the way to F——, where he had to present his papers at the post office. I always looked for him on the morning of those days, and always took the precaution to have my study windows wide open. The old man and water had long been mutual strangers, and the atmosphere which attended him was, to say the least, rather oppressive. When he was gone, I added to my disinfectant precautions with a strong pipe; and I can assure you that the foulest pipe in my rack had to be called into requisition. A sort of homoeopathy, you see. However, this is by the way.

"He was always, as I have said, punctual in coming. And when one Michaelmas day—it was just two years ago now—came and went without his putting in an appearance, I at once remarked it as a very noticeable circumstance. The next day I expected him—with opened windows—and the next, and the next; but he did not turn up. At length, after waiting a week, I felt sure that he must be ill, and went over to the shanty to inquire.

"I hammered at the door. Nobody answered. I hammered louder and louder, with the same result. In the end, as a last resort, I tried it. To my surprise, it was unfastened. I pushed it open and went in.

"I cannot tell you what my feelings were as I entered that miserable sty. A more dismal, forlorn, and withal filthy hovel has surely never been inhabited by human beings. There was scarcely any furniture. The walls were black and covered with cobwebs, and simply alive with creeping insects; and the floor—well, I won't attempt to describe it. I think you could cut the atmosphere with a knife, so thick and foul it was; and fetid, oh, insufferably fetid. It nearly poisoned me, and my first impulse was to beat a hasty retreat into the open. But a low moan from the corner attracted me. I looked; and there I saw a sight at once loathsome and pitiable.

"Crouching against the wall, upon the damp and moldy floor, was a figure covered with an old sack. I went nearer. At first I could not see which of the two it was. But, on looking more closely, I made it out to be the old woman. She was almost naked, except for the covering of the sack; and one of her yellow arms, which lay exposed, looked unspeakably lean and shriveled and weird. I also noted another point. The tangled black hair, which had always struck me so about her, was now betrayed as not being her own. It was a wig; half on and half off at that moment, giving her a fearfully grotesque appearance, and clearly revealing her bald pate, scantily fringed with a few wkisps of gray hair, beneath.

"'What is the matter? Are you ill?' I asked, bending down, and speaking in a loud, clear voice; for I knew her to be almost stone deaf.

"She stared at me with dazed, suspicious eyes, and said nothing; only moaning again.

"'Are you ill?' I repeated.

"Another moan.

"'Where is your brother?' I shouted. 'Has he left you alone?'

"She looked hard at me. I could see in her restless black eyes that this time she had caught the purport of my question.

"'Brother Tom?' she muttered.

"'Yes!' I roared. 'Where is he?'

"She looked at me very cunningly. Her eyes seemed to wake up and sparkle with an almost unnatural brightness.

"'Don't you know?' she gasped.

"I shook my head.

"'Well, you shall hear,' she went on. 'I'm just going the same way myself, and it's no use keeping secrets any longer. He's dead.'

"'Dead!' I exclaimed, supposing that her wits were wandering, for I had seen him at his hovel door less than a fortnight since. 'When did he die?'

"She gave a low chuckle.

"'Fifteen year ago.'

"Now, of course, I saw that she was raving. Her hawk-like eyes, fixed on my face in a most forbidding leer, at once read my thoughts.

"'No, I ain't mad. It's the truth. He died 15 year ago, and I buried him myself under yonder hearthstone. Get them to dig it up, and you'll find his bones.'

"As she spoke, the hag clutched my sleeve and half raised herself by a supreme effort. Her face wore a fiendishly exultant grin. Her whole expression was grotesque, and repulsive. She leered into my face with a look that I can never forget.

"'Yes, yes,' she said. 'All true—all true. I hid it, and no one knew. And,' with a hideous chuckle, 'I've drawed his pension myself for 15 year!'"

"And were her brother's bones found there?" I asked the rector, in the course of a subsequent conversation on the subject.

"Yes. He had been buried scarcely a couple of feet below the surface. And in a hole in the chimney we found the miser's savings—more than £500 in gold and notes. It was paid over to the government, in return for the 15 years' pension out of which they had been cheated."

"It was a wonder that no one found out the woman's dual personality."

"It was, indeed. But no one dreamed of suspecting. And the woman must have worked it very cunningly. The difference in her look with and without the black wig was quite remarkable. Then her brother's dumbness was a feature in her favor—no chance of being found out by the voice. Of course, to anyone who had the smallest suspicion, the whole thing would soon have revealed itself as plain as a pikestaff. But no suspicion existing, I do not think that the real explanation was likely to cross anyone's mind, and, as a matter of fact, it never did."—London Truth.

Hats and Veils.

In millinery toques are daily gaining in favor, and also the white felt hats with a black ribbon simply, or with the addition of a few cock's feathers, upright or drooping. The square and "jam pot" crowns are vying with the round, and the boat-shape with the sailor. For bridesmaids the whole felt, so-called picture hats, with long ostrich feathers, will be among the most popular. The fashion, coming to us from the French, of tilting the wide-brimmed hats over the eyes and turning them up very much at the back, with flowers, suits many faces well, but not all. The veils worn with these hats are long and loosely gathered up, nearly 1½ yards being required.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Pineapple Taffy.

The plain taffy, unflavored, is used for this. When cooked take out half of it, add pineapple flavor, pull until white, and form into a large, flat cake. Color the other half a bright pink, pull that, and place on the white candy in fine strips.—Ladies' Home Journal.

TRUE HOSPITALITY.

It Embraces More Than Mere Social Obligations.

The autumn is the natural season of hospitality. Now or never, with our larders overflowing with the fruits of the earth, do we long to share our blessings with our neighbors and friends. True hospitality does not consist in the mere fulfillment of social obligations. It is a far holier, nobler thing than this. It is the cordial, heartfelt welcome of a friend to our table and rooftree, without counting the cost. The lady of the house in former times was true to her name as the dispenser of bread. There was always room at her table for an extra guest. The fare was plainer than it is to-day, but the welcome was cordial, the hospitality spontaneous. It is an advantage to children to see guests frequently in this way. No social training can take the place of that which a child receives in the house of parents who delight to entertain their friends. Households, like individuals, become eccentric and narrow when kept too closely to their family group.

The present manner in which society pays its social obligations with commercial exactness is in direct opposition to the spirit of olden hospitality. Hospitality opens wide its doors to everyone it can receive with love. It measures no claims. It does not dole out so much entertainment in return for so much received. All this savors of the market, not of the broad, sweet spirit that welcomes the coming and speeds the parting guest. Those who are filled with the spirit of true hospitality do not attempt to make an elaborate feast beyond their means. They are ready to receive their friends at their every day table with as good as their board affords. They do not make the arrival of a guest a cause for display of their own vainglory. The most delightful ease of manner is that acquired by those accustomed to the frequent entertainment of guests of congenial mind. Home is always a sacred place, a shelter from hostile society, to which one is justly entitled. Hospitality does not demand that we shall introduce a rabble into the temple of the hearth, the holy place we call our home. It demands that we shall welcome cordially those whom we can love and respect, and should keep away all evil and hostile influences, without any regard to with Mrs. Grundy or the social world may say. The spirit of modern society has so widened the acquaintances of fashionable women that there is little time left them for the genuine entertainment of their friends. The stately dinners and other functions given to pay social obligations incurred in attendance upon similar affairs have hardly a spark of cordiality left in them. It is the woman who lives in the country, outside the artificial life of society, who can best exercise genuine olden hospitality.—N. Y. Tribune.

Walnut Bonbons.

Cook in a granite ware saucepan, two cupfuls of sugar and one-half cupful of hot water without stirring. Watch the sirup and try it often, when it forms a soft lump on the end of a spoon and before it hairs, remove from the fire and allow it to get cold. Then stir until it creams. At this stage it can be melted and made into balls placing a walnut meat on each side for walnut bonbons, or used to stuff seeded dates. Walnut meats, candied fruit or white grapes can be coated with this cream in the liquid state and thus make a variety of candy. By using coffee instead of water a coffee cream is the result. It is hard to tell when the sirup is cooked enough, except by practice, as no rule of time is reliable. The best way is to try a little in a large spoon stirring it with a smaller one. If the candy creams it is done. This fondant is the basis for much delicious homemade candy.—Good Housekeeping.

Honey Gingercake.

Rub three-quarters of a pound of fresh butter into a pound of sifted flour, add a teacupful of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls each of ground ginger and caraway seed. Beat five eggs, and stir in the mixture, alternately, with a pint of strained honey. Beat all together until very light. Turn into a shallow square pan, and set in a moderate oven to bake for one hour. When done, let cool, and cut into squares.—Albany Journal.

When Priests Were Doctors.

In ancient Egypt the art and practice of medicine and surgery were confined to the priesthood. Each priest adopted a specialty. Evidences of ancient dentistry revealed in the opening of tombs indicate that a high proficiency had been gained in at least one branch of dental art.—Detroit Free Press.

BOROUGH NOTICE

The ordinance requires occupants of property to remove snow and ice from sidewalks within five hours after it accumulates. Notice is hereby given that the penalty for violation of this ordinance will hereafter be strictly enforced.

B. A. HEGEMAN, JR.,
Mayor

1 6 12

PUBLIC BOWLING ALLEYS
AT
117 and 119 East Second Street.
C. M. ULRICH,
Manager.

2 11 1y.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

The Portland Range has duplex grate and ventilated oven door. 8000 are in use.

Stock Taking Opportunities

—as you know we offer them every year just about this time. 'Tis a season when every line in every part of store is decreased to smallest possible point. But the present Stock Taking Sale exceeds anything ever held in the past—make a note of prices, and see if we're not right.

BEDROOM SUITS

head the list - during sale, will offer this Bedroom Suit - one bed, dresser and wash stand, two chairs, one rocker, towel-rack and stand, one woven wire spring, one mixed mattress, two pillows, one bolster, one quilt, 14 pieces in all, $23.00 for entire lot - this special has NEVER been equalled. We've fully 50 other Bed Suits - ALL reduced

Here is the suit that's sold with 11 other pieces, for $23.00

PARLOR SUITS

100 different patterns - not one overlooked in this sale - all well made, new and pretty.

$25. Suits to $17. $40. Suits to $30.
$50. Suits to $35. $75. Suits to $50.
$125. Suits to $75.

DINING FURNITURE

Cane and leather-seat chairs, all patterns, 75c (were $1) to $10 (were $12)

Extension Tables:

$ 6. make $4.25 $10. make $7.00
$12. make $8.00 $50. make $30.00
Sideboards, $8.00 up.

CARPETS - Moquettes, 75c; Best Body Brussels, 90c; Velvets, 75c; Best Brussels 75c; other Brussels, 45c; All-wool Ingrains, 55c. About 50 rolls good, heavy Ingrains, formerly priced 65c and 75c, now at 35c and 39c yard. To "liven up things," we'll make and lay Carpets FREE at these prices.

ALL STOVE STOCK MARKED AT COST

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

CREDIT GIVEN TO ALL

NOTE NAME AMOS AND NO. 73 BEFORE ENTERING STORE

73 Market St. Near Plane Street NEWARK, N. J.

Telephone 580 Goods Delivered Free.

IS YOUR EYESIGHT DEFECTIVE?

There is no safer, surer or cheaper method of obtaining proper relief for over strained and defective eyesight, headache and so forth than to consult this Specialist. The happy results from correctly fitted glasses are a grateful surprise to persons who have not before known the real profit to themselves in wearing good glasses. No charge to examine your eyes. All glasses guaranteed.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,

EYE SPECIALISTS.

H. A. STILES will be at 107 East Front street, Dunham's real estate office, every THURSDAY, from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Powlison & Jones,

Dealers in

FURNITURE,

149 and 151 E. Front St.

The Better the Food
The Better the Health.

MORAL

Use my White Lable Canned Vegetables.

California Naval Oranges. Tangerines. Table Apples.
Preserved Fruit. White Grapes and Lady Apples.

G. W. ROCKFELLOW,
The Park Avenue Grocer.

W. J. STEPHENSON,
The Caterer,
Has RESUMED business again at his old stand,
146 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will be pleased to see his many friends and former customers.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street

Time Table in Effect NOVEMBER 15th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59, 7 38, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 30, 8 38, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 37, 11 10 a m; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 22, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 16, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30 5 36, 7 01, 8 12 9 23, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 8 00, 8 33, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 37, 11 10 am; 12 02, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 22, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28 p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 36, 7 01, 8 13, 9 23, 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 15, 7 55, 8 25, 9 03, 10 05, 11 25, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 32, 3 26, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 25, 5 42, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 50, 11 35 a m; 1 10, 1 35, 2 50, 4 05, 5 40, 7 20, 9 20, 10 2 Passengers for Newark please change car at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 2 11, 2 32, 3 35, 4 36, 5 08, 5 15, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p m; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 08, 3 43 5 14, 6 35, 10 34, 11 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 30, 7 35, 7 45, 8 19 9 08, 9 48, 11 45 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 26, 4 25, 5 28, 6 08, 6 35, 8 07, 8 50, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a m; 12 08, 1 20, 5 10, 6 35, 7 53, 8 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a. m., 12 46, 2 11, 4 36, 5 15, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 2 08, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 06, 7 00, 8 54, a m; 12 32, 4 04, 7 05, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 02 a m; 6 20 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 54 a. m; 5 03, 5 15 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

5 03 p. m., way for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

6 15 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor Allentown Mauch Chunk Scranton, Wilkesbarre Tamaqua, Shamokin, (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 28 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 14 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 10 27 a.m. 1 15, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, p. m. Sunday, (except Ocean Grove) 8 53 a. m., 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 13, 10 04, 10 27 a.m 1 15, 3, 12, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 53 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m.; 1 15 3 51, 5 32 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37* 1 17 night. Sundays—5 17, 5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14* p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m., 12 46, 2 17 2, 32*, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* p.m., 1 17 night. Sundays 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14*, p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a. m., 2 17, 5 34*, p. m., 1 17. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, p. m., 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (* change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect December 2d, 1896.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7 44 a. m. Daily (Sundays 8 01) Local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m 3 34, 5 22, 7 32 p. m. daily except Sunday, Local for Bound Brook.

11 54 a. m. Daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday. "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

1 44 p. m. daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

2 34 and 4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6 25 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

8 22 and 9 54 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9 32 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn-Local-6 49, 7 15, 7 43, 9 40, a. m. 2 29, 4 45 and 6 40 p. m. Sunday 9 03 a. m., 2 21, 6 08 p. m. Express—7 23, 8 27, 10 02 a. m. 12 14, 2 17, 5 11, 7 07 and 8 17 p. m. Sundays—7 23 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 48, 7 50, 10 05 a. m. 12 13, 2 33, 5 20, 7 07 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 10 a. m. 2 20 and 6 30 p. m.

For Metuchen only 6 26 p. m. except Sunday.

For further information consult Ticket Agent.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.
S. Bethlehem, Pa.
CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.
Philadelphia, Pa.
A. W. NONNEMASHER,
Ass't General Passenger Agt.,
South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt or Desbrosses street.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 50 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor
109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F.

RUDOLPH KERSTING
BAKER AND CONFECTIONER
201–203 West Front Street.
TRY OUR NEW ENGLAND AND HOME MADE BREAD.
VIENNA BREAD A SPECIALTY.
Charlotte de Russe, Cream Puffs, Chocolate Eclair, all kinds of Pastry and Cakes, FRESH EVERY DAY.
Delivery to any part of the City or Borough at any time.

Greatest Sacrifice of Clothing.
No garment reserved. Our entire stock must be sold in two weeks at 33 per cent on the dollar; no trifling, no boasting, no delusion; you know us or ought to.
READ THESE PRICES.
Men's fine Melton overcoat, worth $10, at $3.75; Men's extra fine Sunday overcoat in Melton or English Kersey, worth $15, at $4.95; the finest overcoat in Plainfield, worth $20, at $7.50, silk or satin lined. Remember we must sell every overcoat in the house in two weeks. Men's Ulster, worth $10, at $4; fine Ulster, satin lined, all wool, worth $18, at $6.50; a good Men's Ulster at $3, worth $8. Men's heavy weight all wool suit, very fine finish, worth $12, at $4.25; extra fine Sunday suit in all wool worsted plaids, latest style, worth $16, at $5.90; a fine all wool English clay diagonal suit, in frock, worth $18, at $6.90; Men's handsome fancy silk mixed suit worth $22, at $7.90; a good working suit suit $2.75, worth $7. Men's fine Sunday pants, worth $5, at $1.75; extra fine, worth $7.50, at $2.90; a good working pants, worth $1.75, at 65c. Boys winter school suit, worth $3.3, at $1.25; Boys' ulsters, at $1.50, worth $4; Boys' heavy knee pants at 28c, worth 75c. These special prices will only last for a few days. Remember all goods will go for one third their value.
New York Clothing Company,
214 WEST FRONT STREET.
M. WEINBERGER.
Near Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,
—Dealers in—
Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c.
Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.
BOICE, RUNYON & CO

WANT THEM
Ladies' Calf Shoes for Skating.
DO YOU
Ladies' Turned Cork-Sole Shoes.
WANT THEM
Also Hanan & Son's Shoes for Ladies and Gentlemen.
A. WILLETT AND SON,
NO. 107 PARK AVE.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.
177 NORTH AVENUE.

Desks, Tables,
Easy Chairs, Rockers, etc.
Fine China,
Elegant Lamps,
Fancy Pottery.
G. Q. PACKER. J. W. GAVETT.

Special—We place on sale today a Big Line of Suitings and Trousers.
Trousers to order $3.50 worth $5
Suits to order $18, worth $25
SEBRING'S.

Bargains in Real Estate
For sale or to let.
MONEY to loan on first mortgage.
E. C. Mulford, BROKER.,
Send for blank contracts. 109 North avenue Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.
Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

EDUCATIONAL.
Miss Helen B. Dunham,
TEACHER OF PIANO AND ORGAN.
Pupil of a German Professor. For reference address, Prof. John C. Bergner, Clinton, New Jersey. Call on or address Miss Helen B. Dunham, Dunellen, New Jersey. s 20 6m

Get Your Turkeys, Chickens and Ducks for the holidays at
W.L. & J.M. Smalley,
94 Somerset street.
Telephone Call, 42b.

P. H. ZIMMER,
Practical Machinist and Engineer,
Steam, Gas and Electric Contracting. Complete Power Plants Installed. Experimental work. General Jobbing. All kinds of repairing. EXCHANGE ALLEY, in rear of Trinity church. Bicycles built to order. 12

NEW DESIGNS
LARGE VARIETY.
HIGH GRADE
PARLOR HEATERS,
Stoves, Ranges and Oil Heaters
OUR PRICES ARE LOW.
Hardware, Heater and Furnace Work.
A. M. GRIFFEN.
119 E. Front st. Telephone 6

IF THE BEST WILL DO,
Try Royal Tooth Powder. 1 1-oz. can, 10c.; 4-oz. nickel-top bottle, 25c. It contains no acid or grit, and is recommended by all dentists of standing who will advise the use of Chalk and Castile Soap, flavored. Royal Borated and Carbolated Talcum, at 10c., is intended to give entire satisfaction and win your favor. Prepared by
ALLEN PHARMACY M'F'G CO.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Wall Paper 2cts. A Roll
Borders and Ceilings to Match, at
Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
201 Park avenue, corner Second street.
The Largest Supply House in the City.

Delicate Dress Goods.
Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.
Hillier & Co.,
79 North ave., Plainfield.
Telephone 30M

M. Powers & Son.
Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No 2 Coal Only $3.75 'n the Y.
No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 765 South ave Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp railroad station.

A. LUSARDI,
120 NORTH AVENUE.
Wholesale and Retail
Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds of Confectionery, Peanuts, Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 18 Vine st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

TOWNSEND'S
Marble and Granite Works,
SOMERSET STREET.
Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

FRANK DAY,
114 WEST SIXTH ST.,
Near Park Avenue.
Livery and boarding stable in all its branches all kinds of turnouts night or day at short notice. Horses boarded by day, week or month. Telephone No. 152. 9 10 tf

ADMINISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT.—Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, Administrator of Elizabeth Stephenson, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphan's Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the third day of February next.
Dated, November 25th, 1896.
12-1-10-w. WILLIAM G. DeMEZA.

NOTICE.
Estate of Robert Anderson deceased.
Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate to the county of Union, made on the application of the undersigned, administrator of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscriber under oath or affirmation there claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within nine months from the 6th day of November 1896, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscriber.
ANSON W. ANDERSON,
11 18 10-oaw-w Administrator.

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.—Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscribers, executors of and trustees under the will of Daniel J. Marshall, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphan's Court of the County of Union, on Wednesday, the tenth day of February next.
JOHN H. VAN WINKLE,
FREDERICK W. McCULLY,
HARRY W. MARSHALL.
Dated December 8th, 1896. 12 9 10w w

WORK IN CONGRESS

Free Homestead Bill the Subject Before the Senate To-Day.

REMARKABLE INCIDENT IN THE HOUSE

Representative Johnson of California Admits He Violated the Law at One Time and Was Indicted—Scores His Colleague.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Although Mr. Bacon of Georgia is booked for a speech in the senate this afternoon on Senator Mills' resolution recognizing Cuban independence, it is believed that it may be postponed, as the free homestead bill is the unfinished business, and many members seem inclined to force action on that measure as soon as possible. During the debate on this bill Senator Allen spoke in its favor declaring that the existing reign of bankruptcy and suicide was the logical consequence of the financial policy adopted by the government. It was opposed by Mr. Vilas because it would surrender $35,000,000 in money, part of which was due under contracts between the government and settlers on those public lands, and because it would give rise to claims for the refunding of all the money heretofore received by the government from settlers on Indian lands. A bill was introduced by Mr. Hill, and referred to the postoffice committee, proposing to fix the term of fourth-class postmasters at four years, except in the case of appointments to fill vacancies, when they are to be for the unexpired portion of the term. He explained and advocated the measure as one which would start political bookkeeping on correct principles and which would be fair to all parties. He argued that the passage of the bill would be productive of much good, as it would place those offices, now the football of politics, on a fixed and definite basis. The resolution offered by Mr. Allen, in regard to the violation of the eight-hour law in Brooklyn by contractors with the navy department, was taken up and agreed to—Mr. Chandler admitting that he had been mistaken in asserting that the eight-hour law did not apply to contractors.

House of Representatives.

A member of congress acknowledging on the floor of the house of representatives to his brother-members and to the galleries that he had been guilty of a violation of law and had been indicted for it was the remarkable spectacle presented under the capitol dome yesterday afternoon. The circumstances connected with the affair followed in natural sequence the bitter debate last Friday while the Pacific railroads refunding bill was pending. On that day Mr. Johnson of California made an attack upon William R. Hearst of the New York Journal and the San Francisco Examiner. Yesterday he found in the Congressional Record a column of print devoted to personal references to himself inserted by Mr. Maguire of California under leave to print. Rising to make a personal explanation, Mr. Johnson, his voice frequently breaking with passion, criticised Mr. Maguire severely for attacking him in that manner and not on the floor. He admitted that he had been indicted in Syracuse, N. Y., as charged by Mr. Maguire, but had atoned for his offense. He said his full record was known to the people of his congressional district, and that they had shown their belief in him by sending him to congress. Mr. Johnson's remarks were applauded several times. Concerning Mr. Maguire, his colleague called him a "humun hyena" and other such terms, and also bitterly denounced Mr. Hearst. Quite as vigorous was Mr. Maguire's response. He defended Mr. Hearst and did not spare Mr. Johnson. After several roll calls, the house disposed of the matter by expunging Mr. Maguire's remarks from the Record.

Status of Insurance Policies.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 13.—In the case of Mary Hogben against the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, Judge Thayer instructed the jury to bring in a verdict for defendant with costs. Mrs. Hogben's suit was to recover between $600 and $700 in premiums paid on a policy transferred to her. In instructing the jury to bring in this verdict Judge Thayer said that when the payment of premiums on a life insurance policy was commenced the policy became valid and the insurance company was entitled to keep the premiums paid for the risk they ran.

Alleged Forger Committed.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 13.—Wm. Debold, the 18-year-old youth arrested on the charge of forging the name of Charles B. Grubb, a prominent capitalist, to checks which were cashed at the First National bank of this city, the aggregate amount secured by Debold being said to be in excess of $400, has been committed for a hearing.

True Bill Found Against Ivory.

London, Jan. 13.—The grand jury in the Central criminal court, Old Bailey, has returned a true bill against Edward J. Ivory, alias Edward Bell, of New York, who was arrested in Glasgow in September last on a charge of being engaged in a conspiracy to cause a dynamite explosion.

Killed Himself at the Age of 73.

Woburn, Mass., Jan. 13.—Charles Brown, 72 years old, committed suicide at Woburn yesterday. The recent death of a daughter preyed on his mind. He is survived by a wife, three sons and a daughter.

White Paper Trust Collapses.

New York, Jan. 13.—It is learned that the projected white paper trust has entirely collapsed. Disputes over representation in the pool is given as the chief cause.

SOME MAY OPPOSE IT

Indications of Rough Sailing for Arbitration Treaty in Senate.

BOUNDARY MATTERS THE TROUBLE

Influential Members Said To Oppose the Treaty Because This Subject Was Not Omitted—In No Haste To Ratify It.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Private talks with senators on the general treaty of arbitration between the United States and Great Britain, sent to the senate Monday, indicate that the convention will not have smooth sailing in the senate. There is some opposition on the part of senators of influence on account of the fact that boundary matters are included. The foreign affairs committee will probably take up the treaty at its meeting to-day. The members say that the document will be carefully considered both in committee and in the senate and that there will be no haste in taking the final vote on ratification. The debate promises to be somewhat protracted, and there are senators who predict that there will be no action on the subject at this session of congress.

HOUSE COMMITTEES.

Vacancie Caused by the Death of Ex-Speaker Crisp Filled.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Speaker Reed just before the adjournment last evening filled the vacancies on the committee on rules and on ways and means caused by the death of the late Mr. Crisp of Georgia. Several gentlemen who desired an appointment to the ways and means committee have exerted considerable influence upon the speaker to secure the office and it was thought for a time that it would be given to Mr. Newlands of Nevada, who was unusually well endorsed. The speaker, however, gave the place to Mr. Boatner of Louisiana, whose seat was declared vacant at the last session of congress, and who since his re-election to fill out the remainder of the present term has been without a committee assignment. The vacancy on the rules committee was filled by the appointment of Mr. Bailey of Texas. Mr. Boatner is now serving his fourth term in congress. He has long been regarded as one of the ablest lawyers in the house and a tireless and indefatigable committee worker. Mr. Bailey is one of the younger members of the house although his service of six consecutive years, with a re-election to the next congress makes him him something of a veteran in point of experience. Charles Crisp, the son of the late Speaker Crisp, who was elected last month to serve out the remainder of his father's term, was assigned to the postoffice and mileage committees.

Waterbury Newspaper Fight.

Waterbury, Conn., Jan. 13.—Judge Elmer in the superior court here sustained the temporary injunction in the case of Mrs. Michael T. Maloney and Chris F. Downey vs. the Democrat Publishing company, which decision prevents the present newly organized company from doing business under that name and prevents them from using the name of the Evening Democrat pending further proceedings. The court also appointed a receiver to settle the affairs of the old partnership of C. & T. Maloney.

Dangerous $20 Bill Counterfeit.

New York, Jan. 13.—The banks have received word of the discovery of a new and dangerous counterfeit of the $20 United States certificate, issued under the act of Feb. 28, 1878, series 1891, check letter B. The counterfeit bears the usual small scalloped carmine seal, purports to be signed by J. Fount Tillman, register of the treasury, and D. N. Morgan, treasurer of the United States, and bears the treasury number A 6,705,401.

Chilton's Tour of Inspection.

Rome, Jan. 13.—Robert S. Chilton, chief of the consular bureau of the department of state at Washington, who is on a tour of inspection of the United States consular service, is expected to arrive in this city this afternoon. Mr. Chilton has already inspected the American consulates in the United Kingdom and France, and before his return to the United States will visit those throughout Europe and India, China and Japan.

Baseball Franchise Purchased.

Toronto, Jan. 13.—Manager Arthur Irwin has purchased the Toronto franchise in the Eastern Baseball league. The price is said to be $2,500. Included with the franchise are the following players: Pitchers, Staley, Dinneen and Dean; catcher, Casey; first baseman, Lutenberg; second baseman, Ward; shortstop, Wagner, outfielders, Freeman and Wright. The team will report at either Washington or Baltimore about April 1.

May Outwit the Gallows.

Barrie, Ont., Jan. 13.—Michael Brennan, who is under sentence to be hanged on Jan. 19 for the murder of banker William Strathy of Toronto, is dying in the county jail here and may yet outwit the law.

Struck by a Train and Killed.

Derby, Conn., Jan. 13.—Albert W. Bump, a butcher of this city, was struck and instantly killed by a train on the Berkshire railroad yesterday. Owing to the strong wind which was blowing, he did not hear the whistle.

Ministerial Call Accepted.

Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 13.—The pastorate of St. Thomas' church here has been accepted by Rev. Charles Foster of Ogdensburgh, N. Y.

THE PLAINFIELD CYCLE SHOW

WILL OPEN

TUESDAY JANUARY 12, 1897,

AT 132 NORTH AVENUE,

WITH A Full line of '97 WHEELS !

Call and see what we have.

W. H. ROGERS.

SPORTS

Sun Rises: 7:23 a. m.
Sun sets: 4:55 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be Lighted at 5:55 p. m.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

A bowling match will take place at the alleys in the Ulrich club house, this evening, between teams from the Independent Fife and Drum Corps and the employes of Griffin's hardware store.

The schedule for the Diocesan bowling tournament has been arranged for the first two weeks of play. It is as follows:

Wednesday, Jan. 13th, Institutes of Newark, at Orange.
Wednesday, Jan. 13th, Elizabeth at Orange Valley.
Wednesday, Jan. 20th, Orange at Jersey City.
Thursday, Jan. 21st, Plainfield at Elizabeth.
Saturday, January 23d, Orange Valley at Newark.

The committee will meet on Sunday evening in Newark to complete the schedule.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Rogers, the North avenue cycle dealer, wishes to inform the public generally, that has has a lease of the adjoining store to his place of business, and has accommodation to store over 100 wheels, which he is ready to do by the day, week or month, at a reasonable charge. Mr. Rogers' place of business will be entirely closed on Saturday and business will not be done until after sundown. The storage room will be open and an employer will be present to receive and deliver wheels only.

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all Female Complaints, exercising a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, Constipation, Headache, Fainting Spells, or are Nervous, Sleepless, Excitable, Melancholly, or troubled with Dizzy Spells, Electric Bitters is the medicine you need. Health and Strength are guaranteed by its use. Fifty cents and $1.00 at Randolph's Drug Store.

Will Be a Great Show.

Plans are now going forward for the Crescent Wheelmen's minstrel show with great vigor. The plan of the entertainment has almost been arranged and will be announced shortly. The members of the club are showing a great interest in the show, and the committee has had many offers of assistance from them. It is expected that the show this year will far eclipse last year's effort and everything points to a successful entertainment.

Borough Changes.

A fish market will be opened by David King in the place now occupied as a barber shop, adjoining Smalley Bros. meat market on Somerset street. The barber will take the store recently occupied by Coddington & Ackerman, fish dealers. N. B. Smalley will move his pool tables to the latter store, and the rooms now occupied by him over the meat market will be thoroughly repaired, after which W. L. Smalley and family will take possession.

GAIL BORDEN
EAGLE Brand
..CONDENSED MILK..
Has No Equal
SOLD EVERYWHERE

WOULDN'T PAY HIS FARE

A RHODE ISLAND MAN REFUSED TO SETTLE FOR A HACK RIDE.

Then He Was Arrested and Hauled Before the Cadi and Thereat Became Meek and Settled With the Hack Driver.

There is one man from Westerly, R. I., who has a very poor opinion of Plainfield's hackmen. His name is Charles Brown and he came to Plainfield yesterday afternoon to see a friend. The friend has been working at the Pond Tool works and Mr. Brown wanted to go there. After running the gauntlet of the jehus in front of the station, he selected hackman Charles Barry and inquired the rate to Pond's shop. The hackman told him a quarter and Brown said go ahead.

Barry drove him to the shop as agreed but the man wanted was not there. Barry said that he knew where he lived and so off they went again. They drove all over the city in search of the friend but with no success and Brown, after drowning his sorrows in Plainfield's far famed "apple jack" and treating Barry, started to leave. Barry wanted $1.25 as his fare but the stranger said that he didn't agree to pay it and therefore he was not going to.

Barry appeared to Roundsman Frederickson and had Brown arrested. The Judge happened to be around and he had a little talk with the man from Westerly and the latter finally agreed to pay the fare and leave town at once. Under those circumstances, the Judge dismissed the complaint and the man departed.

A Cart for City Use.

Councilman George H. Frost, chairman of the streets and sewer committee of the Common Council, has purchased a new cart to be established at the city farm. The cart was bought from Hobson & Co., of Tattamy, Pa., for $30. Mr. Frost is looking about for other carts to be used in his proposed system of taking care of the streets of the city, as was explained in the interview with him published in yesterday's Daily Press.

Death of Mrs. Young.

The death of Mrs. William Young occurred yesterday at her home on West Sixth street, in her forty-fourth year. She was a member of the Congregational church, and when health permitted took an active interest in the work of the church. The funeral will be held from her late home, 432 West Sixth street, Friday, at 1:30 p.m., and in the Congregational church at 2 p. m.

To Give a Turkey Supper.

The committee in charge of the "Turkey Supper" which is to be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of the Trinity Reformed church, held a meeting yesterday and decided to hold the supper on Thursday and Friday evenings, January 28th and 29th. Supper will be served from 5 to 9 o'clock and the admission, including supper, will be 35 cents.

Wants to Be Postmaster.

Ex-Postmaster Norman C. Dunn, who is looking after the postoffice affairs since the death of the late James A. Baker, has a petition in circulation for appointment to fill the unexpired term, and it is said to be generously signed, both by the merchants and townspeople. Mr. Dunn is well-qualified for the office, and his appointment seems quite likely for the Scotch Plains office.

To Occupy New Offices.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, who for a number of years has occupied rooms in the building at the corner of Front and Somerset streets, will at an early date move to the building soon to be occupied by the City National Bank. He will have a suite of rooms over the bank. They will be modernly furnished and up-to-date in every respect.

Now at the Asylum.

Johan Johanson is now safely established in the New Jersey State Hospital at Morris Plains, and is under the care of the proper authorities. He was taken over yesterday morning in a carriage by Sergeant Kiely and arrived there safely without any lively demonstration. The ride was a cold one to the prisoner and his captors.

The New Pastor to Be Installed.

Rev. A. C. Dickerson will be installed as pastor of All Souls church next Tuesday evening. The sermon will be preached by Rev. S. A. Elliott, pastor of the Church of Our Saviour, of Brooklyn. Mr. Elliott is a son of President Elliott, of Harvard College. In connection with the installation there will be other exercises of an interesting nature.

A Case Non-Suited.

The case of Henry Krause, administrator, against the Lehigh Valley Railroad et als, in tort, came up in the Supreme court at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon and the case was non-suited by the railroad company. The suit was brought for $5,000 damages against the railroad for killing a man at Roselle. He was struck by a train.

Set Over to the Next Term.

The contract case of Carl Boker and others against George Cobb came up in the Supreme Court at Elizabeth, this morning, and the trial was set over until the next term of court by the consent of both lawyers. J. P. D. Kirch was attorney for the plaintiff and Assemblyman W. R. Codington for the defendant.

A Sewing School to be Started.

The ladies of the German Reformed church are preparing to open a sewing school for the benefit of the children of the church in the basement of the church. The school will meet for the first time on Saturday afternoon. It will be under the charge of Mrs. Harry Baker and others.

Handsome Calendars.

Thomas H. Keller, the well-known trap shooter and baseballist, stopped in The Daily Press office today and left two of the handsome art calendars that the Peters Cartridge Company have issued for this year. Mr. Keller is now representing that company.

Barney Tracy Arrested.

Barney Tracy was arrested by Patrolman McCue, this morning, for purchasing liquor for small boys. He was brought before City Judge DeMeza and pleaded not guilty. His trial was set down for Saturday morning.

Dunellen's Tax Collection.

At the last regular meeting of the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders, held at New Brunswick, the total collection of taxes in Dunellen for the month was reported as $2,715.08.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

J. Fred MacDonald, of East Front street, is reported as being much improved today.

J. Bradley Smith, of Philadelphia, left yesterday after a visit at the home of William A. Wheeler, of LaGrande avenue.

District Deputy Wm. Newcorn and staff, went to Rahway last evening and raised up the chiefs of Rahwack Tribe, I. O. R. M.

Mrs. William P. Frazee, of New York city, returned home today after spending a few days with ex-Councilman V. L. Frazee and wife, of West End Park.

Miss Belle Lewis, of Somerset street, has returned to her duties at the law offices of City Judge DeMeza after being confined to her home for a week with illness.

James Wagner, Theodore J. LaRue and J. T. Odam have gone to Fordham, N. Y., today, to attend the New York State Convention of Slaters, of which they are all members.

$35. Will buy you a First-Class High Grade BICYCLE.
Peck & Snyder and Winslow Skates from 49c. up.
PLAINFIELD CYCLE AND SPORTING GOODS CO.
147-149 NORTH AVENUE.
H. E. RIDER, President. C. C. LISTER, Secretary and Treas.

NASAL CATARRH is a LOCAL DISEASE and is the result of colds and sudden climatic changes. This remedy does not contain mercury or any other injurious drug.

ELY'S Cream Balm opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Pain and Inflammation. Heals and Protects the Membrane from Colds. Restores the senses of Taste and Smell. Is quickly absorbed. Gives relief at once. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail.
ELY BROTHERS 56 Warren Street, New York.

CATARRH

COLD IN HEAD

Assisting Deserving People.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Warren Chapel will meet this afternoon in the chapel to pack two barrels. One will be sent to a colored school in the south and the other to the mission at Sault St. Marie.

The Cabby's Christening.

Parson—What shall we call it?
Cabby (absentmindedly)—Oh, I leave that entirely to you, sir!—London Figaro.

His Worst Fear.

"I'm afraid," said the pugilist in alarm, "I'm gittin what they call the clergyman's sore throat."—Chicago Tribune.

Advice to Sports.

Be sure you are right; then—bet on the other horse.—New York Sunday Journal.

Not a Certainty.

"No, my dear, it's no use talking. I shan't give up smoking until I'm dead."
His wife (bitterly)—What leads you to believe that you will give it up then?—Brooklyn Life.

Proper Pride.

"Well, Nigel, if I let you stay in the drawing room, you must be very quiet, and not want to talk to me when visitors are here. Do you understand?"
"Yes, mummy, I understand, but when I comes into the drawing room, I are a visitor!"—Punch.

As Most Appropriate.

"What kind of goods, ma'am?" asked the salesman.
"I think," replied the young woman who had just bought a wheel and was about to order her first riding suit, "you may show me some of your early fall styles."—Chicago Tribune.

Ridiculous Price.

He—Twenty-five dollars for a hat! It is perfectly ridiculous.
She—I know it is, but you said that was all you could afford.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A LITTLE STORY!

About a special fine lot of Hamburgh Embroideries which has just been received by us and put on sale.

They were made by a large manufacturer in St. Gall, Switzerland, and were the odds and ends of the factory.

THE PRICE IS JUST 1/2

the usual price asked.

They come from the narrow edge to 10 inches wide, the work being 5 inches wide on some of them. You will find them on three centre tables on the right-hand aisle as you enter the store.

ONE TABLE IS 5 Cts a Yard,
ONE TABLE IS 10 Cts a Yard, and
ONE TABLE IS 15 Cts a Yard.

They had not been on exhibition only a short time when one lady's attention was called to them and she purchased about $15 worth in a few minutes.

They sell quick at sight. They can't be duplicated. If you want any of them come in quick.

Remember we are clearing out all our heavy winter stock now, and you will find plenty of

Real Bargains

all through the store. We are preparing another surprise for you, and in a few days you will know about it.

EDSALL'S.

The Strongest Claim

We make for the superiority of our

Demulcent Cream

OF

Witch Hazel

is that the people who have used it say it is the most efficient

TOILET REQUISITE

they ever used. For chapped hands it is unequalled.

Price 25c a Jar.

Leggett's Pharmacy,

Y. M. C. A. Building. Telephone No. 4.

WE WANT FEET

to fit our shoes. The invisible cork sole ones are particularly appropriate this season of the year. We're selling them at right prices.

Doane & Edsall.

Store closes at 6, Saturday 10 p. m.

Last Edition. # THE DAILY PRESS Last Edition

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

COMRADE LAID TO REST.

FUNERAL OBSEQUIES OF THE LATE ISAAC BROKAW.

The Services in Charge of the G. A. R. of Which Decedent Was a Member—Sermon Preached by Rev. C. R. Barnes.

Another comrade of the Grand Army of the Republic has been laid to rest, thus reminding all that the ranks of this noble patriotic order is growing thin very fast.

The funeral services of the late Isaac Brokaw were held from the house, No.507 West Fourth street, yesterday afternoon at 2:30. There was a very large attendance of relatives, friends, comrades and members of the Woman's Relief Corps. The services were conducted by Rev. C. R. Barnes, who after reading appropriate selections from the Bible, spoke in part as follows:

"It is natural in times of sorrow to seek for comfort, but we are not left in darkness if we look at the word of God where we can find facts that can comfort us. If we stop and think, we can see how much better off our friends are, and this is illustrated by Paul who said that to depart and be with Christ was far better.

"We often think of our friends racked with disease and pain, but it never occurs to us to think of them in such a condition that they have passed from all their sufferings.

"There is a story of a little boy who grieved over the death of a sister. One day an angel showed him, in a dream, his sister's condition, free from pain, and enjoying all the good things God had prepared for her. He then asked the little boy if he would like to have his sister back again, when he replied, that he would rather have the angel take him to her.

"When we pass to the other side we shall have a glorious body. Jesus will lead His sheep and they will go in and out and find pasture.

"Our brother was a good soldier, and a good soldier for Christ. He was a true and faithful Christian and tried to live a consistent life in the Master's service. If we want other sources of consolation let us think how much better off he is. He is no longer subject to temptation or trials.

"There are blessed messages that come to us from our friends who have passed over the line. How patient they were in suffering and how glad they were to go to their Maker. We look expectantly forward to that morning when we shall meet the loved ones that have gone before us and who waits anxiously for our coming. Then we shall hear our Saviour say come up higher."

When the speaker had concluded his remarks all present were given an opportunity to look for the last time on the form of one who had fought his last battle and had answered the call of his Captain.

Two beautiful floral tributes rested on the casket. One was an anchor from Post No. 73, of which the departed was a member, and the other was a wreath from the Woman's Relief Corps. These flowers, together with an American flag, were beautifully arranged about the casket.

At the grave, members of the Post took charge of the service, which was according to the ritual of the order, and it was very impressively rendered.

Those who composed the firing squad were H.C.Drake, John Emmons, I. Compton, Wm. Stites, Wm.C.Hand, Wm. R. Moore, A. King, A. Sargent, J. Beglin, J. Lewis, and those who served as pall bearers were E. Van Court, M. C. Dobbins, W. W. Coriell, R. Milligan and Robert Walker. All of the above were from Post No. 73, G. A. R.

Interment was in the Plainfield avenue cemetery.

Rat Killing in the Town Hall.

W. H. Carman, the Dunellen butcher, has been bothered by rats of late. They were not of the ordinary kind and size, but some of them were as big as half grown cats. So big were they, in fact, that the neighbors cats would only get one eye on them and only in the day time at that. But they were becoming to be a nuisance, so on Tuesday night Mr. Carman set a trap and yesterday morning four rats were found in it. Joel Giddis took the animals down to the unfinished town hall where they were liberated in front of Fred Nelson's Scotch terrier dog and a lively scrimmage ensued for a few minutes. The "ratter," however, soon put an end to the rats.

Will of the Late A. W. Cutler.

The will of the late A. W. Cutler, of Morristown, admitted to probate by Surragate Pierson, was executed June 10, 1873, and witnessed by Senator John B. Vreeland and Mayor Edward A. Quale. It is very short. His entire estate is left to his widow during her lifetime and then to his three sons. Mrs. Cutler is made executrix.

TROLLEY STRIKES A SNAG.

STANDSTILL AT WASHINGTONVILLE.

Waiting to See What Authority The Township Committee Has.

The attempt to run the trolley road up to Washingtonvile has come to a standstill, but it is probably only a temporary one. A meeting of those interested was held at the Washingtonville schoolhouse, last evening, and most of the leading citizens of that place and the officials of the Plainfield Street Railway were present to talk over the matter.

There seems to be no opposition on the part of the property owners along the line of the proposed extension but the matter brought to a sudden halt by the township committee. It is necessary for the road to be widened by the county authorities and that requires about $1,000; $250 of it has been given by the railway company but the committee are in doubt about the rest. While they all favor the proposed extension, they are not sure as to their power to appropriate the necessary funds without waiting until spring and then bringing the matter to the vote of the people, which would, of course, mean considerable delay.

The committee will investigate the matter, and another meeting will be held on Saturday evening to again discuss the question and bring the affair, if possible, to a satisfactory settlement.

POLO ON ROLLER SKATES

SONS OF REST DEFEAT THE SONS OF TOIL, SCORE 4 TO 1.

The Game Afforded a Good Deal of Amusement for Spectators — Several Tumbles, But No One Severely Injured

Plainfield had her first glimpse of polo on roller skates last evening at the Jersey Cycle Academy, when two teams, each composed of six young men from this city, exhibited their skill at the game. The two teams called themselves the "Sons of Rest" and the "Sons of Toil," and they played with a vim and spirit that was very pleasing to the few spectators that braved the chilly night air to see the game.

The game was an exciting one throughout, and the Plainfield boys showed that they are well up in the points of the game. The two teams lined up as follows:

SONS OF REST.		SONS OF TOIL.
Smith	centre	Freeman
Simmonds	right forward	Woltmann
Green	left forward	Dryden
Darling	right back	Brown
Morgan	left back	Platt
Waters	goal keeper	McClure

Scores, Sons of Rest, 4; Sons of Toil, 1. Goals made, first half Darling 2, Simmonds; second half, Smith, Platt.

It was team play that finally won the game for the Sons of Rest. The forwards of that team put up a great game all the time and kept their opponents hustling. Simmonds and Green were especially good at keeping the ball from their opponents, and both made a number of long runs down the side of the rink, dodging the others with wonderful quickness. Simmonds made some splendid shots at the goal which would have greatly added to the score of his team but for the watchfulness of McClure, goal keeper on the other side. Freeman made some pretty runs, while Woltmann and Dryden worked togetner well. Platt got in a number of brilliant plays during the evening.

There were sundry tumbles, but nobody was seriously injured. Dryden and Green came together, and the latter was dazed for the moment, but soon recovered. Smith was particularly unlucky as he broke three pairs of skates, and had to withdraw from the game a number of times to adjust them. Fingers were skinned, and several of the players received a whack along the side of their head, but it was all in the game and only added to the fun.

The game is an extremely exciting one, and promises to be popular if played much during the winter. Another game is being arranged for next Wednesday evening. It is hoped that the team of the Elizabeth Athletic Club can be secured to play here soon.

Carried Away His Fattest Hens.

Some naughty man visited the hennery of Wallace Vail, of Clinton avenue, last evening, and departed with twenty of Mr. Vail's fairest and fattest Plymouth Rock fowls. The nocturnal visitor forced the door of the large hennery and made himself at home with its contents. The occupants of the house did not hear him during his evening call and he forgot to leave his card.

Justice Newcorn's Court.

In Justice Newcorn's court the two cases of Slape against the Plainfield Street Railway Company have been adjourned for one week, also the case of Smith against Hall. The case of Coddington against Burke has been adjourned for thirty days.

STORY OF A CORNER LOT.

HART MAY FIND TROUBLE IN BUILDING ON HIS PROPERTY.

Edward Vail Claims to Have a Deed For a Corner Lot on Elmwood Place and Intends to Enforce All of Its Provisions.

The indications that Lemuel E. Hart, of West Front street, intends to erect two or three houses on the rear of his property has brought out some interesting facts which may block his plans of operation.

Several years ago a street was marked out to run from Elmwood place to Plainfield avenue, about midway in the block, and for years there was a vast strip of unoccupied property on Elmwood place which could neither be bought or sold because the owners, husband and wife, would not sign off. Sometime later one or two real estate investors managed to get hold of the desirable land, and they erected two houses which enhanced the value of the property. Before one of the houses was completed it was purchased by Edward Vail, and in securing the property he was very particular to find out that his deed called for a corner lot, and it was so stipulated in the contract.

In the meantime Mr. Hart purchased a lot on the other side of Mr. Vail from Rev. Mr. Howlett, of Philadelphia, and on this lot he erected a small house, presumably for the purpose that when he got ready to build in the rear of his Front street property, which would be directly back of the lot on Elmwood place, he could open up a passageway to his houses in the rear. But here is where the obstacle appears, for Mr. Vail will declare himself and show that he has a corner lot. This will necessitate that Mr. Hart move his house on Elmwood place to the other side of his lot which he has left vacant for the above mentioned purpose.

This does not seem to end all the trouble, for it is said that the deed to the property on the other side of Mr. Hart's lot also calls for a corner lot. If this is true, the little house in the center will find itself in close quarters with barely enough room to stand on.

It is said that both Mr. Vail and Mr. Howlett will demand their rights in case Mr. Hart makes the intended move.

Mr. Hart's house on Elmwood place is now occupied by Amos Gray, and it is said that when the latter took the house he was informed of Mr. Hart's intention and that he was told that a board fence was likely to be built along side of the house shutting him off from the passageway. This he does not like very much.

The chances are that Mr. Hart will have to look elsewhere for an opening. If his plan was carried out it would be a great source of revenue. On the other hand if the street is opened up, as originally provided for it, would make quite an improvement to the property.

It is understood that the interested parties against the closing of the street have sought legal advice and that they have been told to maintain their rights. The outcome of the affair will be watched with considerable interest by many in that vicinity.

At the Plainfield High School.

The Plainfield High School Cadet Company will meet for its regular weekly drill, this afternoon, in the Jersey Cycle Academy. The drill begins at 4 o'clock. Quite a number of the young men go there every Thursday afternoon to see them drill.

The dates for the semi-annual examinations have been announced and they are as follows: January 22d, Rhetoric; January 25th, Zoology, Junior Greek, Virgil, Beginning Latin, Cæsar and Higher English; January 26th, Mathematics and Cicero; January 27th, Literature in all classes; January 28th, Senior Greek, Modern History, Ancient History, Civil Government, Senior English Literature; January 29th, Astronomy, French, Physics, English History, Chemistry, Beginning Greek.

On With the Dance.

The committee in charge of the proposed dance of the Cleveland Cyclers, which is to be held on January 21st, held a meeting on Tuesday evening and selected the officers for the coming dance. George L. Babcock will act as general director. The floor manager will be William J. Kiely, and his assistants will be William Schaeffer, Harry Dreier and Walter Frey. The reception committee consists of G. T. Sutphen, Peter Blimm, James Smith, and Edward Sowden.

"Seven Wonders" Entertained.

Miss Eva D. Benton entertained her friends of the "Seven Wonders" at a luncheon, today, in honor of her guest, Miss Alberta Irwin, of Brooklyn. The charming little affair was held at the home of Miss Benton in the Babcock building.

CONNECTING TO SEWERS

PROPERTY OWNERS WILL BE GIVFN PLENTY OF TIME TO DO THIS.

The False Impression Has Been Given That the Board of Health Would Start a Regular Crusade to Hurry Connections.

The ordinance, providing that all residents shall connect with the sewer, which is now before the Board of Health, has caused lots of discussion as to its effect, should it be passed, and no end of worriment to the citizens who are not near a sewer or whose house is not equipped with the sanitary plumbing required to connect with the sewer. There have been many questions asked as to the real meaning of the proposed ordinance and whether it will be necessary for all residents to connect at once no matter to what inconvenience or heavy expense they are put. The News has been publishing articles in regard to the matter which have increased the worriment by giving the impression that the Board is soon to start a campaign against the residents who have not connected with the sewer.

To learn the real facts in the case, a Daily Press reporter called on George W. Rockfellow, president of the Board of Health, at his office on Park avenue, this morning, and asked him regarding the intentions of the Board in the matter.

The object of the ordinance, explained Mr. Rockfellow, was to have the residents along the lines of the sewer connect with it as soon as possible for the sewer system was made to use, not to look at, but the Board had no intention of driving anybody to make the connection. There are some buildings in the city which are already to connect and the owners will be expected to do so in a reasonable time, but then there are others which will have to be greatly changed in order to make the connection; they will be given time in which to make their alterations. The matter is left to the judgment of the Board and they will not drive anyone.

In passing this law, Mr. Rockfellow said, the Board is merely acting according to the laws of the State of New Jersey. The Board was informed by the Corporation Counsel that it was necessary to pass such an ordinance to conform with the State law and so it was drawn up. The ordinance will probably be passed at the meeting of the Board the last of this month unless there should be some opposition to the ordinance.

ANDY SEGUINE DONE UP.

Assaulted by Strikers, Who Were Arrested and Bound Over.

Andrew M. Seguine, who was formerly associated with his father in the livery stables at Laing's hotel in this city, and now a driver for the New York Cab Company, was assaulted by striking cabmen about midnight on Tuesday night at the Morningside Restaurant, 306 Boulevard. He is at present confined to his home from the effects of the injuries.

Seguine is employed at the Seventy-fifth street stables of the company, and, having finished his work about midnight, went to the restaurant to eat. He finished his meal, and had started to leave when two men stopped him. They asked him where he was going, to which he answered "Home." Then, according to his story, one of them said, "No, you are not, either," and struck him. He tried to defend himself, but was attacked by the two men, one of whom called him a "scab."

A certificate was produced by a physician stating that Seguine was unable to attend court, and Magistrate Mott held the men arrested for his assault forty-eight hours to await the result of Seguine's injuries.

REV. EDWARD KIONKA RESIGNS.

Prompted to Take Such Action by Untruths Circulated by Enemies.

Rev. Edward Kionka has resigned the pastorate of the German Lutheran church, owing to the scandalous stories that were circulated about him while he was absent from town. Rev. Mr. Kionka told a Press reporter last night that he was confident that he knew where the untruths emenated from, and it was his intention to trace them out.

A minister from New York will occupy the pulpit at the German Lutheran church next Sunday. Rev. Mr. Kionka will preach at the German Lutheran church, Norristown, Pa., on that day. He left town, this morning, for the latter place.

North Plainfield School Cadets to Drill.

The North Plainfield High School cadets will holl their first evening drill in Saengerbund Hall this evening, and will continue to drill there through the winter. The school basement, where they have been drilling, is to small to allow the company to go through the necessary maneuvres.

—Advertise in The Daily Press.

EXCEED THEIR AUTHORITY.

EXEMPT FIREMEN ARE INDIGNANT.

Resolved That the State Executive Committee Had No Power to Act.

The action taken last December by the Executive Committee of the State Firemen's Relief Association, in regard to recommending that all tax exemption be rescinded, so far as it relates to exempt firemen, has stirred up a hornet's nest throughout the State. At the meeting of the Plainfield Firemen's Relief Association held last evening the matter was thoroughly discussed, and it resulted in the unanimous adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the Plainfield Firemen's Relief Association condemn the action of the executive committee of the New Jersey State Firemen's Association, in the position they have placed the firemen of the State, by their action in regard to the tax exemption at their meeting held December 7th, 1896, in the city of Newark, and be it

Resolved, That we consider that they have exceeded their power in expressing their views as an executive committee to the equal tax commission, with the evident intention of committing the Firemen's Relief Association of New Jersey, and be it

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the secretary of the executive committee.

The members present felt very indignant at the action taken by the State Committee, and personally they did not hesitate to express their views which resulted in the unanimous adoption of the above resolutions.

A BIG STORM PREDICTED.

RAILROAD PEOPLE WARNED TO PREPARE FOR HARD WEATHER.

Severe Weather Expected Last Night and Though There Was Some Snow it Was Only a Flurry.—May Come Yet Today.

Everybody expected a storm for last night and a small one came, but it was so small that it didn't count. The air felt like it, the skies were dark and threatening and the barometer fell as if before a storm. The officials of the weather bureau thought that this part of the country was going to have another taste of snow and the accompanying pleasures and discomforts and they prophesied to that effect.

The officials of the Jersey Central railroad also expected something of the kind and a warning bulletin was posted at all offices along the line. The bulletin was as follows:

To all Offices:—

Am advised by weather bureau that the conditions are favorable for heavy snow tonight in the interior of Pennsylvania, Maryland and New York, which may extend to the coast.

J. H. Olhaussen.

A light snow began to fall at about 9.30 oclock last evening and when the Plainfielders retired to their beds they expected to see the ground covered with several inches of the feathery flakes, but they were disappointed. The weather bureau still thinks that the storm is close at hand and will reach here today or tonight and continue through tomorrow.

Found His Friend But Couldn't See Him.

In the story of the trials and tribulations of Charles Brown, which were told in yesterday's Press, a slight mistake was made in regard to the facts of the chase for the friend. He was found at the Pond Tool works but was busy at his work and so Brown could not see him. So it was that Hackman Barry drove him about the city in search of the residence of the friend, according to the direction of Brown who told Barry where to go.

Played Progressive Hearts.

Clifford M. Crane entertained a number of his friends at his home on West Eighth street, last evening. The first part of the evening was spent in playing progressive hearts. Miss Elsie Jobs and George Proctor Smith were the successful ones in the game while the booby prizes were awarded to Miss Cora Laire and Henry W. Brower.

A New Building.

Papers were signed this morning between D. N. Force, contractor, and and George Fellow, butcher, for the erection of a three story frame building to be located at the corner of Pearl and Warren streets. The building will cost about $3,500.

Lost in Dog Watch Hollow.

A party of city and borough sports went to Dog Watch Hollow last evening to witness a cock fight. After spending the night in search of the affair, they returned at 6 o'clock this morning sad but wiser men.

Now a Dakota Editor.

J. E. Cobb, of Lincoln place, who recently went to Dickinson, North Dakota, has become one of the editors and proprietors of "The Press," a weekly paper at that place. Mrs. Cobb will join her husband in the spring.

Damage Adjourned for a Time.

The case of Phelps against Howell, in tort, was down on the calendar for trial in the Circuit Court at Elizabeth yesterday but the case was adjourned until later in the term by consent of both counsels.

UNDERGROUND WIRES.

THE N. Y. & N. J. TELEPHONE COMPANY WILLING TO DO THE WORK.

They Have Prepared an Ordinance to That Effect to be Introduced Into the Council—Will Put City Wires in Conduit Free.

The question of doing away with the overhead wires in the business section of this city by placing them in subways, which was originally mentioned in The Press some months ago, is again attracting the attention of the city fathers and the ordinance requiring the putting of all wires underground is likely to come before the Council very shortly.

Most of the wires and cables that are now stretched along the streets of Plainfield are the property of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company and the proposed ordinance would affect that corporation more than any other. So it is that the company has decided to "take the bull by the horns" and has had a copy of an ordinance drawn up that meets with the approval of the officers of the company and contains the provision which they would be willing to agree to in regard to the matter. The draft of the suggested ordinance was drawn up by a lawyer in the employ of the company and will be presented to the Council, through Mayor Fisk, by Manager Charles W. Runyon, of this city.

The ordinance provides that the company shall place all their wires and cables, that are now carried on the poles in the business portion of the city, into underground conduits or subways. This part of the work shall be done this year, and in the following years the company shall gradually place all their wires, except in the unsettled outskirts of the city, into the underground ways.

The company will also provide room in the conduits or subways for the wires of the fire-alarm system of the city, and leave room for other wires of the city, probably those of the proposed police call system, should it be adopted. This work shall be done at the expense of the company and the city will not have to pay any of the burden. If the city should so decide, the company will be willing to take in other wires at a suitable charge for the rental of the space in the conduit. There is no profit in renting wires in the conduit, however, and the company is not anxious for it.

While the company is not at all anxious to go to the expense of putting all their wires below ground, they are willing to do it and their willingness is expressed by the proposed ordinance which they have just submitted.

The portion of the city which would probably be equipped with sub-ways the first year is as follows:

Front street, from Richmond street to Madison avenue; Park avenue, from Front street to Fourth street; West Fourth street, from Park avenue to Arlington avenue; Madison avenue, from West Front street to West Third street; West Third street, from Madison avenue to Liberty street; North avenue, from Park avenue to Watchung avenue; and Watchung avenue, from East Front street to East Fourth street.

The only exception to allowing all wires in the sub way would be that the electric light wires would not be allowed there for fear that the current may escape and play havoc generally.

The company is very anxious that, if the city is going to do anything in the matter, it should be done at once so that they can have time to make their arrangements and have the work done at once.

The plan seems to find general favor except that there is a disinclination to tear up the streets again after they have been put in such good condition.

The company has not yet decided what system they would use but are figuring on several and they would probably agree to some way that would answer the requirements of the Council.

Painters Are Busy.

Rushton, Hanson & Luthman, the Sycamore avenue painters, report business as very good. They have just finished the decorating and painting of Robert Rushmore's barn, corner of Eighth street and Grant avenue, and are now at work on Field's house on Stelle avenue. They also have the contract for the decorating of the offices of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Co., on Park avenue.

Recovered From His Injuries.

Ex-Police Captain Charles W. Dodd, who was severely injured at the Ackerman Cement Works at Kingston, N. Y., several weeks ago, as told of in The Press at the time, has so far recovered that yesterday he was able to go to Elizabeth to attend to some court matters.

Wholesome, pure and full of fruit.

NONE SUCH MINCE MEAT

is a luxury; but within the means of all. Accept no substitutes.

Send name and address for booklet, "Mrs. Popkins' Thanksgiving."
Merrell-Soule Co., Syracuse, N. Y.

WAIL FROM GERMANY

Only Kickers in Europe Over the Arbitration Treaty.

FRANCE NOW WANTS TO JOIN US

A Vienna Newspaper Considers the Treaty a Gratifying and Important Event. Bayard and Salisbury Exchange Congratulations.

London, Jan. 14.—Leading newspapers of European cities continue to print comments on the arbitration treaty signed by England and the United States. A dispatch from Paris says the Eclair prints the following: The United States and Great Britain present a generous and noble example, which deserves to be followed by the European powers. The Soleil expresses the opinion that the treaty was not inspired for the purpose of universal peace, but purely in the Anglo-Saxon interest. The Paris correspondent of the Daily News declares that France desires a similar arrangement with the United States. A Berlin dispatch to the Standard says that it is not likely that the continental powers will enter into any arbitration treaty with the American republic. The Chronicle prints an interview with Hon. Richard R. Debell, speaker of the Canadian house of commons, in which he says that Canada would rejoice at the completion of the Anglo-American arbitration treaty, and that the present Canadian cabinet would do everything possible to complete the good work, so that Canadians as well as Englishmen will live with the United States as friends.

Vienna, Jan. 14.—The Fremdenblatt, in its comments upon the general arbitration treaty concluded between the United States and Great Britain, said that it was most gratifying and important that within a year after a sharp difference between the two countries such a treaty should have been signed. The Neue Freie Presse said: "The news is joyfully echoed throughout the civilized world."

Berlin, Jan. 14.—All of the German newspapers with the exception of the radical organs express contempt for the treaty.

SALISBURY AND BAYARD.

They Meet and Congratulate One Another Upon the Signing of Arbitration Treaty.

London, Jan. 14.—After the conclusion of the cabinet meeting which was held last evening, Lord Salisbury received United States Ambassador Bayard, and his lordship and Mr. Bayard congratulated one another upon the signing of the general arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain.

IS SPAIN WEAKENING?

An Agent Said To Be Enroute to Washington with Peace Terms for Cuba.

London, Jan. 14.—The Daily News to-day publishes a dispatch from its Paris correspondent saying that the idea is gaining in Madrid that the establishment of peace in Cuba is destined to be accomplished at no very distant date. A government official, the dispatch asserts, has started from Madrid for Washington, traveling incognito, with full authority and power from Prime Minister Canovas del Castillo and the Duke of Tetuan, minister of foreign affairs, to privately negotiate a settlement of the Cuban revolution on the basis of reforms in Cuba and a treaty of commerce with the United States in behalf of the island which will open the markets of the latter to foreign competition except in cotton prints and a few other articles, of which Spain will try to keep a monopoly for Barcelona manufacturers. Senor Canovas, according to the News' correspondent, is evidently trying the effect of peaceful negotiations before the opening of the cortes.

Practical Civil Service Examinations.

Albany, Jan. 14.—Assemblyman William Cary Sanger of Oneida county last night introduced a bill for practical civil service examinations. It provides that in all examinations other than for purely clerical positions the commission shall secure the services of some persons practically versed in the duties which the applicants would be required to perform, if appointed, and, when practicable, such examinations shall consist of an actual performance by the applicants of the kind of work they would, if appointed, be called on to perform.

Stetson Will Case.

Boston, Jan. 14.—Judge Barker, in the Suffolk supreme court, has denied the motion which Mrs. Adah (Richmond) Stetson made for a reconsideration of the order made by Judge Holmes, about a month ago, assigning the issue of her being the lawful widow of John Stetson, jr., for hearing before a judge of this court on March 9, which is previous to the time when the will contest will be made.

Minneapolis at Alexandretta.

Washington, Jan. 14.—The cruiser Minneapolis has reached Alexandretta, Syria, after a cruise along the Algerine coast.

DIFFER WITH OLNEY

Senators Discuss His Views as to Recognition of a New Power.

NOT ALONE AN EXECUTIVE PRIVILEGE

Senator Bacon Declares It To Be a Legislative Function, One Exclusively for Determination by Congress---Sympathizers with Cuba with Him.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Secretary Olney's recent statement, at the time it was thought possible congress might pass resolutions recognizing the independence of the Cubans, that the recognition of a new power was an executive and not a legislative prerogative, has caused no end of discussion among senators, and the disposition seems to be, especially among members sympathizing with the Cubans, to get some open expression of opinion from the senate on the subject. Mr. Bacon, dem., Ga., made a lengthy speech yesterday afternoon regarding the recognition of a new power. His contention was that it was a legislative function; one exclusively for determination by congress. Even where the recognition was by the president its validity, Mr. Bacon argued, was derived from the assent of congress, either direct or implied. If the president had such exclusive power, it was greater than any which any constitutional monarch wielded. Never, Mr. Bacon said, was challenge of power more sharply made than that by the secretary of state in the matter; and never was defiance of authority more boldly given. Mr. Bacon confined himself to the constitutional and legal points in the argument, refraining from every allusion to the practical question of recognizing the republic of Cuba. He spoke for nearly three hours.

OPPOSE OLNEY'S REQUEST.

Senate Not Likely To Change the Two Extradition Treaties Ratified Monday.

Washington, Jan. 14.—There is little doubt that the senate will refuse to make the amendment to the extradition treaties with the Orange Free States and the Argentine republic asked for by Secretary Olney. The secretary wants a clause inserted requiring each government to give up its own citizens on extradition demanded by the other government a party to the treaty. This language appears in none of our treates, and was so out of the usual order of things that at a meeting of the senate in executive session it precipitated a long debate, participated in by Senators Morgan, Sherman, Chandler, Hoar and others. These senators took the position that each government was the judge of its own rights in such cases. Senator Davis also spoke at some length in opposition to the request of the secretary. It was shown that this country had never given up its own citizens, and the senate held that the language asked for was unnecessary.

INDIANS AT WASHINGTON.

Bannocks Negotiating for the Sale of Their Lands---Pawnees After Money.

Washington, Jan. 14.—A delegation consisting of six Bannock Indians called at the Indian bureau yesterday afternoon relative to the negotiations between a commission and their tribe for the cession of a portion of their lands in the Fort Hall, Idaho, reservation. The delegation wished to talk over the matter with Indian Commissioner Browning before reaching an agreement with the commission. The impression arrived at as the result of their talk was that they did not desire to part with any portion of their lands unless they got the best of the transaction. The lands in question lie on the southern boundary of their reservation. Another delegation of Pawnee Indians from Oklahoma territory called upon Secretary Francis. They wanted $100,000 of their fund now in the treasury placed to their credit. Secretary Francis, not having that amount available, asked them to call again.

To Regulate Price of Gas in New York.

Albany, Jan. 14.—Senator Cantor last night introduced his gas bill to regulate the price of illuminating gas in the city of New York. The bill provides that the price of gas shall not be more than $1 per thousand cubic feet, such gas to have an illuminating power of not less than twenty-four sperm candles of six to the pound, and burning at the rate of 325 grains of spermaceti per hour, tested at a distance of not less than one mile from the place of manufacture, by a burner consuming five cubic feet of gas per hour, and must also comply with the standard of purity now or hereafter established by law.

The New London Regatta.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 14.—The Yale crew has received a communication from the committee of New London business men having plans for the American Henley in charge. The New Londoners agree to take full charge of the Yale shells and to procure excellent accommodations for them, if they enter the national regatta the last week in June. The Yale navy may enter an eight, but at present no decisive answer can be given.

Pennsylvania Will Care for Him.

Albany, Jan. 14.—The state commission in lunacy will transfer to Pittsburg, Pa., William E. Seelman, an insane person confined in the Manhattan State hospital. Seelman, while on a visit to New York city, became insane and was found wandering in the streets in that condition. He will be cared for by the Pittsburg authorities.

The St. Lawrence Frozen Over.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Jan. 14.—The St. Lawrence is frozen over. The thermometer registers sexteen degrees below zero.

BOTH FOOD AND POISON.

Something About Tapioca That You May Not Know.

Some of the plants that poison man are very curious. Many persons are poisoned if they merely pass near where the plant is growing or if the wind happens to be blowing in their direction. There is a plant in the West Indies so poisonous that if the raindrops fall from it upon a man's skin great blotches immediately arise. Some of these plants do their deadly work very silently by sending a numbness through the entire body, while others cause terrible convulsions.

There is a curious plant, a native of South America, that poisons or nourishes us according to the part of it we use. It is called the manioc, or cassava. Thousands daily eat preparations of this plant without knowing anything of its strange properties.

There are two principal species spoken of by botanists, the bitter cassava and the sweet cassava. Both are highly important sources of food starches. The bitter cassava has been introduced into most of the tropical regions. It is cultivated in the East Indian archipelago, in Brazil and in nearly all the states of South America.

This plant is a shrub, which grows to the height of six or eight feet. Its roots are very large, often weighing 30 pounds. They grow from three to eight in a cluster, generally one or two feet in length. The root, as well as the rest of the plant, contains an acrid, milky juice, which is so poisonous that it will cause death in a few minutes; but as this poisonous acid may be destroyed by heat, the juice, thickened by boiling, forms an excellent sauce called cassa-reep.

The root, when grated or pounded into pulp, is placed under a heavy pressure. The poisonous juice is thus squeezed out. It is then dried and forms what is known as cassava bread; or it may be heated and stirred on metal plates, when it forms the well-known tapioca, which is sold in all our stores and served up in hotels, restaurants and on our family tables as tapioca pudding.

From the bitter cassava root many different kinds of food preparations are made in Brazil. The roots are preserved for use by being cleaned, sliced and dried, and from them manioc or cassava meal is prepared by rasping. Thus, we see, life or death comes to us from this plant according as we know how to use it.—Philadelphia Times.

Judging Distances.

A lady happened to remark to an athletic friend that it was very strange that most of the bad bicycling accidents seemed to happen to women—and could he account for it—were they more "foolhardy?" "Not at all," he replied; "the real reason is, I think, that women cannot judge distances. Now, from his earliest youth up a boy is trained through his games to accurately measure yards and feet. You will see a woman rush in between two carts where a man could tell you to a certainty that it would be impossible to avoid an accident. It is just the want of a trained eye that does the mischief."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Can't Eat

This is the complaint of thousands at this season. They have no appetite; food does not relish and often fails to digest, causing severe suffering. Such people need the toning up of the stomach and digestive organs, which a course of Hood's Sarsaparilla will give them. It also purifies and enriches the blood, cures that weariness after eating and

Internal Misery

Only a dyspeptic can know, creates an appetite, overcomes that tired feeling and builds up and sustains the whole physical system. It so promptly and effectively relieves dyspeptic symptoms and cures nervous headaches, that it seems to have almost "a magic touch."

Distress After Eating.

"I have been troubled with indigestion for some time. After eating anything that was sweet I was sure to experience great difficulty and distress. Last fall I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and am glad to say that my stomach trouble has entirely disappeared. I can now eat a hearty meal of almost any kind of food and have no trouble afterwards. Hood's Sarsaparilla has also cured me of nervous spells." JOHN H. HOMRIGHAUSEN, Wheatland, Iowa. Such cures prove that

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, indigestion biliousness. 25 cents.

shortness of breath—a sensation of dryness and heat in the throat. Neglect is dangerous.

HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR

Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar acts like a charm on the throat and bronchial tubes. Use it before it's too late. Sold by druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Get all You can

Some say that the hypophosphites alone are sufficient to prevent and cure consumption, if taken in time. Without doubt they exert great good in the beginning stages; they improve the appetite, promote digestion, and tone up the nervous system. But they lack the peculiar medicinal properties and the fat found in cod-liver oil. The hypophosphites are valuable, and the cod-liver oil is valuable.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites contains both of these in the most desirable form. The oil is thoroughly emulsified: that is, partly digested. Sensitive stomachs can bear an emulsion when the raw oil cannot be retained. As the hypophosphites, the medicinal agents in the oil, and the fat itself are each good, why not have the benefit of all?

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

Just as Good is not SCOTT'S EMULSION.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.
Tonsorial parlor 204 Park ave., Plainfield.
Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

Honeyman's Private Tours.
Plainfield, N. J.
To Florida, February 9—Two weeks.
To Inauguration, Washington, March 3—Two days.
To Washington, Easter Vacation, April 6—Three days.
To Europe, June 30—Two months.

Climatic Extremes
OF
NORTH and SOUTH
are blended ideally at
OLD POINT COMFORT
AND
RICHMOND, Va.,
Thus making these the most desirable places for winter outings.
They may be reached delightfully by the luxurious and modern steamships of the
Old Dominion Line
Sailing every week day from New York.
Send for full information.
Old Dominion S. S. Co.
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILLAUDEU, Vice-Pres't & Traffic Mgr
12 17-6 m

A JEWEL.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear."
And many a gem by mortals here unseen
Are waiting to be worn by some sweet fair.
In our well-stocked cases now are laid
Jewels that shine with scintilating fire;
In the latest fads and fashions made
That the connoisseur in jewelry must admire.
Design and workmanship are of the best,
So lovely woman do not hide
Those charms that Nature's sweet behest
Endows you with, but with woman's pride
Enhance your beauty as you see best.

COLLIER,
103 Park Ave. Established 1869.

THE BEE HIVE.

Men's Unlaundered Shirts

Lot 1—The "Cast Iron Shirt," made of good heavy muslin, good 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—38c.

Lot 2—New York Mills muslin, 3-ply fine linen bosom, reinforced front and back patent facings—48c.

Lot 3—Our New York Mills shirt, made of New York Mills muslin, 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced ront and back, continuous facing and hand-made buttonholes, equal to the best custom-made shirt—69c.

Boys' unlaundered shirts, 38c.

Men's laundered shirts 50c., 75c and $1.00

LOUIS CALLMAN
222 West Front Street.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS
IN ENDLESS VARIETY
AT HARPER'S,
411 PARK AVENUE.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Boots, Shoes & Rubbers.
AT FORCE'S,
119 West Front St.
Formerly 129 Park Ave. 29 tf

L. A. HUMMER'S
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
126 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

Rushton, Hansen & Luthman,
PAINTERS
AND PAPER HANGERS,
Office and shop Sycamore and 4th sts.
Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

Potter & Kellogg,
DEALERS IN
Lehigh Valley Coal.
Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard—At Mt. Pleasant, Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1-y

The Metropolitan Boarding Stables
C. V. D. CORLE, - - - - - - Proprietor
No. 138 East Second street. Livery and Boarding and Sale Stable. Horses boarded by the day, week, month or hour. Reasonable prices. 11 17 1y

HERMAN KELLER,
Manufacturer of and Retail Dealer in
Cigars, Tobacco, etc.
"PRIDE OF PLAINFIELD" CIGAR a specialty. 116 North avenue. 9 26 tf

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigar

Laire's Prices Current for This Week.

Coal sieves	09c
Coal shovels	05c
Cover lifters	05c
Galvinized water pails	18c
Wash boards	10c
Wash tubs	47c
Asbestos mats	05c
Rolling pins	05c
Can opener	06c
Iron pot handlers	15c
Slaw cutters	23c
75 feet clothes line	18c
100 clothes pins	05c
100 clothes pins	09c
Purity oil heaters, best made	$3.98
Demorest sewing machine	$19.50

The J. P. Laire Hardware Co
Telephone Call 49 I. 9317
Branch office of
GEO. O. STEVENS & CO.
OAK.
747 WEST FRONT ST.

A New Year's Sermon

which has its practical side. During this year we're going to keep the same good qualities of goods which we have always been well known for. We are going to put as moderate prices on these goods as possible. It wouldn't pay us to do otherwise. We're in business to stay.

L. W. Randolph,
PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST.
No. 143 West Front street.
Telephone Call, 109.

The Visiting Cards

that I furnish on engraving orders are the best that I know anything about and I pay 20 per cent more than the price of the "just as good kind." Each order delivered in a handsome white enameled box. Plate and 50 cards, name only, $1.25. 50 cards from your plate, 50c.

R. C. RAND'S,
140 West Front street.

BAKERY,
No. 132 Park Avenue.
Fine Bread, Cake, Pastry and Pies of all kinds. All orders promptly attended. A share of the public patronage is respectfully solicited.
S. H. Schleif,
Proprietor.
1 Ply

E. D. BARRETT,
No. 148 East 5th St.,
Sole Agent for the
Richmond Heaters.
STEAM and HOT WATER.
SANITARY PLUMBING

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.
Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.
Telephone Call 186

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

The Largest Selection of

Wall Papers

—AND—

Painter's Supplies

in Plainfield.

Woolston & Buckle,

141-145 North avenue.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital..... $200,000.
Surplus and Profits..... $90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. RUNYON, Ass't "

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter. Wm. McD. Corlell.
P. M. French. H. Mulford Estil.
Wm. M. Stillman. Isaac W. Rushmore.
J. W. Johnson. Wm. B. Codington.
F. S. Runyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

Christmas Wreaths Roping Holly, etc. Also, Palms,

Rubber Trees, Begonias, Ferns Floral Designs, House and Church Decorations. Southern Smilax at 15 days notice.

DENTON'S.

131 Hillside avenue.

A GOOD FIRE

will make cheerful many of the evenings of the New Year. We'll sell you the coal—good coal—and plenty of it. We don't sell you dirt for coal. We don't sell you short measure. We want your coal trade always.

D. C. IVINS & CO.

Coal, Lumber, &c. 301-311 Watchung Ave.

CLEANER COAL.

and L. A. RHEAUME, N. H. SAXTON.

Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,

Invite the public to inspect the operation of their newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which they confidently believe enables them to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.

Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal

in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.

Kindling Wood a Specialty.

Rushmore & Co.,

WATCHUNG AVENUE,
COR. FOURTH ST.

Lumber yard and Planing Mill.

Large and full assortment of lumber including 21 varities from Hemlock to Mahogany always in stock. Window frames, moulding, sash, doors and blinds. Hardwood floors a specialty. Turning and scroll sawing. We can make anything. Call and see us. Satisfaction guaranted.

"It is Making a Hit."

FEIGENSPAN'S Finest Pale Ale
IN BOTTLES, and
FEIGENSPAN'S SAAZER BEER

At Hotel Grenada Bar.

The Plainfield Confectioners,

112 West Front street.

Candies from 10, 15 and 20 cents per lb. up. The very best goods. Made daily on the premises. Formerly known as the New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Comp'y. 9 9 1y

CITY HOTEL,

Plainfield, N. J.

Corner Park avenue and Second street.

I. E. Beerbower, Prop

Stables attached

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL.

No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m

Harry C. Adams, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

Have You Bought Your OVERCOAT?

If not, come to WERNER'S CLOTHING HOUSE and take advantage of the CUT SALE now going on.

STOCK MUST BE SOLD.

Hats and Furnishing Goods a Specialty.

H. WERNER, Clothier,

No. 206 West Front Street.

COLD WEATHER GOODS

AT

PUTNAM & DEGRAW'S

Underwear, Gloves, Hosiery, &c.

Agents for the "Golden Rule" CLOTHES RACK and IRONING TABLE, $1.00 each.

Telephone, Brooklyn, 366.

COMINS & EVANS

Acorn Brand Asphalt Roofing.

Gravel and Metal Roofing, Tile and Brick Roofing, Water-Tight Cellars.

45 WAVERLY AVE. BROOKLYN, N. Y.

New York office, 102 Fulton st., room

E. H. Holmes.

Dealer in

Coal & Wood

Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

Telephone 49-A.

Jones & Co.,

EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.

Cesspools Built

BRAIN FOOD.

Edw. P. Thorn,

RETAIL DEALER IN

Fish, Oysters, and Clams.

Terms Cash. Goods Delivered

A. H. ENANDER,

Sanitary Plumbing,

Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.

Contractor for sewer connections.

210 PARK AVE.

CODDINGTON'S

Furniture and Freight

EXPRESS.

Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country. Charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed. Orders may be left at Sattel's music store, 231 Park ave.

P. MARKEY, Bakery,

144 PARK AVENUE.

A full assortment of bread, cakes, and pies fresh every day. Fig and malt bread a specialty. 2 17 tf

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield January 11th, 1897.

Burke Marg't	Klenck Edward
Chase Chas A	Lavery John
Chase Geo B	Noe Miss Sarah
DeMary Mrs	Ogden Mrs Mary
Edwards Mrs Wm A	Phraner Mrs Wm W
Harkins Mrs John	Runyon Jos
Hall Mrs Benj E	Runyon Mrs E C
Hoagland Mrs Eliz'th	Ryan Maggie Ann
Huffman Wm	Taller Miss Eda
Hubbard Mrs Alice A	Townsend Mis Phœbe
King Mrs Chas.	Waring Mr & Mrs John

30,000 CIGARS

of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of the city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue,
Plainfield.

8 15 tf

W. N. Pangborn,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER.

Residence, 33 Linden Ave.

Personal attention. Prompt service.

Telephone 29b. Established 1878. 1 14 tf

HOTEL TUILERIES!

AND ROGER'S RESTAURANT,

139-141 East Front street.

ROOMS TO LET. CATERING.

REVERE HOUSE

PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD New Jersey.

Families accomodated for the fall and winter months at greatly reduced prices.

The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed

GEO. B. DE REVERE

NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE

Sewer Connections.

DAVID BOWDEN,

General Contractor, 109 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J. Carriage drives macadamized, sewers and sewer connections promptly made, lawns carefully restored. All work done in a practical and skilful manner.

28 YEARS EXPERIENCE.

Best of references furnished. Charges moderate 4 18 tf

PIANOS

If you want a deep, clear, rich tone, and the best material, buy your PIANOS at W. R. BROKAW'S. Piano Parlors, 311 Madison ave. Bargains in second-hand instruments. Parlors always open. Tuning and regulating a specialty.

Your Valuables

will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

Within the reach of all.

ACCIDENT TICKETS.

THE INTER-STATE

Casualty Company of New York

gives SIX MONTHS' insurance

$1.000 for $1.00,

to men or women

between 18 and 60 years of age, against accidental death. $100,000 deposited with the Insurance Deparment of the State of New York for the security of the insured.

For sale at office of

Honeyman's Private Tours,

181 North Ave. Plainfield, N.J.

6 25-6 mos

McCullough's STEAM MILL,

21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.

R. H. McCullough, Prop.

Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,

Real Estate and Insurance,

197 North avenue

DYSPEPSIA TWENTY YEARS.

Cured by Three Bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura.

Mr. Joseph Hogan, Franklin, Mass., says:—

"I suffered from dyspepsia for twenty years. The stomach became weakened so that after eating a meal it would not be digested, but would accumulate in the stomach. I would have a sense of fulness or bloating after eating, with distress, and I would suffer greatly with acidity and eructations of large quantities of acrid, scalding water.

MR. JOSEPH HOGAN.

"I began the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and have not yet used three bottlefuls and have had perfect relief. I have eaten all kinds of food and digest it without the slightest difficulty. I consider myself cured of my confirmed dyspepsia."

If constipated, use Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills with the Nervura.

Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

SOCIAL KLEPTOMANIACS.

An Upheaval in Philadelphia Swelldom Over Fifty Years Ago.

Fifty years ago, when kleptomania was unknown as a plea in the courts, there occurred in this city an instance of felonious stupidity on the part of two wealthy women that showed little responsibility, personal or moral.

Their father kept a dry goods store. His family consisted of two daughters, who at one time stood behind the counter and were supposed to be very harshly treated. By the death of a relative they were left fortunes, and, as their father's health failed, he quit business. Much against their parents' wishes, the girls began to accept social attentions and were invited out by many who knew the sordid, narrow life they had led and sought to make their future more cheerful and happy. They were small in person, very modest and retiring and were never seen apart.

The winter of 1847 in Philadelphia was, through the efforts of Mrs. Dr. Rush, a time of unusual gayety. She had for some time been making assaults on the exclusiveness of city society—it was a mere caprice on her part—but she succeeded in breaking down the barriers. Suddenly there arose a unanimity of complaint that there must be a brigand among the guests. Gloves, scarfs and handkerchiefs disappeared mysteriously and the transitory tenure of ownership in umbrellas was illustrated by their loss.

The motive was certainly not mercenary, as most of the missing articles were of small value, but it was a source of irritation all the same.

One young aristocrat, who had spent the summer in England, suggested that letting down the barriers of legitimacy and admitting the "lower classes" had introduced an element capable of any atrocity. And then the "lower classes" went for that gentleman, and pointed out that his sole claim to social recognition was his maternal grandfather's money made in a swill hog ranch on the banks of the Schylkill. The stealing went on until the end of the season, all detective means having failed, and, as usual, discovery was due to an accident.

Josiah Randall, the father of Samuel J., was an eminent lawyer who lived in a fine old mansion on the corner of Seventh and Walnut streets, now the site of the Savings fund. He was legal adviser to the two young ladies before mentioned and they were frequent visitors at his office. He missed several articles of small value, and, reflecting, remembered that the loss was coincident with the coming of his clients. He consulted his wife, who, knowing his impulsive nature, advised him to be cautious but watchful.

There was an Episcopal convocation in the city about this time and a number of the clergy called to pay their respects to Mrs. Randall. Suddenly the parlor door flew open and Mr. Randall entered, purple with excitement.

"By Jove, Mrs. Randall, they're been here and carried off the poker," and then he rushed out, leaving his wife to a bad quarter of an hour spent in apologetic explanations.

A quiet visit was made to one of the women. They were bland and impassive and without a word preceded their visitor to an attic, and there, piled on the floor, were the articles that had been purloined. The visitor left with the belief that neither of the girls was right in her mind, and so it was proven. They were taken away to a dreary place 30 miles south of the city, and here in a state of harmless dementia they outlived all of their family, dying in 1869.—Philadelphia Times.

A small measure of potatoes, four eggs, four tablespoonfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of salt, two cups of boiling milk. Grate potatoes and drain through a cloth until free from juice; then add the eggs and milk; next the flour, and last of all, the salt. Fry in boiling-hot lard.—N. Y. Ledger.

Quince Roll.

Make a rich biscuit dough. Roll out a piece about one-quarter of an inch thick, spread the surface with a rich quince sauce or preserves mashed fine. Do not spread too near the edges. Put on a plate and steam one hour.—Ladies' World.

SHERMAN THE MAN.

Reasonably Certain That He Will Accept the Secretary of State Portfolio.

Canton, O., Jan. 14.—A message received here from Washington this morning makes it reasonably certain that Senator Sherman's present intention is to accept the position of secretary of state in Major McKinley's cabinet. It was intimated to Senator Sherman several days ago, as indicated in these dispatches, that Major McKinley would be glad to know whether he would be inclined to accept a cabinet position. Senator Sherman's inclinations were not in that direction originally, and his first thought was, according to friends here, that he ought to remain in the senate, but after careful consideration of the subject, it seems to him that he can perhaps be of more service to the country and to his party at the head of the department of state. If present arrangements are not changed and there is nothing to indicate they will be, Senator Sherman will occupy the leading place in Major McKinly's cabinet. Major McKinley has had an unusually large number of callers during the past two days. Among them was congressman-elect C. B. Landis of Indiana. "I think the republicans will be able to hold Indiana," said Mr. Landis, "but it will be a matter of difficulty to do so unless there is a genuine revival of business within the next year and a half. The free silver sentiment is not dead in Indiana, and will live as long as times are bad." Among the callers were Adjt.-Gen. T. S. Peck of Vermont and ex-congressman John H. Brewer of Trenton, N. J.

THE SUGAR WAR.

Latest Move in the Fight Between the Arbuckles and the American Refining Co.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 14.—The latest move in the war between the American Sugar Refining company and the Arbuckle Coffee company, the application of the latter at Toledo, O., yesterday for a receiver for the Woolson Spice company, with big mills in the the Ohio city, has been expected for several days, and the final outcome of the difficulty is awaited with much interest. The fight has now been going on for several months. It started with the announcement by the Arbuckles that they would build and operate a sugar refinery whose products would be distributed to grocers in weighed and wrapped packages. To prevent this the sugar company decided to invade the enemy's own field, the coffee trade. With this object in view it purchased the controlling interest in the Woolson Spice company, one of the largest coffee concerns in the country, and began its efforts to bring the Arbuckles to terms by reducing the price of roasted coffee. The sugar company secured all but sixty shares of the Woolson Spice company stock. The Arbuckles were not idle, however, and the next move in the game was about a week ago, when they managed to get possession of these sixty shares by purchasing them from their owner, G. M. Acklin. As soon as this became known, it was at once expected that the Arbuckles would try to tie the hands of the sugar company by applying for the appointment of a receiver for the Woolson Spice company. The courts are invariably very careful in protecting the rights of minority stockholders, and it was thought that the Arbuckles would take advantage of this by asking for a receiver for the spice company on the ground that it was being mismanaged, and by the reduction of the price of coffee to a low point was being operated at an unnecessary loss.

WAR CLAIMS.

A Bill Appropriating $768,381 Favorably Reported to the Senate.

Washington, Jan. 14.—A bill carrying an appropriation of $768,381, representing 428 claims for stores and supplies taken in the south by federal troops during the late war, which have been adjudicated by the court of claims under the provisions of the Bowman act, has been favorably reported to the senate by the committee on claims. This bill was incorporated by the senate as an amendent in the sundry civil bill of the last session of congress, but was disagreed to by the house and striken out in conference.

New Hampshire Officials.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 14.—At a meeting of the governor and council the following nominations were made, all being reappointments: Edwin G. Eastman, Exeter, attorney-general for five years; Josiah G. Bellows, Walpole, railroad commissioner for three years; Fred Cowing, Nashua, state superintendent of public instruction for two years.

1,012,000 Words of Testimony.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 14.—The Porter-Ritch trial, which has just been finished with the exception of the arguments that are to be heard this afternoon or to-morrow morning, was one of the longest trials in the history of the courts of this county. Seven volumes of testimony were taken, which included 4,400 pages or 1,012,000 words.

Placed on the Retired List.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Two cavalry majors have just been placed on the retired list of the army at their own request, Maj. William B. Kennedy of the 4th and Maj. Adam Kramer of the 6th.

$50,000 for His Wife's Love.

New York, Jan. 14.—The jury in the case of Frederick L. Colwell against Dr. Charles A. Tinker for the alienation of his wife's affections awarded the plaintiff $50,000 damages.

Customs Expenses To Be Reduced.

Washington, Jan. 14.—A reduction of $127,000 per annum has been ordered in the office of the collector of customs at New York. The reduction is to take effect from Feb. 1.

THE GOLD STANDARD

Monetary Convention Demands Its Maintenance.

THE VOTE PRACTICALLY UNANIMOUS

Also Retirement of Government Demand Obligations---Committee To Urge President McKinley To Appoint a Monetary Commission.

Indianapolis, Jan. 14.—The national monetary convention, after a two days' session, adopted a declaration of what legislation, in its opinion, is needed upon the subject by a practically unanimous vote. This declaration included a demand for the maintenance of the gold standard and the retirement of the demand obligations of the government, also that a banking system be provided which should furnish credit facilities to every portion of the country and a safe and elastic circulation, and especially with a view to securing such a distribution of the loanable capital of the country as will tend to equalize the rates of interest in all parts thereof. Accompanying this was a proposition for the appointment of fifteen members of the conference to act as an executive committee while the convention is not in session, with full power of this convention, the executive committee to have the power to increase its membership to any number, not exceeding forty-five, and five members thereof at all times to constitute a quorum of said committee. The executive committee to have special charge of the solicitation, receipt and disbursement of contributions voluntarily made for all purposes, and to have the power to call this convention together again when and where it may seem best to said committee to do so. Also, that it shall be the duty of this executive committee to endeavor to procure at special session of congress, which it is understood will be called in March next, legislation calling for the appointment of a monetary commission by the president to consider the entire question and to report to congress at the earliest day possible, or failing to secure the above legislation, they are authorized to select a commission of eleven members, according to rules and plans set forth in the suggestions submitted to the convention by Mr. Hanna of Indianapolis, thoroughly investigate the monetary affairs and needs of this country and when the labor of this commission have been completed, the executive committee, if it deems it advisable, shall issue a call to bring this convention together again, when the committee shall make report of its doings and suggestions.

The Resolutions Adopted.

This was the unanimous conclusion of the committee on resolutions, a result that was expected by the delegates, and the recommendations of the committee were affirmed by the substantially unanimous vote of the convention. This was not secured, however, without much opposition, and an exceedingly animated debate, with short controversies between Congressman Fowler of New Jersey and State Assemblyman Roots of Indiana and Congressman Walker of Massachusetts and John Hurson Rhoades of New York. The feature of the morning session was a speech by Congressman Fowler in which he outlined the causes of the present financial ills and the remedy therefor.

Congressman Walker's Opposition.

Congressman Walker of Massachusetts, chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, opposing the adoption of the report, said that his committee and the senate committee on finance had determined to present some plan of currency and banking reform for consideration at the extra session of congress. But for the calling of this convention such a plan would have been presented ere now. The convention has met, he said, and what has it done? He answered that in his opinion the proposition contained in the committee's report could not obtain consideration prior to the assembling of the Fifty-sixth congress. "Do you want to put off relief," he asked, "until that time, keeping the people in suspense and distress?" Before God and under his oath of office, he said, he felt it to be his duty to do what he could to improve the present system. But this scheme involved further delay and the absolute tying of the hands of the committees of congress. The only way to secure the necessary legislation, he said, was to continually urge its necessity upon the attention of congress. "But, in my opinion," he said, in conclusion, "you have doomed the reform for the present." Mr. Walker's sentiments met with some approval.

Congressman Fowler's Idea.

Congressman Fowler of New Jersey offered an amendment to constitute a permanent executive committee to act with congress in framing the necessary legislation. He said that a lawmaker's conscience and honor should be his guide, rather than the wishes of his constituents. Mr. Bullitt of Philadelphia opposed the amendment offered by Mr. Fowler. After further argument the report was adopted. The convention, after a vote of thanks to various organizations and persons, adjourned subject to the call of the executive committee. Chairman Patterson stated he would announce the committee after a conference with Mr. Hanna.

Brennan's Sentence Commuted.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 14.—The sentence of death on Michael J. Brennan, who was to have been hanged at Barrie on January 19 for the murder of John A. Strathy, a banker, and who is now lying in jail here, has been commuted to imprisonment for life.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

106 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 14, 1897.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

(Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Generally Cloudy Weather Will Continue Tonight and Friday Morning With Light Local Snow; Probably Clearing During Friday; Not So Cold Tonight.

At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 30 Degrees.

COMING EVENTS.

January 14—Prof. John Fiske's lecture at the Y. M. C. A. 8 p. m.

UNDERGROUND WIRES.

The announcement made in the columns of today's Press concerning the disposition of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company to put their wires in underground conduits will be pleasant news to those who realize the danger that lurks in the network of wires overhead in the case of fire or a live electric wire coming in contact with the less harmless telephone connection. It is a source of congratulation to know that there is a corporation in our midst who has has so promptly acquiesed to public sentiment.

MUST COLLECT BACK TAXES.

In common with Plainfield and many other towns in New Jersey, Bridgeton is wrestling with the question of back taxes. Monday night, however, the council of that city took decisive action and instructed the collector to collect all back taxes for the past three years or stand prosecution for not doing so. The amount that is owing the city in this respect is $60,000.

FARMERS AFTER THE BICYCLERS.

The State Board of Agriculture will urge the Legislature to impose a tax on bicycles. During the last session of the Legislature the bicyclists succeeded in having passed a law requiring all heavy wagons and trucks to use tires four inches wide, so as to avoid cutting up improved roads throughout the State. Bicyclists are fighting for good roads, and now the farmers want them to pay their share of the costs.

NEW BRUNSWICK HAPPY.

Congressman Howell's New Brunswick Public Building bill has been favorably reported to the House and placed on the calendar for the full amount asked for, $125,000.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Unity Lodge, No. 102, Knights of Pythias, held a meeting last evening and the first rank was worked on one candidate.

—Many young people were skating on Hyde's pond last evening, and it was long after ten o'clock when some of them left for home.

—In talking to the Plainfield clothier and haberdasher, Harry M. Jaquett, of 129 East Front street, yesterday, he said "my stock must be sold, and if the ladies only knew the offers I am making in children's clothing they would never go to New York. Why? My children's overcoats I am offering below cost and the balance of the stock at bankrupt price."

Prof. Fiske's Lecture.

Prof. John Fiske, of Cambridge, will deliver his first lecture of the course before the Club of Current Events, at Y. M. C. A. hall this evening at 8 o'clock. Subject: "The Mystery of Evil in the Light of the Doctrine of Evolution." No thoughtful and intelligent person can afford to lose the opportunity of hearing the conclusions of this great thinker on so profound a subject. Course tickets, $1, may be obtained at Armstrong's or at the door. Single admission, 50 cents.

A Big Inducement.

Tonight at Music Hall Managers Willey and Snelling have arranged to give a grand bargain performance; that is, every person purchasing a reserved seat ticket for Music Hall this evening before 6 o'clock will be given a free reserved seat good for a lady. The piece selected for tonight is a laugh-provoker, "Zeppa, the Child of the Mines," Maude Hillman appearing in the title role. Remember this play contains nothing but laughter, so before leaving home sew your buttons on securely.

Miss Poillon's Debut in Society.

Mrs. J. J. Herring Poillon gave a large reception, Tuesday, to introduce her daughter, Miss Louise Maxwell Poillon, at her residence, 459 West End avenue, New York. The debutante was prettily attired in white silk and carried bouquet of pink roses. Mrs. Poillon was attired in light blue silk and light blue velvet. She was assisted in receiving by Miss Marie Kirkner and Mrs. Ellis Hedges, of this city. The house was decorated with palms and roses.

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East.

Miss Fisk has returned to her studies out of town.

Mrs. S. St. J. McCutchen is ill at her home on Rockview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George Macintyre's young son is recovering from a slight illness.

Frank B. Lee, of New York, is the guest of George O. Stevens, of Clinton avenue.

Mrs. Abbott, of West Front street, is visiting relatives out of town for a few days.

J. M. Murphy, of Toledo, was in town over last night visiting on East Front street.

Mr. Brady, of Cranford, returned home today after visiting in Plainfield for a few days.

Mrs. E. B. Clark, of Crescent avenue, is spending a few days with relatives at Beverly.

Miss Ida Demler, of Washingtonville, is slightly improved from a long and severe illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul, of Central avenue, have gone to New Brunswick, for a few days to visit friends.

Miss Jennie Simpson, of West Front street, has returned from a visit with out-of-town relatives.

Mrs. R. Limbarger, of Somerset street, is ill at her home with a complaint bordering on pneumonia.

Arthur Williams, of Elmwood place, has a very severe attack of whooping cough. Dr. Boone is in attendance.

Misses Marion P. Bowen and Belle Patterson have returned to Northampton, Mass., after their holiday vacation.

Capt. Wm. Hand started two vans to Lorraine before daylight yesterday to move J. King and family to this city.

E. C. Pease leaves today for Michigan and Canada on business. He will be gone probably ten days to two weeks.

Miss Grace Rowland, of East Second street, has returned from a visit with relatives at Junction, Hunterdon county.

Driver Townley, of the fire department, enjoyed a day off, yesterday. Abner Bartlett was his efficient substitute.

Miss Ethel Walsh, of Brooklyn, who has been the guest of Miss Gertrude Tier, of Bank place, returned home yesterday.

George Snediker, of Grove street, was able to be out yesterday afternoon for the first time since his recent severe illness.

A. G. Spalding, the well known maker of the Spalding wheel, was in town on Tuesday last looking after his business interests.

Mr. Armstrong and family, of East Front street, will take up their residence in a few days in a suite of rooms in the Jackson building.

Charles Smith, of West Front street, left for Knoxville, Tenn., yesterday, where he will engage in some important shooting contests.

Mrs. J. J. Henderson, of Rockview avenue, who, by an unfortunate fall fractured her hip last summer, is able to go about her home.

Geo. Bowers, of East Third street, who is at the hospital recovering from an operation recently performed for appendicitis expects to leave for home the first part of next week.

A slight improvement is noted in the condition of Andrew Cox, of Liberty street, who has been seriously ill. Though not out of danger, hopes of his recovery are entertained.

David E. Titsworth will lead the singing for the Young People's meeting in the First Baptist church this evening. These meetings are growing in interest and much spiritual good is being realized from them.

Mrs. Hedges, wife of Dr. Ellis W. Hedges, of Watchung avenue, assisted in receiving at the large reception and dance given Tuesday by Mrs. J. J. Herring Poillon at 459 West End avenue, New York, to introduce her daughter, Miss Louise Maxwell Poillon.

Sciatic Rheumatism Cured.

L. Wagner, wholesale druggist, Richmond Va., says; "I had a fearful attack of Sciatic Rheumatism, was laid up almost two months; was fortunate enough to get Mystic Cure for Rheumatism. This cured me after doctor's prescriptions had failed to have any effect. I have also heard of fine results from others who have used it." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

No Plainfield Cases To-day.

No Plainfield cases are to be tried in the Union county courts at Elizabeth today.

—A cottolene exhibit is now being held at J. Fred MacDonald's uptown grocery. It will probably be continued tomorrow.

WANT COUNTY ROAD PRESERVED.

Mayor Thomas Young, of Fanwood, Comments on the Trolley Project.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I note by your issue of this date that a project is on foot to put a trolley railway on the county road between Elizabeth and Westfield, known as North or (Westfield) avenue.

Now, this question is one in which every citizen and taxpayer in Union county has a vital interest, not only in preserving this magnificent thoroughfare to the use of the general public, for whom it was graded and macadamized at such heavy expense, but also in seeing that a soulless corporation, formed solely to make money for its stockholders, shall not be allowed to step in and reap the benefit of such expenditure, to the exclusion of the very people who furnished and are still furnishing the money for said improvement.

The laying of a railway track along this avenue will utterly ruin it for the use of the general public, as has already been done in so many cases. There appears no good reason why this corporation should be allowed to appropriate public property without compensation, any more than a steam road, which always pays for its right of way.

The road seems to be one needed, but it should be laid upon some route less objectionable than the one mentioned. Fortunately, South avenue on the south side of the Central Railroad, furnished that route, but that, unfortunately (for the trolley people,) would require some extra expense for grading, etc. Thos. S. Young.

Fanwood, Jan. 11.

NEW BOOKS.

Bulletin of Literature Added to the Public Library in December.

The list is as follows: Baedeker's Guide to Austria; Bourinot, J. G., Story of Canada; Durfee, C. A., Concise poetical concordance; Fields, A., Authors and friends; Ford, P. L., Hon. Peter Stirling; Lord, J., Nineteenth century writers; Parker, G., Pierre and his people; Riley, Ja. W., Rhymes of childhood; Riverside Song Book, songs and music; Gonge, C. M., Cameos from English history, v. 8; Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, slavery and constitutional history; U. S. Census Bureau, Farms and homes.

The following bound magazines were also added: American Journal of Science, vol. 151; Arena, vol. 15; Atlantic, vol. 77: Blackswood's, vol. 159; Builder, vol. 70; Century, vols. 29, 30; Cosmopolitan, vols. 17, 18, 20, 21; Electrical Engineer, vol. 21; Electrical World, vol. 27; Engineering Monthly, vols. 10, 11; Fortnights, vol. 65; Forum, vol. 21: Harper's, vols. 72, 92; Engineering and Mining Journal, vol. 71: Franklin Institute Journal, vol. 151; Ironage, vol. 57; Littell's Living Age, vols. 205, 209; New England Magazine, vol. 20; Nature, vol. 53; Nineteenth Century, vol. 39; North American, vol. 162; Popular Science Monthly, vol. 48; Review of Reviews, vol. 13; St. Nicholas, vol. 12: Scribner's, vol. 19; Westminster, vol. 145; Scientific American, vol. 74, and Scientific American Supplement, vol. 41.

Note—Such of these as are in the circulating department, may be had at the library or at either of the new delivery stations which are located at the Y. M. C. A. building and Hope chapel respectively. The circulating hours at the library are: Daily, Sundays and holidays excepted, from 10 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., and also Saturdays from 7 to 10 p. m.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County. }

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1896. A. W. Gleason, Notary Public. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials. free. F. J. Cheney, & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Handsome Offices.

The local offices of the Prudential Insurance Company will, in a short time, be moved to a very handsome suite of roooms on the first floor of the City National Bank building. This change is necessitated by the very large increase of business under the careful and wise management of Superintendent Dawson, who has represented the company faithfully since coming to Plainfield. A representative of the company from Newark came to Plainfield a few days ago and decided that the change was imperative as more room is needed.

—The Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the two Presbyterian churches have decided to give an entertainment in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, Thursday evening, Feb. 4th. It will be called a "St. Valentine Festival."

CRUSADE AGAINST CRIME.

Elizabeth Saloon and Dive Keepers Anxious Over Grand Jury Investigations.

The Union County Grand Jury had a field day yesterday investigating slot machines in Elizabeth, and forty-eight witnesses have been subpœnaed to appear before the jury in connection with the matter. The saloon-keepers are worried over the investigation, which they did not think would be held so long as they had removed the machines so promptly after Justice Van Syckel's charge to the Grand Jury.

It now looks, however, as though indictments will be found. Three-fourths of all the saloons had slot machines in them before Judge Van Syckel delivered his charge.

The jury is also investigating the immorality existing in Peterstown, a suburb of Elizabeth. Rev. Father Smith, of the Holy Rosary Church, in a sermon from the altar, called attention to the matter a week ago. The priest was subpœnaed before the Grand Jury yesterday and was closeted with that body over an hour.

The scenes that are witnessed in Peterstown nightly are said to be most degrading, and the dives are kept running most of the night.

Chief Tenney has already been before the Grand Jury in connection with the slot machine investigation, and he was subpœnaed again yesterday to tell what he knows about the Peterstown dives and why they have not been suppressed.

Some ministers were subpœnaed to appear before the Grand Jury for what purpose is not as yet know.

—The Park Club bowling team will meet the Cranfords at the latter place on Friday evening, when it is to be hoped that the Parks will regain some of their lost honors.

2 WAYS 2
You Can Figure It.

10 rolls of wall paper, at 2½ cents a roll	25
20 yards of border, at 5 cents yard	1 00
	$1 25
10 rolls of wall paper, at 6 cents a roll	60
20 yards of border, at 3 cents yard	60
	$1 20

We don't have any 2 or 3 cent paper. We have a large stock of new goods at 6 and 8 cents with 3 cent border. We give 100 cents on the $ every time.

Woolston & Buckle,
Painters and Decorators,
141 and 145 North avenue.

SAVE
twenty-five to forty per cent of fuel, and make your cold house warm. For particulars call or address
E. D. BARRETT,
148 East Fifth Street.

MRS L. ADAMS,
MILLINERY.
Ready made gowns and dresses ordered from samples. All the latest novelties of the season.
114 EAST FRONT STREET.

ALEX. LUSARDI,
211 West Front Street,
Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores. 997 rear

A NEW CHORAL SOCIETY
is being formed. Application can be made at 322 WEST FRONT STREET, Wednesday, from 2 to 5 p. m.; Friday, from 6 to 8 p. m.
1 12 4

YOU KNOW
THE PLACE
We Ask You to Call
AT PECK'S

EVERY THING
For the Fire-place.
MANTELS, TILES, GRATES.
SPARK GUARDS, $1.25 and up.
Curtis M. Thorpe, 310-312 Park Avenue.

--JAQUETT'S--
CLOTHING Of the Latest Style for Men, Boys' and Children. Suits and Overcoats.
SUITS and OVERCOATS. School Suits, from 75c. up.
NOVELTIES FOR CHILDREN. Full lines in Top Coats, Reefers and Separate Pants.
MEN'S FURNISHINGS. All of the latest Novelties in Ties, Collars, Shirts, Suspenders,
HOSIERY, GLOVES, UNDERWEAR.
HATS of the Latest Styles at Moderate Prices.
One Price—Cash. Money refunded if goods are not as represented.
129 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LAST DAYS OF FIRE SALE!
Balance of stock of
DRY GOODS
will be closed out by
SATURDAY, JAN. 16th,
Your last chance to secure the greatest bargains ever offered in Plainfield.
LEDERER'S,
115 WEST FRONT STREET.

For Bargains in Hats, Caps, Underwear, Sweaters, Flannel Shirts & Gloves
Call on JAS. R. BLAIR, 126 Park Avenue.
Saturday, Jan. 16th, 10 per cent will be Given.

THE GREAT LIGHT,
THE WELSBACH,
WITH IMPROVED MANTELS.
Three times Light. One-half Gas.
J. W. GAVETT.

SPECIAL SALE
AT CRANE & CLARK'S,
Hat and Furnishings Store.
120 West Front street. Prices Cut on all lines of Men and Boys wear.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!
GEORGE E. ROGERS.....Lessee. | GEORGE H. WILLEY.....Manager
COMING ONE WEEK.
JANUARY 11th,
Engagement of the
COMEDIENNE,
Maude Hillman,
under the management of Winthrop G. Snelling.
A carload of Magnificent Scenery, Properties, &c. Elegant Costumes. Songs and dances.
MATINEES Wednesday and Saturday.
Prices 10 20 and 30 cents. Seats now on sale at Box Office.
Monday, Jan. 18,
The champions of the comedy world.
LOUIS WESLEY — MARIE STUART
supported by Freeman's Fun Makers, presenting Great Farce-Comedy.
"A Railroad Ticket."
Produced in a superb manner by a company of
20 SINGERS and COMEDIANS 20
Headed by Louis Wesley, Marie Stuart, Arthur Moulton, Gus Pixley, Chas. A. Burke, and 15 others just as funny.
Prices 75, 50, 35, 25. Seats on sale at Box Office Friday, Jan. 15.

BOROUGH NOTICE.

Public notice is hereby given that application in writing signed by John Herrmann, being a person who owns all of the land fronting on the Street proposed to be vacated, has been presented to the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield asking for the vacation of the unopened portion of Regent street lying easterly of Whitewood avenue, and that it is the intention of said Mayor and Council to cause the same to be vacated.

Such persons, if any there be, as object thereto are required to present their objections in writing to the subscriber on or before the eighteenth day of January, eighteen hundred and ninety seven, at 6 o'clock p. m. on said day. Dated January 4, 1897.

JAMES K. ARNOLD,
Borough Clerk.
1 5-7-9-12-14-16

NEUMAN BROS.,
FANCY GROCERS.
A few leaders in prices. Extra quality 3-lb can Shrewsbury Asparagus, 25c. a can; Extra Asparagus Tips, 3-lb can, only 25c.; Star and Crescent Peaches, 3-lb can, 20c.; Apricots, 3-lb can, 18c. Strictly Fancy Creamery Butter a specialty. Strictly Fresh Country Eggs, Warranted Fresh.

NEWMAN'S STAGE LINE TIME TABLE
Between Plainfield and Scotch Plains.

Leave Plainfield..... { 7.00; 9.30; 12.45 a. m. / 4.00; 6.00; 9.00 p. m.
Sunday—9.00; 12.30 a. m., 3.00, 6.09 p. m.

Leave Scotch Plains. { 6.20; 8.15; 10.30 a. m. / 2.00; 5.00; 7.00; 9.30 p. m.
Sunday—9.45 a. m., 2.00; 4.00, 7.00 p. m.

DEPOT—FRONT STREET AND PARK AVE.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

John Syres has gone to Sheepshead Bay for a short visit.

J. W. Johnston went to Phillipsburg on business, yesterday.

Mrs. J. W. Griggs has gone to Easton to spend a few days among friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Kitchen and son, of Brooklyn, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Huff.

After a week's serious illness, Miss Mamie Hunt was yesterday able to sit up for a short time, and her ultimate recovery is now almost assured.

Firman Gise has completed the foundation walls for the new heater which is to take the place of the discarded one in the Presbyterian church.

Track master George Abbott was in town, yesterday, looking over the work of filling in the swamp land opposite the depot and the laying of new sidings on the same.

Rev. H. J. Johnston, of North Plainfield, will deliver a missionary address in the M. E. church, on Sunday afternoon, February 7th, at 3.30 o'clock. this will be missionary Sunday in the church.

Still another of those delightful evening entertainments has been arranged by the Washington avenue card club for Friday night of this week. It will take place at the home of Miss Gray, on Washington avenue, and will be attended by the elite of the place.

Miss Mabel Lewis entertained about a dozen of her most intimate friends and acquaintances at her home on West Front street, Tuesday evening. The menu card, besides substantial and delicate eatables, announced music, dancing and a taffy pulling match. The latter was funny but extremely interesting.

Dunellen is becoming somewhat notorious in the matter of killing dogs. Within the past two or three days, three dogs have been struck and killed by Blue Line flyers and the latest one added to the list, was a shepherd dog owned by W. R. Hardingham. The animal was struck near the station, Tuesday evening, and instantly killed.

The biting winds and the extreme cold weather, yesterday, did not deter a quartette of Dunellen's expert shooters from contesting in a live bird contest on the club's grounds at the foot of the mountain. The wind was a little too strong for the flyers and a few of the birds managed to escape the eagle eyes of the contestants and take to the woods. The score follows, and it will be seen that W. H. Carman killed 16 and missed 2; F. Nelson killed 7 and missed 11; J. Van Nuis killed 10 and missed 8; and Adam Dealaman killed 5 and let 13 escape. Another shoot will doubtles soon take place between these shooters.

A JOLLY SURPRISE.

Randolph Runyon Receives an Unexpected Visit From Friends.

A very jolly surprise was tendered Randolph Runyon, the undertaker, of Somerset street, last evening, by his friends. The surprised was wholly unaware of the intended visit and he was speechless for a time. The evening was passed in playing progressive whist, and refreshments were served about midnight. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Runyon, Walter G. Runyon and son, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Giles, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Giddis, Mr. and Mrs. Tinsman, Messrs. Tinsman, Miss S. Louise Giles, of Dunellen; Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Harris and son, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph, Harry Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Ayers, Mrs. Apgar, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Apgar.

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all Female Complaints, exercising a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, Constipation, Headache, Fainting Spells, or are Nervous, Sleepless, Excitable, Melancholly, or troubled with Dizzy Spells, Electric Bitters is the medicine you need. Health and Strength are guaranteed by its use. Fifty cents and $1.00 at Randolph's Drug Store.

—Mrs. Clayton, of Trenton, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. McVoy, of East Front street.

—Grape fruit, the finest in the city, at Rockfellow's grocery, Park avenue and Fourth street.

Highest of all in Leavening Power. Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

PASSING COMMENT.

One of the night conductors on the street railway says he knits his own stockings during the spare moments he has at home.

* * *

Among the men who are anxious for a position on the Plainfield police force this year is said to be Albert P. Simmonds, formally of the staff of the News. Mr. Simmonds is said to heve the necessary backers to get him the position. If football tactics can be used in that department in the running down and capturing of local offenders, then Simmonds will be well qualified for the position.

* * * *

On Jan. 7 the famous "Black Diamond Express" of the Lehigh Valley railroad made another remarkable run between Jersey City and Easton. The actual running time for a distance of 56 miles was 57 minutes, including a three minute stop. From South Plainfield to Easton, a distance of 51 miles, the run was made in 50 minutes. Including in this distance is the Musconatcong mountain, which the train was obliged to climb on an ascending grade of 47 feet to the mile.

* * * *

'Squire Samuel Luckey, of Dunellen, has for a long time owned a shepherd dog, which on account of its advanced age and watchfulness had become a household favorite and especially so with his grand-children. Yesterday the canine was about the house and during the forenooon jumped up on 'Squire Luckey's lap and shortly afterward dropped dead. The animal had evidently been poisoned. Judge Luckey will give $10 to find out who poisoned his dog. Poisoning of dogs seems to be going on promiscuously there of late. Yesterday John Lindsley's bird dog was poisoned and during the same day a bird dog owned by Michael Hyde died from poisoning.

* * * *

The number of arrests made in the borough during the past few months have been remarkably low, which speaks well for the good order of this thriving section of Somerset county. The police blotter has practically gone out of use and it would take some time to hunt up the name of the last man who was arrested. This state of affairs is due in no small degree to the efficient work performed by Chief Marshal Wilson who is ever on the lookout for all law breakers. It has been many a day since there has been any serious violation of the borough ordinances and the record now being made is a most enviable one. The ever watchful eye of Mayor Hegeman, as the head of the borough, has a helpful influence on the citizens, for they know that His Honor will strictly enforce all laws. It can truly be said that the borough has never been in a better condition than at the present time.

THEATRICAL.

There is not a stronger or better farce-comedy on the road than "A Railroad Ticket," which comes to Music Hall Monday, Jan. 18th. It has been punched up to date by Freeman's fun-makers, and it now goes with a dash from beginning to end. The company presenting "A Railroad Ticket" is one of the best seen at this house for some time, and the names include artists of meritorious strength. Principal among them is Miss Marie Stuart, the fascinating chanteuse, whose specialties are both original and fetching. She has appeared and scored big hits at the leading theatres in both Europe and America. Louis Wesley, one of the leading features in the big burlesque "Thrilby," last season, will be seen in the character of "Chips," the office boy, a part originally played by him in this piece.

Borough Realty Transfers

The following real estate transfers from North Plainfield have been recorded in the Somerset County Clerk's office in the last few days:

Alfred I. Smalley et ux and Newton B. Smalley et ux to Frank H. Mobus, North Plainfield, $400.

Edward J. Waring et ux to Orville T. Waring, North Plainfield, $9,000.

Thomas M. MacDonald to John J. Heidelolf, North Plainfield, $100.

Margaret E. MacLaughlin to George Hummer, North Plainfield, $425.

Alfred I. Smalley et ux and Newton B. Smalley et ux to Augustus Mobus, North Plainfield, $400.

Fred M. Slater et ux to Agnes Pangborn, North Plainfield, $1.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chillblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For Sale By L. W. Randolph.

ALL OVER THE TOWN

NEWS IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS THAT INTEREST ALL PLAINFIELDERS.

Gathered by Enterprising Press Reporters From Both Sides of the Brook and Tersely Served for Your Perusal.

—There will be an important meeting of Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., this evening.

—There will be an important meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., this evening.

—The Woman's Relief Corps will hold their first meeting with the new officers tomorrow evening.

—Cold hands may be a sign of a warm heart, but they feel more comfortable when encased in Peck's warm gloves.

—The Grocers' Protective Association will meet next Monday evening and elect officers for the ensuing year.

—A meeting of Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., will be held this evening, at which time there will be initiation.

—It will be fully a month before the Nurses' home, now in course of construction near the hospital, will be ready for occupancy.

—Joseph Blatz, William H. Rogers' new bicycle store, John Kenney, Lusardi, and Ulrich's bowling alleys all have added Welsbach lights, sold by Gavett.

—The plans for the proposed changes to be made at Lederer's dry goods store will probably be submitted today. The contracts will be given out in a few days.

—A meeting of the Plainfield Branch of the Christian Alliance will be held this evening at 7:45 o'clock, in the rooms of the W. C. T. U., on Watchung avenue.

—The Cleveland Cyclers will hold a meeting on Monday evening when the final arrangements for their sociable will be made and other important business transacted.

—Quite a delegation of Dunellen sportsmen were in town last evening, attending the meeting of the local branch of the New Jersey State Game and Propagating Society.

—The recent dance given for the benefit of Thomas Miles netted about $55. Mr. Miles is reported as somewhat improved and the amount received is appreciated very much.

—The pictures to be used by Rev. Mr. Halsey in his illustrated lecture to be given at the First Presbyterian church Thursday evening, Jan. 21st, are exceedingly fine, and it will be their first exhibition in public.

—The first of a series of evening sociables under the auspices of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., will be held at the residence of Mrs. Andrew Mattis, at 301 Madison avenue, tomorrow evening.

—A few of the employes at the North avenue station are favored each morning with a boutonnier, brought out to them by the brakeman on the 8:16 train from New York. The brakeman's brother is a florist in New York.

—The Mayor of Plainfield, who was only recently elected, has begun his term well by donating $1,000 for that city's hospital. Our officeholders are liberal men, but their benefactions do not run toward hospitals.—New Brunswick Home News.

—Owing to the union revival meetings, the meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Baptist church will be omitted tomorrow evening, but instead the union Christian Endeavor service will precede the regular meeting to be held in the main part of the church.

—A stereopticon entertainment will be given at the Hunter Sanitarium by Rev. S. P. Simpson for the benefit of the children of the Sunday-school of the St. Stephens church. Only the members of the Sunday-school will be allowed to attend. The date of the entertainment is Thursday evening, January 21st.

There is Nothing so Good.

There is nothing just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, so demand it and do not permit the dealer to sell you some substitute. He will not claim there is anything better, but in order to make more profit he may claim something else to be just as good. You want Dr. King's New Discovery because you know it to be safe and reliable, and guaranteed to do good or money refunded. For Coughs Colds, Consumption and for all affections of Throat, Chest and Lungs, there is nothing so good as is Dr. King's New Discovery. Trial bottle free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

"THE FINEST THING"
We think, for chapped or rough skin, is
OUR LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE.
Try it. Sprinkler-top bottles, 25c.
Park and North avenues
Successor H. P. REYNOLDS.
T. S. ARMSTRONG,
"THE APOTHECARY."

Rheumatism is a Foe which gives no quarter. It torments its victims day and night. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and cures the aches and pains of rheumatism.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver medicine. Gentle, reliable, sure.

ESTATE OF JAMES A. BAKER, deceased. Pursuant to the order of the Orphans' Court of the County of Union, made on the application of the undersigned, Administrator of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscriber under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within six months from the thirteenth day of January, 1897, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscriber.
WILLIAM C. STANBERY,
1 14 10 oaw th Administrator.

Randolph Runyon,
Funeral Director
and Embalmer.
Residence, Over Office. Office 43 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J.

H. DeMott,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J
Calls promptly attended to day or night. White and black hearses. Coaches latest style.

DIED.

YOUNG—In this city, January 11, 1897, Elizabeth M., wife of William Young, in her 44th year
Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend funeral services on Friday afternoon, January 15th, at the Congregational church, West Seventh street, at 2 o'clock 1 13 2

PEARSON—In North Plainfield, January 13, 1897, Miss Mary A. Pearson, in her 81st year. Funeral services from her late residence, 87 S. mersét street, Friday evening January 15, at 8 o'clock. Interment at Mt. Horeb N. J.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

PLEASANT ROOMS and BOARD in private family; terms moderate. Address 302 E. 6th St. 1 13 4

LOST—About two weeks ago, in the city or borough, a gentleman's diamond ring. Liberal reward at Press office. 1 14 2

WANTED—Stout strong boy. Address, with reference, Fred W. Dunn, Grocer.

FOR SALE—Farm of 72 acres situated in Washington Valley, three miles from Plainfield, or will exchange for Plainfield property. Address P. O. Box 335, Plainfield, N. J.

WANTED—Place as waitress, or would take care of children and do up stairs work. Address "G. K.," care Press. 1 13 2

MAN wants situation as waiter or coachman. Call 334 East Third street. 1 13 3

FOR SALE OR TO LET—No. 140 West Fourth street, established bakery or grocery stand. House, store and stable, first-class oven. Mulford, broker. 1 12 tf

WANTED—First-class milk route for cash. Address Milkman, P. O. Box 343. 1 13 t

SEVEN-ROOM HOUSE FOR SALE—First class condition; price reasonable. Address Box 113, Dunellen. 1 12 3

TO LET—Furnished or unfurnished, twelve roon modern house, fine location, for board of two adults. Owner, care Press. 1-12 tf

HOME wanted for boy, 13 years old, in a quiet respectable family where be can have the advantage of home comforts. Terms must be moderate. Call or address E. B. Freeman, 115 Broadway, N. Y. 1 12 3

ONE large and one small room with good board, central location. Terms reasonable. R., care Press. 1 12 3

STORE and basement to let, 165 North Ave. Mulford, Broker. 1 11 tf

BRICK barn to let. 112 West Fourth street. 1 9 tf

TO LET—Handsome store on West Front street. Inquire Manning's City Marble Works. 1 9 tf

LARGE and small furnished rooms with board, heat, gas, and bath at moderate rates. 529 West Front street. 1 9 6

LARGE, well heated rooms to let, with board; moderate terms. 132 Crescent Ave. 1 8 6

NICELY-FURNISHED rooms, with board, moderate terms. 214 East Ninth street. 1 8 6

TO LET—Elegant 6 room apartments, Jackson building, steam heat, janitor service, halls carpeted, heated and lighted. Rent reasonable, particulars at Packer's furniture store. 11 23 tf

TO LET—Store and rooms above, now occupied by Justice Newcorn, 110 West Front street. Inquire Samuel Drier, pawnbroker, corner Front street and Madison avenue. 1 2 tf

FIRST CLASS help and first class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 23 Somerset place. 11-10-1y

LOANS negotiated. E. C. Mulford, Broker 7 2 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, Broker. tf

Plainfield's Busiest Store.
We sell goods cheaper than any Plainfield store.

A GOOD THING.

Last Saturday morning in walked the selling agent of the Star Knitting Mills, said he had been sent out to see us and to get an offer for the balance of the stock of winter and medium-weight underwear for ladies and gentlemen. You know the Star Mills goods. They make only the best kinds that sell from $1.00 to $2.50 per garment. We told him it was late in the season but if we could buy the goods so as to sell them at a price we would take the lot. Our offer was accepted, and the entire lot, over 300 dozen, on sale Wednesday, and the price will be forty-nine cents each.

49c each.

We frankly state that this is the best bargain this store has ever offered and we have offered many.

IN CONNECTION

with the great underwear sale we will offer in every department goods at such attractive prices that if it don't add wealth to the store it will add to its great name of selling goods cheaper THAN ALL OTHERS.

DRESS GOODS.

Such selling you never before saw, and the reason is plain, 'tis the price that sells them; but no matter how low the price the goods must be to your liking and these are. At 30c. we sell goods that ought to bring 50c. and would in good times. At 37c. your choice of 50 pieces of all-wool fancy mixture that were 75c.; and at 49c. you buy those stylish boucle cloths that were made to sell for $1.00.

Ladies', gentlemen's and children's hosiery. The kind that will wear well and don't cost much. Ladies' fine guage hose, the 25c. kind, 18c.; Ladies' fine cashmere hose, the 25c. kind, 15c.; Ladies' fine fleeced-lined hose, the 35c. kind, 25c.; Gentlemen's fine natural-wool hose, 15c.; Gentlemen's fine black hose, 13c.; Gentlemen's fine black extra-heavy hose, 19c., value 35c.; Children's heavy ribbed seamless hose, 10c.; Children's extra-heavy ribbed seamless hose, double sole and knee, 15c.

GOOD THINGS FOR LITTLE MONEY.

LADIES' COATS AND CAPES.

Over a hundred Coats and Capes for ladies and they go at cost and below. Your choice of the entire line, $3.98, were $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00 each.

SPECIALS TO BE SEEN AT ATTRACTIVE PRICES

100 pairs of fine lace curtains, white or cream, 89c. pair; fine curtain nets in figured and spots for sash curtains, 13c. the yard; adjustable sash curtain rods, 10c. each; 50 dozen find huck towels, the 25c. kind, 13c. each; children's wool skating caps, were 50c. and 75c., now 29c.; heavy outing flannel, in all colors, 6c. yard; heavy cream outing flannel, 5c. yard; chenille rugs, size 18x36, 49c. each; Japanese jute rugs, size 18x36, 34c. each; boys' heavy flannel shirt waists, were 75c., now 39c.; men's fine unlaundried shirts, 39c. each; lot of ten-quarter table covers, fancy bordered, $1.19 and $1.49, were $1.50 and $2.00; fine new dress ginghams and outing flannels, 10c. yard.

EDWARD WHITE.

WALL PAPER
"A word to the wise is efficient."
From 3c.
Buy from the manufacturer and save middlemen's profits.
On receipt of postal card a fine assortment of SAMPLES sent to ANY ADDRESS.
To $2
Warerooms, 211 215 North Ave.
EDW. LOVE,

-BOEHM'S!-
ON SALE THIS WEEK.
MUSLINS.

At 5c. a yard, yard wide, bleached and unbleached, at 5c. a yard. At 6 3-4c., Fruit of the Loom, Androscoggan and other staple makes, yard wide, at 6 3-4c. a yard. At 15c., 2 1-2 yard wide sheeting, unbleached, regular 20c. grade, at 15c. Ladies' Muslin Underwear—Chemise, Drawers and Nightgowns, none sold for less than 39c, and some at 50c., at the uniform price of 25c. each; a limited number to each customer.

The remainder of G A. Hallock's stock going at 1-4 their cost. $1.50 Derbys at 25c.; $1.50 Dress Shirts at 50c.; 50c. Outing Flannel Shirts at 25c.

-BOEHM'S,-
113 WEST FRONT STREET.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 30 CENTS.
PRIMES, $1 AND $1,50 PER HUNDRED.
-AT ROGERS.-

THE COZIEST TIME.

Oh, the five-oclock chime brings the coziest time
That is found in the whole of the day,
When Larry and Gus and the others of us
Come in from our study or play;
When we push the big chair to the hearth over there,
And pile the wood higher and higher,
And we make her a space in the very best place—
And mother sits down by the fire.

There's a great deal to say at the close of the day,
And so much to talk over with mother;
There's a comical sight or a horrible plight,
Or a ball game, or something or other;
And she'll laugh with Larry, and sigh with Harry,
And smile to our heart's desire
At a triumph won or a task well done—
When sitting down there by the fire.

Then little she'll care for the clothes that we tear,
Or the havoc we make on her larder;
For the toil and the strife of our everyday life
She will love us a little bit harder;
Then our lady she is, and her knights we would be,
And her trust doughty deeds will inspire;
For we long then anew to be generous and true—
When mother sits down by the fire.

—Martha Burr Banks, in N. Y. Independent.

THEY ABDUCTED THE BAND.

And Spoiled the Dance Given by the Rival Set.

The returned Cow Puncher set down his cup of black coffee after he had taken the first sip, and pursed up his mouth into an expression of scorn.

"Slop," he said, briefly.

The Poet made a gesture of protest.

"Oh, I dare say it's strong enough for you!" said the Cow Puncher.

"What?"

"The coffee."

"It was your expression to which I objected."

"When I said the stuff was—"

"Spare us a repetition!" interrupted the Poet.

"Well, I suppose my imagery is rather too epic for you. So would the coffee be that I had in mind—I wish I had it in this cup as well!—when I spoke. U-m-m!" And the Cow Puncher closed his eyes with the look of a satisfied epicure. "They call this stuff 'black' coffee," he went on, rousing himself. "About black enough for the second or third year of widowhood, I should say. You ought to taste the coffee we used to have down in Texas! It was so strong that it ate the enamel off the cups."

"That's some more of your epic imagery," laughed the Boys' Own Story Writer.

"Pretty strong coffee, evidently," remarked the Poet, "but it doesn't seem to have been able to affect brass."

The Cow Puncher carelessly knocked the ashes from the end of his cigarette and regarded the Poet out of the tail of his eye, but "Texas is a great state" was all that he said.

"It was two years ago," he resumed, after a pause, "that we gave our famous dance, upon which glorious occasion we everlastingly scooped the rival cowboys at the other end of the town."

"I thought you lived on a ranch," interposed the Poet, with deep suspicion.

"Did you think I spent three years out there and saw only one view? But then you don't understand the lives of men of action, I suppose, and I mustn't be too hard on you."

"About that dance?" asked the Boys' Own.

"Ah, that was a great event!" exclaimed the Cow Puncher, lighting a fresh cigarette. "You see, the idea originated with our end of the town, and naturally we felt that we had a right to it. Anybody would have felt so. Anybody, that is, except our deadly rivals. No sooner had the news of our scheme got out than they began to lay their plans for a howdy-do, and on the same night as ours, mind you!"

"What difference did that make?" growled the Poet.

"Well, it made just this difference: There wasn't room in that town for two balls, and everybody knew it. It lay between us to get the crowd. We couldn't both get it, and neither of us could get half a crowd. Things don't go that way out there. Everybody goes to the place that puts up the best show and the other one doesn't have a corporal's guard. We knew this, so we had taken care to engage the only music in the town before we let a word of our plans get out. This music consisted of a fiddle (cracked) played by a fiddler (who was also cracked), seconded by a wheezy melodeon which had a way of going off into a fit of gasps when you were most depending on it.

"It was a great thing for us to have secured the music, because that, we knew, would prove a terrible handicap to our rivals. They wouldn't be able to put up anything better than one of their own men who played the mouth organ, and didn't amount to much even at that, inasmuch as he had only one lung. We felt pretty jubilant, I tell you; and the other fellows looked correspondingly blue. But that didn't last long. One day we heard a startling rumor. We could scarcely believe our senses, but ample proof was soon furnished us that the dreadful tale was true. Our rivals had hired a Mexican band from a town about 50 miles away!

"That settled our cake! We held a consultation at once and canvassed the possibilities, but we had to admit that they were as good as hopeless. We immediately enlarged the scope of the supper we had promised. Of course there was to have been black coffee—that was what reminded me of the dance—and whisky and various other things, and we promptly sent out an emissary to spread the news in the town that our eating programme had been doubled. All the time, though, we knew it was a forlorn hope.

"You see, it was this way: The feminine element of our community was limited. Partners were at a premium, even if every woman in the place turned out, and where the women went, there you could be dead sure the men would go, too. Well, the women wouldn't hesitate a minute if it came to a choice between a little better supper and a good deal better music. We knew that, and we felt as if we might as well lay our hands down and give up the game. There was a fellow there from Kentucky, though, and the day after the announcement of the imported band came out he strolled in at supper time and threw his hat into the corner with one of his most effective blue-glass-country salutes. We returned the compliments of the evening and he sat down at the table.

"'How's the pahty comin' on?' he asked.

"We groaned.

"'Oh,' he said, 'you all ain't got moh'n enough ingenuity to subcomvent a kitten! If one o' you gentlemen 'll be good enough as to place himself undah my directions I give yo' my honah that we'll have the only ball in this heah town!'

"Well, perhaps we didn't jump at the offer, and, after he'd picked out his man, we made him tell what his plan was. I'll tell you how we carried it out. The next morning we all went out looking very gay and cheerful; quite a contrast to the glum set we had been. Whenever anybody gave us the razzle-dazzle, begging your pardon (the apology was in the Poet's direction) we—well, we gave them the ha! ha! and looked so blamed superior that the town couldn't make out what was up. When we ran across one of the ladies whom we had invited to come—not that we had omitted to ask any of them—we were as dashing as we knew how to be. We wanted to know how many dances we were going to have with 'em and all that. They couldn't make us out quite, but they gave us to understand that our name was Dennis because, to be sure, of the lovely music that the other gentlemen were importing for the occasion. Hadn't we heard of it?

"We laughed at this; laughed loud and long, much to their bewilderment, and finally we found breath enough to ask them if they really believed in that fake story of an imported band. Oh, sure they did! At which we laughed again, and then pitied them. Finally, when we had them at the proper point, we swore to them that no band was coming, that we knew it, and we were willing to stake all our future chances as entertainers on it. Well, they hedged a little then, promised to come to our party if the band didn't turn up, and that was all we asked. Our Kentucky cavalier had agreed to see that the band did not turn up."

"How did he fix that?" asked the Boys' Own, and his tone spoke evident regret that this theme wasn't all that could be desired for a story for the young, else could he have made copy of it.

"Easy! easy!" said the Cow Puncher, carelessly. "It was the simplest thing in the world. We learned that the band was to arrive on a way train which passed our town at nine o'clock in the evening. About seven o'clock the Kentuckian and his companion got on their horses and rode quietly out of town. They went to another village, ten miles or so down the road, where the train was due about 8:30. They don't run lightning expresses for the local traffic out that way. When the train came in our two fellows boarded it, found the band promptly, greeted them with a jovial welcome, told them it was their station, and hauled them off and into a big wagon which they had all ready there. The Mexicans didn't really know where they were, and the Kentuckian fooled them completely. He and the other fellow got on their horses and started with the wagon out on the road to our town. At first they thought they would start in the opposite direction, but they didn't want to miss any more of the ball than was necessary, so they took their own road.

"When they were two miles out of town the wagon broke down. My! that Kentuckian was a sly devil! He worked it just right. When the breakdown occurred they made a show of examining the wagon and took the occasion to remove several other bolts besides the one they had 'fixed' originally. Then they told the Mexicans that they, our fellows, would have to ride on to a place near by and get something to fix the wagon with. They told the band to 'just sit there quietly' until they came back, and with that they spurred up their horses and were off like the wind for home and the dance. They got there almost as soon as the crowd did."

"Then you got the crowd?"

"Well, did we get the crowd?" repeated the Cow Puncher, wagging his head with pride. "You never saw such a landslide as there was when that train came in without bringing any band! The party simply melted away at the other place, and it wasn't five minutes after the train had gone out of sight before I was dancing my first waltz with a—well, it may be that time and distance enhance her charms, and anyway I see a gleam in the Poet's eye, and I know he'll make copy out of my damsel of the dance, and I won't have it. But I'll tell you what I will do.

"Here, waiter! Say, boil down some of that octoroon coffee, will you, and bring us some that's black! You understand, black!

"If he does it, I'll drink her health with you, though I doubt if it does much good. As I remember, she must have imbibed about a quart of our coffee that night, and she was a northerner. They can't do it always with impunity. But it made her eyes shine that night, anyway. My, what a night that was!"—N. Y. Sun.

Deceitful Animals.

In military stables horses are known to have pretended to be lame in order to avoid military exercise. A chimpanzee had been fed on cake when sick: after his recovery he often feigned coughing in order to procure dainties.—Boston Budget.

WEALTH IN WELLS.

The Nile's Wonders to Be Excelled in the Dakotas.

A Vast Body of Underground Water That Affords an Inexhaustible Supply for Artesian Wells and Irrigation.

The agricultural miracles of the Nile will fade in comparison with the crops that will be taken from the valley of the James river in the Dakotas and the Saskatchewan in the far north when the new system of artesian wells has reached its full development. There are now about 1,100 wells in South Dakota, and about half as many in North Dakota. These are the result of experiments covering three or four years in the one state and half as long in the other. They are divided into what are called shallow wells, varying in depth from 50 to 300 feet, and taking moisture from an upper stratum of water, and deep wells, varying in depth from 1,000 to 1,500 feet, and taking water from the great Dakota sandstone basin. Brule county alone has 36 of the latter class, with a flow on an average of 2,000 gallons a minute. Had it not been for the difficulty of placing bonds under the new artesian well act during the past season there would now be nearly 2,000 wells in South Dakota, insuring magnificent crops over a wide area.

These great wells stand unrivaled in the height of their pressure, and the copiousness of their flow has already given rise to fears that they might not last long, and that by the time the farmer had dug his well and constructed his farm for the use of irrigtaion, they might fail him. There is power in these underground waters to grind at the harvest fields every bushel of wheat that is raised in the fertile prairies of the Dakotas.

The immediate sources of the waters are the sandstone layers in the so-called Dakota geological formation, which average 300 feet in thickness. The water comes up often with immense pressure, from 175 to 200 pounds to the inch, and at some wells is lifted in a solid eight or ten inch stream scores of feet above the ground. Why should it not ere this have burst forth and spent itself? is often asked. From 400 to 1,000 feet of thick and heavy clay resting above the sandstone has been sufficient to hold it down till tapped. This sandstone of the Dakota basin extends indefinitely north and south under the great plains in a huge shallow trough. Its western edge, of very irregular form, lies exposed along the eastern foothills of the Rocky mountains, in ridges around the Black Hills, and in other upheavals east of the Rockies. These exposures lie at a height of from 3,500 to 6,500 feet above the sea. Its eastern edge thins out to a narrow ledge and is almost completely lost under the drift of later ages. It lies at an altitude of from 800 to 1,000 feet. It is obvious that if water is turned into the porous sandstone of this Dakota and Jurassic formation at its upper and western edge till it is filled to the brim, and then if the sandstone is tapped at a level of about 1,300 feet above the sea, the altitude of the James river basin, water will burst forth with immense force. The efficient head may be more than 500 feet.

Because of the unavoidable leakage along its eastern edge the presence of water in the sandstone grows less toward the east, till it barely reaches the surface. This decline of pressure has been found to be about four feet a mile from Highmore to Huron, S. D., and a similar grade appears to extend from Sheridan, Wyo., to Marshall, Minn., where are the easternmost of the artesian wells of the basin. This leakage and the opening of wells, with their vast waste of water, must in time exhaust the supply of it if it were not constantly replenished. Water is supplied to the formation or reservoir in three ways. First, by the rainfall on its western upturned edge, where the annual rains are 24 inches a year. As there are 3,000 square miles of this upturned edge, and half this fall goes into the porous strata, there is the enormous total of almost 84,000,000,000 cubic feet a year from this source alone. The second source is the water that may seep into the basin from streams flowing over it. The Missouri river loses 7,000,000,000 cubic feet daily as it flows along the sandstone near Great Falls alone, and it is fair to reason that the Yellowstone, Big Horn, North Platte and other streams that are now more closely allied to the Dakota basin add twice as much more, making about 10,000,000,000 cubic feet from this second source. Then there are vast quantities of water that come to the sponge-like stone from older formations below and from above. The first two sources will supply more than ten times the water now received from the artesian wells combined. It is calculated that the stored supplies of water in the sandstone represent a lake 30 feet deep over an area of 150,000 square miles.

A first-class well on any farm in the valley will supply nearly 1,000 gallons a minute, and will cost about $2,500. It will supply water to 2,000 acres. The practical value of the water has been fully demonstrated the last two seasons, and al who have had wells are enthusiastic. There has not been one failure in South Dakota except through ignorance. Farms in Dakota can be bought, wells ample to supply them dug, reservoirs built, and handsome homes erected at about $13 an acre, and these farms will return their owners a profit on an investment of not less than $50 per acre.

Scores of cities and villages in the Dakotas use direct pressure from wells for running their electric light plants, their flour mills, waterworks and the smaller factories. They have an engineer always at his post, a supply that never needs coal or any new machinery, and a tireless servant demanding no wages.—N. Y. Sun.

THICKLY-POPULATED SAXONY.

Belgium's Distinction Is Now at an End

Every schoolboy who has studied and remembers anything of geography knows that the little monarchy of Belgium has enjoyed the distinction of being the most densely populated country of the world. The year 1890 was one of a census in almost every country, and by that census it appeared that the average population of Belgium to the square mile was 530, England following with 505, France with 420, Holland with 350, Italy with 260, Germany with 233, Ireland with 148, Spain with 85, Sweden with 28, and the United States with 20.

The population of Belgium at that time was 25 times greater to the square mile than the population of the United States. The land area of Belgium is 11,000 square miles. It is larger than New Jersey, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont or Maryland, but not half the size of Maine. With the multiplication of its manufactures and mining interests and through its remarkable commercial and railroad facilities, Belgium has been increasing very rapidly in population of late years; though, even as early as 1820 Belgium, then a part of the kingdom of Holland, was the most thickly populated portion of Europe. At the time of the establishment of Belgian independence in 1830 the population was 3,700,000; it was 5,000,000 in 1870, and it is now in excess of 6,000,000. But Belgium's distinction has been eclipsed during the present year by Saxony, which is now the most thickly populated country of Europe.

The area of Saxony has varied according to political conditions, having been more than twice as large at the beginning of the present century as it was at the outbreak of the Prussian-Austrian war of 1866. Since then it has been increased, so that it now includes 6,777 square miles, a little more than the Island of Jamaica, in the West Indies. The population of Saxony has been increasing more rapidly than that of other parts of Germany, and it is now in excess of 3,000,000. Saxony has always been the most thickly populated portion of Germany, but not until this year the most thickly populated country of Europe. The development of the manufacturing interests of Saxony accounts chiefly for its great growth. At the close of the Franco-German war, Dresden, long a favorite city among Americans abroad, had a population of 177,000. It has now 285,000. Leipsig had 106,000; it has now nearly 300,000. Chemnitz had 68,000; it now has 100,000. The development of the woolen industry in Saxony accounts very largely for the increased population in its manufacturing centers, the disposition of the Germans of Saxony being, quite evidently, to move into the large cities, whereas the residents of Hanover and Bavaria, two of the largest political divisions of Germany, have preferred to pursue the business of agriculture. Bavaria is five times larger than Saxony, but the population is less than twice as large. The cities of Bavaria, too, have not grown very rapidly of late years, and the city of Hanover, in Hanover, has increased very little during the last ten years. Density of population, sometimes considered as the test of civilization in a country, is not to be thus regarded if the Tenth ward of New York city can be accepted as a fair criterion.—St. Louis Republic.

NANSEN AT HOME.

The Great, Strong, Simple Man and His Little Daughter.

After carefully showing me the route of the Fram, as well as his own and Johansen's course in their perilous journey alone over the ice after leaving their ship, the charts were cast aside on the floor and Dr. Nansen proceeded to describe, in the simple, direct manner so characteristic of him, some of the numberless interesting incidents of his voyage. Evidently thrilled by his earnest voice and manner, Liv, his little girl, who had been playing in a corner of the room, drew nearer, and unconsciously she walked upon the original records of her father's route. The picture of this tiny, half-shy child, standing spellbound listening to her father's voice, with the priceless charts of his famous voyage beneath her feet, contrasting with the tall, muscular figure of her father, who towered above her, with bronzed face, his hair and mustache several shades lighter than the skin, his massive hands, discolored and scarred by hard usage, resting lightly and lovingly upon the little child's head, immediately impressed one with its dramatic effect. Around the room lay polar bear skins and odds and ends connected with the voyage. The table was piled with papers, all systematically arranged; the walls were covered with presentation studies from the most famous Norwegian artists, representing ice and snow effects. But, despite the interest of the surroundings, one could see nothing, think of nothing but the man himself—the great, strong, simple man who was speaking.—English Illustrated Magazine.

BOROUGH NOTICE

The ordinance requires occupants of property to remove snow and ice from sidewalks within five hours after it accumulates. Notice is hereby given that the penalty for violation of this ordinance will hereafter be strictly enforced.

B. A. HEGEMAN, JR.,
Mayor

1 6 12

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

The Portland Range has duplex grate and ventilated oven door. 8000 are in use.

Stock Taking Opportunities

—as you know we offer them every year just about this time. 'Tis a season when every line in every part of store is decreased to smallest possible point. But the present Stock Taking Sale exceeds anything ever held in the past—make a note of prices, and see if we're not right.

Here is the suit that's sold with 11 other pieces, for $23.00

BEDROOM SUITS

head the list - during sale, will offer this Bedroom Suit - one bed, dresser and wash stand, two chairs, one rocker, towel-rack and stand, one woven wire spring, one mixed mattress, two pillows, one bolster, one quilt, 14 pieces in all, $23.00 for entire lot - this special has NEVER been equalled. We've fully 50 other Bed Suits - ALL reduced

PARLOR SUITS

100 different patterns - not one overlooked in this sale - all well made, new and pretty.

$25. Suits to $17. $40. Suits to $30.
$50. Suits to $35. $75. Suits to $50.
$125. Suits to $75.

DINING FURNITURE

Cane and leather-seat chairs, all patterns, 75c (were $1) to $10 (were $12)

Extension Tables:

$ 6. make $4.25 $10. make $7.00
$12. make $8.00 $30. make $30.00
Sideboards, $8.00 up.

CARPETS - Moquettes, 75c; Best Body Brussels, 90c; Velvets, 75c; Best Brussels 75c; other Brussels, 45c; All-wool Ingrains, 55c. About 50 rolls good, heavy Ingrains, formerly priced 65c and 75c, now at 35c and 39c yard. To "liven up things," we'll make and lay Carpets FREE at these prices.

ALL STOVE STOCK MARKED AT COST

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

CREDIT GIVEN TO ALL

NOTE NAME AMOS AND NO. 73 BEFORE ENTERING STORE

73 Market St. Near Plane Street NEWARK, N. J.

Telephone 580 Goods Delivered Free.

IS YOUR EYESIGHT DEFECTIVE?

There is no safer, surer or cheaper method of obtaining proper relief for over strained and defective eyesight, headache and so forth than to consult this Specialist. The happy results from correctly fitted glasses are a grateful surprise to persons who have not before known the real profit to themselves in wearing good glasses. No charge to examine your eyes. All glasses guaranteed.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,

EYE SPECIALISTS.

H. A. STILES will be at 107 East Front street, Dunham's real estate office, every THURSDAY, from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Powlison & Jones,

Dealers in

FURNITURE,

149 and 151 E. Front St.

The Better the Food The Better the Health.

MORAL

Use my White Lable Canned Vegetables.

California Naval Oranges. Tangerines. Table Apples.
Preserved Fruit. White Grapes and Lady Apples.

G. W. ROCKFELLOW,
The Park Avenue Grocer.

W. J. STEPHENSON,

The Caterer,

Has RESUMED business again at his old stand,

146 NORTH AVENUE,

Where he will be pleased to see his many friends and former customers.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street

Time Table in Effect NOVEMBER 15th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59, 7 28, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 30, 8 33, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 37, 11 10 a m; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 32, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 06, 11 10, 11 16, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 36, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 28, 6 29, 6 59, 7 50, 8 00, 8 53, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 11 10, am; 12 02, 1 15, 2 07, 3 29, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 32, 5 54, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28 p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 06, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 36, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32, 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 1a, 7 18, 7 55, 8 35, 9 03, 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 15, 2 35, 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 25, 5 42, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30, 11 35 a m; 1 10, 1 35; 2 50, 4 05, 5 40, 7 20, 9 20, 10 2

Passengers for Newark please change car at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 2 11, 2 32, 3 35, 4 36, 5 03, 5 15, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p m; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 03, 3 43, 5 14, 6 35, 10 15, 7 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 30, 7 35, 7 45, 8 19, 9 05, 9 48, 11 45 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 25, 4 25, 5 28, 6 08, 6 35, 8 07, 8 50, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a m; 12 08, 1 20, 5 10, 6 35, 7 53, 8 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a. m., 12 46, 2 11, 4 55, 5 15, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 54, a m; 12 32, 4 04, 7 00, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 52 a m; 6 30, 10 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 9 54 a. m; 5 03, 5 15 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

9 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

5 03 p. m., way for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

4 55 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor Allentown Mauch Chunk Scranton, Wilkesbarre Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 2b a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 14 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a.m. 1 15, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, p. m. Sunday, (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 13, 10 04, 10 27 a.m 1 15, 3, 12, 3 51, 5 32, 5 54, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 10 27, a. m.; 1 15 3 51, 5 32 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37* 1 17 night, Sundays—3 17, 5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14* p. m., 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m. 12 46, 2 17, 2 32*, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* p.m., 1 17 night, Sundays 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m., 2 25, 4 55, 5 14*. p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a. m., 2 17, 5 34*, p. m., 1 17. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*. p. m., 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect December 2d, 1896.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7 44 a. m. Daily (Sundays 8 01) Local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. Daily, express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m 3 34, 5 22, 7 32 p. m. daily except Sunday, Local for Bound Brook.

11 54 a. m. Daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday, "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

1 44 p. m. daily except Sunday. Local for Mauch Chunk.

2 34 and 4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6 25 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

8 22 and 9 54 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9 32 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn-Local-6 49, 7 15, 7 43, 9 40, a. m. 2 29, 4 45 and 6 40 p. m. Sunday 9 03 a. m., 2 21, 6 08 p. m. Express—7 23, 8 27, 10 02 a. m. 12 14, 2 17, 5 11, 7 07 and 8 17 p. m. Sundays—7 23 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 48, 7 50, 10 05 a. m. 12 13, 2 33, 5 20, 7 07 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 10 a. m. 2 20 and 6 30 p. m.

For Metuchen only 6 23 p. m. except Sunday.

For further information consult Ticket Agent.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.
S. Bethlehem, Pa.
CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.
Philadelphia, Pa.
A. W. NONNEMASHER,
Ass't General Passenger Agt.,
South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt or Desbrosses street.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 8:39 p. m
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 5, and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m: closes 9:30 a. m

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M

F. A. DUNHAM,

Civil Engineer and Surveyor

109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F

RUDOLPH KERSTING

BAKER AND CONFECTIONER

201–203 West Front Street.

TRY OUR NEW ENGLAND AND HOME MADE BREAD.

VIENNA BREAD A SPECIALTY.

Charlotte de Russe, Cream Puffs, Chocolate Eclair, all kinds of Pastry and Cakes, FRESH EVERY DAY.

Delivery to any part of the City or Borough at any time.

Greatest Sacrifice of Clothing.

No garment reserved. Our entire stock must be sold in two weeks at 33 per cent on the dollar; no trifling, no boasting, no delusion; you know us or ought to.

READ THESE PRICES.

Men's fine Melton overcoat, worth $10, at $3.75; Men's extra fine Sunday overcoat in Melton or English Kersey, worth $15, at $4.95; the finest overcoat in Plainfield, worth $20, at $7.50, silk or satin lined. Remember we must sell every overcoat in the house in two weeks. Men's Ulster, worth $10, at $4; fine Ulster, satin lined, all wool, worth $18, at $6.50; a good Men's Ulster at $3, worth $8. Men's heavy weight all wool suit, very fine finish, worth $12, at $4.25; extra fine Sunday suit in all wool worsted plaids, latest style, worth $16, at $5.90; a fine all wool English clay diagonal suit, in frock, worth $18, at $6.90; Men's handsome fancy silk mixed suit worth $22, at $7.90; a good working suit suit $2.75, worth $7. Men's fine Sunday pants, worth $5, at $1.75; extra fine, worth $7.50, at $2.90; a good working pants, worth $1.75, at 65c. Boys winter school suit, worth $3, at $1.25; Boys' ulsters, at $1.50, worth $4; Boys' heavy knee pants at 28c, worth 75c. These special prices will only last for a few days. Remember all goods will go for one third their value.

New York Clothing Company,

214 WEST FRONT STREET,

M. WEINBERGER.

Near Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

WANT THEM

Ladies' Calf Shoes for Skating.

DO YOU

Ladies' Turned Cork-Sole Shoes.

WANT THEM

Also Hanan & Son's Shoes for Ladies and Gentlemen.

A. WILLETT AND SON,

NO. 107 PARK AVE.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.

177 NORTH AVENUE.

HAM

PICNIC'S 7 Cents Per lb.

BEST Regular 11 Cents Per lb.

AT

J. F. MACDONALD'S,

186 E. Front St. The Uptown Grocer.

Special—

We place on sale today a

Big Line of Suitings and Trousers.

Trousers to order $3.50 worth $5
Suits to order $18, worth $25

SEBRING'S.

Bargains in Real Estate

For sale or to let.

MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,

Send for blank contracts. 169 North avenue Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.

BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss Helen B. Dunham,

TEACHER OF PIANO AND ORGAN.

Pupil of a German Professor. For reference address, Prof. John C. Bergner, Clinton, New Jersey. Call on or address Miss Helen B. Dunham, Dunellen, New Jersey. s 20 6m

Get Your Turkeys, Chickens and Ducks for the holidays at

W.L. & J.M. Smalley,

94 Somerset street.

Telephone Call, 42b.

P. H. ZIMMER,

Practical Machinist and Engineer,

Steam, Gas and Electric Contracting, Complete Power Plants Installed. Experimental work. General Jobbing. All kinds of repairing. EXCHANGE ALLEY, in rear of Trinity church. Bicycles built to order. 12

NEW DESIGNS LARGE VARIETY.

HIGH GRADE

PARLOR HEATERS,

Stoves, Ranges and Oil Heaters

OUR PRICES ARE LOW.

Hardware, Heater and Furnace Work.

A. M. GRIFFEN.

119 E. Front st. Telephone 6

IF THE BEST WILL DO,

Try Royal Tooth Powder, 1 ½-oz. can, 10c.; 4-oz. nickel-top bottle, 25c. It contains no acid or grit, and is recommended by all dentists of standing who will advise the use of Chalk and Castile Soap, flavored. Royal Borated and Carbolated Talcum, at 10c., is intended to give entire satisfaction and win your favor. Prepared by

ALLEN PHARMACY M'F'G CO.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Wall Paper

2cts. A Roll

Borders and Ceilings to Match, at

Marsh, Ayers & Co.,

201 Park avenue, corner Second street.

☞ The Largest Supply House in the City.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

Hillier & Co.,

79 North ave., Plainfield.

Telephone 30M

M. Powers & Son.

Superior quality of

LEHIGH COAL.

No 2 Coal Only $3.75 'n the Y.

No. 1 Kindling Wood.

Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

A. LUSARDI,

120 NORTH AVENUE.

Wholesale and Retail

Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds of Confectionery, Peanuts, Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets

PEARSON & GAYLE,

Carpenters and Builders.

Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.

All work promptly attended to.

TOWNSEND'S

Marble and Granite Works,

SOMERSET STREET.

Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

FRANK DAY,

114 WEST SIXTH ST.,

(Near Park Avenue.)

Livery and boarding stable in all its branches all kinds of turnouts night or day at short notice. Horses boarded by day, week or month. Telephone No. 152. 9 10 tf

J. W. VanSickle,

FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.

Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Philadelphia Scrapple.

C. W. LINES.

Mason and Builder

Plainfield, N. J.

Residence, 18 Elm place. Estimates cheerfully given. Jobbing promptly to William Hand & Son.

STAGES

For Parties, etc., 518 Park ave.

PUBLIC BOWLING ALLEYS

AT

117 and 119 East Second Street.

C. M. ULRICH,

2 22 1y. Manager.

FOR MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

Bill Before the Albany Senate Regarding Street Railways and Gas Companies.

Albany, Jan. 14.—Senator McNulty last night introduced three bills carrying out the ideas of Edward M. Grout of Brooklyn, as expressed at a hearing before the Greater New York commission regarding the municipal ownership and disposal of public franchises. The first bill gives to the city of the first class power to construct or acquire by condemnation proceedings under the provisions of the condemnation law, street railroads within its boundaries, whether operated on or below or above the surface of the street, and may issue bonds therefor, and may conduct, manage and operate such railroads by means of its department of city works, or other like department, under the supervision of its common council, or other legislative bodies. Further, that hereafter no franchise or right to use the streets, avenues, parkways or highways of any city of the first class shall be granted to any person or corporation for a longer period than twenty-five years; nor shall the same be so granted for less than the best possible terms obtainable therefor, and the action of all officials of cities of the first class in relation to the grant of such franchises shall be reviewable by the courts; also permitting any city of the first class to establish, construct or acquire by condemnation proceedings a plant for lighting by gas or electricity its streets and public buildings and for supplying such light to its inhabitants, and may issue bonds therefor.

SHE OWNS THE COURT HOUSE.

Mrs. Way of Boston Wins Her Suit Against a Kansas County.

Wichita, Kan., Jan. 14.—By a decision of the United States supreme court here Mrs. Amanda Way of Boston will become sole owner of the Ellsworth county $25,000 court house on March 1. The suit was one in equity, Mrs. Way claiming that, inasmuch as her late husband owned the property on which the court house was built, and as he had furnished all the money to erect the building, she should be given the property. After a bitter fight, lasting three years, she finally obtained judgment. The decree provides that she shall pay the county $9,000 for the heating apparatus and fixtures in the building and then take everything on the property but the records, which the county will be permitted to keep. She has until March 1 to raise the money.

PANAMA CANAL SCANDAL.

Tribunal Decides That the Culprits Are Responsible for Their Fines.

Paris, Jan. 14.—The inquiry into the question of the responsibility of the Panama canal culprits for the fines imposed upon them has been closed. The tribunal decided that ex-Minister Baihaut, Charles de Lesseps and Blondin were responsible for the fine of 891,000 francs imposed upon Baihaut in addition to a term of imprisonment for connection with the Panama scandal. Baihaut was released from prison a few months ago, but on Dec. 11 was rearrested, that he might serve two years' additional imprisonment for failure to pay the fine. He is now in prison, where he will remain, and if they return to France Blondin and De Lesseps will be put in jail.

Ex-Queen Lil Resumes Her Quiet Life.

Boston, Jan. 14.—Ex-Queen Liliuokalani, after returning from her trip to Niagara Falls, resumed her quiet life in her temporary home in Brookline. She does not move from her apartments, but receives her friends and their friends. She has been to church once, on Jan. 3, when she attended All Saints. She is becoming accustomed to the severity of the winter, has seen her first snowstorm, and is apparently perfectly contented to let events take their course, without bothering herself about plans for the future.

Sad Police Blunder.

Pelham Manor, N. Y., Jan. 14.—The autopsy on the body of Miss Haggerty, the servant girl who was found dead on the floor of a cell in the police station, showed that death came from acute congestion of the lungs, and that she had not suffered from alcoholism, as a local physician claimed after an examination when the girl was brought into the station house Tuesday night. She was found wandering aimlessly in the streets.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spot stronger and prices are higher. Jan., 90½c.; May, 87⅝c.; July, 83¾c.

Corn—Spot dull and firm. Jan., 30½c.; May, 30⅛c.

Oats—Market quiet and steady. Jan., 22¼c.; May, 23⅛c.

Eggs—Market steady; choice scarce. State and Pennsylvania, fresh, 17½@19c.; ice house, 13@15c.; western, fresh, 16@17c.; limed, 13½@14; southern, 16@16½c.; in case, $1.50@3.30.

Pork—Market steady; trade easy. Extra prime, nominal, short clear, $8.76@10.25; mess, $8.50@8.75; family, $9.50@10.00.

Lard—Steady; moderate demand. Prime western, $4.20.

Butter—Market steady; fair demand. Creamery western extras, 20c.; state and Pennsylvania, extras, 18@19½c.; creamery, western seconds, 16c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fresh factory, 13c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fall made extras, 18@19c.; western imitation creamery, seconds to firsts, 11@16c.; western factory, firsts to extras, 8½@11c.

Cheese—Market steady. State, full cream, large size, fall made, colored, 10½c.; large, common to choice, part skims, 3½@7½c.

Potatoes—Market firm; good supply. Long Island, in bulk, per barrel, $1.25@1.50; New Jersey, round, choice, per barrel, $1.00@1.25.

DAMAGED WARSHIP

Injuries to the Montgomery Somewhat Serious.

SEVERAL OF HER PLATES DENTED

Propellor Blades Bent and Nicked and Cement Under Engines Badly Cracked — Probably Struck a Rock or Submerged Wreck.

New York, Jan. 14.—The diver who inspected the bottom of the United States cruiser Montgomery, which struck a submerged object in the lower bay Tuesday, reports that the plates over the port forward fire room, the middle fire room, and the port engine room are dented fully a quarter of an inch. One of the propeller blades was bent and one nicked. In the engine room the cement under the engine was badly cracked. The Governor's island shore is noted for its rocks, and it is thought that one of the big boulders so numerous there was washed out into the channel. Several of the navy yard officials, however, express the opinion that the Montgomery might have hit an old submerged wreck. Soundings were made in the vicinity of the accident, and the lowest depth found was eight fathoms. The Montgomery will be put in drydock to-day. It is expected that her departure for the south will be delayed until next week. An investigation of the accident will be ordered. Capt. Bradford, a thoroughly experienced navigator, who was in command of the vessel when the accident occurred, said that the cruiser was proceeding at a fair rate of speed to join the North Atlantic squadron at Hampton Roads, when a sudden bumping of the vessel startled those aboard. Two more violent bumps followed immediately, and the alarm was at once sounded throughout the ship. Every man sprang to his post, the watertight compartments were closed, and the engines stopped. Men were sent below and soon reported that the ship was not leaking. Capt. Bradford says he cannot imagine what the vessel struck. He says she was a safe distance from shore at the time.

AUSTRALASIA'S WHEAT CROP.

So Short That She Will Become an Importer Instead of an Exporter.

Washington, Jan. 14.—The wheat crop of Australasia for the coming harvest is so short, according to estimates reported to the state department by Consul Bell at Sydney, that it will reduce that country from her position of sixth wheat-exporting country of the globe to about the eleventh wheat-importing country. Instead of being an exporter of about 12,000,000 bushels per year, Australasia will have to import not far from 5,000,000 to supply the deficiency for short crops. This misfortune to Australasia will be of considerable benefit to America, for not only will the United States supply the chief part of the deficiency, but she will also make good a large part of the world's deficiency caused by the loss of Australasia's export, making a difference of 17,000,000 bushels. With a failure in India and a short crop throughout Europe, there will be no trifling advantage to United States wheat growers. Consul Bell says it may be of interest to Americans to learn that the hay grasses usually grown in the United States do not grow in Australasia. There is no red clover, as there are no bumblebees to fertilize it; nor does there appear to be either timothy, red top or blue grass. Wheat straw is therefore the most common hay. There have been imported into the colony of New South Wales, chiefly at Sydney, since Jan. 1, 1896, 2,336,765 bushels of wheat and 48,851 tons of flour, of which 1,760,854 bushels and 24,730 tons came from the United States.

Illinois Senatorial Fight.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 14.—The action of the republican members of the house and senate last night in deciding to call the caucus on United States senator to-night is claimed by some as a victory for Alderman Madden of Chicago, who wanted an early date. The anti-Madden men assert, however, that Madden is beaten. The Cook county machine, which is behind Madden, is said to admit for the first time that the fight is about even between him and Mason. The legislature meets Thursday of next week to elect a senator.

West Virginia Legislature.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 14.—The state legislature convened yesterday. The republicans have a big majority in both branches and organized the senate and house. The last message of Gov. William A. McCorkle, who is a democrat, was read. He refers to the miners' strike of 1895, during which he called out the militia to preserve peace and apologizes for his action. He says the "use of the militia to break strikes, while common, is unlawful."

The Furst Bismarck Still Aground.

Hamburg, Jan. 14.—The Hamburg-American line steamer Furst Bismarck, which ran aground in the Elbe on January 6, is still grounded, all efforts to float her having thus far proved futile. The steamer is advertised to sail from this port to-morrow.

To Improve Chelsea Hospital Grounds.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Mr. Barrett, rep., Mass., has offered in the house a bill appropriating $6,000 for the improvement of the grounds of the United States Naval hospital at Chelsea, Mass.

Connecticut Senatorship.

Hartford, Jan. 14.—The legislature will not be in session again until Tuesday next when the first business will be the election of a United States senator. Orville H. Platt will be re-elected.

THE PLAINFIELD CYCLE SHOW

IS NOW OPEN

AT 132 NORTH AVENUE,

WITH A Full line of '97 WHEELS!

Call and see what we have.

W. H. ROGERS.

SPORTS

Sun Rises: 7:23 a. m.
Sun sets: 4:55 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be Lighted at 5:55 p. m.

CYCLING COMMENT.

This week's national and New Jersey Division membership report of the League of American Wheelmen is as follows: new, 216; total, 73,132: New Jersey Division, new, 14; total, 4, 4,727.

A new bicycle store is to be opened in Orange by the firm of Mulla, Keer and Martin. The Mr. Martin of the firm is F. L. C. Martin, of this city, who already is interested in bicycle stores in this city and Newark.

The spring rush in the bicycle trade does not come until the beginning of April but the sale of the '97 wheels has already begun at the salesrooms of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company. William Hartpence has just purchased a '97 Crescent wheel. A ladies '97 Cleveland Swell Special was sold to George Richards.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Amateur Skating Association, of America, will hold its annual skating tournament at Stamford, Conn., on January 20 and 21. Joe Donoghue and Howard Mosher, who are both well known here as bicycle racers, will take part in the tournament and may be expected to make a good showing there. Donoghue spent most of last spring in this city training on the Oval and is favorably known by many residents of this city. Mosher was a member of the racing team of the Jersey Wheel Company and was a great favorite with Plainfield audiences.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

Another warmly contested bowling match is scheduled for this evening on the Ulrich alleys between teams from the Scott and Potter Press Works. These teams have frequently come together in bowling contests, and the one tonight bids fair to be unusually exciting.

Four Score and One.

The death of Mrs. Pearson, of 87 Somerset street, occurred yesterday from old age. She was in her eighty-first year and was very feeble. She was the mother of W. J. Pearson, of the firm of Pearson & Gayle. The funeral services will be held tomorrow night from the house at 8 o'clock. Interment will be at Mt. Horeb.

Important Conference.

D. W. Littell, of the Exempt Firemen's Association, of this city, is in Newark today attending the joint meeting of the State executive committee and the Legislative committee. The matter under consideration is the exemption law.

—An item appeared in The Daily Press yesterday to the effect that Mrs. Summers, of Somerset street, had lost a pocketbook containing $5. The missing article was found by Charles Lyman, the popular real estate dealer, and he, seeing the item in this paper, returned the pocket book to its owner.

—The exterior of the store front occupied by Edward Love, the wall paper manufacturer, North and Watchung avenues, has been treated to a coat of paint, which improves its appearance very much.

Why Attempt to Cure.

catarrh by the use of so-called blood remedies? That catarrh is not caused by blood troubles is self-evident when you reflect that attacks are always due to sudden climatic changes or exposure, and occur most frequently during the winter and spring, though the blood is as pure then as in summer or fall. A remedy which quickly relieves and cures the catarrahal attacks has been found in Ely's Cream Balm.

RESTOCKING THEIR GAME.

NIMRODS PREPARE FOR NEXT YEAR.

Young Rabbits and Quail to be Bought for This Purpose.

The regular January meeting of the Protective Game and Propogating Association was held last evening, when ten new members were elected and seven applications were received.

The secretary was appointed a committee of one to go to New York today and purchase 500 rabbits, a hundred of which will be received this week. A number of quail will also be purchased and received later in the season.

A committee of three, consisting of Aaron Brower, Percy Ohl, Frank Day and the president, were appointed to see the farmers and arrange to sign a lease for the land used by the association for the game.

The next meeting of the association will be held one week from next Wednesday, when it is hoped that many of the members will pay up their dues. Henry Haurand was appointed a committee of one to collect dues.

First Lieutenant H. S. Thatcher, of Camp 28, Sons of Veterans, of this city, will visit the Elizabeth camp this evening.

Right Up to Date.

Tommy—What yer goin ter do wid de cat? Hang it?

Mickey (scornfully)—Hang nothin. Dey's a trolley wire broke up de avernoo. I'm goin ter electrolleycute it, accordin ter law.—New York World.

Rarely Visited Barber Shops.

Distinguished Foreigner—Have you nevaire met my cousin, ze Duc le Montmorenci, ven he vas in ze New York?

Plain American—No, I always shave myself.—Texas Sifter.

An Old Saying Illustrated.

"RUNNING ACROSS AN OLD FRIEND IN A STRANGE PLACE."—Scribner's Magazine.

MARK TWAIN'S JOB.

How It Was Saved For Him In a Denver Newspaper Office.

It is a Denver newspaper tradition that the funniest bit of journalistic work ever done by Mark Twain was strangled by a too friendly proofreader. Mark was given an assignment to write up the opening of a saloon—quite a noteworthy event in those days in the Colorado town. He thought it would be funny to make his account of the festivities bear silent witness to the potency of the free refreshments dispensed. The article began soberly enough, but soon the diction became misty, then the spelling grew confused, and finally the whole thing degenerated into a maudlin, incoherent eulogy of the saloon keeper.

It was funny. Mark read it over and laughed until he cried. But the next morning when he eagerly scanned the paper he could not find his work. In an obscure corner he saw a two line item stating that "the Alcazar saloon was opened with appropriate festivities last night." That was all.

He rushed down to the office and inquired about his article. The managing editor knew nothing about it. The city editor couldn't tell what had become of it. The foreman said he hadn't seen it.

As Mark was snorting about the "outrage" and was running about the office trying to get track of his missing "copy," a proofreader slyly nudged him and said confidentially, "You owe me a cigar."

"How is that?" inquired the humorist.

"I've earned it," was the reply. "I saved your job for you last night. Maybe you don't know how the old man here feels about such things, but he won't have it if he finds it out. He's fired three men since I've been here—just that way."

"Just what way?"

"Why, just as you were last night, you know. Your stuff wouldn't do at all. It was simply awful. I knew if the old man saw it you were gone, so I fixed it up myself."—Chicago Times-Herald.

An Eye to the Future.

The Boy on the Ice—Say, Willie (boo hoo!), it's too bad yer broke in! But (boo hoo!) if yer don't git out kin I hev yer sled?—New York Journal.

Pointing a Moral.

'I don't know," remarked Senator Sorghum, "when I was more impressed with the fact that there is frequently a valuable lesson to be drawn from the most trivial circumstance than I was at dinner the other day. One of the children got the wishbone."

"Oh, yes. One takes one end and another takes the opposite, and the one who gets the longest is supposed to get his wish."

"Exactly. And I took occasion then and there to impress upon their youthful minds how much in this life depends on having a good pull."—Washington Star.

An Election Bet.

Ferry—I notice Hargreaves is still wearing his fall overcoat, cold as the weather is.

Wallace—Yes, that is the result of an election bet.

"I didn't suppose Hargreaves was the man to make one of those freak bets."

"It wasn't a freak bet. He just bet all the money he had and can't get his winter coat out."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

He Overreached Himself.

"Naw," said Tommy, "I didn't work the good little boy racket this Christmas. Not much. I tried it las' Christmas."

"Did they get on to you?" asked Jimmy.

"Naw, they didn't git on to me, but they thought I was in earnest an went an bought me a dinky lot of Sunday school books an a set of chessmen."—Indianapolis Journal.

Heard From.

Bacon—Do you remember you prophesied that young Blowman would be heard from when he got a little older?

Egbert—Yes, I believe I do remember saying something like that.

"Well, your words have come true. He's moved next door to me and has taken up the cornet."—Yonkers Statesman.

The Very Man.

She—It's no use, Mr. Slimly. In my present state of mind I would not accept the most attractive man in the world.

He—No, I see you won't, but at any rate you will have the satisfaction of knowing that he has offered himself.—Tit-Bits.

$35. Will buy you a First-Class High Grade BICYCLE.

Peck & Snyder and Winslow Skates from 40c. up.

PLAINFIELD CYCLE AND SPORTING GOODS CO.

147-149 NORTH AVENUE.

H. E. RIDER, President. C. C. LISTER, Secretary and Treas.

MAGNANIMOUS WILLIAM.

He Did Not Take Revenge for an Insult.

Louis XII. was of the opinion that it was unworthy of the king of France to revenge himself for the insults he suffered as prince royal. Emperor William of Germany is of like opinion, says the New York Times.

Baron de Krosik, who has just been appointed a grand cross of the Red Eagle order, was formerly colonel of the hussar regiment in which the emperor as a youth first did military service. One night at mess, toward the close of a banquet at which the young prince, then a mere captain, had invited his friend, Archduke Rudolph, the conversation turned to the projected reforms in the cavalry.

William declared himself a partisan of these reforms and defended his opinion with so much impetuosity that Col von Krosik, very much excited, suddenly interrupted him. "It is an absurdity," said he in a loud voice and contemptuous tone as he ridiculed the idea put forth by the prince.

"It is well," replied the prince. "Today you are my superior officer, and I must bow before you, but our positions may change."

When his former subordinate ascended the throne Baron von Krosik fully expected to see his name put on the retired list. But the emperor appointed him a general, gave him the important directorship of the School of Cavalry, of Hanover, and has ever treated him with the greatest respect.

SHOOTING DEER DOGS.

One Method of Preventing the Unlawful Hounding of Game.

The men who are supposed to see that game laws are enforced have a hard time of it, because men who wouldn't think of committing petty larceny even to the extent of taking an umbrella would not hesitate to shoot a bull moose in midsummer in spite of game laws. It is not often that a locality has unwritten laws more severe than those on the statute books; but in the vicinity of Tongue mountain, Warren county, is said to be a section where local hunters have put a stop to deer hounding at any time by the simple process of shooting all the hounds seen on a deer trail. M. Schenck, commenting on the method of these people, says:

"I was once located near Lake St. George, between it and Lake Champlain, and I do not know of a class of citizens anywhere more devoted to the interests of game preservation than the residents of that territory. Fifteen years ago, when the deer had practically disappeared from other localities in the Adirondack forests, the deer held their own in the towns of Fort Ann and Dresden, in Washington county, through an enactment of the county board of supervisors. When the state game law was amended so as to abolish all county enactments the good people of the county were left for a brief period each year without this protection and were forced to adopt rather harsh methods to save the deer on this territory from extermination. If, as alleged, the hunters of Fort Ann and Dresden have ceased to be law-abiding citizens it is a pleasure to learn that their lawbreaking propensity has taken the mild form of an earnest endeavor to prevent the most cruel and destructive practice of hounding deer. A Dresden resident informed me years ago that that was not a healthy locality for dogs that chase deer, and I am delighted to learn that it has not since improved as a sanitarium for the beasts. The statement that the deer are saved from the hounds for the cruster is utterly false. The number of deer about Dresden now speaks well for the unwritten still-hunting law that forbids other and more destructive methods.—N. Y. Sun.

Fortifying Himself.

"Perhaps you prefer the heaviest weight of flannels?"

"I think I would. You see, I'm courting a girl whose father is experimenting with a new furnace."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A LITTLE STORY!

About a special fine lot of Hamburgh Embroideries which has just been received by us and put on sale.

They were made by a large manufacturer in St. Gall, Switzerland, and were the odds and ends of the factory.

THE PRICE IS JUST 1/2

the usual price asked.

They come from the narrow edge to 10 inches wide, the work being 5 inches wide on some of them. You will find them on three centre tables on the right-hand aisle as you enter the store.

ONE TABLE IS 5 Cts a Yard,
ONE TABLE IS 10 Cts a Yard, and
ONE TABLE IS 15 Cts a Yard.

They had not been on exhibition only a short time when one lady's attention was called to them and she purchased about $15 worth in a few minutes.

They sell quick at sight. They can't be duplicated. If you want any of them come in quick.

Remember we are clearing out all our heavy winter stock now, and you will find plenty of

Real Bargains

all through the store. We are preparing another surprise for you, and in a few days you will know about it.

EDSALL'S.

The Strongest Claim

We make for the superiority of our

Demulcent Cream

OF

Witch Hazel

is that the people who have used it say it is the most efficient

TOILET REQUISITE

they ever used. For chapped hands it is unequalled.

Price 25c a Jar.

Leggett's Pharmacy,

Y. M. C. A. Building. Telephone No. 4.

WE WANT FEET

to fit our shoes. The invisible cork sole ones are particularly appraprate this season of the year. We're selling them at right prices.

Doane & Edsall.

Store closes at 6, Saturday 10 p. m.

Last Edition. # THE DAILY PRESS Last Edition

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JANUARY 15, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

THE MYSTERY OF EVIL.

A Cultured Audience Hear Prof. John Fiske's Lecture.

WITHOUT GOOD WE'D NOT HAVE EVIL.

If We Had Never Known Anything but Good, Said Prof. Fiske, How Could we Distinguish Evil, for There Must be Contrast in Knowledge of All Things.

The audience that gathered at the Y. M. C. A. hall last evening to hear Prof. John Fiske, of Cambridge, was a cultured one, and genuine appreciation was evident. The subject of the lecture was "The Mystery of Evil in the Light of the Doctrine of Evolution." The speaker has an august appearance and he was warmly received by the audience. He was introduced by Charles W. McCutchen who, on behalf of the Club of Current Events, under whose auspices these lectures are given, thanked all for the hearty support accorded.

A portion of the speaker's remarks follow:

"What I have to say concerning evil was suggested to me several years ago by the text found in Genesis which reads 'Your eyes shall be opened and ye shall be as gods knowing good and evil.'

"Too often has the cry come from the old world that there is no God. And it is said that if such a being does exist why does he permit pain and suffering, when the very meaning of God is love. Plato has said that the world is an imperfect realization of the divine idea, and that it is the best that could be made out of the material at hand. Some have had the idea that the creator of the world was an inferior imitation of God without sufficient force to shape it as it should be, while others have thought it was created by the devil.

"In recent times, fast ceasing to be recent, these views are passing away. The advance of modern science has brought about a belief in the all-wise and never-changing Father. In nature there is nothing out of place, and today we realize that whatever function there is, it is an indispensable function. If we had never known anything but good how would we distinguish the evil, or in other words how can we have good without evil?

"To have any knowledge of things in general there must be a contrast, however slight. This fact is deeply rooted and it is not superficial, but a fundamental truth. We are unconscious regarding the pressure of atmosphere until we reach the lofty heights. And so it must be with everything else, there must be a contrast that we may recognize the difference.

"It is a happy world that has sorrow and pain, good and evil, for it is a part and parcel of the universe. For strong men and women, the Garden of Eden would be a fool's paradise. We should strive to diminish suffering as much as possible, and sin should not be cherished. Morality comes forth when there is an alternative offered. Conscience keeps people from wrong doing and gives them a yearning for the highest attainments in life. Moral evil is characteristic of a lower plain of living, but its absence would mean stagnation. We recognize the difference between good and evil, but evil must be present. As man comes nearer to God evil disappears.

"The mystery of evil is a mystery still, and it belongs among the profound harmonies of God's creatures."

At the close of Prof. Fiske's lecture hearty applause was given, and many remained to personal meet the renowned speaker.

Through the efforts of the club, under whose auspices the lecture was given, the platform was arranged attractively for the occasion. The next lecture by Prof. Fiske will be given Thursday evening, January 21st, at the same place.

SALVATIONISTS' CAMP-MEETING.

A Series of Mid-winter Services to be Held in This City.

The Salvation Army have arranged for a mid-winter camp-meeting to be held in their barracks on West Second street, January 16th to 26th, inclusive, at which many noted leaders in the organization will conduct services. The programme arranged is as follows:

Saturday, 16th, 8 p. m., and Sunday, 17th, 11 a. m., 3 and 8 p. m., Brigadier Geo. French.
Monday, 18th, 3 p. m., Ensign Virgin and Captain Riggs; 8 p. m., Mr. Randolph and East Third Street mission workers.
Tuesday, 19th, 3 and 8 p. m., Major Brengle and Rev. S. L. Brengle.
Wednesday, 20th, 3 and 8 p. m., Ensigns Bussell and Dean.
Thursday, 21st, 3 p. m., Ensign Virgin and Captain Riggs; 8 p. m., Ensign Elizabeth Clark. Subject—"Slum and Rescue Work in America."
Friday, 22d, 3 p. m., Miss Jennie Stimson; 8 p. m., Plainfield Christian Endeavorers.
Saturday, 23d, 3 p. m., Major Edith Marshall. Great children's meeting; 8 p. m., Major Edith Marshall.
Sunday, 24th, 11 a. m., 3 and 8 p. m., Major Edith Marshall.
Monday, 25th, 3 p. m., Mrs. Ensign Anderson, formerly Captain Walden; 8 p. m., Ensign and Mrs. Anderson.
Tuesday, 26th, 3 p. m., Ensign Virgin and Captain Riggs; 8 p. m., great graphaphone entertainment.

TROLLEY TALK ON ALL SIDES.

ROAD FROM SOMERVILLE ASSURED.

New Company Backed by Men of Wealth and Practical Experience.

There is again evidences that the trolley road is to invade the territory around Somerville. The Central Traction Company, which received the franchise to build the road, has sold out to the Raritan Construction Company, composed of Philadelphia capitalists. A representative of the new company told the Somerville Unionist-Gazette the other day that the road from Raritan to New Brunswick would be built just as soon the weather would permit. The next track laid will be from Bound Brook to Dunellen. They will also build a line in Fanwood so that there will be a trolley line right through to Fanwood. The time, he says, will not be very much slower than than the steam cars and the price much less.

An application was made to the Somerset Board of Freeholders, this week, for permission to build an abutment south of the Peter's brook bridge and to cross the bridge at Bound Brook. The application was referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Lutkins, Schomp, Van Cleef and Logan with power to act. The Bound Brook Council also have been asked for certain grants.

The new company is said to have plenty of capital and the managers are said to be practical railroad men.

LOVED AND WEDDED TWICE

WM. PRYOR'S SECOND PLUNGE INTO THE MATRIMONIAL SEA.

His First Cruise Was Beset With the Trials of Marrying Another Man's Wife—Now He Finds Happiness Again.

When Cupid gets in his fine work everything else sinks into oblivion and the cold and heartless world has no attractions for the two hearts that beat as one.

Thus it was with Wm. Pryor, of West Third street, and Miss Ella Stevens, his housekeeper. They have been associated for some time and William thought it was about time that the two hearts were made as one. Last evening was the time set for the tying of the matrimonial knot and the hour was 9 o'clock. Everything was in waiting and the guests had been invited.

Previous to the appointed hour the groom called on Rev. Mr. Groves, pastor of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, and asked him if he would perform the ceremony. The reverend begged to be excused, for reasons he did not like to mention. The groom was not going to be discouraged by this failure, so he sought Rev. Mr. Johnson, pastor of the Fillmore Avenue Baptist church, and after explaining the circumstances the latter agreed to officiate.

In the meantime the guests had assembled and were waiting for the return of the groom and the minister which was close to the scheduled time.

Those on the outside who had failed to get an invitation to the wedding shook their heads and said that the affair would not come off. This announcement startled some who wanted to know the reason. It was then whispered that the groom was a married man, having joined the benedicts several years ago, and could not legally be married again. No one appeared to offer objections to the union and the ceremony was performed in the presence of about 70 guests.

Nathan Pollard and William Fisher served in the capacity of best men. The wedding passed off without a hitch of any kind and the festivities came to an end about 12 o'clock.

This morning a Daily Press reporter called on the groom to make inquiries concerning the reports regarding his previous marriage.

An expression of merriment appeared on his countenance, when he replied: "Well, sah, dar is some peoples dat's been tryin' to make truble for dis yere coon and dey can't do it. 'Bout five yar 'go, sah, I'se mar'ed a woman who fooled me by sayin' dat her husban' was dead. After I gets mar'ed, sah, she done tells me dat her husban' was libin in de souf. We didn't live togeder long foh she left town. De deacon dat mar'ed us gave no cutifcawte so de marrwage don't count. There war no witnesses and she don't want to boher dis honey. I'se tell you right yere. I'se could't help bein' fooled, but if she done comes 'round there's g'wine to be truble."

All the time the happy groom was talking his face beamed with joy over the event of last evening, and with a broad expression of southern dialect he told how he had fooled 'em.

The couple received many handsome presents, and from all appearances they will live in supreme bliss and happiness.

THE ARK OF SALVATION

To Be Saved You Must Get In; Not Stay Around It.

SADDEST ROAD TO HADES DESCRIBED

Rev. J. W. Richardson Argues With the Unconverted to Take the Step of Declaring Themselves Servants of God and Then Living Up to His Commands and be Saved.

The union services were continued in the First Baptist church last evening. In spite of the rather unpleasant weather, the young people's prayer meeting, held in the lecture room by the Christian Endeavor Society before the preaching service, was well attended, and was a very solemn and earnest meeting. The leader was D. E. Titsworth, and the subject "Witness-bearing." A spirit of prayer pervaded the meeting, and many earnest prayers were offered for the blessing of God upon the meeting that was to follow, and upon the city, that many might turn to Him. The leader urged a deeper consecration on the part of the Christian young people of the city, that their lives might witness for the Lord, and that they might be always ready to speak for Him.

At the preaching service held in the auditorium of the church at 8 o'clock, the music was led by members of the Christian Endeavor chorus, with Howard Case as organist. The opening prayer, very fervent and solemn, was offered by Rev. J. O. McKelvey. Scaipture reading by Rev. J. W. Richardson and prayer by Rev. H. J. Johnston followed, then the sermon of the evening was preached by Mr. Richardson. His text was taken from the seventh chapter of Genesis.

Noah, he said, had he lived in our day, would have been shut up by his relatives in some lunatic asylum. He built his gigantic ship, getting the work done because he paid good prices, probably, and preached repentance to the people with all his might. But the people looked into the clear sky, and at the smiling face of nature, and laughed. The work done, for the last time Noah passes among his workmen, and preaches "Repent ye, repent ye!" and begs them them to come into the ark. They have been very near the ark, but when he asks them to take one step, and be safe, they tell him he is mad; the men of science have given them no indication of any such catastrophe as he predicted. When the rain descended, and the floods came, we can imagine those men who had worked on the ark clinging to its sides, and imploring Noah to let them in. They had been very close to the ark, and had had the opportunity to be safe within it. But God had shut the door, and they were left outside. Nearness to the ark could not save them, and nearness to the ark of salvation cannot save us. We sing the songs of Zion, we gather in the church week after week; we engage in Christian service. We are very near the ark of salvation, but are we inside, or are we depending for safety on our nearness to it? The saddest road to Hades is that which leads past the pulpit, through the prayer-meeting, past the Bible.

The workmen were sufficiently in earnest to get into the ark after the flood came. It is not enough to be in earnest; we must be in earnest at the right time. When God appoints a time for repentance he wants men to repent then. God calls you tonight, by these prayers and the influences of this meeting, to come into the ark. But you say to yourselves, "Where are the signs of His coming?" If we find ourselves overwhelmed by the flood, we shall remember that we have had all these things set before us again and again.

The invitation is broad; you can bring all your dear ones with you into the ark if you can persuade them to come. But how can you expect them to be interested in something in which you show but little interest yourself?

God has provided the ark; you are not asked to come in because of your own merits, but because Christ died for you. Come in; be in earnest at the right time; do not stand arguing foolish questions "The Spirit and the bride say come, and let him that heareth say come."

At the close of the sermon the service took the form of an after-meeting. Fervent prayers were offered, beseeching God's blessing, and that He would prepare His people to receive it; and requests for prayer and promises of renewed consecration were made by rising. The whole service was unusually impressive and spiritual and showed a deep spirit of earnestness to be abroad among the Christian workers of the city.

—A masquerade ball will be given in Saenger and Turner hall, Monday evening, March 1st. It will be a very elaborate affair.

DAME GOSSIP CAPTURED

Author of Stories About Rev. E. Kionka Makes a Confession.

SHE IS A MEMBER OF THE CHURCH.

Miss Amelia Miller the Young Woman Charged With Being the Original Purveyor—Started in a Moment of Thoughtlessness and Now Bitterly Repents It.

Rev. Edward Kionka has at last discovered the one who was the originator of the false stories that were spread among his congreation during his absence in Philadelphia, and which caused him to hand in his resignation as pastor of the German Lutheran church of this city as soon as he heard them. Not only has the guilty one been found but she has apoligized personally and has made a written confession in which she admits that the rumors eminated from her and are false in all particulars. In it she apoligizes to the pastor and to the others whom the scandalous stories included. This written statement will be read at the church next Sunday in front of the congregation to completely clear Rev. Mr. Kionka from all intimated stories that have been flying broadcast among them.

When Mr. Kionka beard the scandalous stories that were current about him, he was justly indignant, and has been working to trace them to their source. He was succesful, and found that they had been started by a young German woman in the congregation who had always been very fond of the minister and had assisted him in the church work. She had started the stories not realizing what the effect would be or how they would be magnified as they passed from one to another. She says she had no wish to drive him from the church, as the stories were started in a moment of thoughtlessness, for which she now bitterly repents.

The young woman's name is Miss Amelia Miller, and when confronted by her pastor and charged with being the author of the stories, she confessed at once and her grief became almost uncontrollable. She made an abject apology to him, and then at his request made the written statement mentioned above, which was written in German in the presence of Rev. Mr. Kionka, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Eble and Andrew Zeisz, members of the consistory. It will be read next Sunday morning in the church by Mr. Eble.

Mr. Kionka will resume his school tomorrow morning and will leave in the afternoon for Norristown, Pa., where he will preach on Sunday. Then he will return to Plainfield and settle up his affairs in this city and occupy the pulpit in his old church for the last two Sundays in this month.

Rev. Mr. Kuehne, of New York, will occupy the pulpit of the German Lutheran church next Sunday, and it is considered likely that he will be called by the church to succeed Rev. Mr. Kionka.

ARRANGED BY YOUNG FRIENDS.

Pleasant Surprise Party Given to Miss Annabella McAffee.

A very pleasant surprise party was given to Miss Annabella McAffee at her home on Berkman street last evening. It was gotten up by some of her young friends and was a complete surprise to her. The evening was spent in playing games, singing and recitations, interspersed with instrumental music.

Those present were the Misses Katie Ryan, Clara Weber, Alice Sharkey, Nellie Callahan, Lucy Jennings, Lillian and Florence Scribner, Katie Kelly, Annie Callahan, Katie Monroe, Alice McAffee, and Masters Walter Sharkey, John Callahan, Leonard Jennings, John Ryan, Henry Roche, Henry Kiederling, Joseph Roche, Chester Allen, Charles and Edward Montross, William and Harold Gloak, Daniel McAffee, Fred Wilbee and Raymond Scribner.

Officers Installed.

Deputy Grand Master VanDuzen, of Rahway, installed the officers elect of Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., last evening. The work was performed in a highly creditably manner by the state officer who complimented the members of the lodge for their excellent showing. There was one initiation and one proposition was received. In the good of the order refreshments were served, followed by a smoker.

A Surprise in Store.

The members of Warren Engine Company are requested to appear at the engine house, Tuesday evening, February 2d, in full evening dress, at which time the newly-married members will have something to communicate to them. It is said that one member is somewhat puzzled to know just where he can get a suit.

—MacDonald's 15 cent coffee is a leader sure.

YOUNG MAN AT THE HELM.

A. O. H PRESIDENT P. CASEY RETIRES.

Had Filled the Office With Credit For Twenty-Five Years.

The recently elected officers in the A. O. H. were installed last night at Amphion Hall on West Second street with great pomp, and many of the members of the Plainfield lodge, as well as a number of visitors from Elizabeth, Westfield and Newark, were in atttendance. The officers were installed by County President Canty and State President Waldron, who performed the ceremony with great impressiveness. The officers installed were as follows: President, Edward Burmingham; vice-president, Edward Ryan; recording secretary, William McCarthy; financial secretary, P. J. McDonough; treasurer, Michael Nugent; sergeant-at-arms, William Casey.

After the installation all those present sat down to a banquet. There were 125 that were seated around the table, and after the inner man had been satisfied, speeches and recitations by the different members followed. It was the close of the term of Patrick Casey as president, after serving faithfully for many years, and the members united in thanking him for his services in the past, and wishing him success in the future. His resignation was caused by the fact that he wanted to give the younger members a chance, and he responded to the thanks of his fellow members with a neat little speech.

PLENTY OF ACQUA PURA.

THERE IS NO NEED TO FEAR A WATER FAMINE HEREABOUTS.

Supt. Andrews of the Water Company Says That the Wells Have Been Driven Lower and There is a Plentiful Supply.

Of late there has been several rumors afloat that the water supply in this city is getting low, and to ascertain the true facts, a Daily Press reporter made inquiries concerning the same. Superintendent Amos Andrews said that the rumors were without foundation in every particular. He also said that the supply is greater this year than it was one year ago.

After the establishment of the works it was learned that the pumps were set too high to do efficient work, and in consequence they were lowered. One well was driven lower for an experiment and four new wells were put in. Outside of that nothing has been done to increase the supply.

At present Plainfield is using about 600,000 gallons daily. In the summer the consumption is about double. For sometime past Elizabeth has had but precious little water from Plainfield, owing to the establishment of their own system of water works at "The Hummocks."

WILL HOLD 6,000 TONS OF ICE.

Immense Storage House of the Ice Company Just Finished.

The big ice-house of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company at Washingtonville has been completed and is now ready for its store of ice to supply the homes of Plainfield. The building is a large one, being 150 feet long by 65 feet wide and 35 feet high. It will hold 6,000 tons of ice and is the largest in the neighborhood.

The ice on Wilson's pond, on the banks of which the ice house is built, is now frozen to the depth of eight inches, all good ice without snow, and the work of cutting it will begin next week. It will be stored in the new ice hose.

A FAMILY FATED WITH MISHAPS

One Brother Has an Eye Shot Out and Another Cuts Off His Toe.

Hezekiah Ryno, of Three Bridges, met with a serious accident last Tuesday while chopping wood in the barn yard of his home. He was hard at work when his axe slipped and struck his foot severing one toe from the foot. He straightway removed the shoe and then took care of the extra toe, after which he dressed the wound without consulting a doctor and returned to his work around the farm.

His brother had his eye accidentally shot out with a bullet from a Flobert rifle in the hands of one of his friends some time ago, as was told in the Press at the time.

Not Much Encouragement.

Agents of the newly incorporated Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railwas Company were in Westfield yesterday seeking consents of property owners to pass along North avenue. They did not meet with much encouragement, as the property owners are almost a unit in opposing the use of the county roads by a street railway.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of Warren chapel have shipped three barrels of useful articles to missionaries in the far west.

J. L. EDSALL SELLS OUT

Commercial Palace Bought by a Morristown Firm

TO TAKE POSSESSION MARCH 15TH.

Woodhull and Martin, the Buyers, Conduct a Large Store in Morristown and Are Well-Known in the Dry Goods Trade—Mr. Edsall to Enjoy a Vacation.

One of the largest, if not the largest, purely commercial changes that has ever taken place in this city was consummated yesterday when legal papers was signed by J. Linn Edsall for the transfer of Edsall's Commercial Palace, in the Babcock building, to Messrs. Woodhull & Martin, of Morristown. Possession will be given March 15th. The new firm owns a large and prosperous dry goods business in Morristown that is conducted on about the same lines as the Commercial Palace, and are classed as among the most substantial and up-to-date merchants in the New Jersey dry goods trade.

It was known to Mr. Edsall that these gentlemen were desirous of acquiriug possession of his business when they inspected the store two years ago, but yesterday was the first time that they had come to the practical point of making an offer for it. The offer was such a satisfactory one to Mr. Edsall, that his father, Seeley Edsall, who founded the business, advised that it be accepted. For the past six months J. Linn Edsall's health has been very poor and the elder Mr. Edsall felt that his son's constitution was not strong enough to stand the strain of close attention to such a large business much longer, and he did not care to again assume the business himself. Linn Edsall will take a much needed vacation for a few months before again entering into active business life.

It will be noticed by the advertisement in another part of this paper that one of the conditions of the sale is that during the time from now to the time of the new firm taking possession of the store, the stock must be greatly reduced, and in order to do so everything in the store is to be sold at cost or below cost.

Seeley Edsall began his mercantile career as a clerk in a Newark dry goods house. After remaining there for some time, he went into the wholesale notion business with a Mr. Price, of Newark, and they conducted a store on Market street, Newark. In about 1875 they bought out James E. White, of Plainfield, and opened a dry goods and notion store in the building on East Front street, now occupied by Moore's butcher shop. They remained together for about seven years and then dissolved partnership, Mr. Price taking the Newark wholesale store and Mr. Edsall the Plainfield establishment. They had in the meantime moved up to West Front street to the store now occupied by Edward White and remained there two years before separating. Then Mr. Edsall conducted the business in that store until three years ago when he moved to his present quarters in the Babcock building.

Last summer Mr. Edsall disposed of the business to his son, the present proprietor.

MORTGAGE WIPED OUT.

The Relief Association Now Entirely Clear of Debt.

The Relief Association takes great pleasure in announcing that the mortgage, which has rested on its building for the past year, has been entirely payed off. Several smaller subscriptions have been made within the past few days in addition to the one most generous contribution of $500 which was received from a lady who has been interested in the association since its formation. The officers and board of managers wish to offer their sincere thanks to all the kind friends who have relieved them of this heavy burden.

No Tangible Evidence.

The fire, water and lamps committee of the borough council met last evening and investigated as far as possible the matter of false fire alarms in the borough. No evidence was produced to warrant the committee in going ahead with the invsstigation.

Ministrels Date Changed.

It has been definitely settled that the Crescent Wheelmen's minstrel show will be given in Music Hall, Wednesday evening, February 3d. The date was fixed this morning by the committee in charge.

—The consistory of Trinity Reformed church met last evening at the home of J. P. Laire, on East Fifth street, and transacted routine business. There was only one member absent.

—Try MacDonald's 35 cent tea; it has no equal.

SHERMAN AT CANTON

The Next Secretary of State Calls on the President-elect.

WENT TO CANTON BY INVITATION

Secretary of the Treasury Portfolio Not Likely To Go to New York---The New England Field Scanned---Ex-Gov. Long's Name Mentioned.

Canton, O., Jan. 15.—The statement made by C. N. Bliss of New York to the effect that he was not a member of Major McKinley's cabinet expresses the situation tersely. The reason that Mr. Bliss will not enter the cabinet is said not to be a political one. The withdrawal of Mr. Bliss from the list of cabinet possibilities leaves the situation open so far as the choice of a cabinet officer from New York is concerned. Major McKinley has not selected a New York republican for his cabinet and there is no reason to believe he will be in a hurry to do so; indeed the impression is prevalent here that one of the last members of the cabinet to be chosen will be the representative from the state of New York. Gossip, which is never idle, plays to-day with unwonted vivacity about the name of Gen. Stewart D. Woodford of Brooklyn. The president-elect knows him exceedingly well and thinks highly of him. Another New York republican who is discussed somewhat as a cabinet possibility to-day is Hon. J. Sloat Fassett. If Major McKinley has any one in mind from New York he has given no signs. Major McKinley's next task will probably be that of choosing a secretary of the treasury, and the chances are that this position will not go to New York. The New England field was scanned for cabinet possibilities yesterday by the president-elect, who invited Senator Henry Cabot Lodge to consult with him upon the subject. Senator Lodge said: "I am not a candidate for a cabinet position. I am satisfied to be a senator from Massachusetts. We talked about ex-Gov. Long and others. Gov. Long is every highly esteemed by the people of our commonwealth and Major McKinley is considering ex-Gov. Long for his cabinet and the chances are that he will become a member of it though a portfolio has not been tendered him." Representative W. F. Draper, who has been referred to as a cabinet possibility, will not be considered in that connection, as he desires a foreign appointment. Senator Sherman, as was stated yesterday in these dispatches, has been tendered and has accepted the portfolio of state. This announcement may be considered conclusive. There is no room for doubt or for further discussion of the subject, except as an established and accepted fact. The belief is widespread that Chairman Hanna will succeed Mr. Sherman in the senate. C. G. Kendall of Chicago called on Major McKinley last evening and received his orders for the vehicles which will be used in Washington. A landau, a cabriolet and a brougham were ordered. The vehicles will be of the best material and workmanship. Senator Sherman came to Canton to-day and consulted with Major McKinley. It is said his visit was made at the request of the president-elect.

THEIR DEATH DUE TO ACCIDENT.

Secretary Ferguson and Printer McKenna Left the Gas Turned on.

New York, Jan. 15.—There is no further doubt that the death by asphyxiation yesterday in the Hotel Ulmer on 125th street of William Ferguson and James McKenna was the result of an accident, and that they did not turn on the gas with suicidal intent. Mr. Ferguson was one of the best known printers in the country. He had been secretary and treasurer of Typographical Union No. 6 for seven years, and was very popular. He was a delegate to the International Typographical convention in Buffalo in 1887, and was a recognized leader in the councils of the convention. Through his work as the secretary of Big Six, Mr. Ferguson was known in every city of the country. Mr. McKenna, too, was widely known and popular. He was sent as a delegate to the convention in Boston, and was at one time first vice-president of the International Typographical union.

Chili's Population.

Panama, Jan. 3, via New York, Jan. 15.—The Panama Star and Herald says: The first census of the republic of Chili was taken, in 1835, when the returns gave a total population of 1,010,332. The population is now given as 2,712,445. From 1875 to 1885 the increase was 457,349. Since then the increase has been only 184,000.

Yang Yu's Successor.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The Chinese minister, Yang Yu, called at the state department yesterday to announce that Wu Ting Fang had been appointed to succeed him, and that he had been promoted to Russia. He expected his successor late in March, at which time he should himself depart for St. Petersburg.

To Resume Work Next Monday.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 15.—The Robesonia furnace, which has been out of blast nine months, will be started up next Monday, giving employment to 200 hands. The furnace is the largest in eastern Pennsylvania and produces over 1,000 tons of pig iron weekly.

Sues for $45,000 Salary.

Providence, Jan. 15.—Joseph Banigan has begun a suit for $45,000 against the United States Rubber company to recover an amount due him as salary in the office of president of the company and member of the executive committee.

PLATT FOR SENATOR

Nominated by Republican Caucus at Albany Last Night.

RECEIVED 142 OF THE 149 VOTES CAST

Joseph H. Choate, the Only Other Candidate, Received the Other Seven---Names of Those Who Opposed Mr. Platt's Candidancy.

Albany, Jan. 15.—Hon. Thomas Collier Platt was last night nominated for United States senator by the republican members of the legislature in joint caucus. His name was not presented for the consideration of the caucus. The only candidate placed in nomination was Joseph H. Choate of New York city. The nomination was made just a half hour after the caucus convened. Of the 149 republicans votes cast Mr. Platt received 142, although his name was not mentioned in the caucus until after the roll call for the selection of a nominee had commenced. Such a condition has never before been presented in party politics in New York state. Mr. Platt has all along said that he was not a candidate and the programme carried out by the party leaders last night was in deference to his request. His name was not placed in nomination and it was the evident intention of the leaders to show that it was not necessary to do this, as one of the prominent republican leaders said: "We will let Mr. Choate's friends do the talking and we will do the voting." This was apparent in the result. Mr. Choate only received seven votes, but this was four more than Mr. Platt's friends had figured out for him. Mr. Choate's supporters were Senators Brush of Brooklyn, Pavey of New York and Tibbitts of Rensselaer and Assemblymen Bates of Tompkins, Lambier of New York, Robbins of Allegany and Sanger of Oneida. Some surprise was manifesied when Senator Tibbitts, who represents Governor Black's district, voted for Choate. There was but one absent senator, Wray of Brooklyn. Mackay of Delaware was the absent assemblyman, having been excused on account of the death of his father. Senator Wray was delayed by his train being late. He arrived soon after adjournment, and said he would have voted for Mr. Platt had he been present. Senator Brush placed the Hon. Joseph H. Choate in nomination, and this was seconded by Assemblyman Sanger of Oneida. Senator Raines then offered a resolution which was unanimously adopted to the surprise of every one in the chamber who had expected to see Mr. Platt's name formally presented. This was Mr. Raines's resolution: That the roll of the members of this caucus be called by the secretaries and as each man's name is called he rise in his place and name his choice for United States senator, and that the person receiving a majority of the votes of all the republican senators and members elected be the unanimous choice by this caucus and be voted for in the senate and assembly by every member thereof. The balloting then proceeded with but few interruptions. Senator Ford's vote for Mr. Platt was received with favor. When Senator Tibbits cast his vote for Joseph H. Choate there was a feeble handclapping from the ladies' gallery. Assemblyman J. J. Sullivan of New York caused much amusement. When his name was called he arose and said: "A voice from the Bowery—Thomas Collier Platt." At the conclusion of the roll call it was announced that 149 votes had been cast, of which Joseph H. Choate received seven and Thomas C. Platt 142. Mr. Platt's nomination was then made unanimous. The name of Chester S. Lord was then presented for regent of the university, made vacant by the death of Hon. W. L. Bostwick, and as no other name was presented the secretary was directed to cast one ballot for the caucus for Mr. Lord. This was done and the caucus adjourned.

THE PLATT BANQUET.

Some of His Former Colleagues in the Senate Among the Special Guests Invited.

Albany, Jan. 15.—State Treasurer Calvin, who is president of the State League of Republican clubs, under whose auspices the banquet is to be given in this city January 26, in honor of the United States senator-elect, announces that the following, who were members of the United States senate with Hon. Thomas C. Platt during the latter's former term, have been invited to the banquet as special guests: Orville H. Platt, Joseph R. Hawley, Benjamin Harrison, James Wilson McDill, William B. Alison, John J. Ingalls, William Pitt Kellogg, William P. Frye, Eugene Hale, George F. Hoar, Oscar D. Conger, Samuel J. R. McMillen, Alvin Saunders, J. P. Jones, Henry W. Blair, William J. Sewall, J. Donald Cameron, John I. Mitchell, Nelson W. Aldrich, Justin S. Morrill, George F. Edmunds and Philetus Sawyer. Ex-Governor Cornell and ex-Governor Morton, the only living republican ex-governors of this state, have also received special guest's invitations, as have also the following republican governors of eastern states: Governors Llewellyn Powers of Maine, Daniel H. Hasting of Pennsylvania, John W. Griggs of New Jersey, Loren A. Cook of Connecticut, George A. Ramsdell of New Hompshire, Roger A. Wolcott of Massachusetts, G. W. Atkinson of West Virginia, Charles W. Lippitt of Rhode Island, Josiah Grout of Vermont, Lloyd Lowndes of Maryland and Asa Bushnell of Ohio.

Drowned While Skating.

Schenectady, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Joseph Gill, aged about 14 years, while skating on Mohawk river late yesterday afternoon, lay down on his stomach at the edge of an opening cut by ice harvesters to get a drink. He lost his balance, fell in and was drowned.

PERILS OF EDUCATION.

The Old Mountaineer Found It a Troublesome Thing.

"Speakin' 'bout eddecashun," said the old mountaineer as we sat on a log at his door smoking our pipes, "speakin' 'bout this yere eddecashun that yo' git outer skules and books and papers, I never could abide it."

"Most people believe in education," I replied.

"Let 'em believe. That very bizness of book-larnin' is the cause of my hevin' a second wife, this ole shackelty cabin, an' of my son Tom bein' the Lord knows whar'!"

"I would like to hear your story."

"Wall, I hain't no objecksbuns to tellin' it, and mebbe it'll prove a warnin' to yo' not to try to be too powerful smart. Yo' see, I had a son Tom, and he was so cute that everybody said I orter send him down to Knoxville to be eddecated. I was jest fule 'nuff to do it, and things turned out as might nev bin expected!"

"Did he go to the bad?"

"No, not that, but he sent the rest of us thar'. Arter he'd bin down thar' 'bout two y'ars he cums home one day on a visit. We was livin' three miles up the road then. I had a mighty good log house jest at the foot of what we call Coon mountain. Way up on the top of the mountain was a thumpin' big rock, standin' thar' all alone by itself. Tom had seed that rock a dozen times before this day I'm speakin' of, but wasn't idiot 'nuff to meddle with it. Wall, when he cum home he begun to talk about nateral science, nateral philosophy, fulcrums, levers and all sich, and bimeby he said he was eddecated 'nuff to tip that big rock over. Sez I to him, sez I: 'Tom, don't be a-crowin' over your old dad. Eddecashun can't tip over rocks no mo' than it kin raise co'n stalks 20 feet high.'"

"But it can," I said, as he shook his head and sighed heavily.

"Yes, I found out that she could. Tom he talked till he got me riled up, and I jest told him that if he could tip that rock over with his own hands I'd gin him a mewl colt. He grins and chuckles and says he'll 'stonish me, and I'm free to say that he did. The onery critter toted his fulcrums and levers and nateral philosophy up the mountain and went to work on that rock. One arternoon, when I was hoein' co'n and cussin' the poor quality of the sile, sunthin' happened."

"The rock moved, I presume?"

"She did, stranger—she did! Natural philosophy was too much fur her, and she rolled over and took a start. She was jest in line with the house, but we hadn't thought o' that. I heard a noise like the heels of 10,000 mewls a-kickin' on a barn-door to once, and I looked up to see that ole 50-toner a-comin'. The ole woman was in the cabin a-singin' 'Happy Day' and patchin' my trousers and she didn't hear me holler. The rock made a bee-line fur the cabin, smashin' and crashin' and makin' the airth tremble, and when she struck it was like the fall of 50 big trees to once."

"And your wife—?"

"Never even found a piece of her! Everything was carried across the road into a ravine 50 feet deep, and I could never be exactly sartin of the spot whar' the cabin stood."

"And what became of Tom?"

"Run away, and I've never sot eyes on him sence. Dasn' face me arter that, I reckon, though I got over my madness arter a bit. I had to build this yere cabin, git spliced to that ar' woman inside and lose my only son, all on account of what they calls eddecashun, and yo' can't wonder I'm agin it. Yes, I'm powerful down on eddecashun. Stranger, be yo' one of them eddicated critters?"

"I can't say I am."

"Then it's all right, and you kin hev the best bed in the house and roast chicken fur breakfast! If yo' was eddecated, however, I'd be bound to say you'd better hitch up and move on."—Detroit Free Press.

BRIGHTEN THE KITCHEN.

Light and Air Dispose of Microbes and Infection.

The disposition to have everything about the house bright and cheerful has been growing noticeably of late, and it is a most commendable tendency. It ought to be cultivated regarding the kitchen, especially, in connection with the other working and living-rooms of the household. One of the daily papers strikes a blow in the right direction when it says: "The kitchen should be—for health's sake, if for no other—the brightest room in the house, excepting only the nursery and the room where the children sleep. It should have every convenience for saving labor and steps and be well ventilated. It need not be a very large room if everything is compactly arranged in it, and it should have the walls lined with cupboards, built in the house. The sinks should not be inclosed, or if they are a bit damp they will get smelling bad in a very short time, and nothing will ever overcome it. You will find on inquiry that in old houses, where the kitchen is poked off under the back stoop and has but one window facing on a walled-up area or north, the people of that house had always some member of the family sick. Microbes and infection love dark kitchens. — Good Housekeeping.

Liver Ills

Like biliousness, dyspepsia, headache, constipation, sour stomach, indigestion are promptly cured by Hood's Pills. They do their work easily and thoroughly. Best after dinner pills. 25 cents. All druggists. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. The only Pill to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills

Your Idea is that oatmeal is oatmeal—there can't be much difference.

But there can!

Even in ordinary oatmeals there can be a difference—good oats and good milling are better than lean and shrivelled oats and poor milling.

But oatmeal may be something more than a matter of fat groats and smart millers.

The oat in its natural state is the most nutritious of grains, but it must be adapted to man's physical needs. The starch cells—the indigestibility—must be broken.

Steam cooking will break the cells, change starch into sugar, make the indigestible digestible.

And there is such an oatmeal, steam-cooked.

H-O

is the name.

Subscriptions Free to

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly
Illustrated American (Weekly)
Truth (Weekly)
New England Magazine
Chatterbox (Monthly)
The American Kitchen Magazine
Home Magazine (Monthly)
of Binghamton, N. Y.

WITH COUPONS FROM THE

H.O.Co.'s Goods

J. C. Pope & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS,

110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

THE GRANDVIEW

Meat Market.

George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

Edwin B. Maynard,

Hair Cutting and Shampooing.

Tonsorial parlor, 304 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

Honeyman's Private Tours.

Plainfield, N. J.

To Florida, February 9—Two weeks.
To Inauguration, Washington, March 3—Two days.
To Washington, Easter Vacation, April 6—Three days.
To Europe, June 30—Two months.

Climatic Extremes

OF

NORTH and SOUTH

are blended ideally at

OLD POINT COMFORT

AND

RICHMOND, Va.,

Thus making these the most desirable places for winter outings.

They may be reached delightfully by the luxurious and modern steamships of the

Old Dominion Line

Sailing every week day from New York.

Send for full information.

Old Dominion S. S. Co.

Pier 26, North River, New York.

W. L. GUILLAUDEU, Vice-Pres't & Traffic Mgr
12 17-6 m

MULLINS & SONS

218-220 Market St., Newark.

BIG SALE

OF

PARLOR SUITS AND CARPETS.

Handsome New Parlor Suits, upholstered in Brocatelle, Silk Tapestry, Mohair, Plush or Rug. It is worth while your time to see them even if you do not intend to buy.

$25 $25

Such values have never before been offered. Over 100 styles to select from. No other house shows as large a stock. No other house can offer you such great values.

CARPET BARGAINS.

Tapestry Brussels 45c. yd

Milton Velvet 85c. yd

Ingrains 35c. yd

All of the highest quality of carpets and new designs.

All Parlor Suits Reduced From $2 50 up.

Don't Miss Our Great Sale of Parlor Suits.

Easy terms of credit to everybody. We will furnish your home for $1 per week. Make your own terms.

MULLINS & SONS.

218-220 Market St., Newark.

Branch Stores 78-84 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. 121-125 Newark Ave., Jersey City, N. J. 136-138 Main St., Paterson, N. J.

LAST DAYS OF

FIRE SALE!

Balance of stock of

DRY GOODS

will be closed out by

SATURDAY, JAN. 16th,

Your last chance to secure the greatest bargains ever offered in Plainfield.

LEDERER'S,

115 WEST FRONT STREET.

=BOEHM'S!=

ON SALE THIS WEEK.

MUSLINS.

At 5c. a yard, yard wide, bleached and unbleached, at 5c. a yard. At 6 3-4c., Fruit of the Loom, Androscoggan and other staple makes, yard wide, at 6 3-4c. a yard. At 15c., 2 1-2 yard wide sheeting, unbleached, regular 20c. grade, at 15c. Ladies' Muslin Underwear—Chemise, Drawers and Nightgowns, none sold for less than 39c, and some at 50c., at the uniform price of 25c. each; a limited number to each customer.

The remainder of G. A. Hallock's stock going at 1-4 their cost. $1.50 Derbys at 25c.; $1.50 Dress Shirts at 50c.; 50c. Outing Flannel Shirts at 25c.

=BOEHM'S,=

113 WEST FRONT STREET.

NEUMAN BROS., FANCY GROCERS.

A few leaders in prices. Extra quality 3-lb can Shrewsbury Asparagus, 25c. a can; Extra Asparagus Tips, 3-lb can, only 25c.; Star and Crescent Peaches, 3-lb can, 20c.; Apricots, 3-lb can, 18c. Strictly Fancy Creamery Butter a specialty. Strictly Fresh Country Eggs, Warranted Fresh.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital..... $200,000.
Surplus and Profits..... $90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier
H. M ESTIL, Vice " D. M. RUNYON, Ass't "

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter. Wm. McD. Corlell.
P. M. French. H. Mulford Estil.
Wm. M. Stillman. Isaac W. Rushmore.
J. W. Johnson. Wm. R. Codington.
F. S. Runyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

Christmas Wreaths Roping Holly, etc. Also, Palms,

Rubber Trees, Begonias, Ferns Floral Designs, House and Church Decorations. Southern Smilax at 15 days notice.

DENTON'S.

131 Hillside avenue.

A GOOD FIRE will make cheerful many of the evenings of the New Year. We'll sell you the coal—good coal—and plenty of it. We don't sell you dirt for coal. We don't sell you short measure. We want your coal trade always.

D. C. IVINS & CO.

Coal, Lumber, &c. 301-311 Watchung Ave.

CLEANER COAL.

and L. A. RHEAUME, N. H. SAXTON.

Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,

Invite the public to inspect the operation of their newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which they confidently believe enables them to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.

Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.

Kindling Wood a Specialty.

Rushmore & Co.,

WATCHUNG AVENUE, COR. FOURTH ST.

Lumber yard and Planing Mill.

Large and full assortment of lumber including 21 varities from Hemlock to Mahogany always in stock. Window frames, moulding, sash, doors and blinds. Hardwood floors a specialty. Turning and scroll sawing. We can make anything. Call and see us. Satisfaction guaranteed.

"It is Making a Hit."

FEIGENSPAN'S Finest Pale Ale IN BOTTLES, and FEIGENSPAN'S SAAZER BEER

At Hotel Grenada Bar.

The Plainfield Confectioners,

312 West Front street.

Candies from 10, 15 and 20 cents per lb. up. The very best goods. Made daily on the premises. Formerly known as the New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Comp'y. 9 9 1y

CITY HOTEL,

Plainfield, N. J.

Corner Park avenue and Second street.

I. E. Beerbower, Prop

Stables attached

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL.

No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.

Harry C. Adams, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

Have You Bought Your OVERCOAT?

If not, come to WERNER'S CLOTHING HOUSE and take advantage of the CUT SALE now going on.

STOCK MUST BE SOLD.

Hats and Furnishing Goods a Specialty.

H. WERNER Clothier,

No. 206 West Front Street.

COLD WEATHER GOODS AT

PUTNAM & DEGRAW'S

Underwear, Gloves, Hosiery, &c.

Agents for the "Golden Rule" CLOTHES RACK and IRONING TABLE, $1.00 each.

THE GREAT LIGHT,

THE WELSBACH,

WITH

IMPROVED MANTELS.

Three times Light. One-half Gas.

J. W. GAVETT.

E. H. Holmes,

Dealer in

Coal & Wood.

Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

Telephone 49-A.

Jones & Co.,

EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.

Cesspools Bui

BRAIN FOOD.

Edw. P. Thorn,

RETAIL DEALER IN

Fish, Oysters, and Clams.

Terms Cash. Goods Delivered

A. H. ENANDER,

Sanitary Plumbing,

Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.

Contractor for sewer connections.

210 PARK AVE.

CODDINGTON'S

Furniture and Freight EXPRESS.

Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country Charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed Orders may be left at Sattel's music store, 22 Park ave.

P. MARKEY, Bakery,

144 PARK AVENUE.

A full assortment of bread, cakes, and pies fresh every day. Fig and malt bread a specialty. 2 17 tf

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield January 11th, 1897.

Burke Marg't	Klenck Edward
Chase Chas A	Lavery John
Chase Geo B	Noe Miss Sarah
DeMary Mrs	Ogden Mrs Mary
Edwards Mrs Wm A	Phraner Mrs Wm W
Harkins Mrs John	Runyon Jos
Hall Mrs Benj E	Runyon Mrs E C
Hoagland Mrs El'z'th	Ryan Maggie Ann
Huffman Wm	Taller Miss Eda
Hubbard Mrs Alice A	Townsend Mis Phœbe
King Mrs Chas	Waring Mr & Mrs John

30,000 CIGARS

of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of the city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS, 206 Park Avenue, Plainfield.

8 15 tf

W. N. Pangborn,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER.

Residence, 33 Linden Ave.

Personal attention. Prompt service.

Telephone 29b

1 14 tf

Established 1878.

HOTEL TUILERIES!

AND ROGER'S RESTAURANT,

139-141 East Front street.

ROOMS TO LET. CATERING.

REVERE HOUSE

PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD New Jersey.

Families accomodated for the fall and winter months at greatly reduced prices.

The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed

GEO. B. DE REVERE

NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE

Sewer Connections.

DAVID BOWDEN,

General Contractor, 109 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J. Carriage drives macadamized, sewers and sewer connections promptly made, lawns carefully restored. All work done in a practical and skilful manner.

28 YEARS EXPERIENCE.

Best of references furnished. Charges moderate 4 18 t.

PIANOS

If you want a deep, clear, rich tone, and the best material, buy your PIANOS at W. P. BROKAW'S, Piano Parlors, 311 Madison ave. Bargains in second-hand instruments. Parlors always open. Tuning and regulating a specialty.

Your Valuables

will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

Within the reach of all.

ACCIDENT TICKETS.

THE INTER-STATE

Casualty Company of New York gives SIX MONTHS' insurance

$1.000 for $1.00,

to men or women

between 18 and 60 years of age, against accidental death. $100,000 deposited with the Insurance Department of the State of New York for the security of the insured.

For sale at office of

Honeyman's Private Tours,

181 North Ave. Plainfield, N.J.

6 25-6 mos

McCullough's STEAM MILL,

21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.

R. H. McCullough, Prop.

Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,

Real Estate and Insurance,

197 North avenue

The Visiting Cards

that I furnish on engraving orders are the best that I know anything about and I pay 20 per cent more than the price of the "just as good kind." Each order delivered in a handsome white enameled box. Plate and 50 cards, name only, $1.25. 50 cards from your plate, 50c.

R. C. RAND'S,

140 West Front street.

BAKERY,

No. 132 Park Avenue.

Fine Bread, Cake, Pastry and Pies of all kinds. All orders promptly attended. A share of the public patronage is respectfully solicited.

S. H. Schleif, Proprietor.

1 7 1y

E. D. BARRETT,

No. 148 East 5th St.

Sole Agent for the

Richmond Heaters.

STEAM and HOT WATER. SANITARY PLUMBING

Boots, Shoes & Rubbers.

AT

FORCE'S,

119 West Front St.

Formerly 129 Park Ave. 49 tf

L. A. HUMMER'S

VARIETY MARKET.

Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.

130 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

Rushton, Hansen & Luthman,

PAINTERS AND PAPER HANGERS,

Office and shop Sycamore and 4th sts.

Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

Potter & Kellogg,

DEALERS IN

Lehigh Valley Coal.

Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard—At Mt. Pleasant, Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1-y

The Metropolitan Boarding Stables

C. V. D. CORLE. - - - - Proprietor

No. 138 East Second street. Livery and Boarding and Sale Stable. Horses boarded by the day, week, month or hour. Reasonable prices. 11 17 1y

HERMAN KELLER,

Manufacturer of and Retail Dealer in

Cigars, Tobacco, etc.

"PRIDE OF PLAINFIELD" CIGAR a specialty 118 North avenue. 9 26 tf

H. Eggerding,

121 Park ave.,

Manufacturer of the Celebrated

C. O. D. CIGAR

The best 5c cigar in the State, and made the premises from the finest Havans. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

L. L. Manning & Son,

STEAM

GRANITE WORKS,

Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.

Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A NEW CHORAL SOCIETY

is being formed. Application can be made at 322 WEST FRONT STREET, Wednesday, from 2 to 5 p. m.; Friday, from 6 to 8 p. m. 1 12 4

GEO J. TOBIN,

187 North Avenue.

Practical Plumber

Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.

Telephone Call 138.

CAPT. M'GIFFIN INSANE.

The Brilliant Naval Officer a Victim of the Chino-Japanese War.

New York, Jan. 15.—Capt. Philo McGiffin, the former officer of the United States navy and afterward of the Chinese imperial navy, who fought the flagship Chen Yuen against the combined attack of the entire Japanese fleet in the memorable battle of the Yalu river, on the afternoon of September 17, 1894, was recently taken from his lodging house on West 33d street, to the Post Graduate hospital violently insane. It was with difficulty that the captain was pursuaded to go. He held the police and hospital ambulance attendants at bay with a revolver, and it was only after his brother, John McGiffin of Little Washington, Pa., arrived, was he induced to go to the hospital. Capt. McGiffin was perfectly rational when he first went to the house, although he was noticeably reticent. Much of his time was spent in reading and writing, and it is said he was preparing an exhaustive review of the Chino-Japanese war. Capt. McGiffiin's condition is such now that he must be calmed thoroughly before Dr. Hammond operates on his brain. This operation will probably not take place for several days yet. The wrecking of this brilliant naval officer's intellect is said to be the direct result of the terrific strain to which he was subjected during the battle of the Yalu river. He was dangerously wounded during the engagement. Both his ear-drums were ruptured, both eyes permanently affected and his head and body filled with splinters of wood and steel.

IMRORTS AND EXPORTS.

The Latter Exceeded the Former in 1896 by $325,322,184.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The chief of the bureau of statistics reports that the total values of the exports of merchandise from the United States during the twelve months ended December 31, 1896, as compared with similar exports during the corresponding period of the preceding year, were as follows: Twelve months ended December 31, 1896, $1,005,878,417; twelve months ended December 31, 1895, $824,860,136. During the twelve months ended December 31, 1896, the excess of exports over imports was $325,322,184 and the excess for the preceeding year was $23,190,739. During the twelve months ended December 31, 1896, the excess of gold imports over exports was $46.023,594. The excess of exports of silver over imports during the twelve months ended December 31, 1896, was $50,514,759.

SUICIDE OF GEO. LACEY.

When Gas and Laudanum Failed, He Cut His Throat.

Trenton, Jan. 15.—George Lacey, the potter who committed suicide yesterday, wielded a great influence among the members of his trade, and for that reason was very popular with politicans. He had appeared several times before congressional committees at Washington in the interest of the potters. He was 49 years old. Lacey was very deliberate and determined in his efforts to die. His self-inflicted death occurred at his lodgings. He first unsuccessfully tried laudanum and illuminating gas. Then he told a fellow-lodger what he had done, asked him to go for a physician, and while the lodger was absent on this mission, cut his throat, dying in a few minutes.

LOSS OF THE COMMODORE.

Faulty Pipes and Inexperience of the Engineer Given as the Cause.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Leo Vogel and Charles A. Spencer, United States steamboat inspectors at Jacksonville, Fla., have reported to the treasury the result of their investigation as to the sinking of the filibustering steamer Commodore. They find that the vessel was fully equipped in all respects. The report further says: "Our opinion of the sinking of the steamer Commodore is that it was due to the complication of pipes for freeing the vessel of water not being fully understood by the engineer's department." As regards the loss of life, the reports states six men perished. The vessel was valued at $15,000, and cargo at $4,800.

Cuban Resolution in Albany Legislature.

Albany, Jan. 15.—The Cuban resolution introdused in the house by Assemblyman Whritner, rep., of Rockland county, after citing the atrocities perpetrated by the Spanish authorities upon American citizens and others on the island of Cuba during the past year, and asserting that the patriots have organized and maintained for months a republican form of government over a greater part of the island; and that the commercial interests of the United States, and especially the state of New York, have suffered severely, owing to the unsettled condition of affairs in that island, and the Spanish authorities having shown their inability by force to preserve order, the assembly, the senate concurring, directs senators and representatives in congress from this state to urge and support measures as will insure to the struggling Cubans recognition by the United States as belligerents and an opportunity to carry open warfare under equal conditions.

$54,000 in Public Bequests.

Boston, Jan. 15.—The will of the late Harriet H. Flint of Wakefield contains public bequests amounting to $54,000, including $10,000 for a soldiers' monument for the town of Wakefield.

To Improve Springfield Arsenal.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Secretary Lamont has asked for an appropriation of $3,000 for improving the streets in front of the Springfield, Mass., arsenal.

President of the French Senate.

Paris, Jan. 15.—M. Loubet has been re-elected president of the French senate, receiving 205 votes.

IN CHAINS FOR LIFE

Sentence Passed upon Louis Somellan at Havana.

A NATURALIZED AMERICAN CITIZEN

The Unfortunate Man Convicted of Conspiring Against the Spanish Government—His Case Will Be Appealed to Madrid Courts.

Havana, Jan. 15.—Sentence has been passed upon Luis Someillans, the naturalized American citizen who was found guilty of conspiring against the Spanish government. The sentence of the tribunal before which he was tried is that he be imprisoned for life in chains. Someillan's lawyer will appeal to the supreme court at Madrid against the decision of the Havana tribunal. Among the various conclusions of the tribunal, based on the charges against the prisoner, the following was the most important: "Whereas, public rumor, in attributing to Someillan disaffected to the Spanish cause, was not misguided, since his change of nationality for an unjustified and unexplained reason suggests a rational suspicion that whoever breaks in such a way his traditions and history is actuated by hatred of or, at least, indifference to, his ancient country, and changes his nationality in order to, while continuing to enjoy the advantages of Spanish legislation and the customs of Spanish society, carry in the bottom of his soul the ferment of separation, of which Someillan is a living and personal example." The tribunal also discarded all the evidence favorable to the prisoner, saying that there was ex-parte evidence of a complot to misguide the tribunal.

CUBAN REPUBLIC STAMPS.

Their Appearance in the United States Mails Perplexes Postal Authorities.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The appearance of the stamp of the so-called Cuban republic in the United States mails has caused much comment here and is being the source of some discussion at the postoffice department as to whether such stamps could be recognized as proper for the transmission of mails into the United States as this government has not recognized Cuba as a free and independent country. This is probably the first case of its kind where insurgents have established their own postoffices and used their own stamps, which were transmitted in the mails to the United States. At the postoffice department it is stated that these stamps are good so far as the United States is concerned, as our postal laws require only that the stamps be properly cancelled, and the envelopes containing mail matter bear the postmark of a regular postoffice. These regulations have been complied with so far as the department knows. Had they not been admissible, the letters bearing these stamps would have been marked with the letter T at the receiving office in this country, meaning "tax collect." The department knows nothing about the postoffice stamped on the envelope, except that it is Spanish territory and Spain is in the international postal union. These stamps might give rise to a delicate diplomatic question in which the postoffice department would take no part, but refer the matter to the department of state for settlement.

PROCEEDINGS IN CONGRESS.

Homestead Bill, Passed by the Senate, May Habe a Hard Road in the House.

Washington, Jan. 15.—No session of the senate is being held to-day, that body having adjourned until Monday. The action of the senate yesterday in passing the house bill for free homesteads on the public lands in Oklahoma territory was not unexpected, but the sweeping amendments adopted have occasioned much surprise, and it is believed that they can be forced upon the house only after a hard fight, if at all. The bill was first amended in a very important particular, by striking out the words in the "territory of Oklahoma," thus making it apply to all public lands acquired from the various Indian tribes. It provides that all settlers on those lands shall be entiled to patents, on payment of the usual and customary fees, and that no further charge of any kind shall be required. It also provides, by another senate amendment, that all sums of money so released, which if not released would belong to any Indian tribe, shall be paid to such tribe by the United States.

House of Representatives.

The oleomargarine bill has passed the house. Considerable opposition was developed, but it did not prove formidable on the yea and nay vote on the third reading, which the opponents of the measure accepted as final. The yeas were 126 and the nays 96. Some amendments to perfect the measure were agreed to without opposition. The bill makes oleomargarine and other imitation dairy products subject to the laws of the state and territory into which they are transported.

For a Permanent Census.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Mr. Sayers, dem., Tex., ex-chairman of the committee on appropriations, has introduced in the house a bill providing for the establishment of a permanent census service under the charge of the director of census, who shall have a salaray of $6,000 per year. The necessary clerical force is provided for.

Army Appropriation Bill.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The army appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1898, has been reported to the senate from the committee on appropriations. It carries an appropriation of $23,129,344, $3,000 more than when it came from the house.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

108 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JAN. 15, 1897.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Threatening and Light Snow. Clearing During Saturday. Sattionary Temperature.

At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 30 Degrees.

NEW JERSEY'S VOTE AT THE CAPITOL.

Thos. R. Watson, of Passaic county, the electoral messenger from New Jersey, having in his possession the vote of the State for McKinley and Hobart, arrived at the Capitol in Washington Wednesday, during the secret session, and accompanied by Representative Gardner, deposited the vote in Senator Sewell's committee room until the Vice-President could receive it.

MONEY WELL SPENT.

The prevailing sentiment in Middlesex county towards the proposition to bond the county for $250,000 to macadamize the principal thoroughfares of the bailiwick seems to be decidedly favorable. Money spent in the betterment of the public highways is always money invested where it will increase valuation and make the lot of people happier in every way.

NO PLACE FOR COWARDICE.

Cowardly men should have no place on a police force, and when a test of the bravery comes to an issue and they falter, it is well that they are given a vacation to cultivate a little stronger backbone, as has been done in the case of the two Elizabeth guardians who have been convicted of cowardice and will take a three months rest as discipline.

A BLACK DOT.

The general tendency to activity in business affairs is dotted here and there with cases at variance with the drift of returning good times, and one of these instances is that of the New Brunswick branch of the United States Rubber Company who will close their factory indefinitely on Saturday. The shut down will deprive 400 hands from work.

PLATT HAD THE VOTES.

The caucus of the Republican members of the Legislature of the State of New York last night, to settle on a candidate to be voted for as United States Senator, simply echoed the thought long ago formulated by observers, that Thomas Collier Platt had the votes and Joseph H. Choate had the talk.

SEWER BONDS.

The Common Council will meet on the first of February to open proposals for buying $25,000 worth of sewer bonds. The bonds will bear interest at four per cent per annum, and shall become payable in successive years, and not more than forty years from the date of their issue. The principal and interest are payable in gold.

KNOCKED OUT MIDST FRIENDS.

A Cocking Main in Which Somerville Birds Lost the Battle.

Another one of those "speak easy" affairs, known to the sporting fraternity as a cock fight, took place in an isolated barn near Warrenville, Wednesday night. The authorities in some of the remote parts of Somerset county put their fowls to roost early these short days and then go to roost themselves. Such was the case Wednesday night when the main took place, and Plainfield and Somerville birds competed for honors for themselves and boodle for their owners. The main was all one-sided, however, for in the first round the Somerville bird was sent to the wall as though struck by a western cyclone and the second one put on more curves than John Harkins used to when it was "struck out" by the Plainfield fowl and started to run for home.

At the beginning some bets were made, but later on no takers could be found against Plainfield.

GAVE HIS LABOR TO HER FATHER.

Devito Hoped to Get a Wife as His Reward, But is Disappointed.

Ulysses Devito brought suit Wednesday in the court at Elizabeth for $250 against Carmine Callucci, a bottler, of Westfield, seeking to recover that amount for his services for one year. He alleged that he worked a whole year for the bottler for nothing, hoping that at the end of that time he would be able to marry Annie, the seventeen-year-old daughter of Callucci.

When the year was up the girl married an Italian living at Summit. Then Devito thought that he ought to be paid for his year's work. Judge Van-Syckel allowed the non-suit asked for by the defendant's counsel.

—A good creamy butter 22 cents at MacDonald's.

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East.

The Cotillion Club will be entertained at the Casino this evening.

Mrs. W. H. Coombs, of Linden avenue, has recovered from a slight illness.

Mrs. Kiederling, of East Front street, is confined to the house by illness.

J. E. Townsend, of Coddington avenue, is confined to his house with a cold.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Schoonmaker, of Central avenue, will spend Sunday in New York.

L. C. Dunn, of Park avenue, is stopping with friends in Metuchen for a few days.

Paul C. Haynes, of Summit avenue, has returned from a visit with out of town friends.

Miss C. J. Merklee, of Philadelphia, is the guest of Mrs. James R Joy, of Willow avenue.

Alfred I. Smalley, of Somerset street, has returned from his hunting trip to the south.

Mrs. C. A. Sutton, of San Francisco, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Harriet Bailey, of Craig place.

Mrs. Lyons, of East Orange, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. R. Vanderhoff, of East Front street.

Mrs. I. M. Hickman, of Liberty street, has about recovered from her recent illness from the grip.

Miss Anna Gaskill, of Rahway, who has been visiting friends in town, returned to her home yesterday.

Miss Edith Clapp, of Mercer avenue, returned home yesterday after a short visit with relatives at Philadelphia.

Mrs. Emma S. Brown is seriously ill at her home on Mercer avenue, suffering with a complication of diseases.

Mrs. R. A. Whyte, of Providence, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Varney, of Duer street.

Miss Lillian Zeisz, of Chatham street, returned yesterday from a short visit with relatives in New York.

Miss Minnie Arnold, daughter of Borough Clerk James K. Arnold, is the guest of relatives in New York city.

Miss Lillian Livingston, of New York, has returned to her home after a pleasant visit with friends in Plainfield.

Myers Green, of New York, is spending a few weeks at the home of his nephew, John T. Green, of Steiner place.

Mrs. Minnie MacDonald, of Newark, has returned home after a visit with Mrs. Albert Hedden, of West Fourth street.

Mrs. Jules Englehart, of Stamford, Conn., was the guest yesterday of her sister in law, Mrs. H. Englehart, of Grandview avenue.

Jacob M. Higgins has the contract for the mason work for Pope brothers new house on Duer street, now in course of erection.

Mrs. T. B. Brooks, of Rockview avenue, is being entertained at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. D. Ely, at Governor's Island.

Mrs. Charles R. Adams is confined to her home on Duer street, suffering with pneumonia. Dr. Sarah D. Keeney is in attendance.

Mrs. Arnold Schott, of Philadelphia, who has besn visiting her sister, Mrs. Frederich Schreiner, of West Sixth street, returned home yesterday.

Miss Elizabeth Lloyd will return tomorrow to her home in Philadelphia, after a week's visit with her aunt, Mrs. Susan L. Clapp, of Mercer avenue.

Miss Mabel Woodruff, of East Second street, will leave tomorrow for Williamsport, Pa., to visit a friend who has been her guest for a short time.

Miss Newburg, of Elizabeth, who has been visiting at the home of her friend, Miss Gavin, of West End Farm, North Plainfield, has returned to her home.

Miss Carrie Coombs, who resides with her aunt, Mrs. W. H. Coombs, of Linden avenue, has returned from a visit to her home in Pennsylvania. Her sister, Miss Lizzie Coombs, accompanied her.

Mrs. John Weir and her two daughters, the Misses Helen and Frances, of Rockview avenue, took up their residence today at 37 Craig place, Mrs. Weir having rented her house on Rockview avenue to Mrs. J. H. Gould and family, of Seneca Falls.

INFANT HEALTH
SENT FREE
A little book that should be in every home. Issued by the manufacturers of the Gail Borden Eagle Brand
Condensed Milk
N. Y. Condensed Milk Co.
71 Hudson Street, New York

The Last Spoonful

of Cleveland's baking powder is as good as the first.

COASTERS GET AN EDICT.

AND IT IS TO KEEP OFF THE WATCHUNG AVENUE HILL.

There'st the Youngsters Rose in Indignation and Declare Many Things—But Its Provisions Will Be Enforced.

There is indignation and sorrow in the hearts of the young Plainfielders, for the right to coast on the hill where they have had sport for many years has been taken away and there is likely to be little if any more "riding down hill" this year. For the last twenty years the children, and some of the older ones, too, have gathered at the top of the steep grade on Watchung avenue, and enjoyed the coasting during the winter months.

Two years ago there was an attempt to deprive the young people of the privilege of coasting on the hill, but a petition signed by all but one of the residents of the neighborhood, asking that the privilege be restored, had the desired effect, and the riding was resumed, while a policeman was detailed at the hill to keep an eye on the coasters and prevent any collisions between them and passing vehicles. All went well last year, but this year there have been several narrow escapes and complaint has been made to the Police Board.

Traffic has been steadily increasing on Watchung avenue in the vicinity of the hill, and the Board decided that the coasting was a menace to life and limb of the occupants of the passing vehicles, as well as to the coasters. While they did not like to stop the young people in the midst of their pleasure, it was decided that the sport must be stopped, and Chief Grant was instructed to place a sign there prohibiting coasting. The sign was put on a telegraph pole Wednesday.

ANDY SEQUINE BADLY HURT

HIS CONDITION SAID TO BE CRITICAL.

Assault of the Striking Cab Drivers More Serious Than First Thought.

Andrew M. Seguine, formerly of this, and now a new cab driver of the New York Cab Company, who was murderously assaulted by strikers and their sympathizers at midnight on Tuesday in the Morningside Restaurant, 306 Boulevard, as told in yesterday's Press, was in a critical condition yesterday. His injuries are worse than was at first supposed, and though the hearing in his case in the Yorkville Police Court was adjourned on Wednesday for forty-eight hours in order to give him time to appear in court, it is not believed he will be able to leave his bed for several days. The seven men arrested on the charge of assaulting him will be held without bail until he is able to appear.

Received a Gold Watch.

There wasn't standing room at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church last evening, when an excellent musical and literary entertainment was given. The star of the evening was Theodore Druary, of Newark, who sang several solos. Fred White recited "Sheridan's Ride," and Miss Bertha Groves, a talented vocalist, gave several of her best selections, and bass solos were given by John Taylor, who captured the audience completely as did also the selections by the quartette composed of John Taylor, Oscar Green, William Wilson and Watson Randolph. Israel Jones, who sold 136 tickets for the entertainment, was presented with a handsome gold watch and Theodore Hooper received a gold ring for selling 100 tickets.

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all Female Complaints, exercising a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, Constipation, Headache, Fainting Spells, or are Nervous, Sleepless, Excitable, Melancholly, or troubled with Dizzy Spells, Electric Bitters is the medicine you need. Health and Strength are guaranteed by its use. Fifty cents and $1.00 at Randolph's Drug Store.

MODEL BEDROOMS.

Proper Sanitary Conditions Are of Greatest Importance.

The last 30 years have witnessed a wonderful improvement in the manufacture of good-sized, comfortable beds, at least in continental Europe—for the bench-like bett-stellen of southern Germany never disgraced the hotels of the English-speaking nations. As early as 1685 a French traveler acknowledged the uniform excellence of the British dormitories—"clean rooms, often carpeted, always well aired, broad blankets, and solid, enormous bedsteads." The latter adjective really fitted the fact, if it is true that the "great bed of Ware" was 12 feet long by eight broad, with a canopy like a circus tent.

Bed curtains are not only entirely superfluous but positively ruinous to lung patients, who are thus obliged to breathe the same microbe-laden air over and over again; but broad, duplicate mattresses come under the head of rational luxuries and are out and out preferable to the woven-wire substitutes. Hammocks on board ship are a lesser evil, but on terra firma sleepers should build their hope of a sound night's rest on the firmest possible foundation, and the war against the cradle superstition should be waged without compromise. A modern educator denounces it as the cause of virulent digestive disorders and classes it with the paregoric outrage: "Never try to overcome sleeplessness by a resort to cradling and narcotics; the lethargy induced by rocking and cradling is akin to the drowsy torpor of a seasick passenger, and one might as well try to benumb a patient by a whack on the head."

Featherbeds have happily gone out of fashion, but few housekeepers have as yet recognized the sanitary advantages of woolen blankets as compared with heavy-padded quilts that repress the organic exhalations and cause night sweats and troubled dreams.

While the body is kept comfortably warm the breathing of pure cold air is a positive luxury and the best lung-balm thus far discovered—at least to individuals who have freed their minds from the haunting dread of the night air superstition, for there is no doubt that vivid illusions can cause as well as cure diseases.—The Family Doctor, in Chautauquan.

SCARED OUT OF THEIR GROWTH.

Medical Students Thought the Corpse Had Come from a Warm Place.

One of the foremost surgeons of the town gave a dinner to several of his colleagues and an old college mate from the west. All sorts of old stories were raked up, and the physician from the west told a story of those old college days—a story, by the way, that old Washingtonians will remember. It happened in the days when no legal provision was made for supplying dead bodies to medical colleges, and the dreaded "night doctor" regularly plied his vocation. It fell to the lot of two medical students one night to resurrect a corpse they knew of as material for their dissections. One of the medical students was this same wealthy surgeon. The other is now dead. Together they visited the cemetery and secured the body. Wrapping it in a blanket, they set it up between them in their buggy. They were by no means as hardened as the real medical student likes to be, and they stopped at a wayside inn for something to brace their nerves. After they had taken a bracer they took something to ward off a chill and something else to counteract the malarial tendency of the night air. Altogether they were some time in the inn, and the doctor from the west—he was only a medical student then, and happened to be at the inn—embraced his opportunity. The two body snatchers came out, climbed into their buggy and drove off.

"John," said one of them, in a whisper, "I believe this corpse is getting warm."

"N-n-nonsense," said the other.

They drove on.

"John," said the first student, "it's getting warmer."

John fearfully touched the body.

"It's hot!" he gasped, and then, in sepulchral tones, the corpse remarked:

"If you had come from the place I have you'd be hot too."

The two students never heard the final words, for they sprang from the buggy and galloped off in terror, leaving the supposed corpse to drive back to town alone. And the great surgeon and the western doctor roared in the telling of the story, with a mirth one of them did not feel when the story was new.—Washington Post.

Fairy Pudding.

This is simple, but good pudding and ornamental. One pint of boiling water; to this add three tablespoonfuls of sugar, half a saltspoonful of salt and two rounding tablespoonfuls of cornstarch diluted with a little cold water. Cook for five minutes. Add the beaten whites of two eggs and the juice of half a lemon; mix well and pour carefully into a mold, which at the bottom has a pretty design arranged of angelica and cherries, or citron and boiled raisins or currants. Chill and garnish with custard and mock cream.—St. Louis Republic.

Tomato and Macaroni Soup.

Break half a dozen sticks of macaroni into small pieces, and drop into boiling water. Cook for an hour, or until perfectly tender. Rub two quarts of stewed or canned tomatoes through a colander, to remove all seeds and fragments. When the macaroni is done, drain thoroughly, cut each piece into tiny rings, and add it to the strained tomatoes. Season with salt, and boil for a few moments. If the tomato is quite thin, the soup should be slightly thickened with a little flour before adding the macaroni.—Good Health.

—Very often when you agree with people merely to get rid of them they conclude that they have convinced you of your error.—Washington (Ia.) Democrat.

YOU KNOW THE PLACE

We Ask You to Call

AT PECK'S

For Bargains in Hats, Caps, Underwear, Sweaters, Flannel Shirts & Gloves

Call on JAS. R. BLAIR, 126 Park Avenue.

Saturday, Jan. 16th, 10 per cent will be Given.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

GEORGE E. ROGERS.....Lessee. | GEORGE H. WILLEY.....Manager

COMING ONE WEEK.

JANUARY 11th,

Engagement of the

COMEDIENNE,

Maude Hillman,

under the management of Winthrop G. Snelling.

A carload of Magnificent Scenery, Properties, &c. Elegant Costumes. Songs and dances.

MATINEES Wednesday and Saturday.

Prices 10, 20 and 30 cents. Seats now on sale at Box Office.

Monday, Jan. 18,

The champions of the comedy world,

LOUIS WESLEY — MARIE STUART

supported by Freeman's Fun Makers, presenting Great Farce-Comedy,

"A Railroad Ticket."

Produced in a superb manner by a company of

20 SINGERS and COMEDIANS 20

Headed by Louis Wesley, Marie Stuart, Arthur Moulton, Gus Pixley, Chas. A. Burke, and 15 others just as funny.

Prices 75, 50, 35, 25. Seats on sale at Box Office Friday, Jan. 15.

Plainfield Packing House,

153 West Front Street.

I still believe in quick sales and small profits.

Look at These Prices for Spot Cash:

Prime Roast	16c	Porterhouse Steak	18 to 20c
Blade Roast	12 to 14c	Sirloin Steak	16c
Chuck Roast	8 to 10c	Chuck Steak	8c
Hindquarter Lamb	12c	Leg Mutton	9c
Legs Lamb	12c	Mutton Chops	12 to 14c
Lamb Chops	18c	Jersey Pork and Sausage	10c

Choice Pork Tenderloins.

All buyers purchasing 50 cents worth of meat and over tomorrow, SATURDAY, will be presented with one pound of Jersey sausage (our own make). Give me a call and be convinced that I sell only the best meat that can be procured in the market.

JOS. A. BLATZ.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Charles J. Fisk is the guest of relatives in Trenton.

Lawrence Perrine, of Baltimore, is the guest of Louis Waring, of Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Stover have gone to New York today to remain over Sunday as the guest of Mrs. Stover's sister, Mrs. Arthur A. Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. George Underhill, of this city, attended the fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Young, at Trenton, Wednesday evening.

Miss Reinhart, of Belvidere avenue, will give a green and white tea next Wednesday in honor of Miss Chapman, who is the guest of Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr.

Rev. Arthur E. Main, the new supply for the Seventh-day Baptist church will conduct services in the church this evening, and he will also preach tomorrow morning.

George E. Firstbrook, of Essex street, seems very much pleased in his recently acquired position as traveling salesman for the Hardware firm of William H. Spowers & Co, of New York.

Prof. Fiske, of Cambridge, who lectured at the Y. M. C. A. building last evening under the auspices of the Club of Current Events, was the guest while in the city of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue.

Rheumatism Cured in 24 Hours.

T. J. Blackmore, of Haller & Blackmore, Pittsburg, Pa., says: "A short time since I procured a bottle of 'Mystic Cure.' It got me out of the house in twenty-four hours. I took to my bed with Rheumatism nine months ago and the 'Mystic Cure' is the only medicine that did me any good. I had five of the best physicians in the city, but I received very little relief from them. I know the 'Mystic Cure' to be what it is represented and take pleasure in recommending it to other poor sufferers." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

—Picnic ham 7 cents at MacDonald's.

PASSING COMMENT.

The time for entering complaints against the extension of Watchung avenue is about up, and those who are interested in the extension are anxious to see the city council make a move in the matter.

* * * *

As a result of the generosity of Lederer, the popular dry goods merchant, one hundred deserving persons have secured good cloaks, which were only damaged slightly by water. This act of kindness will long be remembered by many.

* * * *

John Sharkey, the Liberty street butcher, has a brood of spring chickens out already. They are two weeks old and were doing nicely until a neighbors cat espied them. Only three survive and they have been taken into the house for safe keeping.

* * * *

One of the rules of the Plainfield Street railway, since its operation, was that school children could ride for three cents when on their way to or from school. Now the company has no wish to change that rule but they do wish to prevent other people than school children from riding on the three cent tickets as some have been in the habit of doing. To prevent that, Superintendent Adelman has decided to issue passes to the school children which must be signed by their teacher and then must be presented when they wish to purchase tickets. Then the conductors can ask to see the pass at any time and unless the child has one, he or she will not be allowed to ride on one of the three cent tickets. This new ruling has been made necessary by the constant use of these tickets by others than school children.

Sciatic Rheumatism Cured.

L. Wagner, wholesale druggist, Richmond Va., says; "I had a fearful attack of Sciatic Rheumatism, was laid up almost two months; was fortunate enough to get Mystic Cure for Rheumatism. This cured me after doctor's prescriptions had failed to have any effect. I have also heard of fine results from others who have used it." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

NEWMAN'S STAGE LINE TIME TABLE
Between Plainfield and Scotch Plains.

Leave Plainfield..... { 7.00; 9.30; 12.45 a. m. / 4.00; 6.00; 9.00 p. m.
Sunday—9.00; 12.30 a. m., 3.00, 6.00 p. m.

Leave Scotch Plains. { 6.20; 8.15; 10.30 a. m. / 2.00; 5.00; 7.00; 9.30 p. m.
Sunday—9.45 a. m., 2.00; 4.00, 7.00 p. m.

DEPOT—FRONT STREET AND PARK AVE.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mrs. Harry Vail is entertaining her cousin, Miss Jennie Apgar, of Phillipsburg.

Jesse Dalrymple will leave town Saturday to spend the winter with his daughter, Mrs. J. D. Sproul, at Jersey City.

The regular monthly meeting of the Dunellen Building and Loan Association will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Monday evening.

Miss Ida Housell has returned to her home at Pattenburg after a two-weeks visit with her aunt, Miss Hannah Randolph, of Greenbrook.

The members of the elite Washington Park Club will meet for a euchre rehearsal this evening at the home of Miss Gray, of Washington avenue.

Acting under instructions from the Central Railroad officials a force of men were put to work clearing the snow from the tracks at the switches yesterday.

Delinquent Tax Collector Richard York was hustling up a few of the delinquent taxpayers yesterday. Most of them "came to time," however, and thus saved additional costs and expenses.

The interior of the refreshment booth at the Emerydale station has been hamsomely papered, partly to enhance the appearance of the place, but largely to keep out the snow and northwest winds.

Mrs. May Williams and her daughter, Mrs. Lottie Taylor, arrived home from Florida a few days ago. They have been south since the first of November, and have enjoyed remarkably warm weather. They returned by steamer and experienced one very rough day on their voyage.

The members of St. John's church met Wednesday evening and completed arrangements for the fair which is to be held in the Town Hall building on Tuesday next. The object is a most befitting one, and the ladies in charge hope to realize a snug sum as a result of their efforts.

A regular meeting of the Dunellen Athletic Association was held in the W. C. T. U. rooms last evening, at which time the plans were dicsussed and preliminary arrangements were made for the erection of their proposed clubhouse and bowling alleys. The project, as The Press has before stated, is one to be commended, and a new impetus seems to have taken hold of the members, for they are entering into the project with heart, soul, money and all. At last night's meeting there seemed to be but one sentiment, and that was universally in favor of a clubhouse.

The dog poisoning mania seems to have struck our borough in earnest. In addition to the list of dogs poisoned by some malicious person, two other dogs belonging to reputable citizens were found dead in their owners door yards yesterday morning. R. Schenck found his watch dog dead during the the day, and there was every symptom of poisoning by strychnine. Chief of Police Warden has been appealed to, and although one or two persons are under surveilance, positive proof is yet needed to make the arrests. There is no doubt that there is a lot of worthless curs roaming about our streets that are really a nuisance to the community and should be dealt with according to the borough laws, but that is no reason why good and valuable dogs should be poisoned on their account.

SCOTCH PLAINS

No regular meeting of the newly-organized Young Men's League is announced, and it is left subject to the call of the church.

Louis Morrell the plumber, is drilling a well for John Cook. It is proposed to go down 100 feet in order to get a pure and wholesome supply.

John Collins, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. John H. Blimm, returned to the employ of the Potter Press Works, to follow his trade as a machinist, yesterday.

A steam roller is sadly needed at the Plains Last fall and early in the winter the main thoroughfare was spread with crushed stone, but it was never thoroughly rolled, and now nearly every driver takes to the side of the road instead of keeping on the macadam.

Charles Frantz and John Blimm wagered a bottle of wine on the result of the late Presidential election, Mr. Frantz betting that New Jersey would give McKinley over 20,000 majority. The bet was cancelled last night by the presentation to Mr. Frantz of a bottle of champagne.

Highest of all in Leavening Power — Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Real estate dealer Thomas M. Paff reports additional applications for Scotch Plains property. Some are made in person and others by mail. It seems to be the universal opinion here that the trolley will come to the Plains in the spring, and this is thought to be the only way to resurrect the place from its Rip VanWinkle state.

Messrs. Andrew Love, Sr., and Andrew Love, Jr., the two appraisers appointed to appraise the stock and fixtures in the late James A. Baker's two stores, have not yet completed their work. They are working on the Scotch Plains store and the goods in the cellar and the entire dry goods department are yet to be gone over, which may take the balance of the week.

Twilight Council, No. 7, Jr. O. U. A. M., at its last meeting installed the following officers: Senior Past Councillor, Ernest Clark; officiating councillor, David Clark; vice-councillor, Joseph Swalbach; trustee, W. H. Turton; conductor, James Johnson; warden, George Johnson; inside sentinel, Louis Drexler; outside sentinel, Chas. Frantz. Arrangements were made for a smoker in the rooms of the council this evening and preparations are making to entertain one hundred guests from Franklin council, of Plainfield, and the councils of Westfield, New Market and New Providence. It is needless to say that the visitors will be agreeably entertained.

WILLOW GROVE.

Clarence Lambert has commenced cutting ice on his lake, and he expects to fill his houses this week.

Clarence Terry, a former resident, is confined to his home at Westfield with pneumonia.

Mrs. John Lambert has been visiting relatives in Newark during the past week.

A large number of the young people from this vicinity are attending the evangelistic services at Westfield this week.

M. C. Swezey sprained his ankle a few days ago, and he is confined to the house as a consequence.

A very hanndsome desk was placed in the public school building on Tuesday. It was needed badly and the teacher appreciates the gift exceedingly.

On Tuesday evening a very enjoyable social was held in the chapel and the attendance was large. A pleasing programme, consisting of vocal solos by the Misses Littell and Dixon, and a recitation by Miss Josie Lambert, was thoroughly enjoyed by all. During the evening refreshments were served in abundance, and it was almost 11 o'clock when the happy event came to a close. The committee has been highly complimented for their excellent management of the affair.

STIRLING.

The P. O. S. of Stirling gave a dance in the Stirling hall Wednesday evening and it was largely attended. The affair was a very successful one. A number of guests were present from Plainfield. Prof. O'Reilly, of the latter place, furnished the music.

There is Nothing so Good.

There is nothing just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, so demand it and do not permit the dealer to sell you some substitute. He will not claim there is anything better, but in order to make more profit he may claim something else to be just as good. You want Dr. King's New Discovery because you know it to be safe and reliable, and guaranteed to do good or money refunded. For Coughs Colds, Consumption and for all affections of Throat, Chest and Lungs, there is nothing so good as is Dr. King's New Discovery. Trial bottle free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

THEATRICAL.

Louis Wesley, one of the cleverest little comedians on the boards today, is playing his old part of "Chips" the office boy, in the successful Farce-Comedy "A Railroad Ticket." Wesley created the part in the first production of this peace, and it fits him like a glove. He has played "Grimes" in Hoyt's "Bunch of Keys," and "Rats" in "A Tin Soldier," with great success. He says the part of "Chips" is one of the best ever written for a boy comedian. "A Railroad Ticket" will be presented here at Music Hall Monday, Jan. 18.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For Sale By L. W. Randolph.

ALL OVER THE TOWN

NEWS IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS THAT INTEREST ALL PLAINFIELDERS.

Gathered by Enterprising Press Reporters From Both Sides of the Brook and Tersely Served for Your Perusal.

—MacDonald's 15 cent coffee is a leader sure.

—Try MacDonald's 35 cent tea; it has no equal.

—The city council will hold a very important meeting next Monday evening.

—The regular Friday night prayer meeting will be held in Warren chapel this evening.

—Spot cash is what makes low prices and therefor read Joseph A. Blatz's advertisement in another colums.

—The Junior Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will resume its meetings this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

—Finest Elgin creamery butter at 22 cents a pound and fresh country eggs at 25 cents a dozen can be had at Demarest & Son's.

—Contractors Hummer Brothers are erecting a seven-room frame house on Duer street, which they hope to have ready for occupancy by March 1st.

—Car No. 1, of the street railway, is in the shop at present having new trucks put on while the car is receiving a coat of paint and varnish.

—One or two of the street lights on East Front street were not burning last evening, but it was hardly noticeable, because they are located scarcely fifty yards apart near the John Taylor Johnston estate.

—The contract cases of Werner against Moran and Werner against Stevens were adjourned, yesterday, for one week in Justice Nash's court. Thomas Quinn represents the defendant in the latter case.

—The house at Netherwood owned by John Reid, which was damaged to a considerable extent by fire last summer, is being thoroughly repaired by the owner and when the work is completed he will again occupy the house.

—Notice is called to the advertisement in another column, of James R. Blair, dealer in men's furnishing goods, at 126 Park avenue. On Saturday, January 10th, a reduction of 10 per cent. will be given to all purchasers at his store.

—"A funny combination, but big bargains," is the head line of a price bulletin in front of J. Fred MacDonald's store but to save you the trouble of going to see it, read some of the bargains scattered through today's paper in his advertisement.

Will Be a Short Term.

It is expected that the January terms of the Supreme and Circuit courts of Union county, sitting in Elizabeth, will end this week, making the shortest term in many years. The criminal term before Judge McCormick will begin next week. This term will be very short, too. The grand jury is expected to finish today its session of about a week.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1896. A. W. Gleason, Notary Public. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials. free. F. J. Cheney, & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

ALMOST any old HOSE SUPPORTER will do for some people; but those looking for Comfort and Economy Use only The Velvet Grip with the Cushion Button Clasp.

Sample Pair, by Mail, 25c.
GEORGE FROST CO., BOSTON, MASS.
YOUR DEALER HAS THEM.
Catalogue Free.

"THE FINEST THING"
We think, for chapped or rough skin, is
OUR LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE.
Try it. Sprinkler-top bottles, 25c.
Park and North avenues
Successor H. P. REYNOLDS.
T. S. ARMSTRONG,
"THE APOTHECARY."

Rheumatism is a Foe which gives no quarter. It torments its victims day and night. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and cures the aches and pains of rheumatism.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver medicine. Gentle, reliable, sure.

Corporation Notice !

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a meeting thereof held January 4th instant, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Monday the First day of February, 1897, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 109 Park avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive and open sealed proposals for the purchase of sewer bonds to the amount of not exceeding twenty-four thousand dollars, to be issued by the City of Plainfield under the act of the Legislature entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, which bonds shall bear interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum (principal and interest to be payable in gold.) The act provides that the bonds shall be so issued that they shall become payable in successive years and not more than forty years from their date. For further particulars, reference is made to the said acts of the Legislature.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

All proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for purchase of Sewer Bonds."

By order of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield.

Dated January 9th, 1897.

JAMES T. MACMURRAY, City Clerk.

Randolph Runyon,
Funeral Director
and Embalmer.
Residence, Over Office. Office 43 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J.

H. DeMott,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J
Calls promptly attended to day or night. White and black hearses. Coaches latest style.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

FOR SALE—Cheap, good sound business horse, suitable for a delivery wagon. Inquire of Jos. A. Blatz, 153 West Front street. 1 15 2

FOR SALE—Farm of 72 acres situated in Washington Valley, three miles from Plainfield, or will exchange for Plainfield property. Address P. O. Box 335, Plainfield, N. J. 1 15 2

6 ROOM flat to let, city water; rent $10 per month. C. H. Hand, 317 Watchung avenue.

6 ROOM house for sale on South avenue, $1,850. 6 room house for sale East Sixth street, $1,650. Charles H. Hand.

WANTED—4 to 10 acres between Dunellen and Westfield, must be on the hillside with southern exposure; land that has been cleared preferred. Price must be low for cash. Address with full description, location and price to Paul F. Gonon, 145 Broadway, New York city. 1 15 2

PLEASANT ROOMS and BOARD in private family; terms moderate. Address 302 E. 6th St. 1 13 4

LOST—About two weeks ago, in the city or borough, a gentleman's diamond ring. Liberal reward at Press office. 1 14 2

MAN wants situation as waiter or coachman. Call 334 East Third street. 1 13 3

FOR SALE OR TO LET—No. 140 West Fourth street, established bakery or grocery stand. House, store and stable, first-class oven Mulford, broker. 1 12 tf

WANTED—First-class milk route for cash. Address Milkman, P. O. Box 343. 1 13 1

TO LET—Furnished or unfurnished, twelve roon modern house, fine location, for board of two adults. Owner, care Press. 1-12-tf

STORE and basement to let, 165 North Ave. Mulford, Broker. 1 11 tf

BRICK barn to let. 112 West Fourth street. 1 9 tf

TO LET—Handsome store on West Front street. Inquire Manning's City Marble Works. 1 9 tf

LARGE and small furnished rooms with board, heat, gas, and bath at moderate rates. 529 West Front street. 1 9 6

TO LET—Elegant 6 room apartments, Jackson building, steam heat, janitor service, halls carpeted, heated and lighted. Rent reasonable, particulars at Packer's furniture store. 11 23 tf

TO LET—Store and rooms above, now occupied by Justice Newcorn, 110 West Front street. Inquire Samuel Drier, pawnbroker, corner Front street and Madison avenue. 1 2 tf

FIRST CLASS help and first class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 23 Somerset place. 11-10-1y

LOANS negotiated. E. C. Mulford, Broker 7 2 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, Broker. tf

Plainfield's Busiest Store.
We sell goods cheaper than any Plainfield store.

A GOOD THING.

Last Saturday morning in walked the selling agent of the Star Knitting Mills, said he had been sent out to see us and to get an offer for the balance of the stock of winter and medium-weight underwear for ladies and gentlemen. You know the Star Mills goods. They make only the best kinds that sell from $1.00 to $2.50 per garment. We told him it was late in the season but if we could buy the goods so as to sell them at a price we would take the lot. Our offer was accepted, and the entire lot, over 300 dozen, on sale Wednesday, and the price will be forty-nine cents each.

49c each.

We frankly state that this is the best bargain this store has ever offered and we have offered many.

IN CONNECTION

with the great underwear sale we will offer in every department goods at such attractive prices that if it don't add wealth to the store it will add to its great name of selling goods cheaper THAN ALL OTHERS.

DRESS GOODS.

Such selling you never before saw, and the reason is plain, 'tis the price that sells them; but no matter how low the price the goods must be to your liking and these are. At 30c. we sell goods that ought to bring 50c. and would in good times. At 37c. your choice of 50 pieces of all-wool fancy mixture that were 75c.; and at 49c. you buy those stylish boucle cloths that were made to sell for $1.00.

Ladies', gentlemen's and children's hosiery. The kind that will wear well and don't cost much. Ladies' fine guage hose, the 25c. kind, 18c.; Ladies' fine cashmere hose, the 25c. kind, 15c.; Ladies' fine fleeced-lined hose, the 35c. kind, 25c.; Gentlemen's fine natural-wool hose, 15c.; Gentlemen's fine black hose, 13c.; Gentlemen's fine black extra-heavy hose, 19c., value 35c.; Children's heavy ribbed seamless hose, 10c.; Children's extra-heavy ribbed seamless hose, double sole and knee, 15c.

GOOD THINGS FOR LITTLE MONEY.

LADIES' COATS AND CAPES.

Over a hundred Coats and Capes for ladies and they go at cost and below. Your choice of the entire line, $3.98, were $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00 each.

SPECIALS TO BE SEEN AT ATTRACTIVE PRICES

100 pairs of fine lace curtains, white or cream, 89c. pair; fine curtain nets in figured and spots for sash curtains. 13c. the yard; adjustable sash curtain rods, 10c. each; 50 dozen find huck towels, the 25c. kind, 13c. each; children's wool skating caps, were 50c. and 75c., now 29c.; heavy outing flannel, in all colors, 6c. yard; heavy cream outing flannel, 5c. yard; chenille rugs, size 18x36, 49c. each; Japanese jute rugs, size 18x36, 34c. each; boys' heavy flannel shirt waists, were 75c., now 39c.; men's fine unlaundried shirts, 39c. each; lot of ten-quarter table covers, fancy bordered, $1.19 and $1.49, were $1.50 and $2.00; fine new dress ginghams and outing flannels, 10c. yard.

EDWARD WHITE.

WALL PAPER
"A word to the wise is efficient."
From 3c.
Buy from the manufacturer and save middlemen's profits.
On receipt of postal card a fine assortment of SAMPLES sent to ANY ADDRESS.
To $2
EDW. LOVE, Warerooms, 211 215 North Ave.

EVERY THING
For the Fire-place.
MANTELS, TILES, GRATES.
SPARK GUARDS, $1.25 and up.
Curtis M. Thorpe, 310-312 Park Avenue.

--JAQUETT'S--
CLOTHING Of the Latest Style for Men, Boys' and Children. Suits and Overcoats.
SUITS and OVERCOATS. School Suits, from 75c. up.
NOVELTIES FOR CHILDREN. Full lines in Top Coats, Reefers and Separate Pants.
MEN'S FURNISHINGS. All of the latest Novelties in Ties, Collars, Shirts, Suspenders, HOSIERY, GLOVES, UNDERWEAR.
HATS of the Latest Styles at Moderate Prices.
One Price—Cash. Money refunded if goods are not as represented.
129 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

SPECIAL SALE AT CRANE & CLARK'S,
Hat and Furnishings Store.
120 West Front street. Prices Cut on all lines of Men and Boys wear.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 30 CENTS.
PRIMES, $1 AND $1,50 PER HUNDRED.
-AT ROGERS.-

THE LATEST FASHIONS.

Various Decorative Effects to Enliven Plain Bodices.

How to Handle the Skirt—New School Dresses for Children Are Brightly Colored and Braided—Green the Fashionable Shade for Umbrellas.

The secret of inexpensive gowning has been solved by the introduction of what the French call "confections," to be worn over the bodices of gowns. The girl who can afford but one dress need not, therefore, despair. So long as her costume be plain and dark, it will make a most excellent foundation for some dainty that will add wonderfully to her appearance.

Two yards and three-quarters of ribbon and one yard of mousseline are needed to secure a very decorative effect. With a strip of buckram about two inches in width, make an oblong which will form a hollow yoke. Of the mousseline make four accordion-plaited flounces, two to fall over each sleeve, and sew them on those straps of the oblong which will cross the shoulders. Cover the buckram with crushed ribbon, knotting it on the corners. Make a stock of the same ribbon, with a bow at the back and a ruching of the mousseline above it.

A FRENCH "CONFECTION."

Another pretty way to adorn a bodice is to make a bolero of velvet or some novelty goods. Have it cut in a point at the back, and with rounded corners in front. If the bolero is very short a flounce of lace falling beneath is effective. The neck needs no collar, and may be finished off in the back with numerous loops of the material, lined with a light-colored silk. One may economize on this silk by using different bits that contrast prettily with one another. The armholes are finished with full epaulets, lined to match the neck decoration.

Perhaps the prettiest of all is a confection in white and mauve, made for use at the theater. Again a buckram yoke form is made, this time with points in the centers of the front and the back. The yoke form is left open in front. A Bertha of lace falls from the yoke, and over it another bertha of white and mauve-striped ribbon. A width of the ribbon on each side of the front gives a blouse effect and forms into a twist around the waist, ending in a high bow in the back.

A SCHOOL DRESS.

These designs may be made up in any color, and in many cases pieces of ribbon and material will be found sufficient, without any additional cost.

The mode of lifting the skirt has changed considerably. Last year, when skirts were very wide, a brave young maid grabbed a handful on each side and plunged across the street, as though preparing for a desperate leap.

This year the skirts are narrower. It's easier to handle them. The maid now leans back, takes her skirt gracefully in one hand. The point at which she seizes it is nearly half way down the center of the back; nor is the skirt drawn to one side, but is pushed up, disclosing beneath a dainty skirt.

Another matter which it discloses—and of which the maid seems oft oblivious—is the condition of the bottom of the skirt. Nothing ruins the appearance of a skirt more than when it is worn at the bottom. Yet how many are sadly neglected.

When a skirt needs rebinding, take the velveteen, or whatever finish it has, off entirely, even if it is but worn in spots. Then brush the skirt carefully and hang it in the air for several hours; sponge and press the bottom of the skirt, and it is ready for rebinding. If the facing is worn, it is best to renew that with alpaca or percaline, about 12 inches in width.

Fir binding velveteen is more serviceable, although there is a fad at present for mohair cord. If cord is used it is fastened to the edge after the skirt is entirely finished; if velveteen, the skirt is faced, not bound, with it, unless there is need for an additional inch of skirt length.

In this respect Dame Fashion demands little more than that perfect neatness reign at the bottom of the skirt.

Umbrellas are showing many novel points in color and style. The chic girl carries an umbrella that is either green, blue or black—green preferably, although that color is too expensive for most folks.

Umbrella handles are magnificent affairs. The most elegant are of amber, burned ivory, gold or silver, enameled or studded with precious stones. Aside from the delight which every woman takes in pretty things, they are of small value to the average person. Their shape, however, is interesting, because in good umbrellas no round handles are shown. They are all flat, shaft-like affairs, and therefore the sensible woman will eschew round handles in buying her cheap umbrella.

Of course, every woman who has any regard for appearance carries her umbrella well wrapped, and is very particular regarding the cover. A novelty in umbrella covers is blue cloth covered with large white polka dots. It is used on black and blue umbrellas.

The umbrella containing a smelling-salts bottle has become more than a fad, and is now very generally carried by girls who are troubled with headaches. These umbrellas have a knob of silver or gold at the end of the handle, which lifts, revealing the bottle beneath.

For a cheap umbrella, plain, natural wood, rather than plate, makes the best handle. Dresden handles cost but a few dimes more, however, and have a much better air.

A few ribbon bows are tied on handles, but no one takes them seriously, and they are likely to be short-lived.

Now that the time has come for fitting out the children for the second term in school, there are many pretty dresses shown. The materials used are plaid, poplin, cheviots, fancy wool, cashmere and drop, etc., and the warm colors are generally selected. Red and green, black and blue and all the shades of brown are the favorites. Black and blue is hardly suitable for a young child unless trimmed in some bright manner.

Skirts are both gored and round. The gored skirt, similar to that of a grown person, fits smoothly over the hips. It is far more fashionable than the round skirt, which, however, is preferred by some mothers for very slim children.

The waists have gimpes of velvet or contrasting cloth, instead of cambric, to give additional warmth; or the bloused bodice is used. The latter is particularly to be recommended.

All children's dresses are braided with soutache or trimmed with rows of black velvet ribbon.

Sleeves are growing smaller, but the loose bishop's sleeve is so comfortable for the children that it is likely to be worn throughout the winter.

THE LATEST.

ODDITIES.

In the Louisville city court the other day there was a negress with red hair.

It is said that because he did not understand how to mark his ballot properly a saloonkeeper of Milan, Mich., voted a prohibition ticket.

The newest apartment-house for bachelors in New York will have a kitchen for serving breakfast to its 95 inmates. The bachelors aren't expected to be at home for any other meal.

BOROUGH NOTICE

The ordinance requires occupants of property to remove snow and ice from sidewalks within five hours after it accumulates. Notice is hereby given that the penalty for violation of this ordinance will hereafter be strictly enforced.

B. A. HEGEMAN, JR.,
Mayor

1 6 12

The Strongest Claim

We make for the superiority of our

Demulcent Cream
OF Witch Hazel

is that the people who have used it say it is the most efficient

TOILET REQUISITE

they ever used. For chapped hands it is unequalled.

Price 25c a Jar.

Leggett's Pharmacy,

Y. M. C. A. Building. Telephone No. 4.

WE WANT FEET

to fit our shoes. The invisible cork sole ones are particularly apprapriate this season of the year. We're selling them at right prices.

Doane & Edsall.

Store closes at 6, Saturday 10 p. m.

SAVE

twenty-five to forty per cent of fuel, and make your cold house warm. For particulars call or address

E. D. BARRETT,

148 East Fifth Street.

MRS L. ADAMS,
MILLINERY.

Ready made gowns and dresses ordered from samples. All the latest novelties of the season.

114 EAST FRONT STREET.

ALEX. LUSARDI.

211 West Front Street.

Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores. 9 9 7 year

2 WAYS 2
You Can Figure It.

10 rolls of wall paper, at 2½ cents a roll	25
20 yards of border, at 5 cents yard	1 00
	$1 25
10 rolls of wall paper, at 6 cents a roll	60
20 yards of border, at 3 cents yard	60
	$1 20

We don't have any 2 or 3 cent paper. We have a large stock of new goods at 6 and 8 cents with 3 cent border. We give 100 cents on the $ every time.

Woolston & Buckle,

Painters and Decorators,
141 and 145 North avenue.

A JEWEL.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear."
And many a gem by mortals here unseen
Are waiting to be worn by some sweet fair.
In our well-stocked cases now are laid
Jewels that shine with scintilating fire;
In the latest fads and fashions made
That the connoisseur in jewelry must admire.
Design and workmanship are of the best.
So lovely woman do not hide
Those charms that Nature's sweet behest
Endows you with, but with woman's pride
Enhance your beauty as you see best.

COLLIER.

103 Park Ave. Established 1869.

THE BEE HIVE.

Men's Unlaundered Shirts

Lot 1—The "Cast Iron Shirt," made of good heavy muslin, good 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced front and back, patent facings—38c.

Lot 2—New York Mills muslin, 3-ply fine linen bosom, reinforced front and back patent facings—48c.

Lot 3—Our New York Mills shirt, made of New York Mills muslin, 3-ply linen bosom, reinforced ront and back, continuous facing and hand-made buttonholes, equal to the best custom-made shirt—69c.

Boys' unlaundered shirts, 38c.

Men's laundered shirts 50c., 75c and $1.00

LOUIS CALLMAN

222 West Front Street.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS
IN ENDLESS VARIETY
AT HARPER'S,

411 PARK AVENUE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J

A New Year's Sermon

which has its practical side. During this year we're going to keep the same good qualities of goods which we have always been well known for. We are going to put as moderate prices on these goods as possible It wouldn't pay us to do otherwise. We're in business to stay.

L. W. Randolph,

PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST.

No. 143 West Front street.

Telephone Call, 109.

Laire's Prices Current for This Week.

Coal sieves	09c
Coal shovels	05c
Cover lifters	05c
Galvinized water pails	18c
Wash boards	10c
Wash tubs	47c
Asbestos mats	05c
Rolling pins	05c
Can opener	06c
Iron pot handlers	15c
Slaw cutters	23c
75 feet clothes line	18c
100 clothes pins	05c
100 clothes pins	04c
Purity oil heaters, best made	$3 98
Demorest sewing machine	$19 50

The J. P. Laire Hardware Co

Telephone Call 49 I. 9 3 1y

Branch office of

GEO. O. STEVENS & Co
OAL
747 WEST FRONT ST

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

The Portland Range has duplex grate and ventilated oven door. 8000 are in use.

Stock Taking Opportunities

